Chandler Gives Endorsement To Senator Barkley

Chief Executive Urges Voters To Support Nominee In November 8 Election

Gov. A. B. Chandler, speaking in behalf of Senator Alben W. Barkley who defeated him for the Democratic Senatorial nomination, Saturday urged the Democrats of Kentucky to support Barkley in the November 8 election.

Gov. Chandler followed Joe B. Bates, democratic nominee for Congress from the Eighth Kentucky district in a county which the Governor defeated Barkley in the primary. The Governor, pointing to many years friendship for Mr. Bates and lauding the ability and integrity of the Greenup Countian, urged the people of the Eighth District to also give him an overwhelming majority.

The Governor warned that "lack of interest in the Democratic election is the only danger" and urged the voters to go to the polls next month.

Chandler told his audience that "my personal disappointment is not important. The unity of the Democratic party is all that matters."

The Governor reviewed the work of his administration and said that he had cut the state debt so that "when I left Frankfort it was only $10,000,000."

Incorporation Of West Morehead Delayed By Court

Some Light Thrown On Probable Outcome By Madisonville Decisions

The annexation of three thousand persons, residing in a radius of one-eighth mile of Madisonville, Ky., may throw some light on the Morehead incorporation plan which is now in local courts.

The annexation of this area at Madisonville corresponds in many respects to the Morehead annexation. On July 12 the city council voted to extend the city limits at Madisonville. An injunction was filed against the incorporation in Circuit court and on October 21 Circuit Judge H. Wilson dismissed the injunction and paved the way for annexation.

Mutters Resigns Position As Rowan County Game Warden

Morehead Man Says Court Has Not Been Cooperating With Him In Work

Charging that Rowan County's courts are playing politics with justice Game Warden Bob Mutters said this morning that he had tendered his resignation to the Kentucky Game and Fish Commission.

Mutters, who has a record of 80 arrests in the last six months, declared that after he had arrested people for violating the fish and game laws the courts did as they pleased and several times had turned people loose when the evidence against them was overwhelming.

According to Mutters, the specific incident that brought about his resignation occurred last week when Claude Evans, prominent merchant at Farmers was released after he had arrested him for buying squirrels. "The courts let the big fellows go and stick little ones," declared the warden.

A protest to the Fish and Game Commission is being prepared by the Licking Valley Fish and Game Protective Association, officers said this morning.

Fish And Game Club Sees Moving Pictures

Moving pictures of deep sea fishing were shown Tuesday at a well attended meeting of the Licking Valley Fish and Game Association, Earl May, president, presided.

The club urged Bob Mutters, who resigned his work as warden, to reconsider his action. Mutters' work since he took the warden's place was praised highly.

We Won't Be Caught Napping - Says Coach Johnson

The Morehead College Eagles, victorious by 21-0 over a stubborn Transylvania eleven last Saturday, are determined to keep up their engagement with an old rival the Eastern Maroons in a game to be played at Richmond Saturday afternoon.

Physically, the Eagles should be in better shape for the Eastern scrap than they have been since the opening game. Custer "Bull" of the Buckhorn Reynolds, who has been on the injured list should be back in the Morehead lineup for Saturday's melee while Harry Lowman, another slippery back, is again in shape. A half dozen other players who have been nursing less serious injuries will be able to play against the Maroons.

Under a non-scouting agreement between K. I. A. C. teams coaches of Eastern and Morehead have not seen each other play, nor do they have a line on what to expect. Ellis Johnson, Morehead's mentor said today that "Eastern must have a season to Eastern and Harry Lowman has a defensive record of not allowing an enemy to score."

Many See Bates, Who Holds Open House

Congressman Joe B. Bates, given the distinction here last week by County Attorney Lester Hogg as "the man who already holds a record for the most elections won in one year" and who will score another sweeping victory in the November 8 election," held open house here all day Wednesday at the courthouse.

Mr. Bates met a large number of voters from all sections of the county, taking up their problems and discussing the forthcoming election. He said that it will be difficult for me to fill the shoes of my predecessor, Fred Vinson, but you will find that I am a Congressman who shall take your problems to Washington and do everything within my power to aid the constituents of my district," declared Congressman Bates in introducing Senator Barkley.

