Crackerbarrel Comments (By Woody Hinton)

I wonder who in Morehead has read "BALLAD MAKIN," written by Miss Jean Thomas of Ashland. You know she is one of our own down here in Rowan County and I think she has, kindly neglected us. She used to be here and she has beyond a doubt known our local folks as good as we do. For instance in the book she wrote she has a picture of Railroad Street and the Charles E. Bishop Drug Store before the new depot was built. She has "Rebel Jack" Hawkins with his rifle and bear skin, and "Len" Martin as a baby. I did not realize that time could move so much changes. I have asked Miss Thomas to come here during THE ROWAN COUNTY SCHOOL AND AGRICULTURAL FAIR, which will be held on Friday and Saturday, October 13th and 14th, and have the American Folk Song Festival here. You will note the reply I had from her, and I want her to know that I sincerely appreciate it.

Morgan Woman Dies At Daughter's Home Wednesday

Mrs. Elizabeth Le Master, 84, Succumbs Here This Wednesday. Last rites will be held today in Morgan County for Mrs. Elizabeth Le Master, 84, former resident of Morgan County, who died here July 23. Mrs. Le Master is survived by her husband, John Le Master, 82. The couple had been making their home for the past several years at their daughter, Mrs. Mary Le Master, in Morehead. Besides her daughter, Mrs. Le Master is survived by a son, Frank, of Fort Dupont, Delaware. Funeral arrangements were in charge of the Lane Funeral Home here.

MC Representatives Continue Series

President W. H. Vaughan, Dr. J. D. Falls, director of Personnel, and Alton Payne, director of Public Relations at the College are in Pikeville as this paper goes to press, meeting with the teachers of that city and county. The trio left Morehead Wednesday evening and will return to Morehead tomorrow night. While in that section they will visit Martin County School.

Dr. Falls and Payne met with alumni and friends of the College at Salversville, Tuesday, July 23. Dr. Falls made a speech to teachers of Magoffin. Other trips to be made soon will take College representatives to Harlan, Jackson, Hazard, Vanceburg and Grayson.

Comments On Our College

By Alton Payne, Director Public Relations

I have often been asked within the past year the extent, the nature and the procedure of my work at Morehead State Teachers College. The editor of the Independent kindly asks me to write a short column occasionally about "Morehead." We are glad to do this. In line with the administration's policy of "holding back no secrets" and asking the public for its opinion, I am glad to have the progress of Morehead State Teachers College, it hence, becomes an easy task to tell you of what may be going on at the institution. And of a right, the citizen, should know to a great extent, how your college is progressing. We shall ask you to please bear in mind, however, that this and future articles is merely an attempt to bring information to you through the press and is simply an effort to keep you informed. It does not mean that we shall attempt to assert our opinion upon any subject where it is neither wanted nor requested. Most of us want the College to progress because we have certain interests which will accrue by its progress, which is only natural. It is with the philosophy of helping others to see the need of education in our present scheme of

Cherry Falls Is Honored At Peabody

Word received here indicates that Miss Cherry Falls, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Falls, is the recipient of a signal honor at Peabody College, Nashville, which institution she is attending. E. T. Amburgey Hits Mrs. Allen Mays' Death Almost Instantaneous. Mrs. Allen Mays, 62, died a few moments after being struck Tuesday, by a machine driven by E. T. Amburgey. The accident occurred at nine o'clock in the morning at the junction of U.S. 60 and the Flemingsburg Road. Mrs. Mays, Amburgey said, stepped out from behind a parked car and was struck by his machine before he could stop. She is survived by her husband and one son of West Virginia, whose name could not be learned.

Kentucky Brewers Prosecute Four Law Violators

"Clean Up Or Get Out Of Business" Says Director Of Association. Activities of the Kentucky Brewers and Beer Distributors Committee's self-regulation program, for the past two weeks, have resulted in four actions against law-violating retailers, the State Director, Frank E. Daugherty, announced today.

These actions consist of recommendations to the State Alcohol Beverage Control Board, Frankfort, that the board refuse the issuance of licenses to three retail beer establishments in Central Kentucky and revocation proceedings against a Louisville Alcohol Beverage Administrator, Virgil P. Lynch this week. Committee investigations of licensed retail beer outlets totalled 98 for the two week period. The four action cases resulted from re-investigations after warning letters were sent to the licensees advising that practices inimical to public welfare had been reported to the Committee by its investigators. Refusal of the licensees to cooperate and take steps to remedy the conditions complained of resulted in the Committee's decision to bring the cases to the attention of licensing authorities for action.

