VOLUME VII

MOREHEAD, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY MORNING, AUGUST 15, 1940

NUMBER THIRTY

Elam - Wheeler To Formally Open Saturday

Crackerbarrel Comments (By Woody Hinton)

The only time I have at home to speak is in the early morning hours from six to eight and I enjoy them so much. Tommy is always up and we have a great time playing around the house. We are going to make our other playmate in the future. He was hit by a car last week. We bought him from Chess Stinson at Haldeman and he proved to be more sane than the average run of people "King" was a full blooded Colie and was a constant companion to Tommy. He would not let him cross the street or slip off from home. "King" would have made a dog that would have been one of our family. But he is gone now and we are all sad at home. I was with him as he drew his last breath on the lawn. And I had to go out behind the house when Tommy asked: "Where King go?" I cried as we all usually cry when we lose a good friend. I think I appreciated him so much that he was a mute. He could not ask me to go his note or sign his bond. He seemed perfectly satisfied with his meals and the place to sleep on the front porch. He could not ask me for any donations to any campaign fund or to vote for some Democratic friend or never barked, when he tore the paper up when it was delivered in the morning, at either Willkie's or Roosevelt's picture. I don't think he was interested in politics in the least. He never seemed to worry about the war. He could see where thousands were killed in Europe and ships sank but "King" just remained the same. He had no worries.

Flood Hurt Them

Like other business firms located on Railroad Street, the flood of 1939 practically washed their business away. But like true pioneers, they immediately began the task of reconstructing their business and today enjoy a business which takes their truck into Carter, Elliott, Morgan, Fleming and Bath counties to deliver orders.

In addition to their own truck, Elam-Wheeler hire several home-owned trucking companies to help in their deliveries.

Were Traveling Men Prior to opening of their wholesale business, Elam and Mr. Wheeler were both traveling men. They opened their present business in their present site in October, 1939. Their present capital of $25,000. Their stock alone today is valued at over $200,000.

Other Employees In addition to themselves they soon grew enough that four other employees were needed to take care of their increased volume of business.

One of the features of their new building is an electric elevator. Leadership was one of the noticeable features of the convention. Farm boys directed and controlled the entire convention in a very outstanding manner. More than 9000 farm boys. The membership has increased 1700 over last years enrollment.

CONGRATULATIONS, ELAM-WHEELER!

Elam-Wheeler will dedicate their modern building Saturday, August 17. In 1939, along with other Rowan counties, they were almost wiped out by the flood. But they set about the huge task of renovating and rebuilding with the spirit that has marked their fine business growth.

They saw fit to have a new building erected. It stands now, completed, on Main Street. It is one of the finer buildings in this section. Certainly in their new location they will be in a much better position to better serve their customers.

We are proud of Elam-Wheeler, just as we are proud of all loyal and progressive Rowan Counties, and today extend our felicitations and best wishes for their future success.

Certainly we hope that the future will be bright and that they may prosper.

RETAIL BUSINESS SHOWS INCREASE

Emerging from the heat wave that slowed retail business as the whole country sweltered, prospects for gradual but steady pick-up are improved by the continuing rising trend of unfilled orders on books of manufacturers. Backlogs are still accumulating, though a slower pace, and assures maintenance of a high level of producing activity for several months at least. National Industrial Conference Board indexes show new orders received in June by manufacturers were 117 percent of the 1936 average, while shipments were 111 percent. By far the biggest increases in unfilled orders naturally have been in steel and other durable goods, with consumer goods rather slow to follow suit. In the last week or so, however, there has been a burst of forward buying in textiles which seems to indicate the improvement is broadening as effect of fatter—and numerically more—payrolls begins to be felt.

TREACHERY OF THE RANKEST KIND!

We are this week in receipt of a piece of propaganda of the rankest kind. It is issued of all places, from 17 Battery Place, New York City.

Titled: "German Facts In Review," the bulletin outlines the "great achievements of the German Nation," describes the fitness of the national corps, the terrible plight of England. Among other sentences is: "Chancellor Hitler's momentous speech of July 19 eloquently appeals to thinking British who still harbor a bit of common sense and decency." Replete with sketches attempting to show the great superiority of Germany's foods supply, her army and her morale, the bulletin is being sent to all newspapers over the nation. And through the United States mail!

Federal investigators would do well to examine New York's spy nest.

This book is all that's left of me now—

Tears will unbidden start,
With faltered lip and throbbing brow

I press it to my heart.
For many generation past
Here is our family tree,
My mother's hands this Bible clasped.

She, dying, gave it to me
Ahl well do I remember those Whose names these records bear:
Who round the hearthstone used to close.

After the evening prayer,
And speak of what these pages said
In tones my heart would thrill!
Though they are with the silent dead.