Congressman Bates holds the distinction of receiving the largest majority ever given a Democratic candidate in this county, running up a majority of 128 in the August primary over four other candidates. Mr. Bates also received the endorsement of County Chairman Hogg in the special convention at Ashland in June.

Long Run By Fair, Blocked Punt and Stanley's Pass To Kiser Proves Difference

A long run by Donald Fair, a blocked kick and an aerial from the field to Ed Kiser, the play that called into the waiting arms of Ed Kiser proved the difference between Morehead and Transylvania in football. The Eagles smashed their way to a 21-0 K. I. A. victory.

Morehead's superiority was unquestioned, however. The Transy team, which had been pointing for the Teachers, contested every inch of the way. In spite of Transy's excellent play, given the score might have been in the thirties except for a couple of breaks enjoyed by the Pioneers. In the second quarter "Jug" Varney, the State's high scorer broke loose for 48 yards and an apparent touchdown but the play was called back because of a clipping penalty. Late in the game Buck Horton intercepted a pass on his own 50, saw he was cornered and tossed a lateral to Ed Kiser, who was one yard before he was run out of bounds. A score appeared certain but on the next play Stanley fumbled but the Pioneers recovered.

The closest that Transy came to scoring was in the first quarter when they put together four first downs on a sustained yard march to go to Morehead's 23. The Eagles took the ball over at this point and on that point the Pioneers crossed the 50 yard stripe but once.

Warning To WPA Employees Is Released

Arthur Gamble, Director, Says Men Must Not Use Wages For Foolishness

Works Progress Administration employees who spend their wages for liquor and gambling and fail to provide for their families will be subject to dismissal, according to a general announcement directed to all Kentucky WPA workers by Arthur Gamble, director of the Paintsville, Ky. district.

Mr. Gamble's announcement warned all WPA workers that attention to numerous complaints received by his office of the September Boyd county grand jury which verbally condemned the actions of the part of Boyd county WPA workers. In their report the Boyd county grand jurors stated that "they were shocked at the large number of persons, wives of WPA workers, who appeared before them to present evidence of drinking, gambling and other support of families."

In his announcement Mr. Gamble says that "although it has never been the policy of the WPA officials to attempt to check any individual performance of families, some complaints will hereafter be investigated and, if the facts warrant, the individual performance may be cancelled and he may be released from the project."

Mr. Gamble's statement in full follows:

"To all Project Employees:

"This office received frequent complaints relative to the manner in which certain WPA employees spend their money. Some of these reports reach us that some members on our projects fail to support their families and that some waste their money on drinking liquor and gambling. It has been called to our attention by county officials that numbers of our workers are performing poorly in the way of their families. We do feel, however, in view of the above complaints, that in justice to the taxpayers of the country we should take measures to insure that money received as WPA wages is used for the support of the worker's family.

"To accomplish this, hereafter all such complaints regarding non-support and improper use of money received as wages will be referred to the county officials, and if the facts warrant, action will be recommended which may result in cancellation of the individual's certification of the WPA. WPA employment, and his release from the project.

Teachers Receive Checks For October Salaries

Due since October 1, checks totaling $1,297,703 and representing the state's October per capita installment are expected to be mailed to the various school districts to day for payment of salaries to some 18,600 to 20,000 teachers.

The delay in payment was caused by lack of funds in the general expenditure fund of which the money for the schools must come. State Treasurer John E. Buckingham said the cash in the fund totaled $1,500,000 when the warrant for the per capita arrived today.

Little Interest Shown In Nov. 8 Election

Flickerings of interest in the election, however, now less than two weeks off, were evident here this week, but politicians agree that it will be a quiet balloting with a light vote probable.

The speech of Senator W. Barkley who was introduced by Congressman Bates here Wednesday was the first shot from the election. Congressman Bates will be here Saturday evening, November 5 for an address in the courthouse. It is following the plan of his predecessor, Fred M. Vinson, who addressed Rowan County voters the Saturday evening prior to the election.

Republicans have announced no campaign and will probably have no speakers here prior to the election. Politicians generally agree that the G. O. P. has no chance to defeat either Senator Barkley or Congressman Bates for this election. There has been little interest here in the election.

