Sunday School Day

A goal of 2,000 will be attempted by all churches in Rowan County Sunday for annual Go to Sunday School Day.

A Business Men's Organization

Morehead merchants apparently are on the threshold of joining together to advertise Morehead, to attract people to our city, and to foster those things which will make Morehead a better place in which to live and in which to do business.

Every merchant in Morehead will do well to attend Thursday's meeting. From this start they may develop the nucleus of the organization that has an opportunity to do more for the city than any other has ever been presented before.

Such opportunities slip by us every year. Even now there is a strong possibility that a Federal Court will be established in eastern Kentucky.

Two years ago such a merchants organization was created at a meeting in the city hall. At that time Ashland sent representatives here to explain how their business men's organization had functioned smoothly.

What we need is a business men's organization that will function for the purpose of building a better Morehead and upmost of all advertising that fact elsewhere.

Write Your Senators and Congressman

The Fiscal Court acted wisely in passing a resolution asking Kentucky's two Senators, Alben Barkley and M. M. Logan and Eighth District Congressman Joe Bates to vote for the bill now before Congress which provides that the Federal government pay to counties three percent each year in taxes for land purchased under the reforestation act or the farm tenancy act.

It has been roughly figured that if this bill passes Congress that Rowan County will benefit to the extent of $8,600 each year on the 61,000 acres of forest land that the government has purchased as a part of the Cumberland National Park.

When the Federal government purchased this 61,000 acres of Rowan County will benefit to the extent of $8,600 each year on the cost of the tax revenue was consequently lost.

Every tax payer in Rowan County will be making no mistake if they write their Senators and Congressman in behalf of this bill. It means much to all of us.

preached, he was in great danger. But the Lord spoke to Paul in the night, by a vision, and said: "Be not afraid, but speak, and hold not thy peace; for I am with thee, and no man shall set foot on thee to hurt thee; for I have much people in this city."

What more can any man want, when the Gospel is opposed, than to remember God's promise, "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the ages?" When I am serving the Lord my opponents must obey God before they can hurt me. So Paul continued there a year and a half, preaching and teaching, and there established a large church.

Sales in Stores Yield $168,324 In Hidden Taxes

Families shopping in Rowan County pay an estimated $168,324 in hidden taxes annually on their retail purchases alone, a survey by the National Consumers Tax Commission showed today.

share of the local, state and national tax burden," the report stated. "Taxes now are equal to nearly 25 per cent of the national income and about two-thirds of the burden is paid in hidden taxes that increase the cost of even the necessities of life."

The report, which said study groups in more than 4,000 communities are active in the non-political campaign, pointed out that the local hidden tax figure concerns retail sales only and does not include many other taxes, hidden and direct, that families here have to pay.

The tax figure was computed from NCTC sales estimates based on last available U. S. Bureau of the Census figures, which placed 1935 sales in the county stores at $1,079,000. Government estimates of total sales for the local last year approximate the total in the 1938 study, the NCTC said.

Women Ask Changes Be Made In Names

More than 1,000,000 applications to change the names of women gave when obtaining their social security cards have been filed with the federal agency which issues these cards. This report was made today by Mr. J. A. Chaney, manager of the Social Security Board field office in Ashland, Ky.

There are three principal reasons why these million changes in women's names have been recorded, according to Mr. Chaney. "The first is, of course, marriage, which at this season of the year causes the number of changes for this reason to approach its peak."

names of women. This name, for various reasons, often differ from the real name of the woman worker. As all records of the Social Security Board are strictly confidential, it is possible for a woman to work under a name other than her own, if she so desires.

"Finally, there is a very large group of women who decide to change their names for personal reasons. Elizabeth may want to be known as Betty, Lisbeth, Beth, Bette or Linds, because her name is so recorded on the pay roll. We frequently have applications to change names for this reason. Our office has the form which both men and women use to change the names appearing on their social security records. This is one of the services given by our field office. Women who are to marry this spring should change our records so we will have their married names, Mr. Chaney said.

The adult class of the Methodist Sunday School will meet at the home of the President, Mrs. James McClure gave a reading. A short talk was given by the President, Mrs. Jason Stuart. Later supper was served with the table laden with delicious food. Every one expressed themselves as having a delightful evening.

