O. L. Bozeman, 59, Dies At The Good Samaritan Hospital

Prominent; Well Known Throughout Entire State

Oscar L. Bozeman, a man that few people knew was laid to rest in Lee Cemetery last Monday near his friend known to us as "Lige" Hogge. I think that would have been Mr. Bozeman's wish. He was one of the first fellows I ever met when I came to Morehead. We kept up a friendly and silent friendship through many years. Oftimes when I was away we would correspond with one another. Last Friday we had a letter from him and he told me he was in bad shape. Saturday morning he passed away. We will miss that familiar silent friendship. Lee Stewart wrote the following letter to Father Flanagan, beloved "father" to hundreds of homeless boys who have benefited by his benevolence, at Boy's Town, Nebraska: Dear Father Flanagan: I am a little boy of seven years old and I am sending you my allowance, because I think no boy should be thrown out into the cold and freeze to death or die of hunger and I hope that it will never happen to any boy. With Love, Bobby DeForest

This week Bobby received this reply over Father Flanagan's personal signature: My Dear Bobby: I have received your letter and kind offering of fifteen cents for your great interest in Boy's Town. Oil Men Meet Here; Suggest Am'dment To Ky. Constitution

To Prevent Raids On Road Funds Derived From Gas Taxes

A Good Roads Amendment to the Kentucky Constitution was suggested by Herbert L. Clay, of Louisville, Secretary of the Kentucky Petroleum Industries Committee, speaking at a joint meeting of the Rowan and Elliott Counties at the City Hall in Morehead Thursday night, May 8th. "For many years the Kentucky road fund has been the object of threatened raids, and before any such raids are successful the road fund should be protected by a constitutional amendment," Clay said. "Gasoline taxes and motor vehicle license fees are paid by motorists in the State of Kentucky solely for the purpose of building and maintaining roads, and the continued use of these taxes for road purposes has been the object of threatened raids, and before any such raids are successful the road fund should be protected by a constitutional amendment."

The joint meeting of the Rowan and Elliott County Petroleum Industries Committees, which is now being held in every county in Kentucky for the purpose of safeguarding Kentucky's highway program and the interests of highway users.

The meeting was presided over by N. E. Kennard, Chairman of the Rowan County Committee, who pointed out that seventy-eight percent of Kentucky's 1530 counties depend entirely on motor transportation, a greater percentage than in any other state in the country, and that Kentucky should therefore be particularly interested in promoting and fostering use of the highways.

Ky. Power Co. Sponsors Cooking School, May 16

Miss Bess Harris To Conduct Demonstrations At Caskey Hotel

Homemakers attending the Modern Electric Kitchen School on Friday, May 16, at the Caskey Hotel under the auspices of Kentucky Power and Light Company, will receive expert instruction in modern cooking methods from one thoroughly skilled in the teaching of this fascinating work. By arrangement with the Kentucky Power and Light Co., headquarters for Hotpoint Ranges, the sponsors have secured Miss Bess Harris, nationally prominent home economist to conduct the one day meeting.

Miss Harris knows her subject. Years of institutional training, research work in the experimental kitchens of the Edison General Electric Company, and her work as a member of Hotpoint ranges, with which company she is now associated, and experience in conducting schools throughout the nation, have qualified her as an authority in producing cooking miracles with electricity. A graduate in Home Economics of the Georgia State College for Women, she has directed Electric Cookery classes in many leading Universities and Colleges.

"Women since time immemorial," Miss Harris says, "have accepted cooking as their lot in life. From the simple kettles and ovens, tending, stirring, watching—spending hours each day in their kitchens making the food in preparation on their ranges. Electricity has removed the cloak of drudgery and the veil of obscurity from the kitchen."

uncertainty from cooking. I will show that home economists thru research have pointed the way to the elimination of all such annoyances.

"Electricity can be measured so accurately that it has replaced tools in industrial laboratories for measuring machinery to infinitesimal degrees. Since electric cookery involves the use of electricity for heat, home cooks now are able to regulate cooking heat on their ranges to a degree of accuracy never before known. Accurately controlled, measured heat means attention-free cooking on surfaces and one-step baking—it means carefree assurance for the housewife.

"The modern electric range is provided with a "chef's brain." This watches over the oven, turning it on and off without attention from the homemaker. It keeps temperatures accurate and enables even inexperienced cooks to get good results.

"Electric cookery is comparatively new, yet it is already regarded as one of the most important branches in the study of Home Economics. Thousands of women in all parts of the country daily are turning to electric cook-

29 million!

