The Morehead News, And Affiliates, Will Soon Be In This Building

The steel is all up and steel siding is being erected for the new home of The Morehead News - a 14,000 floor feet building just west of the Morehead (Cowan) Company. Move to the new quarters will be the first week in August. The building is completely air conditioned, has central heating, and an elaborate wiring system designed to care for present equipment plus another four or six unit offset press which will more than double printing volume. The building is on about an acre of right valuable land. A railroad siding is planned for the rear, primarily to handle newsprint for the spot and process color circular work in which the company specializes.

$170,000 Is Total Today For Hospital

"Please, please turn in your reports." That was the plea this morning from Morehead bankers J. Roger Caudill and Alpha M. Hutchinson to volunteer pledge card workers in the drive for $250,000 as the community's part in the $1,604,000 expansion of St. Claire Medical Center. Caudill and Hutchinson are co-chairmen of the fund raising.

They said that many of the solicitors had made only one, or no, reports, and over 1,000 pledge cards are in their hands. As of this morning the total pledges had reached about $170,000. This does not include any contributions from area counties as they asked for more time.

Carter and Elliott counties have their own organizations which are expected to make their first reports this week.

Hutchinson and Caudill also announced that the Executive Committee which spearheads the drive will continue to meet each Monday evening at 7:30 in the recreation (basement) room of the Peoples Bank, "until we have passed the

*10,000th - The honor of being the 10,000th graduate of Morehead State University went to Janet Vaughan, Flemingsburg coed. Janet, one of Monday's 800 graduates, plans to return to Morehead for her Masters Degree, and said: "It's the greatest place in all the world."

Alumni Confer Their Highest Honors

A popular professor, an insurance company executive and a five-term mayor received the top awards Saturday night at the annual Awards Banquet of the Morehead State University Alumni Association.

The 6th Distinguished Faculty Award went to Dr. Frank M. Mangrum, head of the Department of Philosophy.

Recipient of the Distinguished Alumnus Award was Fola N. Hayes of Nashville, Tenn., regional superintendent of the Jefferson National Life Insurance Co.

The association's Public Service Award was presented to Mayor William H. Layne of Morehead.

More than 800 alumni and friends of the University attended the banquet in the multi-purpose room of Button Auditorium where more than 70 MSU graduates who have distinguished themselves in the fields of medicine and music education in Kentucky were given special recognition.

Twenty-eight students - 23 now enrolled at Morehead State and five recent high school graduates - were awarded $200 Alumni Association scholarships for the 1969-70 school year.

Recipients include: Nathaniel Hall, Sheryl Binion, Kerry Martin, Joyce Swim, Josephine Thompson, Joey Vinson and Herbert Hedgecock, all of Morehead; David A. Collier and Patsy-H. Watts, both of Jackson; Janet Wilson, Jimmy Denniston and Robert Owens, all of Mount Sterling.

Robert W. Clifford of Cynthia; Virginia Crawford of Russell; Janice Cushman of Florence; Anna L. Douglas of Eminence; Janet A. Gordon of Mount Orab; Chley James Lane and Martha G. Manley of Sharpburg; Virginia Conley of Wittensville;

Ann E. Leslie of Greenup; Anita Mullins of Belcher; Kay Newman of Loveland, Ohio; Kaye Newman of Washington Court House, Ohio; Patricia Pinto of Louisville; Betty J. Rigel of Austin, Ind.; Gloria Roberts of Elkhorn City; and Patricia Weaver of Flemingsburg.

Dr. Mangrum's award was presented by Dr. Madison Pryor, chairman of the Division of Biological Sciences and last year's recipient.

The philosophy professor is the first faculty member named to the MSU Board of Regents, having been selected by the university faculty last year.

Dr. Mangrum is a past president of the Kentucky Philosophical Association and serves on four of the university's administrative committees. Before joining the MSU faculty in 1959, he earned a Ph.D. from the University of Chicago.

Hayes, a member of the classes of 1942 and 1948 at MSU, served four consecutive terms as president of the Alumni Association.

A former high school coach and principal, he turned to an insurance career in 1953. The Morgan County native has been active in alumni affairs every year since leaving the campus.

The alumnus award was presented by Ted L. Crosthwait, superintendent of Bardstown city schools and last year's honoree.

Mayor Layne was recognized with the Public Service Award for his longtime cooperation with MSU officials in city-university matters and his effective administration of city government.

Elected for four terms starting in 1966, he returned to the mayor's office in 1966 for an unprecedented fifth term. Mayor Layne is a past president of the Kentucky Municipal League.

The mayor's award was presented by W. E. Crutcher, publisher of The Morehead News and last year's recipient.

Parents Of Morehead University Students 'Fall' For This 'Help Your Child' Letter

THE STUDENT COMMITTEE

MOREHEAD STATE UNIVERSITY

May 12, 1969

Dear Parents:

EXAMS!!!! It is just a short time again until that difficult week here at Morehead. Long, late hours of study are a necessity at exam time, for exams make or break those important grades. These long hours of study put an unaccustomed strain on the student, sometimes causing him (her) to neglect nutritional needs. Help your student through this difficult week. Send your encouragement . . . an Exam Endurance Kit packed with fresh Washington State Apples, Florida Oranges, tropical bananas, potato chips, corn chips, candy bars, other snacks, and instant drink mixes delivered to his (her) dorm on Monday, June 2. Let your student know that YOU are behind him (her) during exams.

We, The Student Committee, offer this kit as an aid to your student. By compiling this on us, we save you time, prohibitive postage, and delivery worry. Let The Student Committee assume the responsibility of delivery and handling of this Exam Endurance Kit. Full satisfaction is guaranteed.

Give your student a boost . . . he (she) is trying not to let you down.

To assure proper handling and delivery, please fill in and send the dotted portion below, with $5.00, cash, check, or money order payable to:

About 550 parents of students at Morehead State University were duped by the above letter which authorities charge is a fraud or 'con' game engineered by a Morehead State student. The student, a member of the class of 1969, made Morehead his base of operations. Each parent sent $5 or more, and the estimated $3,000 is held "en escrow" at the Morehead Post Office. An arrest was made when Gene A. Wahler of Cincinnati, O. tried to procure the letters containing money or money orders at the Morehead Post Office Wednesday afternoon. A "Student Committee" exists or has been authorized at the University.

'Drive Around' Modest Levies Near Morehead, County May Meet Only Token Opposition

Police reported today that the "Drive-Around" about a mile east of Morehead on U. S. 60 is being rebuilt.

The building was the target of almost weekly local option raids by State Police last fall. In early December a murder happened at the Drive Around, and the next day the building was torn down.

State Police charged the place sold alcoholic beverages "wide open" through a rear drive-in window . . . and sold to minors, women, students of Morehead University Boulevard was blocked off with policemen at each intersection.

Lack of parking amplified the problem. The traffic jam may be alleviated some for next year's MSU graduation since I-64 will be open to the east by that time and through traffic will not have to come through Morehead.

ARRESTED . . . Gene A. Wahler, 21, Cincinnati, didn't want the Morehead News photographer to take this picture at Morehead city hall shortly after he was arrested for allegedly "conning money" from 550 parents of MSU students. A blond girl friend was released.

Morehead and Rowan County are on the verge of new tax levies.

The City of Morehead, probably already in deficit spending faces rising costs, street repairs and many other needed improvements.

Further, the City has borrowed $85,000 to purchase rights-of-way for the widening of Triplett Creek. The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers will pay the estimated $900,000 for widening the creek to 200 feet, but the City was required to first furnish the rights-of-way and damaged land owners had to be paid.

