THIS WEEK IN DEFENSE

The White House announced a U. S. Army contingent has been sent to Dutch Guinea in South America to cooperate with Netherlands forces in protecting mines there which furnish more than sixty percent of the alumina supply to the United States aluminum industry. The move had the approval of Brazil, whose forces will patrol the Guiana-Brazilian border. The White House said the army force would be withdrawn as soon as the present danger passes.

Following conferences with envoys of Britain, China, Australia and the Netherlands and then representation of Japan, the State Department announced it had presented Japan with a plan dealing with the Far Eastern situation. The Department said the plan was based on United States policy previously announced. The President told his press conference that for the present United States merchant ships in the Pacific would not be armed.

War Secretary Stimson told his press conference the Army "has shown really wonderful progress" in the current maneuvers in the Carolinas. He said reports from the British in Egypt and Libya have testified to the excellent performance of American equipment being used there.

Mr. Stimson said although the great bulk of the fighting in Europe are riveted, the Army is ordering cast steel and welded tanks which are stronger. General Wesson, Chief of Ordnance, reported arrangements for $53,000,000 in facilities to make these in new tanks.

Navy Secretary Knox told his press conference there has been a fifteen percent drop in Navy enlistments since the torpedoing of Navy ships in the North Atlantic because parents are no stronger as willing to give their consent to sons under twenty-one. The Navy needs 13,000 volunteers a month now and beginning next July will need 15,000 a month. If sufficient men do not volunteer, Mr. Knox said, the Navy may have to utilize selectees.

Labor Secretary Perkins reported the cost of goods purchased by wage earners and lower-salaried workers in large cities increased 1.2 percent from mid-September to mid-October. She said a survey of eighteen staple foods in nineteen cities showed food prices also rose moderately during the first half of November.

Price Administrator Henderson announced prices of wooden household furniture were no longer going up. He asked manufacturers of mattresses, bedsprings, studio couches, metal beds and pillows to hold prices where they were on November 1, and announced the Government is planning to restrict further price increases in water heaters, radiators and air conditioners. He also announced manufacturers of more than fifty percent of all writing paper, book and printing paper—except newspaper—have indicated they will not raise prices further.

OPM ordered a ten percent cut in production by large manufacturers of vacuum cleaners for household use; a two-thirds cut in production of lead and tin foil for decorative purposes and for tobacco, chewing gum, beverages, confections, films, and similar articles. OPM also announced it will shortly institute a new priority system under which manufacturers of essential items will be allotted materials on a three-months basis in order to cut down the number of applications for priorities.

Special Assistant Nehemkis of the OPM Contract Distribution Division, speaking in St. Louis, said Army and Navy contracts totaling $31,577,000 have been awarded in areas where OPM found unemployment caused by shortage of materials for non-defense work. He said ten areas, including seventy-five plants and one entire industry, have been certified as eligible for these special awards.

The Social Security Board reported 475,000 workers were scheduled to be hired and 100,000 scheduled to be laid off in 9,300 industrial establishments between now and February. Nearly 250,000 workers will be taken on in the aircraft and shipping industries, the report estimated.

The Office of Agricultural Defense Relations announced that all possible means of conserving manpower and utilizing it efficiently are employed. Farmers should not be handicapped seriously by labor shortages next year. Assistant OCD Director Eleanor Roosevelt told a press conference the OCD is planning a "women's land army" to help harvest next year's crops.

The President by Executive Order delegated to the OPM the power to requisition property under the conditions set forth by Congress in the Acts of October 10, 1940, and October 16, 1941. Whenever requested by OPM, any Federal agency is authorized to requisition property essential to na-

Our College Library
Our college library has bought several good books in this important field of knowledge recently, and we will discuss a few of these in this article. They are as follows:

1. Earhart, Amelia. (Last Flight). Harcourt, Brace Publishing Company, $2.50. Informal, gay, filled with the spirit of high adventure, this is Amelia Earhart's own story of her great flight, nearly round the world, which ended in tragic disappearance somewhere in mid-Pacific. The book has been arranged by Amelia Earhart's husband, George Palmer Putnam, and is illustrated with a map, line-drawings of documents, and many photographs.
2. Palmer, Bissell B. (Paying Through the Teeth). Vanguard Publishing Company, $2.00. (Paying Through the Teeth) is a critical analysis of dental nostrums. The book should aid largely to deter a gullible consuming public from falling for the kinds of phony tooth cure-alls with which unscrupulous business firms have riddled the multitude for many a lucrative year.
3. Lamb, Ruth DeForest. (American Chamber of Horrors). Croset and Dunlap Publishing Company. (American Chamber of Horrors) contains the inside story of the Government's fight to protect consumers against dangers to health, life and pocketbook. The author would appreciate any comments the readers of these articles might have to make. Just address all communications to 508 College Boulevard, Morehead, Kentucky.

