Fire Control A Step Toward A Greater, Stronger America

War Makes England Fire-Conscious: Must We Wait For War?

Almost every night incendiary bombs are dropped on England. Anyone of these bombs might ignite a whole city. Yet the English have kept the fire destruction caused by such bombs down to the minimum. They have done that largely because all citizens feel themselves responsible for fire control.

When I take a walk with all its blazes, I am reminded of the Americans' conscience of our responsibility for our own fire problems. According to the National Board of Fire Underwriters, now celebrating its seventy-fifth anniversary, America is a backward nation as regards fire prevention and fire control.

I have tried to conduct this column as any high-class columnist would conduct a column. I have tried to be fair and un-biased on all my opinions. I have never said anything about anyone in this column that I would not say behind his back. I have tried to be bold and unafraid but last week capped the climax. I have been called more everything but never before have I been called a "stump-jumper" and had photographs to prove it. I am coming out openly and jumping on Herb Christian as a business ponce on a dead market. "Herb," in that picture you have, and where you got it I don't know, but I had been over in the hills for some time still and was coming home when that was taken. I admit I was jumping from one stump to another, but it was not for my own and I had no idea of ever being classed as a "stump-jumper." "Herb," you have defamed my integrity and I demand that justice be done. If it was not too hot to wear gloves I would slap you in the face with the back of my glove if I had a pair and you would let me to choose your weapons. But this is out. However, my honor must be preserved and any Sunday between the hours of eleven and three I will meet you and your whole family with my family on the field of honor at Joe's Place. My weapons will be the same as yours. I will make a cheer from the hillside Moore. Now put up or shut up you, you, bring-hopper. I am sorry that I ever mentioned the fact that you were tight and you would not buy your wife a refrigerator. Dear Edgar Hamm: I will be at the reunion at Morehead on the 22nd. Last year there were more than one thousand Hamm's and kindreds there. That's a lot of Hamm and if they keep on going on and on they will take this country. Allie V. (Hoe) Sorrell is being badly now-beaten by some of the jokers that are running against him. You can hear it talked that he stole a horse and that was the reason he got his nickname. "Hoe," when I asked him he denied it, and said, "I just went into a neighbor's barn and picked up a piece of rope and dug it home. I didn't know there was a 'Hoe' on the end of it!" Cooper Black and I are going to stand by him and if the powers that be bring up the part of our candidates and gets them in court for the charge they are guilty of, we will all be sent to the pen. We have got to have an election; that's what the law says so let's don't

Senate Bill Will Allot Federal Funds For Repair Of U. S. 60; Defense Roads

Barley Wire "Good News" To Highway Commissioners
Donalson
By far the greatest road building program Kentucky has ever experienced is in prospect for the Commissioner of Highways, J. Lyter Donaldson said Tuesday.

Should the bill pass, Kentucky would get a windfall of nearly $3,000,000 as a refund on $3,067,000 spent in 1940 in Kentucky on strategic military projects. The possibilities of seventy-five percent federal participation, in the trunk highways in Kentucky may be measured by what has been set up as the goal. The Army has designated 1,000 miles of trunk highways in Kentucky that ought to be rebuilt to new standards insuring surface strength of 18,000 pounds per axle, and bridge strength of 10,000 pounds minimum. In addition, the military standards call for 2,000 feet of eight-foot wide on south side every four miles or 2,000 feet on one side every two miles. This mileage on U. S. 31-W. U. S. 60 east of Louisville, U. S. 23, U. S. 42, U. S. 51 and U. S. 60 west of Louisville. The first four are designated as first importance, and U. S. 60 west of Louisville as of third importance. More than $7,000,000 is being spent this year on the trunk highways, of which nearly $3,000,000 is being poured into U. S.

Beer Dealers Have Until June 30 To Renew Beer License

Only One-Third Have Applied For Permits To Date

Less than one-third of Kentucky's present 4,565 beer retailers have asked for renewal of their licenses so far, although the permits will expire at midnight June 30. M. C. Porter, state malt beverage administrator and member of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission, warned today that if beer sales could be made after the deadline unless licenses are renewed.

Further, he said, beer distributors and brewers face possible revocation of their own licenses if they sell to retailers whose permits have expired. Porter said that at the close of business yesterday, Porter said only 1,412 beer retailers had asked for renewals. In addition, he said applications for renewals had been received from two of the present seven brewers, three of the seventy-two transmitters and fifty of the one hundred sixty-six distributors. Porter urged all others now holding licenses to seek renewals as soon as possible.

Second-Registration Of 21-Year-Old Men Set For Tuesday, July 1

Proclaiming a second registration of men available for military training in the National Defense, President Roosevelt has designated July 1, 1941, as the date when all eligible men who have become twenty-one years old since October 16, 1940, must register. This registration of an estimated 750,000 eligibles will be conducted solely by local headquarters or in places designated by them. Outside agencies and organizations not included in the Selective Training will have no part in the actual registration.

