Planning For Over 30 Years About To Become A Reality

On the night of July 4, 1939, three massive storms converged on the Morehead area, resulting in six inches of rainfall over about two hours. This resulted in the biggest flood in history with 25 people losing their lives and property damage in the millions. During the ensuing 30 years, unceasing efforts have been undertaken to have treacherous Triplett Creek straightened and widened to 200 feet. Proponents encountered multiple problems including a federal limitation on the amount of money that could be legally spent for such undertakings. Then came the Korean war with a cutback in domestic spending. But, all that is over now, and construction has started on the creek project, probably to be completed within the next year. Widening and straightening of the South Fork of Triplett starts at Bridge Street and extends to below Brady Curve.

Arnett Named Principal Of Elliott School

Former Rowan County High School Principal Sherman R. Arnett, has been named principal of Sandy Hook High School, the Elliott County Board of Education announced today.

Arnett, State Representative from the district composed of Rowan, Fleming and Robertson counties, has been at odds over a period of months with the Rowan County Board of Education. The Rowan Board demoted him to a 7th grade teacher at Tilden Hogge grade school at a considerable decrease in salary.

The Rowan Board held that the positions of school Principal and State Representative are incompatible. Arnett has sued the Rowan Board in United States Court, Catlettsburg district, for $100,000. Among other things his attorneys allege that Arnett's civil rights were violated. The case could be a test one for the state of Kentucky or the nation.

Arnett is presently serving his third elective term as Representative from the 71st district.

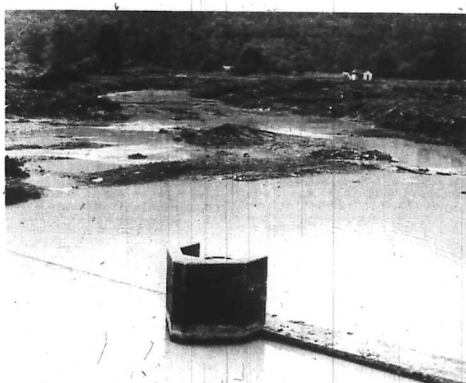

He taught one year in Magoffin county and he has been a teacher or Principal in the Rowan school system for the past 23 years. The Elliott County Board of Education did.

Coroner's Jury Autopsy, Claim Body Run Over

A Rowan County coroner's jury has rendered a verdict that Henry Carlos Click, 38, was murdered on July 14, and it was made to appear an accident.

Coroner Calvin Lytle said this morning that a jury unanimously voted "homicide" after a lengthy investigation and medical reports from two physicians.

Meanwhile, State Police Detective Mariott Campbell said he was convinced that Click, who lived at Farmers, was killed to "keep him from telling what he knew about the June 1 slaying of Vernon Claster Webb, formerly of Olive Hill who more recently made his home with William Corbett Padgett (batching together) on U.S. 60 about a half-mile west of the Rowan County line.

Coroner Lytle said these points were considered by the coroner's jury.

+The report of the two (Ashland) doctors who performed the autopsy said that Click's body bore no bruise.

+The lungs of the deceased contained 800 and 900 centigrams, respectively, and death was due to suffocation, and not by being run over with a truck.

+The evidence was overwhelming that the 1955 truck had been run over the body, but was resting on the abdomen.

+The terrain of the embankment over which the truck was found was not torn up as is usual in such accidents. There was little rock, foliage, or earth displacement.

+A neighbor, or passer-by heard a collision about 9:30 Monday night . . . and death by suffocation did not result until about 2 1/2 hours later.

+Tests showed that Click's body revealed a .23 alcoholic content which is absolute drunkenness . . . the man was passed out sometime before death.

Detective Campbell said the investigation into Webb's death was continuing. He said Click's name had previously been connected with Webb's murder, but only as a witness for some important information.

Click and Padgett "lived" together at the frame home, just north of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway track.

Detective Campbell verified the two murders are definitely linked. He has personally devoted most of his time, along with assistance from other investigators, for over two months investigating the case. But, no arrests have been made.

Campbell said that some people in the Farmers-Midland area "wouldn't talk because they are afraid they will (themselves) get killed."

Campbell has also said the "double murders" may be tied into the sale of alcoholic beverages in local option (Both County) territory.

The truck, under which Click was found dead, was overturned near the intersection of U.S. 60 and Ky. 801 highways near Farmers. The truck, an old model, belonged to Webb.

Click's body was found in Padgett's home at about 5 o'clock the morning of June 1. Part of his head had been blown away from a .12 gauge shotgun, fired at close range.

Detective Campbell has said from the outset of the widespread and continuing investigation that "more than one person is involved in the murders."

The Ashland physicians who performed the autopsy at the request of Detective Campbell and Coroner Lytle are Dr. Carl Newdorfer and a Dr. Meigs.

Rowan Annual Field Day Set For Friday

Rowan County's most important event of the year - for both rural and county seat folks - is scheduled tomorrow (Aug. 7) - the annual Farm and Home Field Day.

This year's event, with all rural organizations cooperating will be on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Christy, Flemingsburg road.

Agent Adrian Razor gave these instructions: "Follow route 32 out of Morehead and turn left (seven miles north of Morehead on Ky. 158) . . . watch for field day signs on the road."

