"ONE OF KENTUCKY'S GREATER WEEKLIES"

VOLUME VII MOREHEAD, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY MORNING, NOV. 14, 1940 NUMBER FORTY-THREE

May I suggest to President Vaughan and Reverend Mattingly that they cut down on the stripes in their ties and stick to white shirts. I saw them the other day that looked like Christmas tree decorations. President Vaughan would have said that his wife bought his but the preacher has no excuse. Mart Bowne wears a suit that speaks for themselves. Frank H. Wesley wears pants that are four inches too short at the top. C. B. Daugherty has a bow tie that he feels uncomfortable in and I don't blame him. His liability to scare somebody's horse. Judge Pfeiffer, I am told is going to make his suit last a long time. "Duh!" is being heard his suit over a barrel when he retires at night. Eldon Evans is a couple of weeks will be wearing a suit in and I don't blame him. The new suits are of the best quality and are of national tourment size.

NATURE

(By G. B. Pennebaker, Ph. D.) Morehead State Teachers College

PREPARATION FOR WINTER

As winter approaches the daylight periods shorten, the nights increase in length, and the temperature drops until the suffocating heat of summer is gone and the pleasant days of autumn with their chilly, invigorating mornings have come.

During this period the bountiful supply of food furnished by Nature for her wild life decreases. Plants, which have depended upon the bright sunlight and the warm temperature of summer for manufacturing food for themselves, as well as for all animal life, find it impossible to carry on this process. The animals which have had an abundance of food coming directly or indirectly from the growing plants of summer find this supply becoming more and more limited as the rigors of winter approach. At the same time more energy and, therefore, much more food is required to keep active the animals that remain over winter in their summer homes.

Nevertheless some do remain active skirting out a bare existence during the unfavorable time. However, other animals meet these problems in one or two other ways: they hibernate as do most of the cold-blooded (poikilothermal) animals and some of the warm-blooded (homiothermal) forms. As they migrate as many of our birds and some of our animals do. Since plants are fixed in their environment, they cannot migrate, therefore, they like the hibernating animals, pass into a state of rest called dormancy.

It is the purpose of this series of articles to discuss these three phenomena, viz migration, hibernation and dormancy.

The Task Ahead--

peace. There seems to be ample justification for both craft and industrial unions in our complex economic order.

The reason for the failure of labor to present a common front may be attributed mainly to the animosity of some of the leaders of labor toward each other. These animosities became more intensified the hope for a working agreement between the two diminished until many felt that reconciliation had become impossible.

It therefore seems fortunate for labor, for business and for the general welfare of the people that the election has made possible a new leadership for one of the labor groups.

sorb the winter rains and snows and furnish the crop with sufficient moisture from one rain to another. Most of our moisture supply fails in late winter and early spring. If the garden has not been plowed deep before, do not increase the depth in one season, one inch a year is plenty by so doing the subsoil will not be brought to the surface and mix with the rich soil.

If a hot bed is used to supply the transplanted vegetables, it should be made ready for planting. Early Jersey Wakefield Cabbage can be started in the hot-bed.

Few people have the garden that they could have and it is our sincere hope that we can help in increasing the number of garden vegetables grown and help in improving the quality.

The country does not have enough skilled workmen and those workmen who are skilled are now being taken in industry and few are being left for work at home and industry is yet short of workmen that can perform specific tasks.

The classes will be under the general supervision of the Vocational Agriculture teacher, principal and the school superintendent of Rowan county.

Boys interested in this program should contact Mr. Carl Wade at the Morehead High School.

travellers were lined up and not too good. He also pointed out the remarkable growth of the Morehead State Teachers College.

The election Tuesday came in for considerable discussion on the recording. Most typical of comments were: from the Democratic side, Glenn Lane, who said that "we have just enjoyed more than seven years of prosperity and are looking forward to four more years." Said John Palmé, in a joking manner for the Republicans: "Let's close this program designed for future generations by singing 'God Save America!'"

A contest conducted a week before the election to see which member could guess the closest to the total electoral vote for each candidate for President was won by W. E. Crutcher who surmised that Roosevelt would receive 445 electoral votes and Willkie 88. The guess was only four votes off from the total. Dr. R. F. Terrell, head of the department of Economics and Sociology at the Morehead State Teachers College was second.

