Mass Meeting To Be Held Fri., March 7

Citizens Favoring American Aid To Allies Asked To Attend Meeting

A mass meeting of Rowan County Citizens Favoring American Aid to the Allies has been called for 7:00 p. m., Friday evening, March 7, at the offices of the Morehead Independent, W. J. Sample, local chairman of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies announced today.

In calling the meeting, Mr. Sample pointed out that there was a great possibility of a filibuster in the United States Senate either delaying or halting the aid of the country to the Allies.

"Every person who believes that the best way to defend America is to aid the Allies now, should attend this meeting," the Chairman said. "The next few days will see a fearful decision in the struggle in which free men are now engaged. The delay in passing the Lend-Lease bill cannot be disheartening in the extreme to Great Britain and to certain nations which are hovering on the balance of decision, such as Turkey, and must immeasurably increase German morale. The fatal consequences of apparent disunity in the United States cannot be overestimated."

Legume And Grass Seedings Must Conform To Rates For Credit

Minimum seeding rates for legume and grass seedings for Rowan County farmers plan to sow this spring to earn soil-building credits in the Agricultural Conservation Program were announced today by C. B. Turner, agricultural conservation association.

Rates for principal grasses and legumes seeded in Rowan County are: Bluegrass—12 pounds per acre; timothy—12 pounds; alfalfa—12 pounds; orchard grass—10 pounds; and red clover—8 pounds per acre.

"These rates apply when legumes or grasses of the types indicated are seeded alone," he said, "pastures are better and the land is improved."

First Attempt To Edit School Paper At Farmers High

Made Possible Through Efforts Of Active P.-T.A. (By Harvey Tackett)

The Independent has just received its first copy of the "Farmers High-Words," scholastic publication of the Farmers High School. The paper is a two-page sheet, printed on mimeographed paper, and represents the first effort of the Farmers school to edit a high school paper. It has just issued its seventh edition, and judging from the amount of interest shown in its welfare, it should issue many more numbers.

It is our opinion that there is no school enterprise that can bring about better food with among students, teachers and parents, save more, or give the student writer more literary writing experience, than a high school newspaper. Some of the best newspapers in the world are published by students.

KY. SOCIETY FOR CRIPPLED CHILDREN

For fifteen years the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children has held an annual drive for funds... to build new legs, arms, bodies, for more than 8,000 children. The 1941 drive starts soon... from April 2 to April 13... It's the Easter Seal Sale and Membership Campaign, if you remember.

In Rowan County, the Society is right now re-making 76 youngsters through its qualified agency, the Kentucky Crippled Children Commission. In Rowan County, 46 children have been helped in the past at an approximate cost of $272 for each child. Unfortunately, there are still more children in Rowan County who have been examined but must wait because of lack of funds.

There are now in our State about 4,000 youngsters on a waiting list to be helped. There are three agencies in Kentucky working together for these crippled children.

The Kentucky Society for Crippled Children and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis both raise money for the official agency, the Kentucky Crippled Children's Commission, to spend.

The Society's Easter Campaign must not be confused with the January campaign of the National Foundation commemorating the birthday of President Roosevelt.

Ball campaign went to New York to be used for research; the other fifty percent remaining in the State is to be spent by the Kentucky Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis in cooperation with the Kentucky Crippled Children Commission for infantile paralysis victims only. Infantile paralysis constitutes approximately twenty percent of the Commission's cases.

Funds raised by the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children are all spent in Kentucky for KENTUCKY'S crippled children in cooperation with the Commission. These funds are used for ALL crippled children's work. Thus will be seen the necessity for two campaigns which do not involve a duplication of service.

Won't YOU help? Your purchases of Easter Seals and your support of the membership campaign of the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children will mean the rebuilding of arms, legs and bodies of still more helpless children! There are four thousand youngsters on the waiting list—shall we turn a deaf ear to the drive to help these luckless kids? Then GIVE!