A record never before approached!

★When the 29,000,000th Ford rolled recently from the assembly line, an all-time record for the industry was set. 29,000,000 units built by the same management and all bearing one name—a name that has become one of the best-known trade-marks in the world!

It is significant that this achievement comes at a time when our country is making a mighty effort to re-arm swiftly. For to further that effort, to help speed it along in any possible way, we have offered the vast facilities of the Rouge Plant and every ounce of our experience.

As you read this, a new $21,000,000 Ford airplane engine plant, started only last fall, is nearly completed. A new magnesium alloy plant, one of the few in the country, is already in production on lightweight airplane engine castings. Work is right now under way on a new $18,000,000 plant for mass production of big bomber assemblies. Orders have been filled for military vehicles of several types, including army reconnaissance cars, staff cars and bomb service trucks.

In the midst of this activity for National Defense, building the 29 millionth Ford car is simply one part of the day's work.

The public has acclaimed the 1941 Ford car as the finest in Ford history. Ford Dealers are enjoying their greatest sales and expecting their best year since 1937.

It is good to be producing the things America needs, and to be setting records on the way!

District Ranger Reports 6 Arrests In Powell County

Defendants Get Suspended Sentence For First Offense

District Ranger, Karl M. Stoller announced today the arrest and conviction of six Powell County residents for violation of Section 1255-1 of the Kentucky State Fire Law.

This statute provides that anyone building a fire and allowing it to escape his control is guilty of a misdemeanor, the penalty being a fine of $10 to $100, or up to 90 days in jail, or both, in the discretion of the Court.

Willie Wilburn of Pilot, Kentucky, on April 14 was burning a fine of $10 to $100, or up to 90 days in jail, or both, in the discretion of the Court.

On the same day Dick Hatton of Bowen let out a fire from brush piles which burned thirty acres and cost $44.70 to suppress.

The next day Everett Ledford of Slade let out a fire which ran over twenty-five acres of Kentucky's woodlands and cost the Government $86.70 to suppress.

On the 16th Ishmael Wilburn of Bowen was burning debris and the fire escaped to the woods and burned ten acres. This fire was extinguished at a cost of $35.00.

"Uncle" Ira Proffitt of Bowen, one of Powell County's well-known and respected old residents allowed a brush fire to escape his control. He fought the fire but it was necessary for the Forest Service to come to the rescue. This fire of two acres burned mostly on Mr. Proffitt's land and partly on the Government property at High Rock tower. It cost the Government $40 to suppress this fire, and although the failure of Mr. Proffitt to control it was a technical violation of the law, the case was probated due to the circumstances surrounding this case. This fire occurred on March 31.

Another elderly resident, Mr. Tom Dunn of Slade was burning off a field last Tuesday, April 29. It escaped the control of Mr. Dunn and two boys who were helping, and burned nine acres of woodland. This cost the Forest Service $18 to extinguish.

At the hearing Judge Bowen pointed out that the State Law makes it a misdemeanor to fail to control a fire, and that although the Government was forced to spend enough money in suppressing these fires to build many yards of good Powell County roads, he might suspend the fines in these cases since they were first offense

The Kentucky Division of Game and Fish issues the following "do's and don'ts" for fishermen to follow during the present fishing season for the betterment of sportsmanship and protection of the fish life:

1. DO wet your hands carefully before handling underized fish that are to be returned to the water. A dry hand will remove a protective covering of lubricant, making the fish susceptible to attacks by bacteria.
2. DO handle underized fish gently and return them to the water carefully, so they will survive uninjured and provide better sport and more food for some other angler—even if it isn't you.
3. DO use barbless hooks whenever you can. Such hooks provide better sport and make it possible to return underized fish to the water with their mouths uninjured.
4. DO observe creel (bag) and size limits.
5. DO watch your footing while wading. Even the best of swimmers are sometimes at a loss when hampered by heavy boots and clothing in swift streams.
6. DO study fishing streams and urge improvements.
7. DO take a militant part in the fight against the pollution of the streams.
8. DO cooperate with your local game and fish club and the state Division of Game and Fish in every way possible to the end that game and fish conditions will be improved.
9. DON'T venture into the woods without first aid kit and a knowledge of first aid in the outdoors.
10. DON'T be careless with fires or cigarettes. More than ninety percent of all forest fires in the United States are man-caused, and, therefore, preventable.

