Issue Warning Against Spread Of Rabbit Fever

Disease Is Caught Through Cleaning Rabbits; Many Cases Reported In State

Cases of rabbit fever are being reported daily from many sections of Kentucky, but according to the Department of Health, which has issued warnings, no one has contracted the disease this year in Rowan County so far as can be ascertained.

However, this county has had numerous cases of tularemia or rabbit fever in the past. Three cases in this county are recalled. John Adams, former chief of police, was near death for several days with the disease last year. Prior to that Mrs. T. W. Rose and Mrs. T. A. E. Evans, of Farmers contracted the disease.

According to all medical data available the disease is not contracted through raising rabbits, but through the use of rabbit gloves for cleaning a rabbit's mouth.

There is no danger from eating well cooked rabbits.

Settlement At Haldeman Celebrated

Clay Workers Union Has Barquet; Labor Leaders Address Assemblage

Local 510, Brick and Clay Workers Union, of Haldeman, Ky., celebrated the settlement and adjustment made with the officials of the Kentucky Fire Brick Company early in November, at a giant meeting held Monday night in the gymnasium of the Haldeman School House. Over two hundred were present at the meeting, which was also attended by Philip G. Phillips, District Director of the National Labor Relations Board and by Frank H. International president of the Brick and Clay Workers Union.

Prior to the meeting, Mr. Phillips met with Mr. C. S. Stinson and officials of the Kentucky Fire Brick Company. They spent the afternoon working out the details of the distribution of the $22,000 in back pay that had been agreed upon in the settlement. Thirty one men were employed at the time of the settlement. The meeting held Monday was in the nature of a celebration and an expression of good will toward the men who had been employed at the time of the settlement. Addresses were made by Mr. Stinson and Mr. Phillips. Mr. Stinson congratulated the members of the union of their settlement and particularly Mr. Stinson for his work in bringing about the settlement. He reviewed the history of the labor movement from almost its beginning, discussing the methods in use at that time, when force was the only manner in which the laboring man could obtain recognition. He contrasted the days when he first became active in union work with the days when he was a member of the Kentucky Fire Brick Company. He discussed the methods of mediation marked by a total absence of violence. He praised the national adjustment which has been reached, stating that it has made settlements of this sort possible, and predicted even greater benefits to be derived from this and similar legislation.

Mr. Phillips discussed the settlement in a friendly discussion, full of facts which were published in the next issue of the News. He pointed out that the labor legislation that made the settlement possible was the result of the work of the Kentucky Fire Brick Company. (Continued On Page Five)

Burley Prices Under Level Of Last Season

Market Shows Some Improvement Over Last Week As Floors Are Flooded

Rowan farmers, who have not placed their tobacco on sales floors as yet, may receive a higher price than those who sold on the early market, a revisiting of state market disclosures. Rowan's quota this year was 370,000 pounds and it is estimated that less than half of this amount has been sold, principally because most floors are crowded and they are unable to get their tobacco up for sale.

Prices were set at Mt. Sterling and Mayville, the two floors which handle most of the tobacco from this section.

The week's average $19.62 - a total of 299,760 pounds moved across the breaks on two Mayville warehouses Tuesday as sales started, the second week of the 1938 Burley warehouse season on a steady note with the opening four days of auctions.

The leaf reported from the two sales averaged $19.82 per hundred pounds, and farmers received $50,430.14 for the leaf they consigned to market.

Sales which reported were at the Kirk-Ireslin No. 1, and the Amazon house, with the Farmers' house sale in complete conformity with this report close. The buyers moved on to the start of the second circuit of houses and blocked sales were in evidence when the mart closed at the Star, Grovers No. 3, and Independent No. 1.

Mt. Sterling's Grain Gate

The weekly marketing tobacco market average Monday was up $1.50 over the $17.52 average of last Friday's sale in a spirited auction district in which the Farmers and Grovers warehouses sold 273,676 pounds for $60,367.56, an average of $22.11.

A little over 100,000 pounds more were broken here in the first day than in any previous day's sale held this season. There was a great deal of high quality leaf on the floor, with mountain tobacco in the minority. For the fifth consecutive day, the high basket was sold for $31.1 M. Venable and C. G. Clinton, with mountain tobacco in 2,912 pounds for a crop average of $28.25 at the Farmers house for the high crop of the day.

The Farmers house sold 243,728 bushels of leaf at $54,120.00, an average of $22.21. The Grovers house in an hour's sale yesterday sold 273,676 pounds.