Assessments Made Easier By Maps In Some Counties

Ashland, Corbin, Hazard and Middleboro Preparing City Maps

About 2,500 acres may be added to Oltaham County's farm land assessment through the use of plat maps recently furnished to the Board of Supervisors at LaGrange, it was announced by H. Clyde Reeves, State Commissioner of Revenue.

The plat maps, prepared with WPA labor from aerial photographs, deed records and available surveys under the sponsorship of the Department of Revenue, show that there are approximately 2,500 more acres of land in Oltaham County than was shown in the 40 assessment. Reeves recalled that similar maps furnished to Spencer County a few months ago revealed 3,982 unlisted acres. The maps also disclosed 741 Spencer County acres which had been assessed in Nelson County.

While there are numerous uses to which the maps can be put, Reeves said they constitute "excellent facilities for improving the whole assessment job. They made glaring inequalities in assessments stand out like a sore thumb."

Other counties in which the map platting is in various stages of development include Bourbon, Boyd, Campbell, Fayette, Floyd, Kenton, Nicholas and Owen. The preparation of city maps is being sponsored by Ashland, Corbin, Hazard, Middleboro, Owensboro, Paintsville and Paris. Reeves said that the interest displayed by county and city officials in all sections of the state was very gratifying and was indicative of a "growing interest in improving the outmoded methods which have resulted in a poor job of assessment being done."

In making the plat maps, deed descriptions are outlined on aerial photographs furnished by the United States Department of Agriculture by a skilled worker through the use of an instrument known as a "planimeter." If there is a variation in the "measured" acreage and the amount shown by the deed or more than two-tenths acres, the farm is made the subject of a field investigation. When all the farms on an aerial photograph have been outlined, tracings are made. After comparing the elevation and any "tilt" of the airplane from which the picture was made, and making other necessary adjustments, the final maps are drawn to a scale of 600 feet per inch. When completed, one set of maps is furnished to the county court clerks, one set to the county tax commissioners and one to the Department of Revenue.

College Athletes Have High Grades

The steadily increasing emphasis is placed upon scholarship in American colleges has gone far toward elevating the scholastic standings of students participating in intercollegiate athletics, according to K. E. Wilson, director of athletics at Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois.

Director Wilson referred specifically to a recent survey conducted at Northwestern University which revealed that the scholastic average of 250 athletes compared favorably with the average of the entire student body. The fact that athletes must maintain a high standard of scholarship to be eligible for competition has resulted in this situation, Mr. Wilson said. Those who administer the athletic affairs in colleges and universities are in hearty accord with this emphasis on scholarship, Mr. Wilson said. Coaches have long since recognized that the players most valuable to the team are those who have earned recognition in the class room.

The strengthening of scholastic requirements for athletics has made itself felt in numerous ways, he said. The time when summer schools were flouted with athletes making up scholastic requirements is a thing of the past while the percentage of athletes graduating is higher in nearly every case than the percentage of the entire student body.

An Iowa town of 600 population discovered that it was located in Nebraska, and automatically had a tax reduction.

Miller Article Just Off Press

The November Issue of Educational Administration and Supervision, just off the press, contains Dr. Frank E. Miller's article on "The College Teaching Problem." It is a twelve-page article including the results of experiments in college teaching over a number of years. Educational Administration and Supervision is fourth in rank of thirty-one major national educational journals published in the United States.

Dr. Miller asserts that "much criticism and bewilderment prevail with reference to college teaching."

Since "teaching has been more or less incidental," "there is little wonder, then, that an individual may pass through college and come out uneducated." Teaching no longer starts with the subject matter but from the individual himself; it views him not as something to be molded through pressure from without but as an organism which develops through its own activity.

Dr. Miller's experiment is explained and student reaction is reported on.

Dr. Miller's experiment contains "a challenge to the general traditional type of college teaching procedure."