Fledgings Complete Primary Training

Hundreds Of "Flying Schoolars" Now Being Released By Army

Two hundred sixty Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia and Indiana young men hopped into cockpits of Army training planes this week as members of the inaugural class enrolled under the Air Corps new 30,000-pilots-a-year program.

As the May class fledgings, scattered among a dozen midwestern and southern primary schools, practiced for initial solo flights, it was announced at Fifth Corps Area headquarters, Fort Hayes, Ohio, that twenty new primary schools would be opened, increasing the total to forty-eight to accommodate the expanded training program, but warned that the second offense would result in a much more severe penalty including the collection of the fines in the instant cases.

Some "Do's" And "Don'ts" For Fishing Outlined By Fish And Game Division

These schools are operated by civilian personnel under Army contract.

Completing their ten-week, primary training, the May class will go on to basic schools. The number of these, too, is being increased to 15, and some of the present fledgings may attend as the inaugural class. This also is true of the advanced schools, being doubled in number to twenty-one where the class will complete training, receive pilots' wings.

To supply new classes of cadets for the Army's expanded program, hundreds of Flying Cadet scholarships are being offered each month to single male American citizens at least twenty years old and not yet twenty-seven who can pass an educational examination covering subjects taught in most high schools.

While training, cadets receive $105.00 monthly, including medical and active flying duty with salaries of $245.00 monthly.

THIS WEEK IN DEFENSE

OPM Associate Director Hillman told his press conference he was drafting plans with the AFL and CIO for a four-shift day week for all defense industries able to use extra labor. Mr. Hillman said the plan provided a shut-down of production only on Sundays from 7:00 a. m. to 3:00 p. m. to repair machines. He recommended that defense industries pay a bonus to workers who voluntarily forego vacations.

The War Department announced that only three one-hundredths of one percent of the total time worked has been lost because of labor troubles on its $1,200,000,000 construction program. Administrator Straus of the U. S. Housing Authority reported "work has not been delayed by a single hour by a single strike on any defense housing built by USHA."

President Roosevelt, directing "whatever action is needed to speed the production of heavy bombers, said in a letter to War Secretary Stimson that command of the air by the democracies might be achieved even if it means "a great strain on our production effort." The President, requesting the Department of Agriculture to establish an Office of Agricultural Defense Relations, wrote Secretary Wickard that "the most vital operating functions of agriculture in the defense program are, first, the guarantee of an adequate supply of food for this nation and those whose defense is essential to the defense of this country; second, the provision of sufficient agricultural raw materials for expanded defense production." Cabinet Officers Speak

Secretary of War Stimson said in a radio speech that American freedom will not be saved "unless we are ready to sacrifice, and if need be, die... It is within our power to turn the tide of darkness" by using the Navy to "secure the seas for the delivery of our munitions to Great Britain... and... hold in check the forward rush of the tide of Nazism until the other defense forces of all the democracies are completed."

Mr. Stimson said "at least a year will pass before we can have an army and an air force adequate to meet the air and ground forces which could be brought against us if the control of the seas passes into Axis hands... If we should allow the present strategic moment to pass until the power of the British Navy is gone, our Navy would become merely a secondary weapon instead of the decisive and winning power."

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard said at Charlotte, N. C., "I see no course for the U. S. that gives any real promise of keeping us from becoming deeply involved in this world conflict. Any course we take involves risks."

The U. S. has two choices, he said: either to support England or to let Hitler take England and "prepare for the richest conquest of all—the U. S." He said "we had better take risks on getting aid to England than to risk bombing raids and tanks attacks on our own friends."

Production Effort
Production Director John D. Biggers, speaking in Philadelphia, said defense contractors must apply "every known technique, every practical pressure for speeding production." Defense Purchases Director Donald M. Nelson, speaking in Washington, said "we have got to begin to realize once and for all that we are in a real life-or-death emergency—not just a make-believe one."

OPM Director Knudsen, in a letter to all machine tool builders said, "Let's forget everything except the welfare of the country."

Production Progress
Speaking in Detroit, Mr. Glanville, Chief of Ordnance Research, said the military plane program is on schedule with "our combat surpassed by none," the naval program is "generally ahead of schedule," and many army and navy air fields and bases are "well ahead of schedule." OPM reported 1,427 military planes manufactured in April—a new record.

