President Reports On N. J. Convention

Dr. Vaughan, Dr. Miller And Professor Jennings Return

Students and faculty were privileged to hear a chapel address of exceptional interest Thursday, when Dr. William H. Vaughan, president of Morehead College, gave a report on the two educational conventions he recently attended.

Dr. Vaughan, who returned last week from Atlantic City, New Jersey, where he attended sessions of the American Association of Teachers Colleges convention and the American Association of School Administrators convention, talked on the challenges presented to educators at the two conventions.

Teachers Colleges Convention

The first part of the Thursday morning address concerned the teachers colleges convention, of which Dr. Vaughan clarified by a brief history of teachers colleges in this country. In 1839, he said, the first such school was organized in Lexington, Massachusetts, with a faculty of one member and a student body of three; today there are more than one hundred and ninety teachers colleges in the United States. Twenty-five years ago a movement was started by five small colleges, designed to exert pressure on education and to promote the transformation of normal schools to teachers' colleges. That movement has brought about a complete change in the American educational system, and such great progress may be attributed to the great need for the improvement.

"The last twenty-five years," said Mr. Vaughan, "have seen the most remarkable changes in education of any twenty-five years in history." He illustrated his point by citing the improvement of teachers' qualifications in Kentucky, where the average training of teachers today in three years of college, in contrast to two years of high school credit which was the training of an average Kentucky teacher twenty-five years ago.

Dr. Vaughan lauded the history of Morehead college and the great opportunities it offers in the teaching field, adding, "we must begin to never perceive, put in a child as the center of our educational program."

School Administrators Convention

Ten thousand school persons from all over the United States were in attendance at the second convention which President Vaughan attended in Atlantic City; great educators, statesmen, and numerous national personalities were included in the convention. The general theme of the convention was "Freedom and National Defense."

In summary of the program of the school administrators' convention, Dr. Vaughan said, "The schools constitute the first line of national defense. There are three objectives facing the schools first, development of democratic education; second, a turn in the direction of vocational education; third, fitness, and the industrial arts; third, development of a strong morale, that we may be a better nation than ever before."

Dr. Vaughan concluded his address with "it was a great meeting —great because of the time, great because of the progress of education, great because of the challenge that confronts us. We have a great cause...greater as the years go by....Let us be proud of the teaching college. Let us make it better, and in so doing we will be growing better ourselves!"

THE BEST

Mrs. Hazel Claypool, announced that the Art Department has been acclaimed the best by the Men's Club of the city. This declaration was made by the Kentucky State Art Commission two weeks ago when the state art teachers met on the Morehead Campus.

Congratulations Mrs. Claypool and Miss Tom Young for your splendid work.

CANDIDATES

Ed Farrell, a junior from Louisville, is seeking the kingship. He is a member of the football squad.

Frances Peratt, popular candidate for the queenship, is from Morehead. She is a senior, and is now president of the Beaux Arts Club, Co-editor of the Raconteur, and a member of the WAA.

Joe Lustic, a seeker of the king crown, is a football player from Clay, W. Virginia. He is a junior.

J. G. Black, Jr., a senior from Morehead, is a member of the Campus Club, College choir, swimming team, and Mu Phi. The Jay Bimson and last semester's president of the junior class. He is also president of the Manual Arts Club.

Mary Frances Bolt, another potential queen, is a freshman from Ashland.

George "Zimo" Jackson, candidate for king, is a sophomore. His home is in Morehead.

Kay Hopson, a candidate for queen, is from Pleasure Ridge. She is a freshman and a member of the band, Civic Chorus, Newman Club and College choir.

Crawford Venn, senior from Newark, is a king candidate. He is co-editor of the Raconteur, president of the Campus Club and is a member of the College Players. He is also head cheer-leader and student coach of the swimming team.

Gay Everman, also a candidate for queen, is from the town of Olive Hill. She is a member of the Student Council of Fiske Hall, WAA, and is a junior in her standing.

Christine Arnett, candidate for queen, is a transfer from Transylvania. She is a junior. Her hometown is Salyersville.

