"ONE OF KENTUCKY'S GREATER WEEKLIES"

MOREHEAD, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY MORNING, JULY 3, 1941

NUMBER TWENTY-SEVEN

VOLUME VIII

Not having been whipped last week I will write another column this week. You know some people are actually quite a bit miffed up at the slightest little thing. But as you have many times remarked, I only mention my grievances and do not like to see anything detrimental or slanderous about any person or persons. So far each and every one has taken it good naturedly and have been good sports about the whole thing. My enemies in this county are few and far between and I hope I don't make any. I write this column because I like people and I like to sit down and write them and think of their families and home life. In my peculiar way, sometimes I am mistaken, but at any time I should say the wrong thing at the wrong time I will write through mud up to my eyes to correct it. I never mean I should cause anyone. Anything I say in regards to politics must be regarded as purely a man, whatever you may think of each and everyone running are good people and citizens of this county and you have the right to vote for whom we please. I am not sponsoring any candidate, (only Oscar McGlothlin). I have dropped Harrison, Tom, because he would not stay put. I was going to put him out for Representative in the District of Rowan County. However, when he started telling me that he would carry Kentucky West Virginia, I did not run like a horse on fire at Black River Falls, Maryland, completely sweep Elliott and all the Big Sandy Valley, and I decided if he was elected he might serve as the capital in my number of states. Fact is, none of the candidates suit me. If they would run I would give my support to Herbert Hogan as Judge, Matt W. Sheriff, Robert Q. Stapleton, County Clerk, Clark Lane and John Ferguson, and my personal persuasion to flip coins for any candidate found running around here. I would support the Youngblood grand jury for they leave a stone unturned when it comes to getting a man in a jam. The only thing they overlooked was Jim Clark, a nose bleeder. He should have been indicted and sent to Hot Springs for a month. Nose and all.

The CCC Camp leaves us on July 27. I hate to see it go. They have helped us a lot and have done some fine things for us. I only hope that I have known that has been connected with them and they have not been with the Lieutenant Harrison. However, I liked his wife and son. A man made his final payment on his MAYTAG the other day and when I asked him if he wanted a receipt he says: "Yes, and make it paid in full. I expect to go to Heaven one of these days, and when St. Peter asks me if I paid all my bills I want to show him my receipts, and if the devil looks all over H. for you." I like people like Mitchell Kisting and his wife. They live near Hogfield and like to go out and eat with them sometime, but Mrs. Kisting is like "Mom." She could fix everything. AGAIN, I feel that I was not getting used to eat. I like to make myself at home and not have anyone trying to make me feel like a guest. Howard swiped some apples from Mrs. C. B. Daugherty. That will go into this formal announcement. My wife does not have to go to Lexington. Denny says he has a strong case as the apples give him the belly-ache and if the devil him in Judge White's court he is going to take it to the Court of Appeals. The Merchants Club Association are bringing back Bee's Old Reliable show to Morehead the week of the twenty-ninth of this July. I hope that they will have one of the biggest attractions that has ever been held. I understand that the merchants are sponsoring this show so that they may arise funds to help support BEE'S OLD RELIABLE SHOW. I can think of nothing the money could be do-

Morehead To Have Mammoth 4th Of July Celebration

Patriotism Is Theme Of Entire Day's Activities; Fun And Entertainment

Great strides were taken this week in the preparation of the program of events for Morehead's mammoth Fourth of July Celebration, Friday.

Independence Day this year, more than ever before, drives home the realization of what it means to live in "the land of the free," to be able to worship as one pleases, enjoy freedom of speech, freedom of the press, and free use of the other waves in radio communication and entertainment. Those God-given privileges, the prerogatives of every living human being on earth, are being denied to citizens of countries that occupy nearly two thirds of the surface of the globe.

That is the point that the American Legion, sponsors of this year's Celebration, would like to impress on the minds of the people. That is the theme of the patriotic exercises to be held on Friday evening's program.

There will be no more realistic, sober phase of the day's events, there will amusements galore, the return of our smoking baggagemen, ball fighting, the awards of the Morehead Merchants, made annually at this time, speaking of all the day's old-fashioned American fun.

There will be no fireworks this year. Even if it were possible to obtain the strategically necessary powder and explosives, citizens of this section do not feel that it would be appropriate to celebrate with fireworks on the occasion of the Fourth of July.

You are heartily invited to come to Morehead to take part in this year's Fourth of July Celebration in many years. Bring your lunch and spend the Fourth in Morehead.

Three Week Term Of Circuit Court Adjourns Thursday

Stone, And Kespley Get Two Years Prison Terms

The three week term of the Rowan Circuit Court, which adjourned on Thursday, July 2, 1941, was a greater portion of the cases that faced the Court at this session.

The case of Frank Annin, Gene Holbrook, Dan Fraley and Otto Dillon, all charged with murder in connection with the death of Elliott County, whose body was found on the Christy Creek Road, resulted in acquittal of the quartet by a Jury Friday.

Frank Stone and Howard Kespley, of Carter County, charged with murder in connection with the death of Henry Fanning, Genie Holbrook, Dan Fraley and Otto Dillon, all charged with murder in connection with the death of Elliott County, whose body was found on the Christy Creek Road, resulted in acquittal of the quartet by a Jury Friday.

Two hung juries previous to this term of Court.

Ed Hinton of Fleming County, charged with murder in connection with the death of Fred Hinton, also of Fleming County, was held under $10,000 bond for trial on the October term on account of sickness of defense counsel.

Wm. H. Hays, charged with assault and battery, was fined $25.00 and $10.00.

James L. Brown Announces For Rowan Coroner

James L. Brown makes formal announcement this week of his intention to make a bid for the office of Coroner of Rowan County on the Republican ticket at the primary election, to be held Saturday, August 2, 1941.

Mr. Brown served Rowan County from 1934 to 1938 in the capacity which he now seeks. As a result of this formal announcement appears on another page of this issue and deserves the serious consideration of the voters of Rowan County.