ANNOUNCE FOR Board of Education. TO OUR FRIENDS AND CITIZENS OF ROWAN COUNTY. I take this method of announcing my candidacy as member of the Rowan County Board of Education. I cannot boast of previous experience as a board member but believe 21 years of experience as a teacher very well qualifies me for the position. If elected I promise to vote in every instance to hire the teacher who has been properly recommended by the Sub-district trustees, thus restoring the right of the trustee to recommend and to have a voice in saying who shall teach in the rural school in the community in which he is so totally interested. I do not believe it is right to consolidate our schools against the wish of the people and to that end I shall fight against such consolidation. Some responsible citizen in each of the four Consolidated School Districts should be the contractor for hauling the school children and when the next contract is let I believe it should be let as four separate contracts to the lowest bidder in each Consolidated district. If elected I pledge to the people of Rowan County that I will do all within my power to make you a honest, efficient Board member and will use my office to forward the advancement of education in Rowan County to the fullest extent possible. Respectfully Submitted, ORVILLE J. CARTER.

TO THE VOTERS OF ROWAN COUNTY. While absent from home during last week, some of my friends having the interest of the schools at heart, circulated a petition placing my name on the ballot as a candidate for Member of the Board of Education. Believing that it is the duty of every good citizen to respond when the people call I have decided to accept the nomination. I herewith submit some of the things for which I stand, and I shall endeavor to accomplish, should I be selected on this Board. 1st. I believe the schools should be operated for the children, and not for the advancement of those in office. For this reason I favor the location of schools near enough to the homes of the county that the children may be able to attend. 2nd. I was formerly a teacher, and from my personal experience I believe the schools should have the active support of the districts and to this end I shall favor every effort to see that suitable Trustees are selected and these by the vote of the people of the districts as they know better than any other who can best serve their interests. 3rd. In Rowan County, consolidation of the schools in all grades can not be carried off successfully. While I realize that those students entering high school may find it necessary to transfer to one of the County High Schools, I am not in favor of tearing up the schools where it will work a handicap on any child in the county. In making this race, I have no interest except the welfare of the teachers and the children of the county. I shall make no requests for money from any one, and I am opposed to the assessment of teachers in the county for the purpose of creating a slush fund to finance the campaign of any member of the Board. Many of our teachers are doing work worthy of praise, but their efforts could be redoubled if they could have assurance that they would be under no compulsion to "fly Politics". I am opposed to our teachers being required or even requested to work at the polls on election day for certain candidates for Board members, and I believe it is the duty of every right thinking man and woman to discourage it with your vote. I am not making this race for any individual or any group. Every good citizen should be on the alert and should give to the men who fighting the battle for their children, every possible assistance. Respectfully yours, DR. H. L. WILSON.

I cannot boast of previous experience as a board member but believe 21 years of experience as a teacher very well qualifies me for the position. If elected I promise to vote in every instance to hire the teacher who has been properly recommended by the Sub-district trustees, thus restoring the right of the trustee to recommend and to have a voice in saying who shall teach in the rural school in the community in which he is so totally interested. I do not believe it is right to consolidate our schools against the wish of the people and to that end I shall fight against such consolidation. Some responsible citizen in each of the four Consolidated School Districts should be the contractor for hauling the school children and when the next contract is let I believe it should be let as four separate contracts to the lowest bidder in each Consolidated district. If elected I pledge to the people of Rowan County that I will do all within my power to make you a honest, efficient Board member and will use my office to forward the advancement of education in Rowan County to the fullest extent possible. Respectfully Submitted, ORVILLE J. CARTER.

