Morehead High School Play Is Ready To Present

"The Red-Headed Stepchild" by Charles George is being presented by the Morehead Senior Class May 13 in the high school gym.

This is a comedy-drama in three acts. Come and see what happens when Richard Russell brings his young daughter by his first marriage from the western ranch to his fashionable home in Chicago. It would be easier to domesticate the wild deer than to tame this free unsexed child of nature. Although she makes many social blunders she rescues the family in its hour of need. Come and entertain.

Morehead Is Building On Huge Scale

Three New Business Buildings In Addition To Residences Going Up

Business building in Morehead is keeping pace with the rapid residential expansion program in the city, which during the past few years has been the greatest of any city of its size in Kentucky.

At the present moment three new business projects are under construction.

The Young building on the site of the Blue Moon Restaurant, which was destroyed by fire early this year, is under construction, with the foundations already poured. The new building which is under contract to the Carr-Caudill Lumber Company, with W. H. Rice as superintendent of construction, will be one story red brick, 32 by 27 feet. An extra room for a furnace will be constructed. The building will be so built that an additional story may be added in the future, should there be a demand for more space.

D. B. Caudill has already started construction on a new building on Main Street, on the site of the old bowling alley. The city hall, H. C. Hagan, Oscar Patrick, Austin Riddle and Virgil Wolford were appointed on a committee to look after Fire Department building permits, establishment of sidewalks, and various details in the new addition recently added to the limits of Morehead.

City Council Appoints New Committees

Plan To Establish Conveniences In New Addition Gives Support

At a meeting of the city council held Tuesday night at the city hall, H. C. Hagan, Oscar Patrick, Austin Riddle and Virgil Wolford were appointed on a committee to look after Fire Department building permits, establishment of sidewalks, and various details in the new addition recently added to the limits of Morehead.

A representative of the Kentucky Power Company was in attendance at the meeting to discuss details of the extension of water mains in the new addition. Russell Barker and Virgil Wolford will serve as a committee to work out further details.

W. H. Rice has been appointed to draw up plans to submit to W. P. A. for the completion of several sewer projects in the new addition and in the east end of Morehead.

The council adopted a new and lower water rate for all users of 100,000 gallons or over. Previously the rate was 30 cents per thousand gallons for larger users. The new rate adopted today is $1.00 for 20 cents per thousand gallons between 100,000 and 200,000 gallons, and all over 200,000 at 15 cents.

Dr. William H. Vaughan Elected President Of M. S. T. C. To Succeed Ousted Official

Dean William H. Vaughan has been elected President of the Morehead State Teachers College for the past 12 years, was elected president of the College for a term of two years at a meeting of the Board of Regents held here Tuesday afternoon, after the board had definitely refused by a vote of four to one, to extend the contract of H. A. Babb beyond his present limit of July 1. The board then voted unanimously to elect Dean Vaughan as president. And thus a three year fight by the Rowan County News to oust Babb as president and to elect a man who is capable, honest and able to the presidency of the college has been accomplished.

Dean Vaughan's elevation to the presidency comes not as a surprise to the majority, but rather as the final fruition of a desire long felt by the vast majority of those who have the welfare of the college at heart. His familiarity with the college routine, his high minded moral character, his interest not only in the growth of the institution which he will head, as well as his broad vision for that growth, fit Dean Vaughan in a peculiarly satisfactory manner for the office which he has been elected to.

Dean Vaughan will assume the duties of his new office in July. Thus he will have two months in which to work out the details of his plan. There is naturally a great deal of work to be done in this brief interval. The whole hearted support of this entire community as well as of Eastern Kentucky.

Employees Of Ky. Fire Brick Organize Plan

Credit Union To Be Established Among Employees Of Brick Plant

Employees of the Kentucky Fire Brick Company have taken initial steps in the organization of a savings and loan plan known as a credit union.

The aims and purposes of the organization are to encourage employees to save and also to make loans to employees who are in need of funds.

The organization will be directed by a board of trustees chosen by the men themselves. It is in no sense of the word competitive to local banks but to the contrary it will be helpful in situations inasmuch as deposits will be made in the local banks. This is prescribed in the by-laws.

The Kentucky Fire Brick Company is recognized as the largest employer in Rowan County and the greatest proportion of production is shipped either directly or indirectly in Rowan County. There have been times in the past when due to necessity of production the employees have found it necessary to ask local merchants for credit and some accounts have been closed. Through the establishment of the credit union practically all employees will be able to place themselves in a cash and carry basis by being members of the credit union.

BLACK LOCUST

The time for planting Black Locust is the last part of April and first part of May.

Preference should be given a northern exposure site. Moderately fertile well drained soil. A deep sandy loam in a fine workable state is the most satisfactory.