Former Mayor Of Narvik, Norway To Lecture At MSTC

Theodore Broch, former mayor of Narvik, Norway, will lecture in the College Auditorium on Friday evening, July 11, at 7:30 p. m. Mr. Broch will speak on the subject "The Battle of Narvik."

Mr. Broch was mayor of Narvik when that city was taken by the Germans in 1940. He was twice arrested and imprisoned by the Germans, but escaped and made his way across Sweden, Siberia and Japan to the United States.

The public is heartily invited and urged to hear this thrilling story, told by a man who is in full possession of the true facts, for which there is no admission charge. Don't fail to see and hear Mayor Broch.

Draft Call No. 13 Revised; Call No. 14 Released Today

Volunteer Lists Exhausted With Call No. 13; Fourteen Are Drafted

Pending legislation in the Congress this week was responsible for the revision of Draft Call No. 13 of the Local Draft Board No. 146.

The revised call of men who will be inducted into the armed forces of the United States on July 28 is as follows:

Seven volunteers, including Eugene A. Brown, Morehead; Walter King Turner, Vale; Millard Quisenberry, Hamlet; Oscar Lee Quisenberry, Haldeman; Bruce Cassidie, Haldeman; Oscar Davis McArthur, Morehead and Joseph A. Lucie, College student. It is expected that the remaining men to fill out the July 28 quota: John Gilmore Hancock, College student; Alfred H. Hancock, College student; Bert Porter, College student; and Kenneth Robinson, Farmers.

All men over twenty-eight years of age as of July 1, 1941, were given a thirty-day deferment, pending disposition of legislation in Congress dealing with that class of registrants.

Merchant Awards Given To Lucky Customers Saturday

The weekly share of fifty lunch tickets Morehead merchants habitually award to a number of lucky customers each Saturday afternoon was apportioned last Saturday June 29th, in the following proportions, to the following holders of lucky coupons.

Tina Stevens, of Easton, Kentucky, first prize of $15.00. Billy Fraley, of Morehead, second prize of $10.00.

Mass Funeral Held For Five Victims Of Bluestone Fire

Burning Two-Story Dwelling Traps Five Sleeping Victims

Mass funeral services were held Monday June 30, for the five victims of burns and other injuries sustained in the fire which completely destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Gilkerson, Bluestone, on the night of June 27th.

The dead: John Gilkerson, 50; Mrs. Blanche Gilkerson, 44; Ruth Gilkerson, 26, their son, Mary Lou Montz, 2, grandchild of John Gilkerson; and Glenn Wayne Gilkerson, 5, son of Ruth and grandchild of John Gilkerson.

Also in a Lexington hospital, suffering from major burns and cuts about the arms and legs, was Fred Gilkerson, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gilkerson.

The fire, which was reported to have started from a carelessly extinguished cigarette or from a gasoline lantern, which Ruth had just been using in hunting trip home dwelling, trapping the five sleeping victims on the second floor.

The flames immediately snuffed out the lives of the two small grandchildren. The remaining members of the family tried to escape the roaring inferno by leaping from the second story window. In the jump Mrs. Blanche Gilkerson suffered a broken back, to which she succumbed in an ambulance on the way to a Lexington hospital. John and Ruth Gilkerson, father and son, died in the St. Joseph hospital, in Lexington, on Saturday morning. Fred Gilkerson is reported to be recuperating in Lexington.

Redburn was graduated from Breckinridge Training School. He spent three years as a member of the 2nd Club, of Alma Magna Mater, of the band and of the Photography Club.

Ky. State Fair To Be Bigger, Better Than Ever Before

Early Ticket Sales To Start July 28th; Big "Preview" On Sat., Sept. 6th

Fun in generous doses is going to be prescribed for visitors to the 1941 Kentucky State Fair, which opens on Saturday, August 2, at the fairgrounds near the intersection of the State and National Highways. The fair, which is the largest and most elaborate entertainment program ever attempted in the forty-year history of the State Fair, will be held from August 2 to September 6-13, inclusive, opening with a Saturday night preview.

Renfro Valley's famed Barn Dance, with Granny Harter, Aunt Lulu, Cliff and Slim Miller, Judy Dell, the Mountain Rangers, the Crusaders, Lily Mae Ledford and her Coon Creek Girls and the rest of the hill billies and millies that make up the Number One rural radio show have been signed for a full-length personal appearance. They will inaugurate Fair Week at the Saturday night, September 6, preview in the Horse Show Pavilion.

Fun is going to be cheaper at the 1941 Fair under a new ticket plan devised by Manager Jewell. Special looks to the tickets, which total value of as much as $3.00 for the price of $1.00 are to be offered early buyers. Tickets will be available in the afternoon or night of Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday for admission to the outer gate. Horse Show tickets are available in the sale of these tickets is scheduled to begin on July 28.

Compounded in the entertainment program will be greater than ever Horse Show, five afternoon of Grand Circuit harness racing, a new special State-wide enlarged midway and a larger all-around display of livestock, agricultural products, handicraft, horticulture, and the general run of things grown and made in Kentucky.

World famous Clyde Beatty will be a featured attraction with his tigers, lions and cats on the Midway. There, too, will be the new Johnny Johnny Show, top act in the carnival field, and over on the race track will be Jimmy Lynch's Death Dodgers and Colonel Cliff Gately's renowned Flying X-Rodeo and Circus. Free acts already engaged include Hollywood Horse, a humbared billed as the funniest thing on four feet, Paul and Pettit, daring roller skaters and acrobats; The Great Gretanaka, a family of six internationally known aerialists; and Thorton the Great, a sleight-of-hand artist ranking as the logical successor to the late Hermann the Great and Howard Thurston.

Harriet Beatty, charming young wife of the steel-nerved wild animal maestro, is co-featured in their cast of cage shows. At one time Harriet and Clyde appear in the cage with thirty-two lions, tigers and panthers. They work singly in other demonstrations of human mastery over jungle beasts. They then show for the first time in the State, a pair of really funny clowns, Minnie and Mickey, wonders from Chimpnanzee and lovely Jean Evans, queen of all the big top aerialists; Theba and Tenny, baby lions; Rajah, a royal Bengal tiger that roars with a savagery never before heard in circus tent and calms down when Beatty's gun banks to roll a ball at given command. A trio of performing elephants lend additional jungle color to the big show.

