FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Morehead State University is one of six universities in the state working with a pilot program to train social workers online.

The new program, the Public Child Welfare Worker Certification Program, is a collaborative effort of Eastern Kentucky University, Murray State, University of Kentucky, Spalding University, Northern Kentucky University and MSU. The program utilizes distance learning technology, a system that uses television and computer technology to produce interactive class sessions.

"The distance learning concept is really what makes the program work," said Dr. Judith Stafford, MSU associate professor of social work. "Each professor in this program is an expert in a particular area and teaches one or more classes for all the universities involved," she said. "That way all the students benefit from each professor's expertise."

The classes are held online for approximately an hour during which time students can buzz in to ask questions. The instructor at each site has a class plan and lecture notes should technology falter and the class not be able to receive the lecture from another site. "All of our instructors are trained to take over and continue class should there be a break in online service," Dr. Stafford said.

Another factor contributing to the success of the program is the close working relationship with the local Department of Social Services (DSS), according to Dr. Stafford. Each student will participate in an extensive internship with their local DSS office which enables them to be eligible to go to work after graduation without the six-month training period required by the state, she added.

The three-semester program is a direct result of a request by Viola Miller, secretary of the Cabinet for Families and Children, who encouraged a closer partnership between university social work programs and the Cabinet. The students, who receive tuition and stipends during the program, will commit to work for DSS for two years following graduation.

Latonya Hesterberg, director for the Training Resource Center and an instructor for MSU's Department of Sociology, Social Work and Criminology, is teaching a course in the program that helps these future social workers to recognize signs of child abuse and neglect. "The goal is to help students learn more about child maltreatment before they go to work for DSS," she said. "This is a very stressful field and we want to prepare these students as much as possible."

Hesterberg is concerned with the high burn-out rate of social workers, the number one reason for leaving the field. "I hope that students will come to me with any problem they encounter after entering the field," she said. "I will be their mentor and continue to be a resource for support services," she said. "I believe this will help make the program and our students more successful."

MSU COLLABORATES IN TEACHING EFFORT

Morehead State University and five other universities in Kentucky are collaborating to offer a pilot program to train social workers using interactive distance learning technology. The Public Child Welfare Worker Certification Program utilizes the expertise of professors from the participating universities and runs for three semesters. LaTonya Hesterberg, standing in back, director of MSU's Training Resource Center, has been teaching a course to help future social workers to recognize the signs of child abuse or neglect. Participants on MSU's campus include, front row from left, Julie Sandlin, Booneville senior; Rhonda Thomas, Mt. Sterling senior; Tiffany Rice, Salyersville senior, and Lucille Fletcher, Morehead senior, formerly of Louisa. Back row from left, Lila R. Reynolds, Owingsville senior, and Julie Ann Gillespie, Tollesboro senior.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Dr. Lynne Taetzsch, assistant professor of English at Morehead State University, will give a literary reading of her poetry and prose at The Gallery for the Arts on Thursday, Jan. 22, in Mt. Sterling. The talk will begin at 7 p.m. at the gallery located at 44 E. Main Street.

Dr. Taetzsch is the author of 10 books and a variety of other publications. She most recently edited "Hot Flashes: Women Writers on the Change of Life" which was published by Faber & Faber in 1995. Her novel, "No Diving in the Clerical Pool," will be published later this year by Commonwealth Publications in Alberta, Canada. Her short story, "The Lucky Winner Will Receive," also is scheduled for publication in the "Carnegie Center Press Anthology" in 1998.

Currently teaching writing courses at MSU, Dr. Taetzsch earned a Ph.D. degree in creative writing from Florida State University. She also holds the M.A. degree from San Diego State University and B.A. degree from Rutgers University. She studied painting and drawing at Cooper Union Art School in New York City, the University of Southern California and the University of California in Los Angeles.

An exhibit of paintings and drawings by Dr. Taetzsch also is on display at the gallery, now through Jan. 24. Gallery hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Additional information is available from Dr. Taetzsch at (606) 783 2136, or Cay Lane, executive director of The Gallery for the Arts at (606) 498-3666.

MSU STUDENT RECEIVES SCHOLARSHIP

Morehead State University senior, Reba Bush of Webbville, has been awarded the Greater Lexington Paralegal Association (GLPA) scholarship for 1997. Selection for the award was based on grades, financial need and involvement in a paralegal organization. The recipient must have at least one semester of studies left to complete. Bush, who is president of the MSU chapter of Alpha Lambda Pi paralegal society accepted the award from Sommer A. Richardson, left, chair of GLPA Student Relations Committee at the annual holiday luncheon in Lexington. Stephen Herzog, MSU assistant professor of government and Alpha Lambda Pi adviser, recommended Bush for the award.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Thirty-nine flags which represent the homelands of Morehead State University's students have been installed on the MSU campus.

