The Year Has Brought Many Blessings

The past year has brought much to the people of Rowan County. We face the future with renewed hope and with a definite atmosphere of more prosperity in the year to come. Morehead has kept pace with the advancement of Morehead and the business standpoint Morehead ranks ahead of the city of the same size in eastern Kentucky. We have seen during the year just past several new and modern establishments open in the city. Failures have been few. There are perhaps some of us who have not enjoyed during the last year the prosperity of our neighbors, but nevertheless we have all lived and the vast majority of us comparatively well.

In one section of the county—Haldeman—there is perhaps cause for more rejoicing than there has been at Christmas time for many years. The labor situation has been settled and Friday men will draw pay checks for the first time in two or three years. Children in these homes have been told that Santa Claus will not forget them this year. The fact that Haldeman is now operating both plants is ample evidence that we may expect a greater business year in 1939.

Think back over 1938 and as you sit down to your Christmas table you can justly give thanks for all the blessings that you have received. The Rowan County News has noted the advancement of Morehead of the county and of the people. To our legion of friends we extend the sincere wish that this may be the happiest Christmas that you have ever enjoyed.

The Farmers Defeat Themselves

Although Kentucky voted by a large majority in favoring of continuing the burley quota plan the A. A. proposal was voted down by the nation and will not be effective next year. It appears that once again the farmer has voted against his own interests. As a result of the rejection of the burley plan farmers may raise as much tobacco as they desire next year. We can reasonably expect a great over production and a substantial decrease in prices. The big companies have scored another victory over the farmer. It was the money from the big tobacco companies that financed the campaign of propagandists against the marketing plan, and in an effort to "freeze out" the farmer there seems little question but that the large buyers held prices down this year as low as possible.

Several years ago Kentucky had its tobacco burley pool. In that instance farmers showed they lacked the qualities of cooperation and loyalty and as a result it was disbanded. After the pool was done away with it was generally agreed by the farmers that a mistake had been made.

continued the quota plan but votes from other states cut the margin. True, Kentuckians would have, as shown by their vote Saturday, favoring the crop control and sales system to a majority of 612 percent with a 66 and two thirds majority needed.

We believe that if farmers could have foreseen the possibilities of the quota and how that eventually it would have insured them better prices for the leaf raised that they would have approved the plan by a majority akin to last year.

If 1939 is a good crop year it is safe to assume that tobacco leaf will be covered with leaf. Bordering states of Kentucky such as Ohio, Tennessee, Missouri, Indiana and Illinois will show biggest increases in proportionate production. Tobacco will bring a cheaper price. Cigarettes and tobacco, however will sell at the same price.

The big companies will be the gainer. And, as in the past, the farmer will be the sucker—just as he has been in the past.

The quota plan is about the same as the cooperative orange growers' association in California and many similar cooperative farmer organizations. They have succeeded admirably. It is our belief that the quota plan would likewise have shown a great benefit to farmers if they had allowed it to function for them.

In our belief the burley farmers of the nation have again defeated themselves.

The "Gravy Train Still Runs"

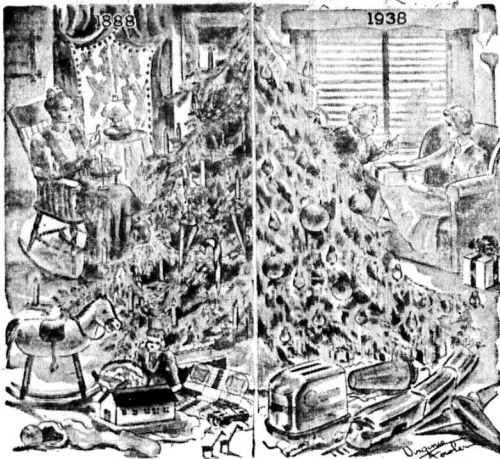

The Trail Blazer, the College Paper was printed last Saturday. This is the first time that it has been printed the week that school is dismissed. It was also printed during E. K. E. A. week this year for the first time. Mr. Sample needed a little more "gravy," evidently. This sign of the "Economy program instituted by the president"

Flicker Fanfare

When the Governor of Kentucky goes on a handshaking spree, it is politics and just plain old Kentucky. But when Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler with a select group of followers come to Hollywood as honor guests for the world premiere of a motion picture called "Kentucky" it is news for the nation and citizens of Kentucky. Such was the glamour opening of the million dollar 20th Century Fox production "Kentucky" last night at the famed Hollywood Carty Circle Theatre.

Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler with his famous friends came three thousand miles to pay tribute and give much needed publicity for one of Hollywood's most expensive productions but the picture is no more Kentucky than Hitler's decrees are American. Yet, our Governor gave official blessing to its greatness in the usual Hollywood manner of superlatives. Hollywood critics call the picture the real McCoy, however it is really international both in color and production. The star, Richard Greene, imported Englishman with an accent thicker than a London fog and the list of credits for the picture includes a score of persons who do not have the privilege

Same Old Christmas Tree—But How Different!

In the fifty years between 1888 and 1938, the Christmas Tree has grown up more rapidly than in all its previous centuries of existence. The old candles, tinsel and wax, have given place to brilliant electric solar systems, the decorations have become simpler and more streamlined. Most modern and streamlined of all are the Christmas presents nesting at the foot of the ancient tree. Whole villages and plants, ready-cut and fitted, waiting to be erected; electric trains fading through and over minute models of the most famous tunnels and bridges; a host of streamlining presents, ranging from the most subtle and delicate applications of electricity, to the fully automatic electric toilet, long-established as the center of the modern breakfast table. The well known artist, Virginia Fowler, has shown above, two halves of the Christmas Tree, one bearing the decorations and presents of 1888, the other, those of 1938. And the young woman of the earlier picture, is the grandmother of the latter!

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Written Each Week By B. K. KAZER, Pastor Of The Baptist Church

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON. SUBJECT: OUR RESPONSE TO GOD'S LOVE. Matt. 2:1-12.

Golden Text: "God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." John 3:16. Christmas is celebrated the world over. The "spirit of Christmas" brings a sort of relaxation in the heart of men's hearts, and a sort of good will prevails in this season.

Why do you suppose God never ordained such a day, never said anything about it in the Bible, made no provision for it, gave no commandment concerning it? Because God knew that the day would be more important than that which it symbolizes. It is a day of man's origin, has no connection with religious worship or with God's work in the world, and probably means nothing to Him. It is man's effort to make himself worshipful, to do something which will justify himself before God, and make him feel that he has, in a measure, been religious, by entertaining thoughts of good will and pleasant.

But the argument will come back: "If the season produces good feeling, and the spirit of giving is in our hearts, why is it not good to celebrate the season?"

There are several reasons, seeing it from God's viewpoint. In the first place, God's Son is an always Saviour, not just a Christmas Saviour. His power to save depends upon his power to answer from the dead. We have one day, the Lord's Day—Sunday—set apart by precept and example in the New Testament, as the day to commemorate the resurrection which is our day. That occurs fifty-two times a year, every seven days, and that is God's day, set apart to keep alive the memory of the fact that Jesus is our Saviour every day. That is why He does not need a birthday celebration.

In the second place, as I have said, God knows that the day would become more important than the Christ. Many a man celebrates Christmas this year with drunkenness or with some other vile conduct, wholly out of harmony with Christ. People who bar the door of their hearts to the Saviour will pretend to have a big Christmas spirit and talk of it as if they were great-hearted people. They will open their doors to the D.A.B., but they will shut their hearts to the Saviour. This does not please God, and God wants no day to displace the Son. In the third place, what will the week after Christmas bring? We shall return to live another year getting instead of giving. We shall forget the Christmas spirit until December of 1939 rolls around. Then, in our pretense of high-mindedness, we shall return again to the Christmas spirit. God is asking those those months that intervene. "Why not let Christmas spirit last all the year?"

CAREY SCHOOL NO ABSENCES. The Carey School had no absences last week. Mrs. Mayme Lowe, teacher is the happy teacher reporting this good percentage for a week in December. The Christmas Program at Carey will be Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. Anyone interested will be welcome to attend. Santa Claus will be FARMERS SCHOOL.

The teachers at the Farmers school are very proud of the record made by the first and second grades of having 100 per cent attendance for the past week. If the little children can come every day, we think the larger ones might be able to do the same. Mrs. Beulah Burrows reports only absences of two days which is a very good record. The children missing were: Miss Christine Hall also reports two days absences. Mr. J. H. Rivers, student in the fourth grade was absent from school one-half day last week due to illness. M. T. was heartbroken over having to be out of school because it was the first half day he had lost in four years. This is a fine record. M. T. We hope you can keep it up the rest of your school career.