City Dump Must Be Moved

Mayor William H. Layne said the city did "a good job" on the rights-of-way and property owners obviously damaged were mostly generous in making a settlement.

The City has another financial problem. The Department of Health has condemned the open city dump on Divide Hill, and Morehead, including the University, must soon provide another site with land-fill methods, a quarry, bulldozers and higher operating costs. An abandoned strip mining (clay) site on Clack Mountain, owned by Daniel Boone National Forest, is under consideration for garbage disposal.

It would also be fixed by Morehead State University, while Fiscal Court has shown cooperation so that rural residents will have a place to dispose of garbage. Most of rural Rowan County is getting.

Dozier Sells All Stock In Battson Drug

One of Morehead's larger dollar volume businesses, Battson Drug, Inc., has changed ownership.

George Dozier, holder of 100 percent of the stock, confirmed today that he had sold to Jim Woolley, 35, of Frenchburg.

Woolley presently operates five drug stores or pharmacies Frenchburg, Salyersville and Sandy Hook and in hospitals at Hindman and Red Bird, Ky. Dozier said the only reason he sold was "because of my father." His father, W. R. Dozier who has helped his son operate the business, has asthma and allied sinus health problems. The Dozier's plan to move to the Phoenix, Arizona area. They have always been a closely knit family.

"My father and I and my family love Morehead and the people," Mr. Dozier said. "We particularly love Morehead State University, one of the greatest in all America, and expect to return for visits often . . . We are deeply and humbly appreciative for the support we have received from the public and the confidence placed in our store. I sold to a young man with great experience in this retail field, and know that he will be an asset to the fine Morehead community."

Voting Machines Checked; Arnett Nominated By 40

A re-check of the voting machines in the 71st legislative district revealed that Sherman R. Arnett, incumbent, Morehead, won the democratic nomination by 40 plurality, instead of 48 as first reported.

True Mackey, Mt. Olivet, who ran second in a close three-way race, requested the machines be checked again. The district is made up of Rowan, Robertson and Fleming counties.

In one Flemingsburg precinct Arnett had been credited with 48 votes when the tally should have been 40. This cut his victory margin by eight ballots. All the other precincts were correct as initially reported in the Morehead News.

The re-check shows Arnett received 1,804; Mackey 1,764; and Ollie Barker, Morehead, 1,698.

Arnett won the nomination although he didn't carry a county. He did this by running second in all counties, and Mackey received only 190 votes in Rowan.

Mackey carried Robertson and Fleming counties, but margin was not enough to overcome his poor showing in Rowan. Barker carried Rowan County by 108 votes over Arnett.

comment as his son is in a hospital. However, he has already taken over the business, and will be in Morehead next week.

The store was founded in the mid '20's by Hartley Batson. He sold to Dozier in November, 1964, but the name "Batson's" was retained. Dozier came to Morehead from management of a drug store in Winchester.

In 1965 the selling space of the business was increased four times as the adjoining old Cozy Theatre was remodeled and the two rooms on the corner of Main and University Boulevard connected. Batson's is a Walgreen agency and agent for Greyhound Bus Lines.

his opinion, be granted by Judge John J. Winn if he (Flannery) requests this.

This would mean a possible trial at the November term, but this is remote since the County Judge's term expires Dec. 31 and Flannery lost to Clyde Litton in the primary.

Unlike the days before the primary everything is quiet and normal around the courthouse, and some political wounds are apparently healing following a no hold barred election.

MENTAL HEALTH LEVY SEEN

Mayor Layne said Council is studying two money raising proposals: 1. Enact a small garbage collection fee; and 2. A $10 vehicle sticker tax on people who work in Morehead, but live outside the city limits. Most other municipalities already have such a levy on out of town workers. Motorists living in Morehead already pay the $10 a year.

Rowan Fiscal Court may act today on a formal request to raise the health tax two additional cents - from 4 cents on each $100 assessment to 6 cents. The money is sought by the Cave Run Regional Mental Health and Mental Retardation Commission, headquartered at Morehead. All of this money would be spent on mental health programs in Rowan County, and cannot be used at the millage level.

This tax increase is not great in that a person owning property assessed at $10,000 would pay $2 a year more.

Fiscal Court probably has no alternative except to make the additional two cent levy because four years ago Rowan voters approved a health tax up to 10 cents on each $100 assessment. This is a voted (by the people) mandate. So far, the tax has been 4 cents because that was deemed adequate as the county's share in operating the health department on Sun Street.

Justification: "from the Latin or Old French 'justificatio'. In Theology the act, process or state of being justified by God; also, the terms under which one is justified.

Justify: "from the Old French 'justifier' means in Theology to accept and receive those as just or righteous who respond to Christ in wholehearted faith, or to those who are righteous by infusing grace into them."

"This word, which is also translated righteous or righteousness, is found in both the Old and New Testaments. In both Testaments, to be justified means to be brought into a "right" relationship with a person. The right relationship can be from one man to another man (men) or from man to God. In the case of a man-to-man relationship, any man can act in a righteous way to another, this is justified. However, in the case of a man-to-God relationship, only God can justify. Justification, Alan Richardson says "by obeying the words of the law, by sacrifices accompanied by a devoted heart, a man may continue to sin and maintain a right relationship with God, but the establishment of that relationship in the first place is by the good favor, that is by the grace of God."

St. Paul in Gal. 2:11-21 says that a man is justified through faith in Jesus Christ and not by the works of the law. St. Paul was going against Jewish tradition in this passage. The good Jew felt he was justified when he "attained a state of righteousness by following the law. St. Paul says that on man's part the condition for justification is faith in Jesus Christ. What does this involve? How does man achieve this? By putting his whole trust in Christ. By receiving Jesus in Christ he is able to change his attitude from the state of sin in which he has been living to that of a desire to be saved. When a man puts his faith in Jesus Christ and desires to be saved he then is brought into a relationship with God which makes it possible for God to give grace and to justify the sinner and a will to turn from evil.

The proper understanding of justification is all important to the Christian. He must understand that the gift of grace (justification) makes God greater than a judge who weighs the good against the bad and then gives out reward or punishment. Justification is the act by which God restores the sinner to Goodness. God asks of man only faith and a will to turn from evil. In return He is able to give justification (rightness) to man who by his sinful nature can never hope to obtain this gift through works of the law or good works. Man is made perfect (righteous) only through God's gift. - Terry Taylor.

National Teen-Age Driving Champ From Kentucky; Wins At Detroit

Too often, motorists of the older, four-door sedan generation tend to look upon car-conscious youth as a conglomerate of dragging, speed-thirsty, thrill-hungry kids who, with all the imagined reckless abandon of an Indianapolis "500" driver gone mad, roar up and down the nation's highways and by-ways to a symphony of squealing tires, clashing gears and blue exhaust smoke.

So it is particularly refreshing when someone like Michael Rice, a senior at Valley Station High School, comes along. A Kentucky thoroughbred in every sense of the word, Michael visited the State Department of Public Safety at Frankfort where he was awarded an aide-de-camp's commission following his selection at Detroit on May 17 as the nation's top teen-age driver.

National recognition of Michael's driving skill came about through a nationwide driving contest sponsored annually by the American Veterans of World War II (AMVETS) and Dodge Div. of Chrysler Corp. for high school students enrolled in driver education courses at their local schools.

Established three years ago to promote and recognize safe driving among our youth, the program first calls for statewide eliminations leading to the selection of one student to represent each state in the national competition at Detroit.

Significantly enough, 1969 proved to be a banner year for Kentucky.