All Day Program

Mr. Razor added:
"The program is planned for both men and women. The men will make a tour of the farm seeing a modern pipe-line milking system. Also, they will see demonstrations of good pasture, pasture renovations, a five variety tobacco plot, good water supply, three post tobacco curing barn and various new machines including a no-till corn planter and a machine that cuts, crimps, and wind-rows hay in one operation.

"Guest speakers will be Dr. Joe Smiley, Tobacco Specialist, and Warren Thompson, Pasture Specialist, from the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky.

The women's program will include a demonstration of seating stools with hough grass by Mrs. Bud Ramey in the morning and a demonstration of Outdoor Cookery by Mrs. Carol Perkins, Home Economist with Kentucky Utilities in the afternoon.

Lunch will be served by the Sharkey and Smile Homesteaders Clubs, courtesy of local business."

Lots Of Money . . .

Federal Grants To Rowan

Compared with other communities across the country, how well is Rowan County faring under the Federal grants-in-aid programs?

What portion of the $19.6 billion distributed last year by Washington went to the local area?

On the basis of a state-by-state study made by the Tax Foundation, a non-profit organization that serves as a watchdog on the spending of public funds, Rowan County's share was relatively large.

The grants for local purposes during the past fiscal year came to an estimated $1,331,000.

Total grants throughout the State of Kentucky as a whole amounted to $455,000,000, it shows. Included were funds for urban renewal, school and hospital construction, roads, public health, education and many other needs.

The figures relate only to Federal grants to states and localities and do not include other kinds of government spending, for goods and services, in local areas. Not included, either, are the matching funds that must be put up in connection with many of the grants.

As to the cost of these benefits, they are paid for out of Federal income and excise taxes that are allocated to the aid programs. According to a breakdown of the Tax Foundation's figures, Rowan County's contribution to the programs was approximately $626,000. Statewide, it was $216,000,000.

In no area of the country, except Nebraska, did the grants and the costs balance out equally. Some localities got back more than they turned in and others got less. The differences are due to the fact that some communities have more pressing problems and are in greater need of funds for public works than are others.

The awards are made from that standpoint and not with the idea of returning dollar for dollar, it is explained.

Just how much the grants-in-aid programs have grown in recent years is brought out in the figures. In 1960 they totaled $7 billion. Last year they amounted to $19.6 billion.

The recent census may result in a drop in aid for some communities. Places that are shown to have declined in population may suffer a proportionate cut in those aid programs that are on a per-capita basis.

Rowan Immunization Laws

Will Be Enforced

Dr. J. K. Smith, Chairman of the Rowan County Board of Health, today called on Rowan County adults as well as children to keep their immunizations up to date.

He also asked PTA members and interested individuals to volunteer their services to conduct vision testing in the schools. He said that volunteers will be trained in the use of the Keystone and Kitzness vision testing machines.

Dr. Smith added: All interested persons should contact the Rowan County Department of Health, Dept. 555, West Sun Street, just west of Rowan County High. The telephone number is 784-5777.

Beginning this fall no Rowan County child will be admitted to school unless they have the six immunizations -

Citing an example of how immunization can save lives and money, Dr. Smith said, of the 8 tetanus cases recorded in Kentucky last year, 5 were among children. Two of the 8 cases resulted in death."

"The cost of hospitalization alone for each of the 8 tetanus cases averaged almost $7,000, compared to only pennies it would have cost for prevention.

Dr. Smith urges all adults to consult their doctor or the county health department to make sure their immunizations are up to date.

Adults should be immunized against tetanus, diphtheria, and smallpox. Once the initial series is completed "boosters" are necessary every 10 years.

"Children are required by law to be immunized against whooping cough, poliomyelitis, measles, diphtheria, tetanus and smallpox," he said.

Personnel Selected For Mental Center

The Cave Run Mental Health-Mental Retardation Board has this month appointed two new staff members for the Cave Run Comprehensive Care Center.

William T. Burkett has been appointed Executive Director of the Center. In his new capacity, Mr. Burkett will serve as the principal administrative officer of the Board and is responsible for the overall direction of the Center. The Center offers comprehensive mental health and mental retardation services to a five county region including Rowan, Bath, Menifee, Morgan and Montgomery Counties.

The regional office is located in Morehead, but satellite offices are located in Mt. Sterling, Owensville, Frenchburg, and West Liberty. All offices are open Monday through Friday from 8:30 to 4:30. Emergency service is available on a 24 hour basis by calling the Morehead Center at 784-9274.

Burkett said that we have a potentially great mental health-mental retardation center, in our region. "Too often," he says, "we tend to think of a mental health center as a place where people go when they are crazy. The Center, however, should be thought of as a peoples Problems Center where persons with problems can come and get the help they need. If the Center itself can't solve the particular problem, we make it our business to try to learn who might and refer the individual to them. The Center offers services to children as well as adults. Help is available at the Center for persons with learning problems, behavior problems, marital problems, problems relating to drug abuse and alcoholism, as well as for the emotionally troubled or disturbed individual, the mentally ill person, and the mentally retarded person."

Burkett indicated that here are a number of priority tasks that face the Center in the coming months. Foremost, among these, is the development of a closer community-center relationship as well as the development of improved relationships with the Medical Center and the University.

The Board also announced the appointment of D. Rayburn Bailey as Business Administrator for the Center. Bailey will assist Mr. Burkett in the management of the internal office operations of the Center.