Major General Wesson, Army Chief of Ordnance, speaking in Rochester, N. Y., reported U. S. armament to be of latest type and "thoroughly effective." He said we are "on the threshold of mass production."

erosion that takes place on the barren slopes? What prosperity is found in their burning? There are important questions since the federal and state agencies are spending so much time and money correcting these problems in this area. The tragical thing about our former timber supply is that cut timber is largely gone but many the workers are still here. New generations are coming on with little opportunities in producing incomes from land that is not suited to anything else but the growing of timber. At this season of the year one finds in many county newspapers lists of property that cannot or have not paid their taxes. Look over these lists and match them with those of fires not only of this year but of previous years. It becomes an economic problem in many counties but there is a remedy—keep fire out.

While the land is producing timber it can also produce wildlife, that could bring in an economic return if properly handled. Other states attract hunters and fishermen in large numbers and to such an extent that the income is rated from $100,000,000 up to $500,000,000 depending on land and location. Kentucky has the land or cover for hunting and the streams for fishing. All we need is protection of forests and of wildlife in the field.

We have no right to ask the government to continue the CCC camps if we continue to set fire to the woods nor to ask the state to furnish us with fish and game for out streams and fields if we continue to destroy them in and out of season by unlawful means.

Our hillside could be made beautiful, more so than they now are, if each citizen of eastern Kentucky would do his part. In the spring many go to the woods and attempt to remove dogwood and other flowering plants with no thought of how those plants should be removed or transplanted. Wild flowers are dug by the thousands by diggers that do not understand their transplanting.

A few weeks after this wholesale digging one finds thousands of plants that did not survive their removal. They failed to notice that these plants grow under a certain environment such as soil or full or partial shade, whether they must be removed with a ball of earth about their roots and those plants are dug by nurseries. Leave the plants in their natural habitat unless you know how to handle them. Keep the fires out of the woods and these plants will not be killed by the thousands. Seed more cover for the wildlife rather than destroying it by fire. When this is done eastern Kentucky too can be made a tourist haven and millions of dollars added to the incomes of our citizens.

BOOK NOTES

Assistant Librarian, MSTC

NEW SOCIAL SCIENCE BOOKS ACQUIRED BY OUR COLLEGE LIBRARY RECENTLY

Today we are going to discuss some worthwhile books in the Social Science, that have been recently acquired by our college library. They are as follows:

1. Lerner, Max (Ideas A re Weapons.) Viking Press, $3.50

This history and uses of ideas is discussed in this interesting book. Written with a full realization of the problems of the present and with a full knowledge of the heritage from the past, (Ideas Are Weapons) makes explicit and useful the hitherto undefined ideological background against which modern men and women are working out their destinies. The book contains incisive sketches of men, both American and European, who have created and shaped the modern world of ideas.

2. Rider, Paul R. (An Introduction To Modern Statistical Methods.) Wiley Publishing Company, $2.75.

The introduction to Modern Statistical Methods is a discussion and explanation of the most widely used statistical methods developed by R. A. Fisher. Their application is illustrated by comparatively simple numerical examples. Fundamental classical concepts are developed and an insight is given into the more modern methods.

3. Bemis, Samuel Flagg (The Diplomatic History of the United States.) Henry Holt Publishing Company, $5.00.

Professor Bemis, a winner of the 1926 Pulitzer Award in History and an outstanding student of American diplomacy, has in this book presented the full-bodied story of our diplomatic relations with other countries from our beginnings as a nation. His account is at once brilliant, realistic, and authoritative.

NEW LANGUAGE BOOK AND THE STORY OF PRINTING

Today we are going to discuss one book giving the story of printing and one book on words and their meanings. They are as follows:

1. Huxley, Aldous (Words And Their Meanings.) The Ward Ritchie Press, $1.50.

This is the first publication of a new work by Aldous Huxley in a field in which he has long been interested. It is a consideration on the power of words to mould men's thinking, to canalize their feeling, direct their will and create. Conduct and character are largely determined by the nature of the words we currently use to discuss ourselves and the world around us.

2. McMurtrie, Douglas C. (The Book, The Story of Printing And Bookmaking.) Covici, Friede Publishing Company, $5.00.

This book tells the romantic story of one man's greatest triumphs of ingenuity, craftsmanship and creative genius in the story of printing and bookmaking. Behind the design of the beautiful books that are produced today there is a long tradition of patient, devoted and experimentation by little-known and seldom appreciated craftsmen. Ever since the days when monks lovingly devoted themselves to the arduous task of illuminating sacred texts, mankind has dreamed of the perfect book. Each decade a further advance, but the relentless niddhandthand still in the future. The book will answer any but the most specialized questions on books and their makers. The actual processes of book production are simply described, and the volume closes with a discussion of the principles governing the production of the idea or "golden" book, the quest for which haunted the imagination of all bookmakers down through the ages.

