BUSINESS GENERALLY CONTINUES TO IMPROVE DESPITE EUROPEAN WAR

For what reason no one appears to know, but despite the downfall of France, the perilous condition of England and the fact that this is Presidential year, business generally in Morehead and through the states-nation, is reported as showing steady improvement, and many laborers, out of work for months, are being put back on the payrolls.

Just how long this improved condition will last, and the extent to which it will spread, no one even ventures a guess. Whether a lengthy war or an early armistice would make for healthier business no one really knows, but it is a fact business in the United States as a whole is much improved.

The economic condition of the world at large is a strange and complex situation. Here in the United States we have food and all necessities of life in abundance; more good than all the rest of the world; but despite all these advantages a vast majority of our citizens are in a bad financial condition, states and the federal treasuries are badly depleted, and while European countries are crying for our products, especially food, they have no money with which to pay... and, strange as it may seem, many of our people are literally starving in a land overflowing with milk and honey...

But in the fact of the above facts business continues to improve, so why try to fathom the cause?

Appointment Of Republicans to Nat'l Cabinet Termed As "Meaningful Move"

President Roosevelt's action in appointing Republicans Stimson and Knox to the vital War and Navy cabinet posts was the most interesting piece of domestic news in a long time. It threw the spotlight on the Republican party, which was gathering in Philadelphia at the time on the eve of its nominating convention. The Republican rumor some time ago that the President had decided on a coalition cabinet—but it was generally believed that the idea had been dropped, one theory being that big-shot Republicans had refused to agree to it.

From the political point of view, the appointments were a clever bit of strategy. Mr. Stimson was Secretary of War under Taft and Secretary of State under Hoover, and has behind him a good record of public service. Colonel Knox has never held an important public office, but he was the GOP vice-presidential candidate last time, and is an able and forthright newspaper publisher. It is a known fact that some GOP leaders have felt that important political capital could be made out of criticizing the administration of the War and Navy departments—the Navy secretaryship has been vacant some time, and the experts never regarded War Secretary Woodring as an asset to the cabinet. Now, with Knox and Stimson in key posts, it will be exceedingly difficult for the GOP to make such criticism telling. The Roosevelt cabinet still has some head weak spots, in the view of most authorities, but it has been greatly strengthened.

Looking at the appointments from the point of view of foreign policy, they square with the President's recent position. It is obvious that Mr. Roosevelt has been moving from a policy of neutrality to one of non-belligerence. In other words, our position in regard to the Allies is much the same as was Italy's in a long time. It then becomes not surprising that the plunge into war. Mr. Stimson has been extremely outspoken in favor of the Allied cause from far right to far left have endorsed it, on the grounds that it is extremely distasteful but unavoidable. And so the seed for another red-hot political issue is being sown.

These appointments have already stirred up some dissension within the Democratic party, by say nothing of the Republican. The opposition comes from those, such as Senator Wheeler, who feel that the President wishes to guide us step by step into war. That will undoubtedly form the basis for Republican campaign attacks on administration, and the GOP will have plenty of evidence to draw on. All favor the defense program, in general, but there is definite cleavage between those who insist that it must be for defense alone, and those who believe that, once we are ready, we must go to war in Europe.

The military experts now say it will take twelve to fifteen months to equip and mechanize an army of 1,000,000 men, even if the arms program swings into high gear at once. And the arms program is not doing that. There is a shortage of skilled labor, and also of apprentices in certain extremely important crafts. This is creating a general uneasiness among those in charge of the program.

A sweeping bill for compulsory military service has been introduced by Senator Burke. Under it, all men between eighteen and sixty-five would be forced to register, and could be called by the President for any and all defense purposes, whether we were at war or not. There is plenty of political dynamite in this, and Congress will do a lot of talking and thinking before approving any draft measure. At the same time, sentiment in favor of compulsory service of some kind has grown, judging by the polls. Newspapers and periodicals ranging from far right to far left have endorsed it, on the grounds that it is extremely distasteful but unavoidable. And so the seed for another red-hot political issue is being sown.

Farm Studys State Need For Cattle

Over 127 Farms Need 20 Man Hours Per Year—U. S. Studies of 127 farms, made by representatives of the Kentucky Experiment Station, indicate that a herd of 16 best cows, producing fat calves averaging about 500 pounds each, requires in a year about 120 bushels of corn, 14 tons of clover or lespedeza hay, 5 tons of corn fodder and 25 to 35 acres of pasture. The labor needed amounts to about 120 man hours per year.

