Crackerbarrel Comments (By Woody Hinton)

Mary Anna Clay is expecting a playmate the last of July. By the way, her Daddy is on the wagon and vows he is going to stay there. James Lewis and his wife are looking around for a baby buggy that they will expect to use sometime soon. "Bob" (Cracked-neck) Harlow of the Big Sandy Harlows and his adorable who was formerly our Allen girl stopped and I saw their baby. It is cute as a button and that guy Harlow sticks his chest out like it was the only baby that will ever be born. He has two dollars on a horse while here too. That's a fine excuse to put before your kid. Paoli Hoge is leaving The Trail Farm to a new Western Agency. Husted Auto Supply Store will be opened here in June. There are rumors of a chain dime store coming to town. Well, they are all looking on the lookout for wide-awake places. A deal is in progress now for an outside market and country house. There seems to be a little trouble about the rest at this writing. The old CRACKERBARREL'S wife and son are moving part month to a house on second street. I don't know what house it is, but she got mixed up in this deal between Dr. Marsh and (Ears) West. I expect it will all wind up that I am the goat. Whoever I rent from, if they knew how slow I was, they would not have been so keen on renting to me. Soon as N. E. Kennard can get his business in better shape with me he is going on a tour of the world to see his folks. Forty-two percent of all car owners make less than $1000.00 per year. Some husbands take chances—others don't have one. I always think of the man who dashes out the back door as though to catch a train; does so before the man at the front door has just missed it. The advice one gets that he doesn't like is often the best. Love at first sight is a great time-saver. Sometimes even I am shocked at my brilliance.

A moment of silence to two of my best friends this week, C. C. and Clell. It was always when we met, "How are you, Woody?" I am going to miss their familiar greetings. Life is like that. To the relatives I want to express my heartfelt sympathy. I, too, will miss them.

CAPITOL COMMENTS (By David M. Porter)

We may have seemed to give all the publicity in this column to the Democrats, and if we have done this, it is because they are in power, and therefore more news worthy.

This week the Republicans are fighting in their county conventions and State legislative primaries. Here is a line up in the battle: Judge King Stone, Bob Lucas, Tom Yates and other members of the National Convention instructed for Dewey republican presidential candidate. Dr. J. M. Perkins, Judge White, Maurice Galvin and others of the opposing faction want an unrestricted delegation to go to the National Convention.

The Swage-Yates faction went out in the Republican Governor's primary, and the convention battle this week may decide control of the party in this State.

Kentucky is an important State for the Republicans, and three presidential candidates have already visited in many counties. Legates, Frank Gannett, Taft and Dewey have all visited Louisville and made speeches.

The present attitude of Republican thought is that Taft has the best chance, with Wendell Willkie as the dark horse, who may win the nomination.

Commissioner of Agriculture, William H. May, announced today that his office would render every possible assistance to County Fair Associations in the organization of their Fair program for 1940.

Commissioner May stated that it was his belief that all Fairs, regardless of size or location, were principally agricultural in character and that as such they should be devoted to the benefit of farmers generally and contribute their share toward improved farming State.

Mrs. Claude Evans Winner Of First Prize In Campaign

Excellent Results Obtained Through The Untiring Efforts Of Contestants In Six Weeks Drive—Fast Time Made By All-Winner Polled More Than Five Million Votes

After holding the unwavering interest of this section for six weeks, the last chapter in The Morehead Independent's subscription campaign is written with the delivery of the prizes to their new owners.

Mrs. Claudia Evans, of Farmers proved to be the best vote getter in the field of twelve popular and energetic contestants who entered the race thereby winning the choice of a beautiful Chevrolet sedan or $500.00 in cash. The staggering total of more than five million votes was amassed by the winner.

The second prize of $250.00 went to Mrs. Stella Howard of Morehead. Mrs. Howard was crowding the winner at the finish line by the fact that she did not enter at the start of the campaign.