Hayloft Comedian par excellence is "Slim" Miller who brings his band, The Kentucky Corncrippers, to Morehead to assist in the Renfro Valley Barn Dance show. May 18, in the College auditorium. A combination of musical ability and a flare for comedy rarely found in a single individual, make "Slim" an outstanding example of all that a barn dance fiddler should be, and he is sure to please any audience. Don't fail to see this show and also see "Slim's" Crazy Kut-Ups.

THE GARDEN

The vine crops comprise cucumbers, squashes, cantaloupes, and watermelons. Because they resemble each other throughout, they can well be discussed together.

In their fertility requirements, all are just medium, about that needed for 30-bushel corn. Gardens that have been given 10 tons of manure and 300 pounds of super-phosphate, acre-rates, should grow these crops well. If commercial fertilizer is to be depended upon, it should be 4-12-4, 500 pounds per acre.

Watermelons, cushaws and other running squashes as well as the larger cantaloupes should be put in "hills" spaced in squares, two plants each, of from 10 feet to 6 feet, but the others are best raised in continuous rows, 3 feet apart for bush squash and cucumbers and 4 or 5 feet for cantaloupes, with a final stand of 18 inches. Manure may be put under the seed or not, but the roots soon reach the soil beyond.

The average time for starting all the vine crops is May 1 to May 15. As for varieties to use, the choice is legion, but these are generally accepted in Kentucky as suitable:

Cucumbers for slicing, any white spine, for pickling, any black spine, or for both, the dual purpose Long Green.

Squashes. As "cymbalings," White Bush (patty pan) or Garden Summer Straightback. An excellent cymbaling is Acorn, which when mature, makes a superior squash for winter storing. For baking, Green Cushaw is most popular, in late summer and for winter, but Kitchennette, or any of the "Marrow" types, or Essex Hybrid, excel, too.

For winter storing, under conditions Cushaw might fail to keep, any of the Hubbard types are suggested as having "character" and flavor no other squashes have. Of cantaloupes, the netted gem sorts still continue the most popular, but Honey Ball, containing Casaba "blood" is coming to the fore. For latter cantaloupes, Tip Top cannot be beat except possibly by Bender's Surprise, somewhat more uniform than its Tip Top parent. Of watermelons, Stone Mountain is best, in this writer's opinion, though Keeckley and Dixie Queen and Thurmond's Grey have their protagonists. Growers whose water melons succumb to the wilt disease carried in the soil, will be glad to learn that wilt-resistant strains of both Stone Mountain and Keeckley may be had at the larger seed-houses.

The two main insect pests are plant lice and the striped cucumber beetle, with sometimes the spotted cucumber beetle doing a slight damage. The control of these insects is detailed in Kentucky Extension Circular No. 309.

A disease common to all vine crops is blight, which causes the leaves to blacken and drop off. Its control is effected by spraying with Bordeaux mixture, described earlier in this column, and in Circular No. 309.

A serious disease of watermelons but attacking none of the other vine crops, is wilt, described above where watermelon varieties were named.

JOE GISH

BEEF STEAK IS HIGH IN POPULARITY

Always "tops" in favor with connoisseurs of good food, especially with men, is broiled steak. At all seasons and in all places it ranks high in the popularity parade.

Realizing that, the clever home-maker adds the art of broiling a steak to perfection to her list of accomplishments very early in her career. In fact it really should be among the "must" courses in any school for brides.

Not the least part of the appeal of a perfectly broiled steak is that it is an easy main dish about which to plan a dinner menu. It seems to give something of its own fine flavor to the foods served with it. A simple menu, for example, French fried potatoes, green beans and a combination salad of fresh vegetables, turns into a real feast when these foods accompany a sizzling hot, brown, tender steak.

Although broiling a steak is one of the tests of a cook's ability, fortunately it isn't hard and no one need fail. Here is the right way to do it, according to Inez S. Wilson, home economist.

Have sirloin, club, or porterhouse steak cut at least 1 inch thick. Thoroughly preheat broiler oven. Place the steak on the broiler rack at a sufficient distance from the source of the heat so that by the time it is broiled on one side, it will be cooked half way through. Usually this is three inches, with the regulator turned high.