Acting under the authority of the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, which empowers him to "fix the day or days of registration," the Chief Executive on May 26 announced:

Whereas a second registration under the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940 is required in the interest of National Defense; and whereas Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, acting under and by virtue of the authority vested in him by the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, do proclaim the following:

New Registration Day Set For July 1st, Says Local Board

The Local Draft Board issued an official announcement this morning that all men in Rowan County who have become twenty-one years of age prior to July 1, 1941, and have reached that age since the first Selective Service Registration held October 16, 1940, must present themselves before the Local Draft Board on the second floor of the Rowan County Courthouse, July 1, for registration in accordance with the Proclamation of the President of the United States.

The personnel of the local draft board will handle the registration on that day, from 7:00 a. m. until 9:00 p. m., at the Draft Board office only. There will be no other places in the County to register.

The Draft Board urgently requests that all men who are unable to report because of illness to notify the local board at once and the Board will arrange to have a representative come to their homes to take the registration data.

It is estimated that over one hundred men have become of age in this County, since October 16, 1940, who will be affected by the Second Registration.

Occupational Licenses Expire At Midnight On June 30th

All Occupational Licenses, including those covering retail sales of cigarettes, tobacco, soft drinks, ice cream, restaurants, hotels, pool rooms and theaters, expire at midnight, June 30.

It has been pointed out, for the benefit of those persons concerned, that a penalty will be added immediately after that time, and that they will incur unnecessary expense in renewing their licenses on or before that date.

CORRECTION!

It was erroneously stated in last week's Independent that Magistrates of Rowan County were at one time elected from the County at large. Accurate information led to make this statement (in connection with the news story of A. J. Alderman for Magistrate) which we gladly retract.

Four Reasons Why Japan Expects War With United States

Whether or not this government will use the Navy as an active belligerent in the Battle of the Atlantic is a question that no one but possibly the President can answer. Whatever the eventual decision, there are a number of important obstacles in the way of concentrating our fighting ships in the Atlantic—of which the most important is the strange Empire of Japan.

For many years, the American people have been accustomed to swift changes in the status of U. S. Japanese relations. Both sides have done considerable diplomatic bluffing. Many times alarmists have said that the two nations were heading for the very brink of war. But, so far, nothing much has happened, outside of a few minor incidents which were swiftly settled, such as the sinking of the Panay some years ago.

Now, according to a number of responsible correspondents who know the Japanese character and Japanese conditions, there is a chance that matters will at last move from the talking to the doing part. Here are the principal reasons they use to substantiate that position.

First, Japanese leaders are confident Germany will win the war, and they believe that, therefore, the future of Japan will depend on the future of Hitler's new order. So they are determined to

Turner At Triple-A Conference; Lauds Wickard's Speech

Returns From Conference Held At Charlotte, N. C., Recently

C. B. Turner, of Elliottsford, local AAA committeeman, reports that seven hundred former representatives of the Eastern and the Regional AAA Conference proudly applauded Secretary of Agriculture, Claude R. Wickard when the Secretary in a widely noted address struck out with both fists at Nazism and dictatorship.

Mr. Turner recently returned from the conference which was held May 8-10 in Charlotte, N. C. With him he brought a copy of the Secretary's address, excerpts from which follow:

"Speaking for myself, I would never ask the farmers of this country to go to war for the British if I did not believe we would see that this food gets to the British. I don't believe the people of this country favor half-way measures. Let's do whatever is necessary to see that our food and munitions actually get to England—let's do it right away. The situation is urgent, terribly urgent. Our food and munitions are on one process which must be delivered and delivered in time. The American people face the decision on this matter now. We run risks if we insist upon delivery of our food and munitions to Great Britain, but any course we take involves risks. Half-way measures involve the worst risks. To put it bluntly, we had better take risks on getting aid to Britain than to risk bombing raids on American cities and tank attacks on our oil fields."

"From the outbreak of the Second World War, I have hoped with all my heart that the United States could remain at peace. But to me, it is not a question of whether or not we should take any action to help Britain in speaking of peace. Frankly speaking, I see no course for the United States that gives any real promise of keeping us from becoming deeply involved in this world conflict. To refuse to fight until an attack has been made upon us is no guarantee of peace. If anyone doubts that, let him ask the people of Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Greece and other countries under Nazi domination. It is acknowledged, I think, that Great Britain will go down unless the United States sees that she gets munitions and food. Does anyone believe that the fall of Britain ends the danger of war for the United States?"

"Some British leaders thought that Hitler would listen to reason. After Munich he would settle down. Chamberlain thought that appeasement had guaranteed world peace for his time. Let those people who are talking about war-mongering think back a while. Who attacked Poland? Who intervened in Spain? Who intervened in Austria and Czechoslovakia? Who gobbled up Denmark? Who intervened in Norway? In the light of history, the persons who believe Britain's down-fall would be followed by peace and prosperity need a guardian. They've got no business wandering around loose in this cruel chaotic world."

