and Appear of New York City, so he went at and lived for a while in Spillville, Iowa—a village so tiny that it doesn't have a railroad nor a paved street, even today.

And yet, while living in Spillville Dvorak wrote a part of his "New World Symphony," which is one of the most beautiful and exquisite things ever composed by man. Since it was written out in the corn fields of Iowa, Dvorak thought for a time of calling it the "Spillville Symphony."

Dvorak was born ninety two years ago in a tiny village in far-off Bohemia. He had very little education and had to work long hours in his father's butcher shop. But as he made his money by working with auto, sell Egg Producer to Farmers, Eureka Mig. Co., East St. Louis, Ill.

He died of consumption at the age of thirty-five—his vitality lowered by constant cold and hunger and a life of making his money.

His pitiful funeral cost exactly three dollars and ten cents. Only six people followed the cheap pine coffin—and even they turned back because it started to rain.

Harold Sanford, who was Victor Herbert's most intimate friend told me that when Victor Herbert first came to America, there were times between seasons, when he was poor he had only one shirt, and he had to lie in bed while his wife washed and ironed that shirt.

Remember the song that all of us were singing back in the early days of the World War, "It's a Long, Long Way to Tipperary." That was probably the most popular war song ever written in the world. It was written by a man in the police force of London, and it was in the market by day and work as an actor by night.

One of the most popular musical selections in the world was written by a butcher's son, and, strangely enough, it was composed out among the corn cribs and hog pens of Iowa.

It is called "Humoresque." It was composed by a Bohemian named Anton Dvorak, who was born in this country when he was fifty years old, but he couldn't stand the noise

Payments Made To Heirs

Persons who receive unemployment compensation benefits under the job insurance law of the State of Kentucky do not reduce or change benefits these workers or their heirs will receive later under the old age insurance part of the Social Security Act.

This statement was made today by James A. Chaney, manager of the Social Security Board field office in Ashland.

"Now that Kentucky is paying job insurance benefits some persons have the idea that this money is coming out of or partly out of funds which workers and their employers pay under the old age insurance plan," Mr. Chaney said.

"The two sets of benefits are entirely different. The fact that a person receives job insurance benefits has nothing whatever to do with payments which will be made later under the old age insurance plan. None of the money contributed for old age insurance benefits goes toward the payments of job insurance benefits—job insurance benefits are not deducted from old age insurance benefits and the workers' account set up the Social Security Board is in no way affected by any benefits drawn under the Kentucky unemployment compensation law," Mr. Chaney added.

He said money payments distributed under the old age insurance plan are direct from the U. S. treasury while job insurance benefit checks are issued by the State of Kentucky under the Kentucky unemployment compensation trust fund which on December 1, 1938 amounted to more than $18,000,000.

MODERN METHODS HELP KENTUCKY POULTRY RAISERS

The use of electric lights to produce more eggs when prices are good, and the production of hatching eggs at a premium of 10 cents a dozen, are but two of the modern methods employed by Ronald Dugan, Monroe county farmer, in making poultry profitable. He related his experiences at a meeting of poultry raisers at the Farm and Home Convention at Lexington.

Even mongrel hens, when well managed, are profitable, Bushong found when he began poultry raising 14 years ago. However, he shifted to purebreds and built brooder and laying houses as he developed his poultry business.

Bushong hatches 1,000 to 1,500 chicks a year and keeps 500 to 600 hens. He uses movable brooder houses to keep the chicks on clean ground, which he considers important.

Originally he used coal burning brooder stoves, but now he uses wood burning stoves made from old drums. Home-made starting and growing mashies are fed.

Chicks are segregated from the pullets at about a week of age. Pullets are housed before they are laying. Lights have been used for three years in the laying house. Bushong keeps only pullets to help stimulate egg production in as layers, selling the hens after the hatching season.

Complete records for 12 years reveal that chickens have never failed to make money on the Bushong farm. They helped him through the worst years of the depression, he says, and were the most profitable farm enterprise during that time.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

Nothing can replace property destroyed by fire. An insurance policy may provide you with the money to duplicate—but it business property is gone beyond redemption. It represents utter and complete economic waste. It is a drain on the resources of the nation.

