DEFENSE BOND Quiz

Q. What happens if I suddenly need the money I put into a Defense Savings Bond?

A. You can cash your bond at any time, after sixty days, for the full amount paid, plus any interest due you.

Q. Do many Bond owners cash their Bonds?

A. No. People want to help arm America against all attacks. In many cases, people are putting every cent they can spare into Defense Bonds and Stamps. Some are doing this by asking employers or banks to withhold part of their salaries in order to buy these Bonds and Stamps for them.

NOTE: To purchase Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office or bank, or write for information to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C.

An Open Letter To Senator Burton K. Wheeler :

The following "guest" editorial was acquired by the "scissors route" that is, we noticed this outstanding piece of journalism in the column, "This Town-That World" in the Floyd County Times, of Prestonsburg, Kentucky.

We thought it more than worthy of re-publication, therefore, we give you, verbatim, Editor Norman Allen's open letter to Senator Burton K. Wheeler:

Dear Senator:

I listened to your radio argument Saturday afternoon against American intervention in the struggle between the dictators and the democracies; heard you inveigh against the President of the United States, the Secretary of War, every prominent American who believes that it is necessary to the future safety of America for us now to prevent the defeat of our only democratic ally on earth; kept the radio going while you had plenty to say against England but, oh, so little against Nazi Germany.

After hearing that speech of yours, I read another, and I want to quote an excerpt or two from it: "Among those men who seem attached to him there are those who hate him; others fear him; some envy him. Your delay and your inaction help bury these important truths. Think for a moment to the state from which you have been brought. This dictator has progressed to the point where you no longer have the free choice between vigilance and inaction. Each day he enlarges his projects for the conquest of the world. He is surrounding you with tricks and traps which you delay and fail to act. How long will it be before a direct menace faces your land? Failure to act in time is the most shameful sin of which men can be guilty."

There, there, Senator! — don't start blaming Roosevelt or Knox or Willkie or Dewey or Thompson for that speech. They didn't utter those words, though there is a striking similarity to them in their arguments.

Those words, Senator, were spoken three hundred years before Christ came to earth. They were spoken by a man named Demosthenes.

When this silver-tongued son of ancient Athens delivered the oration of which these words were a part, Philip of Macedon was enacting the Hitler-role. One by one he was invading and conquering the other democratic city-states of Greece. Meanwhile, as a prelude to the final assault on Athens, he was assuring Athenians that he had no designs on them; he was sending his ancient version of the Fifth Column into the historic seat of culture to disseminate his false doctrine, he was bribing Aeschines and other Athenian leaders to contempt against Demosthenes, to argue against action.

Sparta and Thebes had fallen to Philip when Demosthenes spoke. Olynthus, last of Athens' sister democracies, at that very hour was under attack. The great orator was trying to make the people believe that, after Olynthus—Athens.

But, as you will recall, Senator, if you have read your ancient history, the luxury-loving people of Athens preferred to believe Aeschines and those others who argued against going to war with Philip. "Shall we police the world to make it safe for Democracy?" they asked. And then they pointed to Athens' own domestic problems and its standards of living, the highest in the world of that golden age.

And the people chose to follow Aeschines. Demosthenes was driven out of Athens.

Worst of all, Senator, Philip did exactly what Demosthenes had said he would do while the people of Athens did exactly what the non-interventionists wanted them to do—nothing.

Athens, last of the democracies of the day, fell and liberty was not known again on the earth for centuries.

I am not comparing you, Senator, to those traitors of Athens who handed their country to the dictator. I am merely stating these facts of history, hoping that you may see the strange and tragic parallel between your doctrine and that of those who opposed Demosthenes; the awful similarity between the Athens of three centuries before Christ and the America of almost twenty centuries after Christ.

Verily, Senator, history repeats itself.

Choice Recipes For Canning Peaches

Now is the time to make peach pickles and preserves; says a statement from the home demonstration section of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics. The clingstone varieties, both Red Birds and July Heath, are ripe and on the market. Peaches for pickling, preserving or making a spiced product should be firm and free from blemishes. Peach pickles are more interesting if made from whole peaches, spiced peaches from very small peaches, and preserves from those cut in halves or large pieces.

Recipe for Sweet Peach Pickles
Four cups peaches, four cups sugar, four cups vinegar, one T. whole cloves, four or five one-inch sticks of cinnamon, one small piece of ginger.

Make a syrup of the vinegar and sugar; add the spice and let boil for five minutes. Remove the peaches from the syrup and drop into the hot syrup a few at a time and let cook until the peaches can be pierced with a straw. Remove from the fire, cover and let stand overnight. The next day pack the peaches into sterilized jars. Boil the syrup for about ten minutes, pour over the peaches and seal immediately.

