"ONE OF KENTUCKY'S GREATER WEEKLIES"

VOLUME VIII

MOREHEAD, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY MORNING, JULY 31, 1941

NUMBER THIRTY-ONE

Saturday is going to be the big day. The boys will either be off or from. What worries me is if they will be Veneered. The worst Veneer comes from the Bluegrass and was brought here by a very prominent lady who made the remark the other day as I was sitting on the lawn of her home that the men folks of this county liked Veneer. The first thought that popped into my mind was paint. Later I found that it was polish. Not floor polish or shoe polish, but Veneer. She said there was only one man in town that had the required amount of polish; that was Neville Finzel. Veneer I regret to say, Veneer I regret to say, was something we did not have in Mays Mills. "Tuffy" never heard of it and the only person who got over had it in Flemingburg was Elizabeth Duley and Aunt Lizzie Hinton. In the county of you sent with your knite you don't have any veneer. If you got three weeks without a 50 cent haircut or two days without a shave you are un-veneered and a menace to society. Vaughan is out because he is in Lawrence County. Falls is out because he deals with his fork upside down. I want to ask our Mayor if he can issue a proclamation requesting our people to have more veneer. I could name hundreds of persons here in town that are liking in the people of this town. For any person at any time. For anyone here in town that is not going to sit around with their shirt off or remove a shoe to ease a corn I don't want them. I simply don't like the smell of their feet. Bacon, scrambled eggs and bacon with morning pants, frock coat and wing collar and straw hat things. And the lady who took me over the coals does too or she would not be living with her husband. I wish they were all like that. I want a job on a farm near Wauke, Indiana, see me and I can fit him up. Good luck to "dear Paulie", the good boy in Bicknell, Indiana, that is marrying a very un-veneered friend from Jackson, Kentucky. I wish I could give you reliable news, but I am outstripping myself. It just looks like the girls who lived in Boyd Hall who could not get them. But my wife is so fully well. The remark that Warren Shaffer made as to me being the sloppiest guy in town was wrong.

INDEPENDENT WILL BROADCAST RESULTS

The Morehead Independent extends an invitation to all the people of the County to come to Morehead on Saturday evening to hear the results of the primary election which will be broadcast over a public address system direct from the counting room. This courtesy on the part of the Independent has been extended for the past few years for your convenience in hearing the election results as quickly as they are counted.

The counting will start at 6:00 o'clock Saturday evening, and will continue until 12:00 o'clock midnight. Our microphone will be set up in the counting room long before the counting begins, and you may be assured of hearing the complete returns over our loudspeaker system from the first precinct counted until the last vote is tabulated.

We should like to stress the fact that both County results in the race for Representative will also be announced, as quickly as they are received by telephone.

Enrollment Increases Reported In Many Rural Schools

At the close of one week of the 1941-42 term, Rowan County Rural Schools report an unusually large enrollment. In many cases it was necessary to furnish additional seats to accommodate increases in attendance.

In an effort to promote better home-school relations this year, the teachers are making special work visiting the homes of the students. Teachers reported that he states that it was slippier than the day he used to visit next door to in Irvine. A fellow by the name of Scott, known as "Crack Bank" Scott, I remember meeting at the Shaffer and I double-dog dare you to meet me at the Dixie Grill where we will have a dial with knockout dice-cups. I know a swimming hole this side of Joe's Place that is a honey. Tommy and I have been slipping out and going there every evening. It's a wonderful place for a picnic, but holler before you get over there, because Tommy and I might be there ab-in-side. Thanks to you members of the Merchant's Association for the good work you have done in raising money for our fair. I saw people at the carnival spending money that would have been a kid's hand if you would admit them for a donation to help our fair out. I am sure that we all appreciate the work you have done. Thank you very much, but the four-thousand school kids in this county. Let us continue to make preparations to give them the biggest party they have ever had on October 2nd and 4th.

Merchants Share $200 Net From Bee Shows Last Week

Greater Portion Of Proceeds To Be Applied To Fair Promotion Fund

The Morehead Merchants Association, sponsors of Bee's Old Reliable Shows, which showed here all last week, received approximately $200 net proceeds on ticket commissions and concession fees.

The Shows were an attraction of the annual Morehead Merchants Festival, most of the proceeds of which will go toward promoting the annual Rowan County School and Agricultural Fair, to be held here October 2 and 4.

In commenting on the success of the festival, Woody Hinton, President of the Rowan County School and Agricultural Fair Association states that, "on behalf of the Fair Association, I wish to thank the Morehead Merchants Association for the work that you have done in raising money for our Fair. It is needless to say that not only I, but the County at large, appreciates the work you have done, and that you will continue to do it."

"Perfect harmony and cooperation makes a community, and I sincerely believe that Morehead county appreciates the work you have done. Thanks a million."