With more than 249,000 boys and girls entered in 24 statewide eliminations, this was not only Kentucky's first year to take part in the program-but it was also the year Kentucky provided the national champion.

"This word, which is also translated righteous or righteousness, is found in both the Old and New Testaments. In both Testaments, to be justified means to be brought into a "right" relationship with a person. The right relationship can be from one man to another man (men) or from man to God. In the case of a man-to-man relationship, any man can act in a righteous way to another, this is justified. However, in the case of a man-to-God relationship, only God can justify. Justification, Alan Richardson says "by obeying the words of the law, by sacrifices accompanied by a devoted heart, a man may continue to sin and maintain a right relationship with God, but the establishment of that relationship in the first place is by the good favor, that is by the grace of God."

St. Paul in Gal. 2:11-21 says that a man is justified through faith in Jesus Christ and not by the works of the law. St. Paul was going against Jewish tradition in this passage. The good Jew felt he was justified when he "attained a state of righteousness by following the law. St. Paul says that on man's part the condition for justification is faith in Jesus Christ. What does this involve? How does man achieve this? By putting his whole trust in Christ. By receiving Jesus in Christ he is able to change his attitude from the state of sin in which he has been living to that of a desire to be saved. When a man puts his faith in Jesus Christ and desires to be saved he then is brought into a relationship with God which makes it possible for God to give grace and to justify the sinner and a will to turn from evil.

The proper understanding of justification is all important to the Christian. He must understand that the gift of grace (justification) makes God greater than a judge who weighs the good against the bad and then gives out reward or punishment. Justification is the act by which God restores the sinner to Goodness. God asks of man only faith and a will to turn from evil. In return He is able to give justification (rightness) to man who by his sinful nature can never hope to obtain this gift through works of the law or good works. Man is made perfect (righteous) only through God's gift. - Terry Taylor.

The Board of Directors of Northeast Kentucky Hospital Foundation this week made the biggest contribution to the drive. Their 15 member Board of Directors voted $20,000 gift. This was from money earned by the Foundation when it operated the consultation clinic.

The Foundation also decided the trailer at the rear of the hospital which they had purchased in connection with the consultation clinic operation to the Sisters of Notre Dame, and authorized a committee composed of W. E. Crutcher, Leonard D. Queen and Norma Hogue to dispose of the equipment and office furniture owned by the Foundation, and also store or dispose of the records which date back to 1960. Crutcher said the committee had decided to donate all physical assets to Sisters of Notre Dame, and would recommend at the annual membership meeting of the Foundation on July 12, that accounts etc within the consultation clinic be liquidated and closed out, and accounts receivable given to Sisters of Notre Dame as of July 12.

To The Voters Of Rowan County -

I wish to thank all the voters of Rowan County for the support given me during the past election.

Although I was unsuccessful in my bid for the Democratic nomination for Sheriff of Rowan County, I would like to advise my supporters and those who really desired to support me, that shortly before the election, that I am positive that there was excessive pressure applied by an existing county official, who was also defeated, to a lot of my friends that cost him the election and also helped my opponent to win. Strictly the double cross in politics.

As all of you know the close ties of the two major offices held firm all the way and my opponent was the winner as he traded both sides.

This cross and double cross to me became apparent shortly before election day, and for the good of the county and citizens I advised my supporters to support the winner for judge, and a

'Con' Game? 550 Parents Of Students At MSU Allegedly 'Fell' For The Old Examination Food Racket

More than 550 families (mostly parents) of students at Morehead State University were victims of the old "food package" con game, police said this morning.

But, they have probably been rescued, and a 21 year old student at Miami (Oxford, O.) University, termed by Morehead police as a "hippie", faces local and perhaps federal charges.

Meanwhile, the post office is holding "en escrow" an estimated $5,000 from the 550 parents who wanted to be sure their son or daughter received sufficient nutrients during examinations this week.

According to police this is what happened -

* On May 1 a young man asked to rent "the largest box you have" at the Morehead Post Office. Told that only small boxes were available, he rented one.

Picture of accused and copy of allegedly illegal letter on page one.

registered mail.

When Wahler appeared at the window he was referred to Assistant Postmaster Bob Fraley who asked for proof of identity etc. This was an obvious stall. A telephone call went from the post office to city police who in turn contacted Officer Kirk by radio.

* Kirk placed Wahler under arrest.

Girl Friend Released

Wahler was driving a fast, new deluxe sports car and accompanied by a 19 year old blond haired girl.

She was later released, but Wahler spent the night in jail. The next morning his mother, who lives in Cincinnati, was in Morehead to post a $1,000 cash bond.

The May 12 letters that Wahler, or accomplices, allegedly mailed asked for a $5 (some parents sent more) contribution to the Student Committee of Morehead State University to provide their son or daughter - - an Endurance kit packed with fresh Washington State apples, Florida oranges, tropical bananas, potato chips, candy bars, other snacks and instant drink mixes delivered to his (her) dorm on Monday, June 2. Let your student know that you are behind him (her) during exams - - we, the Student Committee, offer this kit as an aid to your student - - give your student a boost - - he (she) is trying hard to let you down.

The solicitation letter continued: "To assure proper handling and delivery please fill and send the dotted portion below, with $5.00 cash, check or money order payable to: "The Student Committee, P. O. Box 531, Morehead, Ky."

The coupon contained a blank line for the student's name; another for his dormitory or other address; and "With best wishes - - from - -"

The alleged fraud letter specified that all orders (for Endurance Kits) must be received on or before May 23.

telling postal clerk Ezra Adkins to expect a large volume of mail. Adkins advised that in such cases the mail is held in a "tie" and a notice put in the (small) box instructing the patron to call at the window.

* Complying with postal laws and regulations Adkins required the applicant to supply identification and his full address. The young man signed the name "Gene A. Wahler" and a street address in Oxford, O. where the University of Miami is located. (Investigation showed both the name and address were correct. Post Office box 531 was assigned with one key requested.

* On or about May 15 the parent of a MSU student while visiting on the campus observed to President Adron Doran, "I sent a contribution to the examination food fund." Not knowing what this meant, Dr. Doran pursued the conversation, and the parent produced a letter headed, "The Student Committee - Morehead State University."

* Recognizing the letter as a fraud Dr. Doran telephoned Morehead postmaster Claude Clayton and this set off an investigation by postal inspectors. Morehead police, and security officers at Morehead State University.

* A warrant charging illegal use of the name of Morehead State University to obtain money under false pretenses was issued for Gene A. Wahler (John Doe) by City Judge Austin Alfrey on request of Russell Kirk, Chief MSU Security Officer.

* Postmaster Clayton notified postal inspectors at Cincinnati and received instructions to hold the ever growing number of letters, each of which obviously contained money or a money order.

* Documented facts of the alleged fraud were brought to the attention of United States Attorney George I. Cline who lives at Morehead.

* The trap was set and Wahler, who has long hair and a beard, was arrested Wednesday when he called for the mail for box 531. (Wahler came to the post office at about 3:45 Wednesday afternoon, and was recognized as he entered the front door by postal clerk Adkins. Wahler opened box 531 with his key and found the notice to call at the window, and also a notice to call for

Alan Sues Not Only Ding-a-ling, He Has the Bell to Prove It

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Alan Sues is the wacky sportscaster of "The Rowan and Martin Laugh-In" who is dedicated to remaining single after a short-lived marriage.

Sues is as unabashedly nutty off the air as he is ringing that little handbell on the show and reporting fictitious sports events. He lives in what he describes as the last of Hollywood's slum areas.