TO THE VOTERS OF ROWAN COUNTY. While absent from home during last week, some of my friends having the interest of the schools at heart, circulated a petition placing my name on the ballot as a candidate for Member of the Board of Education. Believing that it is the duty of every good citizen to respond when the people call I have decided to accept the nomination. I herewith submit some of the things for which I stand, and I shall endeavor to accomplish, should I be selected on this Board. 1st. I believe the schools should be operated for the children, and not for the advancement of those in office. For this reason I favor the location of schools near enough to the homes of the county that the children may be able to attend. 2nd. I was formerly a teacher, and from my personal experience I believe the schools should have the active support of the districts and to this end I shall favor every effort to see that suitable Trustees are selected and these by the vote of the people of the districts as they know better than any other who can best serve their interests. 3rd. In Rowan County, consolidation of the schools in all grades can not be carried off successfully. While I realize that those students entering high school may find it necessary to transfer to one of the County High Schools, I am not in favor of tearing up the schools where it will work a handicap on any child in the county. In making this race, I have no interest except the welfare of the teachers and the children of the county. I shall make no requests for money from any one, and I am opposed to the assessment of teachers in the county for the purpose of creating a slush fund to finance the campaign of any member of the Board. Many of our teachers are doing work worthy of praise, but their efforts could be redoubled if they could have assurance that they would be under no compulsion to "fly Politics". I am opposed to our teachers being required or even requested to work at the polls on election day for certain candidates for Board members, and I believe it is the duty of every right thinking man and woman to discourage it with your vote. I am not making this race for any individual or any group. Every good citizen should be on the alert and should give to the men who fighting the battle for their children, every possible assistance. Respectfully yours, DR. H. L. WILSON.

CHAPTER ONE
On the second seat from the front of the coach, facing forward, two cowpunchers were hunkered down, apparently asleep. For it was night. Their backs were to the poker game. One being played across the aisle by three cowpunchers and a professor, the other a sional gambler on two upended suitcases.

blinking eyes. Cupped hands held a light. He crouched low on the floor, faced forward, leaned to the tender then crouched low.
"Let 'em know we're here," a voice growled from the ground behind. "You foot. Wait till we're inside. They'll slam that door shut on us and we can't blow 'em out. Wait'll 'Snipe and Chinch cut that passenger coach off."

Steadily the red-head made his way over the coal until he could see down into the engine cab. Two men and an engineer, who had been backed into one window seat. The red-head's action was quick.
He slid down the heaped coal, both guns roaring at the two bandits silhouetted against the fire-door. One man pitched his length on the floor plates and the other made a wild, crippled dash for the steps. The red-head heard him crawl on the ground.

The gambler's eyes narrowed a little as he watched the man light his already burning cigarette. Obviously served now, the gambler was still, his face quiet. He was perhaps in his early thirties.
A close observer might have noticed with surprise that the wrinkles around his eyes were of the kind that spiderwebbed from the outer corners, sun-wrinkles, instead of the kind that pounced the lower lids.

"What did the brakie say to that second cowpuncher, seated next to the speaker, inquired innocently.
"The brakie, he said, 'It's a law, my friend. Not that I care, but I like to play poker on a train. I'd like to play with you.' And this passer Big Foot whips out a pack of cards and says, 'Now, ain't that fine? Set down.' The brakie sets down and they deal him a hand after he's bound in the game."

Get going, the red-head commanded briefly.
The engineer leaned against a lever which brought forth a rumbling shudder. The red-head dragged him off the fire-door and dumped him off the train.
There was a running fire of the train labored into motion, most of it directed toward the engine. Glass tanks on the floor, and the engineer swore wrathfully. The red-head sent a couple of shots into the night, then looked ahead as he did so for the top of the grade, which was close now.

"Well, when the brakie's job was cleaned, Big Foot says: 'Mebbe you'd like a loan?' real mean-like. The brakie says sure. They play for an hour, the brakie still lean. When they comes to 'Big Foot's' stop, he looks around. 'How much am I into you?' he says the brakie. Fifty dollars, ain't it?' The brakie says yes and Big Foot looks around the car. 'Danged if old Henry couldn't use these here plish chink buttons on that over-wagon of his,' Big Foot says. Well, almost everybody knew was freightin ore. He just helped himself to half the seats in that car."

"Let's play stud," the gambler said.
"I'm startin' a game of draw back. If anybody wants to buy in, he announces."
The chineless cowpuncher flushed but did not make a move. Finney had sent a couple of chips, nodded to the gambler and left, followed by his companion.
The gambler nodded also, then the door behind him open. He heard the door behind him open. He heard the door behind him open. He heard the door behind him open.