You can check up on your earnings while on jobs covered by the Social Security Act, by getting a wage record request card from the Ashland, Kentucky, field office of the Social Security Board. Under the Social Security Act, wage records for 1937 may be considered closed at the end of 1941. Persons who are in doubt as to whether all their 1937 earnings appear on their social security ledger card may check the records by obtaining a post card and mailing it to the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance. Requests for the post cards should be sent to Herbert M. Bohon, manager, Social Security Board field office, 2nd National Bank building, Ashland, Kentucky.

In less than two months the 1937 wage records of the Social Security Board may be considered closed. Persons who want to check their earnings in employment covered by the Social Security Act, before this time limit expires, may obtain post cards which are used to obtain these reports. Cards may be obtained by writing to Herbert M. Bohon, manager of the Social Security Board field office in the 2nd National Bank building in Ashland, Kentucky. There is no charge for this service except one cent for postage. If all wages earned have not been credited, the Social Security Board will undertake to find and rectify the error, according to Eileen M. Bohon, manager of the Ashland, Kentucky, office.

tional defense which cannot be obtained in any other way.

OPM issued a comparison of present industrial defense efforts with those during 1917 and 1918. The comparison showed the productive capacity of each worker has greatly increased because of technical efficiency, and that because of lower prices, the United States is now getting more value for every dollar spent.

Lend-Lease Administrator Stettinius reports that lend-lease aid has steadily increased from $18,000,000 in March to a present total of more than one billion dollars; contracts have been let for more than seventy-five percent of the first $7,000,000,000, and the new $6,000,000,000 fund is being allocated rapidly. The Agricultural Department reported United States production of dry skin milk has increased forty to fifty percent to meet the total of 200,000 pounds required for shipment to Britain. Secretary of State Hull announced a lend-lease agreement with Iceland.

Federal Reserve Board Chairman Eccles, speaking in New York, said "by the middle of next year defense expenditures will probably be running at an annual rate of somewhat more than fifteen billion dollars above the middle of the current year. Additional taxation must be imposed not further restraint (to consumer spending) must be imposed." He said he hoped "further taxation" will first tap the corporate excess profits and the middle and upper individual income brackets.

"An OPA credit consultant, speaking in Chicago, said "consumer credit control is contributing as much as the new Federal tax law to the battle against inflation."

UMW President John L. Lewis agreed to submit the captive mine dispute to the arbitration of a board composed of himself, Benjamin Fairless, President of the United States Steel Corporation, and Dr. John R. Steelman, who resigned his position as Director of the United States Conciliation Service to represent the public on the board. All the mines resumed operations and the board began meetings in New York.

The President referred back to his special fact-finding board for further examination, the dispute between railroad management and labor. The United States Conciliation Service reported settlement of sixty-eight other labor disputes.

tion To Live.) Doughton-Mifflin Publishing Company, $2.50.

That wise and kind counselor, Dean Harcourt of "Green Light," returns in the new novel to send Barbara Breckinridge out on a curious adventure that changes her life as well as those of many others.

3. Hemingway, Ernest. (For Whom the Bell Tolls). Scribner's Publishing Company, $2.75.

Life and love and death, beauty and horror and perception are all compressed into four unforgettable days in this gripping story of an American fighting for the Loyalists in the hills of Spain. Its main characters are an American college teacher and a group of Spanish guerrillas fighting behind the Franco lines. Mr. Hemingway's realism, his talent for swift action, the toughness and tenderness for which he is famous, are all used to their best advantage. And into the stuff of the novel he has put one of his most moving love stories, one that can stand beside the love story in "A Farewell To Arms."

1. Morgan, Charles. (The Voyage). MacMillan Publishing Company, $2.50.
- (The Voyage) is the great new novel by the author of "The Fountain" and "Sparkbrook." With scenes in beautiful provincial France and the glittering elegance of Paris in the 1870's, it is the story of the voyage, the life made together by two people: Barbet, mansuete, contrayman, who does what he believes to be right, and Therese, wilful, egotistic, passionate, star of the cote-concier.

Defense Training Program Is Offered Youth Of County

Boys Urged To Take Advantage Of Courses Offered

By J. F. NEWMAN, JR.

