FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.—The race at Morehead State University took some four years and others five to complete; but they were all winners at the University's commencement exercises today.

There were congratulations, laughter and tears as spouses and children, parents and grandparents and other family members and friends showed their support for the more than 800 graduate and undergraduates who were degree candidates.

In his remarks, student speaker Brandon Michael Stumbo encouraged his classmates to go forward and continue to make a difference. "We each made a difference, whether it was high profile, like serving as a student government representative, or something less public, like smiling at a stranger on campus on a day that he or she really needed one. The differences we have made are embedded in the lives of those around us as well as our own," he said.

Describing the time as "standing on the threshold of an exciting world of endless possibilities," Stumbo asked that his peers "not forget the lessons that we have learned from our University experience. Improve the lives of those around us as we enter the business, education and government settings of tomorrow. Make sacrifices of high profile, join civic groups, feed those in poverty and protect the environment," he said, noting that while doing that, "one should make less public differences that are just as powerful, such as telling our children that we love them when we kiss them goodnight."

Stumbo noted that he was appreciative of modern technology, like pagers, cell phones and the World Wide Web. When he moves to Lexington next week to start his career, he can remain in contact with his family because of the Internet. The son of Ivan and Wanda Stumbo of McDowell, he completed a Bachelor of Business Administration degree as an accounting major and has accepted a position with Ashland Inc., as an internal auditor.

"The Internet will allow us to make a difference in hometowns that we love so much, even though we're no longer there," Stumbo said.

Also during the ceremonies, two Eastern Kentucky humanitarians were presented honorary Doctor of Public Service degrees: Monsignor Ralph W. Beiting of Louisa, founder of the Christian Appalachian Project who has served as a Roman Catholic priest in Eastern Kentucky for 50 years, and Dr. Paul F. Maddox of Campton, a family medical practitioner in Wolfe County for nearly 47 years who was named America's 1999 Country Doctor of the Year.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Thanks to a grant of $6,030 from the Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS), Morehead State University's Kentucky Folk Art Center may soon benefit from the Conservation Assessment Program.

"C.A.P., funded by IMLS and administered by Heritage Preservation, is an example of a public/private partnership that makes a difference," said Adrian Swain, KFAC curator. The program provides museums with the resources for a two-day visit by a conservator and a preservation architect.

Together, they make an assessment of the condition of the museum's collections, the building in which they are kept and recommend priorities for long-term planning. This year, IMLS is providing 137 museums across the country access to this critical conservation expertise through this program, Swain said.

"Museums are the stewards of the artistic, historic and scientific collections that comprise our national heritage. IMLS is proud of the part it plays in helping museums keep their collections viable for generations to come," wrote Beverly Sheppard, acting director of IMLS, in the grant award letter.

"CAP is a very important step for us to take," Swain said. "We're extremely proud to receive this award. What we learn from this process will impact our activity for years to come and help us to better serve our community."

IMLS is a federal grant-making agency located in Washington, D.C. that fosters leadership, innovation and a lifetime of learning by supporting museums and libraries.

KFAC, located at 102 West First Street in Morehead, is a cultural and educational service of MSU. The Center is open 9 a.m.-5 p.m., Monday-Saturday, and 1-5 p.m. on Sundays.

Additional information is available from Swain at (606) 783-2204.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Vanessa Antkiw, a Morehead State University senior history and French major, has won the first Judy Rogers Essay Contest.

The Delhi, Ontario, Canada, student's paper was titled "Beauty and Fashion Through the Ages: How Political, Economic and Social Activity Changed the Way American Women Dress."

Antkiw, who won a monetary prize for her essay, originally wrote the paper for her senior capstone history course. "I wanted a topic that was very different and interesting," she said. "I found this interesting and I wanted to explore it more."

Antkiw was presented the award at the University's Wilma E. Grote Symposium for the Advancement of Women by the award's namesake.

MSU's Interdisciplinary Women's Studies Program Advisory Council sponsored the essay contest, which is named for a former associate vice president for academic affairs and dean of undergraduate programs at the University. Dr. Rogers, who was instrumental in establishing the Women's Studies Program, left MSU in 1996 to assume an administrative position at Georgetown College.

