THINK ON THESE THINGS

By Rev. R. H. KAZKE

God pardons like a mother, who kisses the offensive into everlasting forgetfulness. —Becher.

Never does the human soul appear so strong as when it forgives someone and dares to forgive an injury. —Chapin.

Monday tells the story of a man who, supposing he was going to die, expressed his forgiveness to one who had injured him, but advised: "Now you may, if I get well, the old grudge holds good." The old colored preacher had the right idea about giving when he said: "I hab nebber knowed a church till I took to too much gibber to do Lord. If dere should be such a day and I darst, I'd go to de church and I'd say, 'I'd go down to de church dis very night; and I'd p-cher up— I'm come-covered, and I'd say, 'I'd go down to de ridge pole, and I'd cry aloud, 'Blamed are de dead dat die in de Lord.'"

When Theodore Roosevelt was police commissioner of New York he asked an opponent to give his opinion on the phrase: "If you were ordered to disperse a mob what would you do?" "I'd pass around the hat" was the reply.

No man has ever written his life so indelibly in the history of the American nation who has denied the existence of God or scoffed at religion. —Bishop Whipple.

"All flesh is as grass, and all the glory of man as the flower of the field. The grass withers and the flower fades away. But the word of the Lord endureth forever." —Isaiah 40:6-8.

If it were of the Lord's creation, there would be a hell, people are lost; there is salvation; people must be born again; and there is no other way to Heaven, given among men, whereby we must be saved."

Rowan Boy Makes Fine Record On Baby Beef Project

Wins Livestock Prize And Needs A Profit Of $52.14

Charles W. Reeves, seventeen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Eddy Reeves of Smiths Fork, Kentucky, is enrolled in vocational agriculture at the Morehead High School, selected as his project for 1941 the raising of two baby beef calves for market. With the aid of his teacher, he made plans for his project estimating his expenses and necessary to finance the purchase of the livestock, he obtained a club loan from the Farm Security Administration, agency of the United States Department of Agriculture.

FSA club loans are loaned jointly to farmers and their children, for the benefit of the latter, to finance participation in the activities of 4-H clubs. Future Farmers of America, vocational agriculture groups. Club loans are used, ordinarily, to purchase livestock, but they may likewise be used to purchase seeds, fertilizer, etc. The purpose for which the money is used must be in connection with projects approved by the FSA. The purpose of the loan, on January 27, 1941, at $35.75 each. Aside from housing and pasturing, the entire cost of the calves is included in the purpose. As a related project, Charles raised three lambs of systems on two acres of land. A half ton of them were sold for $100.00. The other two brought $12.55, making a total income of $112.55. Red Cross Roll Call Moving At Rapid Pace Reporting one hundred and five membership from their district, Clearfield Red Cross workers, under the leadership of Miss Anna May Bowne, set a fast pace for other sections of the county to follow in the Red Cross Roll Call. These memberships were obtained in the first four days of the campaign, which started on November 14th.

Workers in other sections of the county are also reporting increased interest in the Roll Call this year. Reports from Haldeman indicate that workers there have already enrolled about one hundred and fifty members, with the drive still going strong. Success is also indicated in reports from the Triplett neighborhood, where a group of workers, headed by Mrs. G. C. Banks, has nearly completed work in their neighborhood, and reports a good response.

Based on these results, it is believed that the county goal of 750 members will be attained.

License Required To Hunt Any Kind Of Wildlife In State

Decision Rendered By Assistant Attorney-General

Any person who hunts crows, groundhogs or any other kind of wildlife, either protected by law or on the unprotected list, must possess a Kentucky hunting license to do so, according to an opinion rendered by the Assistant Attorney-General, C. L. Galt, in Frankfort, Ky., on November 17.

Phillips requested an opinion from the Attorney-General's office as to whether or not a person had to possess a Kentucky hunting license who crows or groundhogs. "As you know there is an opinion on both of these species the year around," Phillips stated in his letter. "I would like to have an opinion from your office as to whether or not these hunters must have a license."