Home is one enormous room in an apartment house. He decided to live there when a friend pushed him in a window to look the place over and discovered he was locked inside. He spent his first night in his new quarters sleeping on the floor.

Since then Sues has acquired a television set, a dinette with fold-out bed and little else. He's made a kitchen out of one small alcove and, of course, he has his own bath.

But then Sues requires little in the way of comfort because he spends almost no time at home.

Whenever he's not working on the NBC-TV series Sues hits the nightclub circuit.

His miniature refrigerator is empty. Alan eats almost all his meals at a small restaurant around the corner or at parties.

Sues is also a prominent man with the ladies.

"I've been going with two girls simultaneously," he confides. "I try very hard not to mention them to one another."

His dates usually consist of a movie, dinner and dancing until closing time at one of the discotheques in Hollywood and Beverly Hills. He enjoys, too, taking his girls to ice shows and the theater.

Weekends find Sues driving to San Luis Obispo up the California coast. His brother owns a restaurant there and the local beauties find a television personality a refreshing change.

A native Californian, Sues is a beach buff. He surfs, swims and bakes in the sun. And while his sports gag on the "Laugh-In" are strictly for humor, Alan himself plays tennis almost every morning to stay in shape.

He is able to play every day because rehearsals for the show are usually limited to afternoons.

On Tuesdays and Wednesdays he reports to rehearsal headquarters in beautiful downtown Burbank at 2 p.m. He is free by 6 in the evening to pursue girls and otherwise enjoy the good life.

This summer he will tour for six weeks with Rowan and Martin and such other members of the cast as Ruth Buzzi and Henry Gibson.

Sues is a leading exponent of mod clothes.

He feels well dressed in a sports shirt, scarf, vest (no jacket) and flared trousers. Not infrequently he'll dash into his one-room home — the walls of which he has painted dark brown — and change outfits before going out on a date.

Skyline is the most wanted mobile home in America. Why? Because it is the most livable mobile home built. You'll want what it offers: Prestige. Quality. Beauty. Comfort. Convenience. If you are looking for a way of life that is new and exciting, Skyline is it. Think about it.

Lima Taxis Cheap, If You Don't Mind a Few Chickens

By MAX JENNINGS
LIMA (UPI) — The cab drivers in Lima and New York may have a lot in common, but at least the New York cabbies don't have to worry about a chicken pecking them in the head.

And they get more than six cents for taking someone across a big city.

Lima, an expensive city by many standards, still has thousands of collectives, or collective taxis, which will pick you up on about any corner and deposit you miles away, all for rates ranging from four to six cents.

Only catch is that because of the low fares, these taxis have to be full before they can operate. They may sit for half an hour waiting for enough passengers to climb-in, or may go creeping along a street looking for riders.

But once these Peruvian taxis get full, and this means as many as the driver thinks can crowd in, it's hell-for-leather, dodging pedestrians and big vehicles alike, and playing hoply to the smaller cars. This until someone has to get out, of course, leaving room for another passenger.

Then the driver, who almost invariably self-employed, or working for a relative, slows his pace and begins honking at people on the street until someone gets in and antes up his 2.75 Peruvian colones—six cents or less.

Only trouble with this system, the Peruvian cabbies find, is what people may get in with like an armload of live chickens, or a big bundle of grass for their rabbits.

The chickens may decide to go after the driver and the women carrying the grass don't mind tickling the faces of fellow passengers.

The best thing about being a taxi driver in Peru, though, is that it's so easy.

Any vehicle will do, starting with 30-year-old sedans with fenders and roofs which are rusted through.

A permit which costs next to nothing is all that's required, along with a sign on a window that says "Taxi" or "Colectivo."

All a driver has to do to go out of the taxi business is take the sign out of his window.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — John Huston, the only man ever to direct his father, daughter and himself in films, makes his eighth film appearance in "The Kremlin Letter," playing a Navy admiral.

Auto Touring Still Most Popular -- But It Pays to Plan Ahead

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) Air travel may be gaining in popularity but the family car is still far and away the favorite means of transportation for vacationing Americans in the United States.

In fact, a recent survey predicts more Americans will be traveling by automobile on the nation's highways and byways in 1969 and roll up more miles and spend more money than in any other year since the invention of the horseless carriage back at the turn of the century, miles and $31 billion.

The report issued by a national automobile association estimates that a record 50 percent of the entire population of the United States will "get away from it all" by one means or another before the end of the year.

The vast majority - 105 million of the estimated 117 million expected to take vacations or pleasure trips by all modes of transportation - will pile into the family car and hit the road, wife, children and the family dog.

If your itinerary will include visits to major sightseeing centers, write now for information on when they are open and avoid possible disappointment. Some are closed one day during the week or are open only during specific hours. Don't take a chance, it could cost you time and money.

Before starting out, you should have the car carefully checked by your mechanic, including head and tail lights and windshield wipers. Make sure your spare tire is in good condition and that the jack works, too.

Check your driver's license, owner registration card, and your insurance policy and have them renewed if their expiration dates fall within your vacation period. And don't forget to take along a first-aid kit, road flares, flashlight and extra battery and a tool kit for possible emergencies.

Packing should be simple if you follow a few suggestions from the experts.

Pack changes of clothing and what you will need during overnight stops, depending on the length of the trip, into a medium-sized bag. That includes toilet articles, a small sewing kit and perhaps a travel iron. Everything else should go into bigger bags which (hopefully) won't have to be opened until you reach your destination.

Before packing the trunk, take everything, including the jack, tire iron and other tools, out. Stow the big bags as far back as possible in the trunk first. Put the jack, tools and overnight bag in last so they are easy to get at.

A couple of plastic bags will come in handy - one for soiled clothes and the other for such damp articles as swimsuits. Many motels and hotels have pools for their guests today and the children in particular will enjoy a dip after sitting for hours.

When repacking after an overnight stop, check the beds before locking the bags. Maida report clothing is often left behind tangled under sheets of unmade beds.

As an added precaution after unloading or loading luggage, walk around the car and check the ground. Motel operators say many people drop personal possessions getting in and out of automobiles.

If you wear glasses, take along an extra pair of the prescription. Sun glasses are virtually a must for summer driving but experts warn against their use at night.

No matter where you are going, take along raincoats and other bad weather gear and carry them inside the car, not in the trunk. It can rain, even when you are on vacation.

Last but not least, take along a supply of litter bags and help Keep America Beautiful.

Democrats Have Already Won Most County Offices

The Rowan County November general election ballot will be shorter than usual in county election years because republicans did not enter most county and district races while there is but one city of Morehead.

This is the status of all offices - Circuit Judge - Incumbent John J. Winn, Mt. Sterling, reelected for six years without primary or general election opposition. The district comprises Rowan, Bath, Menifee and Montgomery counties.

Commonwealth Attorney - Elijah M. Hogge, democrat, incumbent, Morehead, reelected to six year term without primary or general election opponent. District is same four counties as Circuit Judge.

State Representative - Incumbent democrat Sherman R. Arnett, Clearfield, opposed by republican Kenneth (Kenny) Bland, Clearfield. This is a two year office. Rowan, Fleming and Robertson counties make up the district.

Circuit Court Clerk - Incumbent Wethan Armstrong, democrat, opposed by Ralph Eary, six year term. County Judge - Opponents are Clyde Litton, democrat, and Ott Caldwell, republican.

County Attorney - Incumbent James E. (Jimmy) Clay, democrat, reelected without primary or general election opposition. Sheriff - The opponents are Carl Jones, democrat, and Clayton Colclough, republican. Under Kentucky law a Sheriff cannot succeed himself, and incumbent John Green did not run for any office.