Estimated 3500 Votes Will Be Cast In Rowan Primary, Aug. 2; 44 Candidates Seek Co. Offices

Johnson In Favor Of Drafting Frosh Football Material

Eight Eagle "Regulars" Called For Army Service;arsity Squad Weakened

Influence of young men in the Army has so reduced gridiron material that Coach Ellis Johnson said Saturday he was in favor of eliminating freshman football in Kentucky colleges so that frosh could be used as varsity material.

Johnson, former University of Kentucky four-letter man, said that Morehead would have to play one of its toughest schedules in years "with possibly seventeen and no more than twenty men on the squad."

Eight of the Eagle's regulars already have been taken by the Army. Among them are Ralph Musgrave, Jr., of Newport, who last year was chosen as the best all-around athlete at Morehead; Duerson Barnes, an outstanding player who was expected to bolster Eagle power in 1941; and "Jumping Joe" Lustin, chosen last season as all-KIAC back.

Another blow to Johnson's hopes came in the word that Benny Vaz-nella, a stellar basketball player from New Britain, Connecticut, would not return to school this fall.

Johnson said he did not know how other Kentucky coaches felt about eliminating freshman football, but that "due to the number of men who will be drafted, we feel that it will be necessary to use freshmen material to round out a varsity squad."

Morehead opens its season on September 27 with Western. The

Vote Promises To Be Much Lighter Than Four Years Ago, Due To Large Number Of Voters In Army And Defense Work

It is estimated that approximately fifteen hundred Republicans and two thousand Democrats will cast their vote in the Primary Election Saturday, August 2, in choosing candidates for Rowan County offices for the next four years.

As usual, all candidates claim that they will win by substantial majorities. However, for those who have followed politics closely in this county, most of the races appear close and last-minute changes plus the fight that is staged by their followers at the polls will prove to be the deciding factor.

The total registration for the county is slightly over 600, but many persons believe that the Selective Service and national defense works will be responsible for reducing the vote this year by at least 800. Basing our predictions on the turn-out at past elections, which is usually around thirty-five percent of the total registration, Saturday's vote would be considerably less than four years ago, when approximately four thousand ballots were cast.

The Democratic ticket has attracted the most attention and interest which the general public in this county due to the fact that the Republicans do most of their battling in the general election, which is the office of the incumbent candidate, Alby Hardin. Hardin will encounter heavy opposition from the Democratic ticket, which includes three county officers and one State representative.

Arousing particular interest is the Democratic race for Jailer, in which seven other candidates are seeking the office of the incumbent candidate, Alby Hardin. Hardin will encounter heavy opposition from the Democratic ticket, which includes three county officers and one State representative.

THE GARDEN

(By JOHN S. GARDNER)

Last Call

Although July 1 is the real "turn of the year" for gardens, after which longtime crops cannot any longer be produced because of the nearness to frost-date, October 10, there is still a slim possibility that this date may be deferred.

Tomatoes: The varieties usually considered "late" take all of fifteen weeks to bear full crops and hence are out of the question to start now, but the short-season sorts, Break O'Day, Chalk's Jewel and Honey Beat, started now, "in the hill," have an excellent chance to mature a great part of their fruit. This year, under the Lease-land Plan, 15,000,000 cases of canned tomatoes are to be produced for Britain; every jar of home-canned tomatoes releases that amount for trans-shipment. Thus, besides being good sense to have all the tomatoes the family can use, it is also patriotic. Cabbage: The opportunity for having cabbage to put away for the winter has dwindled almost to nothing, but early varieties, Golden Acre, or, better, where Yellow is even suspected, Wisconsin All-Seasons, may still be started, with fair prospects.

Beans: Bush beans take from seventy to eighty days to mature, leaving practically all of July in which to start more. If there is the slightest likelihood that there will not be enough of this valuable adjunct to the winter diet, special plantings should be made, for canning. Also, the planting season for "fall beans" (horticultural, bush or pole) is here. Shell-out beans, these offer a change from what may have become monotonous, for their flavor is distinctive. A good snap bean for planting is Rutgers.

French Endive: A "new" vegetable to be started before July 15 is Witloof Chicory, "French Endive." The "endive" comes from the forced second-growth of the beets, thinning to 1-1.2 inches.

For the most part, the fall garden is assumed to consist of greens, and of these, Seven Top turnip and mustard, with perhaps some kale. However, there are many additional possibilities, some quite too intriguing to pass by. Officially fall garden sowings begin about August 1, but one may not wait until then if all the season's possibilities are to be explored. Here are a few.

English Peas: Because of adverse conditions last spring, many gardeners find themselves with seed peas. Inasmuch as these are already on hand, and because their germination percentage can certainly not improve by next spring, the gamble is a good one to plant them now. To counteract hot, dry soil, the seed should be dropped in deep furrows but covered only lightly, an inch at the most. Also, the soil should have been fertilized as for spring plantings.