Here are they living still!
My father read this holy book
Two brothers, sisters,
How calm was my poor mother's look.

Who loved God's word to hear!
Her angel face, I see it yet!
What thronging memories come!
Again that little group is met
Within the walls of home.

Thou truest friend man ever know,

Thy constancy I've tried;
When all were false, I found thee true.

My counselor and my guide,
The mines of earth no treasure give

That could this volume buy!
In teaching me the way to live,
It taught me how to die.

McGuffey Drew Heavily From the Bible

The writer may be a bit old-fashioned, but he believes that the moral receipts of the book are as essential to man as food is to the body. How can one develop and live a well-rounded life without this Book? The writer has been amazed at the lack of basic knowledge on the Bible among college students. Aside from its important spiritual message its literary qualities alone would suffice to make it the greatest of all books.

Shakespeare in his books quoted from the Bible approximately 547 times. This explains why his works will be read as long as man exists. The writer wishes to make some comment (although admittedly he is not a profound Bible scholar) which is based on considerable reflection. There seems to be a dire need for some writer who has been spiritual insight to write a commentary on the Bible drawing a sharp line on what is allegorical and what is factual. He needs to write the vision, and make it plain upon tables, that he may run that readeth it." This great Book must be explained on both of these bases, the supernatural and the natural. To explain it on one basis to the exclusion of the other is to destroy its mission.

In the writer's mind the ways are pretty well charted but it seems that there is a great amount of confusion along these points. The writer is unwilling to go further than to suggest that there is a need for some one who has the ability plus the spiritual outlook to give the world a same and sober interpretation. McGuffey used much material from the Bible and he did it in such a way as not to offend anyone, Catholic, Jew or others. McGuffey's chief aim, as has been stated previously, was "moral instruction." He did this by quoting from the Bible rather profusely and he never did it in any way to be offensive to anyone.

In conclusion some perhaps may say that what we need right now in this world is to apply what Christianity we already know. It can be said with truth also, that the man who reads this Book without spiritual insight is like unto the man who "multiplied words without knowledge."

Eastern Kentucky Farm Meeting To Attract Big Crowd

Arrangements are being made for several hundred farm men and women, business men, 4-H club members, agricultural students, county and home agents, teachers and others at the meeting at the Robinson Experiment Substation at Quicksand, Breathitt county, August 16, Superintendent Roger Jones announces. Groups of visitors are expected from every eastern county and probably from other states.

Results of experiments will be seen, including grains, hays, grasses, fruits, sorghum, cane, garden crops, etc. Hillside on the experimental farm now are growing good grass, and clover, alfalfa and other hay crops are doing well, indicating possibilities in improving the fertility of the soil in eastern counties. Visitors also will see good milk cows, chickens, hogs and other livestock.

During the morning, while the men are going over the fields, a special meeting will be held for women, with speakers discussing gardening, poultry raising, canning and other subjects of interest to homemakers.

The principal address of the day will be delivered by Prof. George Roberts of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington. A native of Eastern Kentucky and a noted authority on agriculture, he will have a valuable message for every person interested in the improvement of agriculture.

Chaney Warns Of Bogus Cards In Circulation Now

No Number To Be Placed On Future Specimen Cards. Statement

Specimen social security account cards placed in billboards by a manufacturer, to indicate the space provided for the employee's official card, have been mistaken for the real thing by some employees, according to James A. Chaney, manager of the Social Security Board office at Ashland, Kentucky. He added that in the future specimen cards used by this manufacturer will not include a number.

Mr. Chaney said the board recently found among employer's wage reports a number of employees listed with the same social security number. This number had been issued by the Social Security Board to a woman in Lockport, N. Y. Upon investigation, the Board learned that the other employees were using the number had purchased billboards containing specimen social security cards with this number printed on them. Not realizing that each employee must have a separate number assigned by the Social Security Board, these employees had reported the number on the specimen card to their employers.

This situation was called to the attention of the manufacturer of the billboards, Mr. Chaney said, and he very gladly agreed to discontinue the use of the employee's wage record. To insure that his wage time use of a number on the specimen cards. Mr. Chaney explained that the employer is required to report each employee's account number when he reports his wages. This number is the one under which the employee's wages are always correctly credited to his account, each employee should be sure that his employer has the number assigned to him by the Social Security Board.

stration... Lottie McBrayer... The Kind of Teacher I Want My Boy to Have... Pres. W. H. Vaughan... How Money Can Be Raised in the Schools... Dorothy Elliot... The Fair... Woody Hinton... President W. H. Vaughan made a very interesting talk to the teachers at the last Teachers Meeting which was held Friday, August 9th. He chose for his subject "The Kind of Teacher I would like for my boy to have." The different points were brought out in the following order: I want him to have that which will develop him: Mentally, Socially, Spiritually and Physically. I want his teacher to realize that activity is important. I want his teacher to teach him good manners, self control, and a congenial disposition. I want him to learn to react to his environment. I want much beauty installed into his school life.