The University's College of Business coordinated the installation of the flags, most of which will be located on the front of the Bert Combs Building in the courtyard area facing Lappin Hall.

The project was funded by University alumnus Dennis Spiegel, who is president of the Cincinnati-based International Theme Park Services, Inc. (ITPS) which he formed. ITPS operates theme parks in the five largest cities in China as well as other major cities throughout the world.

Spiegel, a 1969 graduate of MSU with a major in business, has been involved in the theme park business for nearly 30 years working in the U.S. and overseas where he developed a broad, global knowledge of customs and cultures of other lands.

"The flags will remain as a visible symbol of the global market place," said Dr. Michael Carrell, dean of the College of Business.

The college had been considering ways to improve the exterior look of the building for some time and Mr. Spiegel's generosity is much appreciated, Dr. Carrell noted. "The flags represent those international countries which have sent the most students to MSU."

Countries represented, in addition to the U.S., are: Australia, Bahamas, Botswana, Brazil, Canada, Peoples Republic of China, Colombia, Cyprus, Ecuador, Ethiopia, Germany, Ghana, Great Britain, Greece, Guyana, India, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Japan, Kazakhstan, Kenya, Lithuania, Malawi, Malaysia, Mexico, Nigeria, Norway, Pakistan, Peru, Saudi, New South Africa, South Korea, Sweden, Thailand, Turkey, Zambia and Zimbabwe.

"In the short time since the flag installation began, several people have stopped by to voice their approval," Dr. Carrell said. "We just hope that everyone enjoys what we are trying to do with the building."

Additional information on the courtyard is available by calling (606) 783-2174.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Morehead State University faculty, staff and students will join members of the community for a candlelight march and tribute to the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. on Tuesday, Jan. 20.

The march will begin at 6:30 p.m. at the Eagle bust on the lawn of MSU's Camden-Carroll Library and end at the First Christian Church at 227 East Main Street in Morehead.

The tribute, which will begin at 7 p.m. at the church, will include special presentations by MSU student groups and community organizations. Among the speakers will be Susan Ray Johnson, coordinator for Robert H. Williams Cultural Center in Lexington.

Johnson, a former adult education instructor with Fayette County Public Schools, is a member of the National Association of Black Social Workers, Board of Directors of Positive Links and Board of Directors of Community Ventures. She is a 1972 graduate of MSU.

The event is coordinated by MSU's Office of Minority Student Affairs and the Rowan County Ministerial Association. Additional information is available by calling (606) 783-2668.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Composer and euphonium soloist Dr. Neal Corwell of Clear Spring, Md., will perform his own compositions at Morehead State University on Monday, Jan. 26, at 8 p.m. in Duncan Recital Hall.

He will be accompanied by Stacy Baker, MSU assistant professor of tuba and euphonium, for his duet "Ritual" for tuba, euphonium and tape which was premiered at the Versoil Millennio in Riva del Garda, Italy, in 1997.

Dr. Corwell spent nine years with the U.S. Army Band as a featured soloist and seven years as an adjunct faculty member at Frostburg University and Shepherd College. He is currently a freelance composer and euphonium soloist/clinician. He holds a D.M.A. degree in euphonium performance and pedagogy.

He is a member of Symphonia, a professional tuba-euphonium ensemble chosen from the nation's finest low brass performers, and the executive committee of TUBA, the international society of tuba and euphonium performers. Dr. Corwell has toured Japan and most of the U.S. and was featured as both composer and soloist at several international music conferences.

Corwell composed and performed the music for his solo euphonium/trombone CD "Distant Images." In addition to live premieres and performances of his works worldwide, his compositions have been included on CD recordings released by Mark Records, Crystal Records, RJR Digital, TRYFAN and Nicolai Music.

The recital is free and open to the public. Additional information is available by calling Baker at (606) 783-2107.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---To celebrate the diversity of its service region, Morehead State University will host a two-day workshop entitled "Appalachia in a Multicultural World" in mid-February.

The conference, which begins on Friday, Feb. 13, at 9 a.m. in the Adron Doran University Center, will feature Appalachian art, music and poetry as well as faculty and student research projects. Also included will be contributions by individuals from the region.

The program is being held in conjunction with the University's yearlong celebration of its 75th anniversary as a public institution of higher learning. The goal of the conference, suggested by two faculty members in the Department of English, Foreign Languages and Philosophy--Joyce LeMaster and Dr. John Secor, is to showcase the diverse academic and creative talent in the region.

"We have many reasons to celebrate," said LeMaster, associate professor of English. "This conference provides us with an opportunity to salute our heritage while recognizing ongoing contributions to our culture."

The conference also will display the enormous diversity of the region's people, according to Dr. Secor, associate professor of romance languages. "Too often Appalachians have been portrayed as a homogeneous group. From the earliest settlers in the region to the most recent newcomers, Appalachia has been distinguished by a wide variation in traditions and customs. This conference will allow us to focus not only on the well-known aspects of Appalachian culture, but also on those that are not as widely known," he said.