County Court Clerk - Incumbent Ottis W. Elam, democrat, reelected without primary or general election opposition. Tax Commissioner - Incumbent Juanita Wilson, democrat, reelected without primary or general election opposition.

Divide Operation Controls At The University

The Morehead State University Board of Regents has approved the creation of a University Senate with one-fourth student representation, making MSU the first public university in Kentucky to allow significant student voting membership.

Traditionally, university senates are based on an all-faculty concept. When operational this fall, the Morehead State University Senate will have 49 members, including 12 students, 12 members of the administrative staff and 25 from the faculty.

Its duties and responsibilities will include serving as an advisory body in the development of school policy, as a communicative link among the university's various elements, as a voice of the consensus of the university community and as a coordinator of university committees.

Morehead's unique setup resulted from a year-long study of faculty senates throughout the United States by a special committee of faculty and administrators. Both the MSU faculty and Student Council also have approved the proposal.

In voting unanimous approval of the University Senate, the Board of Regents commended the planning committee and stated the institution-wide body would provide a sounding board for future problems.

In other business, the board: Approved an all-time record budget of $13,941,567 for the 1969-70 school year, up from the $11,487,249 allocation for 1968-69.

Crisp and Simple

Crisp, sweet wedges of iceberg lettuce with Western Garden Dressing can be served in two contrasting meal situations. Serve the cool green lettuce, sprinkled with orange and red dressing to introduce a hearty entree for a semi-formal dinner. When a spur-of-the-moment barbecue meal is suggested, simply cut the heads of lettuce and arrange them on a tray surrounding a pitcher of dressing.

Strew, flavored western lettuce is selected when the head gives with a gentle squeeze.

Western Garden Dressing 1 medium carrot, grated 1/2 cup Italian dressing 1/2 cup mayonnaise 1/2 cup ketchup 1/2 cup onion, minced

Stir the ingredients together; chill. Makes 1/2 cup. Serve, rinse and drain lettuce; chill in lettuce crisp or plastic bag. Cut head into quarters or 6ths. Spoon dressing over the top. Put on top to serve.

Publisher's Pen...

Us bachelors and widowers have problems just like you widows and divorcees.

Take the other morning... This new luncheon and sometimes naughty Publisher had an important business appointment in Lexington... important in that he was with our biggest printing account, a large chain...

By the time we changed clothes our driver was gone... Returning home, we found the coffee pot had been left on, and darn near burned up; and we forgot to put anything back in the refrigerator...

So, we called a girl we know who lives by herself and it is all the time bragging about, among other things, how good she is at cooking...

The information that came that regardless of how expensive bacon one buys a bad pound of it is now and then a good one...

As we often write, in a column like this one thought leads to another and pretty soon you have a big, long column which will bring 15 cents on newsstands, and $4.50 a year by mail...

The girl who answered the phone had one of those trained, malicious wiles which sort of says: "Fisher's, the bacon makin' people..."

This fellow was so intrigued by that bacon making voice he persuaded some of the rest of us to call Fisher's, just to hear the girl answer the phone...

Finally, the sweet young thing with that fascinating bacon making voice said: "I know who you are and you're at the Executive Inn. If you call one more time I'm either going to notify the police or come down there and take one of you by myself..."

but isolation is the certain step to economic instability.

ALACRITY - An elderly friend tells us that a mother will, because of her love, force herself to believe anything her son tells her. This love for offspring was spotlighted at Morehead this week as an alleged "artistic" from Cincinnati...

NO PARKING - One of the victims of Morehead's terrific and frustrating traffic jam (see page one) Monday was State Superintendent Wendell P. Butler, who by virtue of his elective office is also chairman of the MSU Board of Regents.

RESERVE - A certain way to get nice compliments, telephone calls and pats on the cheek is to write a letter to the Editor complimenting a group of women. Morehead Club was the first to do this...

PREDICTION - Within the year the City of Morehead will: 1. Place the $4 million sticker tax on all persons who live out of the city limits but work in Morehead and drive their car to work; 2. Enact a modest garbage collection fee.

PALAUVER - It was modestly proud of during our stint on the annual Alumni Awards program at the University Saturday evening that "Publishers' Pen" writes more speeches (for other people) than any other newspaper in the county.

GOOD - Best news of the week is that construction has started on Rowan County's rural water system, and lines for natural gas in the Triplett valley and in Clearfield have been laid.

CONTRIBUTION - This is meant for some of you who haven't contributed anything, or too little, in the hospital expansion drive.

EDITORIAL - Speaking at West Liberty last week Congressman Carl D. Perkins told his audience that Morgan County most needed: 1. Highway and 1-64 (near Morehead); 2. Completion of Cave Run reservoir and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers must stop dropping their feet on this project; and 3. Keep 30 percent burley supports.

TRUE - Our friend Cronos also writes that somebody has defined a mini-skirt as what a her does to a hen to attract a rooster.

matches for both men and women will be on the range the Long Rifle one near Morehead; and include flintlocks, pistols and H&M.

HONOR - Congratulations this morning to Morehead banker J. Roger Caudill, Northeast Kentucky Hospital Foundation, Inc., has just elected Roger to the Board of Directors, filling the unexpired term of his father, the late C. F. Caudill who was the Foundation's first President and largest contributor in the 1960 fund campaign that made St. Claire Medical Center a reality. Like father, like son. C.F. would be proud if he were here.

IMPRESSIVE - This newspaper thought it kept up with everything in this community and sometimes was absent of things that some folks wouldn't like for the press to know about. We didn't know, however, until this week that Morehead State University was conferring its 10,000th Anniversary on the school as a normal school by the 1922 Legislature.

NEW MOREHEAD CHURCH... This is the architect's conception of the Jesus Our Savior Catholic Church on Batson Avenue, across from Senff Natatorium, on which work will start in August. The 10,000 floor feet building will mostly have natural light through shafts. The new church will be adjacent to the campus of Morehead State University.

Starting in August...

New Catholic Church Building

Jesus Our Savior Catholic Church and Student Center, Morehead, Kentucky, announces that working drawings are now being prepared for a new facility which will serve as a combination Church-Student and Community Center at the present location on Batson Avenue across from the University swimming pool. The structure will provide 10,000 square feet of space in its two-story design. Living quarters will be included for the staff of two Glenmary Home Missioner priests and for a Glenmary brother who serve the six county Eastern Kentucky parish. (Mission chapters in this area are located at West Liberty and Owensville.)

Bids for construction will be submitted to contractors in June, with construction beginning on or near August 1. The architectural firm of Tweedell, Wheeler, Strickland and Beumer of Cincinnati, Ohio, has been engaged to make the drawings and to supervise construction. The building has been designed to attract and accommodate the young student community on the campus of Morehead State University and also the older community of parishioners from the surrounding area. It will be a center for an exchange of values, both religious and cultural. Only a small section will be set aside for a permanent meditation-chapel with its own entrance and which will be open to all. The main hall-area, which will be available for dinners, lectures, films, or to fulfill needs that may arise from the community-at-large or the students at Morehead. Kitchen facilities are included in this hall. The lower level will have student facilities (classrooms, offices, lounge area and canteen), along with the staff's living quarters. Some of the features of the new building will include the use of natural sunlight which will be directed through two overhead light-shafts and through large windows on the sides of the lower level. An economy of materials is also specified, along with four separate heating and cooling units, which will be controlled independently to save on construction, maintenance, and operational expense. A parking lot for two dozen cars is also included in the plans.