Spiced Peaches
Six pounds peaches, six cups sugar, two cups water, two cups vinegar, two ounces mixed pickling spice (remove peppers). Select small, firm clingstone peaches, peel and drop at once into a syrup made by boiling the sugar and water together and boil for fifteen minutes. Add peaches to spiced syrup and cook for one-half hour, cover and allow to stand overnight. The next morning, drain off the syrup, boil for twenty minutes, then add the peaches and continue cooking for fifteen minutes longer. Again let peaches in the syrup stand several hours or overnight. The next morning boil the peaches in syrup until they are clear and tender. Pack peaches in jars, cover with strained syrup, seal and process twenty minutes at simmering point, 100 degrees Fahrenheit.

Peach Preserves
Two pounds peaches, four cups sugar, two cups hot water. Blanch peaches, remove the skins and slice or cut in quarters. Make a very thick syrup, using four cups of sugar to two cups of water. Cook the peaches in the syrup until they are clear. Remove the peaches from the syrup and boil the syrup five to ten minutes longer. Place peaches in a shallow dish, pour the syrup over them and allow to stand overnight or for several hours. Reheat the syrup to boiling point, and concentrate until it boils at 218 to 224 degrees Fahrenheit, and pour over the peaches. Fill hot sterilized jars, partially process in a water bath (212 degrees Fahrenheit) fifteen to twenty minutes, completely seal and store in a cool, dry place.

A survey shows that Livingston County gardens have increased in Onley County two hundred acres were planted to hybrid corn enough "permanently to establish the crop," it was reported, ed in size by one-third.

THIS WEEK IN DEFENSE

President Roosevelt informed Congress he had ordered a Navy force to Iceland to "forestall any pincer movement by Germany against the Western Hemisphere. He said German occupation of that country would threaten the North American continent, shipping in the North Atlantic, and the flow of munitions to Britain. The President said the Navy had been ordered to take "all necessary steps" to insure safety of communications "in the approaches between Iceland and the United States, as well as on the seas between the United States and all other strategic outposts."

The President later told his press conference that the western Hemisphere is an academic question. He said there are points outside the commonly accepted Hemisphere limits which are of importance to United States defense, and that in occupying Iceland he acted to forestall a hostile move which strategists considered logical or likely.

Selective Service
Selective Service Headquarters announced that twenty-one-year-olds who registered July 1 will be given draft numbers so they will be called in proportion to the number of registrants rather than ahead of or after older men. Order numbers will be determined by national lottery on July 17.

Headquarters advised local boards to defer men who have volunteered for civilian or military duty with Canadian or British forces. The House passed legislation to permit deferment of all men who were twenty-eight on July 1st.

Alien Education
The President allocated $14,000,000 of WPA funds for a program to educate 1,000,000 aliens in the duties and responsibilities of citizenship. More than 11,000 teachers on WPA rolls will conduct classes for aliens who wish to become citizens.

Registered Civilian Organizations
WPA announced that more than 200,000 national, State and local organizations with 80,000,000 members will be catalogued within the next sixty days to determine the parts the organizations and individuals can play in home defense, so the Office of Civilian Defense can find qualified persons for new programs. All non-purely social clubs will be indexed.

Civilian Supply
OPM conservation officials announce that "our purchases, our habits, our daily lives, perhaps even our styles, will be controlled by the requirements of national defense." Some of the changes facing the public, according to OPM. No cork in bottle tops; beverages in bottles rather than cans; silk used in parachutes will make silk stockings more scarce; women will have fewer permanent waves, cosmetics, and facial creams; it will not be patriotic to buy two automobiles; farmers will be chosen from 300 instead of 1,400 types of plows, Chrome copper, aluminum and woods such as mahogany will probably not be available to the furniture industry, and many designs will be eliminated.

Several young men of Morehead and vicinity who successfully met the requirements of the U. S. Army Aviation Cadet Examining Board during its recent sessions here impatiently await the day when they, too, will be instructed in the intricate flying maneuvers as the "chandeliers." Shown here is an Army Aviation Cadet receiving final instructions on chandeliers from an air corps instructor before taking off in his 450 horsepower basic training plane at Randolph Field, Texas.

Buy Coal Now
The Federal Bituminous Coal Consumer's Counsel appealed to the nation to buy coal now so it can be moved from the mines before growing defense production burdens the country's transportation system. There is an ample supply of the coal, the Counsel said, but by September 15 shortages in some places may develop unless coal is stored for the winter before then.

Prices
Price Administrator Henderson announced that price ceilings on rubber tubes and other rubber products will be deferred for several months to allow the industry time to work out price problems voluntarily. He announced, however, that ceiling prices will be placed within a few days on cottonseed oil and certain grades of West coast lumber used by the Government. Mr. Henderson also stated that recent action to check rises in hide prices does not mean the OPACS expect to freeze livestock or meat prices.