Once upon a time women and children were reasonably safe behind fighting lines. Now nothing is safe. Cities can be wiped out in a few hours. In the hands of fanatics and outlaws, the machine threatens civilization. Unless we find the time to end war, we might as well prepare for a return to barbarism. Does anyone think that the time to end war is to stand by and let Hitler triumph? Does anyone think that the time to end war is to give the dictator the time to consolidate their gains, utilize their conquered resources and then prepare for the next conquest of all—the United States? The time to end war is by force or combination of powers can conquer the United States provided we stay home and arm ourselves. Have they thought of the fact that, with Britain out of the way, the dictator nations have resources and productive power greater than our own? The fate of nations on the defensive has not been so good lately. Hitler is simply continuing to win if he chooses both the battle ground and the time for the battle. If the American people become convinced that the time is checking Hitler over there, or over here—I know what their choice will be.

"The combined economic power of the United States and Great Britain is almost twice the power of Germany, and the conquered nations. If we enable England to hold our Hitler might as well prepare himself for defeat. In modern wars, the dependence on all sorts of machines and supplies, basic economic power is the final test of might. England and the United States together are an unstable combination. Without England, the balance of the world is checked. Hitler has a desperate struggle against heavy odds."

"In the light of the world situation, we have the choice of abandoning democracy—making it impossible to continue to win. It cannot always play safe. The time for decision grows nearer every day. The farmers and people of this country will soon be asked to decide what further steps are necessary to safeguard the American way of life."

THIS WEEK IN DEFENSE

President Roosevelt, declaring a strike at the North American Alkali plant in Inglewood, California, was impeding the defense program, ordering the Army to operate the plant for workers' relief. The Mediation Board terms for settlement. Two days after taking over, the Army reported "100 percent efficiency" with all employees returning to work. The President said plants which he might have to close down are Federal control will be returned to private management as soon as possible.

The House voted for an amendment to the 1942 Army appropriation bill to prohibit the payment of funds to any individual or company failing within ten days to abide by Mediation Board Recommendations for settlement of disputes. The Senate approved a declaration that strikes or lockouts in defense industries are "contrary to sound public policy."

The Mediation Board announced settlement of three labor disputes including the dispute of the soft coal industry. The United States Conciliation Service announced settlement of thirty-four additional disputes.

Selective Service Headquarters ordered reclassification of all registrants "impeding the defense program." The order said "the citizen who has been deferred because of the job he is performing in the national defense program cannot expect to retain the status of deferment when he ceases to work on the job for which he was deferred."

The Senate approved a bill to defer men who reach their twenty-eighth birthday by July 1 of this year, except those already in the Service.

Foreign Affairs
The Senate Department announced that the American freighter Robin Moor in the south Atlantic by a German submarine. Announcing the rescue of only eleven of forty-six persons forced to abandon the ship, Under Secretary Welles told the press that international law requires precautions must be taken for the safety of passengers and crew before a ship is sunk.

The OPM granted full priority for materials necessary in the building of 289 merchant ships for the United States, Great Britain and the 312 special lease-lend vessels.

OPM Production Director Biggers speaking at Quebec, said "most every ship now building in our rapidly expanding yards is ahead of schedule." The Maritime Commission directed the American Shipbuilding Corporation to build a 6,000-ton ship, formerly used in coastwise trade.

Lease-Lend Aid
President Roosevelt reported to Congress that $73,202,428 of war materials have been transferred to the democracies since enactment of the lease-lend law and $4,377,412,879 has been allocated for aid. The first aid out of the $7,000,000,000 provided by Congress. He said that the Army has started negotiations with foreign governments on the terms and conditions of the aid they receive.

Civilian Defense
Civilian Defense Director LaGuardia stated organization of medical groups, auxiliary police and fire units, sanitation, and first aid squads are the necessary basis for adequate home defense. He said panic is to be avoided under all circumstances and it will be necessary to educate the public to the absolute necessity of obeying instructions.

Mr. LaGuardia said firemen and policemen from forty eastern cities will be trained in combating poison gas and incendiary and high explosive bombs in seventeen, two week courses at Edgewood Arsenal, Md., under the direction of the Army Chemical Warfare Service. Trainees will return home and instruct fellow townsmen.

OPM announced it will soon begin a nation-wide campaign to collect scrap aluminum from civilians. A test drive in Richmond, Virginia, and at Madison, Wisconsin, it was said, produced enough of the metal to build sixteen pursuit planes or two and one-half bombers.

Oil
Defense Petroleum Coordinator Lokes told a press conference that curbs on petroleum production along the Atlantic coast appear inevitable but the degree of restriction would depend on public cooperation in conserving oil and gasoline. He said the American Automobile Association has pledged a campaign to cut down consumption of gasoline by motorists by slower driving, elimination of busy "getaways" in traffic, and proper engine adjustments. He said Bureau of Standards tests showed a car which gets eighteen miles to the gallon at thirty miles per hour will get only 8.6 miles to the gallon at eighty.