A drove of light feeder cattle, producing a gain of about 300 pounds each, requires about 300 bushels of corn, 6 tons of legume hay, 12 tons of corn fodder and 40 to 50 acres of pasture. The man labor necessary amounts to about 640 hours per year.

A herd of dairy cows, producing an average of 6,000 pounds of milk each year, in a year requires about 150 bushels of corn, 1,000 pounds of cottonseed meal or its equivalent, 20 tons of legume hay, 25 to 35 acres of pasture and 2 1/2 tons of straw for bedding. The man labor needed amounts to the equivalent of 135 to 150 ten-hour days, or about half the time of one man a year.

A flock of 25 ewes requires about seven bushels of corn, twenty bushels of oats, two and 1/2 tons of alfalfa or other good legume hay, and fifteen to twenty acres of pasture. About 160 hours of man labor a year are needed, but the major portion of this work occurs in winter when other farm work is not urgent.

Advancement of the national defense program demands more men for the mechanized cavalry of the United States Army. Local recruits are being sought.

Passage of the bill eliminates further possibility of the State Unemployment Insurance Law being declared unconstitutional by Kentucky courts. An additional levy against employers would double have resulted in a court test on the validity of the entire Act, because additional tax might have been contrary to provisions of the Social Security Law, Mr. Barnes pointed out.

"Splendid cooperation of State Senators and Representatives and of the Railroad Retirement Board and Federal Security Agency enabled the Commission and employers to get necessary action on the Bill," Barnes stated.

Uncle Sam needs YOU now! The finest recommendation a young man can have is an honorable discharge from his nation's Army or Navy.

WILD LIFE OF KENTUCKY
by Roger Barbour
MOREHEAD STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE

GUNS AND CAMERAS

We, the citizens of Eastern Kentucky love of guns. Great numbers of them are noted far and wide for Kentucky youth spend many idle hours in the open with guns, shooting at practically any wild thing that they see. I regret to admit it but as a youngster, I was no different in this respect than hundreds of other youngsters. I enjoyed the "sport" to some extent. However, I soon tired of the wholesale destruction that I was leaving in my wake. When I looked at the bird body of some I had shot, I often wished that I had let it go free. The desire to let the animal go free gradually overcame my desire to see the animal dead, so my indiscriminate shooting of wild life began to wane. Yet the desire to see the animal as close range still remained. Some time later I acquired a camera. Then I began to "shoot" wild life with a camera. I found it the best method of the kind which required to get a good "shot" with a camera was much greater than required to actually shoot the animal. Also I found that after taking a picture I could look at the picture as often as I wished and know that the animal was still alive and well. As a youngster I killed several harmless little screech owls. No reason that the so-called "joy" of killing. When I killed them my joy was over and their life of usefulness ended. Now I photographed them. I have in my room at home three pictures of screech owls. The pleasure of successfully photographing them was much greater than that derived by shooting them.

Let me put the question to you. Which is better—guns or cameras? One might infer from this article that I am opposed to hunting with guns. This is not the case. I love to hunt. However, my love for hunting is confined to those animals we class as game. We make a determined effort, by close seasons and game farms, to assist our game species to reproduce. It is against the indiscriminate shooting of non-game species that I am opposed. It is the photographing, rather than the slaughtering of these species that I favor.

XLIV FORTY YEARS AGO
I've wandered to the village, Tom, I've sat beneath the tree, Upon the school house playground, That sheltered you and me; But 'rums were left to greet me, Tom, And few were left to know me, Who played with me upon the green. Just forty years ago.

The grass was just as green, Tom, Barefooted boys at play, Were sporting, just as did then, With spirits just as gay. But the master sleeps upon the hill, Which, coated o'er with snow, Afforded us a sliding place, Some forty years ago.

The old school house is altered some; The benches are replaced— By new ones very like the same. Our jackknives had defaced. But the same bricks are in the wall The bells swing to and fro; It must just be the same old Tom. 'Twas forty years ago.