The author would appreciate any comments the readers of these articles might have to make. Just address all communications to 508 College Boulevard, Morehead, Ky.

EDUCATION
CULTURE IN A MACHINE AGE
R. D. UDD, Ph.D.
MOREHEAD STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE

Each age of mankind has been characterized by some point of emphasis. For example, more recently, we are accustomed to speak of certain periods in history as "the steam age," "the gas age," "The cosmic age," "The electric age," "The Seeing Eye age," et cetera. The present generation may be characterized as the "Blitz age." We are living in a new Industrial Revolution in which machines are getting the lion's share of attention.

What happens to a world in which the machine gets the major emphasis? If one may put any credence in the historical reference "history repeats itself," it is this, after every industrial revolution there comes some sort of reformation. Perhaps the trend of events which one may expect after the next peace will be towards social economic and political adjustments, and perhaps a spiritual awakening. That is, man will be able to enjoy life in a richer and more abundant manner. However, during times of national perils and wars men and nations turn their backs on the cultural and spiritual things of life.

Students who go to colleges now-a-days focus their attentions on things of this machine age to the neglect of things cultural. As a result some of the old-time subjects as the fine arts, foreign languages and literature do not get the emphasis that they should. The result is that civilization has outrun itself on the side of science while the possession of the scientific method has been outflanked by the "dogs of war." Man's brain has now contrived more in the field of science and invention than he has the character to turn into good account. Man is about to destroy himself by his inventive genius unless he can somehow build enough character to handle the inventions for the benefit of mankind. We have got to teach subjects which reach areas lower than the brain areas. Somehow we must reach the heart, the seat of the emotions, where men actually live.

As for education, what subjects are better suited for the development of character than music, art, foreign language, and sacred literature? The pendulum will swing eventually to the cultural side of life, but not until peace reigns over the earth. Civilization is yet a great distance from "and you shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

Bird Dogs Must Be Confined May 15 To Aug. 15; State Law

Bird dogs must not be permitted to run at large in Kentucky, either on the premises of the owner or keeper of such dogs or dogs or elsewhere, during the time from the 15th of May to the 15th of August, S. A. Wakefield, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, announced today.

According to the 1940 amendments and additions to the Kentucky Game and Fish laws it is the duty of the owner or keeper of any or all bird dogs to keep them confined from May 15 to August 15. This period of time is the nesting and hatching season for wild birds and especially the Bob White Quail which is a ground-nesting bird. If the bird dogs are permitted to run at large during this period of time, many old birds nests and young quail would be destroyed.

Wakefield stated that if any person is found violating this section of the Game and Fish laws by permitting bird dogs to run at large during the above mentioned period of time they are liable to arrest and upon conviction may be fined not less than $15 nor more than $25 and each day such dog or dogs are permitted to run at large shall constitute a separate offense.

Defense Financing
President Roosevelt asked Congress for a tax bill "which will convince the country that the national defense program... is not going to make the rich richer and the poor poorer." The President asked for legislation "aimed at making the Federal revenue system evasion-proof and so devised that every individual and every corporation will bear its fair share." Treasury Secretary Morgenthau reported defense savings stamps and bonds are selling so fast that the Bureau of Exchange has to work Saturday and Sunday to keep up with demands.

Consumers and Defense
Defense Purchases Director Nelson, speaking in Cincinnati, called on consumers to aid in keeping prices down by refraining from "scarcity buying" and hoarding because of rumors and shortages. He also advised consumers to be suspicious of price increases, to find out if price increases are really necessary, and "exercise your natural right to say 'no' once in a while."

Railroads since 1923 have installed 1,170,423 freight cars and 17,378 locomotives.

If all railway tracks in the United States were extended in a single line, a train traveling at sixty miles per hour would require 292 days to run the entire length.

Twenty-five Class One railroads use electricity as a means of operation over some part of their system.

AMERICA'S FIRST JOB

Preparation for defense is America's first job. Our way of life is the only way for us. We live in a land where a man may still enjoy the security of his own home, and where there is the minimum of prejudice and intolerance.

Communities such as this are the bulwark of defense. Each of us, working at his daily task, will be aiding in defense either directly or indirectly. The Peoples Bank of Morehead is co-operating to the fullest extent. We shall welcome new opportunities to be of service.
