EVENT: Meeting of MSU's Board of Regents

DATE: Friday, June 4, 1999

TIME: 10 a.m.

SITE: Riggle Room, Adron Doran University Center

NOTE: The board committees will hold public sessions in the Riggle Room prior to the meeting. Student Life and External Relations will meet at 8:30 a.m.; Academic Affairs at 8:50 a.m., and Administration and Fiscal Services at 9:10 a.m.

The board agenda contains a number of items for discussion and/or action including ratification of 1999 spring graduates and granting promotions, tenure and emeritus status to faculty members. They also will ratify awarding of the Founders Day Award for University Service and honorary doctoral degree. The final report on spring enrollment will be given.

The regents will be asked to approve an operating agreement with the MSU Foundation, Inc., and a memorandum of understanding with the Kentucky Folk Art Center Inc.; ratify personnel actions, accept the third quarter financial report, and amend the operating budget for 1998-99. The board will approve the 1999-2000 operating budget, fee schedule and personnel roster, as well as the 1998-2000 Six-Year Capital Plan.

At the meeting, the board will be asked to approve a hazardous duty retirement program, an extension of the contract with Kelley, Galloway and Company, and the minimum scope of the annual audit; authorize financing for the microcomputer purchase program and accept reports on the NCAA certification visit, major gifts since Feb. 26, and personal service contracts.

Also on that day, board members will be invited to attend the ribbon cutting ceremony for Phase II of the Wellness Center which is slated for 1 p.m.

Media representatives planning to attend are requested to call the Office of University Communications at (606) 783-2030 by noon Thursday, June 3, so that sufficient support materials will be available.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---WMKY 90.3 FM, Morehead State's public radio to the mountains, will begin airing a new program this month.

Music from the Middle Ages to the first part of the 17th century will be explored in Harmonia. Through engaging and accessible cultural, social and historical information, the hour-long program will bring the increasingly popular music of these earlier periods to life for radio audiences.

A production of WFIU at Indiana University, Harmonia will be hosted by Angela Mariani who adds evocative commentary to illustrate, inform and enlighten. The music will originate from IU's world-renowned Early Music Institute.

"Harmonia will be a great addition to our programming as the music of the past flows into the present as players, singers and scholars bring historically informed performances to today's listeners," said Janean Freeman, WMKY's interim station manager.

The show will air at 7 a.m. each Sunday.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---WMKY 90.3 FM, Morehead State's public radio to the mountains, will offer some special programming during the University's Appalachian Celebration which runs the week of June 21-26.

"Acoustic Highway" hosted by Paul Hitchcock, WMKY music and production director, will be broadcast Saturday, June 26, at 4 p.m. The show, recorded during a folk music sing-along at MSU's Kentucky Folk Art Center, will feature Harvey Pennington, Karly Reynolds and Russ Ward. Also included will be a preview of Folkfest '99 featuring blues/folk artist Dave Butler from Berea.

"US 23 Showcase," recorded at the Mountain Arts Center in Prestonsburg, will air later that day at 8 p.m. Featured performers will be Sean Caudill and Jo Pack of the Kentucky Opry, The New Tyme Bluegrass Band from Ashland and gospel vocalist Rick Johnson.

The daily concerts will be highlighted in "Appalachian Celebration Noon Concerts," which will air at 7 p.m. Bluegrass, folk and traditional and Appalachian music will be featured on WMKY June 21-25:

Rob McNurlin, June 21; Andy Carlson and Sandy Knipp, June 22; Don Rigsby and Dudley Connell, June 23; The White Horse String Band, June 24; and New Tyme Bluegrass Band, June 25.

Folkfest '99, sponsored by WMKY, also is slated for Saturday at 6:30 p.m. on the Laughlin lawn. In case of rain, the concert will move to Button Auditorium. The entertainment will include folk, blues and traditional Appalachian music by regional artists. Performers include: Caney Creek from Morehead; Bad Nomads and Dave Butler from Berea; fiddler Andy Carlson and Raison d'Etre, a female folk harmony trio from Cincinnati. Music lovers are encouraged to bring a blanket or chairs and a picnic and enjoy this family-oriented concert. There is no admission charge.

Throughout the week, WMKY also will air special features on the celebration during NPR's "Morning Edition" and "All Things Considered."

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Two courses on the National Board Teacher Certification will be offered by Morehead State University during two of its three summer sessions.

EDSE 599 and EDEL 599 classes will be taught by national certified teachers, Frances Peterson and Holly Ross of Russell Middle School. The courses will be offered at MSU's Ashland Area Extended Campus Center during Summer II, June 14-July 9, and the post summer session, July 12-30. The first class meeting will be Wednesday, June 16, from 2 to 4 p.m. At that time, a schedule for future class meetings will be determined.

National Board Certification offers recognition on a national level for accomplished teachers. In many states, national certification is accepted in lieu of state certification and can command salary bonuses up to $10,000 per year. Locally, Ohio pays a $2,500 per year bonus and Kentucky offers automatic Rank I, which is the top salary classification.

The courses will inform students of expectations, process and procedures of the national certification route. In addition, networking connections will be established to assist those interested in pursuing this avenue of certification.

"Some may wish to enroll for information purposes, while others may desire to begin developing portfolios for submission to the National Board," said Dr. Dan Fasko, interim chair of the Department of Leadership and Secondary Education.