Morehead Plays In Tournament

Contest Is Held At Bowling Green

Playing too late to get a report of the game in this issue of the Trail Blazer, the Morehead College Eagles went up against Southwestern Teachers College last night in the first round of the annual SIAA tournament which is being held at Bowling Green, Kentucky, home of Western Teachers College.

Morehead is in the same bracket as Murray and Presbyterian College, who played just before the Eagles last night. Western, the host team drew Delta State, a team that has been beaten by Western and Murray in regular season play.

This is the second time since 1935 that the Eagles have been invited to the SIAA tourney, and if they were successful last night they will have the winner of the Murray-Presbyterian game this afternoon in the semi-finals, with the finals of the tournament being held tonight.

Winter Carnival Candidates Are Versatile Group, Speakers Say

Dixie Little Is Master Of Ceremonies

(By Lavina Waters)

"From hearing all the praises of these people here on the stage, I'm surprised that I haven't known they were on our campus before!" was the statement by one of the campaign speakers for the aspiring carnival kings and queens at the big rally Monday night, was a reflection of almost everyone in the audience. For how the smooth-talking campaigners did pour the compliments onto the heads of the delegates for the sovereign crown!

To start the evening off with the pep that lasted throughout the whole rally, Dixie Little, pretty little former candidate for the royal title, gave a preliminary speech, humorous in its serious treatment of the gravity of the carnival election. She explained the great honors involved in being elected king and queen of the Winter Carnival—a picture in the Raconteur, publicity in newspapers, names engraved on a big silver cup, and all.

Then Miss Little, who presided as mistress of ceremonies, introduced in order the candidates and their speakers, who were seated in two semi-circular rows on the auditorium stage.

David Hemenway, who was introduced as "a Frankenstein with some sort of singular honor—he makes straight A's in mathematics," opened at length in behalf of Crawford Venn, whose versatility, versability, valiance and other admirable traits are enough to merit Venn the carnival king title, according to Hemenway.

For George Jackson, second aspirant to the kingship, Gilbert Laycock, introduced as a "brilliant debater," campaigned—between spells of lights going out—for the title, presenting Jackson as the most fit king because of his skill at dancing.

Then the mistress of ceremonies presented Mary Frances Bolt, and her speaker, Sally Betty Smith, "a great and lengthy talker." Sally Betty skillfully twisted and orated to win votes for Bolt, when she termed the most beautiful, the most All-American candidate for queen.

"Just a good boy." That was the compliment with which J. G. Black, Jr., was announced. Bill Hogge, speaker for Black, gave a unique touch to his speech by closing it with a poem urging Black's election to the carnival honor.

Frances Peratt, second candidate for queen, was represented by Billy Black, who described his candidate by quoting Shakespeare, and by enumerating the honors she has won during her four years in college.

For Joe Lustic, Benny Vannella ecstatically made the startling statement that "Joe is a good boy," "a real student," and urging his election.

Christine Arnett's speaker was Ralph Musaman, the nervous little electionist who argued that his candidate was the girl who had "it."

Steve Sagady defended Ed Farrell, who, according to Sagady, was a "guy who could take it on the football field." Sagady added: "And he'll be elected carnival king if I get the right kind of support!"

Cheering, slapping, laughter, posters, all—these were symbols of high spiritedness at the pep rally Monday night, and evidence of the close race for those two coveted titles: KING OF THE WINTER CARNIVAL, and QUEEN OF THE WINTER CARNIVAL.

Last candidate was Gay Everman, of whom Catherine Wellman said, "Maybe she isn't so well known on the campus. But if you get a chance to get acquainted with her before voting time, I know you'll vote for Gay."

Making a grand entrance from the rear of the auditorium, under a bright spotlight, little Kay Hopson, Allie Young candidate for the crown, ascended the stage, where she was introduced by Bert Justice, who spoke for her, and all her queenly attributes.