Mr. Burkett is a native Kentuckian, originally from Marion County, but comes to the Center from Frankfort, where he was Coordinator of Institutional Care for the Department of Economic Security. He and his wife Phyllis reside at 106 Timber Lane in Morehead. Mr. Burkett received his B.A. degree from Berea College, Berea, Kentucky and holds the Master of Social Work degree from Florida State University, Tallahassee, Florida.

Mr. Bailey comes to the Center from Morehead State University where he had been employed since 1965 in the Bureau of Business Affairs for the last three years working with Federal Programs. Prior to his employment with Morehead State University, he formerly was employed at the Citizens Bank.

The center is operated by a 15 member Board of Directors. They are - Rowan - Alpha M. Hutchinson, Rev. Larry Buskirk, one vacancy.

Bath - Leslie Christy, Harold Orne, one vacancy.

Morgan - John Oldfield, James Williams and Rev. Steve Bliffen.

Menifee - Rev. Carl Baldrige, Maxwell Henry and Richard Landolt.

Montgomery - Donald Patrick, Harold Wilson and Dallas Queen.

Mr. Bailey is the son of Mrs. Bert Bailey and the late Mr. Bailey and has lived all his life in Rowan County. He is a graduate of Breckinridge Training School (University Breckinridge) and Morehead State University, where he is presently working toward a Masters degree. He is married to the former Jean Withrow and has two children. Darold Rayburn Jr. 7, and Kimberly S. They reside at 821 Sherwood Forest, Morehead.

Wildlife And Abandoned Homesteads

By Nevyle Shackelford

Few things appear more sad or depressing to the human spirit than the sight of an abandoned homestead - especially on a farm that one has known sometime in his life. Nature is cruel to such places. Briars and native shrubs move in quickly, engulfing orchards, lawns, and croplands with unwanted vengeance. Processes of decay and forces of nature, like merciless vandals, swiftly wreck the buildings and in a very short time leave only mouldering ruins to mark a spot that was at one time, order and animation.

Such a dying homestead was visited recently. More pronounced than the melancholy effect it had on the state of mind of the viewer, was the apparent influence that abandonment by the farm family had had on wildlife that used it too as a place of habitation.

At this time of year as it had once been known, the orchard resounded with the songs of catbirds, robins, brown thrashers, and summer tanagers; the joyous shrieks of ravenous jays; and the chattering of innumerable worm-eating warblers. But these voices were silent. The all prevailing solitude was broken only by the sad, sweet notes of a lonely wood thrush sounding an elegy from a tall, dark hemlock standing watch at one corner of the crumbling house. Also as it had been before, there were no jenny wrens building nests in rusty buckets and gourds still hanging on the walls of outbuildings, and there were no bluebirds with homes in the hollow fence posts around what had once been the home garden.

The swallows that for generations past had arrived every spring to cantilever their mud and straw nests to the rafters and to greet the farmer every time he entered the driveway of the barn were there no more. Neither were the purple martins that had circled flocks erected on high poles in the chicken lot.

No quail whistled from the overgrown pastures and no young rabbits frolicked and rolled in the dust of the lane leading up to the house. Seemingly as if unable to withstand the loneliness, all these gentle and pleasant forms of wildlife had departed with the farmer and his family when through death and other exigencies and eventualities of life, they found it necessary to give up the old farm.

From this sad old deserted homestead there is a lesson to be learned. Although man has cruelly persecuted his wild neighbors, totally extirpated some, and is threatening others with the same fate, these creatures still love and need his company. Else why would they depart when he departs and not return again? Only predators like the fox and the weasel and the skunk seem to rejoice when the man and his dogs go away.

It may just be that the species of birds mentioned inhabit farmsteads only because of abundant food provided by the well-tended orchards, gardens, and croplands. True it is bluebirds do favor the cutworms that fell many garden plants. Cherries and domesticated berries are indeed favorite foods of catbirds and robins, and swallows and martins love to feed on flying insects that pester livestock and people. But as was noticed on this old farm, there were still a few cherries in the orchard and an abundant crop of red-ripe mulberries on trees along an old fence-row nearby. There were, however, no catbirds or robins. Why were they not there?

Any answer to the question would be mere speculation but for whatever reason they were not there, this much is certain: Many useful forms of wildlife have an affinity for man and seem to choose his company. Thus man to heedlessly destroy or unduly harass one of these creatures is the same as causing harm to a good neighbor. This then is a plea for the protection of wildlife.

NICKEL HELPS COOL GOTHAM

Because it resists high-temperature combustion gases, 700,000 pounds of nickel will be used in alloy form for the fabrication of 102 gas turbines that will provide 20 percent of New York's electricity requirements. This is the quantity of electricity needed to operate Gotham's air conditioners during peak summer usage.

Re-discover

KENTUCKY

WITH HELEN STACY

By Helen Price Stacy

The Commonwealth is noted for its fishing ... not only large streams and manmade lakes, but also the tiny streams especially by towheaded anglers in T-shirts holding cane poles.

At some time almost everyone has heard one of the following bits of conversation: "Man, did you hear about the one I got in Grayson Reservoir last week?"

"I've caught newlights bigger'n that in Paint Creek."

"I can get a string of chubs out of Tygers Creek that'll weigh more."

