Ordnance Division To Assist Smaller Plants' Conversion

To Aid Small Manufacturer In Shift From Civilian To War Production

Out of the acorn of the small manufacturer will grow the sturdy oak of complete war production. To realize a consummation of this ideal program, every effort is being made by Army Ordnance to bring the small manufacturer into his rightful place in the war production effort.

The small manufacturer who is not equipped to turn out complete tanks, weapons, ammunition, or other items of Ordnance material may be equipped to assist in the program of war production in small measure as a subcontractor.

In reporting on Industry's progress within the Cincinnati Ordnance District to the Chief of Ordnance, Major General C. M. Wesson, the Commanding Officer of the Cincinnati Ordnance District, Colonel Fred A. Mahan declared that manufacturers within the district have done a "wonderful job."

Many of the contractors are ahead of schedule, the bulk of the contractors are on time, while a few have been delayed because of priorities on machine tools.

The Procurement Service of the district under the direction of Major Ernest W. Smith has reorganized a division to be known as the Plant Conversion Division.

This division under the direction of Lieutenant Frederick B. Orzechman has for some time handled the conversion of commercial plants to war time production, but will now redouble its efforts to convert the small manufacturer.

The Officers and civilian engineers of this division will give advice and assistance to small manufacturers on the possibility of plant conversion. Two days each week will be designated as small manufacturers' day.

On Tuesdays and Fridays the small manufacturers of Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana and Tennessee will have at their disposal the entire personnel of the Plant Conversion Division to assist the manufacturer by giving him the opportunity of viewing the Display Room of Ordnance items, drawings and specifications, and methods of manufacture of various types of Ordnance material.

He will also be assisted on matters having to do with bidding, machine equipment, and an engineering assistance which will qualify a manufacturer as an Ordnance contractor.

WHY

WHY are the homemakers of Morehead working as never before... keeping kitchens humming with ceaseless activity... preparing and serving three hearty, nutritious meals daily... doing their own baking!

BECAUSE

BECAUSE they, too, want to share in the winning of this war and they feel they can best serve by safeguarding the health and welfare of those who rely on them for sustenance... by sacrificing ease and leisure on the altar of devotion to home, family and country.

ELSEWHERE

ELSEWHERE experts are saying that women of America will be required to work harder and longer in the planning and preparation of meals because a healthy and vigorous citizenship is essential to victory. But no such enforced action is necessary here where "Captains of the Kitchen" voluntarily and graciously give their time and talent to the protection of the vital home front.

And as time goes on and the recognition and acceptance of war duties become widespread in this section, long famed for its patriotic fervor, more and more loyal homemakers will be seen cheerfully carrying large sacks of flour and other essential foodstuffs to their homes to be expertly converted by the magic of Kentucky cookery into vitzamized victory treats far surpassing the choicest offerings of professional chefs.

"WELL, I ALWAYS STAY AT THE BROWN"

The first guest ever to register at The Brown Hotel in Louisville was England's great ex-Premier, Mr. Lloyd George. From that day to this, The Brown has been Louisville's favorite hotel for busy men who want the comforts of home when they travel.

What's the reason for this preference? We can try to tell you but, it's hard to put into words. Here at The Brown, we don't regard our patrons as some kind of "freight in transit". The men and women who stop here are our guests—nice, friendly people who, like ourselves, simply want to be treated courteously, and made comfortable while they're away from home. So that's what we try to do for them, and they like it!

That sounds almost too easy, doesn't it? But, believe us, lots of people say it's practically unique! Next time you're in Louisville, see if you don't agree. We hope you'll give us a trial.

Religious Group To Hold Conventions In Louisville Soon

U. S. Christian Education Advance To Launch Kentucky Campaign

Plans are well under way for the launching of the United States Christian Education Advance in Kentucky, during April, and three one-day conventions will be held as follows: April 13th, Louisville; April 14th, Lexington; April 17th, Hopkinsville.

The first sessions of the conventions will start at 9:30 a. m., and continue until 12:15 p. m. In addition to general addresses on the Advance, there will be parallel conferences on "The Advance in the Home" and "The Advance in the Church," grouped as follows: Pastors and Church officers; Church School Workers, etc. The afternoon sessions, which begin at 2:00 o'clock and continue until 5:15 p. m., will have a community emphasis, stressing the importance of cooperation with other Churches and character building agencies and setting forth projects in which a community might engage, such as a Religious Education Survey; Weekday Religious Education; Vacation Church Schools; Audio-Visual Education; Missions; School of Christian Living; and Leadership Training. Group conferences on these projects will also be held. All such conferences will be conducted by able resource leaders. The evening sessions, beginning at 7:30 o'clock, will be popular meetings and open to the general public.