King And Queen To Be Coronated Tonite

Carnival Ball Ends Second Day Of Eighth Annual Festival

The gymnasium doors will swing open tonight at eight o'clock for the coronation of the king and queen of the Winter Carnival, the main feature of the second night of the eighth annual festival at Morehead College.

As the Blue and White Orchestra of Lexington plays the processional at the stroke of nine, the royal robes are placed on the monarchs who already have been selected by popular vote of the students to reign over the Morehead campus during the festivities, the identity of the king and queen are not revealed until they are seen leading the royal procession.al.

The lucky boy and girl have been chosen from the list of completions, which include: Mary Frances Bolt, Gay Everman, Ed Farrell, Kay Hopson, George Jackson, Joe Lustic, Frances Peratt, Crawford Venn, J. G. Black, Jr., and Christine Arnett.

PRESIDENT TO CROWN

Forest Neal and Horace Owen have been chosen heralds to announce the winners of the eherish ed crowns. The role of coutjester will be taken by Bernie Byrd, a physical education major. At the throne, President W. H. Vaughan, assisted by Mrs. Vaughan, will place the jeweled crowns on the heads of the king and queen.

A new addition to the coronation this year will be the presentation of a trophy to her successors, by Miss Violet Lewis, last year's beauteous majesty. Gilbert "Meon" Edwards, and graduated last June was the king of the 1940 Carnival.

This is the first year that the coronation has been separated from the actual carnival itself, the Social Committee planning two nights, one for the carnival with its booths and concessions held by the various clubs and organizations on the campus, and one night for the Carnival Ball, with the coronation of the monarchs.

BEGAN IN 1932

Previous years have witnessed a Water Carnival, with the selection of a bathing beauty, to precede the night of the actual carnival. However, this year the practice was discontinued.

Eight years ago when the first Winter Carnival was planned Morehead, it was sponsored by the Niwatori Club and the Camp Club to help finance the yearbook. Then students voted for the candidate of their choice by payine o cent a vote. Since then the Social Committee has taken charge, the proceeds of which festival going to help finance more social activities on the campus for the student body. Several years ago the voting changed to that of secret ballot, those with activity tickets being eligible to vote.

To become a candidate for king and queen, one must have had at least twenty-five students and presented with twenty-five cents enters a student in the race.

The ball will last from eight till twelve, tickets selling for one dollar per couple or stag. Women will be admitted free and be admitted to the balcony for twenty-five cents.

Murray College Wins First KIAC

Union Downs Eagles For Only Upset

The Murray State Teachers College Thoroughbreds, after many years of valiant effort, won their first KIAC basketball tournament at Richmond, Kentucky, Saturday night, March 1. They copped the coveted Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Conference crown by downing their arch rival, the Western Hilltoppers, in a rip-roaring semi-final upset 41-32 and then repeating the performance by dismounting the Union Bulldogs in the final 62-42.

Morehead State won their first-round tilt by defeating the University of Louisville 60-44, but were stopped in the quarter-finals by Union in a spectacular upset 50-40. Union Eagles were pre-tournament favorites to take all comers in the upper bracket, and meet Western in the finals or the championship game. Morehead is a been runner-up in the KIAC for the past two years, losing only to Western.

Complete results of the tournament are as follows:

First-round results: Union 51, Centre 38; Morehead 60, U. of L. 44; Berea 40, Transylvania 35.

Quarter-final results: K e n t u c k y Wesleyan 41, Georgetown 44; Murray 64, Eastern 49; Union 50, Morehead 40; Western 53, Berea 33.

Semi-final results: Union 53, Wesleyan 32; Murray 41, Western 32.

Final result: Murray 62, Union 42.

Haggan Named To Head Red Cross

Blanche Waltz Is Executive Secretary

At a meeting of the Executive Board of the Rowan County Chapter, American Red Cross, held Thursday night, March 6, President H. C. Haggan, head of the Agriculture Department at Morehead College, was named Chapter Chairman to succeed Dave C. Caudill. Mrs. Blanche Waltz was named Executive Secretary to succeed Mrs. Rena Wells; Miss Grace Ford, Production Chairman and Mrs. W. H. Rice, Chairman of Naval and Military Service.

