ELLIOTTVILLE SCHOOL NEWS
Attendance officer, Mabel Alfrey writes reports of days visit.

The new Elliottville Consolidated School which is now just being completed is one of the most attractive school buildings in the county. The location is ideal for this type of building. It is built of native stone, has a large hall, office, basement, and gymnasium. The gymnasium is the part of the building that is now being finished. On Wednesday of last week, I spent the day at this school, arriving at recess. I was greeted very pleasantly by the children and had to have visitors. I walked into Miss Bessie Bircfield's room, which is the fourth grade, to visit with them. A very interesting geography class was in progress. The subject under discussion was "Railroads of the West." A large textile map of the United States had been drawn and as the different railroads of the West were studied, they were placed on the map. This map caused much interest in connection with the lesson. The material was in bleached muslin and the map was being drawn with colored crayons to later be pressed in with a hot iron. This room was very attractive, having a beautiful oiling picture above the blackboard, at the front of the room, a wall map of Europe, pictures on the bulletin board, a bookcase with over fifty books, a spelling chart which had been made to help the children keep check on the perfect spelling. The room is a large one with five windows. It has two radiators, two blackboards. The teacher explained that they were making this study still more interesting by corresponding with schools over West. The enrollment in this room was 43, with two children absent on that day. After spending fifteen minutes of a very interesting discussion, I went into the hall to talk with Principal Ted L. Crosthwaite. I had intended going into his room next when he informed me that I wouldn't enjoy the next class, but to wait until the first period in the afternoon. That where the principal got the Attendance Officer told.

At 10:40 A. M. I entered the first grade room with Miss Grace Lewis as teacher. The little folks were very busy with their number work. Some were at the board, some at the tables working. There was forty-one enrolled in this class with only one absent. Some of the children were doing copy work and very proudly brought their page up for me to inspect. I must say they are doing good work, indeed. Glancing about the room, I saw seven beautiful pictures, pictures well framed and by famous artists. In one corner of the room I examined the library. It consisted of a small table, bookcase with about 100 books, and chairs. These articles of furniture were painted green and were very attractive. In another corner of the room, I noticed doll furniture which had been made by the children. There were chairs, beds on which were two dolls, settees, shelves and other things. A large stone cooler and individual drinking cups were on another table in the room. There were pictures concerning Thanksgiving on the bulletin board. There were many pots of flowers which helped to make the room attractive. Other things I noticed were the green curtains, a rack for the coats and reading charts and other material with which to work.

At 11:30 the whistle blew for lunch. I had been invited to eat my lunch with the principal, but I found that the reason he wanted me to eat my lunch with him was that he wanted to eat my lunch with me. Anyways we had time at this time to talk about the attendance and who were truant. Then I was very kindly presented with a Bible, and two other books and with a picture of the faculty.

At 12:10—At last I gained Mr. Crosthwaite's room where High School Arithmetic was to be taught. This was a very interesting class. It was the first arithmetic class I had seen taught for many a year. The students each worked out the problem. They were given a problem to solve and why of the problem. Only one student failed to have the right solution. All worked together to help one who had failed. A few problems were then given to be worked out on paper for the remaining fifteen minutes of the class. None absent in this room.

12:40—I entered Miss Carter's room which is the fourth and fifth grade room. They were having a study period. The room was very attractive. I noticed that this room was also very attractive. Miss Carter had bought two beautiful pictures while at the N. Y. A. They are "The Blue Boy and The Boy and the Rabbit." They are taking particular interest in creative drawing, having several of these pictures drawn and displayed. There were maps, flowers, coat rack, a book case with around 100 books, and a large bulletin board.

1:10—I visited in the science room, with Miss Bernice Lewis Barber as teacher. The class were having a test from the work books. This room is equipped with chairs and tables. There is a beautiful oiling picture above the blackboard and also a picture of George Washington. This room had been enrolled with none absent.

1:20—Miss Mabel Hackney's room. A Social Science class was in progress but was just about time for the class to be over. There was a list of twenty-one topics on the board. Each of these topics had been discussed and each student had chosen one on which to write a page.

Twenty-seven had been enrolled in Miss Hackney's home room and one was absent.

1:45—At this time Mrs. Mary Hogg was very busy teaching Health to second and third grade children. They were talking about muscles being one of the signs of strength. One little boy was much disturbed over the fact so he said, "I'm strong anyway."

The children had been studying animals were before last when I had visited there and a long animal frieze ran the length of the room at the back. All kinds of animals were marching in line on this frieze. Other items noticed in the room were two beautiful pictures, a picture board with Thanksgiving pictures and other items of interest, a stone water cooler, individual drinking cups, etc. The children wanted me to see their paintings and other work they had been doing. Then upon being invited to teach the children some new songs, we learned two new ones "The Secret" and "The Motor Car Ride," and sang many old songs. The children in this room can really sing.

I really spent an enjoyable day at Elliottville.

Ease Women's Pain

Periodic upsets—headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain—often caused by functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition. Many find its symptoms yield when they stimulate appetite and digestion by using CARDUI and so build up physical resistance. Many also report that CARDUI just before and during "the time" helps ease pain and discomfort. CARDUI has been used for more than 50 years.

HOLD A PRE-FIRE CLINIC

Each year in this country thousands of "improvised" "fire clinics" are held. After a fire, neighbors and passers-by gather together to look over the ruins, and advance their theories of what caused the blaze and how it might have been prevented.

