FRANKFORT NOTES

MRS. CORA WILSON STEWART HOPES TO ORGANIZE "MOONLIGHT SCHOOLS" IN COUNTY JAILS.

Special to The Leader.
FRANKFORT, KY., April 10.—If the plans of Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, Chairman of the Kentucky Illiteracy Commission, are successful there will be no illiteracy among the inmates of the county jails by July 1. Mrs. Stewart hopes to organize "Moonlight Schools" in all of the county jails and is sending letters and literature to the jailers asking them to cooperate with her along this line. A moonlight school has been in operation in the Franklin county jail for sometime, the school being the first one organized in the jails. Boyd and Adair counties also have successful moonlight schools in their jails.