Winter Head Lettuce: For this a hot bed is needed, or a good coldframe covered with glass. Seed (of the variety New York) should be sown now in a fine bed, located as to be shaded after noon. Watering may be needed, but not so much as to make forced, spindly seedlings. At four leaves, these should be set in bed, whose soil has had plenty of rotted manure worked into it. The spacing should be eight inches square.

As this may be about mid-August while the sun is still hot, the bed should be shaded with a canopy of canvas or lattice, but two feet above the frame, so air may pass across it. Watering should be done to keep growth progressing steadily.

As frosty nights approach, the sash should be laid, but daytime they should be removed, or at least propped open so as to admit all air. By the time cold weather finally comes, the heads will have formed, and watering may be reduced, and the beds kept closed except for a few hours about noon. The heads will harden, and cropping may be begun, to last depending on the size of the planting, or specifically, until Thanksgiving or possibly until Christmas.

Vacationers Urged To Buy Fishing Licenses At Home

Licenses May Be Hard To Secure At Campsite, Lake Or Stream

Those persons making plans for their vacation days are urged to get their fishing and hunting licenses before leaving on their trips. S. A. Wakefield, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, pointed out today.

Fishing and hunting almost always figures in on vacation trips and if the vacationer gets his or her licenses in advance he or she has nothing to worry about but if the procuring of such licenses is put off until the camp, lake, stream or woods is reached it might be just a little inconvenient to purchase a license as the county court clerk in each county, with few exceptions, is the only place such license might be obtained. The county court clerk offices have certain hours each day to take care of business and their doors are always closed on Sundays and holidays.

"You vacationers play safe and get your fishing and hunting licenses early and avoid any confusion or run-ins with the law," Wakefield urged.

All persons, sixteen years of age or older, both men and women, must have a fishing license in order to enjoy that particular sport. The resident license is $1.00, non-resident season license is $2.50, and the non-resident seven-day license sells for $1.00.

Every person, regardless of age or sex, must possess a hunting license in order to enjoy that sport. The state-wide resident hunting license sells for $3.00, the single-county license for $1.00, and the non-resident hunting license sells for $15.50.

Fishing has been reported as good generally throughout the state, although heavy rains recently have muddied some streams. Herring Lake is a splendid shape and white bass are jumping "all over the place."

The squirrel hunting season opens in Kentucky on August 15th and reports are that there will be a bumper crop of squirrels for the ninemods. The daily bag limit for squirrels is six with possession limit of twelve.

Syrin and the Lebanon have a population of 3,630,000, according to a 1935 census. Their combined area is 57,900 square miles.

Army Will Train Non-Commissioned Pilots Soon

Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia and Indiana youths anxious to fly for Uncle Sam as the first regular non-commissioned pilots in United States Army annals were advised today to first join Army Air Force ground units.

It was announced at Fifth Corps Area Headquarters, at Fort Hayes here that opportunities as enlisted pilots, long anticipated by many, would be given initially to men already in service.

Although Uncle Sam's peacetime Army boasted a few non-commissioned pilots, these were flyers who during the last war served as reserve officers after completing Aviation Cadet officer-pilot training.

With the pioneer enlisted pilot class scheduled to begin flight training August 23 it was indicated that applications were being accepted first from high school graduates already serving in the Army who were disqualified educationally as Aviation Cadet officer-pilot trainees.

Although training plans are as yet incomplete, it was considered likely that civilian candidates would be sought only after other men in service are given opportunity.

Since men in service are being given prior consideration, officials pointed out that the best bet for civilian prospects would be to take advantage of the Fifth Corps Area's current 2,500 three-year enlistment vacancies, preferably those with Air force units. These include 950 openings at Ellington Field, Texas, and 518 at Bowman Field, Louisville, Kentucky; Baer Field, Fort Wayne, Indiana; Wickham Field, Oklahoma; Charlotte V. C. and Jefferson Barracks, St. Louis, Missouri.

It is expected that there will be no preference in ground school training of enlisted pilots from that given Aviation Cadets. Physical examinations also will be the same but no educational examination will be given for the enlisted classification. Eventually twenty percent of the Army's pilots are expected to be enlisted men who will rank as flight sergeants.

The first contingent of two hundred enlisted pilot prospects is expected to train in the Gulf Coast Air Corps Training Center with headquarters at Randolph Field, San Antonio, Texas. Other classes of two hundred each are scheduled to report October 4 and on December 8. Training centers also will be established in the Southeast Training Center with headquarters at Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Alabama, and in the West Coast Training Center with headquarters at Moffett Field, near San Jose, California.

Application for Army Air Force enlistments may be made at any Army recruiting office in Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia and Indiana.

Shall We Do Something About Local Welfare?

(By B. H. Kasee)
There is hardly a day passes that I do not, in my mind, at least, go the rounds of the vague possibilities of securing help for some one who knocks at my door.

