A Suggestion To Care For Our "Charity Patients"

Last week Mary Flannery was released from the St. Joseph Hospital where she had been confined for ten weeks.

When Mary Flannery was released from the hospital it was with an unpaid bill of $271. An attempt was made to raise money to pay this bill, but so far the people of this community have responded with the small total of thirty-seven dollars.

However, for many years the St. Joseph Hospital has been annually taking in a large number of charity patients from Rowan County. The paying patients that have gone from here have not been sufficient to offset the charity cases. This Lexington hospital has more than done its part for the people of this county but they have reached a breaking point.

A friend comes forward with a good suggestion and we hope that it is acted upon. It is suggested that the leaders of the various clubs, the churches, and all other organizations in the county join together in a drive to raise funds to care for, in the future, such cases as that of Mary Flannery and to also reimburse to some extent local physicians when they attend to the persons who are unable to pay. The matter could be worked out with the right spirit of cooperation.

How Long Must The People Of Eastern Kentucky Endure This Evil?

It has been several months since the Rowan County News made what was an almost complete exposé of the conditions that have prevailed at the Morehead State Teachers College in the administration department headed by the president of that institution.

These are several months since the Rowan County News made what was an almost complete exposé of the conditions that have prevailed at the Morehead State Teachers College.

Briefly we review the editorials we ran last summer, for the sake of refreshing the memory. We called attention to the graft that is being doled out to various attaches of the administration.

But there are in addition to those statements made earlier in the year, more recent happenings that our readers find the Board of Regents are entitled to know about. We list them below.

- EXPENSE ACCOUNTS. The following is a copy of the expense account of H. A. Babb for October, submitted on November 1, 1938, and on file in the office of the Director of Accounts and Control at Frankfort.

Rather an innocent statement on the surface. But note the capitals they stand for something unusual. On October 28, after a trip to Lexington, the President was, according to reports, entertained at the home of Dr. McVey, president of the University of Kentucky.

to Richmond, and NONE of the OTHERS went on official business, and none of the submitting an expense account for the day's outing. As a matter of fact, nearly every member of the faculty was in Richmond that day AT HIS OWN EXPENSE, for that was the day that the Eagles of Morehead State Teachers College met the Maroons of Eastern in their annual football game.

In other words the president took his family and drove to Richmond to see the football game and charged the state for his expenses. Other members of the faculty paid their own expenses. It is clear that if the president was on official business, the other members of the faculty were also and were as much entitled to have their expenses paid as the head of the institution.

It may be added that reports have it that the President was the guest of President Donovan of Eastern on that day but the meal is apparently charged to the state.

DEFICITS. When the present administration took over the management of the college they promised an economy and business regime, that would speak for itself. It undoubtedly does, but in a weel, small voice that is next to inaudible.

Even the College Theatre is losing from $10 to $15 to $20 each night it runs. Yet the gravel train runs right along with it. Sample of the Morehead Independent still prints hand bills for the show, even though it is being run at a loss.

N. Y. A. INVOLVED. Last fall a number of N. Y. A. students were enrolled in the college in exchange for their scholarships they were to work on landscaping the grounds, the first project being the clearing of the ponds and light plants. There was ample soil of good quality piled up around the plant as the result of excavation.

A COMPLETE LACK OF DIGNITY. A week or so ago, there arose a mighty gale, a storm that apparently by Judge by the names and reports, had its beginning in an editorial that was supposed to have been written and published in the Rowan County News.

Below is a copy of the resolutions introduced in the Senate last year by Senator Waller Allen Crockett. The resolutions were never acted upon, and the Board of Regents without investigation adopted a resolution which, we understand was proposed before the Board of Regents submitted to them for signature.

THE Resolutions: Joint Resolution for the purpose of appointing a Legislation Committee to investigate, in cooperation with the Attorney General's office and the Department of Finance, the administration of the Morehead State Teachers College.

WHEREAS: It is reported that the Morehead State Teachers College illegally operates a motion picture business, and whereas it is reported that the administration of the said institution has approved permits to the illegal sale of water to the city of Morehead by the Morehead State Teachers College, and,

WHEREAS: It is rumored that the President of the institution has permitted the illegal private transfer of State property without the permission or approval of the State Purchasing Agent or the Governor and without open public bids, and, the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky. That for the purpose of investigating these reports a committee be appointed consisting of four members of the House of Representatives, appointed by the speaker of the House and three members of the Senate, to investigate the administration of the Governor, composed of members of both major political parties to have the assistance of the Attorney General's Office and the Department of Finance through its Division of Post Audits to determine the actual facts concerning the administration of the Morehead State Teachers College and to make recommendations to the Board of Regents of the said institution and to the Governor of the Commonwealth recommending that proper action be taken in view of these facts.