"How about that bass we got from the Roughs of the Red?"

"Don't forget the catfish I got in Licking River."

"... that string from Dewey Lake."

"... my farm pond."

And so it goes ...

When a fisherman says "I can take you to a place where you can get 50 pounds of fish in one night ..." he is interrupted with "Where is it?" and "When do we start?" and "... It's against the law to seine."

"As all of you know," he answers, "Kentucky has the best bass water ... but into every life a little rain must fall."

The man continues with the question, "What do you do when you get to your destination expecting bass and get rain? Do you put the bait back in the tacklebox, pack up your gear and head for home?"

"Yes!" Rings the chorus.

"Well, next time, don't. Let me tell you about fishing at Cumberland Falls State Park near Corbin ..."

He says that before leaving his home five counties away he takes everything but bass bait out of his tacklebox. He reached the area below the falls at about dusk when the approaching darkness makes it hard to see the water.

"I'll bet you a farm in Georgia the bass here are bigger than the Gordon Ford catfish in Morgan County." He has to yell, because of the gush of water pouring over Cumberland Falls.

Two men walk by with a string of fish almost too heavy to carry.

"Bass?" He asks hopefully.

"Carp," is the reply.

He turns around and started back to DuPont Lodge where he at least can dine in splendor ... and on fish.

Next day he returns to the area below the falls. The water still is the color of coffee au lait. A friendly fisherman moves a couple of poles and motions him to sit down. "Forget your bass bait," the stranger says and hands him something that looks like a golf ball. It's a doughball. No fish will take anything that big and white, he tells himself, but to please the stranger he pinched off half, attaches it to the hook. He uses the rod and reel as he would a cane pole. He has not had time to turn around when the stranger cried, "Pull him in." It is a carp ... a four-pounder.

He baits up again and in another two minutes pulls in another, even larger. After about half a dozen big ones, even the other fishermen have stopped to admire his fishing skill.

"Well, now, it's this way," he smiles, "You're making your doughballs too big. Me, I'm not trying for whales, just four- and six-pounders."

It's great fun, but there's a catch-what to do with all the fish. He's too much of a sportsman to catch fish that are not food for the table, but he's not about to go home with 50 pounds of mud carp. Oh, sure, some call them German carp, he muses, all the same.

A woman in bibbed overalls and a wide straw hat stops fishing long enough to offer, "Carp's as good as any fish I ever ate ... fixed right."

She says "You nail the carp to a tree or post and skin it with pliers. Strip the dark red mud veins down each side and cut them out. Cut off the head, fins and tail, but leave the fish whole."

Social Security

By: Thomas B. Thompson - Ashland District Mgr. For Social Security Information, write: District Social Security Office, 1816 Carter Avenue - Ashland, Ky. Phone 325-7666.

The nation's social security program will soon be 35 years old, but "it hardly shows its age at all," according to Thomas B. Thompson, social security district manager in the Ashland area.

"Amendments to the law over the years have kept social security 'young'-up-to-date with an expanding economy and changing society," he said.

The original social security law was enacted August 14, 1935.

"The law then protected workers in commerce and industry only," Thompson noted. "Benefits ranging from $10 to $85 a month could be paid only to retired workers at age 65."

"Today, in a vastly different, more socially aware nation, social security protects 9 out of 10 workers in almost all fields."

Social security beneficiaries now include retired workers and their families, disabled workers and their families, and the families of deceased workers, Thompson said.

Protected dependents also include children under 18, older children who were disabled before reaching 18, and children 18 through 22 who are full-time students in school.

"Social security benefits have kept up with the increase in national earnings over the years," Thompson said. "Benefits have been increased until the minimum monthly payment to a retired single worker is $64 and the average payment is $116."

The average monthly social security benefit being paid to a widowed mother with two children now is $296, according to the district manager.

The contribution base also has been increased to keep up with earnings, Thompson said. "Since 1960, the total $7,800 of a person's annual earnings has been used in figuring his social security benefits. In 1935, the base was $3,000."

"If the benefit base had not been increased as earnings increased, more and more workers would have protection related to a smaller and smaller part of their total earnings."

Medicare, enacted in 1965, "was probably the most significant change in social security," Thompson said. "Medicare hospital insurance helps people 65 and over pay hospital bills. Medicare medical insurance helps pay for doctor bills and other medical services."

The social security program has always been self-sustaining, according to Thompson. "Benefits have increased considerably since the beginning, but the cost to workers is less than you might imagine."

The original law called for a contribution of 1 percent of earnings from both employees and employers, rising to 3 percent by 1960. "Today," Thompson said, "with substantial increases in benefits and the number of dependents protected-and with the addition of Medicare - the contribution rate is 4.8 percent."

"And the maximum projected rate is only 5.9 percent."

Started With Panel Truck...

By Lois Campbell

A modern blue and white truck makes its way along a dusty road into the hills and around the valleys of Owsley County in Eastern Kentucky. Inside rides Mrs. Mary B. Gray, Louisville, perhaps the best friend such a truck ever had.

Thanks to Mrs. Gray's eager interest, these blue and white trucks, known as Bookmobiles, make their way regularly through the roads of Owsley and nearly 100 other Kentucky counties.