The Task Ahead

DR. J. B. Holtzclaw
MOREHEAD STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE

In the interest of our national unity which is so essential to this world crisis, it seems not only desirable but imperative that a few matters vital affecting our future welfare be presented upon by our presidential candidates in order that these things may not be allowed to become political issues in the campaign. The most vital of all questions before the American people are those of national "hemispheric" defense and our attitude toward the nations now involved in the second World War. Fortunately, the presidential conventions at Philadelphia and Chicago have in a large agreement on this matter possible. Apparently, both platforms, and both nominees are in full agreement upon the four fundamental points involved. They are: (1) That this country will not send troops to fight on foreign soil outside the Western Hemisphere; (2) that we will devote our utmost efforts to the task of attaining total defense within the shortest possible time; (3) that we will defend the entire Western Hemisphere against territorial or economic aggression; and (4) that we will render all material and possible aid to Great Britain so long as this does not interfere with our own defense preparations. On each of these four problems the platforms carry essentially

4-H LEADERS AT MOREHEAD CAMP—More than 300 young 4-H Club members from eleven counties under their direction at the annual assembly held last week at Morehead State Teachers College, the leaders just had to get together to talk things over. Above, left to right, are Dr. J. B. Fennelberg, head of the Department of Biology at Morehead; J. M. Howard, Bracken County Agent; W. Howard Hardin, head of the Rowan County Agent; J. G. Dye, Robertson County Agent; John W. Irvine, Lewis County Agent; H. C. Baggett, head of the Department of Agriculture at Morehead; R. L. Nute, Greenup County Agent, and E. E. Fink, State 4-H Club field agent from the University of Kentucky. The camp closed last Saturday.

The Morehead Future Farmers (FFA) will have competition in their work this fall and in the future activities of the two chapters. For two and one-half years the Public School has had a Vocational Agriculture Department and during this period much progress has been made with farm boys and boys interested in related fields of work. This year vocational agriculture will be taught in the Haldeman High School, in connection with this subject, the boys have a chance to be affiliated with the Future Farmers of America which is a national organization. Three members of the Morehead Chapter are but thirty-eight sheep for projects in their work. The ewes are being bought from a Hart County farmer. In order to be successful with sheep raising, the sheep must have a fence suitable for sheep raising and would give a greater economical return if pastured by sheep instead of raised. The Morehead Chapter plans to have a summer meeting on the seventeenth of August in the High School Gym. Future members and his father is expected to be present for the meeting.

the same phraseology. For instance, on the last point mentioned here, we find the following statements:

"Republican platform: Our sympathies have been profoundly stirred by invasion of neighboring countries and by disaster to nations whose ideals most closely resemble our own."

Democratic platform: The world's greatest democracy can afford heartlessly or in a spirit of appeasement to ignore the peace-loving and liberty-loving peoples wantonly attacked by ruthless aggressors."

It may be said, of course, that platforms do not mean anything because they are made before the candidates are nominated and the planks are included against their wishes.

that this relationship exists in the platforms this year.

However, as everyone knows, we look to the candidates rather than to the platforms for the real issues of a campaign.

If sufficient harmony should prevail between the two main candidates on this issue to present a common front to our people, it would be a severe blow to Hitlerism and the fifth column.

formation leaving this institution. Other trips to Greenvale were made Saturday and an alumni club was formed there.

Long term plans are being laid. Things are now under way to form a department of a homecoming program for November.

On these trips it has been possible to collect names of prospective students of Morehead. These names are filed away for future reference, segregated to their interests so that we may send them special departmental bulletins.

So you see, a great deal of our "advertising" is not done through the medium of the newspaper as popularly presumed.

We have made contact with all of the weeklies in our radius and now serve them with "Morehead" columns written, at present, by Dr. Judd, Dr. Holtzclaw and Roger Barbour.

High Points in the Life of McGuffey

William Holmes McGuffey was born in Washington County, Pa., September 23, 1800. He was the son of an Indian fighter who at the age of twenty-two volunteered as an Indian scout. He served under General St. Clair who sallied out against the Indians from the city of Cincinnati. In the year 1793 he also served with General Wayne who was at the battle of Fallen Timbers. After the war he settled in Ohio about five miles north of Youngstown and about two miles east of Hubbard in what is now Mahoning County, Ohio. Here William Holmes McGuffey was born. It is interesting that General Washington used to stop at the home of William Holmes McGuffey's grandfather who lived in eastern Pennsylvania. The McGuffeys were of Scotch-Irish stock. In early life William Holmes gave evidence of being interested in things of the intellectual and the spiritual. His mother being a devout Christian, and the Calvinistic tendencies, "taught him to read and write and gave him lessons from the Bible." Her influence made his life a blessing to humanity. McGuffey inherited from his Scotch parents enough stability of character to embrace the doctrines of the Calvinists and the spiritual conviction to carry it into effect in his marvelous Readers. His mother believed in education. One day as she was in her garden on her knees, petitioning God for the education of her son, a minister, Reverend Thomas Hedges, was riding by and heard her application. He immediately stopped for a moment and a caddy at Darlington, Pa. The tuition was three dollars per year and the board was seventy-five cents per week. There is no record of his subsequent graduation from this institution. There were some defects in the life of McGuffey as there are in the lives of all great men. McGuffey had his share of disappointments. At the age of twenty he appeared before the school board of examiners of Warren, Ohio. The exam was conducted by two Yale graduates and McGuffey failed to pass the examination. Subsequently he entered Washington College in Pennsylvania and made a profound impression on both the students and faculty. In the winter of 1825-26 he taught a private school at Paris, Kentucky. Robert Bishop, the president of Miami University was attracted by his work at Paris and McGuffey was given a place in the University upon which he was to shed a great amount of honor. It was while in this University for ten years that he wrote his famous Readers which was to make his name immortal among men.