BOOK NOTES

NEW LANGUAGE BOOK AND THE STORY OF PRINTING

Today we are going to discuss one book giving the story of printing and one book on words and their meanings. They are as follows: They are as follows: 1. Huxley, Aldous (Words And Their Meanings.) The Ward Ritchie Press, $1.50.

This is the first publication of a new work by Aldous Huxley in a field in which he has long been interested. It is a consideration of the power of words, of the mind's thinking, to canalize their feeling, to direct their willing and acting. Conduct and character are largely determined by the nature of the words we currently use to discuss ourselves and the world around us. 2. McMurtrie, Douglas C. (The Book, The Story of Printing And Bookmaking.) Covell, Friede Publishing Company, $5.00. This book tells the romantic story of one of man's greatest triumphs of ingenuity, craftsmanship and creative genius—the story of printing and bookmaking. Behind the design of the beautiful books that are produced today there is a long tradition of patient craftsmen. Ever since the days when monks lovingly devoted themselves to the arduous task of illuminating sacred texts, mankind has dreamed of the perfect book. Each decade brings a further advance, but the realization of the dream is still in the future. The book will answer any, but the most specialized questions on books and their makers. The actual processes of book production are simply described, and the volume closes with a discussion of the principles governing the production of the ideal or "golden" book, the quest for which has haunted the imagination of all bookmakers down through the ages. "The author would appreciate any comments the readers of these articles might have to make. Just address all communications to 508 College Boulevard, Morehead, Kentucky.

25 Counties Are Represented In Farm Conf. At U. K.

Landlord-Tenant Problems Are Discussed; Noted Speakers On Program

A regional landlord-tenant conference was held March 5 at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture at Lexington, with land owners' farm operators, county agents and others in attendance from approximately twenty-five counties. Under the supervision of Doctor W. D. Nicholls of the farm economics department, the conference consisted of an interchange on problems of tenancy. Speakers included Mark Ethridge, general manager of The Louisville Courier-Journal; Joseph Ackerman, Chicago, of the Farm Foundation; Frank Connolly, Warsaw, chairman of the Kentucky Farm Tenancy Commission; Dr. Thomas P. Cooper, dean of the College of Agriculture and acting president of the university, and members of the university faculty. Both morning and afternoon sessions were held at the Judging Pavilion of the university. Many county and regional meetings of this type have been held during the past two years. The Italian forward advance of no other continues backward. One can't advance his business far unless he advances with it. Back seat drivers license ought to be required.

My conscience felt and owned the guilt; It plunged me in despair; I saw my sins His blood had split, And helped to nail Him there.

Ky. Society For Crippled Children To Hold Membership Drive For Funds

Youngest Kentucky campaigner is Captain Pluck, one-time protégé of the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children, who went on Kentucky's airways for six weeks last Sunday to aid the Society's fifteenth annual drive for funds to help indigent crippled children.

Four years old in 1931, Captain Pluck had a dark future because of congenital deformities. His parents took him to a free clinic where one of the best orthopedic doctors in the State examined him under the supervision of the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children and its qualified agency, the Kentucky Crippled Children Commission.

The doctor recommended an operation for the twisted feet, so Captain Pluck, with 7,822 other young patients of the Commission, braved the hospitalization without his mother, endured the plaster casts and braces for many months alone in a distant city hospital. He emerged with straight bones and the ability to walk.

Today the Captain—who is Captain of the army that makes war on crippled bodies—springs up the steps to his Junior High School with the best of them, makes top grades, and his chief aim in life is to unite all Kentuckians in the cause to save the 1,824 youngsters in Kentucky who are on the Commission's waiting list.

For fifteen minutes once each week Captain Pluck will talk on the air—intervewing such busy Kentuckians as Governor Johnson; Mrs. Wayland Rhoads, Lexington, president of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs; James Norris, Ashland, State Commander of the American Legion, and other well-known figures who have been helped like himself such as Posee Roberts, the gun girl, and Tim Harle, the boy who grew up to be a big business man and married the boss' daughter.