Registration at MSU's Ashland center will be held on Monday, June 14, from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. Additional information is the classes are available from Dr. Fasko at (606) 783-2536; Peterson at (606) 836-2810 or Ross at (606) 836-6157

QUILT EXHIBIT AT MSU'S KENTUCKY FOLK ART CENTER

Quilts from the region will be displayed in an exhibit titled "Rowan's Treasures" at Morehead State University's Kentucky Folk Art Center, June 20-Sept. 26. Most of the quilts carry special meaning for the quilter, like this "Snake Quilt" made by Bet Ison in 1998 as a gift to her daughter. The quilt includes scraps of velvet, old neck ties, crystal and beads.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---"Rowan's Treasures," an exhibition of rare and unusual quilts, will be on display at Morehead State University's Kentucky Folk Art Center, June 20-Sept. 26.

"We generally think of quilts as bed coverings, and often overlook their role in our lives as works of art, said Adrian Swain, KFAC curator. "Kentuckians' deep love for quilting, make it one of the most widespread art forms in our state."

The quilts in "Rowan's Treasures" are on loan from private homes in Rowan County. The exhibition includes a wide variety, from one titled "Freedom or Independence," that was made from shirt materials around 1860, to non-traditional, contemporary art quilts.

"Interesting materials and techniques prove the quilters' ingenuity and innovation," Swain noted. The show features several made of "feed sack" fabrics, as well as a white-on-white quilt made to incorporate the Bull Durham tobacco sacks saved by one quilter's late father-in-law.

Quilts are treasured and most carry special meaning for their owners. Many have stories behind them that explain why they were made. For example, A "Snake Quilt" by Bet Ison was made as a coming-of-age gift for her daughter. "These stories stay alive when carefully retold, and become legends with the passing of time, Swain said..

The exhibition will open with a reception that is free and open to the public, from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday, June 20, at the center.

The Kentucky Folk Art Center is a cultural and educational service of Morehead State University. It is located at 102 West First Street in Morehead. Hours are 9 a.m.-5 p.m., Monday through Saturday, and 1-5 p.m., Sunday.

June 10, 1999

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Morehead State University's Board of Regents has approved a $76.9 million operating budget for 1999-2000, based on a projected fall enrollment of 8,400 students.

The new budget includes a 4.58 percent salary increase for faculty and librarians; 5.84 percent for non-exempt staff and 3.61 percent for exempt staff. This is the beginning of a five-year plan to bring MSU salaries more in line with salaries at regional benchmark institutions.

In his presentation to the Regents, President Ronald G. Eaglin said that he was especially proud that the entry-level wage scale for hourly workers was being increased by approximately 24 percent.

In acting on the operating budget, the Regents also approved the fee schedule for the coming year, which includes a $50 per semester increase in full-time, in-state undergraduate tuition as established by the Council on Postsecondary Education. Increases in other areas include a $35 per semester increase in the student activity and services fee, a $30 per credit hour Internet course fee, a $74 increase in student housing, which includes a $35 surcharge to partially fund the first phase of the fire safety project and a $39 increase in residence halls rates to help fund the debt service associated with residence hall improvements.

The Regents also extended the president's contract by one year through June 30, 2003, and increased his salary by four percent.

The University's governing body heard the recommendations of a task force that studied substance abuse on campus. Under the proposed plan, each case will be handled on an individual basis, with suspension from school as an option. On the first offense, students will receive a written reprimand, parents will be notified as deemed necessary by the dean of students and offenders may be required to complete 20 hours of community service.

In other business, the board received the final headcount enrollment figure of 7,679 for the spring term, promoted four faculty members, and granted tenure to one and gave emeritus status to six retiring faculty members. The group authorized reducing the University's financing for the microcomputer replacement program from five years to four and approved a hazardous duty retirement program for qualified employees in the Office of Public Safety.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Author Genie K. Potter will be the guest speaker for the Celebration of Appalachian Women Luncheon and Symposium on Thursday, June 24, as part of Morehead State University's 23rd annual Appalachian Celebration.

Potter will present "Kentucky Women: Two Centuries of Indomitable Spirit and Vision" and "Eastern Kentucky Women: A Lasting Legacy" in a program that begins at 10:30 a.m. in the Adron Doran University Center on campus.

Women are the missing element in Kentucky history, trapped by poverty, privilege, war, illiteracy and religion, according to Potter. In her talk, is based on her book "Kentucky Women: Two Centuries of Indomitable Spirit and Vision," the author will celebrate Kentucky women for their pride, perseverance, strength and dignity. The book includes a feature on the late Dr. C. Louise Caudill of Morehead.

Following lunch, Sylvia Lovely of the Kentucky League of Cities, will be honored as Appalachian Woman of the Year.

Before being named executive director/CEO of the KLC in 1990, Lovely served as director of intergovernmental services, staff attorney and lobbyist for KLC. She directs the activities of 42 staff members in a variety of service areas such as insurance for cities in liability, property, unemployment, workers' compensation and health; bond and investment pools; information services; legal assistance; and training and education. Lovely is a 1973 MSU graduate.

Three afternoon workshops also will be conducted as part of the symposium. A tour of the Kentucky Folk Art Center will feature the exhibit "Quilts from the Closet." A workshop in the Lappin Hall computer lab will introduce the Internet and online investing. An open forum on legal issues will feature legal representatives who will answer questions and address concerns.

Because of limited seating, pre-registration for the symposium is necessary. The cost is $13 per person, which includes lunch. Additional information and registration is available from Shirley Hamilton, MSU's director of Community Development, at (606) 783-2355 or the Kentucky Folk Art Center at (606) 783-2204.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---A covered bridge tour, a tree farm tour and the Arts and Crafts Market are the highlighted events for Saturday, June 26, during the last day of Morehead State University's annual Appalachian Celebration.