As they nosed over it, he turned and faced the engine crew. The men were gathering speed steadily as it swung over the top.
"What do you reckon is on his mind?"
"They're all there, I can tell by the way the pull's," the engineer said. He mopped the sweat from his brow with a shiny handkerchief.
"There was three mine payrolls in mine baggage-car safe, and if they don't give you one of 'em' now, then—"

"The second cowpuncher looked up. 'Hello, Hoagy. Like to sit in?'
"Me? Hoagy said, with well-feigned astonishment. 'Hell, no. I was never so busy in my life. You feelers go ahead and have your fun. He retreated, shaking his head sheepishly."
The gambler, seated next the aisle laughed silently at Hoagy's back. He built a cigarette with quick and sure fingers, shaking his head. His widest blue eyes roamed across the aisle to include the two cowpunchers in the joke, but they were still asleep. His eyes traveled to the one figure seated against the end of the car. He was only a surely faced cowpuncher looking out the window into the night. From a loose mouth a soft, steady stream of droppings, curling smoke up into air.

"The gambler's companion moved to the left, the gambler and picked up the cards.
"How about a showdown?" he asked.
The gambler shot his head back. "Finney's startin' a game of draw back if you still feel like it."
"You're a gambler ain't you?"
"When I'm at a table, yes."
The gambler looked across the aisle. When his eyes turned to the door he was staring into the steady muzzle of a Colt in the hands of the chineless.

The sentence went unfinished, for the red-head had waved carelessly and disappeared over the tender.
He made his way over the catwalk atop the baggage car to the far end swung down upon the platform. The door to the baggage car was open and he lounged at it.
"That's the rammy," some one said man loyng in the floor. One lamp had gone dimly overhead.
Hoagy Henshaw turned around. "How'd you know this stickup was comin' off?"
"I was tryin' to sleep and I see that paper in the seat ahead of me signalin' our train to the night watchman. He got up. I followed him out. He was tryin' to foolpooche the car."

"Once more," the cowpuncher said softly. "Let's you and me play cards, slowly."
From across the aisle a gun lanced fire, sending explosion. It was followed by a sharp cry from the cowpuncher who drew a bloody, gunless hand to his chest. The man was out of his seat like a shot and drove his fist into the face of the cowpuncher.
Turning, he saw a sleepy-eyed cowboy sittin' erect, a six-gun drooping across his knees, a slow grin creasing a long, lean face under rear-black hair.
When the red-head stepped out the train door on to the front platform the man squatting over the coupling from the platform of the baggage car ahead looked up. "Whoa!" the red-head drawled. "Hawdy! you ain't?" the man growled.
"Ain't" was the brief reply. The red-head lunged his even six feet of height against the crib of the car. Slowly, the man came erect, his eyes fixed on the shadow in the light of the turned-down lamp.
"I been watchin' you in there for the last ten minutes," the red-head said. "You is smokin'." You lit that cigarette eight times when he was jerked his head out toward the night. A shot rang out from inside the coach.
The train gave a sudden buck and the brakes screamed on. The red-head felt himself lifted from the wall. His hands streaked to his guns, swiveled up and exploded. The gambler felt himself lifted from the wall. His hands streaked to his guns, swiveled up and exploded. The gambler felt himself lifted from the wall. His hands streaked to his guns, swiveled up and exploded.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Written Each Week By B. H. KAZEE, Pastor of The Baptist Church

Subject: THE PERSONAL LIBERTY PROBLEM. Ecol. 2:13, 10, 11; Rom 6:12-14:21.

Golden Text: "What then? Shall we sin, because we are not under the law, but under grace? God forbid!" Romans 6:15.

Among the many arguments that led to the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and the return of legalized liquor to our nation, the argument concerning personal liberty and perhaps the strongest appeal to the masses.

The fallacy behind the argument as it was used, was of course the identification of personal liberty with personal license. Personal liberty, to the repealist, meant personal license to do as one pleased to throw one's life to the dogs. One can obtain nearly any license from the public if he will just put it under the head of personal liberty.