INVASION OF AMERICAS NOW IS A REAL THREAT

The doctrine of totalitarian tyranny is being spread by the bombs and tanks of mechanized legions twenty million strong in Europe, Africa and Asia.

Riding the crest of lightning conquest, they cast their grim shadows closer and closer to the United States with each new stroke of destruction. Flushed with victory, Hitler has scorned the Monroe Doctrine. Through the puppet governments of Stricken France and Denmark he at least technically controls Greenland, Pierre de Miquelon and Martinique, the latter in easy striking distance by air from the Panama Canal. Other islands of nations now dominated by Hitler also are near that life line of American defense.

The Nazis are at war with Canada and to the south of us in Latin America "fifth columns" are flourishing under the subversive prompting of Hitler's agents. Canada is almost 100 percent unprepared against the threat of invasion, and our 3,000-mile northern border is not even well-policed, much less fortified.

Even Great Britain the lone barrier left in Europe between the international gangsters of Nazism-Fascism-Communism and the Western Hemisphere, is at bay.

It has become indelibly clear that Hitler's goal is domination of the entire western world, and that diplomacy and traditions will not divert him from what he considers "manifest destiny." Defeat of Great Britain would leave only the United States, key to this hemisphere and its vast resources, as the last bastion of freedom in his path.

Not even the most ardent wishful thinking could support the hope that this conquest-intoxicated dictator, fresh from some of the greatest military victories in history, would abandon his dream voluntarily. And that dream—obsession—will remain unfulfilled until raw materials sufficient for the demands of a war-stricken and impoverished Europe can be obtained.

The United States and the twenty republics of Latin America, with the very products needed to supply the factories and feed the people of the European continent, of which Hitler already virtually is master. Without adequate defense, this very wealth and abundance is a compelling invitation to aggression.

The threat is brutally real. It is directed point blank at all loyal, freedom loving Americans. Furthermore, it is intensified by a resurgence of Japanese aspirations in the Pacific. On the one hand the British Isles are under siege, and on the other British possessions in the East.

Totalitarian tentacles are fanning out almost to our very shores. The mighty mechanized pincoars already are hemming a ring of steel around us, posing as vital a question as the American people ever were called upon to answer.

Is the United States prepared to turn back Hitler and his jackal partners from our Atlantic shores, while safeguarding our rightful interests in the Pacific?

The facts speak decisively in the negative.

I believe that the schools of today relieve and vitalize the culture of the past.

The Task Ahead ---

American homes. It is better for the mother or for the relative who is willing to assume the parents' responsibilities because it gives them a wholesome opportunity to plan ahead during the child's growing period. It is best for the child, because a good home gives security and happiness for the present and experiences on which to build the future. This can not be provided in the best of institutional care.

This method is also the most economical in the long run for the State, because families do not engage in caring for children for profit.

There are some children, of course, who would always be better off in institutions than in their homes because of the condition and environment of these homes, or because of the needs of the child. But, it is believed that such conditions constitute the exception, rather than the rule.

This ideal of care for dependent children was recognized by the first White House conference held in 1909. The first "Mothers-in-law" law was passed two years later. Today, 40 of the States have such "Mother's aid" laws. The present provision for dependent children in the Social Security Act is an outgrowth from the experience gained by these earlier laws.

It is regrettable that plans to provide for these children and for the blind, have not fully materialized in Kentucky.

Fleming Lodge No. 117 F. & A. M. was chartered on September 1, 1840, and has been in continuous operation since that date. Jeremiah Sourzone was the master of the lodge in its initial year, and also served again in 1842 and 1844. Charles L. Duley, Kentucky's oldest Mason, at the time of his death last year, first served as master in 1870. He was also master in 1871, 1882, 1887, 1888, and 1889. Porter B. Kirkland, of Wallingford, is the present master.

Masons from all parts of the State are expected to be numbered among those present at the centennial since it will be held on Labor Day, which is observed as a holiday in most of the towns in the State.

While a general invitation is given to all Masons, the secretaries of the various lodges are most earnestly requested to advise the secretary of No. 112 at later than August 25th, and sooner if possible, how many will attend from their lodge in order that those in charge may know how many to prepare for.

Senator Blasts Party For Plans To Evade Act

Demands That His Party Obey Law And Drop Convention Book

Senator Hatch accused his own party Monday with evading the clean politics laws and demanded that it abandon its "convention book" carrying advertising from corporations.