When one side of the steak is browned, season it with salt and pepper, turn and brown the other side. Then the steak is ready to serve at once.

Cincinnati Reds Are Most Colorful Team

Sensation of the infant National League season the Cincinnati Reds, most colorful team in baseball, are now swinging their lusty bats on foreign soil. The Reds are making a tour of five National League cities in which they will appear in thirteen games.

Following three games with Pie Traynor's Pittsburgh Pirates, the clan of McKechnie will swing on to the Polo Grounds for their first appearance against the Giants. The Reds and Giants will meet in single games Tuesday and Wednesday.

Continuing their junket, the Reds move into Boston Thursday for three tilts against the Bees, then move to Philadelphia for three games starting Sunday. The tour will close with contests in Brooklyn on May 10 and 11.

When the Reds return to Crosley Field on May 12, they will meet the St. Louis Cardinals in a ladies' day game. Ladies' tickets will be put on sale four days in advance at the old Times-Star Building, Sixth and Walnut Streets. Mail orders for this game will be accepted before that time, and fans are requested to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with their order.

The Reds start the present invasion of the East in first place, after a spectacular pair of meetings with the Chicago Cubs at the home lot. This first road trip will serve notice as to the possibilities of the club in the chase for the flag.

An' Idy Harper, Little Clifford, Uncle Juney To Appear in Program

Folks in and around Morehead will soon have the pleasure of seeing in person the new addition to the Harper family—Uncle Juney. When An' Idy Harper decided to get married a contest was held to choose the lucky man. There were so many handsome applicants, that

An' Idy couldn't make up her mind so the decision was left in the hands of Little Clifford. "These is little heart," he picked Uncle Juney, who had to pick the family name of Harper, because An' Idy would not change hers marriage or no marriage.

Uncle Juney will be present with An' Idy Harper and Little Clifford when the Renfro Valley Barn Dance comes to Morehead for 4 days engagement May 18 in the College auditorium.

Models Clothes Vyvyan Donner

Vyvyan Donner's, spring fashion forecast for 1939, made in Technicolor and containing the most elaborate wedding sequence ever made, will play in the Cozy Theatre starting May 18.

Of the thousands of women who strolled down Fifth Avenue on Easter Sunday, experts in the field estimate that more than one in five was influenced in their choice of an Easter costume by Vyvyan Donner.

Miss Donner's influence is not confined to New York. Whether they are aware of it or not, millions of women in the United States in great cities and in little country towns, in summer resorts and farms follow the style trends which Miss Donner selects as worthy of note. Every week, in the United States alone, more than 40,000,000 people, see her designs on the movie screens of the country. Miss Donner's style trends, in fact, her influence is greater than that of the world's most famous designers, the great names of Paris, because, while they merely design, clothes, Miss Donner not only designs them but directs and produces weekly fashion features exhibiting the clothes she considers important.

Miss Donner is that rarity among producers—she didn't start out in life as a glove salesman, or pants presser—a member of an old, socially prominent New York family. She did not find the path to film directing easy. She was interested in the theatre from an early age and before she was out of her teens she had already made a reputation for herself as a scenic designer working for the Shuberts, the famous Ziegfeld and other prominent producers.

But the movies were her goal. She talked to many film producers. They were interested—but their interest never got beyond the point of mere discussion. Finally, she decided to plunge ahead and make films of her own.

With fifty dollars in cash and millions in hope she made her first film—a one-reeler with puppets as the actors. Her studio was a loft above a theatre and she eked out her meager budget by tapping the house electricity. This film was so successful that it won her a contract producing films professionally. From this first contract she went on to fashion films.

Ice Follies Of 1939 Is Cozy Feature

Miss Donner's fashion films are now the recognized pace setters for fashion all over the world. Not only does she popularize fashions—she also originates them. Blame the popular "shorts" for women on Miss Donner, the platform soles and the host of other stylish fashions—blame her also for the fact that America now leads, the world in the creation and popularization of feminine styles.

Students Should Secure Numbers

As the graduation season approaches high school students were advised today to obtain social security account numbers before leaving employment.