ELLIOTTSVILLE SCHOOL. The Elliottville P. T. A. met at the school building on Wednesday, January 11. A very interesting program was enjoyed. Mr. Crosthwaite spoke on "The Party, the Home Plays in Forming the Attitude of the Child."

The following officers were present: Meslases O. J. Carter, Jim Porter, Ora James, George Lewis, Claude Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Kissinger, Mrs. Jim Dear, Mrs. Ernest Peiffer, Mr. and Mrs. Ival James, Mrs. Russell Jones, Mrs. Vesta Fultz, Mrs. Emerson Ball, Evelyn Hoyle, each patron took part in the program.

A citizenship club has been organized at the Elliottville high school in connection with the citizenship class. The aim of the club is to promote better citizenship in the community.

There is a Santa Claus. Mr. Montgomery, who for several years has acted as Santa Claus certainly did not forget us this year. Several of the children have missed only one and two days on account of sickness.

THE P. T. A. meeting was held at the Elliottville school Wednesday afternoon, January 11th. A large crowd of parents attended. They were very much surprised to learn that Mr. Crosthwaite could sing and that his favorite song was "Swing Low, Sweet Cherry Tree."

CLEARFIELD P. T. A. The Clearfield P. T. A. met on January 13th at the schoolhouse. The following members were present: Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Caudill, Mrs. Bul Swartz, Mrs. Betulah Stewart, Mrs. Oleta Marshall, Mrs. Taylor Hamilton, Mrs. Dan Dyer, Mrs. Tom Rose, Mrs. Elec Carpenter, Mrs. Willa Cunniff, Mrs. Mary Smith, Charles Maynard, Mrs. Vivian Amburgey, Carl and Calvin Gurgie.

CAREY SCHOOL NEWS. The closing day is just around the corner, and the pupils of the Carey school are working hard to make their new year's resolutions. The aim is to promote better citizenship in the school. Several issues were voted on at the first meeting, Ruby Stammer was vice-president, and Billy Turner, secretary-treasurer.

The promotion of good citizenship should be the chief aim of any home, school or organization. The 10th grade has organized a citizenship club. The club does not mean that this grade only is concerned with citizenship. Someone has said in union there is strength. This club has the motto of "Everybody's time." However, the club is now a working organization for the entire school to make this adage true at Elliottville high school. The club is doing good deeds, being good citizens, boys and girls, by caring for your surroundings and by obeying the laws of your home and school and state. Let each one strive to make the citizenship club a permanent organization in the Elliottville high school.

Shirley Temple At Cozy Theatre

Three new song hits highlight the latest picture triumph of America's Number One screen star—Shirley Temple in "Just Around The Corner," opening at the Cozy Theatre Sunday and Monday, Jan. 29 and 30.

Written by Walter Bullock and Harold Spina, the new songs are being heard on all the radio net-works these days as they make their rhythmic, tuneful way to the top of the hit list.

The songs are: "This Is A Happy Little Ditty," "I Love To Walk In The Rain" and "Brass Buttons and Euphonies."

Charles Farrell, Joan Davis, Aman-za Duff, Bert Lahr and Bill Robinson are featured in the cast, which also includes Franklin Pangborn, Cora Witherspoon and Bennie Bartlett. "Just Around the Corner" is hailed as one of the best screen stories ever written for Shirley Temple. Ethel Hill, J. P. McEvoy and Darrel Ware collaborated on the scenario, which is based on an original story by Paul Green Smith.

Will Rogers In Old Kentucky At Cozy

High up in the list of the ten most fascinating people he has met through a lifetime of trouping, Bill Robinson places Will Rogers, star of "In Old Kentucky," the Fox picture at the Cozy Theatre Thursday and Friday, Jan. 26-27.

Robinson, who worked with Rogers in vaudeville when the star was just starting out, is prominently featured in the adaptation of Charles T. Dazey's racing romance.

"Rogers wasn't so well known in those days," observes Robinson, "and I take a lot of pride in the fact that at that time I predicted he would someday be our greatest comedian."