County To Get New Certifying Agent, Report Says

Several Youths Can Be Certified For Entrance In Redburn CCC Camp

Rowan County is expected to have a certifying agent within a few days, according to County Judge J. E. Peetree. Some weeks ago the office of the certifying agent was discontinued, but last week investigators from the Federal office of the War Relocation Authority are here laying the foundation for the opening of the office.

One of the first acts of the new office will probably be to certify youths for entrance into the Redburn C. C. Camp. A number of enrollees will be taken in sometime in January.

Subscription Taken For 'Morehead' Georgetown's Pet Dog

Mongrel Was Abandoned In Scott County Seat By Local Basketball Team

Two years ago a Morehead basketball team, enroute to Georgetown College, picked up a huge stray dog enroute. They took the dog to Georgetown where it was abandoned.

The large dog immediately made friends with everybody in Georgetown. Daily it made its rounds of meat markets, stores and many residences where it received tasty morsels. The dog was immediately named 'Morehead'.

'Morehead' became Georgetown's most loved pet and grew to an enormous size. Recently in attempting to jump a fence, 'Morehead' was hit by a car and suffered a broken leg. A donation was made up in Georgetown to send 'Morehead' to a convalescent hospital. So much was subscribed that after all hospital expenses were paid 'Morehead' still had a bank balance which is still credited to him in a Georgetown bank.

'Morehead's' paw print is used to sign any check that might be drawn on the account.

Louisville Pro Club Beats State All Stars 18-0

Don Fair And Frenchy Hammonds Of Morehead Show Up Well For Colleagians

Frenchy Hammonds, all state end and Don Fair, backfield ace, both of Morehead and Archie Moore and George Blitch, both of Western, were pronounced as the outstanding collegiate players which met the Louisville Tanks last Saturday at Louisville. The college stars were lost 18-0, principally because they were unable to adapt themselves to the pro rules which allows a pass from anywhere behind the line of scrimmage. Under collegiate rules a passer must be at least 5 yards from the line.

It was Fair's kicking that kept the All-Stars in the ball game. Time after time he got beautiful spirals from behind his own goal line. Only two punts which Fair did not kick were blocked. On one occasion Fair booted almost the length of the field where the ball was downed by Hammonds.

Loz Marzetti of Morehead also played a stellar game for the college boys. Harry Lowman, County Banker and Archie Adams also played a large part of the game for the All-Stars and showed up well.

No Decision Given On Incorporation Case

The Morehead incorporation proceedings which have been pending in Circuit Court for several months was not decided at any rule day Saturday as was expected. It was thought that Judge D. B. Cuddepp would give a decision of the matter Saturday but he did not hold any court.

MODERN WOMEN

CHARLENE WHITE
President of The National Federation of Business Women's Clubs, Inc.

New Ideas
Women have a great many ideas that can be converted into real money, especially when the idea supplies a want in the world today. There is Mrs. Bessie Pastor, for instance, whose creative mind has hatched out the finest of which is artificial ice. Mrs. Pastor, born in Bridgeport, Conn., has wanted to see artificial ice replace natural ice for skating ever since she was a child and lost two of her school-mates, who fell through this ice. She has continued to experiment with chemicals until now she has perfected an ice substitute that can be laid down and ironed out when blades cut it. It's good in any climate, which opens up great possibilities to those who live in warm countries.

Lost and Found
From all over the world of Agriculture, Madge Blessing answers calls and messages from friends and relatives, asking her to find lost persons. As director of the international lost and found department of the Department of State, this is her job, and just now it keeps her very busy, because of the wars in Spain and China. Her department has records on every case that comes to her knowledge so that inquiries about persons missing for many years not, however, keep track of missing persons in this country. Mrs. Blessing has been with the department for twenty years, starting as a war worker.

Cuts Celluloid
After twenty-five years in pictures, Miss Anne Bauchens, one of the first Hollywood cutters, is still interested in her job and keeps up with the changes that come to this big industry. She started as secretary to William De Mille, then worked for his brother Cecil and finally dropped to the celluloid work for shearing and splicing, which she finds extremely interesting and work that keeps her right on her toes.