The direct loss by fire has been running in the neighborhood of $300,000,000 a year. It is estimated that the loss to the nation is $1,000,000,000 a year.

NOT A CREEP OF SKINFINTS

It's only human for some persons who are refused loans by a bank to go away cursing banking in general. They paint bankers as a crew of heartless skinfint.

However, a banker doesn't refuse a loan because he wants to. He refuses it, when he does, because he must—because either the law or his obligations to his depositors, make it impossible to grant the request. As F. L. Lippman, Chairman of the Board of the Wells Fargo Bank, recently wrote, "There is no real difference between the applicant and the bank as to their interests and final purposes. It is no kindness to a man to make him a bad loan, for if he cannot repay it if it is a good loan, but neither a borrower himself is ruined. The interests of the two are in fact the same. Both want to make the loan if it is a good loan, but neither at bottom wants to make a bad loan. Inevitably there are some errors of judgment on both sides, but it is the banker who must take the responsibility. If he is too sanguine, there may be a loss for the bank and tragically and ruin for the borrower."

A bank is just as sound as the judgment of the men who operate it. After all, the money in the bank doesn't belong to the bankers. We'll get a much clearer picture of banking if we divorce ourselves of the mistaken notion that bank officials want to squeeze every nickel until the eagle screams. The average banker is eager to make sound loans to build up his community. As his town and state grow and prosper, his bank grows and prospers with them. The bank-

THE GROUND

In the past several weeks many persons have been remarking that the robins have come back, or so they think. What is actually the case is that the robins have not left at all, but until lately have been able to find subsistence in the fields. Because such food is becoming scarce, they have begun to frequent dwellings. That is to say, the "appearance" of the robins, now is not a sign that spring is just "round the corner, or a signal that gardening should begin. However, the time is here for preparation for the 1939 garden-to-be to be started, and the first step is to break ground.

There are many reasons why garden breaking should be done before rigorous winter weather is past, but only a few need be cited.

The first is that soil in conditioning is brought about, and in two ways: At the summer's close, all gardens contained more or less crabgrass and other weeds, as well as the spent vegetable tops. All this was killed by frosts or freezes and is now a dry and strawy mass. Plowed under just before seed-sowing and plant setting is to be done, this material may cause trouble by making the soil so open in texture that it dries out, or by lying in a layer at plow-depth, cutting off completely the rise of deep moisture. However, if this material is turned under early, time is allowed for it to rot down to become humus, a soil conditioner, instead of a soil mender. The above applies also when stable manure is used on a garden.

The other way soil conditioning is improved by early breaking is that exposed to intermittent cold, the surfaces of the furrow slices freeze and thaw, the soil becoming porous and fluffy, then sticky, while the soil touches the water faucet. It is dangerous to touch any electrical connection while in a wet bath-tub, and the same is true if connected when not in use, can burn up the house.

Stains on clothing can be removed easily, and should be removed as soon as possible, since changes brought about by drying, exposure to air, washing, soap or ironing make them difficult to remove, or even impossible to express. There is no universal stain remover.

STUBBY FASHION TRENDS, SAYS EXPERT

When buying spring clothes, such as sports suits, shoes and handbags, first study fashion trends, and then the clothes will be excellent for fall wear, says Miss Verma Latzka, clothing specialist for the Unitway Co. of Kentucky home economics department.

In spring time, the clever woman who has observed the swing of styles for several years usually can make a general prediction as to what things will be good in September and October. For instance, a type of sleeve that is good now is of the kind that is "coming in" for the spring season still may be good for fall.

When buying the spring outfit, consider what kind of winter coat she will use now, or will be bought in the fall. Will the spring sports suit match the coat in color and style, or else contrast pleasingly? The material of the suit should not be too heavy to go with the coat later.

The handbag should be "high style" now, but not fatidish, if it is to be used for some time. A well-built shoe with good lines usually stays fashionable for several seasons.

Only the wealthy can afford this. It takes study and also experience to be genuinely at home with style trends, but women with limited incomes must stretch their abilities to look their best, the clothing expert said.

To the Democratic voters of the Thirty-First Senatorial District, comprised of the counties of Powell, Menifee, Bath, Rowan, Fleming, and Mason.