Kicking off the session on Friday will be presentations by MSU faculty members: Dr. Yvonne Baldwin, assistant professor of history; Dr. Ron Dobler, professor of English, and Dr. Suzanne Tallichet, assistant professor of sociology. Topics to be discussed are a historical look at women's activism, party politics in Eastern Kentucky, Appalachian folk tales and research on women coal miners. Also scheduled for the morning are creative projects by MSU students with research projects slated for the afternoon's agenda.

The final session on Friday will be student roundtables, coordinated by the University's Black Student Coalition and Cosmopolitan Club. Concluding the day's program will be musical entertainment and literary readings.

Saturday's morning session, scheduled to begin at 9:30 a.m. will include presentations by Dr. John Hennen, MSU assistant professor of history; Garry Barker, director of the Kentucky Folk Art Center, and Jerry Gore, director of Minority Student Affairs and a member of the Underground Railroad Museum board. At 11 a.m., Ann Lewis, Appalshop producer, will deliver the conference's keynote address. She will discuss the making of the film about Appalachian activist Evelyn Williams.

"We are particularly excited with Ms. Lewis' participation in the conference," Dr. Secor said. "Appalshop's work in chronicling the unique features of the region is an invaluable resource."

The level of participation by students and faculty members is very encouraging, LeMaster noted. "We will have presenters from a variety of disciplines. I believe that shows MSU's dual commitment to scholarship and to Appalachia," she said.

There is no admission charge for the conference, however, pre-registration is requested two weeks in advance. Additional information about the conference or to register is available by calling LeMaster at (606) 783-2738 or Dr. Secor at (606) 783-2746.

MOREHEAD, Ky.----Morehead State University's College of Business has attained full accreditation by the Association of Collegiate Business Schools and Programs, (ACBSP) through June 2002.

The ACBSP's action covers all business programs at the associate, baccalaureate and graduate levels offered by the college. Fewer than 30 percent of all universities and colleges nationwide have business programs with professional accreditation.

"For the College of Business and its students, this is tremendous news as it is tangible evidence of the quality of the college's programs," said Dr. Michael R. Moore, MSU executive vice president for academic affairs. "This achievement means that the college has met the criteria set forth as the standards of excellence by those in the business education field."

"All the Association's recommendations made to us when we were conditionally accredited in the summer of 1995 have been implemented to bring us totally in compliance with ACBSP's standards," said Dr. Michael Carrell, dean of the college.

Among the areas needing additional attention were faculty teaching loads, establishment of a national advisory board, additional coursework at the graduate level, library resources for off-campus programs and implementation of an Outcomes Assessment Program.

"The faculty and staff of the college have done a tremendous job to ensure that MSU's business offerings for our students are of the highest quality," Dr. Carrell noted. "This achievement is really a milestone in the college's history."

MSU's College of Business has 1,200 students enrolled in its undergraduate programs and an additional 200 students in the M.B.A. degree program.

Under the A.A.B. degree program, students have options in accounting, computer information systems, economics, finance, management, marketing, office systems and real estate.

Students in the B.B.A. degree program are offered options in accounting, computer information systems, comprehensive business, economics, finance, management, marketing, office systems and real estate.

MSU's M.B.A. degree program is designed to prepare students for managerial roles as well as to enhance the management skills of those already employed to assist them in moving up the corporate ladder. In addition to a traditional M.B.A. program, MSU offer options in Bank Management which is offered only on the Internet, Human Resources Management and Health Care Administration.

MOREHEAD, Ky.----Morehead State University's Department of Music will present guest artists Dr. Hunter Hensley, soloist, and Todd Spangler, pianist, in recital at 8 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 23, in Duncan Recital Hall.

The pair will perform the 20 songs which comprise Schubert's "Die Schone Mullerin." The concert is free and open to the public.

Dr. Hensley, a faculty member at Lincoln Memorial University, holds bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Kentucky and earned the D.M.A. degree in vocal performance from the University of North Carolina-Greensboro.

At Lincoln Memorial since 1993, he is choral director and chair of the Department of Fine Arts. His previous experience includes the Army Band at Fort Shafter in Hawaii and working as a full-time church musician as well as vocal/choral instructor at UK, Transylvania University and Georgetown College.

Spangler, a lawyer and minister of music at the First Baptist Church in Middlesboro, began studying piano at age 11. A student of Jay Flippen, MSU associate professor of music, Spangler earned his Bachelor of Music degree in music performance and his Master of Music degree from MSU. For the past 15 years, he has worked as a studio musician, teacher, clinician, piano and organ accompanist, solo performer and concerto soloist.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Morehead State University is seeking nominations for its 1998 Founders Day Award for University Service.

"We encourage our faculty/staff, students, alumni and other friends to nominate deserving candidates who have given superior service to Morehead State University through the years," said MSU President Ronald G. Eaglin.