The Farm Home

The selection of pictures for one's home is unquestionably a personal matter of taste but placing them effectively is something else again and requires study and a feeling for proportion. There is only one fundamental rule to help so the final effect depends solely on the cleverness of him who hangs the pictures. The one and only rule is that pictures must be hung at eye level, at a more or less uniform height around the room. This creates a feeling of order and restfulness as well as an impression of definite planning. Obviously small pictures must be hung without any visible means of support—by a short wire fastened to a small nail hidden behind the picture. Large pictures of course should be hung by two parallel cords to give the feeling of perfect security.

The picture hung above the fireplace is necessarily above the eye level. Naturally it dominates the room and should be chosen as the keynote of color. Either its prevailing color or one of its details of color should repeat in the draperies or other features of the room.

New and inexpensive ways of meat the meat course are hard to find. The so-called "cheaper cuts" usually have mostly bone and fat and little lean meat. While they make delicious steaks and pot roasts with brown gravy, the goods right to the spot, we hesitate to resort to them for company fare. The next time you have guests for dinner serve Spanish steak instead of an expensive roast. It's different and most delicious. Twice baked potatoes, lima beans in cream, tomatoes salad and peach marmosade complete the menu. Serve appetizers in the living room. If you want to omit a first course.

Have a sirloin steak cut 2-1/2 inches thick. Sear quickly in a hot frying pan. Season with salt and pepper and rub generously with butter. Put in a shallow baking pan and slip into a moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.). Cook thirty minutes and cover with a thick layer of sliced onions. Season onions with salt and pepper and dot with bits of butter. Cook forty-five minutes and cover with a layer of sliced tomatoes. Season lightly with salt and pepper and cook until meat is very tender. It will take about half an hour to finish cooking. Then sprinkle lavishly with grated cheese and leave in the oven, just long enough to melt cheese. Serve with gravy made from the juices in the pan. After you clean and polish your candlesticks and irons or any other brass and copper pieces try covering them with a coat of clear lacquer. Then, instead of spending hours this summer keeping them bright and gleaming you will only need to dust them. Use a metal polish, specially recommended for the metal you are cleaning. Rub well with the cleaner and let dry. Then rub off all the polishing material and at the same time bring up the luster of the metal. Wash each piece in a hot light suds and wipe perfectly dry with a soft cloth dipped in denatured alcohol and then apply a thin even coat of the lacquer with a fine paint brush. It is this every fall to every piece of brass and copper in my house and it never tarnishes all summer. You can treat pewter the same way if you like this metal to shine.

NUTS HAVE MANY USES IN COOKING
Because nuts are a nourishing food, especially rich in oil, and adapted to different cooking uses, they will provide many a delicious dish for winter menus. A nut loaf makes a good main dish for a winter meal. The most successful loaf mixture tested by the United States Department of Agriculture's bureau of home economics chopped nuts, chopped raw vegetable, a cornal like rice or breadcrumbs with a thick sauce to bind the ingredients together. Chopped celery, green pepper or raw carrot, providing the crisp texture so appetizing in such a mixture. The method used in making was a mix nuts, vegetables, cereal or bread crumbs in the thick sauce, mold into a loaf, pack tightly in a well-greased loaf pan lined with wax and bake in a moderate oven for an hour. Chopped peanuts, carrots, and bread crumbs with tomato sauce make a delicious loaf, as do chopped pecans and rice.

Nuts also make excellent croquettes if the mixture is softer and more moist than that used for a loaf. Mashed potatoes, bean pulp or cooked cereals may make the base for nut croquettes.

Nuts may be used to give extra nourishment and flavor to almost any recipe for bread or cake. But because nuts in a baked mixture tend to absorb moisture and make the finished product dry, they may be placed in boiling water and drained before being added to the other ingredients.

An unusual use for chopped nuts is in a pie crust. Substitute pecan nuts for half the fat in the pie-crust recipe and mix as for plain pastry. Nut crust is especially good with a cream or custard filling.

JAN. 24-27 DATE OF FARM HOME MEETING
The annual Farm and Home Convention will be held at the Agricultural Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky at Lexington, January 24-27, inclusive. This will be the 27th annual state-wide meeting of Kentucky farmers and women.

Many phases of farm life will be discussed at the general meetings and at special sessions for stockmen, dairy farmers, poultry raisers, fruit growers, tobacco producers, and homemakers. Dairy cattle clubs and organizations of stockmen, poultry raisers, beekeepers, crops and homemakers will meet during the convention.

Turn and air the mattress when the linen is changed. Turn it end for end and top for bottom. This prevents hard hollow places in the center of the mattress and makes them wear more evenly and last longer. Sun the bedding frequently.