Under the momentum of this argument multitudes of people have turned themselves loose to drink, smoke and carouse and their lives are being wrecked. They call it freedom and "self expression." They say they want to live their own lives and to have their own way about the way in which they live. Apparently it never occurs to them that instead of being really free they are the worst kind of slaves—slaves to selfishness that instead of expressing their real selves they are expressing their worst selves.

According to Dr. H. W. Boyd, medical director of the Samaan Treatment, Los Angeles, "alcoholism among women is on the increase owing to the ease with which liquor can be obtained and the changing attitude of society toward those who drink. Housewives predominate—ratio 10 to 1." Similarly, Dr. W. R. Wallace of the Wallace Sanatorium, Memphis, Tennessee, reports: "Housewives preponderate among our patients, and I am impressed with the number of young married women who drink. Drinking women deteriorate more rapidly than men and are far more helpless and hopeless."

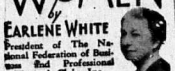

The preacher (Solomon) in the book of Ecclesiastes has given us timeless wisdom on this personal liberty problem. Wisdom is a free-press and a freedomist of the extreme modern type. "I said in my heart," he writes, "Go to now." And he went to France and fully he gave himself to mirth and laughter and wine. He turned himself loose, became free, took his fling, expressed himself as many young men do, and women are doing today. What did it all come to? Only this: "All was vanity and vexation of spirit, and there was no profit, and the end of the race. Real freedom belongs to a higher order.

The Christian is not under law, it is true, but Grace is far more binding. The liberty of Grace is not a license; it brings character that will do right without law. Therefore Grace is not a license to do as we please in the flesh, but to do as we please in the Spirit.

The Christian is not only under the law of doing what is right for himself, but also in the light of what effect he will have on others. Paul teaches that in his lesson on eating meats which cause his brother to stumble. Really, no man has a right to practice or propagate that which brings trouble and ruin to another. The only true law of life is "I am by brother's keeper."

Women are taking a different view of politics and political work in England, according to Marion Ryan, American journalist who has lived for some time in London. Their interest today is more practical and personal. And candidates do a great deal of canvassing themselves. They have candidates who surprised everybody but the agents who prepared the way for her, by being elected to parliament by a large majority. University graduates try to get into some party organization as soon as they leave college. They may do so for a secretaryship or some other post. They may take political knowledge which, it passed to them by the agent on the road to the States of Comings if that is her aim.

STUMP WATER IS GOOD FOR FRECKLES

Beautyicians may take a cue from the Federal Writers' Project for Kentucky, a branch of the W. P. A. Field Workers seeking data on folklore here have found that belles of earlier days well knew that beauty was only skin deep. As a "cure" for freckles girls were instructed to bathe their faces in water collected from an old tree stump, preferably an oak.

INDIAN SUMMER IS TIME WHEN IDIOTS ARE RAISED

Indian Summer gets its name from the fact that middle fall in pioneer days was the season in which the redskins practiced raids on Kentucky settlements and not because it is the time of pretty weather. Research by the Federal Writers' Guide, a branch of the WPA, has brought this to light from among a host of little known facts and fancies, customs and beliefs, and history about the State.

Business Guides

The popular idea of advertising is that it consists chiefly in the use of advertisements. More important than the preparation of the advertiser is the ability to understand the prospective customer's needs and to know how to make the most effective sales appeal may be made.

All of us are engaged in some form of selling every day. Perhaps you need no advertisement to sell yourself. When all is said and done, successful selling depends largely on the advertiser's ability to adapt himself to the peculiar circumstances of each situation and to handle with skill the numerous details that enter into it. This requires the use of observation, diplomacy, persistence, patience and a full knowledge of the commodity one is selling. Of course, there are also the rules for conducting interviews with an almost endless variety of human beings. The salesman, like the military general, must plan his campaign with the resources at his command.

Eulohism is the spark in the salesman's personality. It is the quality of ability that radiates outwardly from the face of the salesman who believes in himself and in the product he is selling. It is the quality that makes him believe in the product of his own sales. It is the quality that makes him believe in the product of his own sales. It is the quality that makes him believe in the product of his own sales.