The award is to be presented during the annual observance on Friday, April 3, as the University culminates a yearlong celebration of its 75th year as a public institution of higher learning. Morehead Normal School, MSU's predecessor institution, opened its doors in 1887 and the campus was converted to a state normal school in 1922.

"On this special day, we will continue our efforts to recognize and honor many of those whose efforts have contributed to our growth," Dr. Eaglin said.

Nominations for the 1998 award should be submitted in writing to Founders Day Chairperson, Morehead State University, Palmer Development House, Morehead, KY 40351-1689.

Current full-time employees of MSU are not eligible. Nominees must have demonstrated extensive service to the University as an employee and/or volunteer.

Nominations must be postmarked by Friday, Feb. 20.

The Founders Day Award for University Service was established by MSU's Board of Regents in 1978. Recipients have included W.E. Crutcher, 1978; Linus A. Fair, 1979; U.S. Rep. Carl D. Perkins, 1980; Dr. Warren C. Lappin, 1981; Dr. Ted L. Crosthwait, 1982; Monroe Wicker, 1983; Lloyd Cassity, 1984; Grace Crosthwaite, 1985; Boone Logan, 1986; Dr. Rondal D. Hart, 1987; George T. Young, 1988; John E. Collis, 1989; Dr. Wilhelm Exelbirt, 1990; Dr. R.H. Playforth, 1991; Dr. Mary Northcutt Powell, 1992; Sen. Woody May, 1993; Dr. J.E. Duncan, 1994; Harlen L. Hamm and Sherman R. FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Morehead State University will challenge Eastern Kentucky University off the basketball court in the inaugural "Battle for Life" blood drive competition, Tuesday and Wednesday, Feb. 10-11, on the campus. The drive, which coincides with the second MSU-EKU basketball game of the season, is expected to become an annual event.

Donations will be accepted from 9:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. either day of the drive which will be held in Button Drill Room.

Those giving blood will receive a free Battle for Life T-shirt and be eligible to participate in the challenges between campus organizations. The residence halls will compete with the highest percentage of donors winning a pizza party and Greek chapters will receive service recognition points. Members of the community also are invited to join this campus effort.

The names of individuals who make a donation will compete for door prizes. Among the businesses donating items are the MSU Bookstore, Cutter's Road House and Main Street Music.

The university that recruits the highest percentage of donors will receive a traveling trophy to be awarded during the MSU-EKU basketball game which will be held in Richmond on Saturday, Feb. 14.

The drive was conceived by Randall Combs, MSU junior from Jackson who is president of the University's chapter of Young Democrats. It is sponsored by the Young Democrats, Student Government Association, the Residence Halls Association and Greek chapters.

Additional information on the Battle for Life competition is available by calling Combs at (606) 783-3880; Pauline Young, MSU media relations director, at (606) 783-2411, or Glen White, donor resources consultant at the Central Kentucky Blood Center, at 800-775-2522.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Many hands make light work is a saying that came true at Morehead State University's Camden-Carroll Library during the holiday break. Rearranging documents and services brought one major problem, how will so few people move so many books? The result provided an opportunity for MSU employees from different departments to work together.

So, when Larry Besant, MSU director of libraries, called for volunteers to help move government documents from the fourth floor to the second floor of the library, the Lady Eagles basketball team came soaring to the rescue. What the library had projected as a 10 day job was finished in four days.

"We had not counted on the 'full court' help of the young ladies," said Besant, who also commended the women on their community spirit. Other members of the library staff were so impressed with the off-court performance of the team that they decided to show their spirit by attending the team's next game to cheer for their "moving mates."

Women's basketball coach Laura Litter said she was very pleased to have the chance to help with the move. "We welcome any opportunity on campus that involves helping other departments," she said. "These projects help team building and give the players a chance to work together off court."

Carol Nutter, head of reference, was excited about the move because it would finally connect her reference department with other reference material that had been located on the fourth floor of the library. Now patrons needing reference materials, including government documents and other documents such as the Code of Federal Regulations and the Congressional Record, can find them all on the second floor. "Getting them all on the same floor will increase usage," Nutter said.

Another CCL staff member, Julia Lewis, was grateful for the help of the Lady Eagles. "The move was much faster because of the team," she said. "After they moved books they helped with dusting, cleaning and shelving items which had been moved from another section."

According to Lewis, director of CCL's new Learning Technology Lab, this new arrangement deleted the graphic arts section on the fourth floor to make way for the new computer-based technology. She and her staff will now assist faculty and students with numerous projects such as newsletters and web pages.

"More and more students come in with an assignment to create web pages and now we are able to help them," Lewis said. The small Learning Technology Lab provides help for students needing multimedia services for class work. "Our goal is to teach students new technology and integrate it into course work," Lewis explained. "Students now make up 75 percent of the users of the lab."

The lab hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday-Wednesday, and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday and Friday. MSU faculty, staff and students may call 783-2160 to schedule an appointment.