Guests at Wednesday's meeting were Dr. R. E. Jagers, Frankfurt, from the State Department of Education and Mr. Belcher, local manager of the Ashland Home Telephone Co.

Quail And Rabbit Season Opens On November 24th

Bird dogs and rabbit hounds are straining impatiently at the leash while thousands of hunters are giving their hunting equipment a last-minute check-up preparatory to the opening of the quail and rabbit seasons on November 24.

Last-minute reports from game officials and sportsmen over the state indicate an abundance of both the Bob White and the cottontail which means plenty of sport for the nimrods of Kentucky.

Due to the fact that the season opening comes on November 24th, Major James Brown, director of the Division of Game and Fish, urges all hunters to secure their licenses in advance in order to avoid any last-minute rush on the county clerks.

The hunter's attention is called to the daily bag limit on quail which is twelve and the possession limit which is not more than two days bag limit (24). The daily bag limit on rabbits is eight with possession limit of not more than two days bag limit (16).

The Division of Game and Fish advises the nimrod to get the dog in shape; check over the hunting equipment; and secure a hunting license early.

Woodridge Spears Has Poetry Printed

Woodridge Spears, Morehead graduate of 1934, has six poems published in the fall issue of Fantasy, a Literary Quarterly. He is one of Kentucky's recognized poets, and has published in Voices and Compass and in other journals and poetry columns.

Mr. Spears, who is now teaching in the Wurtland High School, in Greenup county, has the following poems in the magazine: "The Branch," "Lincoln Up John's Creek," "The Four," "Virgin of the Creek," "99 Years," and "At the End."

Spencer Succeeds Brother As Editor Of Farm Journal

Is A Native-Born Kentuckian And A Yale Graduate

Harlow Phelps Spencer, young and aggressive editor and publisher of the National Horseman, will succeed his brother, Vaughan Spencer who passed away in New York, October 16, as editor and publisher of the Kentucky Farmers Home Journal, Kentucky's 75-year-old state farm publication.

Phelps Spencer is well equipped to be a champion in the promotion of Agricultural Journalism. He is a native-born Kentuckian, attended Yale and through the columns of his nationally-known publication, The National Horseman, has gained a host of friends and admirers among the stock men, farmers and farm leaders of Kentucky.

He is sincerely interested in the development of Kentucky agriculture and in the people who reside in the rural sections of the state. He states that he will continue the crusades launched by his brother, which have gained state-wide and national attention—selling Kentucky and its products to the Nation, a campaign to rebuild the country church and the Journal's famed campaign to halt thievery of farm property.

Phelps Spencer's father, Joseph Spencer, is a well-known Fort Springs, Kentucky mill owner, store owner and farmer. His grandfather and great grandfather tiled the same soil, ran the same business. Before her marriage, his mother was Miss Mary Julia Vaughan of Elizabethtown, Kentucky, daughter of a prominent farmer, Willie Asburn Vaughan.

Cherry Falls Wins Honor At Peabody

Miss Cherry Falls, now attending Peabody College, has just been informed that she has been selected for "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." Miss Falls, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Falls, has made an excellent record at Peabody, according to authorities there.

She holds a prominent office in her sorority, is a member of Kappa Delta Pi, Vice-President of the Student Council, member of the Peabody Dance Club, and has been chosen for several important roles on the Student Activity Program.

She finishes practically all of her work for the baccalaureate degree in December, then she will be at home with her family until April when she will return to Peabody to complete her work for the Bachelor's degree and enter upon graduate work for her master's degree.

Watch To Be Given To Best All-Around Footballer Of Year

To the football man judged as most of outstanding in scholarship, attitude, and athletic ability, the Bays Jewelry Store will award a handsome stop watch.

The award will be made at the Homecoming Banquet, Saturday, November 16.

A committee of coaches, faculty, and students will determine the recipient of the award.

The committee is as follows:

Make way for TOMORROW!