Dear Voters: In announcing my Candidacy for the Democratic nomination for State Senator from the Thirty-First Senatorial District, I do so with a full knowledge of the responsibility that will rest upon me should I be nominated and elected.

I was reared on a farm in Bath County. For the past twenty-eight years I have been employed as telegraph operator, freight and ticket agent.

I served as Representative from the Bath and Rowan District during the sessions of 1918 and 1928. While serving as Representative I became thoroughly familiar with legislative procedure.

During the session of 1925 I voted for and helped pass the Hefwert Free Text Book Bill, which has been of untold value to the parents and school children of Kentucky.

During the same session I voted for and helped to sponsor a bill requiring the State Highway Commission to build highways through towns of the fifth and sixth class.

Just recently the state has taken steps to modernize our charitable institutions by the erection of new and modern buildings completely equipped for the treatment of mental diseases.

I shall favor a highway program that will provide the benefits of good roads to all the people of the State. More attention should be given the rural highways of the State.

I shall support all legislation pertaining to the advancement of education. I shall favor legislation to protect our schools from political control.

Let us be compelled to use a single uniform set of books as adopted by the State Text Book Commission. The law should provide that they be selected from a multiple list of not less than twelve books in each subject and grade.

During my life it has been a pleasure to lend a helping hand to the poor and distressed. What is more pathetic and distressing than to see our friends and neighbors approaching old age without sufficient means to care for them during their last days?

I have come in contact with people from all walks of life. No one in this District has a better knowledge of the needs of the people than I have.

The State is being adequately supported in revenue to substantially increase these payments without adding to the burden of taxation. To pay this increase we need only to cut down expenses in other state departments and practice economy in handling the financial affairs of state.

In conclusion I wish to say, if elected, that I will work and cooperate with the Governor in behalf of all legislation that will be beneficial to the people of the State as a whole.

Yours very truly, WALTER J. BAILEY, Preston, Bath County, Ky, Primary August 5th, 1938.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Written Each Week By
B. H. KAZEE
Pastor Of The Baptist Church

Subject: WHAT THE PREACHING SERVICE MEANS TO ME.
Acis 25-18, 36-41.

Golden Text: "Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord" (Zechariah 4:6).
Peter boasted continually of his loyalty to his Lord, but when the test came he fell a victim to temptation and denied Jesus. But Jesus sustained him, as He does all God's children, in that hour of temptation.

an in the last lesson we find a complete restoration of fellowship. Some think that when Peter sinned he was lost. Then how could he have sinned? Lost men don't hate sin, they love it. Peter had the true attitude of the child of God: hating his sins just as God hates them. The restoration was not making Peter a child of God again, but restoring him to fellowship. Sonship is based on birth and cannot be changed; fellowship is based on conduct, and may be broken, but can be restored by confession and forgiveness. One may be out of fellowship, but never out of sonship.
Jesus has gone away since our last lesson, ten days of waiting have expired, and now Pentecost has come, bringing the Holy Spirit upon the disciples just as Jesus had promised. Peter, endowed by the Spirit's power and message, at once preaches publicly the grace of God through Jesus Christ. His public preaching is empowered by the Spirit and brings conviction to the hearts of his hearers. Some three thousand people were saved that day.

It has been nineteen hundred years since that public preaching service was held, and we are still having them! Is the day of preaching past? Some think it is, but I cannot see a thing that has lasted that long, dwindling away in thirty or forty years. Church attendance is not as great as it once was, but it has varied up and down many times. Revival seasons come on and again the world is lifted out of its doubt and sin and neglect, and crowds flock to hear the Gospel. Wherever the old Gospel is preached in its spiritual power today the people go to hear it. One of the great hindrances to public attendance today is the lack of spiritual preaching. Men have depended on the wisdom of their minds rather than the power of the spirit. Spiritual preaching out of a humble and dependent heart brings attention. It is needed today as never before.