State denominational and inter-denominational leaders will participate in the programs, along with national leaders in Christian Education, including Miss Margaret J. Marston, Executive Secretary of the Woman's Auxiliary, National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church; Dr. Reuben H. Mueller, General Secretary, Board of Christian Education, Evangelical Church; Dr. Glenn McKee, Editor-in-chief, Christian Board of Publication, Disciples Church; Dr. Percy B. Hayward, Director of Educational Program and Editor of the International Journal of Religious Education; and Dr. Harry M. Munro, of the International Council of Religious Education, Director of the Advance.

Each Church is asked to send at least six delegates to the convention within its own particular area. All delegates will be expected to register, but there will be no registration fee.

As fixed by law, one fourth of all National Forest receipts are returned to the counties in which the forest is located and designated for roads and schools. An additional ten percent of all receipts is returned to the National Forest for road construction and maintenance of Forest Service roads.

Income in the fiscal year 1941 was derived from the sale of timber, land rental permits, and commercial quarry rights and represents an increase of almost fifty percent over the preceding year. The outlook for the present year indicates even a greater income, and therefore higher returns to the counties involved.

A large part of the business program of the National Forest hinges on the fire protection job now at hand. Most of the business on the books is in some manner connected with the war effort. It is therefore important that all forest users take every precaution to prevent forest fires. Supervisor Borden said:

ever keep only the best layers. When production drops below fifty percent, call the poor producers. Drones never pay. Of course, you understand you must do your part too, that is continue to feed a balanced ration and keep the birds free from various parasites. Efficient utilization of feed is the basis of success.

2. Profits usually depend more on the poultryman than on his birds.

3. Efficient management reduces production costs and increases returns.

4. Running water and other conveniences save miles of steps. Arrange a barrel or oil drum at the corner of the house to catch the water, then pipe it to the chickens.

5. Fight disease with cleanliness and good management.

6. Remember too that crowding seldom pays. It will lower egg production and increase mortality in baby chicks, growing and laying stock.

7. Figure production and marketing costs carefully. Use home grown grains along with protein supplements to balance your rations.

8. Is the ground clean around the brooder house? Ground for chickens is clean when there have been no chickens on it for the last two years. Build a sun porch and keep the chicks on it and in the brooder house until about the tenth week, then move the pullets to a range shelter or shed.

9. Provide green feed on the range for growing pullets. Alfalfa or bluegrass is best. Clovers also make good pastures. If the range is bare now, sow Sudan grass, as this makes excellent summer pasture.

1. It should pay this year to keep over bred hens until the pullets are laying well this fall. Howcurity Board. He said: "Persons who work in factories or in business places must have social security account numbers regardless of their age or sex. Many employers now demand that all new workers show their social security cards before they are placed on the payroll. Applications for account numbers may be obtained at the Ashland field office of the Social Security Board in the Second National Bank building, or at any postoffice.

"Persons who once had social security account numbers but who have lost their original cards should obtain duplicates. Persons working on farms or who are in the service of agencies of government are not required to have social security cards as their wages are not covered under the Social Security Act. We are very anxious to avoid issuing account numbers in cases of actual need, and are therefore making this explanation," Mr. Bohon said.

Because of the increased demands for service the hours during which the Ashland office is open have now been lengthened. The office is open daily from 8:30 a. m. until 5:00 p. m., and on Saturday from 8:30 a. m. until 12:30 p. m.

MOREHEAD, KY.

Farmers To Patch Pastures, Meadows For More Produce

It is estimated that Kentucky farmers in order to meet the demand for more meat and more milk in 1942, must reseed or otherwise improve a million acres of grassland in 1942, and about two to three million acres in 1943. Most Kentucky meadows and pastures now have poor stands. Fall weather for the past three years has been unusually dry, with the result that stands on some six million acres of pasture and hay land needed during those years are very thin. By patching with suitable seeds, however, and by liming and fertilizing, most of these newer meadows and pastures and many of the older ones can be made to double their present production of good pasture and hay. Where drought was the cause of poor stands, most patching will be done by sowing seed either on thin spots or over the entire fields, but where other causes have contributed, these must be corrected before reseeding will be very effective. Where the soil is unproductive, treatment with limestone, fertilizers, and manure will be profitable before reseeding. Construction of diversion terraces, diversion ditches, and hillside ditches are distinct aids in patching pastures on rolling land.