The Murray State Teachers College Bulldogs, after many years of valiant effort, won their first KIAC basketball tournament at Richmond, Kentucky, Saturday night, March 1. STARK RATIONS—A Day's Food in Belgium

The plate contains a piece of potato, a scrap of meat, and a dab of fat. On the table was a hunk of bread and some tiny lumps of sugar.

New York (Special)—What you see above does not faint a meal. It shows what a Belgian gets to eat during an entire day.

He gets—eight ounces of bread and one-third of one ounce of fat. He gets an ounce and one-half of meat, no bigger than a third of a package of cigarettes and not even one whole potato. Then he has an ounce and three-quarters of sugar.

This photograph was taken in New York City, but is based upon authentic information from overseas, sent to the National Committee on Food for the Small Democracies, of which Mr. Herbert Hoover is honorary chairman. Three famine experts whom he ordered into Belgium reported on the true situation. Theoretically, rations are larger. For instance, there should be five potatoes in the above picture, also a tiny heap of beans, a bit of oatmeal and some "ersatz" coffee. But food to supply even these terrible restricted rations simply does not exist. What you see in the movie is what a Belgian actually gets a mere live upon—today.

What does this mean?

A human needs 2400 calories daily to exist—3600 if he works.

The food values on the plate represent only 1000 calories.

Starvation, this. Literal! But worse is to come!

By February's end the bread ration will disappear from the picture—because bread grain stocks will be exhausted and can be replaced only from overseas.

In the last war, America sent billion dollars worth of food into stricken Europe. Not a single pound was lost, or diverted into any hands other than those of the people for whom it was intended.

Football Practice Started At MSTC February 24th

Jayne Stadium, home of the Morehead Eagles, once more echoes to the shouts of gridiron stalwarts as spring football is ushered in again in preparation for a strenuous 1941 season.

The call for recruits was answered Monday, February 24, by some thirty-two promising huskies, who were immediately sent through a few limbering-up exercises to loosen winter-stiff muscles. This number will be swelled Monday, March 10, by the addition of Mussman, Wiggins, Adams, and Barnes, all veterans who have been occupied with basketball.

Practice will be held off and on until after the SIAA basketball tournament next week. Three days of practice were held the past week, consisting mainly of calisthenics and fundamentals. The squad will drill the first three days of next week, and then will rest until the coaches return. It is a Bowling Green, scene of the SIAA tournament. Beginning with intricate drills on Monday, March 3, the Eagles will continue until spring vacation, or until a satisfactory amount of progress has been made, Johnson said.

According to Johnson and Miller, the team will be strong in the backfield and at ends, but there will be a shortage of linemen. This shortage is especially apparent at the guard position, with only veterans available. The line may be further weakened by the possible loss of Vincent Gandolfi, guard, and Junie Fryman, tackle, two promising freshmen whose draft numbers came up early in July. If Ralph Mussman's number is also called, the backfield will suffer for the loss of a crack signal-caller and tough blocking back.

The Eagles will play a seven-game schedule next fall, opening with Western at Ashland on September 27. The following week the Eagles will entertain Rio Grande College of Rio Grande, O., in a home game. On October 11 a big, tough, Davis-Elkins team will journey to Morehead in an attempt to avenge a 7-0 loss suffered the hands of the Eagles in 1939, the only previous meeting between the schedule. The October 18 date is open on the Eagles' card, but Johnson and Miller are trying to fill it. Murray is next, in a game scheduled at Murray on October 29th. The Eagles will be pointing for the tilt with the Thoroughbreds in order to actually break the four-year jinx which was "badly bent" in last year's 0-0 tie at Ashland.