West Liberty P.-T. A. To Present Boxing And Wrestling Show

Tarzan Blour, 170 Pound Morehead Boy, Favored In Principal Match

The Parent-Teachers Association of West Liberty will present a charity wrestling and boxing show at the High School gymnasium Friday evening, December 27.

On the wrestling card will appear Gordon Arket, Indian nationally known wrestler from Tacoma, Washington vs. George Lyons of Akron, Ohio. Gordon Arket is a young promising wrestler who many think will be at the top of the ladder in a short time. The last time that Gordon Arket appeared in Eastern Kentucky was against Paul Hanson of West Liberty, Ky. Paul Hanson was thrown out of the ring on his head and was unable to continue the battle. Up until that time Hanson had the better of the Indian. If the Indian succeeds in taking George Lyons on the two best falls out of three in the high school gym, West Liberty, Ky., January 27, Hanson hopes to be in condition to wrestle on the next card the winner of this bout. Un- less George Lyons upsets the apple cart more than likely the Indian will have a chance to meet Paul Hanson who at one time was the world middle weight champion. There is much controversy as to who will win this bout. It certainly will be an excellent show in our new high school gym at West Liberty which has erected a beautiful ring sur- rounded by a swinging balcony with seats that will accommodate about 2,000.

Blour, 170 lbs. Morehead Kentucky will match his power and strength against Morris "Kop" Arket, 162 lbs. Compton, Mo. Arket is a former prize fighter who has won many titles. He is a knock-out man. Tarzan Blour seems to have a better chance to win this bout. The only pool of Cam- bridge of the local color the Tarzan Blour-Kop Arket bout will prove a very thrilling affair.

and more likely one of them will go by the knock out route. Another attraction to the card will be the matching of Bert Monky, 180 lbs. New Haven, Conn. against Steve Sadady, 185 lbs. Welch, Va. From information received these boys are very tough. They can give and take it. This will be one of the best shows that has been in eastern Kentucky for some time and will be under the auspices of the West Liberty P.T.A.

Figh fans and wrestling fans will be offered a real treat, Jan. 27 at 7:00 p.m. in the new high school gym at West Liberty, Ky. Reserved seat tickets will be on sale at R. J. Foyner's Drug Store. The net proceeds of the charity bout will go to the Morgan County High School fund. This bout will be refereed by trained officials. I hope that you can make arrangements to be present at this colorful exhibition of boxers and wrestlers. The boxers will begin weighing in about 6:45 p. m.

AUDIENCE SURVEY SHOWS MEN DON'T LIKE UNSYMPATHETIC WOMEN

Florence Rice wishes that men were more interested in unsympathetic women. For she intends to be as unsympathetic as possible.

"A woman, looking at another woman of the Jeezabel type, thinks that she has an intriguing character. A man thinks merely that she's not nice," said Miss Rice.

"That's the difficulty with play- ing unsympathetic roles. Audience surveys have shown that the men don't like them."

For the first time in her career, Miss Rice has the opportunity to play an outright un- sympathetic character in "Four Girls in Wall," that of a girl who enters a modeling profession to catch a rich husband. It is the first time she has written above all others, as it gives her a real opportunity to establish her name as an actress rather than as a famous lady and ingenue.

"Sweet people—really sweet peo- ple—are marvellous," she declared. "I've got no use for a person who can't get mad at anybody. If I had to choose between being sweet and being a Jeezabel, I'd be a Jeezabel every time."

"I don't want to be a heavy or a only boy performer."

NAGGING BACKACHE

Many Men of Disrupted Kidney Action. Don't Neglect It!

Modern life with its hurry and worry, nervous habits, improper diet, smoking, drinking, exposure to colds, and other causes, has a tendency to weaken the kidneys, and as a result, the bladder and the prostate gland are affected. The after effects of this are a nagging backache, a feeling of nervousness, and a loss of strength and energy. Other symptoms of this condition are a frequent desire to urinate, a feeling of heaviness in the back, and a feeling of weakness in the legs. These symptoms are the result of a nagging backache, and if neglected, they may lead to a permanent disability.

After colds, fever and similar ailments, the kidneys are especially liable to become weak and fall into a state of disrepair. It is important to remove the cause of the trouble, and to take steps to restore the kidneys to their normal state. This is the only way to prevent a nagging backache from becoming a permanent disability.