TODAY Buddy is a little boy, facing his first day at school, feeling woefully small. But he's truly important! For Buddy is an investment—yours and ours—in the America of tomorrow . . . Soon Buddy and thousands like him will have grown up to inherit the job of making this country tick. And he'll be ready because his neighbors—such as the folks down the block, the corner store, the movie theatre and the railroad—help support the schools that give Buddy a free American education . . . Today Buddy never heard of taxes. Later, when he understands, he'll thank you, whether your investment in him was one dollar or a thousand.

Last year Chesapeake & Ohio paid $31,984.44 to Rowan Co.

Yes, Chesapeake and Ohio is one of the neighbors in this county whose share of tax revenue helps in providing schools . . . building roads and other improvements . . . maintaining clinics, visiting nurses and other welfare services . . . supporting free libraries.

We usually think of railroad service in terms of passengers and freight swiftly and safely transported. But the railroad also serves, as its money goes to work through state and county administrations for all governmental functions, helping to make first-class citizens of Buddy and his pals.

Utilities To Build $3,000,000 Power Plant On Ky. River

Kentucky Utilities Company plans to build a large steam-generating plant on the Kentucky river near Tyrone and Kentucky Bridge, with initial capacity of 25,000 kilowatts costing $3,000,000, have been announced by Robert M. Watt, president.

The proposed plant would be linked with company's eastern power transmission system including steam-electric stations at Lexington, Pineville, Maysville and Pickett, Virginia, and Dix Dam and Kentucky Valley Hydro-Electric stations. This system is connected with power houses in Louisville and through them with Chattanooga and Nashville.

The station would thus help to supply all towns between Carrollton and Maysville on the north, Glasgow to the west and Norton, Va., on the east.

Growing use of electricity for domestic, industrial, commercial and agricultural purposes in Central Kentucky has created the need of a new power-house in this area to meet future demands. Mr. Watt said, "Increased activities are also expected from the National Defense program.

While the initial units of the new station would have a capacity of 25,000 kilowatts (33,000 horsepower) the approved design would permit installation of additional units as they are needed. Construction would require about two years.

The plant would use between 175,000 and 200,000 tons of Kentucky coal annually, providing steady work for many miners. It would haul the fuel from the mines to the power station the railroad would be built from the 4,000 coal cars making more work for railroad employees.

The company has an option on a 277-acre site for the proposed plant on the Kentucky river which is a station of this size requires as much water for operation as a city of some 40,000 population.

Professor Marvin George directed the Civic Chorus at regular weekly rehearsals Thursday night, in the absence of Professor Lewis H. Horton, regular director who was participating in EREA program in Ashland.

Professor Horton was in charge of chorus of eastern Kentuckians of high school students, including the following Breckinridge musicians: Marie Falls, Alice Patrick, Helen Wesley, Lillian Fanning, Ernestine Powers, Frances Maguire, Audrey Brown, Tommy Powers, Lee Miller, and Walton Hayes.

President Vaughan Speaks At Breck In brief address, President Vaughan said that student initiative should be developed in an even greater degree at the Training School. He complimented the honor system, saying soon he hoped Breckinridge would not be a school where the dean's office school in Eastern Kentucky, and the best training school in the State, but would produce the real leaders of the future. But, he contended, all this depends not only on the highly-trained faculty, or well equipped building, but upon the individual student.

75 Percent Of Frosh Journalists At U. of K. Edited H. S. Paper

Seventy-five percent of the freshmen of eastern Kentucky Journalism at the University of Kentucky this term are former editors and staff members of high school papers and yearbooks, a recent survey shows.

In the class are nine former editors, seven associate editors, six department editors, and many others who did general work, such as reporting, feature writing, and advertising. Several members have worked on city dailies and weeklies.

Six Kentucky high schools are represented among the editors now in the first year journalism class. They are Corydon, Bardonia, Pineville, Paris, Falmouth, and Henry Clay at Lexington. In this group also are three out-of-state schools, located in Nashville, Tennessee, Newark, N. J., and New York City.

Journalistic ambitions of the freshmen ranged from "to be a correspondent for the Associated Press," to "an army career after obtaining the A. B. in journalism degree." One student wanted to "follow in father's footsteps."

Fur Bearing Animals Season Opens Nov. 24

In response to the many inquiries from sportsmen interested in the open season on fur-bearing animals, the Division of Game and Fish, in a statement for publication today, pointed out that the open season on Mink, Opossum, Raccoon, Skunk and Muskrat begins November 24 and closes on January 9, and that the open season on the red-fox begins December 1 and ends December 31.