Flying "K" Rodeo has a horse, wild steer and buffalo population numbering well over 250 and a full complement of cowboys and cowgirls, many of whom are championship cups and ribbons for their daring feats in the saddle. Buffalo Bill Cody and Tom Mix's impressions would look like amateurs by comparison to the Gatewood thrill show with its bronco busting.

Grand Circuit harness racing has been extended from four to five days and prize values have been increased. Most of the best pacers and trotters in training will be seen in action during the Tuesday through Saturday program. Feature of the meet will be the $3,000 2:14 Governor's Cup on Thursday. The Commissioner's Cup and a two-year-old

DEFENSE BOND Quiz

Q. What is a United States Defense Savings Bond?
A. This Bond is proof that you have loaned money to the United States Government for national defense. Your Bond bears interest at the rate of 2.9 percent a year, if held to maturity (ten years.)

Q. Why should I buy Defense Bonds?
A. Because money talks. To dictators it speaks defiance. To friends of freedom, it says, "Here's my hand!"

NOTE—To purchase Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office or bank, or write for information to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C.

Foster Celebration Plans Completed At Bardstown, Ky.

Completion of plans for the annual Stephen Collins Foster musical festival and patriotic celebration to be held at the Old Kentucky Home State Park here July 4th points to one of the most outstanding events ever staged here. A spectacular parade to the park and program in the natural amphitheatre there will feature bands of Kentucky's university and state colleges, playing in unison for the first time in history.

The festival is being staged to pay fitting tribute to the memory of Foster, the university's first birth and to commemorate the signing of the Declaration of Independence of the United States of America.

Ky. Restrictions On Motor Transportation Cause Serious Delay

Twenty-one thousand five hundred pounds of urgently needed drugs and medical supplies, consigned to the Naval Medical Base at Savannah, Georgia, were delayed more than twenty-four hours in Louisville because of Kentucky truck load limits, it was reported today by the Kentucky vice president of the Huber & Huber Motor Express.

The shipment was made by Eli Lilly & Company, Indianapolis pharmaceutical house. One truck carried it to Louisville, but to comply with the state's limit of 10,000 pounds on a truck plus its load, it had to be transhipped in that city and reloaded on three trucks in Kentucky.

Mr. Perlin asserted that the drug shipment is only one example of delays in defense materials. "We have an average of ten such cases a week," he said, "but the Lilly shipment to the Navy was a particularly flagrant example."

THIS WEEK IN DEFENSE

Civilian Defense Director La Guardia announced plans for a nation-wide Fourth of July celebration, with a radio address by President Roosevelt at 4 p. m. (EST) to be followed by the singing of the national anthem simultaneously throughout the nation.

Commenting on the arrangements, the President said, "it is altogether fitting that we should rededicate ourselves to defend and perpetuate those inalienable rights which found true expression in the immortal Declaration. Those words never had a deeper or more solemn meaning for America than they have in this hour of anxiety and peril."

President Roosevelt told his press conference the United States would give all possible aid to Britain in its fight with Germany, but that no list of Soviet needs had been submitted yet. The Treasury Department announced it had licensed Russia to use $4,000,000 in frozen funds here. Acting Secretary of State Welles announced the Neutrality Act, which prohibits American vessels from combat areas, would not be invoked in connection with the Russian conflict.

Mr. Welles said that while the Communist dictatorship is as intolerable as the Nazi dictatorship, the immediate issue is defense against Hitlerism and the German plan for universal conquest. The State Department ordered Italy to recall all Italian officials and cease all activities in this country except those at the Washington Embassy by July 15 because they "serve no desirable purposes."

The President endorsed the British drive for 15,000 to 20,000 American technicians to aid in air raid detection in England. He also pointed out that American youth can join British or Chinese armed forces if they do not take an oath of allegiance to any country other than the United States.

He held the press conference the possibility of sending rifles to Eire is being considered if the Eire government gives assurances they would be used against Germany in the event of a German attack on Ireland.

The President said the over-all defense production picture is not discouraging although there is a serious lag in munitions production because entire plants have to be built before quantity production begins. He said, however, production of some items already at peak.

The War Department announced

total strength of the Army as 1,441,500 officers and enlisted men, including Regular Army, 505,700; National Guard, 285,800; Selected, 594,000; Reserve Officers, 53,000. Army Chief of Staff Marshall announced that Congress will be asked for funds to add 100,000 more men to the Regular Army to replace those sent to outlying bases. The Army also announced it has recommended to the President that steps be taken to obtain authority to continue the National Guard and Reserve Officers on active duty for more than one year.

Navy Secretary Knox announced the United States flag expansion program is "getting records every day." He also announced revision of enlistment contracts for the Marine Corps Reserve to provide service for the duration of the national emergency, and asked Congress for authority to continue all naval enlistment personnel in service for the duration.

The War Department announced unification of its air activities in a unit known as the "Army Air Forces," consolidating present units in a single command under Major General Arnold, Deputy Chief of Staff for Air. Secretary of War Stimson said the air forces would remain independent within the Department.

The Civil Aeronautics Authority announced a $95,000,000 program to complete work on 250 airports now under way and to construct or improve 149 additional airports. La Guardia announced July 21 as the date when governors, mayors and officials, local defense councils and such organizations as the American Legion, Boy Scouts, women's clubs, labor, farm and religious organizations will cooperate in collecting unneeded aluminum from every home in the land.

Mr. La Guardia estimated that 20,000,000 pounds of aluminum—enough for 2,000 fighter planes—would be collected.

Medical officials of the Army, Navy and Public Health Service, stated that a shortage of nurses is beginning to be apparent and appealed for a larger number of women to seek nursing training.