The opinion stated that the question was covered by section 1964d, which reads in part as follows: "No person sixteen years of age or older shall take any animal, to trap for taking the same, or use a gun, or take wild birds, or take any animal, or take any wild animal for commercial purposes without first having secured a license therefor as herein provided by the laws of this state." The opinion stated that the question was covered by section 1964d, which reads in part as follows: "No person sixteen years of age or older shall take any animal, to trap for taking the same, or use a gun, or take wild birds, or take any animal, or take any wild animal for commercial purposes without first having secured a license therefor as herein provided by the laws of this state."

"Sergeant York" Is Featured At Mills Starting Sunday

becoming ever increasingly American-conscious, it is fitting that the story of one of the greatest Americans of the World War should be featured in the greatest civilian auditorium of the world. "Sergeant York," which will open Sunday, at the Mills Theatre, is a picture of the greatest civilian soldier of the war" by General Pershing. The story is vividly depicted in "Sergeant York," which will open Sunday, at the Mills Theatre, with the famous title role portrayed by the powerful actor, himself often called a "typical American."

Bohon Warns All Who Receive Work To File S.S. Numbers

A warning to all persons who are receiving temporary work during the coming holiday season was issued today by Robert M. Bohon, manager of the Ashland, Kentucky, branch of the Social Security Board, who said: "Persons who have had social security account numbers should file them with their employers at the time work is started. Persons who have had cards but have lost them should obtain duplicates, not new numbers. Employers will save time and trouble by copying the names and social security numbers of new workers directly from their account cards at, or shortly after, the time such cards are issued. Every citizen who is one or more in commerce or industry is covered by the Social Security Act. Every citizen who survives insurance program contained therein.

"New employers entering business during the holiday season must get identification numbers and must also make reports showing wages paid to all persons in their service. And no change is made when social security taxes are paid at the end of each calendar quarter."

Naval Recruiter To Be At Morehead P. O. Each Monday

Many Vacancies Exist In Navy And Naval Reserve

A representative of the Navy Recruiting Service will be at the Post Office in Morehead each Monday after this date, for the purpose of examining and accepting men who are interested in joining the United States Navy or the Naval Reserve.

Many vacancies for men between the ages of seventeen and fifty exist at present. Qualified young men between the ages of seventeen and twenty-one may be sent to the Training Station for regular recruit training, with a prospect of attending one of the specialized schools included in the program in the rating of apprentice seaman is $21.60 per month for the first four months and fifty cents each month after that. Men up to fifty years of age in many trades and professions may be enlisted in the Naval Reserve with rates commensurate with their experience and pay ranging from $69.00 to $170.00 a month. Medical attention is furnished and an initial outfit of uniformed and personal gear is made up to each recruit. The present rate of enlistments permit those accepted to be called for duty within a few days.

The Naval Service provides an excellent opportunity to learn any standard trade such as machinist, electrician, plumber, cooper, maker of metalmith, stenographer, radioman, and many others. Naval Reserve personnel are exempt from military service only during the national emergency.

Director Nelson, Of SPAB, Clarifies Priority Question

Says Priority Rating On Building Supplies 'Not A Stop-Building Order'

To ally pessimism among prospective home builders occasioned by dire interpretations of the recently published SPAB building construction policy, Donald Nelson, Director of the Office of Production Administration, has made public a recent letter to Senator Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin. Mr. Nelson explains that only certain critical list materials of which there is an acute shortage, will not be available for private building. This does not mean that all home building must cease as very satisfactory homes can be built without these items. For instance, the most acute shortage is in copper. Copper gutters are not an essential, wood gutters are serviceable, economical, and attractive. War are steel beams necessary; there are good sound house-stands today, as they have been for decades. There is no "bottle-neck" in lumber.

Nevertheless, when Al York was taken into training, and when the whole import of obligations dawned on the fellow, that spirit was awakened that was eventually lead him to the most spectacular single civilian soldier's career of the war.

Utilities Group Disqualifies REA Plans In State

Says Proposed Power Plant Near Danville Not Essential To Ky.

Kentucky citizens are going to discover presently that they have at hand the means of making a lot more electricity than they know what to do with.