Recently the memories of childhood were brought back to mind upon a visit to my former birthplace and home. There have been many changes during the forty years since I was a mere child playing over the fields of my native county. For the sake of convenience the changes which I noted on my visit may be divided into three major classifications: (1) economic, (2) mechanical, and (3) social. Under each one of these captions there have been some revolutionary changes. In the economic sense there have been striking changes. Forty years ago there was less of this world's goods to go around. There were fewer opportunities for high school graduates to have someone to receive their college education. Today there is little excuse for one so minded not to get their college education. In this present economic sense every little community, forty years ago, there were a few families who had more than the money and the opportunities for making it. These were the days when the country store at the Cross Roads did a thriving business. Today business has shifted from the rural communities to the cities. Then the government did less in the way of social and economic matters. Today we are rapidly becoming a nation with outstretched arms toward the capital pleading for more and more.

When about the mechanical changes. Well, forty years ago was characterized as the "horse and buggy days" or the "steam age." It is now the "gas engine" age, the "electric age" and the "cosmos age." Looking at it in sum, it is an age of speed. Speed is in the very "ward and woof" of our living. In my early days, towns 30-40 miles away were about the same distance then as towns today located by the highway. Speed has made neighbors of us all. This mechanized "gas age" has made us a nation of commuters. We live in some fashionable district and commute every day to the city. We are in a awful hurry to get nowhere fast. We get down our breakfast, rush in our cars to work, play our trade at high speed, rush home for a bridge party, take a week-end trip, return home late on Sunday night to start the week over at the time tempo. In my day as a child we took time to be social at the dinner table. It has become speed seemed geared to fit our nervous systems. The writer wonders if this element of speed will not end the day as a national calamity. The nearest word which seems adequate for this age is "jittering," though I would not care to put it into the dictionary. But it is expressive of the age. In my day it seemed that a man of thirty-five was as young as many men nowadays of thirty. Why is this so? It is caused by the rapid gate which the world is moving.

Looking at education, that too seems affected. We see advertised a "high school course in two years." If I know anything about education it takes time for a child to be educated. Gardaid used to say when the Lord wanted to grow a squash it took Him six weeks; but when He wanted to grow an oak it took Him one hundred years. Let us not forget that a superficial coating of culture soon rubs off.

Now in a brief sentence or two let us discuss the social changes. I have been shocked at the attitude of the youth of today over the question of drinking and other questionable practices. I must admit that some of the "mores" are beyond my comprehension. About forty years ago a minister used to have an important part in the affairs of the community. When he came to our house for dinner he got the best chicken or the best ham the place could afford. Today he is not such a welcomed guest as he was formerly at some houses. This man of God must often preach to empty benches on Sunday. I wonder why? This leads me to the question: "Who is shaping the philosophy of the American people today? The ones in the forefront right now are the newspaper men such as Lowell Thomas, Peter Grant, Elmer Davis, Paul Sullivan, H. V. Kaltenborn and others. Their statements and even their pronouncements, Americans are becoming official for millions of Americans.

As I go back to the scenes of my childhood, removed forty years, I think about the pattern of living which characterized the McGuffey days. I plainly see that we have made many changes most of which are good. Some of the things are good for the best. In the year 1860, just forty years hence, there will be those who shall look backward upon our three night in New York... with two admissions to the World's Fair, admission to Agassiz... You won't find a more... PLETTU out at the low price of $54.90 from MOREHEAD (Highly Higher, determine accommodations chosen, if Pullman is used.) Sabotage, Espionage To Be Dealt With Harshly

As a means of coordinating investigations of charges of violation of Federal laws relating to neutrality, espionage, subversive activities and kindred offenses, on September 6, 1939, the President issued the following statement: "The Attorney General has been requested by me to instruct the Federal Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice to take charge of investigative work in matters relating to espionage, sabotage, and violations of the neutrality regulations. "This task must be conducted in a comprehensive and effective manner on a national basis, and all information must be carefully sifted out and correlated in order to avoid confusion and irresponsibility.

To this end I request all police officers, sheriffs, and all other law enforcement officers in the United States promptly to turn over to the nearest representative of the Federal Bureau of Investigation,

Fred Miller, 25, of Lambert, was killed. Ham Miller, 18, Robert's cousin, and George Clemens, 20, both of Lambert, were wounded. Ham Miller was struck in the left leg. He was brought to Bach Hospital. Clemens was shot in the left arm.

