"ONE OF KENTUCKY'S GREATER WEEKLIES"

VOLUME VIII

MOREHEAD, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 23, 1941

NUMBER FORTY-THREE

WOODY HINTON

All my life I have tried to crash into highway society, but it seems I have seen a social "top." I have had as high as $4.00 on a pie that was worth maybe $0.40. Later in life I went partners with a guy on a Tuxedo and would spend my midnight hours around the Chinese Restaurants in Huntington trying to impress the guys and the girls on the hill that I was a boy about town. My partner and I had a disagreement and sold the suit to a Mr. Mazon, who said he'd give me $100.00. I thought he'd not give up his job however, I leaped to eat someone with my little finger stiff as a ten-penny nail. I was going to be a "clay" diner party and dropped the salt shaker in my soup, splattering up the front of my red. Being a weak sort of a guy I was determined to get in the four hundred, so I took up bridge. I played on the Virginia Road, which I played out in Elliott county. I climbed to the heights and as I would pass I could see the people playing in the hills. They thought to playing a game they called contract, and the boys called red. I was a weak sort of a guy, I could say, "we want a fourth bridge." All I could say that all

Wage Earners Are

Wages Soon

Bobon Urges That Care Be Exercised In Spelling Names And Places

A timely warning is broadcast to wage earners whose wages for the month of October are being paid by the Social Security Board. Only three months remain in which to request a change in their wage record for 1937, Elbert M. Bobon, manager of the social security office in Ashland, Kentucky, points out. He explains that the law allows a period of four years after the year the wages in question were received, during which an individual can obtain a correction of any error that may occur in his wage record. In reminding employees of this feature of the law, he points out still time to have the first year's record cleared up. Mr. Bobon said workers may obtain a statement of their wage records on request to the Social Security Board. His office will furnish post cards for use in making the request. The cards are free and require only a one-cent stamp. To secure the wage statement, the individual worker must personally sign the request. (Continued on Page 4.)

THIS WEEK IN DEFENSE

The Navy announced the destroyer Kearney was torpedoed while on patrol duty near Iceland. The boat was able to proceed under its own power and no casualties were reported. The president told his press conference the vessel was clearly within American defensive waters when attacked.

The House passed a bill modifying the Neutrality Act forbidding arming of merchant ships. Navy Secretary Knox told his press conference the Navy was ready to put guns aboard American merchant ships as soon as Congress authorizes the action. He said there are sufficient guns for all merchantmen although not all can be used against both airplanes and submarines. He said arming merchant ships will slow down submarines and impair their marksmanship because they will have to stay below the surface and use their limited supply of torpedoes instead of attacking with shells.

Navy Secretary Knox announced two coverage submarines are being transferred to Britain under the lend-lease program. The President announced lend-lease transfers during September reached a record $125,000,000 in equipment and supplies—about three times the monthly average of the past six months. The President said aid is going to Britain, China, South America, and the refugees Polish and Norwegian governments. Russia, he said, is paying gold and strategic materials for supplies sent to that country.

The President reported only five percent of the original $7,000,000 for lend-lease remains unused. The House voted $5,711,000,000 for further lend-lease activities.

Price Administrator Henderson, speaking in Detroit, said although in the United States is producing thirty-five percent more than ever before—forty-five more than in 1928—only twelve to fourteen percent of national income is going into defense. He said America is giving only one hour of eight of defense work. Although OPM schedules show this will be increased to two out of eight hours by next June, he said, Hitler is using five of every eight hours for German war efforts.

OPM Research Chief Stacy May speaking in New York, reported spending for defense in September was at approximately $14,000,000,000—$203,000,000 higher than August. He said Hitler could be beaten if the United States shifted ten percent of its productive capacity to armaments and suggested a $50,000,000,000 a year defense program.

The War Department announced medium tank production almost doubled in September as compared with August and light tank production showed a "good gain." Congress passed legislation authorizing a $1,500,000,000 increase in APC borrowing and ending power to be used partially to expand steel producing facilities by 10,000,000 tons at a cost of $1,000,000,000. OPM ordered auto production for January, 1942, cut at least fifty-one percent below last January levels.

The Navy instructed its officers to impress on companies behind schedule an ordinance contracts the necessity of speedy deliveries even if it means working three shifts, seven days a week until 2:57 man.