The preaching service is good for all who will attend it. Men who do not attend church grow more and more sinful. Tell me how often you hear preaching, and I will tell you what kind of a life you are living. The Christian hunger for the preached word, and if his appetite is not satisfied, his life is full of sin.
The empty seat at church speaks louder than one that is filled. It says to the preacher that his sermon is not worth hearing, to the brethren, that church convenants and obligations are not sacred, to the unsaved that religion is not important, to the lost world that Christians are not concerned about them, and to God himself that the ease and pleasures of this world are more to be desired than His blessing and His love.
Fit those who attend preaching services are telling the world that what God says is important, that they are interested in the world's need, that God is to be honored, loved, and adore as well as hear, and that the lost are invited to the mercy and love of God.

ATTEND CONVENTION AT LEXINGTON
Twenty-four Moreheadians attend the Convention of the Christian Youth Fellowship in Lexington last Sunday. This was the first meeting of its kind among the Kentucky Disciples of Christ. Miss Margaret Hopkins, Lexington Christian Youth Leader was in charge.
At this meeting a Christian Youth Fellowship Council was formed. Each County was allowed one representative on the Council. Miss Frances Peratt was designated as Rowan County's delegate. The council and the entire Youth Fellowship will have regular meetings.
The Convention itself was unusually successful. There were more than 500 young people in attendance. These represented 41 churches. The Morehead Christian Church Guild had the largest delegation present, with the exception of the host church.
Those who drove their cars, taking in them several of the Morehead Youth were Miss Juanita Minish, Miss Inez Fox, Humphrey, Mr. Leo Oppenheimer, and Mr. Tom Calvert.

Other items on the local program include special music, a "Brotherhood Quiz" led by Professor G. C. Banks, and a short address on the Christian Brotherhood.
Eddie Hardin Killed
This was corroborated by Caudill. A coroner's jury conducted a few minutes after the shooting by Coroner Lester Caskey rendered the following verdict: "We find that Eddie Hardin met his death by a gunshot wound near the heart inflicted by Patrolman H. L. Roberts." On the coroner's report the spot of the wound was marked two inches below the left nipple.
Roberts surrendered a few minutes after the shooting to Sheriff Ben McBrayer. No formal charge has been placed against him, but he is held in custody by Deputy Sheriff Bill McBrayer.
The body of Hardin was removed to the Lane Funeral Home.
Surviving the Hardin boy besides his father and mother are two sisters, Mrs. Dewey Kinser, Olive Hill, and Mrs. Nelson Barnes, Paris, Ky; and three brothers, Ray, Ruford, and Lindsey, all of Morehead.
Funeral rites for Hardin will be conducted from the residence on Second Street Thursday morning at 10 o'clock with interment in the Clearfield Cemetery.
The rites will be conducted by Rev. T. E. Lyons and Rev. Worley Hill.
It was learned here today that Alby Harlan's mother is in a critical condition from a long illness and is expected to live only a short time.

President Babbs' allegations, Wilson submitted to news-gathering agencies a prepared statement in which he stated "I do not now nor have I ever accused Mr. Babbs of taking any printing contracts from this newspaper. Does it seem reasonable that I would wait almost a year before publishing any editorials if this were the reason?" he asked.
Mr. Wilson's mother suffered a severe setback, described as a general nervous breakdown following the throwing of the rock through the window of the Wilson home near her bed. "It was the most cowardly trick done by a gang of thugs that I have ever heard of," the News Editor stated.

areas, where thousands of farm homes and barns contain useless, dangerous junk. In some cities where this plan has been tried there has been a 50 per cent drop in dwelling fires. As Mr. Kearney says, "This is no small result in a nation which has 1,000 dwelling fires a day—which has burned more than a billion dollars worth of homes in the last decade—which has been residential blazes increase 40 percent since 1925. And it is in residential blazes that 73 per cent of our fire deaths (that of children) occur."

Marie Antoinette Is Cozy Attraction

Just at this season of the year when folks are in happy spirits and he mood for something light and gay, "The Girl Downstairs" should prove a pleasing bit of entertainment. It is a love story based on a formula premise, nevertheless one hat is not routine. The setting is Switzerland, yet everything that happens is done in typical American Style. Supplementing the value of the straight theme are two or three comic episodes inserted at just the right moments to give the yarn momentum.

