

CRIME IN KENTUCKY.

---

Another Bloody Chapter of the Rowan-County Faction Feuda.

---

Three Men Die With Their Boots On—Ac- cidentally Killed—Carved Into Vince-Meat.

---

MR. STERLING, KY., June 8.—[Special.]—After a considerable period of peace in the Rowan county troubles, of which the people have read so much, the good citizens of Morehead are again startled by the killing of three men about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the particulars of which are as follows: On yesterday the Town Marshal of Morehead, John Mannin, had a warrant for the arrest of Jack and William Logan, sons of the notorious Dr. Henry S. Logan, who is now confined in the Lexington jail on the charge of conspiring to kill. He went to the house to arrest the Logan boys. An old lady at the house when Mannin sought to arrest the men, told him that the Logan boys were not in. He replied that he would have to search the house, as he had a warrant for their arrest. As Mannin proceeded to ascend the stairway to search for his men, both the Logan boys, who were concealed upstairs, fired on Mannin from the head of the steps, inflicting fatal wounds. Mannin's posse of two men, who were with him, fired on the Logans, killing them both. Mannin has been a non-participant in the late Martin-Tolliver feud, taking no part with either side, while the Logans have always been active Martin supporters.

---