At a mass meeting of members of the Rowan County Chapter held some time ago, the Executive Board was elected to serve for the ensuing year. The Board consists of Robert Bishop, Secy.; Mrs. Beulah Williams, Treas.; Mrs. Dorothy Caudill, Mrs. Cecil Conley, Glenn Lane; Judge I. E. Pelfrey; W. T. McClain; C. E. Price; C. P. Duley; Rev. Mattingly; Miss Mary Ingley, and W. H. Rice.

The Board will release a statement next week stating the aims and purposes of the organization for the coming year.

The next meeting of the organization will be held Thursday night, March 21, at which time a representative from the national headquarters will be present to help in work out a program of activity for the year, according to the national organization. The local Red Cross is not permitted to function as a local relief agency, but rather as a disaster agency, in such as service fires, floods, tornadoes, etc.

Symphonic Choir Program, March 2

One Of Best Groups In Music World

Ohio State University's Symphonic Choir which comes to Morehead for a concert on Tuesday, March 4, is highly recommended to local music-lovers by fellow directors and critics in other cities where they have already heard.

After a recent engagement at Otterbein College, Westerville, O., Dr. L. C. Stechman, director of music education at that institution, said: "The splendid concert was a real treat and one of the best program of musical events which has left a lasting impression on students and faculty alike. The program was sufficiently varied to appeal to a large audience, yet balanced so as to give a sense

WE CROWN A KING AND QUEEN TONIGHT!!

Tonight for the eighth consecutive year a king and queen of Morehead's annual Winter Carnival will be crowned by the president of the college.

Who the reigning monarchs are, we do not know. We can but guess.

Whoever they may be, we are sure they will be aware of the honor that is bestowed on them.

Whoever they may be, we are sure the students will accept them, as always, as the choice of the majority of the student body.

And whoever they may be, we offer our congratulations, on receiving one of the highest honors it is possible to attain at Morehead.

Congratulations, king and queen of the eighth annual Winter Carnival!!

WE COME TO PRAISE

We come to praise the Social Committee this week instead of the usual panning. If there is one organization that receives outstanding criticism, it is the Social Committee.

Perhaps, if we, as students, realize that the committee like any other, labors under certain difficulties is presenting the social program, we might better understand its problems. Like any other organization, financial worries are not least of all. The Social Committee is allowed a certain sum for the activities for the entire year. They must manage well and wisely in order to furnish a well-rounded program. Their income has been strengthened somewhat in the past few weeks by the installation of the jupe-box in the cafeteria.

There is not a profit making organization. What they do is for the students alone. They spend much of their time and energy planning programs for us.

We praise the Social Committee...this week.

MOREHEAD—THE FRIENDLY SCHOOL

"Boost Morehead as the friendly school," one of our alumni said the other day.

"Do let people who are away from our campus know that Morehead is the friendliest school in the state. You don't realize how terrible it makes one feel to walk across a campus and meet hundreds of students, but none to speak to. I know, "as I am now doing graduate work." I've spoken to perfect strangers sometimes, just in hope that one will return a greeting. All to no avail. How different it is up here. Everyone knows everyone else, and yells 'Hi!' and 'Hello' despite how much or little they are acquainted with them."

We do realize this. Just try to start out in a gloomy mood, soar on the world. No form can long withstand the barrage of smiles and greetings fellow students exchange on the Morehead campus.

And we admit the barrier between faculty and students, by which we are already gaining recognition, we can prondly say, "We're just one big happy family at Morehead College," or "the friendly school."

