WILDS CONTROL FOR TOBACCO DISEASES

Two applications of bluestone lime mixture to plants in the field will control wildfire and blackfly of dark tobacco, according to a leaflet published by the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. During the past few years wildfire has been destructive in plant beds in Western Kentucky and following topping and suckering, blackfly has damaged much tobacco. The leaflet tells how to make and apply the bluestone-lime mixture, and also discusses the choice and management of soil for tobacco, fertilization, cultivation and topping. Copies may be had from county agents or by writing to the College of Agriculture.

OUTLINES CARE OF LAWNS IN SPRING

Suggestions for the spring care of lawns, given by N. R. Elliott, landscape specialist for the Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Leaves and trash should be immediately removed, if they were not removed in the fall.

The average lawn needs grass seed during February or early March. A high grade Kentucky Bluegrass seed spread 2 to 4 pounds to every 1,000 square feet of surface is best.

About the last of March, lawns should be seeded with White Clover, an ideal companion plant for Bluegrass.

The severe freeze in January left the ground rough. It should be rolled soon as it is dry enough.

When crab grass killed Bluegrass last year, the dead grass should be raked up and removed. Then give a heavy Bluegrass and White Clover seeding. Additionally, during the last of March a light sparkling of cut-in rye grass will give a covering for the ground, and serve as protection for the other grass.

The application the last of February or shortly thereafter of a complete fertilizer, 3 or 4 pounds per 1,000 square feet of surface will benefit damaged lawns. Top dressing with good soil also will aid. If soil is used, it should be applied after the lawn is rolled, in late March or early April. Ten bushels of topsoil per 1,000 sq. ft. of surface, scattered from a shovel, is desirable.

KENTUCKY FARMERS GET PARTLY PAY ON 5 CROPS

Parity price adjustment, payments on corn, wheat and cotton will be made to Kentucky farmers who grew within their 1940 Agricultural Conservation program allotments, the state office of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration has announced.

Payment will be made on the normal yield of each producer acreage allotment where a special acreage is established for the crop grown. Wheat parity price payments will be made to commercial wheat growers throughout the state. Parity payments to corn growers will be limited to the 12 counties of the state which are included in the commercial area, and cotton parity payments will be made in the 10 counties, where cotton acreage allotments are established.

Rates of the payments are: Corn, 5 cents a bushel; wheat, 10 cents a bushel; and cotton, 135 cents a pound.

These price adjustments, authorized by the Agricultural Adjustments Act of 1938, are in addition to the previously announced conservation payments to be made in 1940 on the production of these crops by farmers cooperating with the 1940 Agricultural Conservation program.

The total payments on these crops in 1940, combining conservation and parity rates, are: corn, 15 cents a bushel; wheat, 19 cents a bushel; and cotton, 315 cents a pound.

Parity payments are to be made from a special appropriation which provided $225,000,000 to be paid to producers of the five major allotments crops in 1940.

The act appropriating money for these payments provides that they be paid if the 1938 market prices of tobacco are more than 75 percent of parity, no price adjustment payments will be made on these crops in 1940. Conservation payments of 12 cents a pound on burley and 12 cents a pound on dark types of tobacco will be made, however.

GARDEN STARTING

The garden broken, or its breaking arranged for, the planting plan made, and the fertilizing program determined, there remains only a few small things to do before the garden season opens. One is to plot the campaign against the insects that may enthrall the vegetables.

To call it a "campaign" is no idle use of words, for pest outbreaks are fought in the most approved "Blitz-Krieg" fashion, and we beside the gardener who is caught unprepared. However, the advantage lies with the gardener, or at least with those who make use of the insect-killing information the College of Agriculture Experiment Stations have been accumulating. The insects, on the other hand, are handicapped by their inability to accumulate and profit by knowledge as to what killed their forebears.

Since in this 17th year when insect infested the Mexican bean beetle invaded Kentucky, this insect still can be intrigued to consume a killing dose of poison spread on the under sides of the leaves. The black flea beetle still succumbs to Engedaux mixture, as had been true for many more years than 17. The Colorado beetle still clings to the voracious feeder, wilfully setting his way through poison sprayed or dusted on the potato leaves, as countless generations of his ancestors have done.

Now, merely to know what to use is not enough, but one must know too, where these materials may be obtained immediately the need for them arises. The insects give no quarter. So, it is the part of wisdom now to remind the merchant to stock spray and dust materials, lest he let the matter slip.

Also well to do now is to look to the sprayer or duster to be used, for faulty apparatus cannot accomplish successful work. The efficiency of the insect armies must be met with efficiency.

Somewhat related to the above is going over the tools to be used in the cultivation of the garden. The hand hoe should be made sharp and bright, so that "scalping" the weeds or shaving them off can be done with a minimum of effort. If there is a garden plow it should be rehammated, and faulty parts repaired or replaced. Perhaps now in the calm before active work starts, any gardener might well consider the advisability of procuring a good garden plow, to make his work less than with the hand hoe. If a garden plow is to be purchased, it should be one fitted with what commercial gardeners call "shuffle hoe," whose action is to scrape off weeds without penetrating the soil to the depth at which lie the roots of the vegetables. This is the proper and best and only way to tend a garden, rather than to work it, as too many gardeners do. Apart from being unkind to the vegetables, deep working is too laborious.

And, now, having met the details that have been discussed in the past few weeks our gardener may await with equanimity the opening of 1940's garden season.

KITE FLYING TIME

It is a welcome relief from the bitter controversy revolving around public ownership versus private ownership of the electric industry, to read an advertisement displayed by the Oklahoma Gas and Electric Company. It contained no word of electric rates, no technical data of any sort, boasted no accomplishments, promised nothing, made no effort to sell electrical appliances. It showed a youngster enjoying the rapture of kite flying.

Kite flying within the next few weeks will approach the proportions of a national pastime. High tension wires and kites are a potential source of tragedy. Each year there are cases of electrocution from kites entangling in power lines. The Oklahoma utility, in its advertisement, gives sound advice on kite flying. (1) Fly your kite in open fields away from electric lines. (2) Use Cotton cord for string. Never use wire or unsealed kite string. They conduct electricity. (3) Never run across highways. (4) Never climb poles.

"THANKS FOR A LOVELY EVENING..."

A new kind of beer retailing is bringing wholesome recreation to millions of Americans!

America's new kind of beer retailer wants to sell good beer, of course... but he is also keenly aware of his social responsibility to the community. He makes sure that his place is clean and inviting—and scrupulously free of anti-social influences of any kind.

The Brewing Industry wants all of beer's retailers to be of this type. We do not want any other kind. And we are taking action to eliminate any abuses in beer retailing that may occur. We have instituted a new plan... now in effect in a few states and being extended as rapidly as possible... to protect your right to drink good beer in decent surroundings. May we tell you about it... in an interesting free booklet? Write: United Brewers Industrial Foundation, 19 East 40th Street, New York, N. Y.