The third prize of $100.00 was won by Mrs. Clifford Stamps of Haldeman, whose vote demonstrated conclusively that she had numerous friends and supporters. The fourth award of $75.00 went to Mrs. Jessie Aldrich, Haldeman. All others were paid a liberal commission upon the business they turned over.

Rivalry was kept but friendly all this newspaper feels that the successful ones merited the prizes for which they strove so ardently. The results were earned by the contestants who found to be fairly staggering when the task of counting them was undertaken.

Due to the hundreds of new readers added to our lists thru the untiring efforts of the contestants in the subscription campaign, several days of the more than 500,000 new list subscribers and advance dates of the renewal. We ask the kind indulgence of our readers to come into our reader family until all names can be entered and regular delivery began.

Special thanks are extended C. V. Alfrey and Mr. William McClintock for so graciously giving of their time to tabulate the votes due to the contestants and make the awards.

Week Of May 20-25 Designated As Community Week

Public Invited To Inspect Various Projects At Local Center

Local sponsors of projects operated by the Professional and Service Projects Administration will inaugurate on Monday a week long program in Kentucky designed as a means of public approval of the results of community service activities carried on by this division.

Citizens in every county in the State are invited by George H. Goodman, Administrator of Work Projects, to visit and inspect local projects involving activities in Education, Recreation, Public Health, Research, Sewing and many other fields of welfare and community service. The week of May 20-25 has been designated as "THIS WORK PAYS YOUR COMMUNITY WEEK." Major projects in many Kentucky county seats have issued proclamations calling for public support of the occasion. WPA Administrator of Service Projects throughout the State and the Nation will be open to public inspection during the week and visitors will be taken on special inspection tours to observe the actual operation of the projects.

"This is an opportunity for the people of Kentucky to see for themselves the services being performed for their own communities by Professional and Service Projects," Miss Elizabeth Fullerton, Director of the Professional and Service Division, said today. "It is a living report of Kentucky to our people. Citizens are going to see in our own houses week after week the actual community programs in action.

"Statistical reports can tell only a small part of the story of what has been done and is being done here. A beautiful little ashy

Yates, Lebus, Get G. O. P. Nod As National Delegates

Eight District Convention Met Here On Tuesday

Over 200 delegates from eight representative Kentucky's congressional district met in session here at 1:00 o'clock Tuesday, May 21, to name two delegates to the national convention.

President-elect of the district chairman and a district chairman. Heman McGuire, Superintendent of Carter County's schools, was named as chairman of the convention and E. L. Haldeman, Lewis County, was named secretary.

McGuire in his acceptance speech called for a return to the principles of true democracy. He explicated by the administration of "Only a miracle or a Republican victory this year will keep us out of war," McGuire asserted.

A committee headed by John Dietrich, Ashland attorney, nominated Ir. Nickell, Boyd County, as district chairman, and Ed. Ethel Ellington, Morehead, as district chairman. Tom Yates, Grayson, and Oris Lebus, Crutcher, were named as delegates to the national convention and Mrs. Ann Winn of Mt. Sterling and W. D. Cochran of Marsville were named as delegates. Miss Noble, Jackson, was named secretary. Ray Cooper, Vanceburg, was named as the convention's president.

John Robinson, Knox County; Judge B. O. Becker, Boyd County; and Robert H. Lucas, of Louisville were named as delegates. The convention accepted the nominations of the committee without dissent.

Conservation Men Make 55 Arrests During Past April

Thirty-two Convictions Made By State Officers Checking Fishers

The Conservation Officers of the Division Game and Fish made fifty-five arrests during the past month, and checked 6,149 licenses during the month of April, Major James Brown, Director of the Division, said today in a statement for publication.

In addition to this work the officers took a large amount of center mud, such as fish traps, traps, guns, illegal fish, nets, gigs, ducks, foxes, steel traps, tree lines, poles and lines, dead falls, rakes, traps, snares, a motor, row boat, tent, hand saw, file, oars, grab hooks, knife and even a screw-driver.

Much of the glassware was a blown at Milton, West Virginia. One bowl of a peculiar shade of yellow was blown from the material left after a stained window had been made. Miss Wilkes explained that you can identify blown glass by the rough seal on the bottom where the piece has been taken from the blowers' pipe.