Price Administrator Henderson announced a $95,000,000 program on new automobiles and, "in all probability," used cars, because certain manufacturers have refused to cooperate in rationing operation by keeping prices at their present level. Mr. Henderson also froze prices of tires, inner tubes and rubber at price levels of June 18 to prevent price skyrocketing in connection with diversion to defense of approximately twenty-five percent of rubber consumption.

The Price Administrator also set maximum prices on pig iron, major raw material used in steel, and asked furniture and household refrigerator manufacturers not to raise prices.

The OPM announced priority action on credit, rubber, zinc and tungsten compounds. Rubber consumption is to be reduced from 817,000 to 600,000 tons a year; 16,000 tons of malleable zinc will be reserved in an emergency pool to meet expected 1941 shortage; and priority control over tungsten has been extended two months past June 30, the original scheduled expiration date.

The United States Housing Authority Administrator Straus issued instructions that wood and stone will replace rubber, cork and strategic metals in the building of U.S.H.A. sub-clearance homes.

President Roosevelt created a Committee on Fair Employment Practice, to investigate complaints of discrimination in defense employment and order all Federal agencies to include in defense contracts a provision obligating the contractor to avoid discrimination.

The President ordered all Federal agency workers have been barred from defense jobs "solely because of race, creed, color, or national origin."

The OPM announced Atlantic shipyards had agreed to a two-year pact eliminating strikes and lockouts and providing periodic adjustment of wages according to living costs.

Lawton Hargis Is Promoted To Ashland Social Security Post

Appointment of Lawton Hargis as manager of the Social Security Board office in Ashland, Kentucky, succeeds Edward S. Brantington, who has been promoted to manager of the federal agency's office in Mansfield.

"These two appointments carry out the policy of the Social Security Board which operates under the federal classification, competitive civil service system, and which provides for the advancement of Board personnel as opportunity is presented," it was said by Robert C. Goldwin, regional director of the Social Security Board. His area includes Ohio, Kentucky and Michigan.

Mr. Hargis received his early education in the public schools of Somerset, Kentucky, in which city he was born. He later attended the University of Akron and in the University of Louisville. After early experience in private industry, he entered the federal government service in 1933 and was with the WPA and the Securities and Exchange Commission before becoming the staff of the Social Security Board in September, 1938.

Before taking up his duties in Hillsville, Mr. Hargis served with the Social Security Board in Washington, in Louisville and in Ashland.

HELPFUL SERMONETTES

By Reverend Donald E. Webb

Faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen. Heb. 11:1. Faith is inevitable in human life. It is as natural for one to repose faith in things and movements as it is for us to breathe. In fact, faith is the breath of the soul; without it man would die spiritually. Faith, however, is not something to be taken as a superstition, but its operation calls for all the thinking and reasoning faculties of the mind of man. Man exercises faith because he is compelled to live as much in the future as he does in the present. With faith he constructs to some extent his future.

In the same statement from the translation by Moffet we have this rendering: "Now faith means that we are confident of what we hope for, convinced of what we do not see." That is exactly what faith is. By it we become confident of what we plan to do in the future and marshal all our resources to work to that end. Thus we get a glimpse of the things that we do not see from a material standpoint but confidently feel we can accomplish. Throughout the centuries the followers of Him who conferred alone have builded great institutions upon faith and as a result we have a better civilization and millions have been made happier by this great faith.

As we strive for this faith let us pray: Almighty God, thou who hast given us the mind to contemplate the future, help us to repose a child-like faith in thee so that we do not see from a material standpoint but confidently feel we can accomplish. Throughout the centuries the followers of Him who conferred alone have builded great institutions upon faith and as a result we have a better civilization and millions have been made happier by this great faith.

Insurance Executive Stresses Need For Fire Prevention

President Bernard M. Culver of the American Fire Insurance and Indemnity Group, in an address to the top executives assembled at the dinner in the Union Club, New York, last night, pointed out that although it has been the custom of the insurance industry to stress fire prevention during the week of October 9th each year, in this time of national emergency, it is imperative that fire prevention be stressed every day and every minute of the day.

"This is vitally necessary from a patriotic viewpoint and the need for conserving our national defense," said Mr. Culver. "It is also of great importance to every manufacturer, merchant and property owner, that they take the utmost care and be constantly on the alert to prevent fire in their plants, stores and their homes because even though their insurance might give them dollars with which to buy their still may be unable to replace that which is destroyed. The inability of a business not engaged in the production of essential war materials to get replacements of machinery or stock, could well result in the destruction of that business. Even the insurance might cover their present property, a destructive fire could still ruin them. The homeowner will find that he will not be able to replace many things destroyed and as well, find it difficult to replace them."

1140 Vacancies In Army Air Corps At Various Air Bases

Openings At Bowman Field In Louisville, At Ft. Wayne And At St. Louis

Reporting current Army recruiting quotas for Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia sixty-three percent filled, Fifth-Corps Area Headquarters, Fort Hayes, Columbus, Ohio, announced today that 1,140 vacancies exist for three-year enlistments with Army Air Corps units.

Largest number of openings are at Bowman Field, Louisville, Kentucky, where 810 men are needed to complete organization of several units. The 43rd and 708th bombardment companies need men to handle plane armament, guns, bombs and bomb release mechanisms. Mechanics, gunners, radio-men, and other specialists are required for the 46th and 49th Light Bombardment Groups while vacancies also exist for men to handle supply shop work and facilities for the twenty-eighth and thirty-seventh Air Base Groups. Airplane mechanics will be recruited and more expensive to rebuild. "I urge you," said Mr. Culver, "as insurance men charged with the responsibility of guarding the public against financial loss from fire and other catastrophes, to consider it your duty to impress this point upon every property owner, so that their increased vigilance will not only cut down our annual fire waste and conserve our resources for important defense production but also conceivably save them from serious financial loss."

be trained for the Mechanic and Reserve detachment at Bowman Field. Recruits also are sought for the 708th and 670th Ordnance Companies at Baer Field, Fort Wayne, Indiana, and to train as mechanics, gunners, and crewmen with the 29th Air Base and 56th Pursuit Groups at Douglas Field, Charlotte, North Carolina. At Jefferson Barracks, St. Louis, Missouri, 428 vacancies are open for the Las Vegas, N. Mexico Recruit Detachment is being built to strength, and enlistees will be sent to air centers in all parts of the country. Vacancies exist also at Jefferson Barracks in the first and second Recruit Detachments whose members will be given a radio course.

bright prospect has been overlooked. After this failure has made good in the world we generally say, "Jim was one of those college surprises." But that does not square accounts.