Partners Disagree And One Gains Controlling Interest

Disagreement between three partners in Jerry's Restaurant at Morehead has resulted in one of them gaining controlling interest in the business, based on a Circuit Court jury award.

Laverne G. Bishop will have a majority of the stock, about 63 percent, if the verdict is carried through.

Circumstances, according to evidence at a civil trial—

* The stock was owned by Bishop, about 26 percent; Claude M. Clayton, 37 percent; and Tommy Combs, 37 percent.

* The three disagreed and Combs proposed to Bishop a "give or take" offer, whereby Bishop had the opportunity to sell his stock to Combs, or buy Combs' stock.

* Bishop decided to buy for approximately $74,000. (The partners had set a market value of $200,000 on the business).

* Bishop contended that Combs then gave him an option on the stock, but when he tried to exercise the purchase option that Combs refused to sell. Combs contended that Bishop failed to comply with the terms of the agreement and option.

This was what led to the suit in court. Bishop also charged "collusion" between Clayton and Combs.

The jury returned a verdict in favor of Bishop — that the option was valid and Combs must sell to Bishop for about $74,000.

This means that Bishop will have about 63 percent of the total stock, and Clayton about 37 percent. Thus, Bishop has voting control of the company which has a restaurant and also drives-in food service near the campus of Morehead State University.

Evidence was that the partners had been paying themselves collectively $2,500 a month, or $30,000 a year in dividends.

Nixon's ABM Program Receives Endorsement By Southerners

Strong support for the anti-ballistic missile defense program has been voiced by a large group of influential business and industrial leaders, speaking through the Southern States Industrial Council.

The Council's Board of Directors, meeting in annual session announced that the organization is putting its full weight behind President Nixon's fight to obtain Congressional approval for constructing an ABM system.

Conduct Funeral For Thomas Vance, 64 Years Of Age

Death came Sunday to Thomas Vance, 64, RFD 3, Morehead, who died at St. Claire Medical Center after a brief illness.

Funeral services were conducted yesterday (Wednesday) afternoon at Oak Grove Baptist Church, followed by burial in Lambert cemetery. Rev. Harvey McGhone conducted the final rites with Stucky Funeral Home caring for arrangements.

Mr. Vance was born Sept. 15, 1904 at Hart Creek, W. Va., son of the late Paris Vance and Manerva (Millins) Vance, who survives.

He also leaves his wife, the former Bertha Jennings; six sons — Clarence Vance, New Boston, Mich.; Eli Vance, Romulus, Mich.; Wades Vance, Taylor, Mich.; and Clifton Vance, Oscar Vance and Rocky Vance, all of Morehead; two daughters — Mrs. Evelyn Mae Sitz of New Boston, Mich., and Mrs. Frieda Triplett, Taylor, Mich.; five brothers — Millard Vance, Hart Creek, W. Va.; Proffit Vance, Muncie, Ind.; and Jim Vance, Carl Vance and Elmer Vance, all of Hart Creek; and two sisters — Mrs. Mary Lambert and Mrs. Lena Lambert, both of Dunbar, W. Va.

There are 24 surviving grandchildren and a great grandchild.

Mr. Vance, a member of the Primitive Baptist Church, was a farmer most of his adult life.

Sons served as cashiers bearers.

Grant To MSU Will Be Aid To Junior Colleges

Morehead State University has been awarded a federal grant of $19,200 to help four junior colleges improve their biology courses.

The University will host a six-week summer workshop for instructors from Lees Junior College at Jackson, Sue Bennett College at London, Alice Lloyd College at Pippas Passes and Southeastern Christian College at Winchester.

Two instructors from each school will be on the MSU campus from June 23 to Aug. 1. Biology courses at each school will be analyzed in comparison with university requirements for freshman and sophomore students.

I THANK YOU

My victory by a considerable majority in the primary election makes me all the more determined to make you a good Sheriff with consideration and understanding for all the people of Rowan County.

My opponents ran a race, and I have no ill feelings for anyone who worked or voted for the honorable gentlemen who ran against me in the primary election.

I hope to personally visit with each of you before the November election. I think you already know that I have always had your interests and the interests of Rowan County at heart.

Again I respectfully and humbly thank all of you.

American Legion Team Takes Two From Pikeville

Morehead's American Legion baseball team, rated one of Kentucky's finest, started the season in perfect fashion Sunday by sweeping a doubleheader from Pikeville, 13-2 and 5-3.

Glen McDaniels and Larry Hughes combined for a five hitter in the opener. Morehead turned the game into a rout as Steve Martin and Bishop connected for home runs.

Morehead's defense was spotty in the nightcap, but Steve Burgardner kept Pikeville at bay with a neat four hitter.

Three games are on schedule this week for Morehead — at Campbellsville Tuesday; and a twin bill in Lexington Sunday.

The Lexington team is rated high, and this will be the crucial test for the Rowan Countians.

My opponents ran a race, and I have no ill feelings for anyone who worked or voted for the honorable gentlemen who ran against me in the primary election.

I hope to personally visit with each of you before the November election. I think you already know that I have always had your interests and the interests of Rowan County at heart.

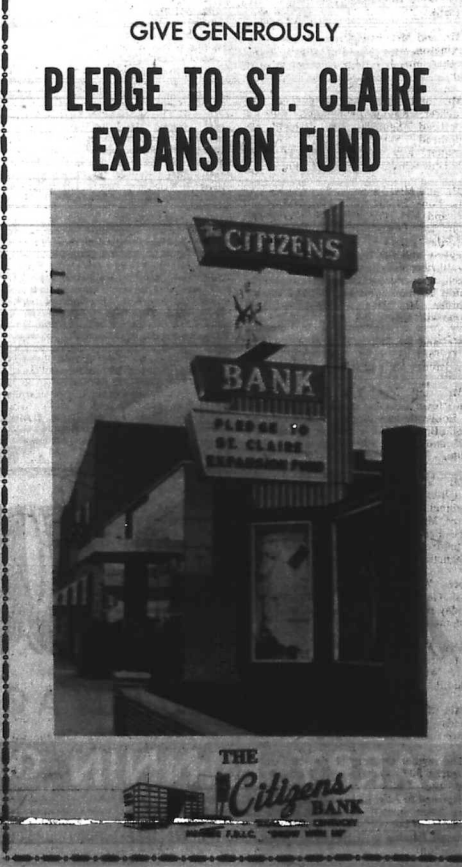

Again I respectfully and humbly thank all of you.

Miss Ison And Mr. Plank Have Church Wedding

The First Church of God, Clearfield, was the scene of the wedding Saturday afternoon, May 28, of Miss Sandra Lynn Ison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Ison, and Mr. Jackie Plank, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luke Plank.

Rev. Scott M. Griffith performed the double ring ceremony. Nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Roy Boyd, pianist, and Mrs. Woodrow Whistman, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white silk peau de soie designed — with a fitted bodice featuring a scalloped neckline and Alencon lace sleeves tapered to points over the hands. Her veil of illusion was attached to a crown encrusted with pearl and crystal appliques and she carried a bouquet of white carnations skented with three red roses.

The bridesmaids, Miss Patricia Skaggs and Miss Eva Jane Brown, wore identical costumes of blue Alencon lace with headpieces of bouffant veils held by blue ribbons. They carried bouquets of satin pilloves which were tied with ribbon streamers. Tammy Dee Ison, cousin of the bride, was flower girl and Glenn Ison, the bride's brother, was ring bearer.

Mr. Billy Plank served his brother as best man. Ushers were Mr. Dallas Plank and Mr. Rodney Plank, brothers of the groom, and Mr. James Ison.