Some vases were what is called "cracked glass." The glass is covered with many cracks and looks as if it had been shattered. The inside, however, is perfectly smooth. This effect is obtained by dipping the hot glass in cold water so that the outside cracks, but the inside remains smooth.

A paperweight from Czechoslovakia is particularly interesting because of a blue line that seems to be somewhere inside. This light seems to change location whenever the paperweight is turned over. If held in a bright light the blue almost disappears.

If we had all those ashtrays we know that we would still have to dust our ashtrays from the case that was taken to make it deep purple. A beautiful little ashy

INSTRUCTOR OF GEOGRAPHY HAS VALUABLE COLLECTION OF GLASS

When someone says "glass" what do you think of? Probably your mind pictures window glass, but to Ella Wilkes, head of the department of Geography, a very different thing is brought to mind. She, at once, thinks of amber tumbler, blown glass vases, old fashion plates, and tiny ashtrays. Miss Wilkes collects and loves beautiful glass made of Kentucky pottery is white on the outside and pink on the inside. The effect is obtained by dipping the hot glass in cold water so that the outside cracks, but the inside remains smooth.

WILD LIFE OF KENTUCKY by Roger Barbour MOREHEAD STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE

It is excellent training for a boy to be allowed to have a rifle to shoot wisely. On the other hand, there is no worse training than to let a youngster have a rifle to shoot indiscriminately. A great number of boys in Kentucky possess rifles and shoot them wisely. An even greater number possess rifles with which they slaughter thousands of song birds. It is of this last group of boys that I write. The parents of many of them simply do not understand the death and destruction that their sons leave in their wake. The parents of others are under the impression, and sometimes the correct one, that their son is shooting "sparrows." We are all aware of the war that is raging between man and insects. Every way we turn, we find that some insects are destroying valuable property. Those birds that your son shoots are among the products in the war. Doesn't it seem rather foolish to destroy one of our best assistants? We are all aware of the beauties of bird songs. Every bird shot is one less bird to sing and est insects. To those parents who allow their son to shoot "sparrows," let me say that there are at least twenty-two, and probably more kinds of sparrows that occur in eastern Kentucky. Of this great variety only one, the English Sparrow, which, by the way, is not a true sparrow, is detrimental to the desires of man. The other practices of offering premiums for improved breeds of livestock and superior products in the war. According to a bulletin issued by the Department of Agriculture a few weeks ago there were forty-eight County Fairs held in Kentucky in 1939 with an attendance of 272,200 persons. Indications are that approximately sixty fairs will be held in 1940 and a large increase in attendance is expected.

Any counties planning on fairs or exhibits can get much valuable advice and assistance through Bill May who is greatly interested in crop improvement, and believes that the farmers should receive some material recognition for their effort in producing better crops.

Something ought to be done about this! FORTY years ago there were few women who didn't know the back-breaking misery of doing a family washing on a tub and a washboard. Today, few women have that experience. What made the change? First of all, someone said, "Something ought to be done about it." In those words you have the real story of America. Great inventions, great industries, great social benefits result from Americans' deep desire for better living. The electrical industry, for example, was founded by Thomas A. Edison, a man who spent his entire life looking for better ways to do certain things; and today the people of your electric company carry on in the Edison tradition. They belong to the great army of workers—engineers, scientists, inventors, managers and many others—who give the United States the best, cheapest electric service in the world. Yet they continue their tireless efforts to improve the quality of electric service and to reduce its cost. Within the last fifteen years, these improvements have done their work so well that this company has been able to cut the unit price of electricity just about in half. That means you can now use electric light, a radio, electric refrigerator, washing machine, vacuum cleaner and toaster for a total operating cost very little, if any, higher than you used to pay for light alone. The aim of your electric company's employees is always to give you better service for less cost. Foremost in their minds is the thought, "Something ought to be done about it." FRANK MAXEY, Manager. KENTUCKY POWER & LIGHT COMPANY.