Prevented from contacting his socialite sweetheart, "Rosilind," by aristocratic "Paul" assumes the disheveled father, "Mr. Brown," guise of a chauffeur. As fate guides things, he is thrown into association with humble scullery maid "Katrina." She falls in love with him and when he tries to break up the affair by pretending he is broke, "Katrina" says she has savings to buy him a ram-shackle taxicab. It takes a lot of rapid fire comedy maneuvering and frantic juggling to straighten out the mixup. But the climax has the aristocrat running after the maid with whom he is deeply in love.

The episode that has Frenchet Tones and Francisca Gaa in the decrepit taxi and Hilly Gilmer's bit of business on the telephone are high comedy of the most amusing brand. Walter Connolly's verberns on apoplexy and the bit contributed by Reginald Owen, Franklin Pangborn, Robert Coote and James B. Carson do much to give the show added zip and pep.

The kind of picture that may take some convincing to make patrons think it worth their while, it can be expected that in a great many quarters word of mouth comment will have a favorable effect on business.

The Girl Downstairs At Cozy Theatre

"History is humanized on the screen, making it more realistic and therefore more entertaining."

The words are those of Director W. S. Van Dyke II, given in a recent interview on the set of "Marie Antoinette," which brings Norma Shearer and Tyrone Power to the Cozy screen Sunday and Monday, February 5 and 6.

"One movie scene," declared the noted director, "can create a vivid mental picture that would require a thousand words in a novel or history book."

"Historically, the picturization of "Marie Antoinette" is authentic in every detail. I believe a modern audience will find it not only entertaining but informative as well. Those who see the picture will learn fascinating facts generally overlooked when histories are written. In making the film version of Marie Antoinette's life, it has been our purpose to reveal the little-known human drama back of his history."

According to Van Dyke, his direction of "Marie Antoinette" has been similar in many respects to the approach he took in making "San Francisco."

"Norma Shearer's Antoinette and Tyrone Power's 'Count Fernan,' who will come to life as flesh-and-blood people no different from those living today," he declares. "The story too often dwells on principles, overlooking the fact that at a time of intense drama people in every way of life react exactly the same. The amount of reaction could make a person experience the terrors of an earthquake. I believe the scenes in "San Francisco" did. The audience felt that it was actually living through an earthquake and there was a kind of understanding and sympathy between those looking at the screen and the actors. In telling the story of Marie Antoinette it has been our aim, similarly, to make the audience experience the horrors of the French Revolution and live with the actors the human, behind the scenes happenings that determined Marie Antoinette's destiny.

ELEANOR POWELL PREDICTS THE WALTZ AS A NEW DANCE CRAZE

Eleanor Powell, America's foremost dancer, predicts that within six months the new dance craze will be the old-fashioned waltz!

As Grand Trouper of the Young Dancers of America, an organization of more than twenty-five thousand dancers, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer screen star has advised these terpsichorean enthusiasts to prepare for this new wave of dance popularity that is to sweep the country and the world.

"Don't desert your jitterbug and Lambeth Walk and those other tricky dances completely," says Miss Powell, "but learn to waltz and waltz gracefully. I think I can ferret out the new dance trends as well as anyone, because dancing is my business, and I can safely say that the waltz is coming back stronger than it ever was in the days of our grandfathers. This is always the case in dancing. One style reaches an extreme in popularity and the public immediately, in one swift reversal, goes to the other extreme."

Miss Powell, in "Honolulu," is the outstanding guiding spirit of America's young dancers. Forty-eight troupes of these youthful steppers have been named after her and the waltz.

Dr. Frank Miller Addresses Club At Flemingsburg Friday

"Counter-Acting Philosophy Of Complacency" Subject Of Complacency Speech

Dr. Frank B. Miller, President of the Kentucky Philosophy of Education Associations, addressed the Fleming County Teachers' Association on Friday, January 27th. The Fleming County Teachers met at Ewing, Kentucky.

The Subject of Dr. Miller's address was "Counteracting a Philosophy of Complacency." Among other factors, Dr. Miller stressed the fact that our public schools may become an agency for evil or for good. A child in our schools does not gain much from a program in education, unless the latter develops within him an attitude of the proper conception of our civilization. "We have been committed to a program of democracy in our country since its inception," said Dr. Miller. And "Public Education is to protect the democratic ideal." "Complacency has no place in a democratic social order."