"I am so excited and gratified by the essay contest," Dr. Rogers said when making the presentation. "It's mainly that I see the program strong and growing."

In addition to her studies, Antkiw is a member of the cross country and track teams. After graduation in December, she plans to take a semester off before studying abroad or pursuing a graduate degree.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Four Morehead State University students were presented the Carl Ross Prize from the Appalachian Studies Association for research they completed last year.

The presentation was made during the Associations' annual meeting held recently in Knoxville, Tenn.

The students, enrolled in the Department of Geography, Government and History, were Heather Burke, an Ashland senior; Joel Chaffins, a Pippa Passes senior; Amber Lee Fogle, a Berry senior; and Mitchell Dewayne Mynhier, a Morehead senior.

The students received the award for a paper, titled "History, Memory and Myth: The Morehead Kentucky Flood of 1939." The paper included results of a junior seminar class in history under the direction of Dr. Susan A. Eacker, assistant professor of history and coordinator of MSU's Women's Studies Program.

The paper is scheduled for publication in an upcoming issue of the "Journal of Appalachian Studies."

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.—Beth Hudson Goins, a journalist with six years of experience, has been named Morehead State University's Web editor.

Among her responsibilities are revising and maintaining the institution's Web site, assisting in the online marketing of the University and supervising student Web development teams.

"Disseminating and receiving information via the World Wide Web have become critically important to the University's success," said Keith Kappes, MSU's vice president for university relations. "We are confident that Ms. Goins will help us achieve our goal of being fully competitive in the new global marketplace."

Goins comes to MSU from The Daily Independent in Ashland where she was the online editor. In that position for nearly two years, she was responsible for planning, editing and updating news and features for the Independent's online newspaper.

A native of Barbourville, Goins earned a Bachelor of Arts degree with an emphasis in electronic news media from MSU. An award-winning writer, she received a first place award in news feature reporting from the Kentucky Broadcasters Association in 1998, first and second place awards in news from the Kentucky Press Association in 1997 and an honorable mention in the general news category from KPA last year.

She is a former reporter with The Daily News in Middlesboro and a media consultant with Middlesboro Independent Schools. During her college days, she was a producer and news anchor for "All Things Considered" on WMKY, the University's public radio station.

Goins and her husband, Michael, live in Flatwoods.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Morehead State University will host five Student Orientation, Advising and Registration (SOAR) programs this summer to help incoming freshmen, transfer students and their parents learn more about the campus.

The daylong sessions, which will follow the same format, are scheduled for June 9, 10 and 24, and July 8 and 14. Each SOAR program will begin with registration at 9 a.m. in the Adron Doran University Center.

Following registration, students and their parents will be invited to visit displays of the University's departments.

An official welcome from MSU personnel is slated for 11 a.m. in Button Auditorium. Among those scheduled to speak are MSU President Ronald G. Eaglin; Michael Mincey, vice president for student life; Dr. Michael R. Moore, executive vice president for academic affairs; Lora H. Pace, coordinator of retention; Dr. Susan D. Creasap, assistant director of bands; and Teresa Johnson, president of the Student Government Association.

Following the greetings, transfer students will have an academic advising session and incoming freshmen will attend informational sessions covering topics such as time management and health issues. After a lunch break, students will complete the academic advising process and register for fall classes.

Special activities for parents include a question and answer session with a panel of University representatives from housing, financial aid, academics, retention, student health services, telephone services, public safety, food services, the bookstore and the Alumni and Family associations. Concluding the day's agenda will be tours of the campus.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Morehead State University's chapter of Phi Kappa Phi honor society has chosen Benjamin Mattingly of Morehead as this year's recipient of the Margaret Patton Scholarship.

The senior, who is married to the former Jennifer Bond, is a candidate for May graduation, earning a Bachelor of Science degree with major in biology and a minor in chemistry. Mattingly may use his scholarship in the fall when he attends the University of Kentucky College of Medicine.