This recommendation was made by Mr. J. A. Chaney manager of the Social Security Board field office in Ashland, Ky. "Many employers now insist that new workers show their social security numbers before taking up employment," Mr. Chaney said. "It is much easier to get a number before applying for work, whether temporary or permanent, than it is to have to go to our office later and get a card. Meanwhile, Miss Donner should be obtained even though there is no immediate certainty of work."

Any person who works in commerce or industry is covered by the old age insurance system, except in a few specific cases. There is no age limit on the down side, so far as coverage is concerned. Workers who reach age 65 no longer are covered under old-age insurance, as the social security law now stands and deductions from their pay cease at that age.

The Ashland field office issues social security numbers for the residents of Boyd, Breathitt, Carter, Elliott, Floyd, Greenup, Johnson, Knott, Lawrence, Lewis, Magoffin, Martin, Morgan, Perry, Pike, Rowan and Wolfe counties.

Good Entertainment In Seasons Pictures

Manager Jack Frisch of the Russell theatre announces a new departure with the announcement of Schine's Spring Festival of Certified Entertainment in which he guarantees the film fare offered at his theatre. "I have no hesitation in recommending and guaranteeing the pictures which will play the Russell Theatre during the coming weeks," said manager Jack Frisch. "Certified automobiles, certified bread and other products are familiar to us all and the distributors for these products are able to give this guarantee because they know the quality of their goods. A theatre's merchandise is motion pictures, and we know that during the coming weeks there will be available the greatest number of features ever produced, and so it is with certainty that we can offer certified entertainment to our patrons. "The motion picture companies have searched the world for outstanding merit in motion pictures—from distinguished authors, favorite books and modern writers. Down-to-earth human interest stories will be joined with spectacles and important musical pictures. Many of the new pictures will be from the works of authors universally accepted as setting the standard in literature. There will be many new treats, new surprises

Resolutions By Fiscal Court

(Continued From Page One) well as every other county in which land has been purchased by the Government for this purpose, and WHEREAS it appears unfair that the citizens of this county and of other counties so situated be penalized, and WHEREAS, Representative Colmer of Mississippi has recently introduced a bill in Congress to require the Federal Government to pay annually to each county three per cent of the actual purchase price of land acquired in that county under the reforestation and Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenancy Acts,

NOW, THEREFORE, Be It Resolved by the Fiscal Court of Rowan County in special session assembled that Senators Alben W. Barkley and M. M. Logan and Congressman Joe B. Bates be requested for and on behalf of the taxpayers of Rowan County and the other fifteen counties of the State of Kentucky affected by this measure to lend their active support to this meritorious bill and that copies of this resolution be transmitted to the aforesaid legislators.

fluent skating exhibition ever filmed. Because it so completely outshines anything of the sort previously brought to screen, the long sequence presenting the ice ballet, in full color, is the most memorable entertainment factor and, therefore, the one likely to profit the picture most by word-of-mouth publicity. This portion of the picture successfully defies written description. Only the color camera, a most flexible and artful one in this case, is competent to report accurately the artistry of these quite incredible skaters. This portion of the film is without precedent. The name players referred to in the opening paragraph are engaged in a story about skaters and motion picture people which is well old and frequently amusing. Mr. Stewart plays a rink impresario married to a cinema star. Their professional preoccupations keep them apart until the girl determines to give up her career, whereupon her employer hires her husband as a film producer, thus making it possible for them to be together more. The players named make this seem realistic without attempting to build it up for more interest than is compatible with the success of the skating finale.

Girls Of Golden West In Barn Dance Program

Radio fans here in Morehead are soon to have the opportunity of seeing radio's original cowboy yodeling harmony team, Milly and Dolly Good, better known in countless homes as the Girls of the Golden West. They will be featured on the Renfro Valley Barn Dance, coming to Morehead May 18 and will be sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. at the College auditorium.

Even in childhood days back in Muleshoe, Texas, these girls showed exceptional talent and, when the family moved to St. Louis, Missouri where they saw their first radio station, it was only a few days until they were broadcasting their plaintive songs and tricky harmony yodels to delighted listeners all over the country. Soon they were being featured on various NBC programs, including Rudy Vallee's Variety Hour, and now they are heard daily over WLW, the Nation's Station, and are being featured on the Renfro Valley Barn Dance presented over WLW Line each Saturday night under the direction of John Lair. Although veterans of radio and stage, these girls are still quite young and have lost none of their early enthusiasm for their chosen vocation. They like to meet people and make friends wherever they go. In their colorful and attractive cowgirl garb they are a decided addition to any stage performance, pleasing to the eye, as well as, to the ear. Don't miss these entertainers.