The Bookmobile Program in Kentucky started in the 1940's due to Mrs. Gray's interest in making library books available to

Kentucky Farms Show Alarming Decline In Decade

Kentucky's farm population has decreased by 45 percent since 1950, according to preliminary figures released by the 1970 census.

However, Kentucky farmers are not fleeing agriculture in large numbers for jobs in other fields, according to UK sociologist Ralph J. Ramsey.

"We're just having fewer people enter the field of agriculture to replace farmers who are retiring or dying," he explained.

According to the census figures, Kentucky has become an urban state with metropolitan and commuting counties accounting for half the commonwealth's population.

Ramsey said the transformation from a rural to urban state is occurring gradually. Farmers aren't leaving agriculture overnight, they are "becoming part-time farmers," according to Ramsey.

"When non-farm jobs are available in their areas, some farmers will take another job, then farm on weekends and at nights. And gradually they'll leave farming alone."

About 50 people from Kentucky and Illinois gathered last Sunday for breakfast at Cranes Creek on the Caudill and Skaggs Horseback Riding Trail. They had ridden for approximately 10 miles before their 12 o'clock breakfast. This was one of many excellent out sites along the trail. With a combination of shade from the trees and cool water from the creek the scenery was magnificent. A typical comment from the riders as they ate breakfast was, "these are the best bacon and eggs I have ever eaten."

The Caudill and Skaggs Horseback Riding Trail was opened in July 1968 and since that time it has been used extensively. It provides a good site for riding, hiking, and other outdoor activities. The scenery is beautiful and is free to the public, since it is a public trail. If you have not ridden on this beautiful trail, why not join in on the fun and beautiful scenery.

THE LOAN FOR PEOPLE WHO DON'T NEED LOANS.

It's easy to "borrow" with revolving charge accounts, credit cards, and by financing purchases... but a good loan may save money.

No matter how you buy, if repayments are in monthly installments there will normally be a finance or "carrying" charge. And, while revolving charges and credit cards are an easy way to buy, they aren't always the lowest cost way to finance the purchase.

We suggest you do it. Here's what our Interest-Saver Loan costs:

Loan Period	Loan Amount	Finance Charge	Annual Percentage Rate	Monthly Payment
12 mos.	$2,000	$40.00	12.62%	$180.70
24 mos.	3,000	40.00	27.04%	142.55
36 mos.	2,000	40.00	42.15%	62.83

If you're paying more, get a loan from us and save the difference. It can be well worth the small amount of trouble.

Figure it out. All the information you need is given on your monthly statements and finance contracts. Or, give us a call and we'll help you with the figuring.

A LIBRARY FRIEND-Mrs. Mary Belknap Gray, Louisville, recently returned to Owsley County for a ride in their latest Bookmobile. Mrs. Gray innovated the Bookmobile Program in Kentucky back in the 1940's by purchasing 8 or 10 small panel trucks for a few of the poorer counties of Kentucky. (Karen Tam Photo) children in rural schools and communities. Over a total of three year period, she purchased 8 or 10 small panel trucks to donate to a few of Kentucky's poorer counties.

In 1953, she and other Friends of Kentucky Libraries headed a campaign which raised approximately $300,000. With the funds they purchased some 100 small postal trucks with shelves. The vehicles were given to the Library Extension Division, who assigned them to counties that contracted to operate and maintain them.

A Bookmobile without books has little value, so the group then instituted another campaign. Book donations were requested for the Bookmobiles.

In 1956, the U.S. Congress passed the first Library Services Act authorizing the expenditure of $7,500,000 to promote library service in rural areas.

Since that time, library services in Kentucky have expanded at a rapid rate till at present the state-owned fleet of Bookmobiles has grown into the nation's largest, totaling 105 vehicles serving 97 Kentucky counties.

Gov. Louie B. Nunn has said, "Bookmobiles are a source of educational and recreational material for many citizens, both children and adults. In addition to books, they can bring recordings, reproductions of paintings, films, and magazines into Kentucky homes."

A typical Bookmobile travels throughout a county on a designated route, stopping at shopping centers, country stores, post offices and homes along the way.

They move up the narrowest country roads, and even along creek beds in dry weather, to bring books where needed.

The reading of books in the state has increased substantially since the first panel trucks went into service some 30 years ago. Now each week there are thousands of youngsters and adults who await the Bookmobile's visit.

Thus, it is with a certain smile of contentment that Mrs. Mary B. Gray, now 86, sits in a reclining chair in the back of the modern Bookmobile. Still alert and ever the believer in library services, she always looks forward to those occasions when she too can visit a Bookmobile.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—If Dr. Chauncey Leake had his way, there'd be a lot more "Quiet, Please" signs around. Scientists are becoming increasingly aware that noise is a pollutant and health hazard, says Leake, who is with the University of California Medical Center.

For the body, noise can be distressful and disturbing to the equilibrium, quite apart from any possible injury to the auditory apparatus," he says. "Sound is vibrations of air, but if great enough those vibrations can produce injury to the ear—perhaps—permanent injury."

Sound is measured on a scale of about 130 decibels, with 1 representing the faintest audible sound. On that scale:—The average residence with a busy kitchen, television and vacuum cleaner can measure up to 40 and 50 decibels. The level rises as more appliances are added.

—A truck roaring by 20 feet away can produce up to 90 decibels of sound.

—Train whistles at 500 feet produce up to 90 decibels and a subway train at 50 feet produce 95 decibels.