Dr. Doan's Pills are the only pills that can be depended upon to restore the kidneys to their normal state. SCHOOL LESSON

Written Each Week By B. H. KAZEE
Pastor of The Baptist Church
Subject: PROVING OUR LOVE FOR CHRIST, John 21:17-18

Golden Text: "If ye love me, keep my commandments." John 14:15.

We are to search the question, What does it mean to love Jesus? What effect will it have upon my life? The answer is found in the life events of Peter.

Last Sunday we studied about Peter's strong avowal of his devotion to Jesus; how he declared that he would die for Jesus, and that as long as he was able to use the sword the enemy should not take him.

Soon the test came, but not before Jesus had warned him: "Peter, before the cock shall crow thou shalt deny me three times." Thus Jesus put Simon wise to the test which was coming. Peter had boasted of his loyalty, his power to resist the enemy. This was characteristic of Peter. Often times he had relied upon his own power to be loyal and true. This is the mistake of anti-Christian. If in our own strength we cannot arise to spiritual life, neither by our own power can we remain true to it.

Our strength for living the new life all came from God and to him we must humbly look for His power to sustain us. That is faith. "Doubtless Jesus was present at Peter for a great service, for he said: "When thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren." That is, "You do not know much about the danger of temptation yet. I will let you go through this trying experience to show you that in your own strength you cannot stand. The flesh will run from danger."

Now Jesus comes to his last talk with Peter. As Peter had denied three times, Jesus gives him the opportunity to confess his love three times. Doubtless, without referring to the denial, Jesus was able in this way to return the lesson step into Peter's heart. Each time Peter confessed his love, he was hidden to do so for his Lord. "Shepherd my sheep," "feed my lambs," "serve me in strengthening the brethren."

This is the only way to prove our love to any one—even our friends, much less to our Lord. Jesus plainly tells us that if we do not try to keep his words, we have not the love of the Father in us. He charges, "Who call ye me Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I command you?" While it is true that we are saved "by grace" through faith, and it is the gift of God, "not of works, lest any man should boast" at the same time we are perfected in Christ. Jesus unto God do good works, which unto God hath though the spirit may be willing to before ordained that we should walk in them." If you would prove your profession of love to Christ, you must do it through life service, not feeling worthy to die like his Lord. Peter's life from here on was one of zealous service, sacrifice, and finally death. Tradition says he was crucified with head downward, not feeling worthy to die like his Lord. Read the Acts, and see how this disciple proved his loyalty and love.

Business Guides

By C. E. Johnston
Director, Business Training Schools, International Correspondence Schools

THROUGH the growth of the motion picture business the public is becoming more and more picture-minded and advertisers have resorted in a large degree to the medium of pictures to increase the effectiveness of their advertising.

If you are interested in advertising it is well to devote considerable study to the value of illustration. If you are using illustrations in advertising copy here are some of the questions that should be asked: Will the picture assist in selling? Will it add to the composite appeal of the advertisement? Will it make the advertisement more dominant in competition with other displays? Will it clarify quickly, a complicated point? Will it possess vivacious human appeal? Will it be timely? Will it attract attention? Will it convey an instantaneous impression? In these days these things are to be expected of illustrations.

While the value of good illustrations in advertising is recognized, modern typography has improved to such a degree and so many new artistic type faces are available that an all-type advertisement can in some cases be entirely satisfactory. It is, therefore, an error to assume broadly that every advertisement should contribute something toward satisfactory results in sales and profit.

Series Of 12 Sermons Scheduled By Kazee

Resolutions Are Passed By Organization Following Death Of Member Who Was One Of Eastern Kentucky's Leading Women

Beginning Sunday morning, February 5th, Pastor B. H. Kazee of the Morehead Baptist Church will preach a series of twelve sermons each Sunday morning following until the series closes, on the general subject, "Bible Prophecy and the Signs of the Times."

Sunday mornings would be the best time for readers to check the questions in which they are interested, and clip this item from the paper and drop it in the box at the front of the church, with the questions marked, so that he may know just what particular matters to emphasize. Some of the matters to be dealt with are these: Why are we so stupid, prophetic? Has every prophecy of the Bible been fulfilled? Can Christians understand and interpret prophecy? Do the prophecies of the Bible foretell the very conditions existing in the world today? Signs of the times in the world? Are we living in the "last days"? Signs of the times in the Churches. The present condition of Churches, is it foretold? Prophecy and the Jews. Signs of the times in the Jewish Nation and in Palestine. Will all Jews be regarded in Palestine? Will the Jews ever accept Christ?