KEEP ON 'TRUCKING'

In Morehead State University's Camden-Carroll Library, government documents were moved from the fourth floor to the second floor during the holiday break. The move, designed to make the library's government documents more accessible, was completed with the help of members of the Lady Eagles basketball team. Among those helpful players were Hilary Swisher, a Whitesburg senior, left, who pushed a loaded book truck, while Kim Brown, a Franklin, Tenn., freshman, followed close behind. The library staff praised the women for their help in making a tough job a little easier.

MOREHEAD---There hasn't been a great leader since King and one of the younger generation will have to assume that role was the challenge issued by Susan Johnson, consultant for the Robert H. Williams Cultural Center in Lexington, during the "Unity in the Community" celebration in Morehead on Jan. 20.

The celebration, held in remembrance of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday, was attended by more than 130 individuals that included Morehead State University faculty, staff and students as well as members of the community.

In her keynote address, Johnson, an MSU alumnus and former Fayette County Public School instructor, spoke about a march in Frankfort where she met the late civil rights leader. Noting that emphasis had been placed on King's famous "I Have a Dream" and "I Have Been to the Mountaintop" speeches, she chose to discuss his life and his focus on racial integration and the rights of all people.

She encouraged the crowd to keep King's dream alive in today's society. "We must continue to prosper in order to make strides or we'll be back where we were before (civil rights)," Johnson said.

Self-love is an important factor in the survival of African-Americans in this country, according to Johnson. "There must be love shown for your own people by being courteous and kind. It's also necessary to teach the same love to children," she said.

In his talk, the Rev. C. B. Akins, pastor of First Baptist Church of Bracktown in Lexington, issued a cry for freedom and promise for a better life. "America has flaunted its money while the poor continue to get poorer. There is still a clear line of demarcation between the haves and have nots in this country.

"We need whites to be our brothers and sisters, not our parents," Akins said, "but I believe that faulty communication has hampered that relationship."

(MORE)

He stated there's a need for whites and African-Americans to have a real relationship, one that is fraternal not paternal. Akins said in order to achieve this, people must start seeing each other as equals and stop believing individuals are substandard because of the color of their skin.

"When the beauty within is the first thing you see and the color of the skin is the last thing you see," Akins said, "then and only then will we be free."

The "Unity in the Community" celebration also featured musical performances and remarks from MSU faculty and students as well as from members of the community.

"The purpose of the 'Unity in the Community' celebration is to pay homage and tribute to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the man, the struggle and his dream," said Cecil Brookins, Louisville senior. "It's also a celebration to instill his dream in our hearts and continue the legacy."

During the 'Can I Get a Witness' portion of the program, individuals paid homage to what Dr. King meant to them. This part of the program included poems, praises and remarks of those who have been inspired by Dr. King.

The event, sponsored by MSU's Office of Minority Student Affairs and the Rowan County Ministerial Association, also included a candlelight march which began on campus and proceeded along Main Street to the First Christian Church.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Three distinguished individuals will speak on the Morehead State University campus in February as part of the University's celebration of Black History Month.

Among the visiting lecturers are: Dr. Nashid Fakhrid-Deen, minority affairs coordinator for the University of Kentucky Community College system, on Wednesday, Feb. 11; Afi Maule, founder of the newly-established African Roots Museum in Henning, Tenn., on Wednesday, Feb. 18, and Jack Jackson, a motivational speaker from Dayton, Ohio, on Wednesday, Feb. 25.

All three programs, coordinated by MSU's Office of Minority Student Affairs, will be held in the Commonwealth Room, Adron Doran University Center (ADUC). There is no admission charge. All events, which are free and open to the public, begin at 7 p.m.

Dr. Fakhrid-Deen, who is making a return visit to the campus, will talk on "Black Male/Female Relationships." Recognized for his experience in higher education and minority affairs, he is the author of "Ancestral Voices" and "An African-American Students Guide to Longevity in Academia."

A former admissions counselor at Grand Valley State University and associate director of admissions at Bowie State University, Dr. Fakhrid-Deen is founder of C.A.R.E. (Creating Awareness Regarding Education), a national program geared to motivating students.

Recipient of numerous awards and citations for his contributions to the community, Dr. Fakhrid-Deen earned a B.A. degree in psychology from Grand Valley State University, a master's degree in religion from Western Michigan University and J.D. degree from the University of Baltimore School of Law.

Writer, poet and designer of African clothing, Maule will speak on "Ancestral Voices" which will include a recitation of "What's in a Name." Currently, she is making final preparations for the African Roots Museum which will open in February in honor of the late historian Alex Haley. She earned a B.A. degree in social science from Chapman University in Orange, Calif., where she did extensive work in the Marriage, Family and Child Counseling program. Mother of twin sons who are now 31 years of age, she completed the Juris Doctor degree from the American College of Law in Anaheim, Calif.