When setting floor trees on sloping ground, planting a shallow furrow where the trees are to be placed serves as a setting guide, and helps to keep grass and weeds from small trees. The furrows also collect and hold moisture. Run the furrows with the contour.

Examples drawn when precept fails. And sermons are less read than tales.

Burley Prices Under Level Of 1937

afternoon sold 21,248 pounds of burley for $6,156.57, an average of $21.05. The Growers' house sale was closed and was resumed at 9 o'clock this morning.
 Sales were completed at the Growers' Warehouse at noon today and the buyers started at the Farmers' Warehouse after the close. The tobacco offered this morning was of inferior quality to that offered yesterday and it is believed that the average at the Growers' will not be over $19 or $20. The high basket was still $31 and the low $5. Quite a few crops averaged above $25. Receipts continue to be exceptionally heavy and both houses are being taxed to find place for the tobacco that is coming in. Considering the amount of tobacco that is being brought to the Mt. Sterling market, there is little delay to the grower in getting his tobacco on the floor. Truck loads of tobacco completely lined Locust street on both sides yesterday and indications are that most of the growers are going to sell their crops before Christmas.

Some of the best crops sold Monday were high average.

Lexington Prices Drop
 Burley tobacco growers in Kentucky surveyed higher average receipts today as the annual sales continued in their second week.
 While the average price per hundred pounds here, the world's largest loose-leaf market, yesterday was 17 cents below that of Friday, prices were generally up over the rest of the state.

The Louisville Courier-Journal estimated the statewide average yesterday was $21.73.
 Mt. Sterling showed a gain of $1.59 a hundred and Hopkinsville $1.02 a hundred.

Sales here were 2,011,204 pounds. Receipts were $412,636.81, for an average of $22.01.

An opening week's average of $22.83, just 85 cents a hundred pounds below the average for the first week of the previous season, was recorded last week on the Lexington tobacco market sale of the 1938 Burley crop got under way.

The sale in Lexington last week amounted to 8,312,178 pounds, sold for $1,807,709.48, as compared with sales during the first week a year ago of 8,701,662 pounds for $208.3.

The market in Lexington opened 997.68, an average of $23.08, last Monday with an average of $23.05, and reached the week's highest average level Tuesday with an average of $23.86. Friday's average of $22.08 closed the week's sales. Throughout the week's sales, flying trash and lugs were selling for from $8 to $12 a hundred lower than a year ago, with the greatest drop in the flying. Bright leaf was about steady to just a shade lower, the red was steady to some higher, and the tips were from $4 to $8 higher than a year ago. The price range for the week was from $5 to $33 a hundred, with very few baskets going under $8 and only occasional baskets over $30. The market was fairly active with many sales opened Monday, Dec. 5, and receipts continued heavy throughout the week. Most of the first tobacco sold was in smaller crops brought here from Eastern and Southern Kentucky counties.

with a greater percentage of native tobacco expected to go over the breaks within the next few weeks. The Christmas holiday period begins after Thursday, Dec. 22, and sales will be resumed on Monday, Jan. 2. The annual 4-H Club sale held in Lexington will be held this year on Saturday, Dec. 17 at the Old Burley warehouse. The 4-H tobacco will be received Dec. 15, graded on the Fifth, and sold Dec. 17.

Average prices for Burley tobacco sold opening week this season were substantially lower than opening week last season on lugs and flying and good and fine quality leaf, it was reported by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Tips and red leaf grades were higher than last season's opening prices. Largest decreases were shown for the better quality grades of lugs and flyings.

Sales were heavy in volume. Offer and good quality leaf and lugs and low to good quality flyings. A good volume of low and fair quality tips was also included in the offerings. Some markets reported that bids on many lots were rejected.

The Lexington, Kentucky market opened for the season on Monday, December 5. The majority of the other markets opened on Tuesday and some did not begin sales until Wednesday.

It had all been developed in the last few years. He told the men assembled that it was not a victory which they were celebrating, but that he hoped at some future date to be able to attend a victory celebration at Haldeman, a celebration in which all the men employed by the company would take part, emphasizing the fact that "A house divided against itself must fall," and that only by building one big united union could the cause of labor be said to have been won. He emphasized the fact that he was not joining the union, and this so far as different unions were concerned he was strictly neutral, but drove home the fact that by whatever name it was known, it should embrace every employee of the company. "That," he said "you may hold a real victory dinner and I will be glad to attend."