Power
The Federal Power Commission reported "many areas of the country are now facing power shortages. Unless orders are placed immediately for large amounts of additional capacity for 1943, serious shortages will develop."

OPM Director General Knudsen announced OPM has formally approved the St. Lawrence Waterway and Power Project "as part of the all-out defense effort." The President allotted $200,000 for construction of a cooperative transmission system to carry power from the Pensacola Dam to fifteen REA cooperatives in Kansas, Arkansas, Missouri, and Oklahoma, to provide for development of zinc deposits for defense.

Coal
The Office of the Bituminous Coal Consignment to carry power for a campaign—endorsed by defense consumer, price and transportation officials—to promote buying and storing of next winter's coal this summer to lighten the load that movement of crops and defense materials will place upon the transport system beginning next fall. The office warned consumers against "panic" buying at high prices and said the supply of bituminous coal is ample for all needs.

Antelope
The prong-horned antelope is not a true antelope. Unlike the true antelope, the pronghorn has branched horns and sheds the horn sheath.

American's harvest of safford varies from the jumbo halibut, taken by hook in the Northern Pacific, to the periwinkle, a little shellfish picked by hand off the rocks of the New England Coast.

First Year Results of the Kentucky Beer Industry's "Clean Up or Close Up" Campaign

One year ago our Committee was organized to cooperate with law enforcement officials in eliminating the small minority of beer retailers permitting unlawful conditions or anti-social practices in their places of business. Continuous activity on the part of our Committee, which included investigation of more than 1,300 retail beer outlets, has resulted in definite progress toward that objective. To date, on our Committee's recommendation to state and local authorities, 18 beer retailers have lost their licenses, 2 others have had their outlets padlocked and 6 have had their licenses suspended because they would not conduct their places of business in accord with public sentiment and with the high standards of Kentucky's $20,000,000 legalized beer industry. As we enter our second year, we renew our pledge to the public and our offer of assistance to law-enforcement officials. We are determined that conditions in retail beer outlets shall be as wholesome as beer itself. By restricting your patronage to reputable beer retailers, YOU can help to preserve the social and economic benefits of beer—a beverage of moderation—which provides 15,000 jobs for Kentuckians and pays State taxes totaling more than $1,000,000 a year.

THINK ON THESE THINGS

By REV. B. H. KAZEE

"Am I my brother's keeper?" This question arose in the beginning of a civilization that had just thrown off the rule of God.

In a world God would have constructed,—one built after the order of his ideal—this would have been the rule of life. And the answer to the question would have been, "Yes, I am my brother's keeper."

But when Adam's first son, Cain, took up the newly-chosen principle of his father, he threw off the responsibility which makes men noble and godly. In other words, he began the practice of a principle which had dominated our living in every civilization since that day. Here man lost the principle of life that makes man live forever, living for others.

The principle on which a wheat grain sustains its generation is that of dying in order to live. It goes into the ground, lets the hardened surface of its life be softened and broken, that the inner life might respond to the call for growth and multiplication of itself. This is the principle which Cain ignored; he thought that to live forever, he must destroy everything which would break the shell of his selfish and self-centered life, anything that would humble his pride, anything that would impose upon his importance. It was this self-centered living which wrote the death sentence upon him; but he did not see that way. He was following the principle of life given to him by his father, Adam, and the one which Adam accepted from Satan.

The Second Adam, Christ Jesus, came along with the God-principle of life: "I am my brother's keeper." It might be applied in this sense: I am master of those only whom I serve. Cain thought: "I am master of those whom I put down." Jesus taught: "I am master of those only whom I lift up." In other words, those whom we serve and make dependent upon us; but those whom we console, whom we drive from us, at least in their hearts. Jesus practiced this principle, and tried to leave it in the hearts of men. Thus, he tried the hearts of men. He tried to restore us to the primitive hardened surface of its life be

The restoration has been a success only insofar as hearts have been willing to bow down to the Christ. Wherever men have rejected Him they have been the exponents of self-centered living. Since the majority of the people have rejected Him, there can be no government on earth in which people live to be their "brother's keeper." Without such living, no democracy will ever be safe.

Sorghum Co-Ops To Go Into Production In Nearby Counties

Organized and Assisted By Department Of Agriculture

Three Eastern Kentucky sorghum cooperatives known as the Johnson County Farmers Cooperative Marketing Association at Paintsville, the Lawrence County Cooperative Growers Association at Blaine, and the Eastern Kentucky Sorghum Growers Association at Sandy Hook, have formed a central agency through which they will blend and sell their sorghum syrup this fall. These cooperatives have just completed their organization and received their charters from the Secretary of State. The blending plant will be located at Sandy Hook, and sorghum from Johnson County and Lawrence County shipped to this location.

This is the first step of the sorghum cooperatives to weld themselves together in a unified program so as to take advantage of mass production prices, lower the cost of processing and thereby bring the sorghum to the consumer in a more acceptable condition. The blending plant at Sandy Hook will be modern, with eight hundred gallon tanks and labor saving equipment for packaging and labeling.