Mattingly credits his decision to go to medical school to his wife, a physician's assistant at MSU. "I didn't really have any idea (what to major in) when I came to college," he said.

"I thought maybe I'd be a professor because both my parents are teachers." His wife suggested he watch doctors at work, and since that time he has logged more than 100 hours of observation.

In addition to receiving the scholarship, Mattingly is the chapter's graduate fellowship nominee to Phi Kappa Phi nationals. He tributes much of his academic success to his professors at the University.

"They've been outstanding," said the Rowan County Senior High School graduate who has maintained a 4.0 grade point average at MSU. "I don't think I could have gotten a better education."

MOREHEAD, Ky.---From computer classes to tap dance lessons, Morehead State University's Office of Continuing Education will offer a variety of courses this summer.

An "Introduction to Word 97" will be taught by Starlet Roberts, MSU's technology training coordinator, in four Monday sessions, July 10-31, from 6 to 8 p.m. Class topics will include: creating, editing and formatting a document; placing headers and footers; working with graphics, columns and tables; and mail merge basics. There is a $45 fee for the class.

Two technology workshops and a research class will be taught by Darrell Smith, information technology's senior academic consultant and Web manager

An "Introduction to the World Wide Web" workshop will be offered on Thursday, June 29, from 5 to 7 p.m. and repeated on Tuesday, July 11, at the same time. Each workshop, which costs $25, is designed for new Internet users. Topics will include: accessing news online; establishing e-mail, address books and calendars; and using basic or advanced portions of a browser.

"Introduction of HTML (Web pages)," a one-day class for novice Internet users, will be taught on Thursday, July 6, from 5 to 7 p.m. and again on Tuesday, Aug. 8, at the same time. The cost is $25. Participants will use Microsoft FrontPage 2000 to develop basic to intermediate HTML code.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---A Smithsonian photography exhibit documenting southern Appalachian women will be exhibited at Morehead State University's Claypool-Young Art Building through Friday, July 7.

"Serving Home and Community: Women of Southern Appalachia," displayed originally at the National Museum of American History, is a collection of 50 black-and-white photographs by Barbara Beirne. Excerpts of the photographer's interview with her subjects accompany the 40 portraits and 10 landscape photographs.

The show, which will be displayed in the main gallery, will be open for viewing from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m., weekdays. There is no admission charge.

On a 20-city tour, the exhibit draws on two generations of women, ranging in age from 50 to 100 years of age, to capture life in such places as Pippa Passes, Ky., and Ravenswood, W.Va. Among those photographed were a union activist, daughter of a slave, pediatrician, miner, police captain, musician and a published writer.

Each portrait tells a story, through the visual imagery of the photograph and the words of the woman herself. "These faces and voices of Appalachian women describe battles which are being won daily and are a testament to the indomitable human spirit, recorded by a woman of uncommon perception and depth of feeling," said David Haberstich, the exhibit's curator who is head of photographic collections at the Archives Center, National Museum of American History.

Beirne, a graduate of Marymount College in Tarryton, N.Y., holds a Master of Fine Arts degree in photography from the Pratt Institute in New York. A documentary photographer for 15 years, she has taught photography at the college level. She currently does commissioned work for nonprofit organizations and magazines and has illustrated several children's books, including three she authored.

The exhibit was organized by the National Museum of American History, Smithsonian Institution, and developed for travel by the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service (SITES).

Additional information is available from Jennifer Hart, MSU's gallery coordinator, at (606) 783-5446.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Morehead State University's Kentucky Folk Art Center has received a design award from the American Association of Museums.

The center participated in the AAM's Museum Publications Design competition, which is the only juried event involving publications produced by museums of all kinds and sizes. This year's contest drew 1,237 entries from across the nation, of which 168 were recognized for design excellence, according to Adrian Swain, KFAC curator.

For its recent "Time All Over" publication, the center received an honorable mention in the supplemental materials category. The book combines the work of 24 folk artists and 29 creative writers, all from Kentucky, and serves as the catalog for an exhibit of the same name.