The Family.

Learning that the Hardys left for home, Phillip Westcott hurriedly telephoned for an appointment with Mr. Bronell, the estate lawyer, at the Leeds mansion.
"I told you what Mr. Leeds said," Phillip said scornfully. "He said that the Leeds had been one son families for four generations, and you laughed!" He pointed to an empty space on the bookshelf. "Well, I planted the phoney inscription in the bookhand where's the book? It's gone! And so is Judge Hardy!"
Bronell looked at Phillip with evident distaste.
"The whole thing is very unethical," he said.
"Unethical? Is Judge Hardy being ethical by concealing evidence?" Phillip demanded.
"Faked evidence," Bronell reminded him.
"He doesn't know it's faked," Westcott insisted. "Why don't he tell you about it if he's so honest?"
Bronell shook his head unhappily. Under no circumstances would he have thought Judge Hardy capable of crookedness in any will be the right thing."

The decision was a hard one. "It's two million dollars, mother, I can drop these in the fire, and it's our money."
"James, wouldn't it be... dishonest... to burn them?"
"Then—you want me to send them to Mr. Bronell," the Judge said, his face impassive.
Emily smiled tenderly. "That's what you've already decided to do, isn't it, James?"
When, a few minutes later, he had telephoned Detroit and told his story, the Judge sat stunned as he listened to Bronell's reply.
"What was that?" he demanded.
"I'm very happy you called," Mr. Bronell said. "I thought you'd fallen into a trap that Phillip laid. Now I can tell you of a secret codicil which proves that in case no blood relatives are found."
The Judge gasped as he hung up the phone.
"Now, James Hardy," Emily said, setting his expression, "don't tell me we can't get rid of the two million dollars."
"We've got rid of it, all right."

"Don't need the papers! I thought you had to have them to get the two million dollars!"
"Suppose," said Judge Hardy, "we're not going to get the two million dollars." Then, as Andy stared incredulously, "Andrew, suppose I could get us two million dollars, but I'd have to do a dishonest thing, commit a crime. Would you want us to be rich—that way?"

"You must fight it, Andy!" Emily pleaded.

The Judge said soberly. "Mother, if I ever needed proof that honesty is the best policy, I've got it now. If we had destroyed that evidence, I'd have stood a pretty good chance of going to prison. Suddenly they heard a tremendous crash from the hall. Rushing out, they stared as they came upon Andy sitting in grotesque posture on the floor, surrounded by a chaos of books and papers that had spilled from a large packing case."
The Judge smiled. "It's fortunate I don't need any more of those papers," he said.

"Please, Phil, I'm responsible for the estate, but..."
"You're responsible for me, too!" Phillip said coldly. "Now I'm going to my lawyer. And Mr. Judge Hardy will see what a court looks like from the other side of the bench!"
Back in Carvel, at the moment Judge Hardy coasted off and the open, was seated at a desk piled high with a confusion of papers. On the floor beside him were several dusty boxes. The Judge was working furiously, deep concern evident on his face.
The Judge picked up an engraving which showed Col. James Standish Leeds standing beside his favorite race horse. He took a magnifying glass and examined the inscription.
"ridden by Andrew Harper, son of Mrs. James Standish Leeds, and the late Major Harvey Harper, her first husband."
Judge Hardy groaned as he realized the truth. He was not the legitimate heir to the Leeds fortune.
For a moment the Judge sank back in his chair, utterly dejected. So his ancestor was not a real Leeds! And the two million dollars therefore couldn't belong to him. Suddenly, however, a fierce impulse struck him. Why couldn't he destroy this evidence—the etching and the inscription in the book? Who would ever be the wiser?
He stood up quickly, picked up the two incriminating items, and hurried over the fireplace. He held them over the flames. But, with a wince of pain, he realized he could not go through with it. Suddenly he turned and went to the door. Opening it, he called:
"Emily! Oh, Emily!"
"Coming, James!" Mrs. Hardy called back. In a moment she came into the room, wearing an apron, her hair tucked back, her face amused with dust.
"Sit down, mother," the Judge began, "we've made a mistake about that estate money."
"Yes!"
"Yes, I first suspected the facts from an inscription in this book I found in Detroit. I came home to check it—and this picture proves it's true."
"Proves what, James?" Emily was puzzled. "That you're not entitled to the two million dollars?"
"Legally, I'm not," the Judge said carefully, "because my great grandfather Andrew was not born a Leeds, but was adopted. Mr. Bronell's ready to give us the money. If I drop this picture and this book into the fire, we're rich." His voice held a challenge to her.
"Whatever you decide," Emily said with utter simplicity, "I know