Vocational Agriculture Teacher The out-of-school defense training program is intended to create a reservoir of youth, with preliminary training, who may go into industrial defense industrial employment as the better qualified to serve agriculture as it becomes increasingly mechanized. These courses may also function as devices for the selection and guidance of individuals into advanced or specific training courses.

Many boys have taken advantage of these courses, and as soon as they finished the course have had jobs waiting for them. Some of these boys are making as much as two-hundred dollars a month. There are four different courses in which you may receive training. They are tractor, truck and auto-mechanic, metal work, wood working, and elementary electricity.

Any out-of-school young men between the ages of seventeen and twenty-one who are interested in the BULLY & INDEPENDENT WAREHOUSES NOW OPEN

The Burley & Independent Warehouses, Maysville, Kentucky, owned and operated by J. F. Hardymon, are now open to receive tobacco.

The warehouses have ideal facilities for handling tobacco, and the light and arrangement is the best in the state at the Burley. J. F. Hardymon, who starts every basket of tobacco, has been in the tobacco business for twenty years. Every effort is exerted to get the top market price for every basket, and he has an interest in the farmers. The workers have been with them for ten years and they are trained to handle tobacco and to give service.

The location of the Burley is very convenient, being at the head of the new concrete viaduct, and has storage space so that your truck does not have to stand out in bad weather.

The Independent is also ideally located on Forest Avenue in the tobacco warehouse district. The same management takes care of both houses, and they are striving for satisfied customers at all times.

J. W. Hardymon is sales manager of the Independent, and has ally as long. Mr. Bruce Harrison, of Charters, Kentucky, is floor manager at the Independent; Hugh (Gunny) O'Neill is floor manager at the Burley.

All of these men know tobacco, they raise tobacco and know its value.

They wish to thank their friends for past patronage, and are now ready to take care of their sales this season.

Our opening sale averaged $26.85.

Twenty-five who are interested in any of these courses, contact me at the Morehead or Haldeman high school. Any boys living in other communities in the county, if there is a car-load of you, we can pay one of you two cents a mile to bring a car.

I hope that the boys of Rowan County will take advantage of these opportunities and enroll in one of the courses.

Future Farmers Newsletter Is Huge Success

With the fine cooperation of the local merchants, the Newsletter, published earlier this month by the Morehead chapter of the Future Farmers of America, was a huge success.

We feel that this letter has been of some value to the community. The Future Farmers are planning to use the proceeds in a thrifty and much needed manner. One way we plan to use the funds to buy several necessary items for the chapter and for the benefit of the county, including a set of castration clamps, which are used in the castration of rams, calves and colts and a complete serum syringe outfit for use in inoculating hogs, cattle and horses. All these items are to be available to the community and for the county as a whole, as well as for the benefit of the chapter. Also on the list of needed supplies, is a chapter banner, FFA letterheads and some athletic equipment.

Dear Friend:

We are writing you to express our sincere appreciation for any business you may have given us in the past and to extend to you a cordial invitation to have you sell your tobacco with us this coming year.

We base this invitation upon the following facts. We own and operate the largest, newest and best lighted Warehouse on the Cynthiana market. We were the first Warehouse in Kentucky, association and the New Burley Association for the handling of the 1940 crop to use it as they deemed best for the betterment of the depressed tobacco market. A member of our firm is the only tobacco warehousemen who went to Louisville on January 1, 1941, to meet with Governmental Officials and ask that some aid be given the distressed tobacco market in Kentucky. The result of which was that $6,000,000 was made available for the tobacco growers in Kentucky, which made a substantial increase in the price of tobacco.

Ours was the first Warehouse in Cynthiana to issue the Burley Tobacco Growers Co-operative Association's Participation Certificate to farmers on January 13, 1941.

We do not claim to have broken any records but we do claim to be the leaders in securing for Cynthiana, a better tobacco market for the 1940 crop as well as for tobacco that will be sold in the future.

It has been our policy to not pick the good and big crops and pass up the small and bad ones. We give fair, equal and courteous treatment to all.

We are not speculators but our auctioneer with twenty-one years experience and a member of the firm personally guarantee you that your tobacco will not be sold until the high dollar is obtained.

Our Warehouse will be open day and night for the receiving of tobacco. We will appreciate your coming to see us.

Thanking you we remain, your friends,

Morehead Rally--

This is one of a series of articles sponsored by the Kentucky Press Association which in 1941 would honor the centennial of Kentucky as Kentucky should tell the world in 1942--Sesqui-Centennial Year.