Reservations are being accepted for a bus tour to rural Fleming County to see several covered bridges listed on the National Register of Historic Places. Participants will learn the history of these structures, including their designs and uses. The bus will depart from Laughlin Health Building at 8 a.m. and return at 2 p.m. Yoder's Country Store is among the stops planned along the way. Admission is $10.

A workshop and tour titled "An Alternative Cash Crop" will focus on tree farming as a small business. Participants will board the bus from Laughlin's front lawn at 9 a.m. and return at 1 p.m. The workshop will include a tour of the Hutton and Loyd Tree Farm.

An annual favorite of campus visitors from near and far is the annual Appalachian Celebration Arts and Crafts Market, which will open at 9 a.m. and run until 5 p.m. An array of vendors featuring regional and traditional wares will fill Laughlin Health Building's multi-purpose room. A variety of textiles, woodwork, ceramics and utensils will be available for purchase. Admission is $2 for the day.

An open stage will offer traditional Appalachian music on the Laughlin lawn throughout the day. Numerous artisans and craftspeople will share their culture through demonstrations.

Additional information on MSU's Appalachian Celebration is available by calling (606) 783-2204.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Local and regional writers will autograph their works Wednesday, June 23, 2-4 p.m., at CoffeeTree Books, 240 Morehead Plaza, as part of Morehead State University's 23rd annual Appalachian Celebration.

The authors will include:

*Garry Barker of Morehead, who grew up in Elliott and Fleming counties, is director of MSU's Kentucky Folk Art Center. A Berea College graduate, he has authored numerous publications including "The Handcraft Revival in Southern Appalachia, 1930-1990," and "Notes from a Native Son: Essays on the Appalachian Experience" as well as "Fire on the Mountain," "Copperhead Summer," "Mountain Passage and Other Stories," "All Night Dog" and a chapbook of poetry, "Bitter Creek Breakdown." He currently writes a newspaper column titled "Head of the Holler" for Kentucky newspapers.

*Dr. Thomas G. Barnes of Lexington is an associate extension professor and wildlife specialist in the Department of Forestry at the University of Kentucky. A writer and photographer, he authored the book "Gardening For the Birds" and the award-winning publication "Private Lands Wildlife Management: A Correspondence Course and Technical Guidance Manual." In addition, he has published more than 20 research papers, 45 extension publications and 15 magazine articles in his areas of expertise, which include urban wildlife conservation, biodiversity and an ecosystems approach to natural resources management and wildlife damage management.

*David Dick of Plum Lick is a journalist, essayist, fiction writer, former CBS news correspondent and former journalism professor at the University of Kentucky. He received an Emmy Award for coverage of the shooting of Alabama Gov. George Wallace in 1972 and was inducted into the Kentucky Journalism Hall of Fame in 1987. His publications include "A Conversation with Peter P. Pence," "The View from Plum Lick," "Peace at the Center" and "The Quiet Kentuckians." He is a regular columnist for "Kentucky Living," a Kentucky Association of Electric Cooperatives publication.

*Marilyn Dungan of Paris is a suspense novelist who was born in Pittsburgh, Pa. She moved to Paris 30 years ago with her husband, Claude, and their three children. She now lives on a farm overlooking a body of water that inspired her novel "Snakebird." She is currently writing a third novel in her Laney McVey Series.

*John Engle of West Liberty is poet and essayist, who has published six books of poetry and a collection of poems and essays. He has also authored more than 2,000 pieces in magazines, newspapers and anthologies. He teaches writing classes and workshops, including the annual Phoenix Writers' Workshop at Greenbo Lake State Park.

*Loyal Jones of Berea is a writer and speaker on Appalachian culture who formerly directed the Berea College Appalachian Center. He has published several books on Appalachian values, religion, humor and music. His latest work is "Faith and Meaning in the Southern Uplands," published by the University of Illinois Press.

*Col. Arthur L. Kelly of Frankfort is a veteran of World War II, Korea and Vietnam, who interviewed more than 100 Kentucky veterans in the course of a decade. From that collection came "BattleFire: Combat Stories from World War II," published by the University Press of Kentucky. He also has published articles on military strategy. A former chair of MSU's Department of Military Science, Col. Kelly retired in 1976 after serving 30 years of active duty. He has received numerous awards and decorations, including three Legion of Merit medals, a Bronze Star Medal for Valor with the oak leaf cluster, a Vietnamese Cross of Gallantry and 23 campaign, meritorious and service medals.

*Dr. James C. Klotter of Lexington is state historian and professor of history at Georgetown College. A Kentucky native, he has authored, co-authored or edited a dozen books, including "A New History of Kentucky," "Kentucky: Decades of Discord, 1865-1900," "Kentucky: Portrait in Paradox, 1900-1950," "William Goebel: The Politics of Wrath," "The Breckinridges of Kentucky," "Our Kentucky: A Study of the Bluegrass State" and "History Mysteries."

*Art Lander Jr. of Bethlehem is an author of outdoor recreation stories and an avid angler and hunter. Lander has been a staff writer for the Lexington Herald-Leader since 1986 for which he writes the Sunday outdoor page. In 1991, he won the Best Outdoor Page Award, the top newspaper award presented by the Outdoor Writers Association of America.