The writer once knew a young man who went to one of our great engineering universities. This young man failed because of his inability to do the mental abstractions in required mathematics. He left the University without his degree, went out in the world and became a famous construction engineer. About twenty-five years later this same unsatisfactory student was called back to this university to construct a new building on the campus.

Failure in school subjects do not necessarily mean failure in business or life. A certain grade in a subject perhaps means nothing more than an appraisal of one's effort in that subject. The former American Ambassador, Mr. Kennedy, who was sent to King James Court passed in every subject at Harvard except his major subject, business administration. He then went out in the world and succeeded eminently in his major field. As we are accustomed to say in street parlance, the face of his major professor at Harvard must have turned red after such extraordinary achievement. Because of the near-sighted teaching of some college professors many a

He said to me, "Oh, what a kick I'm going to get out of this job, right under the noses of the same crew that branded me with the red-hot iron of failure."

If there is a little moral here that I may be permitted to draw, it runs about as follows: we who teach students should look beyond the borders of our books. Perhaps the strangers within our gates may be "targets unwares" when we are entertaining.

Enough linen was laundered in 1940 by the Pullman Company to have furnished a clean piece to every man, woman and child in the United States.

"Bag Limit" On All Trees A Method Of Conserving Forests

Federal Restrictions Necessary To Preserve This Vital Resource

Americans, fortunately, have seen fit to establish closed seasons and bag limits on game. Such rules are necessary if we are to preserve our wildlife from indiscriminate slaughter and extinction.

Civilized man, in fact, has found that to live in association with his fellow men he must have rules. Thus we have established rules for the protection of life and property, sanitary laws, speed laws on the highways, and other rules of conduct and practice designed to promote the public welfare and safeguard the common interest of all. We recognize their rightness.

But the forests of the nation, except for those in public ownership, are still subject to no rules that will prevent their destructive exploitation. Without restriction, a timberland owner may wholly liquidate or destroy the forest growth on his land, regardless of the fact that what he does may increase the flood danger to homes and towns a hundred or more miles away, or may undermine the economic support of local communities.

It is high time we had a bag limit, so to speak, on trees. For a century and a half, wasteful, destructive exploitation of the Nation's forest resources has gone on unchecked. And although some progressive leaders in the forest industries are now attempting to change their operations from the old cut-out-and-get-out system to a system of sustained yield, by and large destructive forest exploitation still goes on today.

The timberland owners are not entirely to blame. They operated according to the rules, or lack of them, that obtained. They took the risks of a business that grew up in the traditions of transient operation and quick liquidation, and they had to make returns on their investments or go under. It is the public rather than largely to blame for not having long ago established more adequate rules to protect a basic resource.

Three-fourths of the nation's forest land is in private ownership, and these privately owned lands include the most productive and most accessible areas. Regardless of ownership, the public has a big scale in all forest lands; it is essential that they be protected and properly managed to help reduce flood disaster and erosion, to help maintain the navigability of rivers and harbors, and to insure a continuing supply of raw materials necessary for industry and employment and for national defense.

In its last annual report, the United States Forest Service recommended a program that should go a long way toward preventing misuse and abuse of forest lands and insuring the perpetuation of the nation's forest resources. Increased federal aid to private forest land owners is called for, to help them protect and manage their forests for continuous production; but as a contingency of such aid and as a guaranty that the expenditures will not be wasted, the report recommends some system of public regulation of timber cutting that will assure forest lands being left in reasonably productive condition.

The regulatory measures recommended to maintain the permanent productivity of our forest land are not excessive. They include precautions against fire, insects, and disease, and certain requirements in cutting practice that will promote further timber growth on the land. Beyond these requirements in the public interest there need be no restrictions on free private enterprise.

Two bills, introduced by Congressman Walter M. Pierce of Oregon, are now before Congress looking to nationwide regulation of cutting and certain other practices on privately owned forest lands in the United States. These bills (H.R. 2849 and H.R. 2917) propose alternate plans, one following the recommendations of the Forest Service and the Secretary of Agriculture for a joint federal-state regulatory setup, and the other providing for direct federal regulation. Either plan, we believe would be a long step forward in forest conservation. The important thing is that the Congress act promptly and effectively to put a stop to destructive liquidation of the Nation's forest resources—that we have a bag limit on trees.

Voluntary Warden Commissions Expire Monday, June 30th

All voluntary Game Warden Commissions have been revoked in the State of Kentucky effective as of June 30, 1941. S. A. Wakefield, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, stated today.

Wakefield asked every person holding a commission and badge to send same to the Division office here as soon as possible and that any person in possession of commission and badge who tried to use them on July 1 or thereafter in any manner would be impeding an officer of the law and would be liable to arrest for each act. All persons are asked to adhere to this request immediately.

Political Announcements

TO THE DEMOCRATIC VOTERS OF THE NINETY-SIXTH DISTRICT

As announced in these columns several weeks ago, I am formally announcing my platform in seeking the nomination to the office of Representative from the Ninety-Sixth Legislative District, composed of Rowan and Bath Counties. In making this announcement, I feel that it is not necessary to introduce myself to the people of Rowan and Bath Counties. I have lived in this section of Kentucky for practically my entire life. I have served many of you in sickness. I wish only at this time to state the platform on which I seek nomination and election to the office of Representative.

I am asking you to vote and lend your influence to the following platform:

1. If I am nominated and elected, I promise during my term to give to both the State and National Administrations my fullest and heartiest support. I feel that the interests of the people of the state and nation are being served faithfully and well by the present administration and that the best service that I can give to my people is to aid their governments in their efforts to build and save America.