He contended that any purchase of the book would violate the Hatch Act. As for its advertising the Senator contended that the solicitation before the Hatch Law was enacted probably technically was legal but held that it was "clearly an evasion if not a violation of the Corrupt Practices Act" which forbids corporations to make political contributions.

"There is just one thing to do about this convention book," Hatch told the Senate. "Regardless of what the cost may be or what effect it may have, it should be discontinued right now."

"As I said last week to the Republican National Committee, 'Obey the Spirit as well as the letter of the law,' so I say this week to the Democratic National Committee, 'Obey the spirit as well as the letter of the law.'"

Last Monday Hatch criticized an interpretation of the Hatch Act's restrictions on political contributions and expenditures made by Henry F. Fletcher, general counsel of the Republican National Committee, contending that it was designed to circumvent the law.

"I think the things that my own National committee is doing today or proposing to do with the publication and sale of the convention book," Hatch declared, "amounts just as much to an evasion of the law, an evasion of the principle and purpose, as the plan that Mr. Fletcher conceived and which I denounced last week."

"I do not apply a rule to the Republic party which I do not also apply to the Democratic party."

"Under the act the sale of the book is not prohibited, but its purchase is a violation of the law. Whether the Democratic Party,

COLLEGE COMMENTS

By Alton Payne

There is a false rumor going its rounds now that Morehead will offer many more scholarships than it has ever had before and that the scholarships will be substantially more remunerative. This is untrue. As always Morehead scholarships will be worth in actual value about twenty dollars a month. In other words they will pay board at the rate of $3.50 per week, and room, which amounts to about six dollars per month. However a limited number are available and most of them are spoken for. The members of the College Board of Regents have had six scholarships at their disposal. They may, it has been intimated, have a few more this year. Certainly they are in strategic positions to make unbiased awards in their local jurisdiction. Locally, however, does not bind Regents' awards.

Most of the scholarships for the first semester have been awarded. The administration is interested in securing high caliber students for scholarships. Regents' awards already made will bring several class valedictorians, salutatorians and other outstanding students to Morehead. Away back in the dim past, many years ago, quite a few scholarships were given to all of the state teachers colleges. Often the recipient had but a trivial task to do—such as dusting a few chairs every week. Now it is understood that scholarships must be used as such. Music students, for example may teach several beginning classes, cafeteria scholarship students must work a specified number of hours in the cafeteria, etc. Class work is never through its National committee. State committees or local organizations, sells this book, it is encouraging violations of the law. I don't think my party's committee would to encourage violations which can lead to penalties of $5,000 fines.

"The only thing to do now is to discontinue the book and obey the law."

AN OPEN LETTER to All Kentucky Beer Retailers

Your license is a valuable and protected permit to engage in a legitimate business... but in that business, among your group, are a few persons who fail to realize that their license is also a privilege which may be revoked if it is not respected.

The vast majority of retail beer licensees are aware of this fact and conduct their establishments in accordance with law, order and public sentiment. But Kentucky's $20,000,000 beer industry insists that all retail outlets be operated strictly upon the principles of good citizenship.

Toward this end there has been formed the Kentucky Brewers and Beer Distributors Committee, which is assisting law-enforcement officials in every way possible to clean up or close up outlets guilty of law violations or anti-social practices. Our work will be pressed vigorously as the campaign progresses.

This program is designed to protect the public interest and to safeguard your business from the selfish and unlawful acts of a small minority. We feel certain, therefore, of your support.

September 9 to 14 Is Set For Horse Show At Fair

Expected To Attract Hundreds Of Horse Lovers Over Nation

A thrill that comes once in a lifetime for every true blooded sportsman. It's a thrill to be at the Horse show at the Kentucky State Fair when the announcer says, "Let your horses rack, gentlemen, let them rack!" and the spirited champions of the tan bark storm about the ring, with the cries from the thousands of spectators urging them on to a great victory.

There will be a horse show program at the State Fair this year, starting Monday, September 9th through the 14th, that is literally flashing with championship and state events as the ninety-nine classes at the night's greatest horse show a erunfounded with clock-like precision during the week for the lovers of fine horses.

Topping this scintillating program, of course, will be the World's Championship Five-Gated Stake, to be unrolled in four divisions, starting Monday night when the stallions whirl into the arena to give the spectators their first surge of thrills. Tuesday night the geldings will fight it out. The first four winners of these events must, and the next three may, compete for the Grand Championship on the following Saturday night for the top honors of the show, making four shows in one.

In addition there will be the rich American Saddle Horse Breeder's Futurity, the Louisville Hotel Association Three-Gated Stake worth $2,000, a rooster championship for $1,000, in addition to fine harness classes, delivery hitchers, plantation horse classes and local classes for boys and girl riders, to mention a few of the many fine rings.