Army
The President asked Congress for an additional $4,700,000,000 for the Army most of it for purchase of heavy guns, $400,000,000 for clothing and other equipment, $200,000,000 for the Air Force and $350,000,000 for the Signal Corps and $1,000,000 for horses.

The War Department announced formation of a completely motorized, and heavily armed experimental division, strengthened with tanks, with fifty percent more fire power than a present armored division although with 14,000 instead of 15,550 men. The Department also announced that to bolster anti-tank defenses, anti-tank specialists will be assigned to every Army large unit to work out methods of defeating armored force attacks.

Air
OPM announced that during June 1476 military planes were delivered to the Army, Navy, and Great Britain—142 more than the previous month and a new record. The War Department announced contracts of nearly $200,000,000 for new airplane manufacturing facilities and ordered all Air Corps Reserve Officers except those in civilian positions to active duty by August 1. The Army Air Force established its own Air Staff to form Air Force plans and decide on equipment and other matters without the approval of the General Staff as heretofore.

Navy

for $1,625,000,000 in appropriations and contract authority for the Navy for additional ordnance, yard equipment, planes, and repairs, including $400,000,000 for defense installations on naval and private ships—and mine equipment, armor, etc., but the President emphasized, not for guns to arm merchant ships.

Rear Admiral Robinson, Chief of the Navy's Bureau of Ships, announced the Navy shipbuilding program is proceeding so rapidly that "every single combat ship is ahead of schedule." He said the problem of labor supply has been solved and the rate of expansion is limited chiefly by the ability to obtain materials.

Ships
The President asked Congress for $1,628,000,000 for the United States Maritime Commission, including $98,000,000 in cash for new ships and $1,298,000,000 in contract authorizations.

The United States Maritime Commission announced a saving of more than 500,000 tons of steel in the building of 705 commission-designed ships by construction methods not known in the first World War. The Commission said the great single weight saving measure was the introduction of welding to replace riveting so that entire ships are now built without a single rivet.

Sam Keith of Iarue County threshed 354 bushels of orchard grass seed from twenty acres.

Farmers in Johnson and Clay Counties are planning increases in alfalfa acreages. Calloway County homemakers are learning to make cottage cheese from sweet milk.

A revival of interest in home canning is reported in Fulton County.

Gardens in Grayson County were damaged by dry weather, despite extra cultivation. Little benefit resulted from the use of vitamin B-1 in tobacco growing in Montgomery County.

Mission Study Class
Students and friends of the Methodist Church will meet in the basement of the Church on Monday evening, July 21st, at 8:00 o'clock to begin a two-evening session of their annual Mission Study Class. Potluck dinner will be served at 6:30, and the first class session will begin at seven o'clock. The faculty for the occasion will consist of Mr. Palmer, Dr. J. O. Everhart, Mr. Glenn Lane, Dr. W. H. Vaughan, Dr. Fred Dudley, and Dr. J. D. Falls. A story hour will be conducted for the children during the class sessions. Families are urged to attend these meetings on Monday and Tuesday, July 21 and 22.

Training For School Membership
On Thursday evening, July 24, at seven-thirty, the pastor would like to read a paper before the "Campbell Institute," a section of the conference for Disciples of Christ Ministers. He will be in the pulpit of the Church this Sunday to hold services, and then will be away for three Sundays. Regular Church services will be held during his absence, the first two Sundays being Communion Services and the third Sunday a preaching service by a visiting minister.

St. Alban's Church, Episcopal
Reverend F. C. Lightbourn, S. S. B. Mount Sterling, Sunday, July 20th (Sixth Sunday after Trinity). The offices are open from eight a. m. to four p. m., every day except Saturday, at which time the offices close at twelve o'clock noon.

Debt Adjustment--

The program recently instituted by the Department of Agriculture. The Committee in Rowan County is composed of Charles L. Coffey, County Agent, Carl Wade, Smith-Hughes Agriculture instructor, H. H. Haggan, head of the Agriculture Department of Morehead College, and a number of agricultural leaders of the county.

The questions most frequently asked, and the answers, follow:
Q. What can a farmer do who is worried about his debts?
A. Thousands of farmers are solving debt problems by taking them up with county Farm Debt Adjustment Committees. These Committees are at the service of farmers in every State, without cost.

The job of these Committees is to act as mediators between farmers and their creditors to arrange settlements of excessive debts and to find ways of avoiding foreclosures.
Q. Who serves on debt adjustment committees?
A. The committees are made up of neighbors—farmers, lawyers, and businessmen—who are known for their fairness and good judgment. They men and women who serve on them are residents of the same county in which the farmer's home or property is located.
Q. How do the Committees work?