Harold Pelfrey reports one child absent. This child happened to be a Bath county child. We give this Bath county child to other counties to attend in our county and expect perfect attendance in return. Austin Rieps, principal reports 10 days absences, four of whom were sick. BIG BRUSHY SCHOOL NEWS. The children are planning their Christmas Program for next Thursday. Mr. Skaggs reports Lucy Reeves as being absent one day last week. This is the first day for Lucy to be out of school for five years. She was too ill to attend. Lucy is the daughter of Leah and Mrs. Reeves, age twelve and in the fifth grade. We hope she will be able to attend school again before Christmas. A new floor has been laid in the school house and the room is much warmer.

The Big Brushy P. T. A. met Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. This was a business meeting and the main topic to be discussed was a powder road through that part of the county. A large crowd was present. Those on the program were:

WALT DISNEY

Not many years ago, Walt Disney, the man who created Mickey Mouse and the Three Little Pigs was almost unknown. Today, he is one of the most famous men in America.

Not so long ago, Walt Disney was broke. Today he is very wealthy. He could speak about in glittering Rolls Royce, if he wanted to; but instead, he uses an old car that he bought second-hand. He takes all of his profits and plows them back into his business. He says that making pictures better interests him far more than piling up millions.

Walt Disney used to live in Kansas City, and he was ambitious to be an artist; so one day, he went to the Kansas City Star to get a job. The editor examined his drawings, told him he didn't have any real talent, discouraged him, and sent him away with a broken heart. Finally he got a poorly paid job making drawings for churches. He couldn't afford to rent an office, so he had to use his father's garage for his studio. He thought at the time it was hardship, but he realized now that, working amidst the grease and gasoline smells of that garage gave him an idea that was worth million dollars.

It happened in this way: One day a mouse started playing on the floor of the wooden garage. Disney stopped and looked at him, and then went into the house and got some crumbs and fed him.

As the days went by, the mouse became so friendly that he would climb up on top of Disney's drawing board.

Disney finally went out to Hollywood and started a series of animated cartoons called "Oswald the Rabbit," but that was a flat failure. So again he soon found himself without money and without a job.

One day, he was sitting in a rooming house, trying to think up an idea, when suddenly there popped into his mind the mouse who used to climb on his drawing board back in the Kansas City garage. Instantly, he started to sketch a mouse — and that's how Mickey Mouse was born.

Mouse was born. That mouse in Kansas City, long since dead and gone, was the great grandfather of the most famous motion picture actor the world has ever known. Mickey Mouse gets more fan letters than any other actor in the films; and he frolics across the screen in more different countries than any other actor in the world.

Walt Disney himself takes all of his time to thinking up ideas for pictures; and when he gets an idea he discusses it with his staff of twelve assistants in the story department. One day about two years ago, he suggested to his staff that they make a picture out of a nursery story that his mother had read to him as a child — the story of the Three Little Pigs and the Big, Bad Wolf.

His assistants shook their heads, and turned down their thumbs. Disney says he tried to forget about the idea; but he simply couldn't. However, every time he suggested it, his staff warned him it would be a "flop."

Finally, the staff said, "All right. Let's go ahead with it," but they didn't have much faith in it.

It takes ninety days, to make a Mickey Mouse film; but they didn't propose to waste that much time on Three Little Pigs, so they rushed it out in sixty days. No one in the studio thought it would amount to much. Yet it took the country by storm.

It was a sensational success. Everyone, from the cotton fields of Georgia to the apple orchards of Oregon, was soon singing "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf?" He plays baseball every day at noon, and he occasionally plays polo; but he says he gets more of a real thrill out of his work than he does out of his play.

The man survived the operation and seemed to be on the road to recovery, when he suddenly died. An autopsy showed that the needle had punctured the left ventricle of the heart.

Foreign Bodies
I doubt if there has ever lived a doctor, who at some time or other in his professional career, was not called upon to remove a foreign body from the interior of a human being.

It is most common to have children of all ages resort to the practice of inserting peas, beads, lack nails, pieces of stone, and dirt into their nostrils and ears or else swallowing them.

Among girls, hundreds, when they wore their hair long, bit off the ends and swallowed them, in time to have these bits of hair form into a ball shaped mass in the stomach which often required a surgical operation.

General Robert G. Drenth, carried a bullet in his chest during a Civil war engagement in his body for more than thirty years. He was wounded in the chest, and I removed the bullet from the call of his leg.

An elderly murderer, recently executed at Sing Sing, for years had been swallowing pins and needles. X-ray pictures showed a great many of these dressmakers' accessories scattered about various portions of his anatomy and the strange thing was that none of them had in the least inconvenienced him during the twenty-five years he had been following the practice. Such cases are relatively common in medical history and seldom do they prove fatal.