Among the guests from Morehead who attended the meeting were Jack Wilson and George McDaniel. Mr. Wilson was called on for a short talk. Following the meeting, a delightful lunch was served by the Blue Moon Restaurant, to all members and guests of the Local.

At the Cozy In December

Up The River

Don't let the title mislead you, or the customers. The film is full of criminals as the prison in which most of the action takes place, but they are gay, amusing criminals engaged in all sorts of lighthearted enterprises, from amateur theatricals to interpenetrating football. While proving, double and treble, that crime does not pay, the players have a swell time and give one. The film is in many respects the most unusual of the year, and by any standard one of the funniest.

The frolic as draped is Maurine Walker, once serious story of the same name. This will be remembered as having to do with a pair of confidence men who break out of prison for the purpose of outwitting another pair of confidence men engaged in taking a fellow convict's mother's money away from her. In the original treatment, this made somber melodrama. As handled here it is ripping comedy.

Preston Foster and Arthur Treacher turn in tiptop performances as the captive confidence men whose elementary knowledge of the penal penitentiary embarrases the prison football team, coached by convict "Slim Nelson" (Slim Sumner) and including a fellow convict, "Memphis Jones" (Bill Robinson). Akin Dinwari is capital as the warden who brings the boys back in time to save the fellow convict's life. Sidney Toler as the confidence man at large, Ed Gargan as prison guard and Eddie Collins as master of ceremonies in the prison, roles are immensely effective.

Up The River will be shown at the Cozy Theatre Thursday and Friday, December 16-18.

Dr. Kildare

Putting it bluntly, "Young Dr. Kildare" is a surprise picture. It is sound entertainment and is not without a wealth of natural human humor. It tells a doctor story with all the action taking place in a big hospital, but never is it a repetition of anything previously done.

It has nothing to do with society doctors, dangerous operations, a hero falling in love with a beautiful nurse or patient. Never indulging in heroics or hysterics, it merely tells a potent story in a simple, straightforward way. As it is not a routine show, it calls for unusual exploitation, and makes available the material.

In the leading roles it presents Lew Ayers as Young "Dr. Kildare," a fine characterization, and Lonel Barrymore in the type of role he handles so expertly, the gruff and irascible but tender hearted "Dr. Gillespie." It introduces Jo Ann Sayers in an auspicious style.

The young doctor's decision not to follow in his country doctor's fathers footsteps disappoints his parents and sweetheart. As an intern in a metropolitan institution he bears the brunt of their wrathful and doctor's sarcasm. While saving the life of a girl, would-be suicide, an ambulance case patient in his charge dies, and the youth is in disgrace. The girl, brought to the hospital is considered insane by the city's specialists. "Kildare" has the intuition that a mysterious fear is driving her to continued attempts at self-destruction. Turning detective for the moment, he ferrets out the girl's secret, and, blasting the theories of a high-powered psychiatrist, convinces her she has nothing to fear. Restoring her to her parents and fiancé, "Kildare" is rewarded by being made "Gillespie's assistant."

"Young Dr. Kildare" will be shown at the Cozy Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday December 27-28.

CARRY NATION

On January 21, 1901, one of the most sensational women in American history walked down the streets of Wichita, Kansas, singing "Onward Christian Soldiers." She had a hatchet in her hand and when she reached Jim Burn's saloon on Douglas Avenue, she rushed in through the swinging doors, waved her hatchet in the air and shouted: "This is the arm of God. I have come to save you men from drunken hell!"

The customers fled out of the side door.

The bartender ducked behind a table, while Carry Nation threw beer bottles at the mirrors and smashed in the heads of whiskey barrels with her hatchet. In a few minutes the place looked as if it had been struck by a Kansas cyclone.

And it had. It had been struck by a cyclone in petticoats.

When she was dragged into court by the police, the woman of iron was in an insane asylum, and was ordered to be released on her own recognizance. She did not have been entirely sane herself that who is?

She did many beautiful things. For example, her father died, leaving a lot of debts, and fifteen years later, she paid those debts.

Carry Nation had good and sufficient reasons for despising the "Whiskey" had broken up her home. Her husband had died a drunkard's death, leaving her penniless, with a baby to support.

When she was dragged into court she insisted on acting as her own attorney and when the judge quoted the laws of Kansas she cried: "We are going to try it according to the laws of Ecclesiastes." And then she would stand up and begin reading her Bible.