Eastern Kentucky is known for its high quality sorghum and the public will soon have an opportunity to purchase it. The Marketing Division of the Kentucky Department of Agriculture organized these cooperatives and will aid them in the preparation of sale of the sorghum.

Draft Boards To Call Up 750,000 Men In New Registration

Selective service headquarters recently turned twenty-one who register for military duty July 1, would be "integrated" with men already registered for the draft rather than placed at the bottom of the list. The change in plans was decided on because of objections in Congress to an original intention to make the new registrants subject to the draft after those who enrolled last October 18, officials explained. Under this plan none of the new registrants would have been called until all the 16,000,000 men registered last October either had been taken into the Army or deferred.

"Various methods" were said to be under study to sandwich the newest registrants in with the others in a manner which would avoid criticism. Some 750,000 are expected to enroll in the July 1 registration, which is for men who have reached twenty-one since last October. The lottery to determine the order in which registrants will be classified is scheduled tentatively for the last part of July.

Air Corps Flyers To Cover 26,300 Miles In Training Flights

Series Of "Hops" Will Equal Trip Around The World

Two hundred fifty Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia and Indiana youths climbed into cockpits of Army training planes this week on the "first leg" of a thirty-week series of training flights that will take them 26,300 miles—or more than 1,300 miles than the distance

The fledgling flyers, winners of the Fifth Corps Area's Aviation Cadet scholarships for June, reported that week as primary pilot schools throughout the south and midwest. There this week they pilot training began in earnest and some of them were expected to solo by week's end.

During their ten-week stay at primary schools, each student will log some 6,000 miles. After mastering the easy-to-handle primary trainers, the cadets will report to basic schools where each will add seventy hours and 9,100 miles to his record book.

Finally, 11,200 miles of cross-country, night and formation flying in speedy advanced training ships, completely equipped with instruments and resembling the more complicated combat planes, will raise each cadet's total up and over the "around the world" figure. Applications for Army Aviation Cadet scholarships are available at any Army station to single men at least twenty and not yet twenty-seven years old who can pass an educational examination.

The increase of nine-tenths of one ton in the average load per car in 1940, compared with the preceding year, was equivalent to the addition of 26,000 freight cars to the available car supply.

CAN 47 STATES BE WRONG AND ONLY KENTUCKY BE RIGHT?

WHEN the fond mother exclaimed: "They're all out of step but Jim!" she didn't realize that her footed boy was spoiling the whole parade.

... And, so, maybe the 3,000,000 people of Kentucky don't realize that our State's absurdly rigid regulation of the motor truck industry is "gunning up" the parade of national defense. The Kentucky laws limit the gross weight of any freight hauling truck to 18,000 pounds—truck and load combined. This restriction makes our State a serious bottle neck in transportation of vital war materials, both for the defense industries which are springing up throughout the State and to military cantonments such as Fort Knox.

... No other State has a load limit of less than 30,000 pounds gross weight, and the 127,000,000 people of this country who live outside of Kentucky enjoy better service, more business, higher tax revenue from the trucking industry and—last, but not least—a saving on everything they eat, they wear, they use.

Learn the facts; discuss them with your representatives in the Legislature; and with candidates in the coming Primary.

How Not To Finance A Defense Program Just As Important

U. S. Treasury Defense Savings Bonds Only Sure Method

There has been much discussion on how to finance the defense program. Equally important is the subject of how not to finance defenses.

There is a small, uninformed group which still feels that the easy way out is simply for the government to issue more money.

There are others who still believe the government can follow its old policy of forcing more and more Federal securities on the banks.

Facts Delved From Sixteenth Census Of United States

Kentucky, originally a part of Virginia, was admitted to the Union in 1792 as the fifteenth State with boundaries as present.

The total land area of this State is 40,106 square miles. The average number of inhabitants per square mile in 1940 was 70.9.

There are thirteen cities in the Commonwealth which have a population of 10,000 or more.

The railroads worked 32 1/2 days in 1939 to pay their tax bills. Ten years ago tax took the railroads' total receipts for only 25 days!