The depression that is ahead of us. Are we approaching the end of the world? Does Hitler's persecution of all Jews indicate that he is anti-Christ? Hitler, Mussolini and the world's final dictator. Does the Bible declare that an Italian dictator shall rule the world? Is the Roman Catholic Pope the Antichrist? The war that is ahead of us. Should Christian nations disarm. The Coming of Christ to the world. Will He set up a Kingdom and reign here a thousand years? Will Christ reign with Him? When Christ returns will the earth be destroyed by fire? Why doesn't God kill the devil?

Is Satan in hell reigning as King over lost souls? Where are the dead? Will we know each other in Heaven? Does the Bible teach two resurrections? Do the spirits of the dead sleep? How many judgments are there? These and many other questions will be dealt with in this series of sermons. Pastor Kazee says that all who intend to hear these sermons should, by all means, hear the first one.

Eagles Cinch Invitation To Play In Tournament (Continued From Page One) favored to again win, but an upset would not be so surprising in view of the improvement that the lads of Coach Roy Holbrook have shown. A greatly improved Russell team, now touted as a dark horse in the regional, is to be met by the Vikings at the Ball City Saturday, while on Tuesday the Green and White entertains the best club that Grayson has produced in many years.

The Morehead College Eagles will uncover their wares before a second semester crowd which is expected to fill the gymnasium overflowing here next Wednesday meeting. The Eagles defeated the Colonels 46-40 at Danville and will be top-heavy favorites to repeat that performance here. Most surprising in the Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Association's drive of the past week was Union's 38-36 victory over Morehead to knock Ellis Johnson's lads from first to third place in the conference. It was Union's first victory and Morehead's initial loss in seven games within the conference. The Eagles ran up an 11 point first half

Business Personalities Of Rowan County

The Model Laundry and Dry Cleaning Company is one of the greatest aids and benefits to this community, at large we know of. Many people are employed by this concern who are residents of this section and who lend their support to other local places of business, which makes for a better community.

The Model Laundry has always paid the highest possible wages to its employees and has endeavored at all times to keep working conditions at the highest standard. The writer and this publication wish to take this opportunity to express the deep appreciation and the respect which is held in the minds of all those in Morehead vicinity to this outstanding company. We feel that no review edition would be complete without lead and then wilted. Johnson's club came back Saturday evening to knock Berea's hopes for an invitation to the Southern Intercollegiate Tournament into a "cooked hat" with a well earned, and comparatively easy 43-26 victory. Berea's following had underestimated the team that Morehead really has by taking the Union into too much consideration. The award of merit for Morehead in the football tournament to Bobby Laughlin's Breaker Training School eagles who scored two impressive victories over strong opponents. The Eagles took Mt. Sterling 21-19 in an overtime and then outplayed and outlasted Berea for a 19-18 decision. Breck might have made the score bigger had it not been for a Southern Kentuckian if they had cashed in on their opportunities.

Morehead High figured in the major upset of Eastern Kentucky High school circles during the week, dropping 31-21 to Sandy Hook there. Previously the Vikings had topped Sandy Hook 55 to 18. Morehead High came back to defeat Boyd County High, rated as a string club, by 29-18 here Saturday night. The Vikings ran up a 22-9 lead on Boyd County lads when Coach Roy Holbrook sent in his substitutes. Barker led the point making with 12 to add to an imposing total. In a 19 game the Morehead club won 18-7.

Horton To Play With Green Bay

(Continued From Page One) a clause specifying an added salary increase if he produces was slightly better than what the other National League clubs offered. Green Bay agrees from six to seven games a month during the playing season. Horton comes from Mt. Sterling, will graduate in June. While with the Eagles, he played 1620 consecutive minutes of football and was the most popular choice this year of any player for all K. I. A. C. and all S. I. A. A. and was placed a center on the Little All-American of the Associated Press. Weighing 200 pounds, Horton has been classed as one of the greatest football players ever produced in Kentucky.

base. A Youth Day Service in March, and Easter Sunrise Service, a Recognition Day in May are among some of the events outlined in the second semester program. Interesting speakers, discussions of vital topics, and "sunrise" programs are on the outline of the Guild. There will be a repetition of the field quizzes which proved so popular during the first semester. The Guild, which averaged an attendance of between 40 and 50 during the first part of the year, has set as its goal for the second semester an attendance of 75.