Persons writing in to the Division office here in Frankfort point out today, pointed out that the open season on Mink, Opossum, Raccoon, Skunk and Muskrat begins November 24 and closes on January 9, and that the open season on the red-fox begins December 1 and ends December 31.

out that the synopsis on the back of their hunting and trapping licenses gives the fur-bearing season as November 1 to December 31, but that season was changed by the Kentucky Legislature at its 1940 session after the 1940 hunting and trapping licenses had already been received by the county clerks and had been put on sale. This change and others which have been made by the Legislature were passed after the 1940 hunting and fishing licenses had been sent to the county clerks and said changes will be printed on the backs of the 1941 licenses.

In trapping for the mink, opossum, raccoon, skunk and muskrat, no person shall set any trap on the land of another without having first procured the owner's or lessee's written permission to do so. This written permission must be in the trapper's possession when running the trap line and must be exhibited to examine the same. The law also states that any trap set on the land of another shall be marked with a metal tag giving the owner's name and place of residence.

The 1940 Legislature also passed the Anti-Steel Trap law, which prohibits the use of steel traps in the state of Kentucky.

How the New Traps And How To Get Them

Farm boys are inquiring how to get new traps named in the Trapping regulations as permitted under the new law. Here is the way:

Bridwell Cushman Rubber - jaw, to be used only for water animals; Muskrat and Mink, is dropping sets. This trap takes without bone breakage or gnawing off, is not expensive, and is sold by all dealers, who get it through leading jobbers.

Improved Verbal Chain-loop Leghold, for larger land animals, Fox, Wildcat, Raccoon. Takes a set and holds without injury, saving much fur. No getaways. To reduce price, it is sold only through a State agent, Mr. A. Burton, Rt.

Think On These Things . . .

(Buell H. Kase)

I want to bring into the witness box those who have helped to make up their minds as to who He will do with Him. What think ye of Christ? Is the question.

"Fate, what do you think of this man?" "I find no fault in him at all."

"Judas, you who betrayed Him for silver, have you some fearful words to utter?"

Questions, Answers In Education

(By R. D. Judd, Ph. D.)

Question: How many new teachers does Kentucky employ each year?

Answer: Upon investigation, this situation was more favorable than I had anticipated. In any school system where there is a turnover for the novice teacher greater than 5.7 percent the situation makes for many difficulties. In Kentucky for the year 1931-1932 there were 1,939 teachers employed who had had no previous teaching experience. In 1932-1933 there were 972 teachers entering the profession who had not previously taught. In 1933 there were 1,270 teachers entering the profession who had not previously taught. In 1934 there were 1,200 teachers entering the profession who had not previously taught. In 1935 there were 1,200 teachers entering the profession who had not previously taught.

3500 To Attend Homecoming

Over 3500 people including alumni, former students and friends of Morehead State Teachers College are expected to be present for Homecoming this Saturday, November 16, according to College authorities. Plans have been made for a gala occasion highlight of which will be the football game between the Eagles and the Pioneers of Transylvania at two in the afternoon. The Eagles will close their season. A banquet honoring the four teachers who have been on the campus since the founding of the College will be held in the evening, followed by a dance. The music and White orchestra from the University of Kentucky has been engaged for the dance.

MY POP is just an ordinary hard-working fellow and he and mom don't live fancy. But they're happy. The other night mom was showing pop my new electric bottle warmer, and he said we're lucky to have such handy electric things. That got him started talking about his job and he said American workmen are much better off than workmen in other countries. He said a big reason is because American factories use so much more electric power and that means men like my pop can turn out more work and therefore make more money for his boss, Mr. Hardy, and more for himself, too. And Mr. Hardy can sell his products cheaper, so more people can buy them and that helps everybody. That's why people like my pop and mom are really rich—rich in the things that make life more enjoyable. Pop said, just think mom, a business man like Mr. Hardy has to invest about fifteen or twenty thousand dollars for every man he has working for him. Golly! But it's men who are willing to take risks like that who keep our wheels turning around, pop said.