About six months ago however, a man walked into one of the large New York hospitals and stated that while he was sleeping in a bed at the head of which hung a pin cushion, he was aroused by a sharp pain in the anterior portion of the left side of his chest, and told the interne he believed a needle had stuck in his body. The pain increased materially in intensity and was aggravated by deep breathing. His heart sounds were obscured by a coarse, grating murmur.

A diagnosis of needle in the heart was made and the X-ray pictures taken confirmed this. An operation exposing the heart was performed and a needle two inches long was removed from that organ, the eye portion of the needle being visible to the operating surgeon. The needle had passed through the top of the upper lobe of the left lung and into the heart.

them. They did not like to hear a peasant speak as though his word were final.

He made demands on men's consciences, which aroused opposition. He expected of them a more implicit obedience than had been demanded by Solomon or Moses. He did not hesitate to ask men to lay down their life for him. This is the fashion of Kings. He said one day to a company of disciples: "Ye are my friends if ye do the things which I command you." Only monarchs speak with so peremptory an intonation.

No wonder men asked in perplexity: "Who is this?"

And yet he did not look like a king. He had none of the pomp and circumstance of kings. He wore no crown. He wielded no scepter. His robe was not purple. He did not ride in a chariot or on a horse. No retinue of armed men followed him up and down the land. He did not shake the earth with his tread. In no respect did he live up to the part of an Oriental ruler. One day he sketched a picture of the judgment day, and he placed himself upon the throne. He told parables which implied that the final day of the last Sundays of his life Jesus allowed the crowd to chant around him the words of an ancient Hebrew poet: "Blessed is the King that cometh in the name of the Lord!" They called him King, and he did not rebuke them.

It was this assertion of his kingdom which caused the storm to break at last on Jesus' head. The crowd which thronged the door of Pilate's court-room shouted loud and long: "We found this man saying, 'He himself is Christ, a King!'" Here was a charge direct and clear, which Pilate as a Roman governor was bound to take notice of. Calling Jesus aside he asked him bluntly: Art thou a king? And the answer which the prisoner returned to averted the heart of Pilate and he scarcely knew what to do. He desired to get rid as soon as possible of a man the like of whom he had never seen before. He could not in safety release a man who was claiming to be a king. Tiberius Caesar brooked no rivals. Setting the prisoner before the crowd he exclaimed: "Behold your King. And with one accord they screamed: 'Away with him! Away with him! Crucify him!' The chief priests chimed in, saying 'We have no king but Caesar!' It was because Jesus claimed to be a King that the Jews and Romans determined that he should die. Over his head was written in the three chief languages of the world: 'Jesus of Nazareth, the King of the Jews.' Jesus Christ was crucified because he claimed to be King."

The tragedy narrated in the Gospels is the story of a tragedy continued to the present hour. Jesus still claims to be king, but now as of old Herod is enraged against him, and the multitudes shout: "We will not have this man to reign over us."

The multitudes are eager to praise and honor Jesus as a teacher, a philosopher, a peacemaker, a social reformer, a lover of humanity.

They hesitate only when they are asked to crown him king. They despise everything on his kingship. His whole religion is founded on the fact that he is King.

Christmas is coming, and at Christmas we naturally think of Jesus. Which Jesus are you going to think about? Shall it be the Jesus of picture, or the Jesus of song? The Jesus of the artists is a lovely figure to gaze upon. For centuries the multitudes have looked upon the face and are not yet weaned. The Jesus of song is still more beautiful. "How sweet the name of Jesus sounds in a believer's ear." Jesus has been the theme of innumerable anthems, and operas, and cantatas, and carols, all of us are ready every year to join singing the Christmas songs. The Jesus of the Biblical narrative is also entertaining. We never grow weary of hearing the story of the baby who was born in Bethlehem, and whose mother laid him in a manger.

The Jesus of God is King, and nothing but obedience to Jesus will lift the world out of its distresses. How solemn are his words: "Not every one that says, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven. Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, and then will profess unto them, I never knew you!" He puts to us the question with which he confounded his disciples in Jerusalem: "Why do ye call me Lord, and do not the things which I say?" These are words we need to ponder amid the festivities of Christmas. Where is he that is born king?

The problem of our life is to bring the Herod in us into subjection to Christ the King. Herod is of the earth earthly. Herod lives solely with himself. Herod is averse to service and to sacrifice. Herod despises the way of the cross. Herod is always planning to murder Jesus. He would murder him because Jesus insists on being King. It is God's will that Jesus should be the Ruler of our heart, and Christmas is an angel from the court of heaven sent to remind us that all who are wise lay down the fact of the King the good and frankness and myrrh of an obedient life.

"Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift."

HARK, THE HERALD ANGELS SING

REV. B. H. KAZEE
Hark, the herald angels sing,
"Glorious tidings we bring,
Of peace on earth, and mercy mild;
God and sinners reconciled."
Joyful all ye nations, rise,
Join the triumph of the skies;
With angelic hosts proclaim,
"Christ is born in Bethlehem."

Hail the "Heaven-born Prince of Peace!"
Hail the Son of righteousness!
Light and life to all He brings,
Risen with healing in His wings;
Mild He lays His glory by.

Born that man his glory may die;
Born to raise the sons of earth;
Born to give them second birth;
Come, Desire of nations, come!
Fulfill in us this happy home.
Rise, the woman's conquering seed,
Bruise in us the serpent's head;
Adam's likeness now efface,
Stamp thine image in its place.
Second Adam from above,
Reinstate in us thy love.

Benediction

REV. ARTHUR E. LANDOLT
Pastor of the Christian Church

May the spirit of God which passeth all understanding keep our minds and our hearts in peace; the blessings of the Christmas-time remain with all throughout the year, and the shining light found in the star which guided the Wise Men to the manger, give each the wisdom and the guidance necessary to life. Through Jesus our Lord. AMEN.

O LITTLE TOWN OF BETHLEHEM

REV. B. H. KAZEE
O little town of Bethlehem,
How still we see thee lie!
Above thy deep and dreamless sleep
The silent stars go by;
Yet in thy dark streets shineth
The everlasting Light;
The hopes and fears of all the years
Are met in thee tonight.
For Christ is born of Mary;
And gathered all above,
While mortals sleep, the angels keep
Their watch of wondering love.
O morning stars together
Proclaim the holy birth,
And praise sing to God the King,
And peace to man on earth.

O Holy Child of Bethlehem,
Descend to us we pray;
Cut out our sin and enter in,
Be born in us today.
We hear the Christmas angels
The great glad tidings tell,
O come to us, abide with us,
Our Lord Emmanuel.

Rhea's Visit Causes Political Confabs

theories about Rhea's visit. One was that he was interested in the position of internal revenue collector at Louisville, now held by Sidon Glenn. Rhea's suggestion by starting Glenn apparently was well satisfied with his present position and presumably could hold it indefinitely. Another suggestion was that his visit was in connection with the vacancy existing on the federal bench for the western Kentucky district. Rhea said he did not even discuss that matter with the President.

How about a position with the bureau of public works in Kentucky?" he was asked. The reference being to reports that Rhea might become federal road engineer for his state. He said he had not heard of that and was not expecting such an appointment.

The same informant said he would not be surprised if Rhea ran for the governorship next year and said anti-Chandler leaders were endeavoring also to persuade Senator Logan to make the gubernatorial race. Logan, however, although he indicated he does not choose to run.

Chairman Nunn announced the committee would serve in an advisory capacity in effecting complete organization of the state with in the next few days. They also will assist in planning statewide celebration of the President's Birthday, to raise funds for permanent assistance to sufferers from infantile paralysis, he said. With his acceptance, Mr. Nunn declared:

"Your invitation to act as chairman of Kentucky State Advisory Committee for President's Birthday Celebration hereby accepted. Be assured of my every cooperation in helping make Kentucky's part a valuable assistance in this great work."

Publisher Bingham also wired his acceptance, saying:

"Happy to accept service on Kentucky committee for Celebration of President's Birthday."

Packhorse Library Delivers Many Books Each Day
The W. P. A. Packhorse Library carriers are delivering a large number of books and magazines over the County daily. The Library is getting a number of new books, a lot of them are fiction. Our regular staff meeting day last week, we had two visitors from the Painville office, Mrs. Ethel Perryman and Mrs. Coral S. Dolmas.

Our sponsor, Superintendent Roy Cornette furnished lumber and wall paper for the Library. The carrier papered and built new shelves which we are very proud of. Just as soon as the new books arrive we are going to have open houses. Watch the paper for the date. We hope to have our readers from all sections of the County visit us on that day.

Vikings Drop
Both teams went into Thursday night's game undefeated. Both had run up top-heavy scores over opposition. With the advantage of home floor plus the return of everyone to the lineup should be able to take the Carter County club.

Barker, Torkett, Calvert, Bulcher and Brown started for Morehead. The two replacements were M. Brown and Barber.