Can You Throw A Curve? Don't Be Too Sure

Does a baseball curve? Do pitchers really have "curve" on the ball? Such questions would have been asked a riddle until a few weeks ago. A weekly picture magazine had an article with photographs which purported to prove that there is a curve to a noticeable curve on a baseball.

The day that these pictures were caught up. The Department asked manufacturers who can increase production by revising their contracts to start new negotiations at once.

The OPM Contract Distribution Division announced large orders will be withheld from firms refusing to farm out a sizeable part of the work. The announcement said small business must be mobilized quickly because more than sixty percent of all industrial workers are employed by firms having less than five hundred workers each.

The War Department reported a 100-ton howitzer was successfully built from parts made by a refrigerator firm, an oil-well supplier, manufacturer and a railroad car builder none of whose employees had prior cannon producing experience.

The Federal Security Agency asked all employees who anticipate layoffs due to shortages to report their problems at once to the nearest State Employment office—the first step in obtaining Government action to give plants defense orders.

The Agriculture Department reported the farm labor supply at sixty-four percent of normal and twenty-five percent below last year, and said farmers have been taking their hired men from keeping industrial jobs only by the use of their own labor.

The Agriculture Department announced national prospects for all crops improved about two percent during September, indicating one of the largest total farm yields on record. The Department said it will not need priority orders except special classes, because ratings are assigned to manufacturer and warehousemen who supply farmers.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics index of nine hundred wholesale prices remained unchanged at the week ended October 11 although in the past year average wholesale prices have risen 17.2 percent and are the highest since early 1930. Price Administrator Henderson notified tire manufacturers that they would not object to advances in consumer flat prices on the tire and tubes to not more than nine percent above June 16 levels. He also announced an investigation of crude oil prices because of suggested price increases.

Merchandise Director Nelson extended priority assistance to virtually all industrial plants needing maintenance and repair parts. The order was in line with SPAB policy of keeping all industrial machines in good running order. Mr. Nelson suspended until March 31, 1942, the aluminum operations of the Central Pattern and Foundry Company, Chicago, because it allegedly diverted aluminum to non-defense uses such as the manufacture of slot machines. Mr. Nelson also imposed rigid controls on certain chemicals, including some used for dry cleaning.

The Maritime Commission awarded contracts for construction of forty-nine tankers which it said will be part of the largest and most modern tanker fleet in the world. Including those building or ordered by the Commission and private interests, 208 new tankers of 2,195,500 gross tons will be finished by the end of 1943, bringing the total available to 568. The Commission reported launching this week at two more of these tankers and also adopted a program calling for construction of fifteen reinforced concrete barges suitable for carrying oil.

Secretary of State Hull issued a statement "that the United States has been transferred to the Air Force for ground duty to free flying officers for air duty. The Army announced formation of four new Coast Artillery Barrage Balloon Battalions, each with 1,257 men.

However, the pictures which show the ball every third of a second between the pitcher and batter show that the ball travels in a straight line. A straight edge laid through the center of the first and last balls on one picture will pass through the center of every ball in the picture.

It seems that about the only thing that a pitcher can throw is a frog and he can only do that by throwing the ball slower. As for "hops," "quick breaks," a "hook" the photographs indicate that there could be no such things. The strange thing about this argument is that it does not seem to have occurred to many people before. It was taken for granted that any handoff pitcher could toss a curve anytime that he desired.

This idea that spin will cause a ball to curve, of course, is the familiar Bernoulli principle, which is: Where the velocity of a fluid is high, the pressure is low and where the velocity is low the pressure is high.

DEFENSE BOND Quiz

Q. Just what is inflation and how can it be minimized? A. Inflation is a decrease in the buying power of the dollar caused by a rising cost of living. This, in turn, is brought about by a heavy public demand, resulting from a rapid increase in the national income, for things which cannot be provided in large enough quantities. Every citizen can help minimize inflation by buying Defense Bonds and Stamps. Q. How can I get cash for my Defense Savings Stamps if I should need to redeem them? A. Go to any post office.

Dove And Squirrel Season To End On October 27th; 31st

Wakefield Reminds Kentucky Hunters To Save License Holders

The Kentucky hunting fraternity will cease firing on doves on October 27 and on squirrels October 31, according to a statement issued today by S. A. Wakefield, Director of the Division of Game and Fish. The open seasons on doves and squirrels will end on those respective dates.