"TASTES IN READING"

It has been stated by an eminent authority that "fewer than two people in a hundred read magazines of the type of Harper's, Scribner's, or the Atlantic Monthly." Once out of school the high school graduate tends to let books alone. If his reading tastes have not been properly developed in the grades, there is a great burden placed upon him when he goes to college. The writer holds no belief against the "movies." However, he does feel that more time should be given to reading by the screen. Reading today is merely a process of extracting meaning from the printed symbols. Words are colorless, soundless groups of letters. Need supplies. The "movies" are making of our youth an ear-minded and eye-minded race of people. This is the easy way to grow intelligently. The good reader must deal with abstruse symbols on the printed page which exercise requires one to deal with the concepts, ideas. One can neither hear an idea, taste, smell or see it, but an idea must be gotten not so much through the sense organs of mind and soul. The reader has the ability to think on the abstract level. Perhaps we can best illustrate what we must add something to our program of the movies by giving a simple, elevated program of reading which will warrant us in expending much improved, permanent taste in reading.

NEW SCIENTIFIC BOOKS ACQUIRED BY OUR COLLEGE LIBRARY

One of the fields that the library of Morehead State Teachers College is trying to get a good collection in, is the Scientific field. Therefore, a number of the newest books acquired by our library in that field. They are as follows:

1. Harvey, H. Newton (Living Light). Princeton University Press.

Mr. Harvey's book opens with a brilliant chapter on "cold light" in general, then examines in the many different types of luminescence including that which is produced in the production of living light and in what way. Then some chapters dealing with light-produced organisms, which are produced in a most wonderful way, the chemistry of light production; the physiology of light production; and the physical nature of animal light. In the last chapter are dicta on the relative intensity, quality, and efficiency of animal light.

2. Bell, E. T. (The Development of Mathematics.) McCraw Hill Book Company.

The author presents in this important book a broad account of the part played by mathematics in the evolution of civilization, describing clearly the main principles, methods, and theories of mathematics that have survived, from 4000 B. C. to date.

3. Osborn, Frederic (Preface To Eugenics.) Harper & Brothers Publishers.

Preface To Eugenics is a brilliant discussion of an important subject, written by a distinguished authority in the field. Years of research have been devoted to it, and the collaboration of many experts, including leading figures in population study, outstanding sociologists, psychologists, a n d geneticists. The author begins with a discussion of the significance of genetic inheritance, following this with a statement of the psychological and sociological aspects of a eugenic movement.

THINK ON THESE THINGS

By REV. B. H. KAZEE

The Bible is the newest and oldest of books. It surveys the whole field of time, and it looks the farthest into the infinite fields of eternity. It lends the most valid and absorbing interest to the scenes and events of the past, and keeps us in the most active sympathy with the times in which we live. It gives us the most reliable record of what has been, and affords us our only means of knowing what is to be. It is so conservative as to make us study and revere the past, and it is so progressive as to keep us far in advance of the most enlightened age. It is strict enough to denounce the very shadow and semblance of sin, while liberal enough to save the chiefest of sinners. It is full of God and therefore must be read with a pure heart or the true glory will never be seen. It is full of man and therefore must be interesting and instructive to all who would know themselves.

The Bible is the plainest of books, and if has the depths of wisdom which no created man can fathom. It is set up as a beacon to shew the wanderer his way home, and yet its light shines forth from the deepest clouds of mysteries and from the abyss of infinite darkness. It describes all the conditions of life, and gives utterance to all the emotions and desires of the soul. It has a song of triumph for the visitor and a wail of defeat for the vanquished. It sparkles with the fervor and gladness of youth, it celebrates the strength and glory of manhood, while bewailing the sorrows and infirmities of old age. It exalts the mighty deeds of kings a n d conquerors, it sympathizes with poor and lowly, lifts up the fallen, delivers the oppressed, and breathes the blessings of peace upon the home of domestic life. It describes with startling clearness the seductions of temptations, the conflicts of doubt and unbelief or skepticism. It searches the secret chamber of the heart, brings to light the purest love and darkest hate, its highest joys and its deepest grief. It compasses the loftiest range of thought and feeling and sounds, and it sounds the utmost depth of emotion and character and passion.

EAGLE BROODINGS

(By BILL HOGGE)

BASEBALL REVIVAL: This spring right after K. E. A., Morehead College will be represented on the baseball diamond for the first time since the advent of the Johnson-Miller regime here at the College. This sport gradually faded out of the sports curriculum the last year or two nearly every college has of nearly all colleges here in the state, but in formed a team. In another part of the Trail Blazer you will find a complete story about the team and the prospects.

