The Task Ahead Dr. J. B. Holtzclaw MOREHEAD STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE

The Schools and National Defense The schools and colleges in the United States have opened for the school year in the midst of an emergency not unlike that of 1917. In many respects, this nation is moving swiftly from a peacetime economy to a wartime economy. This in no way implies that we will or should be at war in the near future. It does mean that our government and our people have definitely decided to enter upon a total defense program to meet any situation which may arise in order that our democracy may escape the tragic fate of the recent democracies of Europe.

Heavy Penalty Fixed By Fed. Law For Failure To Register

Emphasizing that every man setting up of the local machinery for the registration of all men between the ages of twenty-one and thirty-six is absolutely non-political, County Court Clerk, Vernon A. Frey, today announced the appointment of the local registrars and chief registrars.

Registration place for those residing in the two Farmers Precinct number two and number eleven will be the public school gymnasium in Farmers.

Residents of all other precincts in the county will register at their usual voting places. All persons between the ages of twenty-one and thirty-six, regardless of physical disabilities or exemptions are required to register. The local draft board will select by lot from those registered in the county the names of those to be called for military service, after passing upon physical disabilities and exemptions.

CENSUS SHOWS U. S. FALLING OFF IN NUMBER OF BIRTHS

The census bureau announced Saturday that the population of the United States on April 1 was 131,409,881. This was a gain of seven percent since 1930—the smallest percentage increase in any decade of American history. The forty-eight states and the District of Columbia reported 8,424,835 more residents than ten years ago, but individual states had widely differing stories. By percentages, Florida gained the fastest of the states, 27.9 percent, while South Dakota lost the most, 7.5 percent. The District of Columbia, where the number of government workers was doubled, exceeded all the states with a 32.4 gain.

In actual numbers, California had the most, 1,196,437, and Kansas lost the most, 81,925. The seven percent national gain was less than half the ratio in any previous decade. Census director, William L. Austin said this was due to a declining birth rate and a virtual stoppage of immigration during the last ten years. From 1910 to 1920 the gain was 10 percent and from 1920 to 1930 it was 16.4 percent.

Austin said many sociologists had predicted that eventually the population would reach some "static" level and stop increasing. While his bureau is unwilling to make an official prediction, he said the peak might be reached in 1970 or 1980.

The effect of birth rates on the population total was shown, he added, in the fact that the northern states accounted for only one-third of the national gain, while the southern half of the country—where the birth rate is higher—and the Pacific Coast states accounted for two-thirds of the increase.

Of the southeastern states had important increases. New England barely gained at all, and industrial states like New York and Pennsylvania gained less than the national average.

100,000 Persons Visit Game, Fish Exhibit At Fair

Virginia White-Tailed Deer Viewed By 125,000 Persons

An estimated 100,000 persons visited the Game and Fish Exhibit at the Kentucky State Fair in Louisville during the week of September 8-14, according to counts made by Game officials at the Game and Fish building.

The officials took an actual count of persons viewing the exhibit on Sunday, September 8, and checked off 18,000 men, women and children as having passed through the doors during the day.

A large buck-deer, of the Virginia White Tail species, located in an enclosure outside the Game and Fish building, was viewed by an estimated 125,000 persons during the Fair week. Some persons thought this large deer was a moose; others said he was a bull-moose; a donkey; a cow, and other

U. S. Mind Turns Toward War, Says Psychologist

War Hysteria Evident As Fighting Grows Worse In Europe

America is getting psychologically prepared for war very rapidly, in the opinion of Dr. W. H. Thompson, head of the University of Omaha's philosophy and psychology department.

"We haven't got our fighting clothes on yet," he says, "but it won't take long when we really get started. You must remember Americans are the sons of brilliant and fierce fighters."

Dr. Thompson looked into the nation's mind and pointed out in an interview what's happening to the United States these days. Quick Let's Change Reaction.

"National defense is not just an accumulation of planes and tanks and guns," he added. "The people must be prepared also—and that's happening right now."

"We can be transformed into a nation of Spartans psychologically in a rather short time, but it will take longer physically, because we're not accustomed to using the sinews of war."

"And how fast could the National psychology be geared to war?" "In just a few months," Dr. Thompson said.

He recalled that the United States in 1916 re-elected a President with the slogan, "He kept us out of war," but in a comparatively short time the country's attitude had changed. Social Annals Cited.

He predicted that remnants of diffidence about the last war would be dissipated quickly after intense psychological preparation for war got started.

"We'll enjoy a kind of social amnesia," he said. "We'll forget all about the disillusionment that followed the last war. We'll forget we sent money abroad and never got it back. That's part of the preparation."

"Then, when peace is declared, we'll regain our memory."

Preparanda Evidences Noted.

Dr. Thompson listed these as some of the major factors in changing America's psychology: "The constant stimulation of war news and the news of disasters."

"Lack of confidence caused by a long series of disasters to peoples who were once friendly allies. These disasters have aroused our anxieties and fears."

"Defeatist talk—softie talk—is also a stimulation, since it brings about a counter-reaction."

The psychologist said another factor in slowing down a change of attitude in this country has been "our hesitancy to believe that world leadership would sink to such levels of barbarism. Americans are idealists as well as fighters."

He said some persons are already advocating that the draft be made permanent. That shows "we are getting psychologically ready to put the gloves on."

"White Elephant" Sale Saturday

Saturday, October 12, a White Elephant Sale will be held at the Morehead High School gym. This sale will be carried on as it was last year. All articles to be sold will be donated by the interested parents in the town and county. It is hoped that the citizens in the rural districts will help with farm products and the town people and people alike will donate any clothing, pottery, etc., that will sell. This will be a day when shoes, dresses, suits, hats, and everything needed can be purchased for anywhere from a nickel to fifty cents. Last year the sale was a big success and with the help of all who are interested in children, it can again be a success. Call Mrs. Rice if you have anything to donate and she will come or send for it. Remember, October 12, is the day.