XXVI ABOUT BEN ADHEM

Awoke one night from a dream of peace,
And saw within the moonlight
within his room,

An angel writing in a book of gold.
Exceeding peace had made Ben Adhem bold;

And to the presence in the room he said,
"What wasteth this?" "The vision
reiterated his head,
And with a look made of all sweet accord, Answered, "The names of those

"And is mine one?" said Abou,
"Nay not so."
Replied the angel, Abou spoke more low,
But cheerily still; and said, "I pray thee, then,

ANT-LIONS

Of all the insects that occur in Kentucky, one of the most interesting is the antlion, sometimes called the "doodle-bug." The adult antlion is a rather large insect that superficially resembles a "snake doctor" or dragon fly. The antlion is rather closely related to the dobson fly, which has been treated in a previous article. The adult proceeds to dig in sand, or some loose dry soil, and when the larvae hatch they begin to construct little pits. In constructing these pits, the larva first mark off a circle of the desired size, usually about an inch in diameter, and then begin to shovel the sand out of the circle. The larvae travel backward around the inner rim of the circle and shovel sand onto the top of their flat heads with hind legs. When their heads are covered they flip, sand out of the circle with a quick jerk of the head. They continue this procedure until a conical pit is constructed, and then bury themselves, in the bottoms of the pits with only their jaws protruding and lie in wait for some insect. The sides of the pit are so constructed that the slightest motion sends sand sliding to the bottom of the pit. Should an insect reach the verge of the pit he is apt to slide down the side into the waiting jaws of the antlion. After an insect begins to slide down the side of the pit, should he by violent exertion begin to clamber out again, the antlion merely shovels some sand on his head and snaps it on the insect, and the sliding sand usually suffices to carry the insect down to the antlion. After the insect is consumed, the remains are snapped up and the sliding sand again suffices to carry the insect down to the antlion. After the insect is consumed, the remains are snapped up and the sliding sand again suffices to carry the insect down to the antlion. After the insect is consumed, the remains are snapped up and the sliding sand again suffices to carry the insect down to the antlion.

Attorney General OK's "Beer Shut-Off" Plan

QUESTION: "Is it legally permissible under the laws of Kentucky for beer distributors to unite by agreement of understanding with each other to withhold the sale of beer from persons selling at retail who are violating the liquor laws, or any other laws of the state?"

ANSWER: "There is no restriction in either the constitution or the Kentucky Statutes prohibiting the making of the kind of agreement referred to in the above question."—(signed) Jesse K. Lewis, Asst. Attorney General.

APPROVAL: "I have read and approve the above opinion, and will add that, in my opinion, the proposed form of agreement is valid and enforceable."—(signed) Hubert Meredith, Attorney General.

This is official approval of the policy of the Kentucky Committee to Shut Off the Supply of Beer to those retail outlets in the state that violate the law, outrage public decency, and bring discredit to an industry which pours into the treasury of this state more than $1,000,000 in taxes each year.

A majority of the legitimate beer wholesalers and distributors are working in full cooperation with the Committee. They pledge their support of the shut-off plan wherever coalitions justify such action.

That the Kentucky Brewers and Beer Distributors Committee means business is evidenced by the following

On June 26, at the request of the Comm'ttee, a Rowan County roadhouse, scene of a fatal shooting, was closed up and its beer permit cancelled.

Since organization on May 26, the Committee has investigated more than 125 retail beer outlets, and has warned 17 of these to eliminate unwholesome conditions in violation of public decency and morals and the beer control laws of Kentucky.

The Committee invites every clear-thinking, civic-minded Kentuckian to lend additional authority to its efforts by patronizing only those retail outlets in which the conditions surrounding the sale of beer are as wholesome as the beverage itself.