French Fighting--

It came as something of a relief to observers here to find that, under the terms of the German-French armistice, the French fleet is not to be used against England, but is to be interned for the duration of hostilities. However, as past experience has grimly proved, German promises must be taken with many grains of salt. And there is a joker in the peace agreement—the last article says that if France does not live up to the bargain she has made, Germany will be free to consider the treaty a dead letter. Germany is to be the judge of whether or not France respects it. So few authorities it would be greatly surprised if German-manned French warships sailed against England.

Cincinnati Auto Club Gives Vacationists Good Advice

According to the Safety Department of the Cincinnati Automobile Club, many a vacation is spoiled through carelessness or a desire to travel too much into the allotted time.

When approaching and passing through small towns, reduce your speed. Learn to relax yet be alert when driving. In making long drives take the best roads as recommended by the Travel Bureau of the automobile club. Endeavor to confine your travel to daytime driving and periodically get out of the car every seventy-five or a hundred miles if it is only for five minutes. You will find yourself much refreshed by the procedure.

When driving be sure to have all your car under control at all times. Watch out for narrow bridges, railroad crossings and important highway crossings. Approach steep hills and sharp curves with caution and above all, do not drive if you feel yourself getting drowsy.

Before making a long trip, it is advisable to check up on the condition of your tires, battery, motor oil, etc. It is especially important to see that the tires and battery are in good condition as bad tires can result in serious accidents and a faulty or weak battery can be a source of much inconvenience. The Cincinnati Automobile Club advocates moderation. If you will remember this you should have an enjoyable vacation. Watch where you swim and drink. Avoid exposure to the sun and do not indulge in too much golf, tennis or hiking. The Cincinnati Automobile Club strives at all times to make traveling more pleasant for the motorists and it is only by the cooperation of motorists in joining the Cincinnati Automobile Club that this organization can further the interest of you and everyone who drives.

Wilkie Feared As Dark Horse Turned White, By Demos.

"Peace And Preparedness" Is Slogan For Utility Magnet

The name of Wendell Wilkie, dark horse turned serious contender, was placed before the Republican national convention last night to an accompanying bedlam of cheers and boos which indicated the Republican Presidential contest was Wilkie against the field.

Turning to nominations after approving a platform which emphasizes peace, preparedness and fighting for liberty, the convention received the names of Wilkie, Thomas E. Dewey, Frank E. Gannett and Senator Robert A. Taft.

Each in his turn received an ovation and demonstration, brief for Gannett, prolonged in all other cases. A fist fight broke out when Wilkie was nominated and could not be subdued by police.

State Department In Action After Report Of Murder Is Made

Kentucky Brewers and Beer Distributors Committee's first "direct action" step in its campaign to "clean up" or "close up" law violating retail beer outlets in the state was reported today by State Director, Frank E. Daugherty.

At the request of the Committee head, closing orders were issued by Rowan County Judge, I. E. Peifrey, against a roadhouse near Morehead, Ky., the scene of a fatal shooting on Sunday, June 23. The retail beer license for the place is listed in the names of P. L. Alderman and Lena Kinney.

Report of the shooting, which resulted in the death of Valentine Moore, Rowan County resident, and the wounding of Alderman and his son, Robert, was given Director Daugherty who immediately contacted Judge Peifrey with the closing request. Judge Peifrey assured the Committee Di-

Center is a huckles shoulder-strap dress of bright red Everlast pique in a prim English print. There is a Basque jacket of glazed calico in the same pattern. On the right is an all-rounder of red and white imported checked gangster, with ruffles on the bib and a white dainty blouse. All are washable and budget-easy.

New Taxes Started On July First

Comments Over Nation Are Favorable To Defense Measure

The Collector of Internal Revenue at Louisville, Kentucky, announced today that the new Internal Revenue Act of 1940 which has for its purpose the raising of funds to pay for national defense, among other things increases the tax on cigarettes by 1-3 percent, or one-half a cent on a standard package of twenty small cigarettes. This change will have the effect of increasing the value of all cigarette stamps purchased by manufacturers from the Collector of Internal Revenue on and after July 1, 1940. It has a further effect of imposing a floor stock tax on all cigarette in the hands of manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers even down to a single package.

The Collector of Internal Revenue has cautioned all manufacturers and dealers in cigarettes to make an accurate count of their stocks on hand before the beginning of business on July 1 and to preserve an accurate record of the quantity of such cigarettes. The Collector explained that each cigarette manufacturer and dealer should immediately request a blank internal revenue form for the purpose of making an official report of the cigarettes on hand as of July 1. The tax on such cigarettes will be computed by the taxpayer and the return and inventory of stock will be sent to the Collector of Internal Revenue accompanied by a remittance covering the tax not later than August 1, 1940.