A. The Committee asks the farmer who is applying for help to list all of his creditors and give a history of his financial difficulties.

After going over the case, the Committee makes suggestions for reducing a farmer's debts.
The Committees have developed several effective ways of adjusting a farmer's debts. In working out these adjustments, each case is considered on its own merits, and the special needs of the farmer and his creditors are taken into account.

Committees have no legal right to force a creditor to accept a plan, but they perform a valuable service in a neighborhood way for the benefit of the farmer and his creditors.
Q. May a creditor apply for aid?
A. Creditors as well as debtors may request the aid of a Committee. Through the efforts of the Committee, a creditor is often able to avoid expenses and losses which would have resulted if he had gone to court. The purpose of the Committees is to help both the creditor and the debtor.

Q. Can groups of farmers obtain debt adjustment?
A. Yes. Many cooperative organizations have been organized to find a solution to their debt difficulties through farm debt adjustments.
Q. Are Committee hearings confidential?
A. Debt adjustment service is carried on in strict confidence to avoid embarrassment to either the debtor or the creditor.
Q. Where can a farmer apply for help?

A. A farmer can apply for help from any committee member in his county or the District Farm Debt Adjustment Supervisor of the Farm Security Administration. The offices are open from eight a. m. to four p. m., every day except Saturday, at which time the offices close at twelve o'clock noon.

Marketing--

of the plans or whether it is some misunderstanding of the part of the grower due to lack of complete, detailed information has been ascertained, the farmer is urged that he who reads this paper that would be interested in cooperative marketing, tell that person about the plans and have him get in touch with the local vocational agriculture teacher. The teacher can give the details or will direct you to the proper authorities.
If enough growers are interested, and can be organized for cooperative marketing, to justify a blending plant in Rowan County, it is obvious that much time and labor can be saved thereby providing much more return for the grower on his product.
Address all inquiries to Carl Wade, vocational agriculture teacher, Morehead, Kentucky, or to Mr. Charles Goff, County Agent, Morehead, or to this paper.

Future Farmers Plan Meeting For July 19th
The Morehead Chapter, Future Farmers of America, plan a summer meeting to be held July 19 in the Morehead High School Building.
All Future Farmers are expected to be in attendance and to bring their "Dads" with them. The program will center around FFA activities for the coming year. Mr. H. C. Haggan, head of the Agriculture Department at Morehead College, will address the group on "Possibilities With Poultry."
Refreshments will be served to the entire group.

Woman's Council To Give Ice Cream Supper
An ice cream supper will be given by the Woman's Council of the Christian Church on Thursday evening, July 17, from five-thirty to eight o'clock.
The home-made ice cream and cake will be served on the church lawn. In case the weather is inclement, the supper will be held in the cool basement of the church. The public is extended a cordial invitation to attend.

the preacher from the rest of the crowd. He was the man with a piece of chicken between each finger. He would take a "bite off the leg" and chase it with a piece of back and wing. When he finally finished you would have that he had washed his face at chicken dinner. If he had any prospects for a wife in the crowd I am sure his wife would want to turn her home into a chicken house for him. Present Vaughn was not feeling well. He just ate a chicken, ten or twelve sandwiches, a quart of slaw, two pieces of each kind of pie, went over to the spring and drank a few salmon cans of that sulphur water and braggled all evening about how he used to farm up in Lawrence County. He must have raised a crop before he ate dinner Sunday. I sure am anxious to see that real wedding at the Bee's Show Monday night. I hear they are going to be married on top of the ferris wheel. That's getting to be the worst. What a married, I was no nervous I would have shaken one of those things down.

OH, GOSH!-- IT'S WONDERFUL!

When you come to Louisville, the one place you don't want to miss is the famous Bluegrass Room at the Brown Hotel.

Here you'll find everything your heart desires for the time of your life. Food of the sort you dream about. Music that simply won't let you sit still! And two really wonderful floor shows nightly!

All this (it's honest, too) for as little as two or three dollars per couple! So make the Bluegrass Room a "must" on your next visit to Louisville!

John Garfield Stars In "Out Of The Fog" At Mills Tonight
John Garfield hasn't got it in him, in real life, to bot with fast and rubber honey anybody who can't keep back.
Thomas Mitchell and John Qualen hate fishing.
Ludwig hates the frills of orchid-champagne-cavair living. Aline MacMahon believes that if you think you're well, you'll stay that well, and she shuns hypochondriacs like a plague.
George Tobias wouldn't admit he wasn't rolling in wealth, even if he didn't have a dime and owed a fortune.
Eddie Albert hates a high-pressure salesman.
So:
In "Out of the Fog," the new MGM picture coming to the Mills Garfield is playing the ice-bled racketeer Goff of the Irwin Shaw stage hit, he bows both Thomas Mitchell and John Qualen around a great deal.
Mitchell and Qualen are the gentle old fellows who love their fishing.
Miss Lupino leaves her true love for the sake of promised champagne-orchid-cavair living. Miss MacMahon is a complaining, self-martyred hypochondriac. Albert plays a boardwalk "pitch" man.
And Tobias is the Sheephead.