The Horse Department is keeping pace with the rest of the fair in improvements and Manager J. C. Newcomb announced the installation of a new flood lighting system for the arena at a cost of several thousand dollars. Also the outside of the pavilion has been painted and will be flood-lighted. The music of Don Bestor and his orchestra has been engaged for the show.

But of course the Horse Show is only one of the many interesting attractions at the State Fair this year. There will be Grand Circuit harness racing, Midway shows, rides and novelties, a dahlia show and a dog show on Sunday, September 8, and a big variety show with radio stars and circus acts on Saturday night, September 7, and the orchestra of Ted Fio Rito and Carl 'Deacon' Moore will play for outdoor dancing. This will be the greatest fair ever held. Plan your vacation at fair time. The dates are September 7 to 14.

200 COMMUNITIES WILL DEDICATE THE SOUTH'S NEW PLAYGROUND

The seven states of the Tennessee Valley will unite on Labor Day week-end to dedicate the chain of lakes that are being impounded above the TVA project. The completed series will embrace ten lakes on the main channel of the river. These stretch for 650 miles from Paducah east to Knoxville. Navigation of the full length of the series is made possible by locks and a sheltered 9-foot channel which connects this inland waterway with the Mississippi and the sea. Dedicated as the "Great Lakes of the South" this sheltered waterway will form a new national park and playground that will bring increasing thousands of vacationists to the area. The ceremonies will be held on Chickamauga lake at Chattanooga. The three-day program will include a water carnival with a naval float parade, championship speed boat races, an air show with land and sea planes in war maneuvers and night flights through a sweeping web of antaircraft beams and a grand barrage of fireworks.

There will be a horse show, two spectacular balls and, per. ap. America's first prepared-to-parade - impressive column of fully mechanized units that will dramatize America's answer to the need for a armored fighting force. The program closes with the all-south "Colonial Day" on August 23, followed by three full days of spectacular events.

CRANSTON

(Ray Hodge, Oleta Martin) Teachers

Many of the children have had to miss school because of illness. It is hoped that all will soon be well and back in school.

Most of the children and the teachers had their pictures taken the first week of school. Many of the children have bought their pictures.

The boys and girls of the lower grades drew names last week and are now enjoying "Big Brother" and "Big Sister" week.

Despite the hot weather and sickness, many boys and girls have never been absent nor tardy. They include Jessie Cooper, Leta Caudill, Frances Caudill, Eula DeBoard, Wilda DeBoard, Vernon Conn, Layfette Littleton, Bessie Littleton, Maxine Roberts, Patrick McRoberts, Marie Stigall, Fay Reed, Ferrell Morehouse, Stella Morehouse, Leroy Morehouse, Jennell Thornberry, Tilden Keady, Elsie Stigall, Eugene Stigall, and Chester Blevins.

The children are showing much interest in their big attendance chart and health chart.

Our enrollment is complete, with seventy-eight enrolled.

THREE-LICK

(Ruby C. Moore, Teacher)

Three Lick had an enrollment of twelve pupils the first month of school and an average of 92.4 per cent attendance. The attendance might have been better had it not been for a severe case of diphtheria in the district. However, the patient, Vada Moody is now recovering and hopes are that she shall be able soon to attend school.

A P.T.A. has been organized and the first meeting was held August 7th. Mrs. Ernest Moody was elected President of the organization and Mrs. Simpson Caldwell as Vice-President. Mrs. Huralta Moore was elected Secretary and Treasurer. Among the plans for this year are those of helping to finance the building of a concrete platform and cover for the school spring and a trip to the state capital to be enjoyed by parents, teacher and pupils.

A pie supper for the benefit of the school is dated for August 13.

The pupils are especially interested in nature and outdoor life and in addition to the regular classroom work, they are making bird booklets and collections of leaves and insects as well as observing various fish that are brought in for the fish bowl.

The primary grades are planning an activity on Home Life and are beginning to model clay furniture.

CAREY

(Mayme Lowe, Teacher)

The first month of school has come to an end with no one tardy and only one absence which was caused by toothache.

The pupils are making plans for the fair and some work is now being done so that the last few days will not be so crowded.

The P.T.A. met July 1st and made plans for their work in the Fair. A quit is now being made to bring to the Fair.

We are glad to have Mrs. Alfrey our Attendance Officer, with us last week. We will be glad for her to visit us often.

Mrs. Cleo Rayburn and Mrs. Bobby Copley visited our room last Friday.