The Collector explained that, due to the necessary delay in printing the blank return forms, he would not be able to fill the requisitions for such forms immediately but as soon as they are received from Washington all requests will be compiled with. It is expected that as soon as possible the Collector will cause investigations to be made of the records of all manufacturers and dealers in his district. In order that persons having cigarettes in their possession for sale on July 1 may avoid the imposition of severe penalties, the Collector urged that they make prompt requisitions for blank forms of returns and inventories; that they complete the returns and inventories promptly and send them to the Collector of Internal Revenue with appropriate remittances and that they preserve full and adequate records of their stocks on hand as of July 1 for the information of investigating officers.

1 Of 15 Trucks Is Gov't. Owned Survey Points Out

Government Is Larger Commercial User Of State And Federal Roads

One truck out of every fifteen operating on the highways of Kentucky is owned by the government, federal, state or local—W. F. Gardner, Chairman, Kentucky Petroleum Industries Committee, said today in commenting upon the increasing importance of highway transportation in carrying out the functions of government.

"The largest commercial user of the highways is government. For the United States as a whole approximately one out of every twenty trucks is owned and operated by some branch of the government. The federal government uses the roads and streets extensively in the transportation of the mails, as well as for other purposes. Many trucks are used in carrying out the activities of the various departments and bureaus of the state. The many state institutions, for example, use large numbers of trucks. Similarly the counties and cities are large users of trucks. Such vehicles are used extensively for road and street maintenance work, garbage disposal and in operation of hospitals, and the police and fire departments."

In addition to these publicly-owned vehicles, which generally operate tax-free on the roads and the streets, there are many additional privately owned motor vehicles engaged in carrying on work for the government. Besides the many trucks used by government men in performing work in connection with government contracts there are 80,000 school buses assisting in the government function of education. These buses, most of which are privately owned, are not included in the truck figures. The United States post office department utilizes 15,045 motor trucks, of which 8,500 are owned by the department and 6,545 are privately owned, operate on a contract basis. In addition, about 30,000 rural mail carriers use privately-owned passenger motor vehicles in the delivery of the mails."

Farm Life Better Than Town Life Censuses Of 4-H

Healthy, Mental Attitude Set As Reason For Difference

"The 4-H club has been a great agency making for greater success in after life, healthier mental attitudes, more poise and more skills—one of the reasons why farm life surpasses city life during the year 1940." Dr. Margaret Ratliff, University of Kentucky psychology professor, speaking at Junior Week.

Livington county boys and girls who are club members have had several hikes and tours during the first part of summer. Picnics also are scheduled for the summer. Among matters considered at recent meetings have been woodcraft, first aid, swimming instruction.

In Owlesky county, building household furniture and equipment has occupied club members. Dressing tables, work tables, project work, according to tentative surveys.

Last month in Perry county, 63 community meetings attracted a total of 953 youngsters. Sixteen regular club meetings were held, and County Agent, C. H. Flannery reports "unusual success with project work, according to tentative surveys."

A gallon of large, luscious strawberries was given to each member of the Kiwanis club at a strawberry festival held in Jackson county, by 4-H'ers grateful for being sponsored in the project. "I never saw such berries," said one Kiwanis member.

Marshall county club members have seeded forty-two pounds of black locust seed, to have seedlings ready for planting next year. This is the largest amount planted so far in any 12-month's period, and should produce an estimated 250,000 seedlings.

Iced Coffee Keeps You "Fresh as a Daisy"

LOSSOM out with iced coffee, and you'll be as fresh as the daisies in the trailing vine here in the picture! It's a portrait of perfection, with ice splently in the crystal bowl; sweaters on the glasses to keep hands and table dry; and the tray, creamer and pitcher reflecting the sparkle of the iced coffee itself. All you need are the three ways that follow to make perfect iced coffee.

Three Ways To Make Iced Coffee

Method I: Make regular-strength coffee by your favorite method. Use 1 heaping tablespoon coffee for each cup of water. Cool. Fill trays of automatic refrigerator with the coffee and freeze as usual. To serve, place the frozen coffee cubes in tall glasses and fill with hot, regular-strength, freshly-made coffee. Serve with sugar and plain or whipped cream.