COUNTY OF ROWAN STATE OF KENTUCKY

I, C. V. Alfrey, Clerk of the Rowan County Court, certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of the primary election ballots to be furnished to the precincts of Rowan County for the election to be held on the second day of August, 1941.

Given under my hand this sixteenth day of July, 1941.
C. V. Alfrey,
County Court Clerk

There is a common saying current today that one may achieve success in some subjects but somehow he can not pass in his mathematics or French. Some educators think that many children are "born short" in certain school subjects and that teachers should "wink at" deficiencies in these particular fields. This is the easy way out of the difficulty. The writer does not take much stock in this educational philosophy. There is little excuse for an average or above average student making good grades in four subjects and failing in his mathematics or Latin. The nature of intelligence pre-supposes a "q" factor which should shed light of equal intensity in all directions. An illustration may serve to clear the point. Suppose one should place a lighted candle in the center of a dark room. This beam of light will throw its rays with equal intensity into every nook and cranny, unless obstructed by some object. Perhaps some one may counter with the statement that this situation is not comparable for drawing comparisons between a simple candle light and such a complex mechanism as the nervous organism. Maybe the illustration does appear to belabor the point. If the reader will take the time to read carefully Van Doren's Biography of Franklin, he will likely emerge with the concept of the predominance of a "q" factor in intelligence which runs in all directions with equal penetration. Franklin's great intellect seems to have illuminated every phase of mental life to which his curious mind addressed itself. Perhaps it is not conclusive to cite one case to prove a contention, or, as the philosopher puts it, "one swallow does not make a summer, nor does one day." However, there are many examples which may be drawn from the pages of history to support this notion. Recently, one of my students admitted to me that the reason she liked science better than any other subject was because her best teacher in high school was a science teacher. She went further and stated that the subject she disliked most was taught by her poorest teacher. This seems to indicate that success or failure in school subjects is conditioned largely by the environmental side of learning rather than by the nature of intelligence. Any average boy or girl who wants to win his accolades in school subjects can pass with the same degree of success in any or all classes if he has the proper amount of determination. Sometimes he will have to rise above poor teaching, hard subjects and prejudices in order to do this.

BOOK NOTES
(By SITH M. CAIN)
Books On Economics Recently Acquired By Our College Library
Some of the books recently acquired by our college library on the subject of Economics will be discussed in this week's article. They are as follows:
1. Blodgett, Harvey (Making the Best of Your Income.) MacMillan Publishing Company, $1.75.
Many books on personal and family money management are preachments. They seek to convince you that "you ought to" do this or that toward a wiser spending and saving of income. This book shows how to. (Making the Most of Your Income) endeavors to show how one may enjoy more abundant living in the years just ahead, while, at the same time, preparing for a comfortable old age. This book suggests concrete life plans. It offers much needed guidance to parents for teaching money management to children. It explains the why and wherefore of life insurance.
2. Brinzade, Ruth (How To Spend Money) is a veritable mine of information for the consumer.
3. Cragg, Allison. (U n d e r s t a n d i n g Investment.) Dodd, Mead & Company, $2.00.
This book is a practical, non-technical book designed to supply knowledge on investing your money. It answers the innumerable questions that confront the investor, and substitutes understanding and intelligent selection for "tips," "hunches," and "big pressure."

THINK ON THESE THINGS
By REV. B. H. KAZEE
When I hear a man speaking of religion with the so-called "broad-minded" attitude, I know he has read the Bible very little, and has done most of his thinking on his own hook. For the Bible is not a book of generalities; it is very definite about all the important matters of one's religion.
"Broad-mindedness" is the propaganda of Satan. No really great man has been known as "broad-minded." Of course, there is a sense in which one can be broad in his sympathies and still not be "broad-minded." Jesus was broad in His sympathies. No man could come under His observation without appealing to His sympathies. If he came humbly, Jesus longer to pour out His blessing upon him; if he came in rebellion, Jesus was sorry he was so blind and insensible to good.
But one can be broad in sympathy for all men, and yet be definite in his convictions about truth. Jesus loved the rich young ruler; but He asked an awful price of that young man before He would accept him as a disciple. Jesus knew the law of the Kingdom of Heaven and he knew that houses and lands could not last in an eternal Kingdom. Jesus loved Nicodemus, but with the narrowness of a dogmatist He asserted without a doubt:
"Ye must be born again."
He knew the law of the Kingdom of Heaven on this point, and it could not be altered for even the brilliant Nicodemus.
So-called "broad-mindedness" is not a virtue, but a serious fault. It means that one has no convictions; that he will accept anything rather than draw an issue and take a side. Great men have been broad in their sympathies, as, for instance, the great Lincoln; but they have been narrow in their convictions. Can a railroad operator be broad-minded? I have personal knowledge that even the man who walks the rail to inspect the track must be very narrow-minded about every spike. No generalities are allowed there. Can the soldier be broad-minded about his orders? Great punishment is meted out to those who disobey in the slightest degree. Great matters demand accuracy, and conviction. There is no greater realm than that which concerns the destiny of man's soul. Can we be general about these things? Men who are "broad-minded" about religion cannot be "Bible-minded" about it.
Boone County farmers used 1,452,900 pounds of phosphate and 11,000 tons of agricultural limestone January 1 - July 1, 1941.
Utopica club members in LaRue County are keeping tab on a corn demonstration of twenty-five varieties in five series.
Frank Wheeler, Harlan County, sold three hundred fryers a week at top prices and could not supply the demand.