2. I stand for a greater and more efficient Morehead State Teachers College. By that I do not mean to criticize the management or authorities of the College, but merely to offer my assistance in making it even greater and more efficient, so that it will more thoroughly and completely serve the needs of the state and nation.

3. If I am nominated and elected, I propose to give the utmost in service to every man, woman and child in my district, giving special attention to those who are in greatest need of service—the needy blind, aged and the underprivileged children.

4. I propose to support legislation that favors labor. I have long been recognized as a friend of labor. During my previous term as your Representative, I supported all legislation favoring labor and opposed legislation unfavorable. That is my record, and I ask the support of labor on that record.

5. I favor legislation in favor of the farmers, and I pledge my support to all such legislation.

6. The reports from the army camps indicate that the young men of today are in an alarmingly poor physical condition and that more and more attention should be given to building them up physically, particularly at this time. I propose to give full and complete attention to the passage of any legislation that will work toward this end, that Young America be better prepared to protect themselves as well as the nation.

7. I will advocate that the State build a Sanatorium for those suffering with acute pulmonary tuberculosis as a precaution to prevent innocent people from coming in contact with the disease. It has been proven that on an average, nine persons become infected from one case that is allowed to remain in a private home untraced about the care and proper precautions to use. This sanatorium shall be accessible to those suffering from tuberculosis whether they have the money or not. By this we may prevent the development of hundreds of new cases annually.

On this platform I am making the race for your Representative and on this platform I ask your support and influence, which I assure you will be greatly appreciated. Very sincerely yours, DR. H. L. NICKELL support and influence, which I assure you will be greatly appreciated.

Very sincerely yours, DR. H. L. NICKELL

Political Announcement

TO THE REPUBLICAN VOTERS OF ROWAN COUNTY:

I wish to employ this means of formally announcing that I will become a candidate for the office of Coroner, subject to your action at the Republican primary election, Saturday, August 2, 1941.

I was born and reared in Rowan County and have lived here my entire life. I have been a taxpayer in this county since reaching my majority and have always been a staunch supporter of the Republican ticket, working for the betterment of the party and for the county as a whole.

You showed confidence in my ability to discharge the duties of Coroner by nominating and electing me to that office in 1933, for which I should like to again express my sincere appreciation. I discharged the duties of that office faithfully, efficiently and to the best of my ability.

I have been honored recently by many requests from leading Republicans to make the race for Coroner in this election. At their insistence, I have filed my candidacy with the Clerk, and hereby offer you the same efficient and loyal service that I endeavored to render the citizens of Rowan County during my previous term in that office. I respectfully solicit your vote and influence and ask that you consider my past record as a public servant and as a loyal member of the Republican party.

Respectfully submitted, JAMES L. BROWN

3 Rowan Students Enrolled At UK For 1941 Summer Session

When official registration for the first term of the 1941 Summer Session at the University of Kentucky closed Monday, June 23, 1,571 students had enrolled.

Registrations for short courses during the latter half of the term is expected to increase the total enrollment. Grand total last year, included all late short courses, was 2,188, highest in the history of the University summer session.

Among those students registered from Rowan County are Samuel Edward Reynolds, Morehead; Ethel Margaret Penix, Morehead; and Francis Ludolph Vencill, Morehead.

The most pressing need in the national movement to restore the Nation's wildlife resources is an effective means of reaching the owners and users of land to advise them of the relatively simple and inexpensive practices that will restore environment conducive to increased wildlife populations.

Skilled Workers To Be Released From Army For Industry

Shortage In Some Categories Create Necessity For Action

The War Department prompted by the growing tightness of labor supply in certain categories, has set up a formal procedure whereby skilled workers who have already been inducted into the Army can be returned to their jobs.

So far the number of men whose status has been changed is small, and the department is holding on to the figures until the system has been in operation for another month and a more impressive number of returns has been effected.

A similar setup designed for returning reserve officers to industry was inaugurated late last fall. Under it, 3,420 men have had their return to civilian functions approved.

Considering the excessive zeal that was displayed by many local draft boards, a number of soldiers should be on their way back to factories and machine shops once the new system really gets under way.

Under ordinary circumstances, the War Department hopes to be able to act within forty-eight hours after receipt of an application for release of an essential employee. This doesn't by any means guarantee that the man will be back on the job within that time, however. In the first place, the man needed must consent to returning to civilian status (on release he becomes a member of the enlisted reserve, listed as an occupational specialist).

Although classification of men is in the hands of the War Department, the actual date of release has been left to commanding officers in the field. Under instructions from the department, return of reclassified men may be held up pending completion of maneuvers, because of hospitalization or detention in the guardhouse, or for other reasons.

In the absence of complications, however, the release of essential men to industrial service will be effected as rapidly as communication and transportation facilities permit. In several instances to date, the War Department has made use of Army radio to notify commanding officers of the changed status of selectees.

Proposed Gasoline Levy Branded As "Unfair Taxation"

If Congress imposes a special tax on the plows of farmers, it would be no less unsound than heavy taxes on the gasoline used by farmers in their motor vehicles, tractors and agricultural machinery, Herbert L. Clay, Secretary of the Kentucky Petroleum Industries Committee, said today in a statement opposing any increase in the federal gasoline tax. A proposal for a third federal tax on motor fuel is now being considered by the House Ways and Means Committee.

"The Federal gasoline tax is a 'plow tax' in principle. It is a levy upon the important tools of farmers. It is not collected according to the ability to pay, or the amount of money a farmer has. The federal tax on motor fuel is collected largely on the basis of the distance a farmer must tote his crops to market. That is not a sound basis for taxation," said Mr. Clay.

"The federal gasoline tax now costs the average farmer about $11.90 a year. If the levy is increased by one cent per gallon, as proposed, then another $6 or $7 a year will be taken from the pocket of the average farmer.

"If Congress imposed a special $11 tax on the saws, hammers and other important tools used by carpenters, plumbers and factory workers in earning a living, the storm of protest would be deafening. But the federal gasoline tax is a levy on the tools of farmers, most of whom have less cash income than have workers in other fields.