—Construction noise with compression and hammers breaks the 110-decibel level, and so do motorcycles, electric lawn mowers and tractors.

—A jet plane at 500 feet registers up to 115 decibels and rock music at its peak about 120 decibels.

—One of the biggest noises of all is the pneumatic riveter—125 decibels.

Upsets balance.

One of the first effects of noise is on the body's endocrine balance; noise upsets it. Thyroid, water and salt balance in the body become disturbed.

"We are becoming aware of the emotional effects of noise, as well," says Leake. "Of the annoyance, irritability, the interference with mental processes that come from long or frequent exposure to noise."

"And among effects on the cardiovascular system are increases in blood pressure. Much of essential hypertension is caused by noise."

Disturbances in the reproductive system are shown by the work of Dr. Lester Sontag of Fells Research Institute.

In animals, noise has an effect on foetal development by disturbing the hormone balance in the mother.

"So the infant develops mental defects," says Leake.

"Animals which have been exposed to noise before birth, even though normal at birth, are usually more aggressive and fearful later."

The basic problem, Leake believes, is: "There are too many of us and we produce too much noise."

"There is every possibility, however, that machinery can be designed to be less noisy. The muffler on the auto helped, so now the auto is not the major disturber, but the motorcycle and the cement mixer are."

"When there isn't too much of anything, you don't get too bothered. A little DDT and a little smog never worried us until it became too much DDT and too much smog."

"The same thing can happen with noise."

Tips keep purses safe

BOSTON (UPI)—A little common sense can save dollars and cents when it comes to purse "dips," says a veteran Boston police investigator.

Mrs. Josephine Donelan of the Shopping Squad, who has been on the force for 27 years, says the "dips" normally work in pairs—one opens the bag and the other dips the wallet.

One dip, she explained, will distract or decoy a woman by opening a door with one hand as he unfurls her pocketbook with the other, while the second dip reaches into the purse for the woman's wallet.

Mrs. Donelan, who carries her wallet in a coat pocket offers these tips:

—Choose a safe pocketbook, such as one with handles on each side or drawstrings, instead of one with a single clasp.

—Try to avoid carrying large amounts of money.

—Be wary of standing in a crowd of shoppers. Dips frequently drape an item of merchandise over their arm to conceal the hand slipping into a pocketbook.

—Suspect women as well as men.

Publisher's Pen...

Day-by-day jot-downs, and editorial observations, of the publisher of this newspaper.

Space in the Morehead News has been so limited it appears mandatory that—+Many articles will have to be condensed.

+Some of the columns will have to be left out. The same applies to pictures that are not of general interest.

The Morehead News production facilities, equipped with computers, electronic machines etc. are adequate, with a few mechanical additions, to print a hundred standard size pages a day.

The problem is that a newspaper, whether it be a community or a metropolitan publication, is based (total pages) on inches (of dollars) in advertising. Morehead, and area, merchants do the best they can, but their advertising budgets are limited based on total volume of business.

A survey is underway to determine what news should be printed, and that which should be left out. The average newspaper must necessarily eliminate 90 percent, or more, of the news copy that comes across the desk... but, every effort is made to print and portray that which is of the most general area and local interest to the public.

ONLY A FEW WOMEN LOSE THEIR DRIVER LICENSES

Last issue we mentioned that few women drivers lose their licenses. So, we wrote an inquiry to Arthur E. Beard, Executive Director, Traffic Safety Coordinating Committee, Frankfort.

Today, we received this reply from Mr. Beard:

"Thank you very much for your kind comments concerning our efforts in traffic safety. We were hopeful that this weekly publication of names would be helpful to law enforcement officers and others, so far, the response we have received from the newspapers has been very gratifying.

"We were quite surprised that, as pointed out in your letter, there are so few women drivers who have lost their license. By actual count, there were 4,106 licenses suspended or revoked during January, February, and March and only 134 of these were women. By projecting this quarterly total to a yearly figure, you would find 16,424 licenses lost with only 536 of these being women drivers, for a small 3.26 percent. It has been estimated that 36 percent of the approximately 1,670,000 licensed drivers in Kentucky are women. So, as you can see, you have brought up a very interesting factor for comparison. The enclosed tabulations for the months of January, February, and March are for your review.

"In the event additional information is needed please feel free to call or write us any time."

A BREAKDOWN OF THE COORDINATING REPORT

For conciseness we are using only a part of the comprehensive report that Mr. Beard submitted. The findings reveal—

+Kentucky has 1,670,000 licensed drivers. Thirty six percent are women and 64 percent men.

+During January the licenses of 1,457 were revoked or suspended. Of this number 48 were females; 1,409 men.

+In March (latest figure available) 1,433 Kentucky motorists lost their licenses. Of this number, 47 were women; 1,386 men.

+About half of the licenses either suspended or revoked over half were because of driving under the influence of alcohol, or refusing to submit to a chemical test.

MOST FOR SUMMER - A record 336 persons will receive degrees this (Thursday) morning during the 43rd annual summer commencement at Morehead State University. Of course, the spring graduates number several times this number.

SOME ELIGIBLE - Tuesday, July 23 marked the end of home loan benefits for World War II veterans, but the deadline does not affect current home loan benefits for Korean or Vietnam servicemen.