"The contents of the book are extraordinary and precious," Swain said, "but the real credit for this award goes to Nina Preston, who is a very talented designer."

Preston, a freelance designer who lives in Ashland and serves as a member of the KFAC Board of Directors, has designed several of the center's publications. "We continue to be grateful to Nina for her ability to incorporate the essence of each project in the inspired design work she has done for us," Swain added.

KFAC, located at 102 W. Main St. in Morehead, is a cultural and educational service of MSU. It is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Saturday, and 1 to 5 p.m. on Sundays.

Copies of "Time All Over" are available at KFAC, CoffeeTree Books in Morehead and Poor Richard's Books in Frankfort.

Additional information is available by calling KFAC at (606) 783-2204.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Rachel Moore, a senior at Elliott County High School, has won Morehead State University's 14th annual Constitutional Essay and Scholarship Competition.

In her essay, Moore addressed the question "Does a public high school that posts the Ten Commandments violate the U.S. Constitution?" As the competition winner, she will receive a $1,500 award to study at MSU as a full-time student during the 2000-2001 academic year. The scholarship, which is renewable for three years, has a total value of $6,000.

Moore will be recognized with a Constitutional Scholarship Award certificate at her high school graduation ceremony. Her sponsoring teacher, Cathy Powers, also will receive a 2000 Constitutional Scholar Sponsoring Teacher Award at the graduation exercises.

The competition is sponsored by Societas Pro Legibus, MSU's pre-law society, and the Department of Geography, Government and History in cooperation with the offices of financial aid and the dean of the Caudill College of Humanities.

May 30, 2000

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Morehead State University students have elected Teresa S. Johnson of Jackson, Ohio, as president of the Student Government Association for the 2000-2001 academic year.

A health promotions major with a minor in psychology and government, Johnson will serve as the student representative on the University's Board of Regents. The daughter of Robert and Amy Johnson, she is a member of the Kappa Delta sorority, the Order of the Omega, Phi Sigma Pi honor fraternity and the Residence Hall Association.

Having served most recently as SGA's vice president for administration, Johnson has been a member of SGA's student congress, a Student Alumni Ambassador and a resident adviser.

Johnson plans to concentrate her administration on student concerns. To accomplish this goal, she will continue to actively participate in other campus organizations. "I've been able to get out there and mingle and answer questions," she said.

During her senior year, she wants to address the cost of student textbooks as well. This year, SGA passed a resolution asking for lower prices on books, Johnson said. She would like to follow up on that effort by "trying to get professors who teach classes like 'Writing 101' to use uniform texts so it will lower the cost for students," she added.

She hopes that having a graduate assistant for SGA will be beneficial. Funds have already been allocated for this position, she noted. "Undergraduate students involved with the organization change from year to year, and having a graduate assistant would provide continuity," Johnson said.

Also elected to leadership roles were:

*Holly DeMint of West Union, Ohio, a junior early elementary education major, as executive vice president. The daughter of Frank and Brenda DeMint, she was the freshman representative for SGA's student congress, president of Kappa Delta sorority, and served two terms as SGA's vice president for programming.

(MORE)

*Elizabeth Fuell of Louisville, a freshman special education and elementary education major, as vice president of administration. The daughter of William and Janet Fuell, she is a member of the Kappa Delta sorority and the East Mignon Hall Council.

*K. Rachel Cornwell of Boaz, a senior psychology major, as vice president for finance. The daughter of Gary and Linda Cornwell, she is a member of the Delta Gamma sorority and has served as the SGA vice president for publicity. An MSU cheerleader, she was the sophomore representative to SGA and chief justice of student court.

*Richard Puckett of Louisville, a sophomore government and philosophy major, as vice president for programming. The son of Eleanor Puckett and Paul Puckett, he is a member of SGA's student congress and serves as a Student Alumni Ambassador and vice president of recruitment for the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity.

*Alison Warner of Union, a sophomore philosophy and government double major, as vice president for publicity. The daughter of Alex and Melody Warner, she is a member of the Delta Gamma sorority, the MSU Honors Program, SGA's student congress and serves as a Student Alumni Ambassador.