"There are now two federal taxes on gasoline and farmers regard those as enough. The first tax is a temporary levy enacted in 1932. It was supposed to be lifted in a year or two, but it is still being collected. Last year Congress enacted another tax on motor fuel for defense purposes, increasing the burden fifty percent.

"A farmer can say that two federal gasoline taxes are enough, and still be patriotic."

Dr. H. L. Donovan Takes Office As UK President, July 1st

Addresses Alumni At Banquet Last Week, Prior To Inauguration

(Excerpts from an address by Dr. H. L. Donovan, president-elect of the University of Kentucky before the annual Alumni banquet at the University of Kentucky.)

I have accepted this appointment in all humility and with a grateful heart. The responsibilities of this post I also accept. And I here and now, in the presence of these witnesses, consecrate my time, my energy, my ability, and my life to the University of Kentucky.

Our Alma Mater is recognized throughout the nation as a great University. President McVey, President Cooper, and their colleagues are responsible for the position of leadership which it has attained. It shall be my policy to take up where my predecessors have left off and build on the foundations they have so wisely constructed.

A University should give young men and young women an intelligent understanding and appreciation of democracy as a way of life. "We are told in the Holy Writ that a tree is known by its fruit, likewise, a university is known by its alumni. No institution of learning can be greater than its graduates. If a college or university produces great men and women it is a great institution. The University of Kentucky can look with pride on the men and women who have gone forth from its halls.

I say without hesitation that I would rather be president of the University than the president of any other University in the world because it is my university and my state.

I solemnly pledge you here tonight that I shall never let politics or kinship influence me in the administration of the affairs of the University of Kentucky so long as I may serve as your president. In undertaking the duties of my office, I ask your support, the faculty's cooperation, and God's blessing.

Dr. Henry H. Hill Named Dean, U. K.; Post Newly Created

Frank Peterson, Frankfort, Is Named Comptroller By Board Of Trustees

Dr. Henry H. Hill, former superintendent of Lexington Schools, who left that post the newly created post of dean of the University of Kentucky.

The post of dean of the University was created recently by the Board of Trustees as a part of a changed arrangement under which a comptroller, as fiscal administrator, and the dean, as academic administrator, will be the right-hand men of the president.

Dr. Peterson, Frankfort, director of accounts and control in the State finance department, already has been named comptroller. Dr. Hill will assume his duties July 1st.

His family, his wife and one daughter, a University student, had not yet moved to St. Louis.

Dr. Hill received his Ph.D. degree from Columbia University, his A. B. and M.A. degrees from the University of Virginia. He is recognized as one of the outstanding younger educators of the nation.

In Lexington, Dr. Hill was active in many community affairs. He is past president of the Lexington Kiwanis Club, past president of the Lexington Community Chest, past president of the Lexington Safety Council, and past director of the Lexington Boy Scouts board of directors.

Commissioner May Urges Kentuckians To Use Ky. Products

Kentucky farmers are now engaged in a live-at-home program, in order to aid National Defense, but Kentucky consumers can also help National Defense by using Kentucky grown products.

Transportation facilities are crowded, and in the past many Kentucky products have been shipped to the North and East and then returned to Kentucky for sale. This is absolutely an unnecessary expense for both the producer and consumer.

We can help our neighbors and ourselves by eating Kentucky foods.

Commissioner of Agriculture, William H. May, states that the slogan, "Buy Kentucky Products for Kentucky Prosperity" is a good answer to the question.

1st Annual Meeting Of Beer Industry Held In Louisville

Committee Continues Policy Of "Clean Up Or Close-Up"

With its Self-Regulation program launched for a second year, the Kentucky Brewers and Beer Distributors Committee today was continuing its policy to "clean up or close up" law violating beer outlets in the State.

For the past year the Committee has been cooperating with State and local law enforcement agencies to improve conditions surrounding retail sale of beer and as a result of its work, eighteen new outlets in Louisville, one hundred and fifteen were present.

Members of the Committee, prominent Kentuckians, brewers and nationally known leaders in the brewing industry attended the first annual meeting of the Committee in Louisville. One hundred and fifteen were present.

Among public officials and guests present were: Governor Keen Johnson, Commissioner of Revenue H. Clyde Reeves; State Malt Beverage Administrator Judge M. C. Porter; Judge W. C. Farland, who serves on the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Board with Mr. Reeves and Judge Porter; State Attorney General Harry D. France; Joseph D. Scholtz, Mayor of Louisville; Virgil P. Lynch, Louisville Alcoholic Beverage Control Administrator; Judge Richard Priest Dietman, Louisville attorney and former member of the Kentucky Court of Appeals; and Walker Pierce, St. Louis, President Missouri Brewers Association and Beer Distributors Committee.

Frank E. Daugherty, former Attorney General of Kentucky who is State Director of the Committee, reported activities of the Organization during its first year.

"There'll be no let-up in the self-regulation program of the Committee," he said, "to clean up or close up law violating outlets in Kentucky." Pointing out the number of retractions, suspensions and other actions by State and local licensing authorities on recommendation of the Committee, he said:

"The Committee will continue to cooperate with Kentucky licensing agencies, and wherever illegal acts or objectionable practices are reported in retail outlets, we shall bring these matters to the attention of the proper authorities and recommend action."

Judge Porter, principal speaker, commended the Committee for its work to improve conditions in retail outlets stating: "Since June 1st, 1940, the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Board has revoked or suspended sixty-four licenses and this Committee has furnished evidence that resulted in revocation or cancellation of eighteen of that number."

"The Committee," he continued, "is not a law enforcement agency but is endeavoring to improve conditions in Kentucky retail beer outlets through persuasion. The Committee does not come to us with problems unless it is a last resort. This is as it should be. I justly pay tribute to it for the work it has done during the past year. It has materially helped us."

34 Flying Schools Added To Air Corps List; Total Of 95

Thirty-four new flying schools have been added to the Army Air Corps training system under the program to train pilots at the rate of 30,000 a year, it was disclosed today at Fifth Corps Area Headquarters, Fort Hayes, Columbus, Ohio.