In the past much patching has consisted in spreading a few loads of manure on the thin spots, putting brush and other material in gullies, and other treatments of small areas in a relatively few fields. The job to be done now is in order to produce notable increases in pasture and hay, requires sowing seed on roughly three-fourths of the grassland of the state.

The ease of patching grassland in Kentucky probably should not be unduly high. Korean lespedeza and Italian ryegrass, both among the cheapest and most extensively produced grasses in the state, are widely adapted and suitable for extensive use.

Most seedings will be made in spring or fall. Fall sown seeds should be almost entirely grasses. They should be sown at any time from September 1 through November, but the September sowings give best results. Spring seedings may be both grasses and legumes, and may be made from spring February 1 to as late as May 1 in northern Kentucky. Best results from spring seedings can be usually expected in February and March sowings.

Rates of seeding korean lespedeza and Italian ryegrass on old grassland range from five to twenty-five pounds per acre, whether seeded alone or (in the spring) in combination.

The value of treating less productive soils before seeding grass and legume crops is indicated by hay yields produced on TVA demonstration farms in Grayson County. (In 1942 the average yields (pounds per acre) from the treated and the untreated portions of the demonstration fields were as follows:

Lespedeza, thirty-three fields, untreated, 641, limestone and phosphate, 2,875; red clover, five fields, 428, limestone and phosphate, 2,680; and red top, five fields, 80, limestone and phosphate, 2,178.

During 1941, life insurance companies purchased more than $890,000,000 of bonds of factories and industrial plants of America, thirty-five percent more than in 1940 and twice the 1939 total.

Since World War I the protection provided workers' through industrial and group insurance has increased $35,000,000,000. In addition, there has been a large increase in ordinary insurance, the greater part of which is owned by workers.

Sorghum Helms Out In Lincoln County

By growing ten acres of cane, Allen Horton of Lincoln county added approximately $800 to his income last year. His yield of molasses was about one hundred gallons to the acre, with forty bushels of seed to the acre.

Members of the Lincoln County Sorghum Growers' Cooperative Association are planning to grow about two hundred acres of cane this season. This acreage should produce 20,000 gallons of molasses, according to County Agent, John R. Killinger.

The association has a factory at Waynesburg, constructed cooperatively last year. Among the members are masons, carpenters and plumbers. The masons laid the stone, the carpenters took care of the wood work, and the plumbers installed the heating and cooking equipment, all without charge. The result was a building twenty-four by forty-eight feet, completely equipped, at an actual outlay of less than $500. Eight thousand gallons molasses were produced last year.

Marine Corps Needs Radio Specialists For Active Duty

Qualified Applicants Will Be Assigned To Reserve As Staff Sergeant

Enlistment of radio specialists for duty in that field has just been authorized by headquarters, U. S. Marine Corps. Applicants so qualified may be enlisted as Staff Sergeants in Class V(b) Marine Corps Reserve and immediately assigned duties with the Marine Corps.

Requirements are: Applicant must be the age group 17-35. He must be a high school graduate. He must hold or have held an Amateur Radio Operator's License, Class A or B, or a commercial Radio Telegraph or Radio Telephone Operator's License, 1st or 2nd Class. Or in the absence of qualifications last stated, he must have been engaged in actual repair or service of radio equipment for at least three months or have had experience in connection with design or construction of high frequency transmitting or receiving equipment.

Applicants who meet the above requirements with the exceptions they do not have a high school education and have not had experience with design or construction

All men enlisted for special duty and later failing to qualify, may elect to be discharged or to accept assignment to other duty at appropriate rank.

Kentucky Farmers Promise Increase In Livestock In '42

Would Fail Up Reserve Of Feed Supplies Also

Farmers of Kentucky have promised to produce more livestock and livestock products in 1942 than ever before. Accounts kept by Kentucky farmers indicate that they are not growing enough feed to maintain this increased livestock production into 1942 and 1943. Farmers who usually bring in, from other sections, grain and high protein concentrate feeds should consider the possibility that less of these feeds may be available here in 1942 and 1943. This is due to increased livestock numbers in the grade belt and limited transportation facilities. The end effect is that unless we greatly increase our feeding efficiency or produce more feed this year we will start next year's feeding operation with greatly reduced reserve feed supplies.