"The New Millennium: What's in it for me?" is the name of Jackson's contribution. A graduate of Eastern Kentucky University, he was among the first black athletes to play in the Ohio Valley Conference.

Throughout the month, various campus organizations will offer special activities. Already scheduled on Saturday, Feb. 14, there will be a banquet sponsored by Zeta Phi Beta and Sigma Gamma Rho sororities in the Eagle Dining Room, ADUC. On Thursday, Feb. 19, Phi Beta Sigma fraternity will sponsor a program entitled "AIDS and African Americans" in the Commonwealth Room, ADUC, beginning at 7 p.m. On Saturday, Feb. 21, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc., will sponsor Delta Blackology at 8 p.m. also in the Commonwealth Room. A Sunday Worship Experience that is interdenominational and multicultural will be held in 121 Baird Music Hall from 2 to 5 p.m. on Feb. 1, 8, 15 and 22.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Eight Morehead State University students will participate in the seventh annual National Association of African-American/ Hispanic Latino Studies Conference in Houston, Texas, Feb. 7-15.

At the conference, educators from colleges and universities will present papers on a variety of topics which will be discussed, examined and questioned in an open forum.

The MSU students who will attend the conference were selected from the student body, according to Dr. Lemuel Berry Jr., dean of the Caudill College of Humanities and coordinator of the arrangements. "The selections were based on grade point average and campus leadership," he said. "The students will work at the registration desk and book fair at the conference."

The conference will allow students an opportunity to view the African-American and Hispanic-Latino cultures in a different light, Dr. Berry noted. "They have the chance to view these topics through the eyes of scholars," he said.

Students also will have the opportunity to network at the conference, Dr. Berry added. "They can make contacts with individuals in different job markets," he said. Last year, more than 400 presenters from the United States and 11 foreign countries were in attendance and with the presenters already scheduled, this year promises to be much bigger."

The eight students participating in this year's conference are: Cecil Brookins, Louisville senior; Anthony David Burns, Woodbridge, Va., graduate student; Jeremy Hollingsworth, Raeford, N. C., graduate student; Melissa McIntosh, Redfox senior; Tami Roark, Blackey senior; Heather Thompson, Maineville, Ohio, senior; Lori Trzop, Walton junior, and Alexa Woell, Muelheim, Germany, junior.

Additional information on this conference or upcoming programs is available from the Caudill College of Humanities at (606) 783-2650.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Morehead State University's Paralegal Studies Program has received reaccreditation from the American Bar Association (ABA) for another five years. Approval was granted by the Standing Committee on Legal Assistants which found that the program met or exceeded every guideline established by the ABA for approval of legal assistant education programs.

The University's four-year degree program, which was instituted in 1983, was first accredited in 1992. Last fall, there were 76 students enrolled in the program of which 68 were majoring in the field.

Dr. Stephen Herzog, assistant professor of government and coordinator of the program, believes that the program's success is responsible for the reaccreditation. "Our program trains paralegals who are job ready. They are qualified to go to work in a lawyer's office," he said. "Employability of graduates is one of the main criteria used by the ABA in the re-certification process."

Of the 650 paralegal programs in the nation, approximately 150 are certified by the ABA and only 75 offer a four-year degree, according to Dr. Herzog.

Anyone interested in the Paralegal Studies Program may call Dr. Herzog at (606) 783-2219.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Dr. Roma Prindle, Morehead State University assistant professor of music, will present a faculty recital on Thursday, Feb. 19, at 8 p.m. in Duncan Recital Hall. She will be accompanied on the piano by guest artist, Denine LeBlanc.

This recital is one of a series being presented across the state by Dr. Prindle and LeBlanc. They will perform at Transylvania University, the Loretto Mother House, Northern Kentucky University, and Western Kentucky University during February and March.

The program will open with the motette by Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, Exsultate, Jubilate. Also included will be songs by Richard Strauss, Henri Duparc, William Walton, and an aria from Rossini's opera, "The Barber of Seville."

A native of Eastern Kentucky, Dr. Prindle is a graduate of Transylvania University and holds both a Master of Music degree and Doctor of Musical Arts degree in vocal performance from the Hartt School of Music in Hartford, Conn. She has been a faculty member in MSU's Department of Music since 1993.

Her concert and recital experience includes solo performances in 30 states and in Europe. She has performed with several American opera companies, including the Connecticut Opera, Opera Roanoke, Connecticut Concert Opera and Connecticut Opera Express. She was a regional finalist in the 1982 Metropolitan Opera National Auditions and in 1986 created the title role in Victoria Fullam's new opera "Mermaid" with the University of Minnesota Opera. She was a member of Goodspeed Opera's 1991 revival of "The Most Happy Fella," with Metropolitan Opera bass-baritone, Spiro Malas.