*Ed McClanahan of Lexington is an author of fiction, non-fiction and book reviews and former English and creative writing professor at Oregon State University, Stanford University, the University of Kentucky, the University of Montana and Northern Kentucky University. His publications include "The Natural Man," "Famous People I Have Known" and "A Congress of Wonders." His latest work, "My VITA, If You Will: The Uncollected Ed McClanahan," contains a mixture of fiction, reviews and articles, published by Counterpoint.

*Dr. Lynwood Montell of Oakland is professor emeritus of folk studies at Western Kentucky University and author of 14 books. Among his works are "Kentucky Ghosts" and "Ghosts Along the Cumberland." Montell, who serves as editor of the University Press of Mississippi's "Folklife in the South" series and as co-editor of the University Press of Kentucky's "Ohio River Valley" series, currently is working on four additional books.

*Genie K. Potter of Louisville is an essayist and media specialist/technology coordinator for Oldham County Schools. She researched, edited and independently published "Kentucky Women," which contained 95 biographical essays portraying outstanding women of the Commonwealth, both historical and contemporary. In July, 1998, Potter was appointed by Gov. Paul Patton to be the executive director of the Kentucky Commission on Women.

*Charles B. Simpson of Hazard is retired businessman and is co-founder and chairman of Writers of the North Fork, based in Hazard. His book, "A Ride on a Train and Other Moving Stories," was published by the Jesse Stuart Foundation. In addition, he has published numerous other short stories and poems.

*Ruby L. Vencill of Morehead is a retired food services director for the Rowan County Schools. Her comprehensive cookbook, "The Art of Good Cooking," offers numerous recipes, preparation guidelines and helpful tips to assist cooks of all levels with the creation of extraordinary cuisine.

Prior to the signing, a reception for the authors will be held at the Kentucky Folk Art Center beginning at 1 p.m. The winner of the Lillie D. Chaffin Literary Award for 1999 also will be announced during this time.

Both events are free and open to the public. Additional information is available by calling (606) 783-2204.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Author Billy C. Clark will receive the Appalachian Treasure Award during Morehead State University's 23rd annual Appalachian Celebration which is slated for June 20-26.

MSU President Ronald G. Eaglin will make the presentation to Clark during the opening reception on Sunday, June 20, at 7 p.m., in the Commonwealth Room of the Adron Doran University Center.

Originally from Catlettsburg, Clark is a noted American author and one of Kentucky's most distinguished writers. He has won many awards and honors for his books, short stories and poems.

His novel, "A Long Row to Hoe" (1960), is the story of an impoverished family living at the junction of the Big Sandy and Ohio Rivers. "In 19 years of growing up in the valley, hunger was my most vivid memory and an education my greatest desire," Clark writes. The narrative, used by a number of universities as a study of Appalachia, was selected as one of Time Magazine's Best Books of 1960. The work also was chosen by the Library of Congress to be recorded on talking records for the blind.

"Trail of the Hunter's Horn" (1957) was selected as a Crowell-Collier Classic and now appears in Platt and Monk's American Anthology as one of the 30 greatest dog stories ever written. "Song of the River" (1957) won the Friends of American Writers Award as one of the three best books published in the South and Southwest, and "The Champion of Sourwood Mountain" (1966) was offered by the Book-of-the-Month Club.

Clark was the recipient of the Berea College Denny C. Plattner Appalachian Heritage Award for Poetry. He taught in the University of Kentucky system as a writer-in-residence for 18 years, attaining the rank of full professor. Since 1986, he has been a writer-in-residence at Longwood College in Farmville, Va.

In the last seven years, the Jesse Stuart Foundation in Ashland has re-issued seven of Clark's books, with others scheduled at later dates. A new volume of his poetry, "To Leave My Heart at Catlettsburg," was recently released by the Foundation.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---A special series of workshops offering information and ideas for agriculture and small business development will be held during Morehead State University's 23rd annual Appalachian Celebration, which runs June 20-26.

"Income Opportunities in Special Forest and Agriculture Products: Small Business Training" is a series dedicated to the diversification of agribusiness through alternative cash crops. The workshops, which will be held at Rodburn Park in Morehead, are free and open to the public.

Three workshops are scheduled for Monday, June 21. "Starting a Certified Organic Farming Business" runs from 10 a.m. until noon with an afternoon workshop, "Ginseng: How to Grow, Harvest, Sell and the Law", running from 1 to 3 p.m. A concurrent two-part workshop, "Start a Bee Farming Business," also is scheduled that day. Part I will be offered in the morning and Part II in the afternoon. Instructors will be Hope Craine, on organic farming, and Cris Kring, on ginseng growing, both of the Kentucky Department of Agriculture.

"The Alternative Business: Forest Botanicals as Flavorings, Medicinals and Pharmaceuticals" will be offered Tuesday, June 22, with Part I running from 10 a.m. to noon and Part II from 1 to 3 p.m. Linda Heller-Hydon of the Kentucky Department of Agriculture will be the instructor.

Highlights for Wednesday, June 23, include "Start a Mushroom Business" from 10 a.m. until noon. Activities for "Children's Day" will feature a petting zoo from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., with a special presentation by the Cincinnati Zoo at 1 p.m.

Making its debut as part of the celebration is a two-day forest products program, "A Cut Above: Where Quality Grows," scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wood crafters will be demonstrating and selling their wares. Wood turning, wood carving, basket making, and a modern horse-drawn logging demonstration by Gary Anderson are among the highlights slated for each day. These events are sponsored by the Kentucky Division of Forestry and the Kentucky Department of Agriculture.