REGIONAL TOURNAMENT: The 16th Regional High School basketball tournament will probably be held here this next week-end. It has been here for as long as the writer can remember and from all indications it will return again this season. Each year, the boys have been housed in the dormitories (boys.) This gives the college quite a bit of publicity and if the students on the campus meet the visitors half-way it will further the success of the tournament a great deal.

STUDENT DANCE: It is too late to do any good (or harm) in the election of the King a n d Queen of the Winter Carnival which is to be held tonight, so no one can get more at us for lauding the work of Stew Sagaert in putting on the campaign dance held in the Cafeteria's last Tuesday night. It is something that should be continued, and in the same manner as was used this last week.

NO WATER CARNIVAL: We certainly miss the Water Carnival this year. It seems that the Water Carnival is not complete without it. Last year it was a big success and helped in part to pay for the orchestra that played at the dance. Next year we would like to see this part of the festivities brought back to life. We hope it is.

MURRAY THANKS MURRAY: It seems to the writer that Murray invited itself to the National Collegiate Basketball Tournament this year and then accepted the invitation Carlisle Cowdin, Coach of Murray, is the director for this area of the National Basketball Council and has charge of the inviting of the teams that go to take up the bracket for this tournament. He also invited Wyatt on the team Murray beat last week in the KIAC.

PARTING THOUGHT: We certainly feel sorry for Mr. Vinyet, the guardian angel of the Auditorium, after the rally that was held there last Monday night.

SMILE, FOR TO-MORROW YOU MAY BE DEAD.

I LIKED THIS

Inexperienced, demure,
Shy, unsullied, sweet and pure;
All this you, 'tis plain to see,
Of necessity must be.
Losing up, naive surprise
Showing in blue startled eyes
As the prof, with proper care
Lays the facts of life quite bare.
You will pardon me if I
Smile at you, so sweet and shy;
You can fool the rest, no doubt,
But my roommate took you out.

QUESTION: What do you think about smoking in the classroom building?

ANSWERS:

The buildings are fire-proof; there is not any danger.
—Jack Bartram.

I think it is alright in the halls but not in the rooms.
—Bill Cooper.

I smoke opium, I don't care what they do about tobacco.
—Bill Blackburn.

I'm against it, but I think they should provide a place for the students to smoke.
—Ralph Holbrock.

I can see no particular point against it except it looks bad.
—Edwin Stewart.

I don't think they should smoke in the building, if they want to smoke, they can while going from one hall to another. If they have classes in the same building all morning, they can go to the men's room.
—H. M. Thompson.

If more new rules are placed upon the student body such as the $1.00 for radios and smoking in buildings there is going to be a great deal inf hard-feeling between the students and the administration.
—Gentry Smith.

I think it should be entirely personal.
—Bob Warden.

We tobacco fiends must have our nicotine. Does it matter where we get it?
—Milton Compton.

It goes against the dignity of the school. It should be confined to the outside.
—Lloyd Cassidy.

I think it should be allowed.
—Martha Ewing.

I think it's alright if the students want it.
—Georgia Collins.

I don't think the stubs look very good but that could be provided for.
—Amy Welischar.

CREDITOR: "Can you pay me that five dollars you owe me?"
DEBTOR: "Yes, if you will further refuse to let his younger daughter, Bianca, whom Lucentio, and Gremio and Hortensio, all wish to wed, marry until the elder daughter, Kate, a frightful shrew, is married. Into the dolemma steps a rough and ready soldier of fortune, Petruchio, who frankly admits he is looking for a rich wife. He dismisses Kate's rude refusal of marriage, sweeps her off her feet, and marries her. On the pretense that he is defending the bride, Petruchio is late to his wedding, steals the bride away to his country place, beats the servants for serving bad food, refuses to let the hungry bride eat.