The possible sources are, among others, the County, the Red Cross, the American Legion, the Women's Clubs, the Business Men's Club, the Churches, the P.T.A., and perhaps some generous individuals who feel the burden with the poor.

Each of these specialized groups have good purposes, and do a great deal of welfare work. But when I approach them with certain cases I find that each has its special kind of welfare work, and that my case does not come exactly under its head. I find that practically none of them has any money, and that if they did have, there would be necessary an investigation of the individual case which would cost me more in time and money than it would to dig into my own pocket and overdraw my own existence fund.

Merchants feel the same way. They know that they ought to have some way of finding those who are worthy, but, rather than go to the trouble and expense of looking up the individual case, and planning for their help, they find it cheaper, and better business, to give a dollar or fifty cents, and let the matter rest. I may find deeply sympathetic with them, and wish it were not true.

I could write for pages on the local situation, with concrete examples in abundance, and of the inconvenient and inadequate way of meeting the problems that come to us. However, it all sums up to this: We sorely need to organize our welfare into some central medium, through which our help can be safely and effectively directed.

I have proposed, for a long time, some sort of federation which would answer this purpose. When we were about to organize such a council, the Red Cross came into the center of things, proposing that they conducted a department for our local needs, as well as to carry on its disaster and emergency work throughout the country.

On close investigation we found that the Red Cross does have a department of local welfare, but that its activities are discouraged by the national administration, in preference to the work of general emergency and disaster work over the country as a whole, for which, it seems, the Red Cross chiefly functions. This is all well and good, and we must support it. Morehead knows very definitely how valuable is this aid when disaster occurs.

But the local welfare phase of Red Cross work will never serve our local needs adequately. Besides, it is sometimes seems that most of the local groups are engaged in some welfare work, and each one is glad to invite the cooperation of the rest, provided we all work in accord with the special type of work that the particular organization is doing. This makes our efforts one-sided, and overlooks many cases of need.

I now propose what I would call a Local Welfare Federation. The name itself suggests three things: (1) That it is concerned with relief and welfare work in Rowan County. (2) That it be a welfare fund, not merely a hand-out to a few helpless beggars. This would necessitate departments, such as underprivileged school children, some transients, local poor and jobless, special drivers for Cancer fund, crippled children's fund, and other funds of like nature. Any kind of local welfare or relief work should be analyzed, classified, and departmentized under the heading of welfare. (3) That it be a federation, by which I mean to enlist the cooperative effort of any organization or individual who has any interest in this kind of work.

The control of this work should be under a council composed of one member from each church or other organization. There should be some county-wide representation (perhaps in the form of the County Judge or some other person in responsible position), and in centrally, under there should be a representative who would be responsible for advice as to certain cases lying within his district, and these individuals should constitute what would be known as an advisory committee. There should be a central, an executive committee (not large) whose duty it would be to look into individual cases, and there would be, of necessity, some one in charge as Secretary-Treasurer, who could give time, at least, to this work.

The practical benefits of such working council are equivalent. For instance, let us say here is a business man approached by some one in need, seeking for help. The business man could show his card, saying, "we contribute to the local welfare federation. Go and see (name of person in charge) and you will receive the proper attention." Then, whatever is done is the right way, and with more permanence. Besides, this is the whole program of local welfare and relief could be studied and organized by a group who would then find ways and means, and increasing efficiency would be in order.

Rowan County does have a welfare problem, with many aspects, and the only way to solve it is to face it, organize for it and do something about it.

Grasshoppers damaged the tobacco in Bracken County despite heavy use of poisoned bait. Approximately one hundred rugs were exhibited at a home-makers' club show in Hart County.

Judd Writes Short Satire For Alpha Nu News At U. of K.

Short Article in Fraternity Publication A Satire On Higher Education

In the July issue of Phi Delta Kappa, of the University of Kentucky, there is an article written by Dr. R. D. Judd, head of the Department of Education at Morehead State Teachers College. The title of the article is "Tweedle-dum and Tweedle-dee," which is a satire on higher education as conducted in many American colleges.

It reads in part as follows: "Many, many years ago there was a land called Yokei. In this strange land there was a university. Of course universities there were quite unlike our universities today with their gymnasiums, stadia, circula, natatoria, and many other things. But there were some things that this ancient university had in common with the modern university. It had a president, a dean, a curriculum, and many things that this ancient land was simple but it met the needs. In order for one to graduate from dear old Yokei he must swim twenty furlongs, run as fast as the fastest animal in the jungle, climb a green bay tree in thirty seconds, throw a stone of one kilogram one-hundred paces, and capture a "Dodo" bird with his bare hands.