“The Decorative Wood Business: Value-Added Figured Wood” is scheduled for Thursday, June 24, with Part I running from 10 a.m. to noon and Part II from 1 to 3 p.m. Discussion will focus on identification of figured woods, harvesting techniques, preservation of the harvest and marketing strategies for wood products. Speakers will include Byron Bland, forest resource utilization forester with the Kentucky Division of Forestry, and John Cotton, director of secondary wood promotions with the Kentucky Department of Agriculture.

The demonstrations move to campus for Friday’s workshop, “Starting a Business with Aromatics,” which runs from 10 a.m. to noon on the lawn of the Laughlin Health Building. Pre-registration is necessary because class size is limited to 20. Melinda Higgins and Janet Osborne of Flag Fork Herb Farm in Lexington will provide instruction.

Also on Friday on the Laughlin lawn will be demonstrations of wood carving, mill grinding, broom making and chair caning from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Abe Harper, nationally known wood turner from Berea, will be among those sharing their crafts.

Rounding out the week is “Tree Farming for the Small Business Workshop and Tour: An Alternative Cash Crop” on Saturday, June 26. Participants will board the bus at Laughlin Health Building at 9 a.m. and return at 1 p.m. The workshop, which will include a tour of the Hutton and Loyd Tree Farm, will focus on tree farming operations, nursery and landscaping trees, multiple use forest management and tree farming, and tree farm challenges. Kevin Galloway of the Kentucky Division of Forestry will serve as tour guide and instructor.

Pre-registration is requested for all workshops. Additional information is available by calling Dee Norris at (606) 784-7504 or Georgia Sammons-Grigsby at (606) 783-5153.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---The key to success in life is citizenship and service.

This was the message brought by Col. Steve Collins, department chief of staff for operations with the Kentucky Army National Guard, when he spoke at the opening session of Kentucky Boys State which began Sunday, June 13, on the Morehead State University campus.

Commending the approximately 110 delegates for having been selected to attend Boys State, Col. Collins encouraged the young men to learn all they could about government. "Find an area that interests you, as a full-time career, a part-time career or as a volunteer," he said. "Volunteering will not be easy but it will be rewarding."

Among the "personal rewards," Col. Collins listed "the friends you make, the sense of accomplishment and a better world to live in." Citing the deeds of Dr. Martin Luther King who changed the world by his dreams and actions, the vision and skills of President Woodrow Wilson and Joshua Chamberlain who demonstrated bravery at the Battle of Gettysburg, he noted that one person can make a difference.

A 29-year veteran of the Kentucky National Guard, Col. Collins has served as a sergeant, a platoon leader and twice as a company commander. He has served on brigade staffs and on state staffs. Graduating first in his Officer Candidate School class, he attended branch schools, Command and General Staff College and the U.S. Army War College. He earned a degree in business from the University of Kentucky and a master's degree from Kentucky State University.

Boys State, a practical learning experience in state and local government, is sponsored by the Kentucky American Legion for high school seniors across the state. Throughout the week, the delegates will develop their own two-party system, elect state and city officials, serve as legislators and introduce, debate and enact laws as in the Kentucky General Assembly.

Elected Boys State officers, including governor and lieutenant governor, will be announced Wednesday, June 16, and on Thursday, they will travel to Frankfort to meet their real life counterparts.

The program will conclude Friday, June 18, with graduation ceremonies and announcement of Boys Nation delegates.

MAYORS ELECTED AT KENTUCKY BOYS STATE

MOREHEAD, Ky---Only three years ago Bryan Boyd was living in the American Virgin Islands studying about America and the political system. This week he was named governor of Kentucky Boys State. It has been an accomplishment for a 17-year-old who now calls Ft. Campbell home.

The Kentucky Boys State program, a practical learning experience in state and local government, helped Boyd learn first-hand about politics. During the weeklong session, sponsored by the American Legion and held at Morehead State University (June 13-18), high school seniors learned about voting, making laws and creating city budgets. The delegates hold elections to select state officers like those who run the state from their offices in Frankfort,

"I told my mom when I left home that I would come back governor," Boyd said. "It was my goal." A senior at Ft. Campbell High School, he is the son of Charmaine and Leroy Smith and Henry Boyd.

Boyd was encouraged by his teacher Louveina Peavie to participate in the Boys State program. As he attended the sessions, he carried a high school textbook about government that Peavie had given him.

"I have read almost all of this book," Boyd said. "It has helped me explore many aspects of government, from citizenship to how bills are made into law. I like the chapter on the rights and powers of the people best."

Boyd admits that he didn't get to be governor by himself. He had assistance from other delegates in his party who helped post flyers and spread the word. Boyd said that he never expected to get as much support as he got from his new friends.

Also elected to state offices were:

Lieutenant Governor—Josiah Corrigan of Lexington. The son of Doug and Renee Corrigan, he is a senior at Lexington Christian Academy.

Secretary of State—Ryan Duncan of Taylor Mill. The son of David and Linda Duncan, he is a senior at Scott High School.

Auditor—Adam Taliaferro of Ft. Knox. The son of Maryland Yvonne Taliaferro, he is a senior at Ft. Knox High School.

Commissioner of Agriculture—Travis Thompson of Rineyville. The son of Donna Thompson and Gary Thompson, he is a senior at North Hardin High School.

Attorney General—Nick Murphy of Manitou. The son of Gary and Patricia Murphy, he is a senior at Madisonville-North Hopkins High School.