Perhaps only railroads experimenters had something like that in mind when historians tell us cars equipped with sails for motive power were tried out on two early railroads. No fair peeping at the answers until you've tried! Q: How much more electric light do you get for your money today than you got 10 years ago? A: Lamp bulbs give about twice as much light with the same amount of electricity as they did 10 years ago. And you get, for the same money, about twice as much electricity as you did then. Twice as much electricity for twice-as-good lamps means 4 times as much light for your money! Q: How much per day does the average family using lights, vacuum cleaner, radio, toaster, spend for electricity? A: In most cases the average cost is less than 30 cents a day. Q: What do you say to a husband (or wife) who boasts you got for lasting a 100-watt light bulb burn all night? A: "Don't get excited, dear. Believe it or not, it costs only about a nickel to burn a 100-watt light bulb all night--and maybe it ached a burglar away." Q: Who owns the electric company? A: You do. Every family who has a bank account or a life insurance policy is part owner of some electric company. The money you put in the bank, or pay to an insurance company is invested in various businesses, including electric companies. This makes you one of the millions who have a stake in the electric companies. Q: Is it just short of perfect. Last year, except for a few cases where there were unusual storms, power plants were giving uninterrupted service 99.99/100% of the time. Q: Just how dependable is electric service?  gressed in the role of Doe, the average American, that he's actually beginning to look like Doe.
 The change has been both physical and mental. Doe, the man in the picture, has been through some tough times—probably has missed a few meals in his life. Acting Doe, Cooper has lost seven pounds. It hasn't been because he hasn't eaten for he's been sticking to the steaks and chops which the average man likes when he can get them. Doe habitually wears a blue suit. That is the kind Cooper started wearing in the picture. Now he wears it on set and off. Doe in moments of excitement prefaces some remarks with "Look" and Cooper has begun to add "look" to his off the set remarks.

Just a conscientious actor getting inside a role, some say, but others can't tell who is Cooper and which is Doe.
 In all likelihood Gary Cooper will undergo another change of name after his co-starring role with Barbara Stanwyck in Frank Capra's "Meet John Doe" is seen around the country.

Several years after his great success in Capra's "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town" Cooper made a trip to Europe where the producer of his current picture expected to attract considerable attention for the latest Cooper effort.
 But to everyone's surprise and the producer's chagrin, the press and public everywhere hailed Gary of his second Capra picture. It will occasion no surprise to hear the tall silent one tagged as "John Doe."

The swordfish carries his identification mark where any one may see it—a long sharp-edged "sword" nearly half as long as the fish itself.

Chains Accuse FCC Of Advocating U. S. Control Of Radio

Denounce Recent Steps Taken By Commission

Executives of America's two largest broadcasting networks accused the Federal Communications Commission Tuesday of attempting to dominate the radio chains through regulations which would prove "disastrous to the industry."
 The charges were made by Niles Trammell, president of the National Broadcasting Company, Wm. S. Paley, president of the Columbia Broadcasting System, and John J. Burns, C.B.S. general counsel.

They appeared before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee at a hearing on a resolution by Senator White (R., Maine) to postpone enforcement of the F. C. C.'s new regulations pending a Congressional investigation.
 Chairman James L. Fly of the F. C. C. said when the regulations were issued that they were designed to curb "monopolistic practices" of N.B.C. and C.B.S., which he described as opposed to "any and all restrictions" on their operations.

Trammell said the regulations would "disastrously affect the entire broadcasting structure of the Nation" and that they resulted from "unproven charges of domination, control and monopoly" against N.B.C. and C.B.S. One of the regulations directed N.B.C. to dispose of its Blue network.

Trammell said the five F. C. C. members who signed the majority report expected a possible breakdown in the competitive system of broadcasting operated by private enterprise.
 He subscribed to the prediction of the two minority F. C. C. members who foresaw "business anarchy" as a result of the regulations. The F. C. C. majority, he said, was "perfectly willing" to recommend Government-controlled broadcasting monopoly in the future.

Paley charged the F. C. C. "stirring and stirring" N.B.C. and C.B.S. while attempting to "help" the Mutual Broadcasting System, the third national network which has supported the F. C. C. regulations.

Trammell, Paley and Burns agreed there was a need for "clarification" of communications laws respecting broadcasting, and said Congress should "more clearly define" the program of the F. C. C.

The execution disputed the authority of the F. C. C. to declare the existence of a monopoly, maintaining that was an administrative licensing agency and that the courts must determine monopolistic practices.

Marine Surveyors Sought For By U. S. Civil Service

Classed As "Vital To Defense"; Shortage Is Acute

"Vital to national defense" applies to tin, rubber, aluminum and all the other materials the country needs for its protection. Everybody knows about them. But not everyone realizes how vital people with certain types of abilities are to national defense. All over the country the Government is searching for men with them who are training the assembly lines of rearmament cannot move. There are substitutes for materials, but there is no ersatz for skill and knowledge.

Take Marine Surveyors as an example. The United States Civil Service Commission is conducting a national wide hunt for them. Marine Surveyors, to translate the nautical term, are inspectors of ocean-going merchant ships. They check the ships for safety and seaworthiness and sometimes prescribe necessary repairs or maintenance and write up cost estimates for the job.

America's merchant fleet is growing rapidly. But, while ships can be turned out in weeks and months, it takes years to acquire the skill and knowledge that a Marine Surveyor needs. That is why there is a shortage of these surveyors, and the resources of the entire Civil Service Commission are being used to find men to fill the jobs for the Maritime Commission.

The positions start at $3200 a year. They are included under Federal Civil Service. Actual experience as Marine Surveyor or as ship inspector is not the only desired type of experience. A license as an officer on a Great Lakes or seagoing vessel, experience in specialized trades or in ship construction, and college training will all help to qualify.