Meanwhile Lucentio changes places with his servant, and wins the sweet Bianca from his rivals.

Kate meekly submits to the cave-man tactics of her husband, and lets him win a bet that his wife is more obedient than the wives of his friends. The play closes with her giving an oration on the duty of obeying husbands.

CREDITOR: "Oh, you don't need any receipt. Just pay me and it will be alright."

DEBTOR: "Is that so? Well, listen. If I should die and go to heaven without that receipt, and St. Peter starts checking up on me, and doesn't want to take my word,about payment, I don't want to have to chase all over hell looking for you."

Avon Players Will Present Shakespearian Play Mar. 24

Above is a scene from Shakespeare's greatest comedy, "The Taming Of the Shrew," which will be given in the college auditorium Monday, March 24, by the Avon Players. A matinee performance of "The Taming Of the Shrew" will be given at 2:15 p. m., and "Hamlet" will be presented at 7:30 in the evening by the group. The Avon Players are being brought to Morehead under the auspices of the English department.

The play deals with a father refusing to let his younger daughter, Bianca, whom Lucentio, and Gremio and Hortensio, all wish to wed, marry until the elder daughter, Kate, a frightful shrew, is married. Into the dolemma steps a rough and ready soldier of fortune, Petruchio, who frankly admits he is looking for a rich wife.

Meanwhile Lucentio changes places with his servant, and wins the sweet Bianca from his rivals.

Famous Minister To Appear Here In Convocation

Townspeople Invited To Hear Dr. Kirby Page

Dr. Kirby Page, world-renowned author, evangelist and lecturer, will appear at convocation Thursday, March 13th, according to Dr. F. B. Miller, chairman of the College assembly committee.

KIRBY PAGE

Dr. Page has spoken at three hundred colleges and universities over the nation including the University of Virginia, Harvard, the University of Southern California, Stanford, and others. He will come to Morehead from California.

Dr. Miller and other College authorities are cordially inviting townspeople to hear his lecture on "What Kind of A World Could Be Created If Christians Were Really Christians?"

Bulletin!

Kirby Page will speak at the Breckinridge auditorium, Thursday evening, at eight o'clock. Students and townspeople are cordially invited.

Thursday afternoon, Mr. Page will hold conferences in the Administration building for all who are interested.

Dr. Luther A. Weigle, Dean of the Yale University Divinity School said of the speaker to be here: "Page has taught two courses here at Yale. The students found him an exceedingly stimulating teacher and a very helpful counselor. I regard him as one of the most clear-sighted men in his field—that of the practical application of Christian ethics to current problems."

SPORT SPOTS

By WALTER CARR

Union's defeat of Morehead was the only major upset in the KIAC tournament.

Playing one less game, the players in the KIAC scored more points than the players in the Southwestern tournament.

Morehead had the smallest team in the tournament, Western the largest and Murray the best.

Five Western players fouled out in the Murray game, four were starters.

Campbell of Centre was the tallest player in the tournament, George Wiggins of Morehead was the smallest.

McKell of Murray was my choice for the best player in the tourney.

My personal opinion as well as that of several others, was that the officiating in the tournament was terrible.

When Wiggle left the floor after the Louisville game he received the largest ovation any player received during the entire tournament.

I am still wondering how Haines, Murray guard, was left off the All-Tournament team.

For excitement, color and spirit, the KIAC has it all over the Southeasterners.

The Union cheering section showed fine sportsmanship by giving the Murray team a rousing cheer while they were being presented with the winners trophy.

The Murray team was the best looking team in their uniforms that I have ever seen.

Murvel Hall Is Awarded BS Degree

James Murvel Hall, of Clearfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bethel Hall has just been awarded a Bachelor of Science Degree in Civil Engineering by Indiana Technical College of Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Mr. Hall is a graduate of Morehead High School with the class of 1936. He has been in Fort Wayne for the past three years. His degree now qualifies him to accept employment in the field of design and manufacture of radio transmitting and receiving equipment, public address sy tems or sound motion picture and television apparatus.