Farm And Home News

THE FARM AND HOME

Plants often suffer more from lack of water than from lack of food. Plenty of clean, fresh water should be kept within easy reach of all kinds of livestock. Good water in crosses egg production, since eggs are mostly water.

Vegetables do better on deeply plowed soil. Some professional gardeners plow 14 inches deep, but 10 inches is a good depth. A loose soil is needed to grow shapely root vegetables and potatoes. To have quality, vegetables must grow quickly.

Young trees set last year will grow better if the soil is cultivated about them for at least two feet. This will keep the soil loose and keep it from becoming compacted. Keep this area stirred until mid-summer and then apply a mulch.

The farm home water system serving kitchen, bathroom and laundry should provide 30 to 40 gallons of water per person per day. Sewage disposal should be had through a carefully constructed septic tank.

Whipping cream cake: Mix and sift 1 1/2 cups of flour, 2 teaspoons of baking powder and 1/2 teaspoon of salt. Whip cups of cream, add 2 eggs and beat lightly. Flavor with teaspoon of vanilla. Add cup of sugar gradually beating constantly. Fold dry ingredients into cream mixture, and bake in layers or cupcakes in moderate oven.

Dry fish for chokers: 70 pounds of yellow corn meal, 25 pounds of shorts or middlings and a pound of salt. Mix and sift. Add 2 cups of water, 2 eggs and beat lightly. Flavor with teaspoon of vanilla. Add cup of sugar gradually beating constantly. Fold dry ingredients into cream mixture, and bake in layers or cupcakes in moderate oven.

WHELP PRESERVE CHLAD EGGS FOR USE NEXT WINTER

Eggs are so cheap on farms in Kentucky this spring that E. Humphrey of the State College of Agriculture at Lexington is urging housewives to preserve them for use next fall and winter when they may be worth twice as much or even more.

Waterglass solution is the common method of preserving eggs for home use. One quart of waterglass is sufficient for 15 to 18 dozen eggs. To make the solution, boil and cool nine quarts of water. Then mix the quart of waterglass with the nine quarts of water in stone jars, crocks or galvanized vessels that have been sterilized with boiling water.

Put the containers half-full and add more liquid, if necessary, when the eggs are in the solution. The solution should cover the top layer of eggs to a depth of at least two inches.

Use only fresh eggs with sound shells, says Mr. Humphrey. The eggs may be placed in the solution as they are gathered, with the little end down. A plate or cover may be placed over the eggs to prevent them from coming to the surface. Cover the vessel to prevent undue evaporation and store in a cool place. Examine the vessels occasionally and add more water, if necessary. In the event that eggs preserved by this method are used for boiling a pin hole should be made in the large end.

JARRING CONTROLS CURCULO OF FRUIT

Curculio, already found on plums, peaches and cherries in Western Kentucky, may be controlled by spraying with arsenate of lead or by jarring them out of the trees, says P. O. Hatcher, chief of the University of Kentucky Experiment Station. Long before sprays were invented, growers controlled curculios by daily jarring of the trees, and he suggests that owners of only a few trees who do not wish to spray continue to use the old-fashioned jarring method.

Spraying with arsenate of lead kills many adult curculios when applied soon after peach shuck-fall and again two weeks later. Some growers spray without regard to the presence of curculios. Others practice jarring to see if the pest is present, before spraying, and this is what more growers should do, says Hatcher.

Jarring is done by spreading a canvas or sheet under the tree and then striking limbs several blows with a padded mat or end of a 2 by 4 well padded. The adult curculios fall on the sheet, and then should be destroyed. Jarring is best done early in the morning, before the curculios become active.