FIVE AREAS - Coming in the Morehead News - a breakdown and feature article about the 1970 Morehead, Rowan and area census. We do impart at this time that the census takers broke Rowan into five segments for this year's head count. The totals—

- +Morehead (city limits) ... 7,005
- +Clearfield division ... 2,055
- +Ellettsville-Haldeman division ... 3,081
- +Pine Grove division ... 4,223
- +Total for Rowan County ... 16,364

MANDATORY - It appears certain that a special session of the Legislature will be called to: 1. Redistrict the seven Congressional districts; our own (the 7th) may add two or three more counties; and 2. The State House of Representatives will be re-districted with Lexington and Louisville the big gainers. Some sentiment exists to place Rowan, Bath, Menifee and possibly Morgan in the same State Representative district. These are known as the "Cave Run" reservoir counties.

DOUBTFUL - With this tight money market we are a little dubious that the State of Kentucky should at this time borrow $60 million for new toll roads. They are: 1.

ART FOR YOUTH ... As a test of what they had learned at Morehead State University this summer in a course on how to teach art in public schools, MSU students invited pupils at University Breckinridge School to a series of playlets in the Art Building courtyard, including this "Dance to the Buffalo Hunt."

Audubon Parkway: 2. Daniel Boone Parkway; 3. start of work on the Owensboro-Bowling Green turnpike; and 4. Bowling Green-Somerset turnpike.

IN FUTURE - Last issue the Morehead News printed a page one picture about progress being made on the considerable (over $2½ million) expansion of Morehead's St. Claire Medical Center. Predictions: It won't be too many years before St. Claire will have 50, or more, extensive care units - mostly for the elderly.

CRISIS - For the first time in its long history the Kentucky State Fair will offer on Aug. 25 a special program on sex, drugs and music - what part they play in the changing attitudes of the younger generation. Host is the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce.

CONGRATULATIONS - Billy Fouch, who must be rated Rowan County High School's number one athlete, particularly in football and baseball, received the Most Valuable Player Award from Post 74, American Legion, Ashland, for his fine defensive performance in the district tournament at Central Park. Fouch batted .250, including a couple of clutch hits.

CONCLUDING - Pressing need in Morehead and Rowan County is the consolidation of about 100 community and civic organizations. If they were merged into 20 or 25 a much better cooperative job could be accomplished.

Morehead State University President Adron Doran says he doesn't know when any another multi-million dollar building will be erected on the campus. The "freeze" on domestic spending is the culprit. However, proponents of more federal money for both higher and elementary education may ease the squeeze despite the tight money outlook.

Many economists are saying the recession is "bottoming out", during the depression of the early '30's that's what happened to a large number of pants - those were the days when millionaires stood in the free soup lines...

the atomic bomb and the United Nations are about the same age. For almost 25 years no use has been made of the former and little use of the latter... the 1970 census portrays that one of the things wrong with the country is that most of it has moved to the thickly populated places.

Experts on malnutrition report that dry breakfast cereals commercials will not give them something to laugh about... Girl watchers (their name is legion) are having the time of their lives, as there are more girls to watch than ever before, and more of the girls to see...

"Healthiness promotes long life," says a physician. We wouldn't be surprised... With Rowan County's annual Farm and Field Day set for tomorrow we have become convinced that the main reason there's so much soil erosion is that farmers leave their land out in the weather all the time. Oldtimers remember when almost all people followed the advice: "Pay as you go"...

Many a woman's inexperience in driving is due to her husband's having given her driving lessons... In many a case the successful candidate is the one who didn't lie about his opponent, but went to the trouble of digging up his record and telling the truth about him inadequately...

is the title of a widely circulated article. Many people are writing articles about this and selling it to magazines.

CANADA THE LEADER

New Caledonia in the South Pacific was the largest source of nickel from 1875 to 1965, when Canada took the lead with increasing production from the Sudbury District of Ontario. In 1960, Canada produced 373 million pounds of the slightly more than 500 million pounds consumed in the free world, and in 1969, 447 million pounds of a free world total of 820 million pounds consumption.

Record Year Seen For Kentucky Parks; Offer New Services

Visitors to Kentucky's state parks over the past six months have far out-numbered record crowds of past years, reported W. James Bush, commissioner of Parks.

June business passed the million dollar mark-unusual until July. Host noted, "If the present trend continues, 1970 should be a record-breaking year."

Several firsts for the Kentucky parks system are responsible for the tourist boom, Host says:

-A 24-hour food service is available at all resort parks and box lunches are available to park guests.

-Reservations now can be made as much as one year in advance-vacationers can plan a year ahead and aren't worried by the January 1 reservation rush.

-Cottages can be rented for any length of time instead of the one-week minimum previously required.

-State parks are acquiring more camp sites, golf courses and lodge facilities to accommodate guests.

-Recreation programs are expanding to meet more needs of vacationers.

WORKING WOMEN

Slightly over half (5.5 million) of the workers who voluntarily accepted part-time jobs in 1969 were adult women. Adult men accounted for about 2 million of those who usually worked part time and teenagers were credited with holding an additional 2.8 million part-time jobs.

MORE FEMALE WORKERS

The number of women in apprenticeship programs registered with the Labor Department rose to 1,800 in 1969, an over the year increase of 72 percent. The ranks of female apprentices include plumbers, aircraft mechanics, and even bankers.