Federal Power Commission records show that when present construction is completed the state's installed generating capacity will total 877,665 kilowatts—about 1,170,220 horse-power. It is an increase of 557,500 kilowatts (about 743,300 horse-power) over that of last January 1, when capacity was 320,165 kilowatts.

In addition, the major electric companies have power line interconnections with transmission systems in neighboring states. All this will make available to Kentucky a practically unlimited volume of electricity.

Investigation Suggested—
The Rural Electrification Administration announced in Washington a few days ago that it has allocated $2,000,000 to build in central Kentucky a small 15,000 kilowatt power house to serve rural electrical co-operative associations. Actual need for this REA power plant is questioned by experts who say it merits full investigation.

Let us all that has been said in the last two years about national defense is pure hokum, the government will require for that purpose every dollar that can be squeezed out of the taxpayers. The copper, aluminum, steel, rubber, etc., necessary for equipping this small power house, are now urgently needed for making important defense items.

Nobody who has even casually observed the advantages of electric service on the farm wants to prevent or slow down far reaching rural electrification. It is generally agreed that local co-operative associations are doing a practical and effective job in extending the service.

But Not More Rural Lines?—
The foregoing figures on electrical production capacity indicate to the average taxpayer that the last thing required for further rural electric expansion is more generating capacity than that now under construction.

It is impressed by the fact that the $2,000,000 allocated for the power house would provide approximately 2,500 miles of electrical distribution lines to supply about 100 to 150 farms now not able to get service. This figure is based on the REA average cost of $800 a mile for such lines.

Possible claims by promoters of the REA power plant that farm co-operatives cannot get cheap electricity from sources available now and in the future will not convince informed citizens.

Of the 557,500 kilowatt capacity now under construction, 410,000 kilowatts (546,000 horse-power) will be installed in government plants—250,000 at Wolf Creek in south central Kentucky, and 160,000 at Gilbertville in southwest Kentucky. The government's announced purpose is to supply low-cost electricity in overflowing abundance.

Low Rural Power Rate—
Electric companies in the state now sell current to co-operatives for about one cent a kilowatt-hour. This rate was established by agreement with the Public Service Commission and the REA.

There has been no threatened power shortage among the companies which would curtail service to co-operatives. The companies are stepping up capacity to meet whatever demands arise.

The first of this year the four principal companies had generating capacity of 320,165 kilowatts. When their present construction is finished the total will be 467,665 kilowatts.

Louisville Gas & Electric Company is adding 75,000 kilowatt capacity to make a total of 294,000. Kentucky Utilities Company is adding 37,500 to make a total of 110,870. Kentucky-West Virginia Power Company is adding 35,000 to make a total of 54,725. Kentucky-Tennessee Light & Power Company capacity will remain at 18,370 kilowatts.

Link With Federal System—
The new generating stations of the companies are all steam-driven. They have been expressly designed to fit into a state-wide giant electric power pool. They are being linked with the government's huge water-driven plants so as to assure plenty of power for all needs—industrial, commercial, domestic and rural—even when prolonged drought seriously reduces hydro-electric generator operation.

Citizens who have studied the matter say an impartial investigation would show that:

- (1) The projected small isolated REA power house, designed only for rural electrification, would be of little or no value in the efficient operation of the electrical pool.
- (2) It would cost $2,000,000 that could be better used for rural electric distribution lines.
- (3) It would require vital defense materials.
- (4) It would take at least two years to build.
- (5) It would be wholly unjustified non-defense federal spending.

A BITTER DOSE TO SWALLOW

THE STORY IN A NUT-SHELL!

Over a year ago we knew prices were going to advance. However, we had no idea they would advance as fast and as much as they did. Over a year ago we started scouring the markets and bought, and bought all we could buy from every good source who would guarantee delivery. We bought over $30,000.00 worth of winter merchandise, most of which has been delivered. Our store is over-running with merchandise at the old pre-war prices, bought at pre-war prices, and now our store is too full. Our ware house is overflowing, and more is coming in. We must raise cash quickly to pay for this merchandise. We are forced to sell at least a part of this tremendous stock at sacrifice prices as low as last year and some even lower than last year. This may be your last chance to buy at the old prices so you had better hurry!
