

MORE TROUBLE IN ROWAN.

Jessie Coldiron Beats Mack Day and Defies Arrest—Cook Humphreys Expected to Surrender.

[Special to the Courier-Journal.]

MT. STERLING, KY., July 25.—The soldiers stationed at Morehead are confident they will be required to remain there one month longer, or until after the adjournment of Circuit Court, which convenes there August 8.

To-day a difficulty occurred between Jessie B. Coldiron and Mack Day, one of the prisoners lately acquitted by the Magistrates. Coldiron beat Day up badly. When Sheriff McKenzie tried to arrest Coldiron the latter tried to kill McKenzie, who then got a detail of soldiers to aid in the arrest. The detail went to Coldiron's house, but he had fled to the brush.

It is reported by friends of Cook Humphrey that he is near Morehead, but fears to let it be known where he is lest his enemies will kill him. A party of them hunted for him a few nights since without success. He declares he will come in, if assured of safety, which assurance has been given his friends as soon as he makes known his whereabouts, and wishes to surrender.

Maj. D. V. Johnson, of Lexington, Ky., is at Morehead, and will inspect the militia to-morrow by invitation of Maj. McKee.