The next two games will both be with the West Virginia teams, Concord on November 1, and Marshall on November 8. Concord last appeared on the Eagle card in 1939, when the Eagles administered a sound 25-0 trouncing. Marshall will be perhaps the greatest bump in the Eagles' road to success. The Eagles were forced to bow last year by a count of 13-7. Many Eagle fans contended, however, the Marshall won on a couple of lucky breaks, and the consensus of opinion among both "Herd" fans and "Moreheadians" was that the Eagles completely outplayed the big Thundering Herd throughout the last half of the game. The game will be played at Huntington.

The Eagles' clash with Eastern in a home tilt on November 15th. They will be out for blood in this fracas, for the Maroons handed them a bad 27-13 licking in the 1940 edition of the series to gain possession of the "Old Hawg Rifle" for the first time since it was placed in competition in 1936 by the Campus Club of Morehead College as a permanent trophy.

The following men comprise the Eagle roster:

Ends—Astor Collins, Tater Barnes, Jim Carroll, Steve Sagady, Marion Van House, Joe Fortune, and Alex Bozinski.

Tackles—Addie Marshall, Richard Dougherty, Charles Smith, and Junie Fryman.

Guards—Columbus Norris, William Varney, Charlie Walters, Earl Welles, Joe Rushnakas, Vincent Gandolfi, and Bill Mack.

Centers—Vincent Zachem, Jefferson Reindinger, and Paul Adams.

Blocking Ends—B. J. Justice, Ralph Mussman, and Howard Wright.

Fullbacks—Joe Lestic, Chris Crawford, and Tony Salvato.

Halfbacks—Bennie Vaznelis, Carl Howerton, Frank Hatfield, George Wiggins, Larry Workman, Bill Everhart, Frank Setear, Bob Warden, Red Harmon, and Johnny Riggs.

Quail Reported As Exceptionally Numerous In State

Large Bob White Population Expected To Aid Restocking Program

The Bob White Quail, a game and tractitious bird in Kentucky, is showing in abundant numbers in practically every section of the state, according to reports which have come in to the Division of Game and Fish offices here from interested farmers, conservation officers and the general public.

After putting all the information together and sifting out the most important item it was learned that more quail were seen after January 1, 1941 than had been located during the entire post hunting season by the nurmoks.

With this encouraging news and with ideal winter weather for wildlife this bit of news should mean that there will be a big quail population to carry on the reproduction and restocking program in Kentucky this spring and summer.

Crockett High Is Suspended Until July 1 By K.H.S.S.A.

57th District Drawings Set Aside By Board Of Control

Suspension of Owensboro High School and the Crockett High School of Morgan County until July 1, 1941, was announced Saturday afternoon by W. F. O'Donnell, president of the Kentucky High School Athletic Association, following a meeting at Richmond, Kentucky, of the Board of Control of the association. The suspensions are effective immediately.

Crockett High School was suspended for playing Digniel Skaggs, finding that Skaggs is in his tenth semester in high school. The association rules prohibit participation in athletics of boys who have been in high school more than 8 semesters. The Crockett basketball team has not been defeated this year.

The Board also set aside the drawings of the 57th District, which is made up of Pike County, and directed that a drawing be held in conformity with the rules of the association. The board found that all strong teams had been seeded in one-half of the bracket and all weak teams in the other half. This was held in violation of the tournament rules.

In addition to the consideration of suspensions and the 57th District drawing, the board discussed plans for the State High School basketball tournament to be held at the University of Kentucky on March 20, 21 and 22 and purchased the trophies.

J. R. Coyle and G. H. Glasscock, Boyle County farmers, tried chemical sterilization of tobacco beds with results so good that they treated all their plant-beds for the 1941 crop. Twenty or more farmers expect to try the plan next year.

Boone County business men are encouraging club members in their poultry program by furnishing chicks without cash outlay on receipt. On July 1 members are to return the cash value of fifty lbs. of broilers for each 100 chicks received. All breeds are being offered in this service.