Board Moves To Revoke License Of Beer Parlor

"Clean Up Or Get Out" Dietum Catches Louisville Man

Members of the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, Frankfort, have under advisement recommendations of the Kentucky Brewers and Beer Distributors Committee and Colonel H. Watson, advisor for the Board, that E. E. Lindsey, Louisville District Superintendent, proprietor of The Galleries, a roadhouse on the Dixie Highway just outside Louisville, be cited to show cause why his retail beer license should not be revoked.

The recommendations followed investigations by the Committee that revealed whiskey was being sold in the roadhouse, which is licensed only to sell beer, and a raid by Colonel Lindsey's men who reported finding three broken quart bottles containing whiskey and gin.

According to Committee State Director, Frank E. Daugherty, a warning letter was sent to the roadhouse asking that illegal whiskey sales be stopped. A later investigation showed that the sales were continuing and the e

How Uncle Sam's New Draft Bill Will Affect The Individual Citizen

Registration Required Of All Men Between 21 and 31; One Out Of Every Five Eligibles To Be Called Within A Year

21 TO 31 AGE LIMIT SET

The Senate military committee amended the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory training bill last week to require the registration only of men from 21 to 31 years old, instead of between 18 to 64.

The Senate group acted while the House military committee was hearing from Secretary of War Stimson testimony that a "prudent trustee" of the nation's defense must realize that Great Britain might be conquered in thirty days and that Japan is in sympathy with Italy and Germany.

Of every five healthy young men between the ages of 21 and 30, with dependents and employed in key industrial positions, one will be called away from civilian life for a year's military training within the next 12 months, if the now pending military training bill becomes law.

This measure, the Burke-Wadsworth bill, already has received the tentative approval of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs. Its purpose is quickly to provide the army with at least 200,000 men and a constantly growing body of trained reserves. Backbone of this army would be citizen-soldiers, rather than professional soldiers.

Registration Obligatory

Passage of the bill would mean that every young man who has reached his 21st birthday, but not his 31st, will be ordered to register, probably at the polling place in his voting precinct. No man in this age group will be exempted from registering. Those who are ill or incapacitated on the day for registering will have to register by mail. Penalties will be provided for anyone who fails to register. About 11,500,000 men are expected to be registered immediately.

If the bill should pass in August, as its sponsors now plan, registration probably will be ordered for September.

The first draft would be made about one month after registration, when an initial force of 300,000 would be selected by lottery. The second draft would follow six months later with the calling up of 400,000 additional men. Regularly thereafter at six-month intervals additional increments would be called, beginning with 600,000 at the end of the first year. Under present plans, the first draft would be made in October, this year; the second in April and the third in October, 1941.

Before the draft, however, the National Guard and all reserve officers will be called to duty to prepare for and assemble in the large scale training program. The call for the Guard may be issued in September for one year's active service. Sixteen organizations of the Guard already have been warned that the Government has no funds with which to pay for the maintenance of dependents. A 12d Stages has been asked to permit married members of the Guard to resign. Members of the Guard who have dependents and do not resign will have to support their dependents out of their regular military pay. Resignations will not be permitted after the Guard has been called out.

Here is the way the draft will work:

Upon enactment of the Selective Service Law, the President will appoint a Director of Selective Service whose headquarters are to be in Washington. The Governor of each state will organize state draft offices. On recommendation of the Governors, local draft boards will be appointed for every 30,000 population.

Each local board will consist of three prominent citizens of the community. In the first year they usually included a physician, a business leader and a labor union leader. A three-man physicians' committee will be appointed to assist the local board and a three-man lawyers' committee to advise the draftees.

Resignation forms filled out at the polling place will be turned over to the county clerks who in turn will deliver them to the local boards. The boards will then give each registration card a serial number and begin mailing to each registrant a questionnaire for military training. There are no exceptions from military service in the proposed law. There are only postponements or "deferments" in the interest of the nation, but not of the individual.

By means of the questionnaire and by interviews, each local board will group registrants into four classifications.

Class I would include all men eligible for immediate occupations too important to be interrupted by military training.

Class II would include all men with family obligations.

Class IV would include all men who are conscientious objectors.

Occupational Deferments

The draft now being considered by Congress does not provide for any blanket occupational deferments. The test for Class II men will be whether, in the local board of the local board, the individual is needed in an essential industry or occupation, or engaged in essential agriculture.

For example, a machinist employed by a circus would not be considered eligible for Class II while a machinist working for an aircraft company would be.

In determining necessity for deferment because of family obligations, the local board will take account the number of persons being supported by a man. A man with one or more dependents will not be called for service in peacetime. But a wife who is employed or who has an independent income will not necessarily be considered a dependent.