SOMEONE'S CANT WINK

A western university binks (or lament) one of the modern vices of the world co-eds who cannot wink. There are reports resulting from a survey of the leading female population is unexplainable unable to shut their eyes. The time-honored, traditional manner of winking is gone. Yet, under ordinary conditions, the eyelids wink three to six times every minute, asserting the Better Vision Association. The reflex controlling this winking is the fastest action in the human body. The intervals during which the lids cover the eye are extremely short, the situation explains but it is a breathing spell which relieves the strain on the retina and relaxes tired muscles. It is Nature's favorite method of resting the eyes. When they are tired or neglected, the lids wink more frequently.

CONVENIENCES—A telephone booth is a desirable feature in a home. There are not too many much noise in the front of the average home. It does not cost a great deal and your booth is located in a quiet street, a booth is still a desired convenience. A visit to another desirable feature to install in your home. Each feature can be large enough to accommodate silver, pieces of plate, jewelry and other valuables.

Coats and suits are installed in many homes today. By means of this device clothing may be dropped from the upper stories directly to the laundry room in the basement or cellar. It does not cost a great deal more in your building plans and the steps saved are considered a real economy. The busy housewife will appreciate the savings in time.

Do not overlook the importance of installing plenty of electric outlets. These outlets should be located in the kitchen, dining room, living room, bedrooms, and bathrooms. There should be a good light at the kitchen sink. The electric range homes another over the stove. Lights should be so arranged that they reveal objects in deep cupboards of closets when the doors are closed.

No scientific study has solved the problem of sleep. The loom of life never stops and the pattern we weave when slumber enfolds us, is still in the process of weaving when we awaken. Bryon said that sleep was the boundary line between death and existence.

Recent medical men in a well-known scientific laboratory have been making a study of sleep, using for this purpose puppies. At the end of five days all the puppies, which were fed abundantly and properly at regular intervals, but denied sleep, died. A similar group of puppies which were allowed to sleep as much as they desired, but from whom food was withheld, survived to the twentieth day and were then saved by being cautiously fed. New-born infants require almost twenty-four hours sleep a day for a few weeks, but as their first year progressed the period of sleep declines to about 18 hours. From five to ten years of age children need at least twelve hours sleep, while from seven to fourteen ten hours of repose are sufficient. After fifteen years, eight hours of slumber are all that is necessary. Persons over fifty years of age get along well on six hours of actual sleep. Napoleon needed only four hours sleep a day. Usually insomnia is the result of unhygienic living, which if overcome, restores sleep to the patient and eliminates the usual irritability found among this unfortunate class. Many people conscientiously believe that they sleep less hours than they really do.

I had an elderly lady patient who complained that she never slept "except for a few minutes each night." "She decided to go to Europe for treatment" at one of the springs for insomnia and asked me to accompany her. I saw her in bed in her compartment on the sleeper and she remarked as she bid me good-night: "Well, doctor, I know I am for another night of torture, with no sleep." In the morning, after we arrived in New York to board our ship, I knocked at the door and was told to come in. Immediately she tossed and turned, muttering over the things that happened during the day; you will find that she has never started. Has something happened? Are we still in the depot?" "Yes," I replied, "but the train has never started. Has something happened? Are we still in the depot?" "Yes," I replied, "but the train has never started. Has something happened? Are we still in the depot?"

Every step of our progress toward business is sacrifice. —Hitchock.

She picked it up, turned it over, then opened it. The note inside read:

To Buck Hammond.

You will never see her daughter again until you pay $50,000.

If you want to see her again follow these directions—we will give you a day to get the money on Friday morning send sun with it on the east bound train, the munny must be in wun hundred dollar bills, ray them in a wife sock and so it up, giv the wheel pass he will see a horse which will be yor gurls pulled closest to the side of the track, hav him count too minutes by the watch from the tim he passes the hows, when the top minute is up has him thro the sock out the window.

If the frame sibs up or ennywags of yer gurl will be put to death, if we get the munny she will be hom Saturday or Sunday.

It was unsigned. Mary read it twice before she realized the im-portance of it.

At Dr. Fullerton's the house-keeper answered her knock and took her to Hammond.

"I'm Mary Winters," she said breathlessly, "I just called at your home and found this note on the table."

