Joe Bates To Give Address Here Saturday

Present Congressman, Seeking Re-Election, Will Speak In Courthouse, 7:30

The final political speech in Rowan County for this year will be given at the courthouse here Saturday evening when Hon. Joe B. Bates, present Congressman and Democratic nominee for re-election, will speak in behalf of the ticket at the courthouse.

Mr. Bates was unanimously nominated in convention at Ashland in May to succeed Fred Vinson, who resigned to accept a Federal judgeship. On June 4 he was named in a special election as Vinson's successor. On August 6, running against four other candidates he received a majority of over 18,000 in the district, giving him the largest margin that was ever awarded a candidate in the Democratic primary in the Eighth district with one exception.

Mr. Bates will discuss the issues facing the voters in Tuesday's balloting in the Senatorial and Congressional races.

In speaking here Saturday Congressman Bates is following the custom of Fred Vinson, who always delivered an address at the Morehead courthouse on the Saturday evening preceding the election.

Watt Mauk Sought In Olive Hill Fraud Cases

Former Newspaper Man Alleged Leader Of Ring Defrauding Ashland Company

Information revealed from an official source revealed that Watt P. Mauk, Olive Hill, in being sought by the Ashland loan companies and a Louisville firm.

Since that time, information has been received that other loan and finance companies have been made victims of the same conspiracy, and the amount of money involved has steadily increased.

The scheme, worked up by the use of duplicate teachers' contracts forged names and false information, was clever insofar as obtaining the money without being detected. It was plain the leader had previously planned to obtain the money, flee as soon as possible and leave his younger confederates "holding the bag."

The Ashland companies first learned of the affair when an Olive Hill teacher advised that he had borrowed money from them and that they had possibly made a mistake in sending a statement to her.

Once the companies realized they had been made victims of a hoax, and a thorough investigation was started.

Linking Mauk with the affair was the least problem confronting the investigators, they said. The school teacher previously referred to said she had been visited by him shortly before and that he had asked to borrow her certificate.

The description taken of one of the borrowers in Ashland included "light, curly hair, a disfigured hand and a bad eye." This description of Mauk exactly.

In addition, it was learned by (Continued on Page Eight)

Pelfrey Says Court's Fair In Warden Case

Lists Arrests And Disposal Made Of Cases Coming Before His Court

The following statement from Judge I. E. Pelfrey is self-explanatory. The News-Examiner gives Judge Pelfrey or any other citizen free access to its columns.

The statement as carried in the News was not any viewpoint of the News, but that of Mr. Matters. Judge Pelfrey's statement is as follows:

My attention has been called to an article in a recent issue of your paper in which the statement was made that this court had failed in its duty in the matter of the enforcement of the Fish and Game Laws. I wish to state that since my induction into office last January there has come before me the following cases resulting as follows:

Clyde Collins, charged with killing squirrels out of season, fined. Allen Collins, charged with the offense of killing squirrels and Poole McGary, charged with dynamiting fish, bound over to the Rowan County Grand Jury, indicted and convicted in the Circuit Court now serving time in the State Reformatory at LaGrange, Kentucky. Claude Evans charged with buying squirrels and Poole McGary charged with selling the squirrels to Evans. When these cases were called the district court warden, Mr. Van Greene in Court with the local warden, Robert Mutters, came into court and requested that the case against Evans be dismissed, stating that the squirrels were purchased for a person who was confined to bed on account of sickness and that the case against McGary be continued. Acting upon the request of the warden, Richard Clay, County Attorney moved the court that the case be made as requested by the warden. This was done. These are (Continued on Page Four)

Johnson To Oppose Non-Scouting Pad

Morehead Coach Believes That End Would Have Fared Better In Old Plan

That Morehead College will probably reject next year the plan to purchase a new building for the Eastern Kentucky Non-Scouting Pad is the opinion expressed here today by Head Coach Ellis Johnson. This year the state Teachers College of Kentucky rejected the plan.