A reception following the ceremony was held in Fellowship Hall of the church. Miss Sandy Helterbrand and Miss Reva Gully assisted.

After a short trip Mr. and Mrs. Plank will reside at Morehead Rural Route 2.

Rowan Soil Conservation

The most important conservation problem facing us today is how to maintain an environment fit for people to live in. For the past 25 years our society has been so intent on producing the material things people want and need that it has given little thought to the effect all this hustle and bustle has had, and is having, upon the environment as a whole. Consequently, we've polluted the air we breathe, the water we drink, and the soil we use to produce food and fiber.

We've also defaced the landscape by ripping it up to get at minerals underneath, and by littering it with poorly-planned housing developments, commercial developments, industrial developments, and trash.

It's time we reflected upon what we've done to the face of the earth; and what we can do in the future to improve the human environment. Intelligent and wise planning and treatment is the answer. Soil and water conservation districts are in an excellent position to help solve many of these environmental problems.

The same information that enables the farmer to decide where to grow his crops, establish his pasture, or plant his trees, will enable the city or community planner to decide where to locate his industrial areas, his commercial areas, his residential areas, his recreational areas, and his waste disposal areas.

Assistance to area planners, developers, health officials, and city and county officials is available at the Rowan County Soil Conservation District Office.

THANKS TO ALL OF YOU

My family and I deeply appreciate the confidence you bestowed in me by recommending me for State Representative. I reiterate the pledge to the people of Rowan, Fleming and Robertson counties that I will in their day by day and every day public servant, voting and working for their interests. Please feel free to call on me if I can be of service... or write or contact me if you have any suggestions on legislation, or anything that I can do to help the people of my district. No member of the Legislature represents a better district of honest and God fearing people than I do. My two opponents conducted a clean campaign and there was no need digging. I have only the highest regard for Mr. Barker and Mr. Mackay, and have no ill feeling or revenge against anyone who voted or worked for my opponents. Again, I thank you for your continued and renewed confidence, and will do my very best to repay you with service, and consideration of your best interests.

Respectfully and thankfully,

Nobody Knows Who Won The Battle Of Belmont Fought In Kentucky, One Of War's Fiercest

A heated battle between the blue and the grey is depicted in a new diorama at Columbus-Belmont Battlefield State Park near Columbus, Ky.

Up to mid-summer of 1861 the Civil War had hardly touched the mighty Mississippi, but as the diorama emphasizes, this strategic water route was destined to see more than its share of the "Southern Rebellion."

The Confederates had a seemingly impenetrable stronghold on the high bluffs overlooking the Mississippi as it passed Columbus. Batteries of heavy artillery were deeply entrenched along this lofty vantage point, with plenty of men to use them.

Across the river at Belmont, Missouri, the Confederates had established Camp Johnston. It was protected by earthworks and fallen trees along its land boundaries and was within range of the Columbus guns along its river frontage.

On November 7, 1861, Ulysses S. Grant led the first attack on Columbus-Belmont, a valiant attempt to overwhelm the southerners and gain control of the Mississippi.

It was early morning when over 3,000 Federals landed a few miles above Belmont, just out of range of the big guns across the river. Grant had chosen to attack the weaker of the two camps.

While the gunboats Tyler and Lexington harassed the Columbus fortress his men would swarm over the Belmont encampment.

The guns of Columbus were already tossing shells in their direction as the Union troops hit the shore. Minutes later, they clashed with the First Mississippi Cavalry Battalion which had quietly watched their approach.

As the six-hour battle wore on, the Confederates gave ground. Then, near noon, the advancing men in blue slammed into the main line of the Confederate defense. It was this point that the fiercest confrontation took place.

After nearly an hour of heavy firing, the camp belonged to the Federals, but as their victory shouts rang out, reinforcements from Columbus moved in and cut them off from their transports. They were surrounded, and in no position to stay for the cannons of Columbus could rain shells right into their midst if need be. It was time to go and the Union troops beat a costly retreat to their boats.

There were several hundred casualties on each side. Both claimed a victory - the North because they had taken the camp, South for driving off the invaders and maintaining control of the Mississippi.

In Columbus-Belmont State Park, on the Kentucky side of the river, deep trenches still remain and cannons and other relics of the Civil War are found throughout the grounds.

The new diorama is a feature of the park museum, and it is that clash at high noon that the diorama captures. Only a few yards separate the front lines. There is General Grant to the left, his binoculars raised. To the right is General Pillow, out in the open where all can see him as he shouts encouragement to his defending forces.

In the distance are Union gunboats close by, a Union soldier is frozen midway in his death fall. The heat and smoke of battle pervade the scene. The diorama was prepared by Vincent Plab of Marietta, Georgia. The museum building itself took part in the Civil War encounter; it saw service as a hospital for the wounded of the North-South conflict. The park is now open weekends, and it will be open daily from June 1 through Labor Day.

Perkins Thinks Burley Program Has Been Preserved

Representative Carl D. Perkins, K-Ky, today hailed passage of the Agricultural Appropriations bill as a solid victory for Kentucky farmers.

"Not only has our burley tobacco program been preserved in the new legislation, but we have restored the $195-million for continued operation of the Agricultural Conservation Program for 1970," the Kentucky legislator said.

Passage of the bill containing appropriations for the Department of Agriculture and related agencies came on Tuesday by a vote of 321-50.

Tobacco programs have come under increasing criticism from many quarters, but no attempt was made on the floor of the House to disturb the existing arrangement of acreage controls.

Perkins had protested the Administration's proposal to end the burley program, but we have restored to the Kentucky farmer, and has done much over the years it has been in operation to upgrade the agricultural economy of the entire nation.

"I am delighted that the House has seen fit to restore the ACP appropriation, and thus assure its continuation," the Kentucky Democrat said.

The measure now goes to the Senate for action in that body.

Ranger's Column

By Joe Mauk
U.S. Forest Service - Morehead, Ky.

Last Saturday afternoon little Troy Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Carter, stirred up quite a commotion here at the picnic area in Rodburn Hollow for a two and one-half year old youngster. Several parents of children were at the recreation area with their children. While the other youngsters were playing, it seems Troy decided to explore other areas and disappeared from sight without being noticed.

When Troy's absence became known the mothers of the children started a search. After a period of no success they called upon the Ky. State Police and the U.S. Forest Service for help. A short time later State Police and U.S. Forest Service personnel arrived at the picnic area. The local radio station WMBR was called upon to broadcast an appeal for 25 able bodied men with boots for woods travel to fill out the search parties. Within a few minutes volunteers were on the scene and the search parties were assigned various routes. Within 30 minutes a search party led by Forestry Technician Earl Maddox reported by radio that Troy had been located about one-half mile up Martins Branch from where he had disappeared.

Maddox immediately reported that he was in good physical condition although he was exhausted from his travels by the way of Martins Branch. When Troy was returned to the parking lot at the picnic area to join his family you could see a sign of relief come over the faces of the mother, many relatives and volunteer searchers who had gathered there. It was the fear of many parents that Troy had fallen and crippled himself or been bitten by a snake during his travels.

Most cases of poison snake bite is usually far greater than that of a rattlesnake. Many people seem to think that there is a snake under every leaf in the woods, and that they are all poisonous. We know that there are non-poisonous snakes within this area, however, we have only two of the poisonous species which are native to this area, the copperhead and rattlesnake, which are the most important to identify.

