ILLITERATES TO BE TAUGHT 3 R'S BEFORE DRAFT

Kentucky Commission Will Supervise Instructions of Eligibles, Volunteers Offering Services

FRANKFORT, Ky., June 22.—Illiterates eligible for selective draft will be taught reading and writing and arithmetic under the supervision of the Kentucky Illiteracy Commission. Moonlight schools throughout the State will be started next week. Miss Tillie Mae Pfeffer, of this county, teaching at Fox Gap, will open a moonlight school next week for the instruction of illiterates subject to draft and her lead will be followed by Miss Pauline Rose, of Maysville. Other teachers have notified Mrs. Cora Wilma Stewart, chairman of the Kentucky Illiteracy Commission, that they expect to open schools for the same purpose.

Volunteers to assist in carrying on this work are offering their assistance and the volunteers who have offered services for office work are Paul Mesher, Mrs. Harris, Miss Betty Harris, Miss Anna Tussey, Miss Ida Tussey; Miss Rodman, J. A. McLaughlin, Miss Christine McEwan, Miss Ethel Kirtley and Miss Gresham Payne, all of this city.

The volunteers who have offered their services throughout the State follow: Brent Dickinson and Miss Annie Bryan, of Glasgow; L. P. Foster and Miss Winfrey, of Hopkinsville; Mrs. O. P. Roemer, Bowling Green; Miss Laura Ross, Franklin; Miss Lelia Mae Sitterly, of Elizabethtown; John W. Douglas, of Owen- ton; Dr. C. P. Creasleft and J. S. Cooley, Falmouth; Miss Joseph Rupert, of Frankfort; R. W. Kincade, Owingsville; Miss Kate Bohannon, Stanton; Mrs. Henry M. Cox and Mrs. Rus Hunt, West Liberty; D. M. Conley and Mrs. George M. Atkinson, Louisa; Miss Pansy Brown, Paintsville; Miss Anna Pouge, Mrs. O. O. Eaton and Miss Josephine Ogden, Ashland; Mrs. W. H. Coffman, Georgetown; Miss Ella Lewis, Leitch- field; Miss Mayme McGill, Frankfort; Miss Ida Sutton, Versailles; R. E. Jaggers, Munfordville, and W. H. Pinkley, Flippin.