Johnson said that he believed Morehead would have had a much better chance at victory Saturday afternoon if the Eastern Maroons if his assistant Len Miller had an opportunity to scout the Richmond club. Johnson has always said Miller can scout an opposing club, picking out every weak spot, better than any man with whom he has talked in contact.

Morehead's head coach had no allbies over the tie game with Eastern. "The Rome Rankin has a real ball club and is doing very well," he declared. Asked about Morehead's numerous threats which failed however to score, Johnson said that his club lacked the great line punch, while Eastern was fighting desperately.

"The Eagles came out of the Eastern fracas in good physical condition and should be able to throw their full strength against Georgetown in Morehead's home coming game here Saturday. Johnson said the club should be the club through a stiff scrimmage this afternoon in preparation for the battle. Buch Horton, varsity center, has a recurrence of an illness and injury that has been bothering him all year but it should be able to play Saturday.

It is probable that Morehead may make several changes for the Georgetown game. However, it is certain that Horton, Lotz Marmott, Jody Adams, Francis Hammonds and Stanley Radjuna will be in the starting line. Johnson said that Adams, Radjuna and Horton really played a ball game against the Maroons.

Four Candidates Seek Two Places On Education Board

Isaac Moore Withdraws From Race; Wilson, Carter Oppose Present Set-Up

The withdrawal of Isaac Moore from the Board of Education race leaves four candidates seeking membership for the two places that will become vacant January 1. Albert Caudill and Bill Layne, incumbent, running in support of the present school administration are opposed by Dr. H. L. Wilson of Morehead and Orville Carter, Elliottville, who oppose some of the measures proposed by the group now in charge.

The Board of Education race over shadows the major Senatorial and Congressional fights in this county.

Horton Named Head Of Music Organization

Lewis Henry Horton, Head of the Department of Music of Morehead State Teachers College, was awarded a significant honor last week. He was elected president of the Central Kentucky Music Educators at their first meeting of the year, held Saturday, October 29, on the campus of the University of Kentucky. The organization came into existence in 1933 at the instigation of Miss M. Lewis of the University of Kentucky, and numbers most of the music educators within driving distance of Lexington. Miss Saturday, October 29, at the University of Kentucky, was chosen Secretary while Miss Caroline Pike of Georgetown College was elected vice president.

Paris Youth Named Head Of Freshmen

The Freshmen class of the Morehead announces the election of Charles Thomas of Paris as President. Other officers elected were: Joe Justice, Elbert, W. Va., vice president; Elizabeth Blair, Morehead, secretary; and Ruth Hayes, Louisville, treasurer.

Local Fights May Increase Tuesday Vote

Republicans Conceded Little Chance In State Or Eighth District Races

Kentucky will go to the polls on Tuesday to elect a United States Senator and nine Congressmen. However, as is often usual in this, the state of many bitter and hard fought political races, balloting in the Senatorial and Congressional fights is far overshadowed in many counties by local races in most cases for membership on the county Board of Education.

Rowan, Bart, Elliott, Wolfe, Carter and Fleming Counties in this section all have bitterly contested school board races. Involving age political overtones predicted an exceptionally light vote in the November 8 election. However, the local fights have entered into the picture and are expected to increase the vote all over Kentucky. The balloting Saturday in Kentucky's 120 counties will probably reach the three-quarter million mark.

Democratic headquarters at Louisville, eyeing the increased vote, are predicting that the Senator, Albert W. Barkley will be re-elected by a majority of 150,000 more. The largest majority ever recorded in Kentucky was the 181,000 received by President Roosevelt.

In Rowan County voters will have the opportunity to elect a Senator, a Congressman and two members of the Board of Education. In addition, in the five schoolboard precincts of Rowan County, the ballot has been doubled in size inasmuch as there are two state ticket candidates for Constable. The change is the Republican nominee for Constable while John Adams is running on the Independent ticket and Willis Bailey on another Independent ticket.

