

Short Term Greatly Cuts Enrollment

The eight weeks term, determined upon by the four state teachers colleges in Kentucky has played havoc with the enrollment, according to figures released by Morehead State Teachers College authorities, following the enrollment of the first three days. Up to the present, according to those figures 17 have been enrolled in the college.

Last year during the first term 628 were enrolled in the first term, while 267 were in attendance at the second five weeks term.

Heretofore the teachers colleges have had two summer terms of five weeks each. Thus the one who teach in rural districts were able to attend for the first five weeks term, and then take up their school work in mid-July. This year with the eight weeks term, these rural teachers would have had to sacrifice at least three weeks of their summer months term, which most of them could ill afford.

The result is that they are not attending college at all. On the other hand the University, giving the usual ten weeks term of two five week terms. In addition to the fact that the term is longer, students are able to obtain only 9 credit hours for eight weeks here, while they are able to obtain thirteen credit hours for the ten weeks term. The eight week term is an experiment, and judging from the effect on the enrollment here, is not a successful experiment, since enrollment is scarcely half what it was last year.

Only one addition has been made to the faculty for the first term. Dr. J. C. Chesnut has been added for the first four weeks of the term. He will teach courses in modern poetry.

This Is No Time To Change Horses

We listened to a part of the diatribe of Leonard Fielder last Saturday, in which he devoted considerable attention to what he pleased to term Joe Bates public record. There is little value in going into his statements, for we recall that two years ago Mr. Fielder attended a dinner at Russell, Kentucky held in honor of Mr. Bates, at which time Mr. Fielder was loud in his praises of Mr. Bates as a candidate, and at which time he publicly pledged him his utmost support. That of course was two years ago and Mr. Fielder was not a candidate for the same office. But if Mr. Bates was not of support at that time, if he was entitled to Mr. Fielder's endorsement, he cannot have become so bad at the present time that he should not receive his support or at least his silence.

We personally are interested in the candidacy of Mr. Bates. The Rowan County News wishes to go on record as endorsing him for the office, and to renew its pledge of support at this time. Laying all other arguments to one side, we do not believe in the first place that this is any time to make a change in our congress. Mr. Bates has had the experience of two years in Congress, and these two years are the most valuable asset any Congressman can have. They have fitted him for his work. We have investigated the salary of the Congressman in developing a man who is familiar with the work of Congress. He is familiar with the plans of the administration. He is wholeheartedly and unreservedly behind the president in his foreign policy. He knows, in a word, the ropes. It would be utterly foolish to waste the money we have already spent, and to place in Lexington a man who must begin at the beginning, who is not equipped by experience to carry on the work.

The question for the people to decide, is not what any man thinks of Joe Bates personally, or what any man says about him personally, because it is easy to make charges and counter charges; it is easy to twist facts and distort them to such an extent that they become unrecognizable. The question for the people to decide is whether or not Joe Bates has served them well in the past two years, and whether he will continue with his added experience to serve them better in the next two years. Has his service benefited Morehead and Rowan County? There is but one answer to that, and has. And if it has then there is but one sensible thing for Rowan County voters to do, and that is to give him a big majority vote of confidence in August.

WEEKLY BIBLE STUDY

Given every Thursday at 7:30 P. M. at the Rev. B. H. KAZEE, Pastor Baptist Church, Morehead.

NOTE.—THE READERS OF THIS COLUMN ARE REQUESTED TO SEND IN QUESTIONS TO THE PASTOR BAPTIST CHURCH, MOREHEAD.

Question—Does God always answer prayer?
Answer—It depends, of course, on what you mean by an answer. If you mean, "Does God give everything we pray for?" then I would say no. But if you mean that God hears and answers "Yes" or "No," I would say that God always answers every sincere prayer from His children.
When my boys make a request of me for something they want, I always answer them, though I do not always give them what they ask for. If they could know just how obedient children should ask for things, they would always add to their request this condition: "and my father, think I should have what I am asking for."
The truth is that God most exercises the same care in giving what is best for His children as we do when we give to our children. God must always hold the welfare of His children above their desires. If they desire what is good for them He will always hear and answer prayer. But if they ask for themselves what is not good for them God withholds the thing they pray for, because He loves them. Some times it is hard for us to refuse our children what they want, but if we love them, they will always do what is best for them even though we deny

2. Because it retains the nourishing elements and appetizing flavors of meats, vegetables, soups, pastries, breads, etc., without shrinkage.
3. Because it uses no fuel and cannot smudge wood-work, walls, curtains, utensils.
4. Because "contact" top burners and heavy oven insulation use all heat for cooking and prevent its escape into the kitchen.
5. Because it is so economical—actually costing about half what you'd expect.
