100,000 KENTUCKY ILLITERATES ARE TAUGHT BY 5,000 VOLUNTEERS

TRANSPORT, KY., Dec. 27.—The largest contribution ever made to any cause in Kentucky by any profession or organization was the contribution of 5,000 public school teachers, who are providing the services of the State commission for literacy education. In a report to the Kentucky illiteracy commission, the inspector and examiner stated, "The cooperation of teachers in the effort to improve the condition of the illiterate people of the State is one of the most encouraging features of the work."

The commission was organized by the Governor and has the support of all the county superintendents of schools. It is reported that the work is being carried on in every county in the State.