Seeing no chance of defeating Senator Bart Elliott, the Democrats have, with one exception, centered their fight in the Congressional battle, but figures indicate that there is no change for Clell Hayes to defeat Congressman Joe B. Bates, although this fight might be close in Rowan County. Bates' being re-elected is predicted. Greenup County will be re-elected by a majority of 10,000 or more. (Continued on Page Four) second month.

The girls won the attendance contest. The boys entertained them with a Halloween party Thursday afternoon. Games were played after which Halloween candy was served. We are very glad to have Keith May back in school. He was absent last week because of the illness and death of his father. Keith had perfect attendance this year until last week.

Roberta Lawnsdale of Sandy Hook visited in our room last week. Roberta was a student in our room last year.

The following children had perfect attendance for the second month in grades seven and eight: Esther Grayson, Arlene McClain, Clarence Myers, Alfred Peed, James Stimpert, Naomi Alley, Janet Evans, Lava Flannery, Mary Flannery, Eula Gilkerson, Maxine Jones, Paul Ray Craig, Madison Jones, Lloyd Robert, Desma Slim, Clayton Cook, and Iron and John Grayson.

Our percentage in this grade was 97.21 per cent for the second month. We are very sorry to have Arlene McClain absent from school Monday of this week. A severe cold caused her to miss her first day of school.

ATTENDANCE

Now, at this time in the year, there is usually a slow down in attendance. The school is at this time and are forced to be out of school for a few days. We are to the fact that we cannot avoid sickness which will probably come to most of the children during the year, then let us make a special effort to be in-school every day while we are well.

The school term is short, especially in the rural school and it takes much study and good attendance for a child to be able to finish one grade. No child can stay out of school many days and be able to carry a different grade the next year and be a strong student. The parents are urged, as is your duty, to see that your child is in school every day that he is not sick. The child does not realize what it means to him to be out of school, but the parent, through experience, can see, understand and cooperate. The success of the school depends on the parents in the community.

When the school fails, most times the parents are to blame. Try to understand the many duties of a teacher, the trials he may have with your children, give him a pat on the back in place of trying to find some fault in his teaching. We urge visits to the schools from all parents. As long as you do not visit you do not understand the problems nor can you know just how hard the teacher is trying to teach your child without your cooperation. Wouldn't it be wonderful if every teacher in the county could report at the end of the year that every parent in the district had at some time during the year visited the school and pledged cooperation.

The attendance in schools all over the county has been better this year than ever before. This is due to the fact that parents are realizing as never before what education means to the child. It means that the teachers have visited and talked to the parents and the parents are visiting the school. They are standing behind the teacher and the schools 100 per cent.

Very truly yours,
I. E. PELFREY,
Judge Rowan County

He studied the two men before him with the acuteness of a man abreast in the judgment of men. Turner was perhaps ten pounds lighter than Rand, two inches shorter. But they both bore the same stamp, that of quiet men, young, slow in judgement, quick in action.

It mattered not at all to the gambler that Turner had been in prison. A glance at him told Quinn that it had left him untouched. They were both young, perhaps twenty-five, dressed in the soft, off-washed range clothes of waist overalls and blue shirt. They looked up to see Hoagy shuffling down the aisle-intending to the car. "Single Shot. Five minutes to Single Shot."

"I'm going into Walpa on this run. I'll tell the super. There may be some money in it for you."

"Hand" flushed. "They can keep it."

"But Hoagy was persistent. 'Look here. He'll want to do something for you. There's three mine payrolls in that baggage-car safe.'"

"Warden? Yuma?" Hoagy said slowly.

"I'm out on parole," Rand told him. Turner's nod confirmed him. Quinn shook his head slowly, looking from one to the other.

"If a gambler's word in a tight place will do you any good, let me know. I'll be at the Free Throw in Single Shot."

"We'll be neighbors then," Turner said. "My dad's got a spread near there."

The Sierra Blancos must have looked at the town of Single Shot with a degree of tolerance, since this irregular and shabby cowtown had been allowed to remain at the mouth of its deep valley for more than forty years.