Y.I.T., Yokei Institute of Technology, was the first polytechnical university in the world. Its curriculum required only a laboratory—the great open spaces contiguous to the jungles. This school prospered for a time, and it had more students than it could accommodate. However, two strange things happened which uprooted its traditions and finally the university itself. Only the remnants of a few bleached bones and material relics identified, perhaps, with the Pleistocene Age mark the spot of this once famous university. It happened, according to the Egyptologists, like this:

Would you like to know what happened to dear old Yokei? Then, get a copy of Alpha Nu News, Phi Delta Kappa, and read all about the conflict of President Bigfuzzy and Dean Littlefuzzy, how they differed on the problem of admitting candidates, made an important issue of adding a new subject to the curriculum, how Dean Littlefuzzy always had his way with "two back talks" from President Bigfuzzy, etc., etc.

You may get your copy of Alpha Nu News by writing to Alpha Nu Chapter, Phi Delta Kappa Fraternity, University of Kentucky, at Lexington, Kentucky.

The present membership of the United States Congress is, from a party standpoint, divided as follows: In the House there are 182 Republicans, 287 Democrats, and 6 Independents. The Senate has twenty-eight Republicans, sixty-six Democrats and two Independents.

Ky. Wage Earners Regain $332,894 In Back Pay

During the first six months of 1941 wage-earners in Kentucky and Tennessee received $332,894.62 in back wages from their employers. It was pointed out today by William M. Eaves, Regional Director of the ninth region of the Wage and Hour Division, United States Department of Labor, Nashville, Tennessee.

This amount was paid to 10,871 employees by 468 firms, engaged in interstate commerce or in the production of goods for interstate commerce. These payments of back wages represented the difference between the amount the employees actually received and what they were due under the Wage and Hour Law since October 24, 1938, the date the law became effective.

Of the total amount of back wages paid, two hundred Kentucky firms paid $157,365.93 of $491 of their employees, while 268 Tennessee establishments paid $175,528.69 to 6,280 of their employees.

Over this six months period the soft drinks bottling and beer distributing industry was the highest restriction-paying industry, while the lumber industry ranked next in back wage payments.

Enrollment Drops Considerably Below Level Of Same Period In 1939

Enrollment figures for the second summer term at Morehead State College, released today by the Registrar's office, show a marked decrease over the same term in 1939. There was no second summer term last year.

A full fifty percent decrease in the number of men enrolled Wednesday, last day for registration, emphasized the effect of defense activities on college attendance.

Late Wednesday afternoon, last day for registration, a total of 194 students had enrolled for summer classes. On the same day in '39, a total of 382 students had enrolled for the second term. One hundred and one enrolled the first

A FRANK AND OPEN STATEMENT TO THE REPUBLICAN VOTERS OF ROWAN COUNTY

TO MY FRIENDS WHO ARE INTERESTED IN THE WELFARE OF ROWAN COUNTY:

During the past few weeks, I had intended to see you and to talk over with you the coming election, in the interest of my candidacy for re-nomination and re-election to the office of COUNTY JUDGE. However, due to the number of roads and bridges that have made whatever effort I could to see that the repair of these roads and bridges be done as quickly as possible to make them passable, even at the sacrifice of my personal interests and my campaign. I am happy to tell you that the work will be done at once.

I had hoped to tell you personally what I have tried to accomplish during my past three and one-half years in office, and to discuss with you my plans for the next four years. However, in this brief space I will endeavor to outline some of those things.

1. To begin with, ever since I took office four years ago I have made an annual trip, accompanied by a number of civic-minded citizens, to the State Capitol to appear before the State Tax Commission, in an effort to prevent raising of taxes on Rowan County property. In each case we have been able to prevent the blanket raises that would have worked hardships on every taxpayer in the County. I feel that I am entitled to much credit for saving the taxpayers of this County many thousands of dollars.

2. Since I became Judge of this County, we have paid off an indebtedness of over $18,000, but that had been made by previous administrations and which befell my administration to pay. As of January 1, 1940, this County was PAID UP, with no outstanding bills contracted, vouchers paid off at full face value, and issuance of a huge Refunding Bond was prevented. Most of the payments for the new Jail, which is a credit to any County, was paid by my administration.

3. Naturally, with the limited funds available to my office, we were forced to sacrifice work on County roads and bridges, in order to pay off that huge debt incurred by other administrations. But, we have put the Rowan County house in order NOW, and in the next four years we will be in a position to do the road work that is so sorely needed in all sections of the County.

I make no promises to do the impossible. But, in fairness to me, I ask the voters of Rowan County to examine the record books, to study the work that has been done, to consider the economical manner in which the money has been spent and saved through my four years. If the voters of this County want an economical administration during the next four years, if they want to realize one hundred cents of service value from every dollar of tax money they will pay, then, I ask them to vote for me at the Republican Primary Election, next Saturday, August 2nd.

A vote for me is a vote for the best interests of Rowan County.