AS KENTUCKIANS prepare to celebrate the sesqui-centennial of the state's admission to the Union in 1842, Cumberland Gap is one historic shrine of prominent importance. It was through this historic gateway, on the last western range of the Appalachians, that the hunters and founders of Kentucky passed in the conquest of "The Dark and Bloody Ground." The Wilderness Trail, entering the Kentucky land at the pass and following the general route of the age-old Warriors Path of the Indians, became the life-line which fed the young commonwealth from 1775 to 1825.

Cumberland Gap, framed by the portals of Pineapple Mountain and Three States Peak, witnessed the most amazing migration in the annals of American history, and most of present-day Kentuckians, as well as many residents of the states of the North and West, with grateful memory of their heroic ancestors who followed Daniel Boone and the other pioneers through the old gateway and along the dangerous trail in the dark wilderness before the valleys of the Blue Grass were reached.

Nationally known for its influence upon the course of American history, Cumberland Gap and the surrounding scenic region is now scheduled for development as a National Historical Park, through the cooperation of Kentucky, Tennessee, and Virginia. Prominent in pioneer history, a strategic point in the Civil War struggle, and the focal center of a spectacular industrial development in 1890, the pass has been the scene of tremendous episodes typical of the growth of the nation.

The pageantry of historical incidents at Cumberland Gap, the long blue wall of the Cumberlands in twin at the Gap, the tumbling streams and interesting caverns, the sharp gorge through Pine Mountain at the Narrows where the Cumberland River breaks out of its mountain imprisonment, the famous Cumberland Ford over which the early pilgrims crossed, and the wyan-locked Laurel Caves in Pine Mountain State Park where thousands of Kentuckians come each year to exalt the rugged beauty of the mountains, combine to make this region one of Kentucky's most romantic spots.

The tide of humanity which once flowed through the pass is turning again to this shrine of conquest, to enjoy its beauty and to visualize again the glories of the past.

new paintings to the exhibit. The University of Kentucky has extended an invitation to the public to come to the Student Union building and see the exhibit between December 2 and January 14.

Young Speaks At Men's Club Banquet

Last Wednesday night at the Men's club banquet, Mr. Tom Young of the college art department delivered an interesting address on the subject, "Measuring Art." Mr. Young discussed the present day false attitude towards art, and the proper way that this subject should be measured.

Included in the evenings entertainment was a design test given to the members of the Men's club by Mr. Young. The men were tested and graded on their ability in this line.

from 1.30 to 1.50 (E.S.T.) Miss Robinson plans to take her listeners on a tour of the campus and point out the many advantages of college.

Why Catsup On Hamburgers?

As my great-grandfather used to say, "There are bathubs, and, on the other hand, there are English Literature classes." Don't you think so? In a manner of speaking, I have often thought so, but from a standpoint of general generalities, there are some that wear neckties.

When our forefathers founded this nation, some people said, "Don't you think steam heat is more economical than Chinese restaurants?" Some of them thought so, but one day in May a fire truck ran into the First National Bank building, and what do you think we had for supper, hash?

If an archy as a way of life is to continue to exist in this nation of the people, by the people, and for the pet's sake, where's my collar button? Then after a brisk walk through the woods before breakfast, there are two types of football players. But on the other hand, it isn't right to run red lights. Hamburgers are good, too, but if you walk with your toes pointed out, pinball machines are hard to beat.

After starting at a beautiful sunset for three days, I sat down and wrote my Congressman, for, after all, they say those things happen in a more or less fashion. As a result, the biology instructors give hard tests, but even at that, Clark bars are chocolate coated. If you breathe deeply, it won't be so hard to find a needle in a haystack. However, after years of research, my colleagues and I have found that since two plus two equal four, egg plant gives some people hives.

Fountain pens make nice things to write with, but if you want mashed potatoes three weeks of basic flight training is good. Mahatma Gandhi once said, "Be better to have loved and lost, than never to have been to Grand Canyon." Considering the social implications of this statement, in order to maintain a changing equilibrium, we must learn where we're at.

In conclusion, may I say that carbon monoxide is much easier than hanging.

More than 5,000 Red Cross nurses are on active duty with United States armed forces. Thousands more must be enrolled in the coming months. Our young men in the camps and in military and naval hospitals need the finest nursing care we can provide. Every person in this community can help by joining the local Red Cross chapter.

Our boys at camp need the Red Cross. We on the home front need the Red Cross standing by with instantaneous help. Let's show that we recognize these needs by "going over the top" for the Red Cross during the local Roll Call, November 11 to 30.