Wakefield pointed out that with the exception of hunting ducks, there would be no other legal game to seek in Kentucky from November 1 until November 24 when the season opens on rabbits, quail and turkeys. The migratory waterfowl opened October 16 and will continue through December 14.

As this is the time of year when bird hunters are seen exercising their dogs into the fields, Wakefield suggested that no guns be carried by the nimrods while working their canines. This would eliminate any embarrassment which might occur when contact with wild game was made or if the hunters were approached by a conservation officer.

Again Kentucky hunters and fishermen were urged to "hang on" to their metal license holders and to use them over and over. All sportsmen should be more careful in the handling of their holders and to make a special effort against losing them or misplacing them in the future, thereby helping the Division of Game and Fish to save money from the expenditure for such holders and assisting in the national defense program as well by saving metal.

FLOATING DENTAL OFFICES PROVIDED BY NAVY FOR UNCLE SAM'S SAILORS

THE NAVY DENTAL OFFICER pictured above is working on the teeth of an enlisted man in the ship's dental office aboard the U.S.S. Salt Lake City, 10,000-ton cruiser.

Included among the fifty-odd trade and vocational training courses open to recruits in the U. S. Navy or Naval Reserve who pass the required examination is dental technician schooling. This course, like all Navy trade and vocational courses, is free and provides an excellent groundwork for a future career in later civilian life. All recruits receive their regular Navy pay during the period they are at a Navy trade school. This training is valued at hundreds of dollars.

Wakefield Cites Ten Commandments

Urges Caution In The Handling Of Firearms In Home And Field

"Receiving the full charge of a 12-gauge shotgun in the back of his head when his brother, Mornal Mallick, 20, of 319 East Jefferson, stumbled while the two were dove hunting near Shepherdsville yesterday, Karen Mallick, 27, 317 East Jefferson, barber, was dead today." So reads an article carried in the Louisville Times, Monday evening, October 13.

Stories of many accidents of like nature will be carried in the papers of the state during the next three months, S. A. Wakefield, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, pointed out today, and urged hunters to use extreme caution and safety handling firearms and while roaming the woods and fields of the Commonwealth during the hunting season. "Nowadays we hunt mostly for the pleasure of it, and it takes only one accident to mar forever the memory of the good hunting and the pleasant companionship of what might have been a happy hunting trip," Wakefield explained.

The division passes on TEN COMMANDMENTS OF NIMRODIC LAW which every hunter should memorize and observe while in the field:

1. Handle every gun as if it were loaded.
2. Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger.
3. Never leave your gun unattended unless you first unload it.
4. Carry your gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle even if you slip.
5. Always make certain that the barrel and action are clear of obstruction—but be sure to look into the breach of the gun, not the muzzle.
6. Never point your gun at anything you do not want to shoot.
7. Avoid horseplay while holding a gun.
8. Never shoot at a flat hard surface, such as rocks or the surface of water.
9. Instruct your children in the proper use of firearms and explain the dangers of the weapons.
10. Do not mix gunpowder and alcohol.

FARM NEWS

Many Harlan county farmers are producing fall fryers for the first time. Frank Wheeler continues to sell 250 chicks per week from his broiler plant; Emmett Blair sells one hundred weekly from his plant, and Charles Hall is selling fifty a week from his front door.

"Fall gardens for defense" displays attracted more attention than almost any other feature of the Hopkins county fair produce show. The number of different vegetables that can be produced locally, how to cook them, etc. were shown.

While dairy production in Spencer county is up fifteen percent over previous years, there has been a slight decline due to lack of previous pastures. To offset this, most dairymen are using mid-winter rations. More cows are being bought, and more heifer calves saved.

Thirty percent more Wolfe county farmers sowed greens, such as turnips, for winter use.

How to make home storage structures has been studied in Calloway county, in a series of eleven community meetings.

Trying to kill wild onions, a Marshall county farmer is seeding twenty-five pounds of vetch and 1 1-2 bushels of rye per acre.

Carroll county 4-H'ers are making exhibits showing how to cooperate with "food for freedom" programs.

In Powell county, five thousand pounds of vetch will be seeded this fall; also, spring seedings were large.

Lamb pools and shipped to Flemingsburg by Greenup county farmers brought an average of $80 per hundred weight.