"Sit down please," Hammond said, wondering at her anxious manner. He unfolded the note leisurely and read.

"What can any of us do?" Ham-mond asked thickly. "They knew I and vell you his name is—Simon Henry, and that he murdered some Jasper in El Paso. You bring out the card." He grinned. "It can't help but work."

"But," the sheriff objected, "He'll want a lawyer."

"I've thought of that too," Laredo drawled. "How many lawyers is there around here?"

"Two, I reckon Hartwig and Scoggins," the sheriff said.

"All right. You go to Benning and tell him to hire Hartwig and Scoggins to help me. The sheriff Henry case that's comin' up. Pay me enough that they'll side in with you. Then arrest Crowell and these poor as the any lawyers in town to hire."

The sheriff thought a moment. "Plenty. Only who's goin' to pay for all the advice they don't give."

"Let them pay that out between themselves," Laredo said calmly. "That's what lawyers is for."

The sheriff shook his head wearily. "I'm not sure if it will not work at that. I'll go see Benning."

When the arrangements were completed with the lawyers to the sheriff's satisfaction, Laredo went over to the hotel. There an old man was back at the desk.

"Get by the name of Crowell registered here?"

"Come in a couple of hours ago. Want to see him?"

"I'd sure admire to," Laredo said. "Some one want to see me?"

Crowell asked.

"This gent's the clerk said indicating Laredo."

"I been lookin' for you a considerable while," Laredo said. "So you're registering under the name of Crowell now?"

"Who are you?" Crowell asked.

"Jackson's the name," Laredo drawled. "You're Simon Henry."

He paused. "Are you goin' over to the sheriff's office without a lawyer?"

"Who do you think you're talking to?" Crowell asked quietly.

"My name is Crowell, A. J. Crowell. I'm here on business."

"Your name is Henry, Simon Henry," Laredo repeated flatly. "Wanted for murder in El Paso. Are you comin' to the sheriff's office or am I goin' to have to take you?"

Crowell turned. "You heard this, ain't you clerk?"

The clerk nodded. Crowell turned to Laredo. "It's not going."

"I reckon you are," Laredo said. Laredo's gun blurred up from his hip to settle in Crowell's midriff. He reached up and took the gun from Crowell.

"I got a prisoner for you, sheriff, Laredo said. "Name of Simon Henry. Wanted in El Paso for murder."

"Look here, Sheriff," Crowell said heatedly. "What's it all about?"

"I dunno," the sheriff said heavily. "Just keep your shirt on. I'll see if we have anything about a Jasper named Henry." His slowness was maddening as he shuffled through cards which he viewed critically for a full minute, then looked at Crowell. "Well, here's a picture of Henry. It looks mighty like you. This here says you murdered a cattle buyer for Lynch's name, name of Louis Peyton, on the night of August seventh, last year. Where was you then?"

"How should I know?" Crowell replied heatedly. "I don't keep a diary. Where were you?"

"He was courtin' an old maid by the name of Lizzie May," Laredo said. "Ain't that so, Sheriff?"

Sheriff Lowe squirmed. "I reckon. Well, Henry. What about it?"

"I'm not sayin' a thing," Crowell retorted. "I want a lawyer."

Laredo shook his head. "And let this despit criminal out of my sight? I'm stayin' here."

Suddenly he stopped short and snapped his fingers. "I know where I was August seventh last year. I was in North Dakota, Aspen Wells."

"You got 'em," Laredo said.

Laredo shook his head. "And let this despit criminal out of my sight? I'm stayin' here."

USE MORE BUTTER

Again mass distribution is "going to" in aiding a distressed agricultural crop. On January 12, the chain stores reached the peak per-centage of a nation-wide "Use More Butter" campaign, undertaken to re-duce the butter surplus and to im-prove consumers with the healthful-ness of consumers with the best quality of a commodity which is produced in every state, and the support of our farm families.

The National Association of Food Chains points out, "Through-out the land this campaign has been marked by earnest, willing cooperation from new-ply, large, medium, producer, or simu-lar, farm organizations, producer co-operatives, extension workers, radio stations and many others." And the food chains themselves have appar-ently used every conceivable pro-motional technique to encourage sales and make a success of this vitally important job. Costly mass newspaper advertising—bulletins to sales personnel—handbills to housewives—novel and attractive butter displays—suggestions show-ing how more butter may be profit-ably used in the home—these are some of the means used to carry the good word of good butter to every possible consumer, whether or not a chain store customer.