South of the town lay the foothills sloping in three steepled awells to the semi-arid plains many miles below.

Looming up as a mountain in its own right, the west of the town and a little to the south lay Coahuilla Butte, a spur of Old Cartridge. To the east, more mountains, but low, over which the train had labored this night to coast triumphantly and noisily into the station.

Dave was glued to the window, peep behind him.

"See her?" Roxy asked. Dave's answer was long in coming.

ing. "No. Reckon Mary didn't get my letter after all."

"They were the last two out of the car and as they descended to the station platform, Dave's eyes roved the small crowd for a sign of his sister. She was not there. She, too, then, had been ashamed to be seen in public with a jail-bird brother.

"Ain't you Dave Turner?" Dave turned. Confronting him was a fat, shapeseam man, looking like two hundred-odd pounds of soiled clothes topped by a greasy Stetson. He wore ragged, sabbat mustaches below a thick-strutted nose and his eyes were unblinking, red-rimmed. Dave recognized his old one.

"Sure. I'm Dave Turner. You're Sheriff Lowe—still." Dave said dryly.

"Up-huh. Still. Come on this train!"

"Yeah," Dave drawled. "Looking for your sister?"

"Up-huh. I figured she'd meet me here."

"She won't."

Dave's eyes narrowed a little. "No? She knew I was comin'."

"I reckon she knew. Everybody does."

"Then where is she?"

"Soledad."

"Soledad? I asked her to meet me here."

"Ain't Soledad as close to your spread as Single Shot?" The Sheriff countered.

"Sure. What of it?"

"Nothin'. If I was you, I'd go to Soledad and meet her there."

Dave was quiet a long moment. "You haven't got the guts to say it right out, have you Hank?"

A small group of loafers had collected.

"I reckon I have. Get out," the sheriff said flatly.

"Why?" Dave asked bluntly. "I got enough trouble without lettin' more of it walk right into town."

"I'm out," Dave said slowly. "I didn't escape from prison. I was pardoned."

"I took my whippin'. Eight years of it, for killin' a horse-thief that deserved killin'. I'm goin' anywhere I please."

"I reckon not. Not if you aim to come here."

"These two men fought off a train robbery tonight, sheriff. If that's not law-abiding enough for you, what is?"

The sheriff turned on Quinn. "If I was you and had business to mind, I'd mind it."

"That's good advice," Quinn conceded. "It might apply to you, too."

He turned to Dave. "When I see some of these white-stop John Laws, I sometimes wish my old-man had been hung for rustlin' he drew. Mark of honor in some cases, I call it."

The sheriff's eyes barely flickered. "You only been in this town two weeks. Mebbe you'd like to ride out with Turner?"

The Fords Tell Their Plans for 1939

IF WE KNEW anything better we could do for the country than make good motor cars, we would do it.

By every one doing his best in the job he thinks most useful, this country is going to regain its momentum. We have tried to do our best in our job.

When business was suddenly halted in its recovery more than a year ago, we determined that we should keep going anyway, if not at full-volume motor car production, then at getting ready for greater motor car values that would help future production.

EXPANDING FOR THE FUTURE

We began to build 34 million dollars' worth of new plants and equipment. We felt that if we could not employ all our men building motor cars, we would employ as many as we could building better production facilities.

We were told, of course, that this was no time for expansion, that a wiser business policy would be to "hold everything"—which means, stop everything. But no one ever got anywhere standing still.

Besides, we are not defeatists. We do not believe this country has seen its best days. We believe this country is yet in the infancy of its growth. We believe that every atom of faith invested in our Country and our People will be amply justified by the future. We believe America is just beginning.

Never yet have our People seen real Prosperity. Never yet have we seen adequate Production. But we shall see it! That is the assurance in which we have built.