February 25 Marks Twenty-Second Yr. Of Gasoline Taxes

"Collection Responsible For Pulling Ky. Out Of Mud," Kennard States

There's a circle around the date of February 25 on the calendars of every gasoline filling station in Rowan County, according to N. E. Kennard, Chairman of the Rowan County Petroleum Industries Committee. That day was the 22nd anniversary of the American gasoline tax, which was born in the Oregon legislature in 1919. Since then all the states, and the Federal government as well, have adopted gasoline taxes.

"Motorists of Rowan County have contributed their full share of the $167,908.000 in gasoline taxes which have been collected in Kentucky to date by the state and federal governments," said Mr. Kennard. "These gasoline taxes have been chiefly responsible for pulling this state out of the mud, and motorists with pride joined with petroleum men in paying homage to the gasoline tax on its 22nd birthday."

"A total of more than $10,000,000 in gasoline taxes have been collected in the United States in the past twenty-two years. In 1941 these taxes, because of the present high rates, will aggregate $1,250,000,000. "That," said Mr. Kennard, "is more than what everybody in the entire country paid in all kinds of taxes in the horse and buggy days."

"Because approximately half of the car owners have incomes of less than $30.00 a week, according to studies of the federal government, it is important that the burden of federal and state taxation on gasoline should be kept at as reasonable level as possible. With both the federal and the state governments taxing gasoline, the burden has been pushed up to where it adds 40 to 60 percent to the retail price. That is a heavy load upon the millions of motorists in the United States having limited incomes, and limited ability to pay high taxes."

Court Orders Wage-Hour Records Kept By All Employers

Constitutionality Of Fair Labor Standards Act Is Upheld

The Supreme Court of the U. S. has specifically upheld the requirement that wage and hour records must be kept in accordance with the regulations of the Wage and Hour Division, William M. Eaves, Regional director for the Division in Tennessee and Kentucky, pointed out today at the regional headquarters in Nashville.

"This was one of the issues in the Derby Lumber case in which the constitutionality of the Fair Labor Standards Act was upheld," Mr. Eaves said after seeing a copy of the Court's full opinion. "It is specifically dealt with in the following language in the Court's opinion:

"Validity of the requirement of records of wages and hours. These requirements are incidental to those for the prescribed wages and hours, and hence validity of the former turns on the validity of the latter. Since, as we have held, Congress may require production to these conditions, it may require the employer, as a means of enforcing the valid law, to keep a record showing whether in fact he has complied with it. The requirement for records even of the interstate transaction is an appropriate means to a legitimate end."

The present regulations, Mr. Eaves pointed out, merely require that records be kept showing the following information about each covered employee: Name in full, home address, date of birth if under 19, hours worked each workday and each workweek, deductions from pay, total wages paid each workweek and date of payment. If more than forty hours are worked, the record must show the regular hourly rate of pay, on which wages are paid, earnings at regular hourly rate and extra earnings for overtime. The statutory minimum wage rate for those engaged in interstate commerce or production of goods for interstate commerce is now thirty cents an hour, although higher minimums have been set by wage orders for certain industries. Overtime begins after forty hours for covered workers.

NATURE

By DR. G. B. PENNEBAKER
Morehead State College

"PROTECTIVE COLORATION"

Many, if not most, animal forms have the same character to some type of protective coloration. This is usually in the nature of a secretively obliterated coloration. In our last article we cited a number of illustrations. There are some forms, however, that protect themselves with what is termed "warning" coloration. Many of the bees and wasps and some of the gay colors in the face of potential enemies as if to say, "Just try catching me and see how you like it!" The enemy has learned that certain of these highly colored forms carry a very sharp sting, or that they are quite a tasty meal, and therefore do not molest them.

So successful has been the practice of boldly flying danger signals that according to some naturalists other forms also come to imitate them and thus are also protected. The "Mimic" naturalist seems to be quite distasteful to birds. It is closely mimicked by the crow, a perfectly edible form. Like the Mimic, it has bright brownish in color and has black markings with white dots. Nearly all the species easily related to the Mimic are eaten by birds, but since it resembles the distasteful Mimic, it is thus protected from many would-be enemies among the birds. Some harmless snakes also are said to mimic certain poisonous forms. The "Mimic" snake which is a non-poisonous species is said to mimic the coral snake of Florida which is a deadly poisonous form.