It is obvious that a "fire clinic" held after a fire, is futile, interesting as it may be to the participants airing their views. If, instead, we'd hold our fire clinics before the fire it would go a long way toward preventing an annual fire loss of several hundred million dollars—and 10,000 lives.

Furthermore, you don't need to call in your friends and neighbors to hold a clinic of your own. You can do it alone or in company with your family. At home. Make a list of the common causes of fire accumulations of junk; improperly stored inflammable liquids and wiping rags; heating plants which are bulky and need attention; frayed light cords; carlessnes; with smoking materials. Then make a tour through your home, attic to cellar, and see just how many simple fire prevention commands you're violating. You may be unpleasantly surprised.

Finally, put in the little work that will eliminate these hazards—and you'll have held a pre-fire clinic that really means something.

PROTECTION FOR THE POOR

Those who make a practice of attacking the life insurance industry center their fire on industrial insurance. This form of insurance is usually sold in small sums, and is collected in weekly or bi-weekly installments.

Without industrial insurance, which can be paid for at the rate of twenty-five or fifty cents a week, millions of low income families would be unable to obtain any protection whatsoever. The death of the wage-earner would leave dependents completely destitute. More often than not, there would be insufficient money on hand to even pay modest funeral expenses.

Industrial insurance is naturally somewhat higher in cost, due to increased collection and bookkeeping expense. But it is of immense service and it is the only proven, established means of giving persons of very small income some measure of financial self-protection against the future.

Apple tart recipe: Bake tart shells on inverted muffin pans, and just before serving fill with well seasoned applesauce. If desired, add a spoonful of whipped cream an sprinkle with cinnamon or nutmeg or chopped nuts or candied ginger root.

A 1,000 pound dairy cow may be expected to eat 20 to 30 pounds of alfalfa or other legume hay daily. The more hay a cow eats the less grain she needs. Silage feeding materially reduces hay and grain requirements.

Several feet further, in a layer at least 6 inches thick. Best results come from using well-rotted manure.

At the Greenville Experiment Station, the yield of alfalfa spread on lime and phosphate, and preceding stark to bucco increased the yield 510 lbs. to the acre. The value of the tobacco per pound was increased 42 percent, and the acre value 105 percent.

"Come and get it!"

Thanksgiving dinner is on the table! There's His Honor The Turkey, king of the festive feast... beautifully roasted... crispy brown outside... succulent, sweet inside... and near-to-bursting with warmly fragrant, savory stuffing. He's the first thing folks claim over, naturally!

And turkey isn't turkey without the cranberry sauce and other fixin's as traditional as Thanksgiving Day itself!

So... heap the plates... AND THEN... Enjoy the crowning touch! Tall, foam-topped glasses of cold, amber-clear Hi-Bru, the beer with rare smoothness, yet a zesty tang that doubles eating enjoyment any time, anywhere... that's always extra-rich and mellow because of its fine ingredients and master brewing.

Falls City Hi-Bru belongs with the other good things on your Thanksgiving table to complete your holiday pleasure. Order a case from your dealer today!

Be sure to have plenty of cold Hi-Bru on hand for that midnight raid on the turkey "remains"!

Organizations Plan Use Of Funds From White Elephant Sale

Representatives from the County Council, the A. A. U. W., the four consolidated schools, training school and the rural schools met at the office of the County Superintendent on Monday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock to discuss how the benefits of the White Elephant Sale which was $108.40 could best be spent. It was decided to put put crayons and paper into the hands of every school child in the county. Crayons should be used in the first attempts of drawing. These materials have been ordered and will soon be ready for distribution. Exhibits will be brought in by the rural schools in January to be exhibited and prizes given at the Consolidated schools in May. This work which was started will be a wonderful thing if kept up because we do not have enough of art work in the schools. It is the nature of children to like to draw and in this way talent can be discovered. The schools are very thankful that the A. A. U. W. has taken this interest and are cooperating in every possible way.

ters, Mrs. Mollie Robinson and Mrs. Dora Robertson, both of Mt. Sterling, Ky., besides a long list of nieces and nephews and grandchildren.

Mr. Stevens afflicted himself with the Methodist Church in his early manhood, and was a faithful believer in the right, always doing good for evil, strictly temperate, a lover of home and family, respected and loved by a host of friends.

His life spanned the greater part of a century and he recalled with vivid clarity the changes that have come in his lifetime. However, he lived the simple, quiet life, believing that man's first duty to his home, his family and his friends, and in this belief he lived. When he is gone, he has left a lasting memory of faith, devotion, tolerance and temperance that will live forever.

Funeral services were held at Farmers on Monday of this week conducted by Rev. Landolt.

Eagles Close 1939 Season With 7-0 Win

Talent, Roy Bailey, Co-captain, Frank Robinson, Co-captain, Toby Rose, Stanley Rajunas, Glenn Stanley and James Gant, played their last game in the Blue and gold uniforms of Morehead. These boys, all of them stalwarts of the team, are seniors, and have played out their string for the Eagles.

The game itself was a star feature in anybody's language. The Eagles had the edge in every department of the game. They made 14 first downs to 5 for the visitors; they piled up 312 yards gained from scrimmage to 114 for Davis-Eliak; they out-manuevered, out-fought and out-gamed the West Virginians. Vanzella stopped Children of Davis-Eliak twice, cutting off long runs that might have meant scores, and Childers holds most of the track records in West Virginia.

Lustic shone because of his tactics. There were no stars, which is perhaps the greatest compliment that could be paid to any team, for it is equivalent to saying that they were all stars in that game.