Mr. Hall is in Morehead now for a short visit with friends and relatives before returning to Fort Wayne to consider acceptance of the position offered him by school authorities.

It's simple logic! You get nothing from a cigarette until you light it. For the qualities you enjoy are in the smoke itself. The smoke's the thing.

And those qualities depend considerably upon the way your cigarette burns.

Camels burn slower—definitely. That's a well-established scientific finding. That means Camels give you extra mildness, extra coolness, extra flavor.

Now science confirms another important advantage of slower burning—extra freedom from nicotine in the smoke! And the smoke's the thing!

Agriculture Club Presents Jamboree

"Lazy Jim" Day Is Featured Artist

"LAZY JIM" DAY

Lazy Jim Dey, homespun humorist and sage of Short Cree, Ky., is looking forward to seeing lots of old friends and many new ones, when he appears in person at the College Auditorium, Monday evening, March 10, at seven-thirty. The program is being presented under the auspices of local Agriculture and Industrial Arts Clubs.

Although heard for only two years on America's greatest rural radio show—the WLW Boone County Jamboree; Lazy Jim Day is considered America's most versatile rural radio star. Spinning yarns, and telling humorous stories in style all his own, are not the only accomplishments of the sage of Short Creek, Kentucky; the cross-roads village in Kentucky where Lazy Jim Day goes home to visit his folks, on infrequent days off from a heavy radio and personal appearance schedule.

Home-folks all over the country listen to Lazy Jim Day at 6:15 (E.S.T.) every morning except Sunday, when he plays the guitar, and "Sings the News," as sent in by his fans. They are always on the look-out for an unusual news item to relay to Jim via Uncle Sam's postal service.

Lazy Jim Day is also an excellent square-dance caller; and even jig-dances himself. So it's no wonder Lazy Jim is such a popular figure with rural radio listeners, and city folks, as well.

Admission will be twenty cents for children and forty cents for adults.

Morehead Host To Missionary Women.

The Morehead Christian Church will be host to the Eighth District of Christian Missionary Societies, Thursday, March 13th. This District is composed of Churches in Powers, Mason, Fleming, Bath, and Elliott Counties.

It is expected that more than one hundred representatives will attend the meeting. They will assemble in the Church for the all-day meeting, and will have lunch in the private dining room of the College Cafeteria.

An interesting program has been planned for the day. Among those who will speak are the following: Mrs. O. S. Murphy, author; Miss Mary Barrin, Missionary of India; Mrs. J. T. Sullivan, children's worker; Miss E t h e l Estill, Youth Worker, and Miss June Stanley, State Missionary Secretary.

Mrs. T. O. Perati is in charge of local arrangements. Others who will have membership in parts locally are Mrs. Arthur Blair and Mrs. A. R. Landolt.

First Sunday Recital Lauded By Horton

(By L. H. HORTON)

A numerous and appreciative audience attended the first Sunday vesper recital to be presented at Morehead State Teachers College. Interpreting the Kreutzer Sonata by Ludwig von Beethoven, Keith Davis, violin, and Neville Fincel, piano, inaugurated the series last Sunday afternoon at four, in the college auditorium. Mr. Davis, who teaches violin and directs the college orchestra, gave a very artistic reading of this great master work, while Mr. Fincel, who like John Erskine specializes in an academic field but rates as high as a pianist, gave him splendid support at the keyboard.

Since coming to Morehead six years ago, Mr. Davis has impressed school and community with his artistry and scholarship, and his capacity for hard work. Morehead may be justly proud of one who is so effective in his field; so accomplished a performer, and so cultured a person.

This series of recitals comes into being through his personal initiative, and will continue with concerts of orchestral music and solo performances by students and faculty of the Department of Music, supplemented by choral and instrumental ensembles.

The University of Kentucky has had an annual program of Sunday vesper concerts for many years and the auditorium of Memorial Hall has in recent years proved too small for the potential attendance, so that many are turned away each Sunday, and early arrival is imperative in order to secure a seat. Morehead has this complication to look forward to anticipate at some future time.