Respectfully Your Servant,
I. E. PELFREY
Republican Candidate For County Judge

Border States May Soon Help Ky. To Patrol Ohio River

Agreements Sought Would Frustrate Fish-Game Law Violators

S. A. Wakefield, Director of the Ky. Division of Fish and Game, and Mr. Gutermauth, Acting Director of Indiana's Division of Fish and Game, met recently and discussed plans whereby anglers from the state of Indiana could be allowed the use of the Ohio River, which belongs to Kentucky, for fishing at the amount it costs Kentuckians.

The result of their conference terminated in this agreement: Indiana would assist in the patrolling of the Ohio River, giving it a protection such as it never before has had and Kentucky would issue out-of-state licenses, good only in Ohio River for the use of pole and line, seines and hoop nets legal in Kentucky, at the price of Kentucky resident licenses.

The same proposition has been placed before the Game and Fish Departments of Ohio and Illinois, but neither State has replied to date.

If the proposal meets with the approval of Kentucky's fishermen, the 1942 Legislature will be asked to put it O. K., on the agreement. If such an agreement could be worked out it would certainly be of great help to the Kentucky Division of Game and Fish as it would give the Ohio River protection, which Kentucky cannot afford to give it and it would eliminate the large crops of poaches, apples and other fruits, says the statement from the College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

It is good home-canning to can enough fruits and vegetables to have two generous servings for each member of the family each day, in addition to potatoes and bread during the time when fresh fruits and vegetables are out of season.

Farm manure can best be applied with a manure spreader but a spreader costs so much that it may not pay to own one unless there are one hundred tons or more of manure to spread each year. Where large amounts of manure are to be handled, the farmer should not be without a spreader.

As an inducement to increase milk production, the Secretary of Agriculture proposes to release stored corn at prices which will make it profitable to feed corn to dairy cows. Grain should be fed only to fresh or high producing cows.

When possible, soft water should be used in making pickles, especially in brining vegetables. A clear cider vinegar makes the best pickles. A strong vinegar will cause pickles to shrivel and too weak vinegar will cause them to soften.

In making apple sauce, some persons add a few slices of lemon, a few cloves or a little cinnamon or ginger. Brown sugar often is used in baking apples, with a little spice added. The centers may be filled with raisins, prunes, figs or chopped nuts.

Editorial From The Courier-Journal On "Flash Floods"

Louisville Paper Suggests Flood Control Be Employed At Headquarters

The following editorial, dealing with the flood situation in eastern Kentucky in general and the Licking watershed in particular, appeared in the Sunday issue of the Louisville Courier-Journal, July 20th.

We reprint it herewith, with an added "amen" of our own: "Morehead, recalling the disaster of two years ago, is grateful that no lives were lost in Friday night's 'flash flood' but there was property damage of course, when a hundred families had to flee their homes and water invaded the business district with the usual accompaniments, 'commu'cation was interrupted, railroad and highway traffic hampered."

Fleming's store floors were under three feet of water. Other towns probably will be heard from in Northeastern Kentucky. Farms suffered losses some permanent, that will never be total.

The incident reminds us that flood control must extend to headwaters. The aggregate of all these "flash floods" is enormous and Kentucky is peculiarly susceptible to them. Our streams are deeply entrusted in their ancient limestone beds. This pertains to the Kentucky River ramifications of the Bluegrass and to Ohio River hills as well as the whole mountain section. Innocent looking tributaries fall several hundred feet in a few miles; their torrents after a rain come down with almost the suddenness and force of cataracts.

Morehead, in a groove of the highlands that separate the Licking watershed from the upper Ohio basin, is typical. That 1939 flood which cost twenty-seven lives, was Morehead's fifth in six months.

The property damage in 1939 was huge for a small community, especially a college town which was making improvements becoming its station. The Red Cross spent $21,000. Railroad, pipeline and highway repairs were expensive. At the same time, Olive Hill, Grayson, Farmers, and Clearfield were inundated; their churches and school were washed away at Gregory.

Year after year, over an area of thousands of square miles, dirt rill ravages occur, destroying bottom lands with gravel, where no settlements exist. The saving might have approximated the amortization of the cost of protective works. Besides, that in where much of the water comes from is flood Ohio River cities."

Of the five largest cities in the United States, according to the 1940 census, New York City gained in population 4,492,813; Chicago, 8,118; Detroit, 47,887; Los Angeles, 258,744; while Philadelphia, the third largest, lost 15,875 in the period 1930-1940.

At the close of the Civil War the national debt of the United States was $79.44 per person.

KENTUCKY ROADS WILL CARRY SENSIBLE LOADS!

Major Thomas H. Cutler, Chief Engineer of the Kentucky Highway Department, says our roads are designed to sustain at least 16,000 pounds per axle load and our newer bridges will take care of two to four times that weight.