The United States Civil Service Commission, through its Sixth District office in Cincinnati, Ohio, is accepting applications for the Marine Surveyor position. Applicants are required to qualify for the position of Shipyard Inspector; it is from the register established from this position that Marine Surveyors are appointed.

Mrs. Flora Cooper, Federal Civil Service Secretary at the Post Office, is carrying out the Commission's recruiting program in this area. Information on all Civil Service Examinations, including Marine Surveyor, is obtainable from her, or from the Commission's Sixth District Office in Cincinnati, Ohio.

German Occupation Of Dakar Would Call For U. S. Action

This government, beneath the surface, now regards France as being virtually an Axis ally. There is good reason for that. The rear head of France today is Admiral Darlan; who likes the Germans, hates the English, and has always had a reputation for playing whatever political angle seemed most profitable at the moment. Even Marshal Petain was suspected of anti-democratic sympathies; long ago, and he is so old and so ailing now that he is head of the new French state in name only.

Well-substantiated reports come from Vichy to the effect that France will conclude a permanent peace with Germany, and give to the Reich certain important French possessions. One of those possessions is Dakar, which this government regards as being a definite threat to American security if held by an unfriendly power.
 Best chance of not actively entering the European war, therefore, would be for France to make this transfer. No one believes we would sit quietly by and let the Germans occupy Dakar. And no one believes Hitler could be stopped from doing that without a scrap.

Pepper Makes Fiery Naval Suggestion

A suggestion that the Navy send warships across the Atlantic to combat any Nazi attempt to invade Great Britain came from Senator Pepper (D-Fla.), advocate of more active aid to England.

Pepper said in an interview that powerful fleet units also should be kept near the strategically-important areas of Dakar, West Africa, the Azores and the Cape Verde Islands.

"If Germany undertakes a real blitzkrieg against England nothing except a miracle or the United States Navy can save the British," Pepper declared.

THE GARDEN

(By JOHN S. GARDNER)

The rains that recently fell over all parts of the state should make gardeners take new heart, to make plantings designed to accumulate vegetable supplies for winter next year.

Beans: the plantings double those heretofore, should be started. Two such plantings in June should be made. Stringless Refugee (100-1) is a good prolific variety, but Stringless Greenpod is quite acceptable. Both the Tomatoes: may still be started, using Chalk's Early Jewell, Bonny Best or, in wilt-suspected gardens, Break O'Day. But, "time's wasting."

Beets: for late canning and for storing should be started this month. The early crop will have become tough and woody by fall. Detroit is a good variety.

Summer Greens: New Zealand spinach and Tendergreen (mustard spinach) should be started, but soon. For the former, drop three or four seed at a place, two feet in the row. The harvested parts are the succulent branch-tips. For Tendergreen, the procedure is as for mustard. Both these bear canning splendidly.

Late Potatoes: Green Mountain variety, should go in by June 20. Right now, the land should be "freshened," to assure as good a seedbed as possible.

Roasting Ear plantings should be made now or better plantings of sweet corn, and again in two weeks. If these were double the size needed for the table, an acceptable canning supply would be insured. Stowells Evergreen, Howling Mob and Golden Cross Bantam are all good varieties.

One hundred and five of the one hundred and twenty counties increased in population during the period 1930-1940, fourteen decreased, and one (Grant) remained unchanged.

There are three hundred twenty-three incorporated cities and towns in the Commonwealth. Louisville the largest has a population of 319,077, and Caseyville, the smallest, has sixty-seven inhabitants.

Three of the counties in the State do not have an incorporated city or town within their borders. Martinsburg is the name of the incorporated town commonly called Sandy Hook (the postoffice) in Elliott County.

The incorporated city of Morehead has a population of 1,101, as compared with 825 in 1930. This is an increase of one hundred-seventy percent in the last ten years. Rowan County has a total population of 12,734, as compared with 10,893 in 1930, and 9,467 in 1920. It has a land area of 290 square miles. There are 43.9 inhabitants per square mile. Price Fixing Is Perfectly Legal; Is Sanctioned By Law

OPACS Clarifies Legality of Action Wherever Such Is Necessary

The price-regulating activities of the office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply have been legal and have, in effect, been sanctioned by Congress...

If this country is to be protected from the dangers of price spirals and inflation, action of this kind on an increasing scale is a practical necessity.

Then as now, the defense program began with a Council of National Defense and an Executive Commission.

Through the War Industries Board and later through the Price Fixing Committee, the prices of basic commodities were fixed.

At no time has Congress or the President suggested that the price fixing during 1917 and 1918 by the President and by the agencies designated by him was in any sense unconstitutional.

and fuel was accomplished by executive action without specific authority.

The vast majority were eager to cooperate with the Government and to comply with those price regulations, recognizing that the Government had the authority to do so.