Timely Safety Tips For Water Sports And Vacationists

National Conservation Bureau Outlines Dangerous And Needless Practices

Every thirty minutes this summer some one in America will drown. When autumn's chill winds finally coax water enthusiasts back from beach, river and lake to the warmer and safer pursuits, the nation will count no less than 5,000 dead from drowning, most of it all of them, sacrificed unnecessarily in the name of relief and recreation.

This is the unpleasant but timely words that come from the National Conservation Bureau, accident prevention division of the Association of Game and Sports Executives, whose estimates are based squarely on past records. At least twenty-five percent of the fatalities from drowning this summer, the bureau's safety doctors reluctantly admit, will occur to boys and girls between the ages of thirteen and nineteen, inclusive, and six out of every seven, no doubt, of the male's incurable desire to display his token prowess before the fair sex.

But it need not happen, say the accident prevention specialists. "Safe practices can be followed."

U. S. Soldiers Get Fresh Milk For First Time Since 1916

Army flock at Randolph Field, Texas, are daily milk drinkers.

NEW YORK—U. S. soldiers in the vast army maneuvers now under way will fight their peace-time battles with fresh milk in their daily diet.

More than 350,000 quarts of fresh milk per day will be consumed by the maneuver forces, plus the new trainees in cantonments. Fresh fluid milk has been added to the daily ration to provide America's soldiers with the best possible diet, according to the Milk Industry Foundation.

In addition to fluid milk requirements, over 20 tons of butter, more than 10 tons of cheese and large quantities of other dairy products are consumed daily. This means that more than 1,000,000 quarts of milk from American farmers are required every day for pasteurization and distribution or processing into dairy products for the army.

The milk industry has been in close touch with army requirements to see that soldiers receive fresh milk of the same high quality as that delivered daily to consumers' doorsteps.

This milk distribution required building up the supply system in thinly settled areas where food will be of national scope. Added money and ribbons have been hung up for exhibitors of best pens of three, in the three Hampshire and cross-bred ewes and wethers, best single ewe or wether in the Southdown, Hampshire and cross-bred division and for grand champion ewe and wether. Added up as three prizes for best pens of three, in the three classes and best single lambs in the order named accounts for six prizes and the grand championships rounds out the eight. All entries are to be strictly butcher lambs dropped in 1941. Mr. Jewell explained, adding that the premium catalog now in the hands of the printer will soon be put in the mails for benefit of exhibitors. Full details of the competition will be contained in the book.

This is strictly a fat lamb competition," said Manager Jewell, and it is by no means to be confused with breeding classes in the Sheep department. We are going to have an even bigger and better sheep show than ever before in the history of the exposition and we hope the new ewe and wether classes will enable us to show how important the Kentucky Spring lamb is in the national defense setup. Unless I miss my guess, it's going to be one of the outstanding features of the fortieth annual Fair. True, we're a bit late in getting going on this thing, but I am confident we're on the right track."

A stipulated rule in the competition for these new eight awards makes it obligatory on the part of all exhibitors that the grand champions be sold at public auction on Friday of Fair week on the grounds and the management is looking forward to spirited bidding and new highs for the offering. Hotel men and restaurants already are showing interest in the auction and undoubtedly these prize-winning lambs will be served up with mint sauce and the other necessary "fixin's" later in local and out-of-state eating places.

Fingering back over the pages of his showman Tom Goose, Mr. Jewell was reminded that Mary Hess has a little calf-in-meat too. But, says he, that's another story. He's going to put it over the grapevine pretty soon in a new release on the big Dairy Show.