Treasurer—Brandon Toliver of Paducah. The son of Ruby Toliver, he is a senior at Paducah-Tilghman High School.

Appointed to the office of Adjutant General by the Boys State governor was Chris Dishong of Ft. Campbell. The son of James and Karen Lingo, he is a senior at Ft. Campbell High School.

Before leaving Boys State, the elected officials were treated to a day in Frankfort where they met their counterparts in government. Boyd walked shyly into Gov. Paul Patton's office where he shook hands with the real-life governor. While visiting the state's capital, the group visited the governor's and Lt. governor's mansions.

Corrigan was excited to meet Lt. Gov. Steve Henry and tour the 200 hundred-year-old mansion. The Lt. governor talked with the young men about the history of the mansion, including the ghost that roams the hallways from time to time.

"I really enjoy all this," Corrigan said. "It has all been very interesting. The whole week (of Boys State) has been great."

As a class president, Corrigan had some experience when it came to campaigning for Lt. governor. "The secret is not to push too hard and make sure you get the names out there," he said, a strategy that paid off for the two elected to the highest positions.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Dr. Ronald Fiel, professor of science at Morehead State University, has been appointed newsletter director and board member of the Kentucky Science Teachers Association (KSTA) for 1999.

KSTA members attend meetings of the Kentucky Board of Education as advocates for science education issues. They also serve as representatives on Kentucky Department of Education advisory committees, assessment development task forces and other committees which request science inclusion.

Dr. Fiel has previously served as president of KSTA and is past chair of MSU's Department of Physical Sciences. He has served on the board of directors for the Association for the Education of Teachers in Science, as a member of the Kentucky Academy of Science and the National Science Teachers Association. He also served as president of the Morehead Kiwanis Club and the Northeast Kentucky Kidney Foundation.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---What makes the Institute for Regional Analysis and Public Policy (IRAPP), Morehead State University's new "program of distinction," different from other programs focused on improving life in East Kentucky? It is the fact that IRAPP is designed to create "a real connection between the University and the region," said Dr. David Rudy, dean of the institute.

Created in response to a challenge issued in 1997 by the state legislature, IRAPP represents a unique approach to regional studies. According to Dr. Rudy, while it is distantly related to the field of Appalachian studies, which tends to approach issues from an abstract and intellectual point of view, IRAPP is determinedly more practical. Students will study in traditional majors like sociology or environmental science, with an emphasis on their relationship to the analysis of specifically regional concerns.

By way of hands-on projects that tackle real-world problems outside the classroom, Dr. Rudy observed, IRAPP will equip students to develop job-related skills while they build "relationships of mutual trust and respect" between the University and the community. By "listening carefully and taking people seriously," students, faculty and the community at large will work together on issues such as how to provide more affordable housing and how to develop markets for secondary wood products, he explained.

This means that IRAPP is not a "top-down program full of intellectuals prescribing solutions" to regional problems, Dr. Rudy emphasized. Instead, IRAPP's goal is to involve people from all walks of life in the process of promoting the sustainable economic development of the region. By "getting a sense of problems facing the region from the people's perspective," through public forums and partnerships with residents, business people and representatives of social and governmental agencies, IRAPP participants will be able to "tie MSU to the people in a stronger and more complete way than has been achieved in the past," he said.

This in turn provides an opportunity for the growth of a grassroots leadership in the region that is more effective because its participants know firsthand both the problems that need to be solved and "how to negotiate the system," Dr. Rudy pointed out. He also noted that IRAPP offers the potential to help increase the job market in East Kentucky by providing a ready supply of well-trained professionals in fields like forest and land management, rural planning, environmental health and safety and industry compliance. These advantages ultimately could "help stem the outflow of talented and skilled individuals from the region," he said, as well as "recruit professionals to locate here when they see the opportunities the area has to offer."

IRAPP will train its students to recognize that what they learn in the academic world applies to real-life concerns. By "demanding that they develop analytic and problem-solving skills while they work in the field," students will grow both practically and intellectually, Dr. Rudy predicted. At the same time, they will have the opportunity to understand East Kentucky's connection to the global economy. Through its emphasis on regional analysis as a process applicable to both urban and rural areas worldwide, IRAPP will focus on "regionalism, not simply a region," he said.

IRAPP currently is recruiting both students and faculty for the fall 1999 semester. Additional information is available by calling (606) 783-5419 or (606) 783-5420.

Rosemarie Gold, director of MSU's Clearinghouse for School Services and Certification, has been selected as a "highly skilled educator" by the Kentucky Department of Education. She will complete a two-year assignment with a regional school district to help improve student learning.

She was one of 29 applicants selected from across the Commonwealth. She is the only MSU representative chosen for this assignment.

Gold will take a leave of absence through a memorandum of agreement between Morehead State University and the Kentucky Department of Education. She will work with administrators and teachers in the assigned school district to assist in increasing student learning, to hopefully increase students' test scores.

"My goal is to introduce methods and strategies that will improve the learning environment and assist teachers and administrators in implementing the best practices focused on student-centered learning," Gold said. "I will continue to be an ambassador for Morehead State, and I am excited about the opportunities this appointment will provide.

"With MSU's focus on the P-16 concept, this collaboration can establish new connections for educational exchanges between local school districts and the University," she observed.

The highly skilled educator program is part of the Commonwealth's Accountability Testing System (CATS), which was mandated by House Bill 53 in the 1998 General Assembly. Formerly known as the Kentucky distinguished educators program, it is a product of the Kentucky Education Reform Act, which was implemented in 1990. Since it first began in 1994, the program has trained and provided more than 100 educators to work with schools identified by the state assessment. Currently, there are 57 highly skilled educators assigned to schools, including the 29 recently selected.