"Steel-Price Fixing. Mr. Summers, Mr. Replogle, and Mr. Leggett, Chief among them, and informally presented their views as to the proper method of the War Industries Board...

"I might add that the steel industry did not vote on the steel prices and the War Industries Board had no occasion to invoke this policy."

A question remains whether, agreeing that the war powers are really also defense powers, the present price fixing is such that the defense powers may validly be exercised.

At no time has Congress or the President suggested that the price fixing during 1917 and 1918 by the President and by the agencies designated by him was in any sense unconstitutional.

price fixing program. When, therefore, Congress enacted section 9 of the Defense Act, in language virtually identical with that of the World War commandeering statute, it was also aware of the authority to do so.

R. Budd Praises Railroad Traffic Management in '41

Speaking before the annual convention of the American Association of Railroad Superintendents June 3 in Chicago, Traffic Commissioner Ralph Budd praised the manner in which the railroad managements have handled the overbookings...

Six years ago I had the privilege of addressing you and my talk then dealt with the importance of the overbookings efficiency of operation, especially in freight service.

"I might add that the steel industry did not vote on the steel prices and the War Industries Board had no occasion to invoke this policy."

Consider for a moment the handling of iron ore from the Minnesota ranges this year and in 1940 and 1941. The present rate of movement is up to June 1 the railroads had brought to Two Harbors, Duluth, and Superior 13,324,245 tons.

We often have looked with longing at the record traffic of 1929 and 1920 and wondered if it ever would come again. Well, it may be on the way.

Castor Beans May Be New Cash Crop On States' Farms

Castor Oil A Vital Product In National Defense Program

Castor bean production may become one of the important contributions of Kentucky agriculture to national defense.

Most of the beans used in making castor oil in this country have been imported from Brazil.

Castor beans are easily grown and should do well all over Kentucky, according to Dr. E. N. Ferguson, in charge of experimental work with them.

The one drawback to growing castor beans has been the fact that they required hand picking...

Plants Useful In Attracting Birds Listed In Booklet

Cover And Food Crops Necessary For All Wildlife

Persons interested in attracting song and insectivorous birds, upland game birds, and other forms of wildlife to their gardens or farms will find a recently issued booklet...

Good nutrition means that every person should have two fruits and two vegetables every day to supplement the meat, bread, potatoes and drier or other foods.

Cook meat slowly, using moderate temperature. Meat is a protein food and, like white of an egg, is toughened by prolonged heating at high temperature.

Work shirts should be large. If a shirt is the right size and fits properly it will wear longer than if it is too small or is skimped in cut so that there is extra strain over the shoulders and at the tons if the sleeves are too tight.

Special hints are directed to farmers who wish to increase the supply of wildlife on their farms.

In addition to the needs of national defense, there is a second reason for interest in castor bean growing in Kentucky; the need of another cash crop, especially in the dark tobacco regions...

Shooting robins, bluebirds, catbirds, wood peckers, and other song and insectivorous birds with BB guns, air rifles, or other weapons is a Federal offense bringing a maximum sentence of $500 in fines, six months in jail, or both, according to information received by S. A. Wakefield, Director of the Division of Game and Fish from the Fish and Wildlife Service, United States Department of the Interior.

With summer vacations under way, youngsters are apt to take out the old BB gun or air rifle to do a little pot shooting at song birds in the neighbor's garden or in the nearby woods, Wakefield said, and parents are urged to warn their children not to shoot at the feathered creatures.

Many of the birds are beneficial because they eat insects that otherwise would be injurious to plants and crops.

Birds may be given credit for being one of the greatest controlling factors in limiting the development of insect pests and in preventing many disastrous outbreaks.

Even Accidental Fires Must Be Investigated And Culprit Punished

Forest Supervisor F. L. Borden, Cumberland National Forest, Winchester, Kentucky, announced today that Charles (Dink) Slaven, who was responsible for a forest fire in McCreary County within the Cumberland National Forest on May 25, plead guilty to the charge before Federal Judge Mac Swintner at Frankfort, Tuesday, June 10. Slaven was given a sixty-day jail term.

Supervisor Borden went on to say that the forest had gone through a severe dry spell and although the local residents had cooperated, which is shown in the reduction of the number of man-caused fires, cases did develop where were set through negligence and the local Forest officers had no other recourse than to prosecute them in Federal or Court cases.

By U. S. estimate, approximately half the 27,300,000 cars registered in the country will carry their owners on summer jaunts averaging 3,800 miles — a greater distance than from the Atlantic to the Pacific. With an average of 3.5 persons per car, this represents some 47,775,000 Americans enroute over the highways.

St. Alban, who lived at the beginning of the fourth century, was the first Christian martyr of England.

St. Alban was the first in that country of whom we have record to lay down his life for Christ's sake. During the persecution of Diocletian, which swept the whole Roman Empire, a Christian priest fled to the house of the soldier Alban, then a pagan.

Alban offered him protection, and as himself converted. When the persecutors arrived, Alban gave himself up in the priest's stead.