Lincoln County farmers have ordered 800 pounds of catch seed, to use in the conservation program. Beetles destroyed a large amount of peaches and other fruit in Magoffin County. Several Bath County farmers harvested fifty bushels of barley to the acre.

Twenty Boone County farmers received 9,800 pounds of Tennessee Valley Authority triple superphosphate to use on gardens. The County Farm Bureau, the Franklin Chamber of Commerce and the county agent are cooperating in bringing northwestern ewes into Simpson County.

Park Area Will Be Stocked With Game At Mammoth Cave

Wildlife Restoration Plans Now Underway By Park Officials

Beaver, deer, wild turkeys and ruffed grouse may soon again roam free over the 50,000 acres of Mammoth Cave National Park. It is present plans of officials materializing.

Under the direction of Acting Chief Ranger Fred W. Binnewise, steps are being taken to restock the area with wildlife once native to the region. The Fish and Wildlife Service, another branch of the Department of the Interior, will furnish the park with a nucleus of each species.

From New York State will come four pairs of beaver to be turned loose in ponds or streams. About fifteen Virginia white-tailed deer will be brought from the Kentucky Woodlands game refuge operated by the service at Golden Pond. It is hoped to release about three bucks and 17 does here this fall and they are expected to thrive here, since the park area is almost identical territory to what they have been inhabiting.

The Fish and Wildlife service is also expected to transfer from the same refuge a dozen wild turkeys, a bird which once populated the Mammoth Cave area in great numbers. An effort will also be made this year to restock the area with strong strain of species become available.

Only in the case of beaver will any effort be made to restrain the movements of this wildlife. A control fence may be utilized for beaver at first to prevent them from getting into the Green river before they establish themselves in the park. Permitting immediate entry into the river would likely result in the beavers' disappearance outside of the park area. Otherwise, no fencing or boundary lines to the river would be desirable for water and feeding conditions already have been surveyed and designated for the stocking program.

Bath County Farmer Has Greater Wheat Yield. Wheat on the farm of R. N. Ratliff in Bath County produced thirty-two bushels to the acre. Eight years ago the yearling same land was six bushels. The increased yield, according to County Agent Joe Thompson, came from the use of limestone and superphosphate, the field having received 2-1-2 tons of limestone to the acre and quantities of forty-seven percent Tennessee Valley Authority phosphate.

Fat Lamb Show To Be New Attraction At Ky. State Fair

To Emphasize Importance Of Sheep In National Defense

This is a story about what already has, as if you hadn't already guessed, only it has to do with grown-up little lambs and Mother Goose doesn't enter into the picture. You can gamble on it, too. Robert B. Jewell, Manager of the Kentucky State Fair, which this year will hold the spotlight for eight nights and seven days from the big Saturday night eve, September 6, through Saturday, September 13, has announced eight new classes for Kentucky ewe and wether spring lambs, and while a bit late in inaugurating this addition to the Sheep Division, he has wholehearted support and assurance from practically every State breeder that in time it

43 NYA Youths Of State To Accept Jobs In New Jersey

Forty-three young men from the NYA resident centers in Murray and Richmond left Kentucky Wednesday night for Verona, New Jersey, where they will work in an NYA resident center while seeking jobs in near-by defense industries.

These young men comprise the first contingent of NYA workers from Kentucky to be transferred to an area where there is a shortage of qualified workers for defense industries. This transfer was made possible by a plan worked out by the National Youth Administration in Washington to place rural youth in a position to find jobs and at the same time help relieve labor shortages in areas where defense industries are concentrated. By providing rural youth with work experience in machine shop, metal work, radio, construction, etc., and by making this transfer possible, NYA will help solve two pressing questions. First, how will defense areas facing labor shortages get men? Second, how will men living great distances from defense areas get jobs? NYA will help bring jobs and men together.

Because of a shortage of workers in New Jersey, NYA officials there asked for the Kentucky youths to fill vacancies in plants working on defense orders. The New Jersey officials indicated that the boys will be able to find employment in a near-by propeller factory or in other factories now in need of young men.

For the first few weeks in New Jersey the young men will continue their work experience program in the trade of their choice. They will live and work at the NYA Resident Center just as they do in the centers here in Kentucky. After they have become acclimated to their new surroundings they will seek employment in private industry.

Thirty-four of the youth, those from West Kentucky, came through Louisville Wednesday on their way north. Mr. Robert K. Salyers, State Youth Administrator, met the enthusiastic group at Central Station here and chatted with them during their twenty minutes between trains. "They are fine looking young men," commented Mr. Salyers, "I know they will make good."

UK Farm Experts Suggest Sowing Of Emergency Feed Crop

To help provide stock feed in sections affected by drought, crop men at the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics suggest sowing soybeans, cowpeas, millet and sudan grass.