It is estimated that 1,000 acres of soybeans will be harvested for grain by Christian county farmers.

Preparing for a long-term livestock improvement campaign, Anderson county farmers went on a tour of Louisville stockyards, packing plants, etc. observing different types and grades.

Twelve dozen fruit jars were distributed in prizes at a 4-H club canning exhibit in Graves county. One club girl won forty jars, Loretta M. Wyatt, the home agent, considers such prizes better than small amounts of cash.

At the Logan county fair club members exhibited 160 articles of clothing, 117 jars of canned foods, thirteen baked foods and five-room improvement exhibits. Cash prizes totaled $80.00. It is estimated that 4,000 persons saw the club exhibits.

The Linefork 4-H club sponsored a community fair for farmers, homemakers and 4-H club members at Kingdom Come in Letcher county.

Drum And Bugle Corps Planned

Morehead Legion Post To Sponsor Group

In their regular semi-monthly meetings, held October 3, members of the Corbie Ellington Post 128 of Morehead, discussed plans for organizing a drum and bugle corps. Head of the discussion was Post Commander, Jack Cecil and Horace "Toady" Owens student of Morehead State Teachers college. Mr. Owens who has been a member of the Jenkins Drum and Bugle Corps for the past several years, was invited as special guest to lead the discussion.

Mr. Owens stated the advantages and expense of organizing and maintaining a corps. He suggested a sixteen-piece marching corps as being most apt to succeed in a community the size of Morehead. The sixteen pieces would be made up of four snare drums, two bass drums, two cymbals, and eight bugles with one snare drum and two bugles acting as alternates. The members of the Legion agreed very much enthused by Mr. Owens' praise of any community having a drum and bugle corps. A committee was appointed by Commander Cecil to study the possibilities of having such a corps in Morehead.

"AUNT IDY" AND "LITTLE CLIFFORD"

THE BRECKINRIDGE TRAINING SCHOOL is presenting at the college auditorium on Friday evening, October 24th, the Benfro Valley Barn Dance gang. This is the complete unit of this well known radio attraction and includes such nationally known acts as Gene Cobb, Elim Miller, Homer and Jethro, and Aunt Idy and Little Clifford. The performance is scheduled for 7:30 and admission will be 40c for adults and 25c for children.

Mr. Owens is well known in Morehead as a first rate performer in the college band and college glee club. His connection with the Jenkins Drum Corps (Kentucky State Champions in 1938-40 and 41 is very close. He is musical adviser and arranger for the corps. One of the latest arrangements was heard at the Kentucky State American Legion Convention at Lexington.

Sciol Science Books Acquired By Our College Library Recently

We will continue our discussion in this article on the Social Science books, that have recently been acquired by our college library. They are as follows:

1. Ybarra, T. R. (America Faces South.) Dodd, Mead Publishing Company, $3.00.
The author's father was a Venezuelan and his mother was a New Englander. The author himself has spoken both Spanish and English fluently from early childhood; so he is psychologically and culturally equipped to discuss with authority such ticklish questions as which Latin American countries like or dislike us and why; the truth about Hitler's Nazi penetration in South America; popular American misconceptions of the general run of South American governments; the Panama Canal as a vital link in our defensive system, and many other important questions.

2. Laski, Harold J. (The American Presidency.) Harper Publishing Company, $2.50.
The author is the professor of Political Science in the U. of London. (The American Presidency) is informal, alive, stimulating and to anyone concerned with American ways of life it will evoke a great deal of the fascination of our history.

3. Brooks, Iris. (English Costumes From the 14th Through The 19th Century.) The Macmillan Publishing Company, $3.95.
Here in one volume have been brought together Miss Brooke's five charming and informative books on English costume from the 14th throughout the 19th century. It is of special value as a picture of the changing ways in England, evidenced by entertaining notes on social habits and customs of the times.

Wage Earners--

Mr. Bohon explained further that the Board's records of employees' wages are taken from employers' reports and that in some instances these reports may be incomplete or incorrect due to misspelling of a name, a mistake in copying the social security account number or omitting a number entirely. Any worker who has reason to believe that his wages have not been correctly reported should check with the Social Security Board at once, since these wage records are used in determining the amount of Federal old-age and survivors insurance to which a worker and his family may be eligible.