Deferments because of physical handicaps will be governed largely by experience of the last war. The training program will be postponed, when its object is to build a fighting force, will accept only those physically qualified. Later, the training period may be used in parts to build up under-developed bodies.

Aliens and non-citizen Indians—living or reservations, chiefly—will not be subject to draft and certain executive and other officers of the federal, state and local governments may get deferred status while holding office.

No deferments are planned for students in colleges or universities.

In all cases, the deferment lasts only for the period in which the cause for such deferment exists. A necessary employee deferred in Class II is subject to the draft if he loses or quits his job. A married man loses his Class III deferment if he ceases to support a family, a Class IV man if his physical defect is remedied.

Conscientious objectors will not be trained for fighting duty, but in Britain, they will be trained for non-combatant service.

Should the draft program ever reach full development with 1,200,000 men being called for training every year, employers will be faced with many new problems.

Already employers are asking questions:

Will they lose their seniority and pay ratings when they leave their jobs for military service?

Will they get their jobs back if they want them when their year of service has been completed? Will they lose their benefits under industrial insurance and company retirement plans?

Employers are asking the same questions and more. They want to know how they can hedge possible losses of employees. Some employers, notably American Telephone and Telegraph, are studying plans to make up to employees the amount of wages they would have earned had they been working on plants to fill any demand for additional labor resulting either from the draft or from plant expansion.

The local draft boards, if established, will be directed to work closely with the employment offices in deciding which employees should be taken from their jobs.

In all cases in which employees are drafted, an employer will have the opportunity to appear before the local board to protest the drafting of any man. No employee will be considered necessary if he can be replaced with someone of equal skill or by someone who can learn to do the job within a week or two. Essential industries will be given first call on all available labor supply.

Some unions already have obtained agreements with employers stipulating that any employee called for military service shall be reinstated without loss of seniority at the end of his service period.

One provision of the draft bill tentatively approved by the Senate Committee would make it an unfair labor practice under the National Labor Relations Act for an employer to refuse to rehire a man who has left his job for military service.

Government itself has many unsolved problems created by the proposed draft law. The program is financially strained. Present estimated cost of training draftees is about $1,000 per man per year.

Army Faces Shelter Problem

Housing of 15,000 volunteers recruited during the last two months provided the Army with an acute housing shortage. The Army is now struggling to provide housing for some 250,000 members of the National Guard. It is not prepared to house 300,000 additional members who would be called up in October if the bill passes on schedule.

The Social Security program may have to be amended if draftees men are to be entitled to unemployment insurance payment in the weeks immediately following their discharge from training. As now written the unemployment compensation laws require Big Quail Season Foreseen By State Game, Fish Dir't'r.

Weather Conditions Ideal For Good Nesting Says Brown

Prospects for a bigger and better quail crop are very bright at the present time, if reports which have been received by the Division of Game and Fish from all sections of the state can be relied upon.

Weather conditions have been ideal for good nesting by the Bob White Quail and with the Division of Game and Fish releasing more than 22,000 Bob White Quail in parts during the past April, it certainly seems that the hunters will have everything they could desire in the way of shooting when November 24 rolls around.

Major James Brown, Director of the Division of Game and Fish stated that although the nesting season was exceptionally good, rains are scarce at the present time and small ponds and streams are drying up, cutting down the source of water supply for wildlife. This will tend to work hardships on the bird and animal life during August, September and October.

today are supported in one way or another by government. These important lines there is a serious shortage of workmen—many willing hands reach out for jobs, but they are not being adequately trained. Training people for highly skilled work takes a long time, and it also takes facilities which do not now exist in sufficient quantity.

There is the problem of the American standard of living. What we are doing for our fifteen billion—thirty billion—most eventually come out of the people's pockets. The national income will now be devoted to armament, in addition to possible debt increases. That means that we have fifteen percent less to spend for housing, food, clothing, entertainment—all the luxuries and necessities. The next president will undoubtedly attempt to incrementally make up the national income sufficiently to make up for this—but, so far as we can see, the best we are doing is to let things fall apart.

There is the long-range problem of the effects of war and war preparation on the economic structure. The factory that is built to make shells is either worthless when the emergency is over, or must undergo a costly re-vamping process. War-time boom, in other words, produces peace-time depressions—and the longer the war, the longer and deeper the depression.

These are but a few of the problems the next president must face. It isn't an enviable job.

Great Britain must dovetail her own military effort with the American defense program to win the war.

His comment raised the question of immensely increased shipments of arms from our country to Britain.

The need to supplement our own production by drawing upon the vast and invulnerable capacity of North America fall of France, Greenwood said.

The statement of the minister without portfolio was interpreted to mean that British orders for war material—now under negotiation with the United States—would be increased with the purpose of States' own orders to American plants.