These educators help guide school staffs in aligning their curricula with CATS assessment goals and practicing classroom methods that reinforce national standards. They also assist with school improvement plans and the use of resources from the Commonwealth School Improvement Fund.

Gold began her career as an educator by serving seven years in public school classrooms, which led to her becoming a KERA development consultant. She has worked with P-12 curriculum development and as an ambassador for MSU through the Clearinghouse. In addition, she has facilitated the establishment of partnerships with local school districts.

Dr. Cathy Barlow, chair of the Department of Elementary, Reading and Special Education, assures local school districts that regular services will continue to be offered by the office while Gold is on leave.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---A school superintendent, an elementary school teacher and a graduate student have been recognized by Morehead State University's Alpha Nu Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, the international professional fraternity for educators.

Maurice Reeder Jr. of Vanceburg, superintendent of the Lewis County school system, received the 1999 Outstanding Administrator Award.

Carol McGary Malone of Morehead, a fourth grade teacher at Farmers Elementary School, received the Outstanding Public School Teacher Award.

Amy L. Dettmer of Morehead, an MSU graduate student in education, received the Outstanding Graduate Student Award.

Reeder has more than 25 years of experience in education and has served as superintendent of the Lewis County school system since 1997. He also has held positions as assistant superintendent at Lewis County, principal and secondary teacher at Lewis County High School and Foster Meade Area Vocational School and elementary teacher and basketball coach at Laurel Elementary School.

He received his bachelor's and master's degrees as well as Rank I certification from Morehead State University and achieved the rank of Spec. 4 in the U.S. Army.

In recommending Reeder for the award, Barbara Lyons, educational consultant with the Kentucky Leadership Academy, wrote, "His most outstanding quality is his commitment to improve student achievement."

Malone has been a classroom teacher for 24 years, currently serving as a Title I instructor at Farmers Elementary. She has served previously as fourth grade teacher at Farmers, first grade teacher in the Fleming County school system, second grade teacher in Columbia (S.C.) City Schools, second grade teacher for Mahomet (Ill.) Schools and first grade teacher for Morristown (Tenn.) City Schools.

(MORE)

She received her bachelor's degree from Carson-Newman College in Jefferson City, Tenn., and her master's degree and Rank I certification from MSU.

In her work with the accelerated reading program at Farmers Elementary, Malone encouraged students to read more than 6,500 books during the 1997-98 school year. This year, students are working toward the goal of 8,000 books.

Dettmer, who is completing her Master of Arts degree in education with reading specialist endorsement, is a former seventh grade language arts/remedial reading teacher at Noblesville (Ind.) Middle School. She received her bachelor's degree in science/elementary education from Huntington (Ind.) College, where she received several honors and awards, including outstanding future educator as named by college education faculty, and outstanding future reading teacher, awarded by the Indiana State Reading Association.

Currently Dettmer serves as a graduate assistant coach with the volleyball team through which she helps train and recruit team members. "She is one of those rare individuals who functions at the highest level in both leadership and work ethic," said Head Coach Mike Swan. "She is an effective recruiter, an inspirational motivator and an excellent communicator."

Of Dettmer, Dr. Mary Anne Pollock, MSU associate professor of education, said, "all learning is interrelated; all learning is useful in some way. To her, learning is both a reflective and a questioning process."

Phi Delta Kappa's awards committee was chaired by Belva Sammons, MSU coordinator of special services.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---The Minority Teacher Education Program (MTEP) at Morehead State University hosted more than 70 high school and middle school students from Kentucky, Indiana, and Virginia during its summer program. The students spent a week on the campus where they learned about opportunities in teacher education.

"One of the program's main objectives is to increase the number of minority students that matriculate to higher education; another is to increase the number that enter teacher education," said Ernestine Winfield, director of the Minority Teacher Education Program. "This is one of the biggest minority recruitment tools we have to work with," she said.

During their visit to the MSU campus, students were introduced to faculty, staff, administrators and practicing teachers. They attended classes in English, math, science, computers and black history and toured the University and the region. In addition to classes, students participated in social activities, including swimming, cook-outs and basketball.

"I've seen first-hand that this program helps minority students," Winfield said. "It gives them confidence about going to college and helps them realize, 'This is something I can do.' The admission process is complicated. The experience of coming to the campus, interacting with other young people, and meeting with representatives from admissions, financial aid and academics helps to ease the fear that students may have about the process," she said.

To qualify for the program, participants must be minority students who attend either high school or middle school, who have two recommendations from teachers at their respective schools and who maintain a 2.5 or higher grade point average on a 4.0 scale. Applicants who are interested in majoring in education are preferred.

The program is sponsored by MSU's Office of Student Retention and the Minority Teacher Education Program. Additional information regarding the program is available from Winfield at (606) 783-2833.

MHS HONOR PLAQUE PRESENTED

A Morehead High School archives display will be constructed at the Rowan County Board of Education building, the site of the former school. The archives will include a Wall of Honor, displaying the names of alumni, teachers and friends of MHS. Dr. Jack Ellis, chair of the MHS scholarship committee, presented the honor plaque to Kay Freeland, superintendent of Rowan County Schools, to be displayed in the archives. Additional names will be added to the plaque as contributions are received, in their honor. Memorial contributions to the scholarship fund may be sent to the Morehead High School Scholarship Fund, Palmer Development House, Morehead State University, Morehead, Ky. 40351. MHS memorabilia is being collected for the archives. Since its formation in 1996, the MHS Scholarship Committee has been awarding a scholarship annually to a graduate of Rowan County Senior High School who will attend Morehead State University.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Brandon Stumbo of McDowell, a junior at Morehead State University, has been appointed to the National Executive Council of the Gamma Beta Phi Honor Society for the 1999-2000 academic year.