Business is not just coming back. It will have to be brought back. That is now becoming well understood in this country; for that reason 1939 will be a co-operative year. Manufacturers, sellers and buyers will co-operate to bring back the business that is waiting to be brought back.

This construction program is almost completed. It has increased activity and payrolls in a number of related industries. It has given us better facilities for building better cars and trucks, and eventually our new tractor which is being perfected.

THIS MEANS MORE VALUE

The current program has provided a new tire plant, which will turn out a pair of tire requirements - a new tool and die plant that will help us cut the cost of dies... and a steel-press plant that will enable us to make more of our own automobile bodies. These are in addition to the plants we already had for producing glass, iron, steel, plastics, and many other things.

We don't supply all our own needs, of course, and never expect to. The Ford engine is one thing that no one's hand touches but ours. Of nearly everything else we use we build some things ourselves, to find, if possible, better and more economical ways of doing it. The experience and knowledge we gain are freely shared with our suppliers, and with other industries.

Henry and Edsel Ford, on the occasion of the 35th anniversary of the founding of the Ford Motor Company, June 16, 1939

We take no profit on anything we make for ourselves and sell to ourselves. Every operation, from the Ford ships which first bring iron ore to the Rouge, is figured at accurate cost. The only profit is on the finished result—the car or truck as it comes off the line. Some years, there is no profit for us. But we see to it that our customers always profit. A basic article of our business creed is that no sale is economically constructive unless it profits the buyer as much as or more than the seller.

Our new plants have helped us build more value into all our cars for 1939. That means more profit on the purchase to the purchaser.

We have not cut quality to reduce costs. We simply will not build anything inferior.

NEW TESTING EQUIPMENT

While we were putting up new plants to produce cars, we constructed new equipment to test them. The first weather tunnel of its kind ever built for automobile research went into operation at our laboratories this year.

It makes any kind of weather to order. The weather it delivers every day would take months to find in Nature. Our cars are weather-tested to give you good service in any climate anywhere.

In other tests, every part of the car is punished unmercifully. Then our engineers tear it down to see if they can find abnormal wear or any sign of weakness.

The money we spend on tests saves you money on repairs. And your family car is safer and more dependable when we put it in your hands.

THE NEW CARS

We have two new Ford cars for 1939—better cars and better looking—but we also have an entirely new car.

It's called the Mercury 8. It fits into our line between the De Luxe Ford and the Lincoln-Zephyr. It is larger than the Ford, with 116-inch wheelbase, hydraulic brakes, and a new 95-horsepower V-type 8-cylinder engine.

We know that our 1939 cars are cars of good quality. We think they're fine values in their price classes. With new cars, new plants, new equipment, the whole Ford organization is geared to go forward.

CITY OF FRANKFORT USED FOR CONVENIENCES

Residents of other parts of Kentucky generally are of the opinion that the capital city of Frankfort long has been used to all conveniences. Contrary to this belief is the fact that Frankfort did not obtain the use of gas as fuel until 1915, although gas had been used for illumination there since 1848...

KENTON COUNTY HAS ABOUT 100,000 PEOPLE

Although Kenton County is one of the smallest in the State it ranks second in population. While measuring only 25 miles long and 12 miles wide and having only 104,320 acres, it has well over 100,000 noses to count at the next census taking the 1939 tab having shown the population figure to be 93,534.

Farmers Helped Through Credit Administration

The Farm Security Administration through its Rural Rehabilitation Division has added 29,414 needy families in Kentucky. Of this total, 20,200 farm families received subsistence grants only and 9,214 received facility loans. Under the active loan program, 7,411 farm families are receiving supervised loans containing upon adoption by the borrower for an agreed period—usually 1 year—of an approved Farm and one Plan as prescribed by the F. S. A. and 657 families received emergency loans. In addition 1,146 loan cases have been completed...

