

Craig Tolliver in Good Health.

(Special to the Courier-Journal.)

MT. STERLING, Jan. 12.—The report that Craig Tolliver has been killed near Moorehead is a mistake. The facts in the case are these: On Monday, a man by the name of Bentley and Wiley Tolliver, a cousin of Craig Tolliver's, became involved in a drunken brawl, in which Tolliver was fatally stabbed, from which he died yesterday. Bentley is a relative of Cook Humphreys, but it is not supposed the killing was in any way connected with the feud existing between the Tolliver and Humphrey factions, though it is reported by some that Bentley has been for some time shadowing the premises of Craig Tolliver, though Tolliver has not been seen in Moorehead recently. A brother of Wiley Tolliver was seen here last night, and was in a certain store to buy cartridges of rifle size, and it may be that the belligerent parties are making themselves ready for any emergency.