Woods soil if available or non-shaded beds made in the woods give fine results.

The ground should be well plowed, harrowed and smoothed down.

Shallow drill rows, two or three inches wide and approximately 24 inches deep, should be prepared 18 inches apart, running lengthwise of the bed.

It is not recommended that phosphate or any type commercial fertilizer be used in making the bed or after the seed are planted.

The seed may be successfully sowed dry or they may be soaked in lukewarm water from three to four hours. If they are soaked in water from three to four hours, if they are soaked in water before planting, care should be taken not to over-soak the seed, which will cause damage by causing them to become too soft and thus dry-out too readily when placed in the ground.

The seed should average 3-4 of an inch to 1 inch apart in the drill row.

The seed should be covered 1.5 inch in depth, with woods soil or a sandy loam soil which will not crust or bake in the sun after rains.

After the seed have been covered in the drill rows the soil should be gently firmed down by laying a plank or board on the row and tapping the board across its length with a shovel or hoe. Do not walk on the board or drill row.

Good moisture and warmth during the normal germination period which varies from 14 to 21 days is very necessary. A light mulch of clean straw or leaves is of aid in securing and maintaining this desired moisture, thus bringing about the seeds' germination much more quickly. As soon as the seed begin to germinate and show through the ground, most of the mulch should be removed; that remaining, may be pulled to the space in between the rows.

If rabbits or chickens are allowed to injure the young seedlings, poultry netting should be placed around the bed.

If a drought should occur, especially during the early stages of the seedlings' growth, sufficient water should be applied to the seed bed during the late evening hours, to keep the young seedlings from drying out and being killed.

The seedlings should be kept free from grass and weeds and the surface of the ground lightly cultivated.

If the seed encounter a normal growing season, with sufficient moisture being received, they will grow to a height of 24 to 30 inches by the time the fall dormant season arrives. Seedlings from 12 to 18 inches in height are the best sizes to plant and will stand a better chance of surviving after transplanting, than will seedlings of greater height. Seedlings, more than 24 inches in height at transplanting time, should be cut back to about 6 or 8 inches above the ground. Every effort should be made to grow the best planting stock possible, which is judged by the plant having a medium top and a well-developed main root like a long radish in shape. Seedlings which do not have a fleshy main root should be considered as culls and not be transplanted.

There are approximately 22,500 to 24,000 Black Locust seed to the pound; the number varying according to the plumpness and size of the seed. Good seed are highly fertile and should germinate from 60 per cent to 80 per cent and even more of the seed planted, if normal moisture conditions are experienced.

The area a pound of seed will sow, depends upon the width of the rows apart and the distance the seed are from each other in the drill rows. An average calculation is that one pound of planted seed will occupy a space of approximately one-tenth of an acre in size.

The suggestion is being made in this spring that most of us can get new houses for our old ones. Fire chiefs are explaining that anyone can make surprising home improvements with just a little effort. Spring time is Clean-up Time.

The chiefs are interested in the safety angle, too. They recommend checking up on conditions in the cellar, saying that any burnable material that is becoming charred by radiated heat from the smokepipe, should be moved to a safe area or properly insulated. Furnaces and stoves should be checked for broken or rusted parts and should be thoroughly cleaned. Chimneys should be inspected for cracks, the soot cleaned out, and hot ashes put into a metal container.

Don't overlook attic, closets, and cellars; remove accumulations of paper, rubbish and old broken furniture. Clean up the yard and bar papers and trash in an incinerator. If you leave paint rags, oily waste, or cleaning mops about, they may spontaneously ignite. Keep this dangerous material in a metal can with a tight cover.

Electric fuses should be checked to make sure that the correct size fuse is used and that no burned-out fuses are bridges with a coin or piece of metal. All electrical work or extensions should be done by an expert electrician. Replace all worn or frayed cords on appliances.

Let's make Spring Clean-up worthwhile this year. Get a new, safe house for an old, hazardous one.

PREVENT COSTLY MISTAKE! Tell you. It isn't just the amount of life insurance you carry that matters. The kind you carry is equally, or more important.

And that's the reason arguments in favor of over-the-counter life insurance selling, which would eliminate the commissions paid the agent, fall of their own weight. Not one layman in ten thousand has any adequate idea of the varied forms of coverage available. And not one in ten thousand is in a position to select a plan, without expert aid, which gives him maximum protection at minimum cost.

The life insurance agent's job of course, is to sell insurance. But it is also his job to sell the right kind of insurance. The needs, problems, ambitions and desires of two men working side by side in the same office may be entirely different. The training agent can fill the bill for both. For every individual lucky enough to select the right kind of life insurance coverage through over the counter buying, a thousand individuals would make costly and perhaps irredeemable mistakes. Those mistakes are just what the insurance agency system is designed to prevent.