Under the Construction Program of the Farm Security Administration constructed numbered 37, and miscellaneous structures totaled 172. Included as miscellaneous buildings were 35 stock barns, 37 poultry houses, and 45 smoke houses. In addition 14 outbuildings were repaired or remodeled by the F. S. A. There were also 2 projects started by rural agencies and transferred to F. S. A. These projects housed 180 families and cover 8,880 acres. The National Youth Administration in April 1938, was adding 8,552 students participating in the Kentucky Student Aid Program. Of these, 6,738 were high school students employed on such jobs as clerical work for principals and teachers, supervision of playground activities and assistance in libraries and classrooms, and 1,814 college students who not only worked in college offices, libraries and museums performing work that University business could not otherwise provide for, but also as often as possible in research and other types of work closely related to their field of studies.

Under the Works Projects Program for out of school youths, the NYA was employing 4,774 young people from 16 to 21 years of age during the month of March, 1938. Of this total, 279 were employed on highway work and street, 658 on public building projects, 69 on recreational facilities, 4,236 on goods projects, 70 on residential training and nursery school, 77 on recreational leadership projects, 296 on clerical jobs for government agencies, 70 on professional and technical projects, and 21 on home economic projects. 415 were employed on various projects not elsewhere classified.

The Civilian Conservation Corps is operating 30 camps in Kentucky engaged in the restoration and increase of the State's natural resources. Of this total 6 camps are located in National forests, 7 in State forests, 5 in private forests, 10 in Soil Conservation Service districts, 3 in National parks, 3 in State parks, and 2 in drainage districts.

Since April 1933 the CCC has furnished employment to 55,954 Kentucky enrollees between the ages of 17 and 27 and to 4,510 non-enrolled personnel from the State. Enrolled in the Corps from Kentucky for the month of June 1938, were 6,062 young men and in addition an estimated 912 non-enrolled personnel consisting of supervisors and camp officials were employed. On June 30, 1938, there were 5,317 CCC enrollees doing conservation work in the State.

Among the many important work items completed by the CCC enrollees from April 1933 through June 30, 1937 were:

KENTUCKY PEOPLE KNOW OF SHADOW ACROSS MOON

It is doubtful if any of the world's best informed students of astronomy know why there sometimes is a shadow across the moon. But rural Kentuckians can enlighten them "quick as you can say Jack Robinson," according to information gleaned in a compilation of the State's folkways by field workers in the Federal Writers' Project, W. P. A.

The shadow on the moon is cast, many of our people folk believe, by a man who cleared and burned brush on a Sunday. For this affront to the general observance of the Sabbath he was punished to the Lunar planet, there to carry and burn brush for eternity. This super stition has been handed down for generations.

FIDDLERS IN HELL IS OLD TIME SLOGAN

"Fiddlers in Hell" is a Hell" a simile common among mountaineers in Kentucky, while in use for more than a century, originated in a way few persons know. But field workers in the Federal Writers' Project, a branch of the WPA have found it out and recorded the same for posterity. Mountain fiddlers were supposed by "wuthless critters," research workers have been told, and the expression had its origin in the words of a witty old preacher of long ago, to the effect that there were so many of 'em in the lower regions that "thar warn't no elbow room."

The United States Employment Service for the period July 1933 through June 1938 has received 1,002,718 applications for jobs, of which 541,595 were new applications and 461,123 were renewals. 291,270 placements were made during this same period, 83,138 of which were placed with private concerns, 121,515 on public works of any nature excepting relief and 80,619 on relief jobs where the relief status is a prerequisite to employment.

Great Benefits Of CCC Corps Are Apparent

Act Recognized As One Of Most Forward Steps In Last Fifty Years

The Civilian Conservation Corps is the most forward step in the history of the United States for the purpose of creating jobless youths, has been continued because of the excellent results it has accomplished in re-educating young men unable to find work who might otherwise have drifted into vagabondage. During its existence to April, 1938, more than 65,000 illiterates had been taught to read and write, nearly 450,000 have been better grounded in elementary school subjects, and more than 300,000 have taken high school courses. Approximately 2,000,000 youths have been enrolled in the CCC and have returned home with a better physical condition, with a better mental outlook and equipped to be better citizens. The work performed by the enrollees has been of permanent value. They have erected 64,231 miles of telephone lines, constructed 41,333 bridges, completed 44,475 largesize buildings