Method II: Make regular-strength coffee by your favorite method. Use 1 heaping tablespoon coffee for each cup of water. Pour the hot freshly-made coffee into tall glasses filled with ice. The double-strength coffee will make up for dilution by the ice without loss of flavor. Serve with sugar and plain or whipped cream.

Method III: Make regular-strength coffee by your favorite method. Use 1 heaping tablespoon coffee for each cup of water. Cool. Fill trays of automatic refrigerator with the coffee and freeze as usual. To serve, place the frozen coffee cubes in tall glasses and fill with hot, regular-strength, freshly-made coffee. Serve with sugar and plain or whipped cream. (The coffee cubes prevent weakening of the coffee's flavor.)

Milk's Vitamin D Corrects Anemic, Rundown Condition

Adding milk to the diet did much to correct anemic condition in groups of children, studied by research workers in the home economics department of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. Forty-six children went to a fresh air camp made quick lobin, were given a half-pint of milk a day. Sixteen school children, found deficient in hemoglobin, were given a half-pint of milk at the morning recess, and made steady improvement over a period of seventeen weeks. In another group of seventy-six children examined for anemia, thirty-one were selected to receive milk. Hemoglobin regenerations occurred in every case, although recovery was not complete in some instances. The studies are being continued and effects noted where both milk and egg yolk are given.

Pontiac Dealers See Outstanding Year

Factory deliveries of Pontiacs to individual owners already have exceeded all such deliveries made during the entire 1937 model year. D. U. Bathrick, Pontiac's general sales manager, declared today. Bathrick reported that factory deliveries for 1940 will exceed 1937—the previous high year—by at least twenty percent.

Factory owners save freight charges which often are enough to defray all expenses of the trip to Pontiac, Bathrick said. Success of a Pontiac campaign to acquaint purchasers living a considerable distance from Pontiac with the economy of factory delivery is evidenced by the fact that sixty-two percent of all cars delivered to customers at the Pontiac factory this year have gone to residents of the Pacific coast states.

bers. The Constitution, By-Laws and Marketing Agreement of this Association are all fitted to the present circumstances, conditions and needs of the burley situation. Among the many considerations that promoted the incorporating of this new Association the following "NEEDS" were definitely in mind.

1. The need of an established Association to truly represent and protect the interests of burley growers in their relations with Federal Government Agencies, the Tobacco Manufacturing Interests, the handlers and buyers of this product. A $70,000,000 business that ought to be in the $100,000,000 class is now without any personal leadership.
2. The need of Association managed facilities for handling and selling the tobacco produced by its members in the most economical way with the highest net returns to the growers. The plan suggested in the Marketing Agreement contemplates offering in seasonal competition all the tobacco delivered to the Association in green order, carefully graded by Government graders, and commingled on bales carrying the same approximate weight, with facilities provided for the withdrawal, pricing and holding for better demand, the "Distress" tobacco.
3. The need to remedy the present price fluctuations on the same grades from crop to crop, day and day, and period to period, and to level up the season to season the average price received. This can and should be done so that the growers would receive a uniform price for like grades throughout the entire season and the total farm income from tobacco from year to year would vary very little.
4. The need to maintain right relationship between production and consumption and so profit evenly year by the law of supply and demand.
5. The need to keep the growers informed, interested and cooperating for the common good through continued educational work.
6. The need to supply a way

Red Spiders Killing States Evergreens

Red spiders are a menace to evergreens at this time, reports N. R. Elliott, Kentucky College of Agriculture landscape specialist. Hold a white sheet of paper under the plants branches and tap the branch gently—if red spiders are present, the sheet will be covered with tiny, red, moving objects.

If the home owner has access to water pressure, spray the plants with a hose once every ten days. Use all the force obtainable. Do this when the sun is not on the plants. Another control is to keep the plants dusted with a finely ground sulphur. A bean beetle dust gun may be used. Apply the dust in the middle of the day when the plants are dry, once every ten days to two weeks.

U. K. Enrollment Breaks All Records

2,119 Students Matriculated At University For First Session

A total of 2,119 students have enrolled for the first term of the 1940 Summer Session at the University of Kentucky when registration for the full five weeks' term closed June 24th, with a large group of students planning to enroll for the last two and one-half weeks short courses still to be accounted for. This figure, 2,119 already has exceeded the total registration of 1,991 for the full five weeks term last year, short course registration included.