Eayles Win Again--

from New Rivers, New Jersey, played an amazing game after substituting for Justice at the full-back position. Hetman crossed the goal line four times for twenty-four points, and plunged over for one extra point. Each of the regular backfield men scored at least one touchdown, the center scored once, and three substitutes in addition to Hetman, rolled up the biggest score the Eagles have ever chalked up against a collegiate gridiron foe.

Each team rang up twenty-four first downs. The Eagles made 630 yards on rushing and fifty-six yards passing. The boys from Rio Grande were able to gain only 242 yards rushing and seventy yards on passes.

A fact, equally amazing as the score, was that there were no penalties whatsoever on either team.

Four Faculty Members, On Northern Trip

Feeling that the present situation might make for interesting experiences for tourists, Miss Ella Wilkes, Miss Inez Faith Humphrey, George Young, and William Willsoughby of the Morehead State Teachers college faculty took a late summer trip through New England, Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, and Canada.

The party left Morehead August 24 and arrived in Boston three days later. Here they lingered for four days visiting the numerous spots of literary and historic interest which surround the city. They visited Longfellow's, Emerson's, and Louisa May Alcott's homes in addition to such other places as Sleepy Hollow cemetery and Plymouth.

From Boston, they took a steamship to Yarmouth, Nova Scotia. As on all the other boats sailing from the west coast, the sailing time was kept secret to protect the passengers.

Halifax, Nova Scotia, chief port of the province, reported Mr. Young showed unmistakable signs of the military and commercial intercourse which pass through the main artery of supply from the New World to Great Britain. The trip from Nova Scotia to Newfoundland took place in a small, completely blacked-out ion-breaker on which the Morehead group were the only passengers without urgent business. The ship docked at Port-aux-Basques but since none of us had a passport, they were kept under surveillance by the Newfoundland Rangers and were unable to go beyond the town limits. Mr. Young was especially impressed by the solidity of the weathertight houses though he added that the town was extremely haphazardly arranged.

Going to Canada proper by way of Prince Edward Island, which Mr. Young compared to Kentucky, except that horses rather than tobacco are the principal crop, the party continued through the beautiful Cape Peninsula to Montreal, and later, Quebec. Here they passed a pleasant week visiting the many churches, shrines, public buildings and other things of interest which abound in the country near these picturesque, old, French-Canadian cities.

Points On Amend.-

schools not to exceed ten percent of which may be distributed to needy districts on other than a per capita basis. Reasons why voters should support the proposed amendment are as follows:

1. Nearly a third of the children of the state get only seven months of schooling while the other two get eight, nine, and ten months.
2. This ill-favored third of the children have the poorest paid teachers.
3. They would have to go to school over eleven years to get the schooling the children of Lexington get in eight years.
4. The present constitution plan for supporting schools is as much out of date as anything else which was created in 1891.
5. Eighty-one counties have only seven months of elementary schools.
6. It will protect the wealthier districts from future legislation to divert local school funds.
7. It will be economical to taxpayers because it will enable the legislature to appropriate school funds to districts which need help most without putting on a blanket raise over the entire state.
8. Nearly all the districts affected are now levying all the local tax law permits. Their only possible source of help is from the state.
9. This will probably be the last chance for a quarter of a century to collect this injustice and discrimination against a third of tomorrow's citizens.
10. The relief rolls of our wealthy cities are largely made up of persons who come from an area of limited opportunity.
11. The distribution of road funds or welfare funds on a per capita basis would have prevented the building of a highway system of the care of the state's unfortunate citizens. The present manner of distribution of school funds is equally absurd.
12. The favored districts will continue to get the current amount, or more, of aid from the state. If the amendment should fail of adoption some other plan for helping the distressed districts will be found by their majorities in the legislature.
13. It is highly improbable that the per capita will ever be reduced because the majority of the members of the legislature come from districts where more funds are needed and they will not be likely to vote against the interests of their own districts.

14. A vote for the amendment is a vote for 150,000 children. A vote against the amendment is a vote against 250,000 children.

EXCHANGES

What's the good of college? How much is college education worth in dollars, dimes and cents? Does an education aid a person to become a "success"?

Each year spent in college is worth $18,000, according to Frank H. Bowles of Columbia University. By the time a college graduate is sixty years old, he has earned on the average, $72,000 more than a high school graduate. "This means," says Bowles, "that each year of the four college years is worth $18,000."