He is one of four NEC members from across the nation, appointed to represent collegiate chapter members within the national organization.

Stumbo will begin his term on July 1 at a meeting in Knoxville, Tenn. His responsibilities will include representing and voting on behalf of more than 40,000 Gamma Beta Phi members in 94 chapters throughout the U.S. He also will be involved in planning the society's national convention and in facilitating communication between chapters.

"I look forward to learning about the business of this large corporation as well as serving as a voice for members," said Stumbo, who is a business major with an option in accounting. "I have always wondered how big organizations run. Now I'll have a chance to see one in action."

The Gamma Beta Phi Society is an honor and service organization for students in colleges and universities throughout the United States. The society's objectives are to recognize and encourage excellence in education, to promote leadership ability and character in its members and to improve education through service projects.

In addition to his work with the campus organization at MSU, Stumbo served as president of the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity and was a member of the Honors Program, the Delta Mu Delta business honor society and the Accounting Club.

A graduate of South Floyd High School, he is the son of Ivan and Wanda Stumbo, and the grandson of Dorothy Moore and the late Woody Stumbo of McDowell, and James and Leona Hall of Topmost.

TRANSITION FROM HIGH SCHOOL TO COLLEGE

You're about to finish high school; you've been accepted to college. Now it's time to spread your wings.

But you don't want to end up like the fabled Icarus, who learned how to fly like a bird yet passed too close to the sun so that he fell back to earth with a resounding thud. Icarus failed because he refused to heed the advice of the wise; but you can avoid his fate by drawing on the experiences of others.

Perhaps you've talked with many people about college life, and you've heard a lot of stories. So what will college be like, and how will it be different from the life you already know?

First of all, college life involves completely different living arrangements. Whether you live in a residence hall on campus or in an apartment off-campus, likely you will be sharing living space with people you're not used to. This can create stress, unless your roommates' socializing and housekeeping habits are similar to your own. An uncomfortable situation can sometimes turn into a desperate one if your roommate has planned a get-together the night before you have a big exam.

In addition to adapting to a new environment, your willpower and determination will definitely be challenged. Allocating your time and resources, meeting deadlines, making it to class on time and doing homework even though going on a date would be more fun--all these obligations require making mature choices. And those parents whom you never wanted around before will not be there now to remind you what your priorities should be.

Managing your time goes hand-in-hand with financial obligations. You are entering an adult world where only you will oversee your own purse strings. Preparing a budget and adhering to it is a choice you will have to make if you intend to complete college without owing money to an overwhelming array of debtors. Whether it is purchasing a new CD or having money for laundry or food, these require cash that must be managed wisely.

Without parents to encourage healthy eating, some students gain an average of 15 pounds during their first year of college. Deciding that it's fun to stay up all night and enjoy the numerous pizza parties, along with the sedentary hours you'll spend studying, may soon mean there is more of you to get to class. It will be up to you to come up with a plan for eating right and getting enough exercise to combat the "freshman 15."

While being on your own can be fun, it does require a whole different attitude on your part. College teachers are not babysitters and are not obligated to hold your hand. For some classes, there will be no attendance policy and you alone must decide whether you can afford to miss a particular session. In some cases you will be learning not because of the professor but in spite of him/her, while others will motivate you to reach new goals and achieve more than you ever thought possible. The ability to make the most out of either of these situations is another sign of your growing maturity.

But suddenly realizing that you are in control of determining whether you have what it takes to succeed is part of the excitement of the college experience. In high school, you have had the support of family members, or the sports team or other students whom you have known for at least four years. When you move on to the next level, you will meet many new people in the process of broadening your horizon. You will be exposed to many different cultures as you share the lives of other students. Here is an opportunity to make friends that will remain with you throughout life, who can become your support group in future years.

Being able to carry the weight and go for the gold is the secret to a successful college experience. It is a major test of you as an individual, during which you can learn to make decisions, accept the consequences and have the opportunity to try harder if those results were not what you anticipated.

For some, college will be easier than high school; for others, it will be more difficult. It's the starting line for your race in life and only you can determine how good that start is going to be.

MSU RETIREES EXECUTIVE BOARD MEETS

The Executive Board of Morehead State University's Retirees Association met recently to discuss possible programs, services and activities for the organization. Among those attending were, from left, Dr. J.E. Duncan, association vice president; Dr. Jack Ellis, secretary/treasurer; Dr. John C. Philley, president; Betty Philley, program/activities co-chair; Judith Yancy, public relations/publicity co-chair; LeMerle Bentley, social committee co-chair; and Dr. Earl Bentley, social committee co-chair and representative on the MSU Alumni Association Board. Also attending was Clyde James, program/activities co-chair. Plans for the coming year included financial planning seminars, hands-on computer training, day trips to sites of interest such as Shakertown and outings to concerts and theatre productions. Also serving on the retirees board is Dr. John R. Duncan, public relations/publicity co-chair. The association was formed to create a strong organization of MSU retirees, to encourage mutual support between the University and its retirees and to promote MSU and its programs.