The concert is free and open to the public. Additional information is available from Dr. Prindle at (606) 783-2481.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Morehead State University's Symphony Band, under the direction of Dr. Richard Miles will premiere the newly-commissioned work "They Sing of Love" on Friday, Feb. 13, in Button Auditorium on the campus.

The work, written by Dr. Timothy Mahr, was commissioned by the University's 75th Anniversary Committee with matching funds from MSU Bands in observance of the University's 75th year as a public institution of higher learning.

The concert, held in conjunction with the University's 40th annual Band Clinic, will begin at 8 p.m. in Button Auditorium. Dr. Roma Prindle, MSU assistant professor of music, will be the soprano soloist for the performance as well as Dr. Stephen King from the University of Kentucky, baritone soloist. Admission is $4 for adults and free to those six and under.

"They Sing of Love" draws upon the rich vocal folk traditions of the Appalachian mountain regions of Kentucky, according to Dr. Mahr, composer from St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minn. To feature the local musical heritage, he reviewed "hundreds of folk tunes, spirituals and hymns searching for the few that would be the basis for this composition."

An associate professor of music at St. Olaf College where he teaches courses in composition, conducting and music education and supervises instrumental student teaching, Dr. Mahr is active as a guest conductor and clinician across the nation and in Norway and Canada. He previously held positions at the University of Minnesota and Milaca (Minn.) High School and was founder and conductor of the community-based Twin Ports Wind Ensemble. He also served on the Board of Directors of the Minnesota Band Directors Association.

He has been in residence as a guest composer/conductor on nearly 20 college and university campuses and his interpretations have earned the praise of notable composers such as Gian Carlo Menotti, Warren Benson, Vincent Persichetti, Timothy Broege and Fisher Tull.

A noted composer, Dr. Mahr has more than 40 works to his credit, 21 of which are compositions for wind bands. He received the ABA/Ostwald Award for his piece "The Soaring Hawk" in 1991.

Dr. Timothy Mahr

His works have been presented at Lincoln Center and Carnegie Hall in New York, at international and national music conventions as well as programmed by several armed service bands, major college and university bands and ensembles in 17 countries on four continents.

Dr. Mahr was the first recipient of a commission from the American Bandmasters Association Commissioning Project. The resulting work, "Endurance," was premiered by the United States Interservice Band in Washington, D.C. He has received numerous commissions for his work including the National Band Association's "Citation of Excellence."

He earned two degrees from St. Olaf College where he graduated with honors and received the Master of Arts degree in trombone performance and Doctor of Musical Arts degree in instrumental conducting from The University of Iowa.

Additional information on the concert is available from Dr. Miles at (606) 783-2486.

SPECIAL TO THE BATH COUNTY NEWS-OUTLOOK

BATH COUNTY STUDENTS TAKE EDUCATIONAL EXCURSION: A Picture Story

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Some Bath County Middle School students extended their education beyond the classroom to visit the gallery in Morehead State University's Claypool-Young Art Building.

The Department of Art arranged the campus visit as part of its gallery educational outreach program in an effort to familiarize the students with the field of art. While viewing the show, students were given a questionnaire geared to their age level that asked the student to pay close attention to number of art concepts such as color, design and subject. Some students who have participated in this program returned to their schools and in the classroom setting, composed poems or have written creative or opinion papers.

Several other schools in the surrounding counties are making plans for a similar visit, according to Emma Perkins, gallery coordinator at MSU.

Cutlines:

- 1---Paula Adkins and Kim Carter took a moment to jot down a few details before moving on to another art piece.
- 2---Among those participating in the educational excursion were Ashley Richmond, Krystle Shults, Allen Gabbard, Ashton Jones, Dustin Bailey and Rachel Downs.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Independent film and videomaker Anne Lewis will be the speaker at the closing session of the "Appalachia in a Multicultural World" conference which will be held on the Morehead State University campus, Friday and Saturday, Feb. 13-14.

Lewis will discuss making a film about Evelyn Williams, an African American activist, at 11 a.m. in the Eagle Dining Room, Adron Doran University Center, on Saturday, Feb. 14.

In "Evelyn Williams," Lewis profiled the life of the coal miner's daughter and wife who was the mother of nine children, a domestic worker and community organizer whose awareness of class and race oppression led to her lifetime of activism. Completed in 1996, the film earned Lewis numerous awards including Juror's Choice at the Black Maria Film Festival; cash award at the Charlotte Film Festival, OWL award for positive portrayal of older Americans, and Award of Merit at the Sinking Creek Film Festival.

Lewis is an independent producer at Appalshop in Whitesburg where she produces, directs, edits, and raises funds for independent video production. She also serves as project director for Headwaters television, Appalshop's public television series on rural life and mountain culture.

Coming to Kentucky in 1973 as associate director for the award-winning documentary "Harlan County, U.S.A.," Lewis also has worked in factories and for a community action agency before joining Appalshop in 1982. She has produced a number of other award-winning films including "Rough Side of the Mountain," which showcased 10 years of community organizing in two company towns; "Justice in the Coalfields," which depicted the impact of a strike on coalfields; "Belinda," which highlighted the struggles of an AIDS activist, and "Fast Food Women," which told about women who struggle to raise families on minimum wage jobs.