There are other ways of measuring the value of a college education. Inclusion of Who's Who in America is sometimes used to measure "success." According to one survey, the person who does not attend college has less than one chance in 12,000 of getting into Who's Who, while the college graduate has one chance in 80.

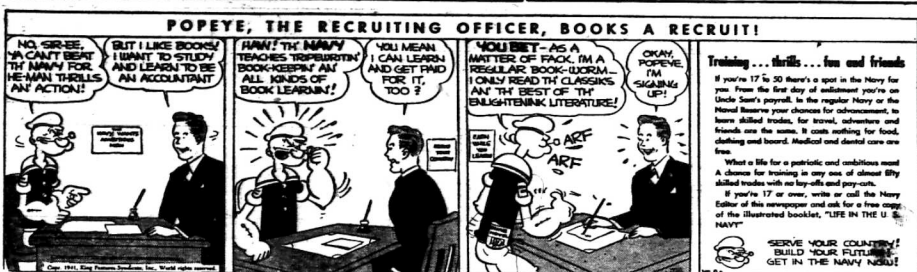

College education, of course, cannot be given all the credit. College students probably average higher in mental ability than non-college men. Then, too, college students may have better opportunities than others—they may have more "pull."

Perhaps "pull" has been somewhat overestimated in achieving success in business—especially in the long run. A survey, made by Walter S. Gifford, showed that students who did best in college studies made more money than students who stood lower scholastically. This survey brought out that for the first five years after graduation there was little difference in the income made by college graduates but as the years rolled by the "good students" earned increasingly more than the others. Thirty years after graduation, the men who were scholastically in the top third were earning fifty percent more than the men in the bottom third. And the men in the top tenth averaged one hundred percent more earnings than the men in the lower third.

THINK ON THESE THINGS

By REV. B. H. KAZEE

I used to join in all the noble movements of my community, and lend my hand in any moral or educational or religious work, and to all that are in any way akin to these things. I have kept this up throughout my past life, and do not intend to fail in my support of all that is good for man. Like most people who aspired to the better life, I claimed to have been under the three conventional heads: physical, mental and spiritual (or as some have it, moral). Under the last named head I thought of religious training and development, and could relate practically any movement that was for physical, social, or educational benefit.

I used to say, along with others, that no man was complete without a moral and spiritual development. I still say it.

But the error we all made is in thinking that religion was a thing to be tacked on to man's life to make him complete. That he must have some connection with a spiritual or moral development, else he would be unbalanced in character.

I have advanced far enough now to know how wrong I was. It is not fanatical for one to come to the conclusion that religion is not always God, that it may as often be godless as godly. That to have some sort of religious development, or moral attitude, is not necessarily God working in us. I know now that religion and God are not synonymous, and that one can be exceedingly religious without being godly. Religion in this sense can be tacked on to any kind of character, and it will, in the eyes of the world, enhance the character, but it will not make one godly nor spiritual.

If one would be godly—not merely religious—he cannot tuck God on to his character. He must take God into his life where God may control every phase of man's thinking and conduct. God must be Lord of all, or He will not be Lord of all. This is not because God is arbitrary, but because this is best for man. He must be the dictator of one's life if that one would be godly. Instead of asking God to sweeten up our character with a shallow obedience to His ethics, we must acknowledge our sin and presumption, our insult in expecting Him to accept any offering of ours, and let Him put to death "that which is born of the flesh." In its stead, we must accept alone that which God can give us. Thus we become new creatures in Christ Jesus. But God added on to what we are, but by His holy presence, as being worthy only of death, and in agreement with God we let Him put it to death. Thus God becomes all that is good or noble within us, and it is "no longer I that live, but Christ liveth in me."

"Old things have passed away, behold all things have become new."
This is the only religion worth moment of our consideration. All else is mere deception—the glazing over of human frailties with the gloss of code and self esteem.