Pattern 8198—Because the bolero has a shortening, widening effect, it's an ideal style for girls of the teen ages and just under. Besides, there's something about it that expresses the very spirit of youth and gaiety.

The skirt, with an action pleat in front, flares just a little. The blouse in shirtwaist style, with puff sleeves is very youthful and becoming. Pattern 8198 is designed for sizes 10, 12, 14 and 16 years. Size 12 requires 2 1/2 yards of 36 inch material. Bolero alone, 7/8 yard. Dress alone, with long sleeves, 2 7/8 yards. With short sleeves, 2 3/8 yards. Color and bias cuts in contrast require 3-8 yard.

Pattern 8279—Wear the dressier version of the popular apron when you want to look particularly appealing! The square neckline has a slightly irregular cut that makes it more becoming. The corsette effect in front gives you a tiny waist and the skirt flares and ripples with characteristic dainty femininity! Choose dotted Swiss, organdy, dimity or old-fashioned lawn, and trim it with black velvet ribbon, if you plan to wear it for afternoons. If you wear a standard rayon, calico, percale and gingham are best.

Pattern 8279 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14 requires 4 1/4 yards of 35 inch material; 10 yards of ribbon or braid to trim.

3 Comrades Is Feature At Cozy

For a free-fall street fight in "Three Comrades," which comes to the Cozy Theatre Sunday Oct. 30, Robert Taylor's clenched fists flew for two full days. On the studio's back lot, representing a village in Europe, Taylor, Franchot Tone, and Robert Young slugged in out with four specialists in pugilism—William Haube, Gordon Cravath, Freddie Graham and Norman Willis, representing rival auto repairmen. Haube is the 210 pound steel worker whom Norman Bel-Geddes jured from New York's skyscrapers two years ago to become an overnight sensation in the leading role of the stage play, "Trof Men." Four cameras recorded the fight from all angles as the three comrades battled it out with the slug-gers. Taylor caught a few stinging punches and Tone was slightly injured twice.

DESCRIBES INDOOR GROWING OF BULBS

The bulbs that are easiest to grow indoors are the narcissus, especially the paper-white, the common daffodil, hyacinth, tulip, and lily-of-the-valley. One can grow daffodils in the house in pots of soil. If wanted for spring blooms, plant them now but store them in a cold-frame where they will remain cool. Most bulbs need a dark, cool place and from 6 to 12 weeks to develop good roots. The narcissus can grow in a pot of sand or soil or bulb fiber. The paper-white narcissus bulbs will grow in a shallow bowl of pebbles with just enough water to feed the roots, preferably rain water. They will need from 4 to 5 weeks in cool semi-darkness.

One can have a succession of blooms all the way through the winter to Easter by sifting new bulbs every two weeks, says N. R. Elliott of the Kentucky College of Agriculture. Unpack all bulbs just as soon as they arrive, he says, keep them in a cool place, 50 to 55 degrees and put them as soon as possible. Put drainage pebbles in the bottom of the pot, then a little soil, and then gently press the soil around the bulb. Many people make the mistake of pressing the bulb into the soil. Water moderately after potting. Keep the pot in a box of moist sand in a dark, cool cellar for several weeks. A bulb plant that is all leaves with scarcely any roots is the result of starting in too warm a place.

Once the crocus are well established, bring the pot into a warmer and lighter place, do it gradually. Plunging a growing bulb from the dark cold storage room into a warm sunny window will often prevent it from flowering. Keep hyacinth

Rowan County To Pick All-State Football Team

Preliminary Survey Blanks Have Been Mailed Out By Courier-Journal

Every football coach in Kentucky has been asked to help pick the all-Eastern and All-Western high school football teams which will meet at Lexington in December as the first annual charity post-season encounter.

Preliminary survey blanks have been mailed by Earl Kido, the Courier-Journal sports editor, whose Kentucky High School All-State Board has been charged with the responsibility of selecting the two squads. The coaches have been asked to submit the names of the outstanding gladiators in their sections and also to name the coaches who will lead the two squads. Their observations on athletes will be carefully weighed by the board in its deliberations and their votes on the coaches will decide who the leaders will be.