MODERN WEIGHT LIMITS PROMOTE SAFETY

Under Kentucky's antiquated law two vehicles 30 feet long required to carry the pay load which one vehicle 40 ft. long could transport if our state load limit were up-to-date.

WEATHER WEARS CAUSE 75% OF HIGHWAY DAMAGE

Heat, frost, erosion of shoulders and subgrades accounts for 75 per cent of highway maintenance according to a study made by highway experts and announced by Joseph B. Eastman, former Federal Coordinator of Transportation.

KENTUCKY HIGHWAYS PAY PROFITS—COULD PAY MORE!

Reports the Louisville Courier-Journal (June 18, 1941): "The State Highway Department believes that high type trunk highways pay for themselves in added revenue from gasoline and other taxes and ultimately produce profits that can be used to build local feeder-farm-to-market-highways."

THESE PROFITS WOULD BUILD MORE ROADS

But the profits would be far larger—and build more and more secondary roads—if Kentucky's motor truck laws were changed. You can see this when you consider that more than 75,000 or 20% of the licensed vehicles in Kentucky are Commercial trucks, and they pay 5% of the total gasoline tax.

77% OF KENTUCKY COMMUNITIES ARE SERVED ONLY BY TRUCK

Every person in these communities is paying a hidden transportation "tax" because of Kentucky's antiquated load limit law.

KENTUCKY'S PRESENT LAW INCREASES HAULING COSTS 37 1/2%

Carefully analyzed figures prove that, with a $2,000 profit on each load in Kentucky, 37 1/2% of actual hauling costs could be saved on everything imported to or exported from Kentucky by truck.

The Motor Transportation Industry of Kentucky is seeking to modernize Kentucky's motor truck law, to eliminate trade barriers which are now making Kentucky transportation bottle-neck, and which Federal officials say are impeding National Defense.

ago that the 100,000 unemployed, skilled railroad workers could be shifted to defense work under a "voluntary labor priority" plan. Mr. Hillman said an estimated 1,000,000 workers will be needed by the aircraft industry by July, 42, as compared with the 200,000 employed today. He said $55,000 will be needed by next July in the shipbuilding industry where 375,000 are now employed.

Navy Secretary Knox presented a special Naval ordinance flag to fourteen companies who are ahead of production schedules of Navy contracts. He said firms who are "all out" for defense will be permitted to fly the flag and their employees will be allowed to wear in their lapels an "E," the traditional Navy work of excellence. The Maritime Commission said the entire shipbuilding program is nearly sixty days ahead of schedule.

Price Administrator Henderson asked the baking industry to reduce operating expenses instead of raising bread prices. He said ingredient costs have risen half a cent a loaf. Bituminous Coal Counsel Harr recommended maximum prices at ten percent above the present minimum.

Agriculture OPM Associate Director General said agriculture will be represented in all of the recently created OPM Commodity Sections concerned with "commodities produced by agriculture or necessary to the production of agriculture."

Aluminum Collection OPM Director LaGuardia announced that on July 20 local aluminum collection committees will send materials collected in the voluntary program to concentration points in the large cities of the forty-eight states. He said the Treasury Department's state procurement offices will then offer the scrap to smelters having defense contracts, at OPACS prices.

2 Qualify For Air Corps; Four Others Pass Physical Test

Air Corps Examining Board May Return To Morehead In September

Upon the departure of the United States Army Aviation Cadet Examining Board from Morehead on Saturday, Colonel Robert L. Rockwell, president of the board, described the gigantic task of building air power of the army air corps to match any in the world—a task being emphasized by the current army drive to secure pilots to man the planes of the rapidly expanding air force.

"It's everyone's job," he said. The air corps needs all the pilots it can get and before anyone is a pilot he's just a young man—a young man who lives in a town probably a dozen miles from any Aviation Cadets working and living right around here. But they will be Aviation Cadets only after someone has told them that the air corps needs them, and that of aviation right now! And the only way they'll find out about it is for someone to tell them, either by word of mouth, by means of the newspapers, the radio stations, or by writing them letters. That's why it's everyone's job.

Colonel Rockwell stated that he was entirely pleased with the response to the army's appeal by the young men of this vicinity. During the four-day session of the examining board in Morehead fourteen young men presented applications for appointment as Army Aviation Cadets to the board and were given the air corps physical examination. Of these, two were found to be fully qualified; that is, to meet the physical requirements, and to have the two full years of college education to exempt them from written examination; four others passed the physical examination, but lacking the two years of college, will take a written examination August 12 and 13 to meet the educational requirements. Those found both physically and educationally qualified are John Paul Vincent, Hitchens, Kentucky, and Thomas Bernis Shackelford, Pineville, Kentucky. Qualified physically, but required to take the written examination are Elmer Charles Bledsoe, Morehead; Clifford Raymond Carter, Bees; Claude Russell Hayes, Ashland, and Prosper Noland Combs, Lewisburg, West Virginia. Several others who were examined were found to be only temporarily disqualified, and when they correct their defects, will again be eligible to make application. According to Captain John L. Anderson, flight surgeon, those found qualified represent a normal percentage of those examined.