All of the 120 counties in Kentucky are represented in the summer school enrollment at the University this term, and thirty-seven states besides Kentucky, as well as Canada, the Canal Zone, Egypt, and Puerto Rico. Increases in enrollment have been noted in sixty of the one hundred-twenty counties and in twenty of the thirty-seven states.

Among those students registered from Rowan county are Henry Lee Pritchard, Charles Louis Goff, of Morehead, Ky.

In many lands today, mothers are forced to give up their children—soon the youngest. Dictators demand them—and dictators are all-powerful. In peace as in war, they control business and industry, capital and labor, life itself. Men and women are told what work they must do. There is no price for children, no hope for the man who would like to choose his own career.

How different it is in the United States! Here is a republic, governed under law by men responsible to the people. In this free nation, we choose our life-work for ourselves. This system of free enterprise, more than anything else, makes the United States the world's greatest nation. Because men are free to dream and work as they see fit, scores of industries have grown great in America: the automobile, radio, telephone and electrical industries are just a few.

As typical Americans, the employees of your electric company are devoted to the American principle of working together, producing more of the good things of life and making them available to more people. Through their efforts electric service steadily improves; at the same time, its price steadily comes down.

What inspires the people of your electric company? They are paid for what they do, of course. But the best answer is this: the employees of this company are proud of their part in keeping America great. They work as free men to bring better service and value to other free men. They are glad to create wealth in peace instead of destroying it in war.

This company has been built by free Americans. It is built to serve other free Americans, its customers. It is free from political dictation. Like all industry, like the nation itself, it will succeed as long as there are free Americans to work for it and free Americans for it to work for.

$700.00 Will Be Given To Winners At Kentucky Fair

Pot. Of Gold Available To Women Entries In Textile Section

There's a pot of gold worth nearly $700.00 to be given away absolutely free to winners in the Textile Section of the Woman's Department at the Kentucky State Fair this year. Mrs. F. Furnish, Taylorsville, Superintendent of this section, said today. In addition to all that money, the Kentucky exhibitor winning most first prizes in this section will be given a handsome silver trophy. And that isn't all! There's the freer trip to New York for the winner of a great nation-wide crochet contest sponsored by the National Needlecraft Bureau, of New York.

The allotment of this large sum of money to but one division in the Woman's Department is in keeping with plans being followed by Manager Robert B. Jewell in rejuvenating the Kentucky State Fair from top to bottom.

"More than 500 quilts are expected to be entered in the special quilt display this year. In the cotton quilt group $50.00 will be divided among the winners of the first four places in each of the modern patchwork, modern applique, trapunto work and patchwork and applique sections, or a total of $200.00. Of course, if you have an antique quilt or a tufted spread, they also will be eligible," Mrs. Furnish said.

Prizes also will be given for appliqued and embroidered bedspreads—or for any other kind of bedspread, it was announced.

Huge displays will be made of pajamas in all materials, cotton tub frocks, smocks, house coats, and collar and cuff sets. Then, too, there will be entrancing displays of baby novelties and household furnishings, just to mention a few of the items upon which a woman may feast her eyes. Truly it is one of the charmingly interesting departments of the 1940 State Fair.

"Of course that isn't all of the State Fair," Manager Jewell said, "but just one division in one single department. There will be grand circuit racing, a Midway full of new and thrilling rides and shows, the best saddle horse in the world and entertainment for you every minute of the time you spend at the new Kentucky State Fair, September 9th through the 14th."

Morehead citizens should be proud of their fire department. This past Thursday evening they proved, as never before, that they function well even under adverse conditions. Many times they have proved that. Dauntless, ready at any hour of the day and night to come to the succor of those in distress, they serve us well. We owe them our allegiance. At all times we should endeavor to improve the equipment with which they have to work. They are our first "line of defense" in cases such as we witnessed Thursday when the Cusky Garage burned. Possibly had they not worked so valiantly an entirely different story in this city's history might have been recorded.

Why We Should Go To Church (Rev. T. F. Lyons) We should go to church. Jesus went to church to bless the souls of men. For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them. Mat. 18-20.

We should go to church to become more like our Master. To stay away from church is to be a good worker; not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another and so much the more, as ye see the day approaching. Heb. 10:24-25.

In the church we find the best people. We find those who are devoted to God, and who are interested in promoting the work of God.