This butter campaign was divid-ed into periods. Past experience in-dicates that considerable success was achieved in the earlier periods. Now the peak period has arrived and the mass merchandisers have redoubled their efforts. That means more cash in thousands of farmers' pockets, which in turn means in the nation's pocket.

FARMING IN 1939

A survey made by the Dairymen League News indicates that the bulk of farmers, farm leaders and agri-cultural economists believe that agri-culture faces a better year in 1939 and that marketing cooperation will be a dominant factor in the improve-ment.

Typical comment comes from Na-tional Grand Master, L. J. Taber, who says: organization remains the challenge of farmers everywhere, and especially dairymen.

The Dairymen's League Co-opera-tive Association is a fine example of aggressive, business-like market-ing organization. A pioneer in the great New York milk shed, it has successfully preached the gospel of self-help of tens of thousands of farmers. It has had a strong in-fluence in obtaining favorable agri-cultural legislation. And it has earned nation wide credit for the con-sistent progress it has made on be-half of its members.

Economic Highlights

In England and France observers find a growing belief that the Munich settlement was a tragic mis-take. Even Mr. Chamberland has lately taken a stronger note to ward Germany. There is a sound reason for that: Trade self-sufficiency is Hitler's dream—a German which can live in com-fort and plenty without relying on any other power. And self-suffi-cency is what Hitler is achieving with amazing speed. The small nations of Central Europe are coming more and more within the German orbit. Hitler uses any tools at his com-mand to get the result he wants—promises, threats, economic bribes—even a small nation can afford to hold out against the dis-tresses of the "master of Europe." Dewitt MacKenzie, an AP expert writes, "The smashing of Czechoslovakia, and France's abdicat-ion of her influence, have enabled Hitler to shape a new order under which these comparatively small countries henceforth will serve far them-selves but for the benefit of the fatherland."

Thus does the balance of power shift. It means that billions in trade will be lost to other powers. It means that Hitler is gradually build-ing a German-dominated empire ex-tending even the dream of Bism-marck. And finally, it means that the outlook for Democracy in Europe will never be brighter. Some experts feel it to be inevitable that France will eventually succumb and become a totalitarian state, more or less on the Fascist model.

TWIN STARS SEEM AS ONE TO THE HUMAN EYE

To the eyes of humans, most double stars in the heavens are seen as single shining bodies. But by the use of a telescope, these astral twins can be found to be really two stars, one revolving about the other, says a report from the Better Vision Institution. This interesting situation results from the fact that man's eye cannot separate and distinguish the in-dividual points of light unless they subtend an angle of at least 50 seconds.

Obituary
Glen Orlin Robinson, son of Frank and Mary McClelland Robinson, was born at Clearfield, Ky., on March 6, 1914. When Glen was aged three his family moved to Rainelle in the vicinity of which he has lived practically ever since. It was here that he received his schooling and where he won for himself a place of high esteem in a wide circle of friends and acquaintances. It was here that in his late teens he became a Christian and united with the First Baptist church of East Rainelle.

Not being a very strong child he grew into young manhood handicapped with poor health.

Seeking to improve his health he spent the winter of 1936 in Mercedes, Texas. This proved so beneficial to him that this step was again decided on when his health showed marked signs of falling this winter and he left for Texas just four days before Christmas.

Arriving at his destination on Saturday, December 29th his condition became critical the following Monday. Death came at 2 o'clock p. m. on Saturday, January 14th.

He is survived by his parents and three sisters; Rowina Robinson Johnson, Lavona Robinson Gladwell and Geraldine Robinson, Erskins. Also by both his paternal and maternal grandmothers, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. G. A. McClelland.

Funeral services were held at the East Rainelle Baptist church, Thursday afternoon, January 19. Interment was made at The End of the Trail Cemetery in Rainelle, W. Virginia.

Those going from here to attend the funeral were his grandfather, Mr. F. M. Robinson, and his uncle, Cliff McClelland.

CARD OF THANKS
We take this means of extending our gratitude to our many friends for all their assistance during the illness and death of our mother, Mrs. Emma Harmon. Particularly do we wish to thank Rev. T. P. Lyons and the singers of the Church of God.

Mrs. Harry Leighow and Mrs. J. A. Brownlee.