GO TO THE POLLS Next Tuesday November 8th AND VOTE FOR Barkley & Bates

MOTHERS DISHRAQ USED FOR MOLDIS - WARTS

Backwoods Kentuckians had unique ways of treating warts or mole and folklore unearthed by the Federal Writers' Project, W.P.A., has brought this interesting fact to the outer world. One of the "curses" was to steal mother's dishrag from the kitchen, rub it gently over the surface of wart or mole and then bury the rag in an ash hopper. Another way was to steal a piece of beef steak, apply it in the same manner and hide the meat under a flat rock. Wirt or mole was then supposed to vanish.

JUICE HARP PLENTIFUL IN OLD KENTUCKY

It is doubtful if there is a noisier horizon in Kentucky in which there cannot be found a Jew's harp, than in the State. It is the most ever mowing boy. And yet it is the Federal Writers' Project, a branch of W. P. A. to correct the error Keen Johnson committed

Local Fights May Increase Vote

Between 4,000 and 4,500 votes expected to be cast in this county, which will be a heavy vote for what is generally considered an off-year election. Both the Democrats and Republicans have made little effort toward organization, except to see that the vote of their respective parties gets to the polls.

The polls will open at 6 a. m. and close at 4 p. m. Counting of ballots will start at the courthouse immediately after the last box is brought in. All of Rowan County's ballots will be tabulated Saturday, it is believed.

The final political shot will be cast here Saturday evening when Congressman Bates will deliver an address at the courthouse. His speech is scheduled to start at 7:30 p. m.

To Whom It May Concern:

It has come to my attention that certain parties are circulating a report that I am to be an applicant for appointment as Superintendent of schools in case certain persons are elected as Members of the Board of Education. I wish to state that I am not an applicant for this position. I would not be eligible for this appointment in case it was offered me and have no desire or aspirations in this matter whatever. While I shall always have a great interest in the schools of the county I have no desires whatever to be associated with them in any capacity.

respectfully,

J. H. POWERS

ATTENTION VOTERS

The above statement signed by J. H. Powers explains itself. He is not a candidate for the County Superintendency and could not be if he wanted to as he is not qualified.

Our opponents are using this and other desperate means to defeat us and elect themselves, in order to continue themselves. They know that if the truth were told and the voters of Rowan county knew it, they would not have the shadow of a chance at re-election.

The above is only one example of the desperate lies that are being circulated to defeat the candidates of the people, who will devote their time to serve the people, instead of a machine to perpetuate any man in power.

A vote for the undersigned is a vote to clean up the schools, protect the interests of the school children and return the control of the school system to the people where it belongs.

It also mentions 'You and your friends are invited to hear Mr. Bates discuss the vital issues in Tuesday's Election'.

Large advertisement for 'Take The Schools Out of Politics'. Text includes 'Stop the practice of soliciting money from teachers to finance the campaigns for Board Members. This is a definite violation of the Corrupt Practices Act. If we should be defeated by the usual Slush Fund raised in this manner, an investigation may follow.' It also mentions 'Stop the firing of worthy Rowan county teachers from our school system and replacing them with less efficient teachers from other counties.' and 'Let the sub-district trustee in each rural district select the teacher for that district.' The ad concludes with 'We are not running for any one for County Superintendent, or any other position not-with-standing the many false reports now being circulated to the contrary. We understand the teachers are being told that we are their enemies, and if they vote for us they will lose their jobs. This is just another lie. We want, if elected to protect the teachers and stop the practice of taking money from them for political purposes. We want to protect the children by stopping the tearing up of the rural schools.' and 'A Vote For ORVILLE J. CARTER and DR. H. L. WILSON is a vote for a square deal and a clean deal for the teachers and children of the Rowan county school system.'
