

THE END IS NOT YET.

---

The Tolliver-Logan Fued Still on in Rowan County, Kentucky.

MOREHEAD, Ky., July 1.—Thirty armed citizens, summoned by the sheriff, are patrolling the town. Wiley and Cal Tolliver boarded the early train at Cattlettsburg Wednesday, but got off at Olive Hill, near the county line. The Tolliver men have been coming in force on all trains. No fewer than 200 citizens will meet here Thursday, and it is believed that there will be trouble. In an attempt to interview D. B. Logan Wednesday night a correspondent was stopped by several armed men who surrounded the Logan residence. After some difficulty Mr. Logan was aroused, and he acknowledged that the entire town was surrounded. Every one in Morehead apparently belongs to the Martin faction at present. At a mass meeting Wednesday 500 men signed an agreement to protect with their lives the homes of the people of Morehead and of Rowan county. It is denied by the Tolliver men that they are organizing for a big fight.