Army's 28-Year Old Draftees Await The "Go" Release Order

Selective Service Changes Will Soon Release Men Twenty-Eight And Over

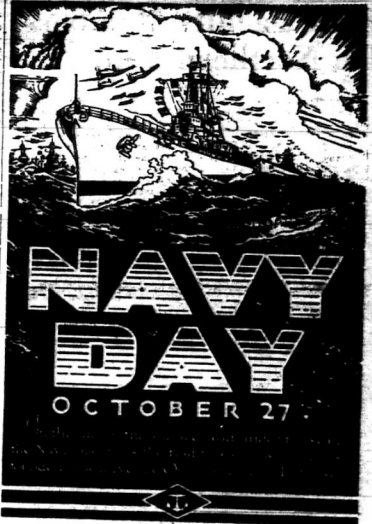

Twenty-eight year olds throughout the Thirty-Eighth "Cyclone" Division were awaiting the "signal" this week-end as headquarters completed machinery for their release under the 1941 Amendment to the Selective Service Act. Soldiers with dependents and other eligibles under the priorities established by the War Department likewise were preparing to leave.
Major General Dan I. Sutton, commander, said the first release probably would become effective the latter part of next week, and that the bulk of men eligible for release should be on their way home in three weeks.

Each man will undergo a thorough final physical examination before he receives his release papers. The Division finance office has completed arrangements for paying off the men, the pay to extend through the last day of service.
The Army will provide a return allowance of five cents per mile to the soldier's draft board or home station, the money to be paid at the time he leaves the division.
Departing men will be heavily laden because Army regulations permit them to keep one uniform of the type in season at the time of their release, an overcoat—or raincoat if the weather is warm—to shirts, one hat, one tie, three pairs of shoes, toilet articles, and all winter and summer underwear, socks, and towels.
Released men become a part of a reserve component of the Army of the United States, which status they retain for ten years, as provided in the Selective Service Act.

Ky's Chain Stores Co-operating With Ky. Farm Program

Purchase Initial Order Of Six Thousand Gallons Of Sorghum

A total of more than six thousand gallons of Sorghum Syrup produced by cooperatives in Kentucky has been ordered as an initial purchase by the chain stores and surrounding state. This initial order typifies the type of cooperation that the Marketing Division of the Department has received from the Chains whenever and wherever they were called upon to be of service to our farmers.

In marketing this year's annually large peach crop in Kentucky the chains have asked to participate and the response to this request was so great that they purchased more than a hundred tons of Kentucky peaches. The purchase alone amounts to approximately 4,000 bushels. It is our feeling that these large purchases in large measure contributed to the fact that it is not necessary for the Surprise Marketing Administration to purchase a single peach in Kentucky. In brief, due to a large part to chain participation, there are no distress peaches of the better grades in the state during the peak market time. This was true in spite of the fact that prior to the opening of the peach market it was the opinion of 31 so-called peach experts that a "tremendous surplus would exist and that there was a real need for S.M.A. participation."

In the marketing of carry-overs in western Kentucky one of the large chain organizations made a $1 million market price for all available tomatoes produced by the Cooperative and thus established a permanent market at standard quotations which continued until the supply of these tomatoes was exhausted.
At fat cattle, hog, sheep, and lamb shows in all parts of the state the chains have cheerfully purchased and without exception have purchased for distribution through their stores the price lists offered at such shows.

The list of items which the chain stores have purchased from Kentucky Cooperative Farm Organization is too long to print—these have had toward increasing of course a matter of speculation. We do not feel however, that it is an exaggeration to state that such increase has been considerable.
The Marketing Division wishes to take this opportunity to express appreciation to the chains for the assistance they have rendered during this year, and while such assistance has been of inestimable help to our farmers as it has been stated we believe also that it has served the double purpose of placing a higher quality merchandise upon the shelves of stores for consumer consumption and brought about a greater understanding between producers and the great chain organizations. Thus cooperation between producer, merchandiser, and consumer has brought about a situation which makes for the general good. This, it seems to us, is what can be received when men set about to unselfishly serve in a worthwhile cause.

The Trimble Democrat recently put on a special "cover crop edition," eight pages printed in green ink and showing winter pasture soil and soil saving. The county agent aided in preparing stories. The newspaper focused the cover crop campaign better than we could have done in two years otherwise," it was added.
Jesseville county 4-Hers have raised 4,300 chicks. Fifty-two club members were supplied chicks by a local hatchery on the "return cockle" plan. They returned twelve cockles for every hundred chicks furnished, at the rate of the agricultural fair.
In McCracken county, farmers brought apples to a central depot for grading instructions from State College of Agriculture and Home Economics specialists. Of these graded, less than a quarter fell below United States number one grade.