Preparedness for any eventuality has long been the task of the American Red Cross. National defense places huge burdens upon the organization. Help your Red Cross carry on its work by joining the local chapter at once.

Bridge—A Thing That Spans Rivers

That ladies and gents is merely what Mr. Webster has to say on the subject. Here at MSTC, bridge is not an aid to transportation, and definitely not merely a game. It is a way of life beside which the importance of studying dimes and fads. Do you think you came here to learn? That is absolutely correct! But not any piddling scientific, historical, or other educational facts. You must learn more important things: when to try a shrewd finesse (turning over a few cards while dealing will make you a whiz at this), and last, but not least, whether to lay a deuce or three of trumps on your partner's ace.

So much for the educational advantages of this fascinating time filler—and killer—now about the procedure. . . . First of all, in choosing a partner make certain that he uses his own system. After all, if your partner wig-wags Boy Scout fashion while you go in for kicking in Morse Code, it's fairly obvious that as partners you are not going to get anywhere.

Second comes the fine art of getting position. Conventional opening is a swift slump into the most comfortable chair immediately after the cut. To this your partner responds by sliding into the opposite chair and stretching out his feet to link with yours under the table. This accomplishes two purposes, guarantees you a direct line of communications, and deprives the enemy of a similar line (immediately after the cut for partners, your opponents become your enemies and are to be treated as such thenceforth. If your partner commits a blunder he may be regarded as their temporary ally.)

Lastly comes shuffling and dealing. If there is to be a cut, be sure to leave a deuce on the bottom at the end of the shuffle, if not an ace is in sight. When dealing place your partner's cards close enough to your opponent's so that he can flick one in when picking up his own. These if his cards show the usual discouraging lack of faces, he throws them down shouting, "Mistake! Too many cards." If on the other hand his cards are good, he will remark privately, "Oh, oh, one too many," and palm off a deuce from a short suit on the man he robbed.

Following easy rules, you can become a fairly successful bridge player and with the advantage of a good kibitzer, the original fifth columnist, you can make your game really phenomenal. Choose one with that mobility of features that characterizes a good actor and let him rove slowly around the table. Avoid letting him see your hand however, unless the opposition is blind.

We would continue dropping jewels of wisdom indefinitely but it cannot be. Charley says a game is being organized in the lobby so we must grab our loaf of bread and rush. Don't forget our instructions!

Eaglets Defeated
Last Tuesday night Coach Bob Laughlin's Eaglets trekked to Owingsville to receive their second defeat in as many starts in the current court season. The Morehead Eagles looked better before the Owingville led on the short end of a 23-17 tally.

The maroon and white clad hosts led at half time 18-10. In the preliminary the Morehead B team swamped the Owingville reserves 22-9.

Little is expected of the Breck team this season because most of the boys are small, but in spite of their size they show spirit and fight which can sometimes overcome size handicaps. Those who made the trip are Ellis, Patrick, Allen, Wells, Ferguson, Cash, Cassidy, Frances Hutchinson, Powers, Banks, Ramey, Fraley, Litton and Bayes.

Cash, Wells and Patrick each scored five points and Ferguson netted two for the Eaglets in the opening game Powers with nine points led the winners and Allen scored six, Hutchinson made four, and Cassidy netted three.

More than 400 companies, all over America, are helping General Electric speed up normal times.

1. Two of these subcontracting firms ordinarily manufacture fishing tackle. Another normally makes watches, and still another makes carpets.

2. For making searchlights alone, subcontractors from five states prepare parts. About 75 companies contribute to building a steam turbine.

3. More than 150 different firms supply parts in a steady, scheduled stream for radio transmitting and receiving equipment for the armed forces.

4. Thus dozens of cities and small towns throughout America are becoming partners with G.E. in helping speed the national defense program.

Double for Your Money

that's about the bargain electricity under business management gives you today

REALIZE what a swell bargain you're plugging into every time you use electricity these days?

It's very likely that you don't realize it because the residential rate has been reduced gradually over the past 10 to 15 years. And your bill is probably about the same as it was.

That's because, although the price of electricity has been cut about half, you are probably using a lot more electricity than you did. Most families are. Today homes have refrigerators, toasters, washing machines, ironers, vacuum cleaners, radios—some or all of which you may not have had 10 to 15 years ago.

How does it happen that today you get about twice as much electricity as you used to get—for the same money?

The answer is that it didn't just "happen." This reduction is the result of business management of the electric companies. Your electric company and its employees. The same people who are constantly working to improve your service so that every year it is better than the year before—the people whose aim is to keep on bringing you more and more of the benefits of electricity at less and less cost.