The squads will number forty-four boys each. Of these forty-four, half will be chosen to participate in the charity game and the other half will serve as alternates. All coaches who will lead the two squads. Their observations on athletes will be carefully weighed by the board in its deliberations and their votes on the coaches will decide who the leaders will be.

Roy Holbrook, coach of Morehead's football team has been asked to make a selection.

Bulbs under the soil and must until the first of December. Then bring them to light and start the leaves up, and they will bloom for the holidays.

THE FARM AND HOME

To keep nut kernels from becoming rancid, keep them in an airtight container in a cool, dry place away from light. The flavor of nuts is largely dependent on the oils they contain, and these oils must be kept from becoming rancid.

Cheaper and cleaner eggs are produced if the flock is scolded until 10 o'clock in the afternoon, and all day when the weather is bad. A warm moist mash fed about noon each day encourages reproduction in the house in pots of soil. Three pounds per 100 hens is sufficient.

KENTON COUNTY HAS ABOUT 100,000 PEOPLE

Although Kenton County is one of the smallest in the State it ranks second in population. While making only 25 miles long and 12 miles wide and having only 104,320 acres, it has well over 100,000 noses to count at the next census taking the 1930 tab having shown the population figure to be 93,534. This is another of the little known facts about Kentucky being assembled by workers for the Federal Writers' Project, Works Progress Administration.

CITY OF FRANKFORT USED FOR CONVENIENCES Residents of other parts of Kentucky generally are of the opinion that the capital city of Frankfort long has been used to all conveniences. Contrary to this belief is the fact that Frankfort did not obtain the use of gas as fuel until 1918, although gas had been used for illumination there since 1848, a period of 67 years. BERRY AND ROONEY TEAMED TOGETHER BY POPULAR DEMAND

For the first time Wallace Berry and Mickey Rooney will appear together as a co-starring team in M-G-M's new picture, "Stablemates." The choice came about after studio officials had interviewed more than 1000 boys for the part of Mickey and after checking on as many letters from the public requesting the combination. While the part of Mickey had been specially written for young Mr. Rooney, as Berry's "sidekick" in the story about a race track, it was discovered, too late, that the boy would be busy in "Boys Town" during its production. Mickey himself settled the problem by offering to double in brass and work simultaneously in the two films.

It had been his boyhood ambition to appear with Mr. Berry. It seems never since he saw the actor in "The Champ." Now, when he had an opportunity, not only of co-starring with his hero, but of co-starting him in a race track story, he felt he could not pass the chance, even if he had to lose a little sleep to do it.

As a result, a friendship sprang up between the two "veterans," one still in his teens, the other with a screen career which had begun when the film industry was in swaddling clothes, which by strange coincidence was climaxed when Berry saved young Rooney from a serious accident.

It happened during a scene in which Rooney had to lead his mule back to the stable after a morning's workout on the track story, who has the part of a stablehand in the picture, was trailing along behind the pair when one of the large light reflectors on the set fell to the ground with a loud crash. It frightened the pair, who were a high in

A SUBSTANTIAL SCHOOL PROGRAM

We solicit your support in the election of November 8th. for members of the Rowan County Board of Education on the following platform:

- 1. To incur no new indebtedness and to attempt to pay off as much as possible of the old indebtedness.
2. To improve the rural school buildings in this County and to foster the continuance of the educational growth of the rural school child.
3. To give to every child in Rowan County the opportunity to attain high school education.
4. We are against consolidation of any rural school in Rowan County unless petitioned by a majority of the patrons of that sub-district.
5. To take advantage of the WPA Program in building other school buildings so far as our finances will permit.
6. We are making this race on our past records which we invite and earnestly request you to investigate. We pledge a continuance of the progressive policies which we have advocated in the past.
7. In endorsing the present school administration, we ask you as parents and as tax payers to compare the present school buildings, teachers, and teaching conditions with those of only a few years ago. In attaining these high standards, taxes have not been raised and we have not only stayed out of debt, but have been able to pay approximately $14,000.00 on debts incurred by previous administrations.

Our sole aim is the continued improvement of conditions for the school children in Rowan County and if elected, We pledge ourselves to adhere to the above program.

Signed: WILLIAM H. LAYNE, ALVIN CAUDILL.