Explaining the opportunity that lies ahead of these young men, Colonel Rockwell said that it is the consensus of opinion among leaders of the aviation industry that the world stands on the threshold of an expansion in aviation development that defies the imagination. The young men who are being trained now as aviators are being prepared to follow a future that offers them boundless opportunity for careers in either military or commercial aviation. He said that it is practically a foregone conclusion that the air corps will be the most proportionately expanded element of the United States Army in the present program, and that it will undoubtedly remain one of the largest elements. This, he said, will provide lifelong careers for many thousands of the young pilots now being trained in the air corps. More thousands will find their places in commercial aviation. This industry is expected to experience an expansion that parallels that of other means of communication following previous periods of world turmoil.

"Many people may think it strange," Colonel Rockwell concluded, "that the air corps can get so competent pilots in the short seven and one-half-month period. But the combination of extreme care in selecting only the best young men who are best fitted for the training; the choice of instructors who have shown not only excellent flying ability but also special aptitude for teaching; and the use of training equipment that has been tested particularly with a view toward its adaptability as instruction equipment rather than combat equipment is one effective reason for this."

"When a young man has completed his course of instruction in the army air corps pilot training program he can just about anything—he can take a shingle, put a fan on it and fly it," he added.

Restating the basic requirements for appointment to the Army Aviation Cadets, Colonel Rockwell said, "Tell any young man of your community that if he is normally healthy, unmarried, and between twenty and twenty-seven, he is eligible to apply. The examining board will determine if he is physically fit to fly, and the educational requirements are simply those subjects in college or take an examination in the ones for which he does not have college credits."

"Army Aviation Cadets are paid $105.00 a month, receive uniforms, clothing, flying equipment, medical and dental care at the expense of the government. Upon completion of training they are commissioned second lieutenants in the air corps and go on active duty with tactical units of the air corps at monthly salaries of $245.50 a month.

"Those who fail to complete the course of training as pilots are given the opportunity to enroll for training as navigators, bombardiers, meteorologists, armorers, communications, or engineering officers, also with commissions as second lieutenants the reward at the end of the training.

No definite date has yet been set for the return to Morehead of the Army Aviation Cadet Examining Board, but according to Colonel Rockwell, it will be some time in either September or October. From Morehead, the board went to Ashland for four days, thence to Paintsville where sessions will be held July 17 to 19; Pikeville, July 20 to 24, and Hazard, July 25 to 29.

These loans are made by the same Emergency Crop and Feed Loan office that many farmers borrowed from in the spring. This loan is to make possible for the farmer to take care of his harvesting and are made for four percent. The loans will be made on Saturday afternoons at the home of Mrs. Mabel Alfrey on Fairbanks Avenue.

3500 Votes--

On the Republican ticket are E. C. Cooper, Clerk; Frank Netherly, Sheriff; W. A. Boyd, Judge; and Addie Murray, Judge.

On the Democratic ticket are E. C. Cooper, Clerk; Frank Netherly, Sheriff; W. A. Boyd, Judge; and Addie Murray, Judge.

In the Constable race in District No. 1, J. H. Adams seeks the Republican nomination over J. Jennings, while Oscar McGlothlin is opposed by Bernard Hargis for the Democratic nomination for that office.

Unofficial estimates of the registration of voters in Rowan County places the total number of registered voters of both parties at approximately 6700--3700 Democrats and 3000 Republicans. These figures would indicate a considerable increase made by both parties since the county election four years ago, and could safely be placed at a gain of 700 Democrats and 500 Republicans since that time.

However, even these large registration figures do not indicate a heavy vote in Saturday's election, since approximately 800 to 1000 voters are either now in the Army or are employed by national defense works out of the state. Considering these facts, and that usually only sixty-five percent of the registered voters go to the polls on election day, a fair estimate of the total number of votes cast in Saturday's primary would not exceed 3800, and would be much closer to 3500.

Frank Daugherty--

(Continued from Page 1) Director for the Committee, pointed out that "General Daugherty does not mention individual brands of beer or breweries. The Committee work is done entirely in the interest of the State's legalized brewing industry and for this reason it can have nothing to do with the sales promotion, legislation or trade practices. Its sole interest is the improvement of retail beer sales conditions, and accomplishes this through cooperation with law enforcement agencies and licensing boards."

The General has spoken before a number of Rotary Clubs, Lions Clubs, Chambers of Commerce and similar organizations and his talks proved interesting to those who have heard him. The Merchants Club heartily invites the entire public to attend this meeting of the Club and hear General Daugherty. They feel quite sure that you will enjoy hearing his talk about the Committee.