Standardization of some supplies is permitted by both governments already has been produced.

Heat Wave Falls To Affect Business Trade and industry in the midst of summer activities will be hit by a heat wave, a waiting hand on many parts of the country.

Even so, the defense program, which is the impetus of the next president's job, is a few questions that will find some way to produce and pay for the goods and services that we must have.

There is the problem of trade. Today Hitler dominates the continent and the world. He has no deal in money, which means dealing in gold. He deals, instead, in barter. His economy goes back to the most primitive of economic systems. He says, in effect, "I have coal that you need—you have machines that I need—you will trade them. The rest of the United States will be either more Hitler's terms, which would involve a veritable economic revolution, or to force him to meet our traditional trade policy—which few economists believe he will be willing or able to do."

Senator Clark proposed Monday that aliens of five years' residence be given six months to apply for citizenship, if eligible, or be deported.

He introduced legislation which would require that such aliens who have not filed a declaration of intention to become a citizen during the last seven years and do not do so within six months after enactment of the measure be arrested and deported on warrant by the Attorney General.

Stress Importance Of Milk In Diet

An adult should drink a pint of milk daily and a child two pints, according to health standards of home economics at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Three families of two adults and three children need eight pints or a gallon of milk daily. A good milk cow should produce two to four gallons of milk daily, or enough to supply milk for a family of five. However, since a cow must be dry a part of the year, a farm family should have at least two milk cows.

A recent survey showed that families able to afford good milk, fruits, meat and eggs have less illness.

4-H District Fair Covers 53 Counties

Fifty-three counties have been invited to participate in the annual 4-H Club District Fair at Lexington August 27, 28, and 29. In these counties are more than 100,000 boys and girls belonging to 4-H clubs.

The exhibits will include clothing, canned and baked foods, and room improvement exhibits, and girls and livestock, crops, fruit and vegetables for boys. There also will be a style review, judging building demonstrations, and recreational events.

The Fayette County Future Farmers Fair also will be held during the week-end, and the Kentucky Jersey Milk Club will have its annual Jersey show the last day.

Hunting Season Opens Today Throughout Kentucky; All Squirrels Beware!

The Hunting season opens in Kentucky on August 15. The red and gray squirrel first on the list for the nimrods.

The squirrel season, which was changed by the last Legislature, opens on August 15 and extends through October 31, both dates inclusive. The bag limit is six a day or twelve in possession at any time. Attention is also called to the fact that it is strictly against the law to buy or sell squirrels at any time.

Reports receive by the Division of Game and Fish from its Conservation officers and from interested apartment throughout the state, indicate a goodly number of both red and gray species of the squirrel family.

The hunters' attention is also called to the fact that all shotguns must be plugged with a solid wood

Social Security Is Five Years Old

Three Billion Dollars Has Been Distributed To Aged Unemployed

The government's social security act, a five year old act, this week, has distributed $3,000,000,000 to the nation's aged and unemployed workers, and to widows, orphans and the blind.

In advance of its anniversary Wednesday, the social security board drew up a statistical picture showing the progress to date of some 50,000,000 workers had been enrolled in the program since President Roosevelt signed the act in 1935.

The social security program pours its benefits through a half dozen outlets which are either exclusive federal enterprises or joint undertakings of nation and state.

Its "insurance" benefits for the aged and unemployed are financed by monthly taxes, while grants from federal and state treasuries sustain the public assistance features for the young, the blind and the helpless in need.

At the top of the program is the old age and survivors insurance system which pays out monthly benefits to workers who retire at sixty-five and to widows, widows and orphans. Up to June 30, this system had paid $28,000,000 to 1,023,841 persons.

Unemployment compensation, which gives insured workers a moderate weekly sum during a limited number of weeks of joblessness, is reported to have distributed more than $1,000,000,000 in out-of-work benefits.

More than 28,000,000 commercial and industrial workers covered by the insurance, about 1,500,000 new jobs are drawing unemployment compensation.

To find jobs for the insured idle, the social security system has taken over the employment service. It has been credited with filling 5,000,000 jobs during 1939 and the first six months of 1940.

1940 Amendments Of Kentucky Game Laws Available

The 1940 Amendments and Additions to the Kentucky Game and Fish laws was off the press today and available for those who wish to purchase a copy. Major Brown, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, stated. Copies are available at County Clerks offices and can be secured when the hunting licenses are purchased.

The pamphlet contains law changes brought about at the session of the Kentucky Legislature. Among the changes are: new set-ups in hunting license fees to begin in January, 1941; squirrel season changed bird dogs must be confined from May 15 to August 15; open season on Red Fox to extend to month ending in 1939; and other alterations in the Game and Fish laws.

Things To Watch For This Fall