Soybeans are given first choice as a hay crop, because of their high yield, quality and feeding value. They should be sowed by July 15. Cowpeas also make good hay and are especially valuable for sowing after July 1 on rather poor soil.

Sudan grass is considered the best crop to sow after the middle of July. It is further suggested that farmers in August or early September sow barley, rye or sorghum with crimson clover and winter vetch for fall and winter pasture.

Air Corps Aviation Cadet Quotas For State Increased

325 Monthly Is Minimum No. Accepted From Ky., Ohio, Ind., And W. Va.

Increase of the Army Aviation Cadet recruiting quota for Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia and Indiana from 240 to a minimum of 325 accepted pilot candidates monthly, was announced today at the Fifth Corps Air Headquarters, Fort Hayes, Columbus, Ohio.

Officials indicated that the increase, based upon the Army's expanding 30,000-pilot-a-year training program, probably was only the first of gradually rising quotas. A peak of 600 a month was anticipated when all training centers are in operation.

The expanded quota was the second since June, 1940, when a monthly goal of 120 prospective pilots was established. This was raised to 240 last November and increased to 325 this month.

Recruiting officials said that their efforts would be redoubled to reach all possible youths in the four states who are eligible for the pilot scholarships. The scholarships, open through all Army recruiting offices to single men at least twenty and not yet twenty-seven years old, pay $105 monthly plus clothing and equipment during the thirty-week flying course which leads to second lieutenant's commissions in the Army Air Corps Reserve. Flying lieutenants receive $245 monthly, plus $500.00 yearly bonus.

2 Pals Reunited In Freak Meeting At Mammoth Cave Park

A little more than two years ago two young men, William Scott of San Francisco and Norman Frazee of Youngstown, Ohio, completed four years as schoolmates when they were graduated from the University of Michigan College of Forestry.

Forestry immediately went to Savannah, Georgia, to take over a job there. Scott returned to San Francisco to enter the same field of work there.

This week the 27th Field Artillery of the First Armored regiment of Fort Knox visited Mammoth Cave National Park on an overnight encampment for recreation. Assigned to share the same pup tent for the night were Scott and Frazee.

Comparing notes they discovered that Frazee was inducted into the army at Savannah on February 18, 1941, just two days before Scott entered the armed forces. Neither knew the other was in the army until they met. They found further that they were to be assigned to the same battery, to occupy the same barracks and were both to be assigned to the same type of work, drafting army maps.

The reunion in the park was also in the nature of a homecoming for Frazee. While still in college he had worked at Mammoth Cave during the summer of 1937 as a student technician in forestry.

In Knox County, rural electrification lines will be extended over an additional thirty miles. With another year, Elliott County farmers hope to have a one hundred percent purebred stock record in the county. Christian County Negro farm women have been learning to make cottage cheese sandwiches, and other varieties.

Kentucky Has Large Crop Of Quality Peaches This Year

To help dispose of one of the biggest and best crops of peaches ever grown in Kentucky, and also to encourage canning and other preservations of more food to homes, the Department of Markets and Rural Finance of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics is working for the widest possible distribution of peaches throughout the State.

Surveys are being made to determine the amount of peaches storekeepers will need to supply family requirements for canning and preserving. County home demonstration agents, through homemakers' clubs, are giving demonstrations in canning peaches and other fruits, and are furnishing recipes and other information about ways of using and preserving fruit. Families are urged to consider canning large quantities of peaches—enough for one or two years.

MC Art Students Exhibit At State All-College Meet

Exhibit Held At University Of Kentucky
The Morehead college art department has fourteen pictures on exhibit at the Kentucky College of Art Exhibit being held at the University of Kentucky from June 30 to August 9. Other colleges represented at the first exhibit of college paintings in Kentucky are Ashbury, Murray State Teachers College, Georgetown, C. C. C., Western State Teachers College, and the University of Kentucky.

The exhibit being held in the music room of the Student Union, was hung by Elsie Fleishman and Ben Johnson, of the University. It features fifty-one entries, including oil, water colors, pastels, etchings and woodcuts.

Morehead students whose works are on display include: Frances Peratt, who has two oil portraits—"Felix" and "Carol"; Nancy Shy Howard, two portraits, "Birds" and "Orange Blossom"; and Carol Patrick, a portrait called "Red." She also has a still-life, "Autumn Leaves," and water color canvas, "Morehead Food. Elsie Sanders has an "Athletic Still Life" and a landscape, "Patton's Barn," on display, and Reva Kurland has "Mexican Still Life," also a self-portrait. Kathleen Morris painted a water color, "Orange Blossom," which is shown, as is Dorothy Graves' oil, "Clearfield." Dorothy Smith is exhibiting a landscape called "Up the Hollow."

There were no competitions, no prizes offered for the best pictures shown. All colleges were invited to exhibit.