When the judge told her to sit down, she snapped back at him, "Don't tell me to sit down. I'm old enough to be your mother."

Four years after her husband died, she married David Nation, a newspaper editor, farmer and preacher. She thought their marriage was an answer to prayer. David Nation finally became pastor of church in Holton, Kansas.

But Carry felt she knew more about preaching than her husband did, so she chose his texts for him and often wrote his sermons. While David stood in the pulpit trying to inspire his little flock, Carry sat in the front row and told him in audible tones when to raise and lower his voice, when to speed it up and where to gesture.

When she thought he had preached long enough, she would step into the aisle and say in a loud voice: "That will be all, thank you, David." If he didn't stop preaching immediately, she marched right up to the pulpit, banged the Bible shut under his nose, handed him his hat and told him to go home.

After a few months of this, the Church Board asked their pastor to resign and he did so with pleasure.

Years later, when he sued her for a divorce, she said, "David was too slow for me."

I feel especially at home on the subject of Carry Nation. Although she was born half a century before I was, I lived in the same town where she and part of the Jesse James gang had grown up. For awhile, I attended the same college that she had attended, and she is buried now in my home town of Burlington, Missouri.

I once saw her in action in a church. In Pierre, South Dakota. The preacher said something that morning that she didn't like, and she spoke right up in church, then and there told him what she thought.

On another occasion, I saw her walk up to a man in a crowd, knock a cigar out of his mouth and tell him that he ought to be ashamed of himself, for tobacco made him smell like a dog.

When she came to New York, she caused an uproar by going to the swanky horse show in Madison Square Garden and publicly denouncing Mrs. Alfred Vanderbilt for wearing evening clothes.

Was Carry Nation crazy? Well, her daughter had to shut up in an insane asylum, and Carry may not have been entirely sane herself that who is?

She did many beautiful things. For example, her father died, leaving a lot of debts, and fifteen years later, she paid those debts.

She didn't have to, and no one expected her to, but she did.

When Carry Nation first began breathing fire on the plains of Kansas, the anti-saloon movement was a weak, impotent affair. But Carry Nation transformed it into a militant giant that eventually put the 18th amendment into the Constitution.

The State of Kansas was named one of its highways in her honor. It is called "The Carry Nation Trail and the signs on it are hatchets."

ALCOHOLISM

Chronic alcoholism is considered a disease by some eminent medical authorities, while others insist that it is an acquired pernicious habit. Heretofore no doubt is to a certain extent responsible for a craving for some stimulant to control excessive nervousness, and the victim sooner or later ascertains that liquor is small doses does overcome this bodily weakness, only to learn too late that he must gradually increase the quantity consumed to get the quieting results, and ultimately becomes a confirmed drunkard.

Today the intelligent doctor knows that a patient using liquor in excessive quantities has less opportunity for recovery from prolonged and acute diseases than the person who never drinks or who takes alcohol in moderation. This is particularly true in heart conditions, typhoid, pneumonia, yellow fever and illness which affect the heart and lungs. I never appreciate the truthfulness of this until I found yellow fever epidemic in Venezuela. Out of forty-six white patients, but one survived. Every one who died was a heavy drinker. The man who pulled through seldom tasted liquor and his recovery was due to the fact that his heart was able to do its work, when required because it had not been excessively stimulated by alcohol for years.

Consumption of Liquor

Directly and indirectly there has been an increasing death rate due to the excessive use of alcoholic beverages, and the abrupt rise in automobile accidents can be traced to the greater consumption of liquor. Arcaulus in 1483 wrote a wonderful description of chronic alcoholism—so exact that it might be used today in describing these cases. From that time on others have studied the unfortunate addicted to this stimulant but so far nothing definite has been accomplished, in making these so-called cases permanent. These cases are most confuting to the physician.

Twenty years ago I had a male patient, who in drunken frenzy, nearly killed his wife and daughter. After recovering from delirium tremens and realized what he had done, this man never again tasted whiskey, and even refused it when he had pneumonia. Within a year I have had another patient, a mother of three children, who had never tasted alcoholic drinks until she was past forty suddenly acquired a liking for them. She neglected her household duties, as well as her family and sold the furniture to get more liquor when her husband refused her money for this purpose. Two months treatment in a sanatorium seemed to help her. After she had been home one week, she started drinking again and is now in an insane asylum. Unquestionably the liquor problem is the worst type of sickness that confronts the doctor, for a majority of these unfortunate ultimately acquire drug habits.