Some of the new schools will be located in the Fifth Corps Area, but Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia and Indiana Aviation Cadets of current classes probably will be among first enrollees there, it was revealed. Recent honor graduates from these four states are expected to be assigned to the instruction staffs.

Fifteen of the new schools will be civilian establishments and nineteen will be Army schools, making a total of ninety-five schools in the expanded program. The Air Corps sends its aviation cadets to civilian schools for their first ten weeks of instruction and then gives them twenty weeks of instruction at Army basic and advanced schools before graduating them as commission officers as second lieutenants in the Air Corps Reserve.

Training of enlisted technicians at a rate of 40,000 a year also is now in effect, and the next goal will be a 100,000 - technicians-a-year rate of training. The Air Corps now is training technicians at three Army Schools and fifteen civilian schools. Two more Army schools are being established and two existing schools are being expanded to step up to the 100,000 technician goal.

Aviation Cadet scholarships now are offered single youths at least twenty and not yet twenty-one years old who meet reasonable educational requirements. Application forms are available at all Army Recruiting offices.

Old-time market hunters used "sew" guns that could kill as fifty to one hundred waterfowl with one shot.

There are probably not more than two hundred-fifty Texas Longhorn Cattle in existence. About one hundred-seventy are in the Wichita Mountains Wildlife Refuge in Oklahoma.

Although they spend the greater part of their lives in the sea, salmon-like salmon and shad move into fresh water to spawn.

Careful estimates show that 120,000,000 acres of former waterfowl habitat have been taken from use by agriculture, manufacturing, and other industries.

The driver's seat in all 1941 Pontiac models is readily adjustable to the most comfortable position for any size driver.

"The motorist of today is not rich. The day is passed when automobile ownership could be looked upon as an indication of wealth," said Mr. Grant. "The widespread ownership of automobiles in America, rich and poor alike, is one of the wonders of the age. A recent study by the United States Department of Commerce shows that more than half of the motorists in this country have a weekly income of less than $30.00."

"Official studies also have shown that ten percent of the typical car-owning family's budget, about $150 per year, is spent for the operation of their automobile. Federal, state and local special automotive taxes account for more than one-third of this expenditure, an amount equivalent to about two weeks of the family income. One-third of the cost of keeping the family car, therefore, represents tax payments.

"The great majority of families possess used cars, for studies show that such cars account for two out of every three cars on the road. More than half of the motorists have never owned a new car, and during a ten-year period sales of used cars have outnumbered the sales of new cars two to one. It is primarily for this reason that the value of the average car in operation today approximates only $200, a value only four times as large as the annual automotive tax bill averaged per motor-vehicle.

Kentucky brewers and distributors, T. Howard Kelly, Director of the Foundation's Self-Regulation and Educational programs, also addressed the meeting. He pointed out that the program is gaining enthusiastic support in thirteen other states in which similar organizations are operating.

Members of the Executive Committee were elected at a business session after the speaking program. Brewers-members represented were: C. W. Bortwasser, Colonel Frank Fehr and Karl H. Lang, all of Louisville; R. T. Riney, Evansville, Indiana; Walter C. Granger, Covington, and H. T. Balcom, Jr., Newport.

New Distributor-members elected were: George Koba, Ashland; V. C. Ficklen, Hazard, and L. G. Droppelman, Louisville. Harry Newsb, Corbin; Marvin F. Manley, Owensboro; Dan Crowe, Shelbyville, and Thomas M. Beard, Shelbyville, were selected Distributor-members of the advisory committee.

Colonel Fehr presided at the meeting.

Unemployment Taxes Must Be Paid On Or Before Mon., June 30

Unless they pay their required contributions to the Kentucky unemployment compensation fund for 1940 in full on or before June 30, employers covered by the law will be losers, it is announced by the Kentucky Unemployment Compensation Commission.

Those who paid the State in full for 1940 on or before January 31 last were given credit on their Federal three percent payroll tax for ninety percent, which is 2.70, or the entire sum required by the State.

But some are still in arrears and those who settle on or before June 30 will be given credit for eighty-one percent of the Federal three percent tax instead of the ninety percent allowed up to the end of January. And after June 30 there will be no more credit on account of payments to the State fund for 1940 but the employer will be required to pay at the rate of 3.70 percent, this being the full combined Federal State rates, with extra charges added.

"The automobile is the most universal of modern necessities. Most city families enjoy the advantage of telebuses, electricity and telephones, but the farm families do not. Although running water and electricity may be luxuries to the farmer, the automobile is not. In fact, automobile ownership is distributed more evenly between the cities and farms than is home ownership, which usually is concentrated in one of the very foundations of American life.

Forest Service And DAR Cooperate On Conservation Plan

Operations In Rowan County Described As "Very Successful"

The Daughters of the American Revolution and the Forest Service operated in 1940 in planting seventy acres of young black locust, poplar, and pine trees on row down farm land near Morehead, Kentucky. Harold L. Borden, Forest Supervisor of the Cumberland National Forest, reports that the trees are doing very well, and the plantation gives every appearance of being successful.

A few years ago this land was impoverished by continual cropping and repeated burning which resulted in destructive erosion. These three agencies, bad cultivation, fire, and water, laid waste the top soil and vegetation which nature had used to cover its hillsides.

In the spring of 1940 over 30,000 young trees were planted, with the DAR financing the project. These 80,000 young trees were made the means of a face lifting operation which is in process of turning idle land into productivity.

available local for posts and durable timbers, such as for studding and poplar for clapboards, provided that forest fires can be kept out of the woods. They also state that local loggers will probably be the eventual beneficiaries of the employment furnished by timber management and that much of the timber produced on this Forest goes into local uses.

It will be from forty to sixty years before any sawtimber can be harvested, but in the meantime, cover for game, a steady flow of clear water, short term crops, such as posts, and realization that land is constructively producing are the tangibles, among which the DNR and the Forest Service, a bureau of the Department of Agriculture, can claim.