PUBLIC TO INSPECT SOIL IMPROVEMENTS

How use of phosphate fertilizers and limestone improve soil fertility and increase crop yields will be studied by the public in meetings the week of May 21 at the test fields which the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station maintains over the state. Effects of crop rotation also will be noted.

Meetings are scheduled to be held at the Greenville field, May 23; Campbellsville, May 24; Fashion, May 25, and Berea, May 26. At all fields, wheat, clover and grasses will be seen growing on land treated with fertilizers and on untreated land. At Campbellsville and Greenville, good bluegrass sod has been produced, in preparation for growing tobacco.

Other tests at these fields compare the various phosphate fertilizers, including the Tennessee Valley Authority triple-superphosphate.

KENTUCKY FARMERS TO GET 9 MILLIONS

Approximately $5,000,000 has been paid to Kentucky farmers cooperating in the 1938 adjustment program, and total payments for last year probably will reach nearly nine million dollars, according to estimates made at the State Agricultural Adjustment Administration office at Lexington.

To date about 150,000 applications for payments have been received at the state office, and 142,000 have been checked and forwarded to Washington. Approximately 162,000 applications are expected from the 120 counties in Kentucky.

In addition to the benefit payments for last year, 2,302 cotton growers in eight Kentucky counties have received $10,451 in cotton price adjustment payments.

For this year, approximately 200,000 Kentucky farmers will be eligible for payments, it was esti-ated at the State office. Payments for burley tobacco have been increased from a half of a cent a pound last year to eight-tenths of a cent a pound on the normal yield on the acreage allotment this year. Dark tobacco payments have been reduced from 1 1/2 cents a pound to 1 1/4 cents a pound.

Fish And Game Issue Warning

Major James Brown Director of the Division of Game and Fish wishes to remind all anglers of the fact that they will be permitted to fish during the month of May "only" in any navigable stream in Kentucky and "only" with pole and line and not above the last lock and dam.

Taking fish in any manner from streams outside of the one that have locks and dams will be unlawful during the month and anyone caught violating this particular section of the law is liable to a fine or jail sentence upon conviction.

The Hardys Ride High

(Continued From Page Six) you, Dad. Aw, gee, not you!" He cried. Suddenly his face showed concern. "If we don't get the money, does Phil get it?" he asked. "The Judge's eyes 'rinkled. "No you see, Phil's adopted father didn't exactly approve of Phillip's sporting blood." So, it now all goes to a children's hospital."

Marion, too, was not without some satisfaction at the news that they were not really rich. Dennis Hunt had told her she simply could not love a girl who had so much money.

how he stood with Polly Benedict, who had shown a marked interest in someone else. Polly welcomed him coyly, and offered to get some tea.

"I'd prefer a slug of straight gin," Andy announced.

Polly stopped short and whirled around.

"Andrew Hardy! Do you drink liquor?"

He nodded. "I don't generally have the first shot before sunset," he said apologetically. "But today I started off wrong. The minute I woke up I felt the craving and I took a good slug of gin out of the bottle I keep hidden under my mattress."

"But that's terrible," she protested. "You mustn't."

"It's not my fault. I can't help it. When I got my first taste of it, when I was ruined. The craving for alcohol is in my blood!"

He rose, and there was a wild look in his eyes.

"I've got to have a drink right now! Give me something to drink or let me get to a saloon, quick."

Polly threw her arms around his neck and held him tightly.

"You must fight it, Andy!" she cried tearfully. "You mustn't give in. Please for my sake."

Andy was highly elated with the success of his performance and made the most of the situation.

"I'll try, Polly," he muttered brokenly. "But you gotta hold onto me tight. Maybe I can control myself, if you hold tight onto me!"

"You must fight! Polly said bravely. "Come and sit down, Andrew, darling."

Darling! Andy gravely permitted himself to be led to a chair and subsided heavily into it, murmuring piously:

"I'm trying. I'm fighting."

"You must stop thinking about it!"

Suddenly Andy began to struggle again, flinging his arms wildly.

"I can't! It's got me again!"

Polly flung herself on him, her arms around his neck.

"Please, Andy!" she said hysterically.