After five years of unusually favorable crop yields in the United States, a fifty-fifty chance exists that crop yields in 1942 will be lower than in any year of the past five years. The 1941 yields of corn and other feed grains were much greater than normal. The national goals for the acres of all the feed crops are increased for 1942, but there is no assurance that the 1941 total production of feed will again be obtained, because the yields may be reduced by weather conditions.

The problem for Kentucky farmers in the face of this situation is to balance livestock numbers and feed production now. To accomplish this, it is necessary to increase the acreage of soybeans on level or bottom land, barley on fertile upland, small grain pastures on cropland and corn where labor and suitable land are available. Legume hay provides a greater amount of feed value per day of man labor than any harvested crop in Kentucky.

Pasture improvement offers a great opportunity to increase the feed production through re-seeding, soil treatment, proper grazing and management, including summer mowing of weeds. A great saving in grain and hay is made by the use of small grain pastures in fall and spring. Small grains, not to be harvested, may be pastured late in the season and thereby permit other pasture crops to produce a stronger growth before livestock are allowed on it. In this way more total forage is produced during the remainder of the season.

Should weather conditions in 1942 permit yields no greater than normal, an actual shortage of feed may result by 1943. This makes it extremely important to feed livestock in the most efficient manner. The following suggestions should help: Change livestock from one pasture to another frequently; feed a properly balanced ration; avoid crowding and congested conditions not favorable to livestock sanitation and health; and guard against all livestock parasites to encourage cheaper gain and to avoid the waste of feed through death loss of animals. Finally, each farmer must determine for himself the proper crop and livestock balance for his farm and prospective labor force in the years ahead.

There will be no more noisy juke boxes and vending machines for candy, cigars, chewing gum, etc., made. The making of them consumed too much the vital and strategic war metals and materials. Stamp machines can still be made.

Reflecting the greatly purchasing capacity of American families, life insurance is showing increasing purchases and sharply decreased emergency withdrawals in the first quarter of 1942.

House trailer industry is booming, because the trailer has been found a quick and temporary part solution to defense housing problem. 50,000 will be produced this year. The tire problem is solved, you get your trailer with tires, take off the tires and prop the trailer up. Tires go back to the manufacturer to be used on another trailer's one-way trip.

Office of Defense Transportation moved to eliminate wastage of tires, gasoline, machine, work, and manpower by duplicate home milk delivery service, by asking all local distributors to submit a plan.

General Electric men and women—thousands of them! Four typical scenes show the spirit with which they are tackling the grim job of producing for war!

1. Thousands of employees, only ten days after war declaration, gathered in mass meetings in most major G-E plants to pledge all-out war effort!

2. Almost 85 per cent of all General Electric employees signed up to buy U.S. Defense Savings Bonds totaling more than $20,000,000 a year!

3. A sign chalked by a G-E workman on a big machine being built for war. The sign carried this challenge to fellow workers: "Remember Wake Island!"

4. And day and night—around the clock—G-E workmen keep steadily at the most important job of building weapons and supplies for U.S. fighting men!

New High in Ship Production

LIBERTY SHIP BEING FITTED OUT AT A BETHLEHEM SHIP YARD IN NEW YORK. THE YARD IS PRODUCING A CONTINUOUS STREAM OF VESSELS OF THIS TYPE.

Bethlehem ship production this year will represent the greatest all-around shipbuilding output by any company in the history of the country. Speed, speed and more speed is the constant objective; and always speed with quality, for a jerry-built ship is virtually useless in the grim tasks of maritime war. The first Liberty ship which recently discharged supplies at a Red Sea port was built in a yard that was virtually non-existent a year ago. A tanker was delivered in 100 days from laying of keel. A battleship will be delivered 14 months ahead of schedule. Cargo ships are being built in less than one-half the time required in the first World War. Comparable speeding up has been achieved on other types of ships and the schedule is being constantly stepped-up.

Expanding old yards, building new ones, tripling employment in a year's time, training thousands of new men, putting every effective facility to use, adopting pre-assembly and mass production methods—all these spell tonnage and more tonnage, a steadily-mounting output of ships from Bethlehem yards.

All hands are doing their utmost for Victory, working to achieve the maximum for the U.S. Navy and the U.S. Maritime Commission, so that the "bridge of ships" shall be maintained and steadily enlarged.