It is doubtful whether there is any such thing as one form intentionally mimicking or becoming like another form, but whether it is intentional or not, if the species live in the same habitat the results are the same and the mimetic form is protected mimetic form.

Local Governments Share Income; Ky. Receives $2790

25 Percent Of Receipts Of Timber Sales Used For Schools And Roads

Twenty-five percent of the receipts from Timber Sales, land rentals, etc., on the Cumberland National Forest is returned to the State of Kentucky for roads and schools.

This money, which amounted to $2,790,000 in the fiscal year 1940, was distributed among the counties within the National Forest in proportion to the National Forest acreage within each county.

The net acreage of the National Forest is 389,087. Rowan County has 46,398 acres in the Cumberland National Forest; Powell County 11,803; Lee County 5,335; and Estill 4,711.

A check for $2,789.27 was recently given to the State of Kentucky by the Federal Government. This was in lieu of taxes on its national forest holdings. Since no taxes are collected, an arrangement has been set up whereby twenty-five percent of the receipts from national forests are turned over to the various States to be used for roads and schools in the counties in which the forests are located.

Supervisor H. L. Borden of the Cumberland National Forest stated that in addition to the twenty-five percent payments to the State, ten percent of the forest's receipts are allocated for the construction and maintenance of roads and trails. This adds to local employment in two ways, he said. First, since most of the receipts are from the sale of timber, it means that men are employed in that industry; second, men are employed directly by the counties and the national forest on the roads. It necessarily follows that with more and better roads, everyone is benefited.

It should be remembered, said Mr. Borden, that this national forest was created by the purchase of cut-over and burned-over lands under Forest Service Management; fire damage is kept at a minimum, barren areas are planted and young stands permitted to put on growth. In a very few years, a systematic harvesting of the timber crop will boost the annual income many fold. It will support permanent wood-using industries. Their future will be safeguarded by a policy which only allows the removal of a portion of the trees on any area, and, too, the cut will not be permitted to exceed the annual growth.

The prospects of a sustained forest growth and a permanent pay-roll and public income are very pleasant to contemplate. The realization of these aims, it is believed, is a lot nearer than many suspect. It is going to require new industries to manufacture the raw materials produced by Forest Management. Even now, the growth exceeds the annual cut by several million board feet. Right now there are several opportunities for small plants capable of utilizing low grade material. The double benefits of permanent employment and the return for local use of thirty-five percent of the public land income should warrant looking into.

EDUCATION
TASTES IN READING
R. D. JUDD, Ph.D.
MOREHEAD STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE

It has been stated by an eminent authority that "fewer than two people in a hundred read magazines of the type of Harper's, Scribner's, or the Atlantic Monthly." One out of five of the high school graduate tends to let books alone. If his reading tastes have not been properly developed in the grades, there is a great burden placed upon him when he gets to college. The writer holds no belief against the "movies." However, there is some harm done to the reader by the screen. Reading today is essentially a process of extracting meaning from the printed symbols. Words are colorless, soundless except what the reader supplies. The "movies" are making of our youth an ear-minded and eye-minded race of people. This is the easy way to grow intellectually. The good reader must deal with abstract symbols on the printed page which exercise requires one to deal with images, concepts, ideas. One can neither hear an idea, taste, smell or see it, but an idea must be gotten not so much through the sense organs of sound and sight as through one's ability to think on the abstract level. It would seem to the writer that we must add something to our program of reading which will warrant us in expecting a much improved, permanent taste in reading.

Next Week! We shall start a new series of articles on "Agriculture" written by the dean of Kentucky agriculturists, H. C. Haggan. Certainly with spring coming on many of your farmer readers will appreciate timely tips on how to better make a living from the ground.