The copperhead found state wide, is identified by chestnut brown hour glass shaped cross bands against a pale brown or tan background. The head and neck are the same as the background color and often appears the color of a copper penny. The color of the head and neck is its most distinguishing mark.

The timber rattlesnake is found statewide. There are other rattlesnakes but only the timber rattlesnake is native to this area. The color pattern is formed by brown or black V-shaped bands outlined in yellow and contrasted with a brownish background color. Its most distinguishing feature is the rattles attached to the tail which consists of thin horn like segments loosely interlocked. When the tail is vibrated, the rattles make a rattling sound.

Snakes have their place in keeping nature in balance. They destroy many of the harmful insects and rodents. Many of the dry land and upland species feed on mice, rats and other rodents. The myth about the cow snake or milk snake living around the barn to suck milk from cows has never been proven, however, their presence there in quest for rats and mice has been observed.

Regardless of their economic value in keeping nature in balance, poisonous snakes have no place around human habitation and even non-poisonous ones are often objectionable. There are no really effective means of eliminating snakes completely but it is possible to discourage them around homes and buildings by the same means found effective for control of animal pests, destruction of food and shelter.

Disorderly piles of lumber, fence posts, dump heaps, scraps of roofing paper, sheet metal roofing, piles of rocks, brick, stone, etc. all provide hiding places for snakes and their prey. Removal of these hiding places and general tidying up are the best ways of keeping premises free of snakes. Contrary to belief, burning of woods or fields will not kill the snake. He will bury under rocks, logs or underground and come out later. The power lawnmower eliminates his hiding place and at the same time, the "putt putt" of the single cylinder engine creates a vibration that discourages him also.

As the old saying is, don't go around the water works, don't fool around with any of them until you know which ones are poisonous.

Charles Lewis, 52, Rowan Native, Claimed In Ohio

Charles Otis Lewis, 52, native of Rowan County, died Thursday at Shelby, O., where he had made his home in recent years.

The remains were brought to Stucky Funeral Home at Morehead and final services conducted Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at Clearfield Tabernacle with interment in D.L. cemetery. Reverends Zora Trent and L. E. Collier conducted the funeral.

Mr. Lewis was born near Morehead Feb. 21, 1917, son of the late Enoch Lewis and May (Taylor) Lewis.

He married Ruth Lewis, who survives, and they became the parents of two surviving sons and a daughter - Charles D. Lewis, Grover Lewis and Virginia May Lewis, all of Mansfield, O.

He also leaves two brothers - Bernard Lewis of Morehead and Enoch Lewis, Jr., Loveland, O.; and four sisters - Mrs. Vesta Butts, Morehead; Mrs. Marie Shelton, Cincinnati, O.; Mrs. Myrtle Katheren Schagheck, Loveland, O.; and Mrs. Katherine Goshen, O.; and Mrs. Myrtle Katheren Schagheck, Loveland, O.

The bearers - Roger Lewis, Raymond Lewis, Ray Lewis, Carl Lewis, Junior Lewis and Marion Lewis.

Stucky Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Snakes do not depend on sight always. Often a snake will strike as a result of ground or sound vibrations. Also they are sensitive to heat and will strike warm objects. They will usually try to escape if given a chance and the best advice to people encountering snakes is to leave them alone. If disturbed they will often try to defend themselves and striking is one of their methods of defense.

Snakes have their place in keeping nature in balance. They destroy many of the harmful insects and rodents. Many of the dry land and upland species feed on mice, rats and other rodents. The myth about the cow snake or milk snake living around the barn to suck milk from cows has never been proven, however, their presence there in quest for rats and mice has been observed.

Regardless of their economic value in keeping nature in balance, poisonous snakes have no place around human habitation and even non-poisonous ones are often objectionable. As the old saying is, don't go around the water works, don't fool around with any of them until you know which ones are poisonous.

Dire Wireman, With Morehead Vintage Nation's Youngest College President

The following is reprinted from the May 18 issue of Critt, which has the largest circulation of any weekly newspaper in the United States. Dr. Wireman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Wireman, formerly of Morehead. His mother is the sister of Frankie Beck.

"I enjoy my work. I enjoy seeing how much I can get involved in - not seeing how much I can get out of."

That statement by Dr. Billy O. Wireman may explain why, at 35, he is one of the youngest college presidents in the United States, if not the world.

Dr. Wireman, a man who is always searching for new ideas and a better way to do things, last year was named president of Florida Presbyterian College in St. Petersburg.

In choosing Dr. Wireman for the post, his colleagues cited him for his sense of vision and his eagerness to apply himself to difficult tasks.

The outgoing president, Dr. William H. Kadel, who resigned to assume another position with the Presbyterian Church, said of Dr. Wireman:

"He dreams great dreams and is not afraid to tackle things that would seem beyond our reach."

And he will indeed have problems to tackle. One of them, he believes, is to make church groups, the students, the faculty, and the community mesh into one unified organism that will strive to make the world a better place in which to live.

The key to pulling such groups together, he believes, is inspiration. He also thinks that it is attacks on the ancient enemies of mankind - disease, ignorance, poverty, and intolerance - which inspire.

"Therefore, that is what the college must concern itself with," he said. Dr. Wireman has some pointed opinions about student demands at many colleges. "Students have got to feel they have access to the levels of power, that the people making decisions are human, that they're thoughtful, concerned and that the day of the lofty administrator handing out edicts from behind his thick door and his carpeted office is gone," he said.

"But they shouldn't try to take over control of it. They're not ready, they're not prepared to do it, and they've got to be interested in their welfare too. I operate under certain spheres of authority and regulation as they do. This is the nature of civilization, of society."

One of the most important functions of a college, Dr. Wireman said, is to involve the student in his courses and in school life so "we can help him see his life and destiny as an integrated whole and help him find meaning and purpose in the total human enterprise."

Dr. Wireman joined the college faculty in 1960 as director of physical education and later served as dean of men and vice president for administration and development.

Despite his demanding schedule since becoming president, Dr. Wireman still finds time for his son, daughter, and wife, Katie. Dr. Wireman, a licensed pilot, often takes them on plane trips during vacations.

$100 less than last year's Impala with comparable equipment.

Match that, anybody.

We give you an honest increase in car at an honest decrease in price. Take the '68 Impala above. We improved the ride. Made it quieter inside. Added an anti-theft locking device. Put steel pused rails in the doors. Still, the Impala is a 300-hp. Turbo Hydra-matic, advanced-duty power disc brakes, head restraints, whitewalls and wheel covers is priced $101* less than in 1968. The 300-hp V8 is priced $40 less than last year's 270-hp. Turbo Hydra-matic costs less. Lower disc brake half as much. White walls a little less. Wheel covers about the same. And head restraints are now standard. Upping value and dropping price. That's the way Chevrolet operates.

Indians Sure That Elephants Never Forget
NEW DELHI (UPI) - An elephant never forgets. No one is sure how the saying originated but tales of the elephantine memories of elephants are widely circulated - and believed - in India. One such story is about Gopalan and Ramachandran, two elephants owned by a palace in Kerala, who were chained side by side in a compound after they had performed duty at a temple festival. Ramachandran, the younger one, suddenly jerked himself free of his chains and attacked Gopalan, the older fellow, and succeeded in killing him. "Ramachandran had never forgotten Gopalan for helping humans to take him into captivity," a mahout said later. "An elephant never forgets." Another popular story known to most lovers of wild life in India is about the village palk every evening where he would drink himself into a stupor, and fall asleep at the doorstep. Without fail, the elephant went to the pub at a specific hour and carried the mahout home with his trunk and put him to bed. An elephant never forgets - even if he isn't pink.