MOREHEAD, Ky. ---According to national data, one-fourth of all U. S. students eat no fruits or vegetables on any given day, 56 percent of U.S. college students are overweight with half of all college students gaining 15 pounds during the freshman year.

Aware of these facts, the Office of Student Activities at Morehead State University wants to inform students about weight management with a talk by motivational speaker Deanna M. Latson who will be on campus Thursday, Feb. 12, at 7 p.m. in the grill, Adron Doran University Center.

Latson's talk "Eat Right. Feel Good. Look Great." will focus on proper eating habits, such as including more fruits and vegetables and less pizza and avoiding foods high in fat and calories. She encourages students to replace the junk food they currently consume with "brain food," to increase clearer thinking and increased energy.

Her presentations have been described as "a lighthearted and humorous approach to changing eating habits and creating a new healthy life style."

Until last semester, Latson was an instructor at San Francisco State University. She has taught public speaking, health communication, interpersonal communications and mass media and coached debate. She earned her Master of Arts degree in speech communication with an emphasis in health communication from San Francisco State University.

The presentation is free and open to the public. Additional information is available by calling MSU's Office of Student Activities at (606) 783-2071.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---To create a better understanding among the various constituencies on campus, Morehead State University's College of Education and Behavioral Sciences will host an African-African American Minority Awareness Week on campus, Feb. 9-13.

Sharing ideas on how to create a more diversified campus will be members of the University family. Dr. Rita Egan, assistant professor of education, will speak on "Deconstructing Diversity: Nature, Nurture and Oprah," on Tuesday, Feb. 10, at 9:30 a.m. in the grill, Adron Doran University Center. Later that day at 6 p.m., also in the grill, Dr. Francene Botts-Butler, director of human resources, will address "Recruitment and Retention of African-African Americans." Both presentations are free and open to the public.

The awareness week activities are sponsored by MSU's College of Education and Behavioral Sciences in conjunction with the University's yearlong celebration of its 75th anniversary as a public institution of higher learning. "Our goal is to provide information on various cultures to the student population and the community," said Dr. Sunday Obi, MSU professor of education and chair of the African-African American Minority Awareness Committee that is coordinating the events.

Dr. Egan, who came to MSU from Alberta, Canada, last year, has more than 30 years in education, community development and social research. Born and raised in London's inner city, she originally trained in art, music and drama in the United Kingdom and has since taught a wide range of subjects at all age levels from kindergarten to adults. She earned a B.A. degree in interdisciplinary studies from Loyola College, Montreal, which included course work in adult education, counseling and French. Her graduate degrees include an M.Litt degree in classics from Trinity College, Dublin, and an M.A. degree from the Open University (U.K.) in education specializing in women's studies, management of organizations and program evaluation. She obtained her doctorate in educational administration from the University of Alberta, Canada, where she studied the effect of government testing policies on teachers' lives.

During her teaching career, Dr. Egan has worked with many different cultural groups in London, Northern Ireland and Canada. She also has served on a number of voluntary boards and worked with numerous community groups and social agencies.

Dr. Botts-Butler came to the University in 1995 from Oklahoma State University where she was director of affirmative action programs. A Lexington native, she previously served with the U.S. Army Judge Advocate General Corps in a variety of roles including legal assistance attorney, trial defense counsel and administrative law/magistrate court prosecutor at Fort Sill, Okla., and Fort Lewis, Wash.

She holds a bachelor's degree from Kentucky State University, a master's degree from Bowling Green (Ohio) State University and the J.D. degree from the University of Kentucky College of Law. She also is currently serving as the University's affirmative action officer.

The awareness week activities will kick off on Monday, Feb. 9, with a challenge to faculty members via e-mail. Professors are being asked to implement diversity concepts and activities in their classes throughout the week. The ideas will be compiled for distribution later this year.

Later that day, prior to the Lady Eagles/Tennessee State basketball game that begins at 7:30 p.m. in the Academic-Athletic Center, African-African American culture will be highlighted at an art exhibit featuring materials on loan from members of the community and area vendors. Refreshments, which include such items as fufu (a potato-type bread), anise bread and fruit punch, will be served.

On Tuesday, Feb. 10, the exhibit will move to the grill, Adron Doran University Center, where area vendors will have relevant goods from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.. MSU faculty and students also will share culturally significant attire.

Other activities for Tuesday include a step dance contest with MSU sororities and fraternities participating, beginning at 7 p.m. Master Sgt. Reginald Daniel, instructor with MSU's ROTC Program, will be the judge. The evening will conclude with a sampling of African-African American foods.

Additional information on the week's activities is available from Dr. Obi, at (606) 783-2854.