MAY WORK 10 WEEKS

Neighborhood Youth Corps summer enrollees may work a maximum of 260 hours; preferably 26 hours a week for 10 weeks. This workweek was designed to permit sufficient time for remedial education, medical services, counseling, and guidance.

Men's Wear

By WALTER LOGAN

NEW YORK (UPI) - The way George Weintraub sees it the United States has inflationary aches, a part of a recession and slight unemployment and this is having a profound effect on the nation's youth - the style leaders.

Weintraub, vice president in charge of sales for Brookfield Industries, recently toured the United States from Bangor, Me. to Dallas and from Des Moines to San Francisco and Los Angeles checking up on what he calls "the real America" that is anything outside New York City.

"The public today is becoming very price conscious period," he said. In the past they were interested in fashion and there was no price asked. Now the young people are doing the buying and they have to do it at a price.

"They don't care for hand stitching and hand needling, they buy a look and an expression. High price suits are dying. When a young man comes in and shows off a suit or jacket he has paid $50 or $75 for. Papa looks at his own $175 suit and blinks."

Brookfield Industries is a suit and suit division of the Phillips-Van Heusen conglomerate which does a $300 million business a year. Weintraub sells around $20 million worth of clothing a year at anywhere from $65 to $85 for suits to $25 for sport jackets.

Racy fashions

And to do so he has to come up with some pretty racy fashions for the youth market which starts at about 17 and continues right on up to 35 or 40 if a man feels youth oriented.

"It's the 30s all over again," he said. "Youth hasn't experienced it. It's Harlow and Gargat. For the man in his late 40s it's the second time around - bisping backs, belted jackets, western yokes, belted jackets, western yokes, belted jackets."

By next spring, Weintraub says, 99 per cent of his output will have belted or fancy backs. And there is a lot of it this fall in such suits as one in a fuzzy wool with rope stripes, four inch wide lapels and flapped pockets trimmed in leather.

There were a couple of new looks - a four button single breasted coat with flapped pockets, a European laid down collar and a 12 inch center vent. The buttons looked like cut wood and some of the Italian worsteds were in funky stripes.

There also were walking suits with flared jackets 33 1/2 inches long (the normal length on a size 40 is 30 1/2 inches). They had full belts and bags, four-inch long buckles, and 15 inch vents. Weintraub calls this longer length the look of the future and one begins to wonder if the Zoot Suit will ever come back.

The coat can be worn separately as a sports jacket. The clothing industry is already thinking in terms of spring, 1971, and Weintraub displayed a safari suit with four flapped, button down pockets, an all around belt through the waist loops in flaps and rayon, in a linen look, in a canvas look - and in velvet.

At the time of enrollment, the sponsor agrees to open a savings account in his or her own name. In the case of a child under three years of age, the amount to be saved would be $10.00 a month for 180 months. All principal accumulated in the account is the absolute property of the sponsor and may be withdrawn at any time or used as collateral for a loan should such become desirable.

Earnings Used

The earnings from the savings account, like the earnings from similar accounts of sponsors throughout Kentucky are paid to The Scholarship Trust Fund.

TREES GIVE OXYGEN

Each acre of young, vigorous growing forest produces four tons of oxygen each year while at the same time growing about four tons of new wood, reports the Southern Forest Institute. This amount of useable oxygen will supply the oxygen needs of at least 18 people for a whole year. The wood can be used to manufacture any one of more than five thousand individual consumer products made from trees.

An Annual Event...

Homemakers Picnic

Link illness to mishaps on highways

CHICAGO (UPI) - A peculiar type of sleeping sickness called narcolepsy causes an untold number of deaths and accidents on the nation's highways each year, the National Safety Council (NSC) reports.

This disease, however, is not caused by a parasite or virus. Its basic cause is still unknown although lack of oxygen to the brain may be involved, and there appears to be a hereditary association, the NSC said.

The disease is not fatal; it carries no threat of malignancy and there is no clearcut proof that it may develop into a more serious nervous disorder, the council added.

"Sufferers are not confined to their beds; they may be walking beside you, sitting next to you in the theatre, or even driving the car you're riding in."

Although the disease is not uniformly present among age groups, it is estimated that it affects some 200,000 to 300,000 motorists.

Last year 15 per cent of the nation's 250 highway deaths were blamed on the driver being "drowsy or sleepy."

Although how many of them had narcolepsy is unknown, the NSC reported that any stretch of uninterrupted driving can cause an overwhelming demand for the narcoleptic to shut his eyes.

NSC added that although it seems unlikely that narcolepsy will ever be cured in the true sense of the word, once diagnosed, its most dangerous effect, sleepiness, can be prevented with medication.

You And The Draft

The influx of correspondence from teachers, who have been recently reclassified from II-A to I-A and their respective employers continues. You may recall on April 23, 1970, the President issued Executive Order No. 11527 which provided guidelines for the phasing out of occupational deferments. One superintendent recently wrote that he had two young men teaching the same subject. Both were out of state registrants. Each had a low random sequence number. When notified of the loss of occupational deferments the teachers made timely appeals. One teacher chose to have his appeal adjudicated by the appeal board for the district in which his local board is located. The other elected to have his appeal transferred to the appeal board having jurisdiction over his place of current employment. The out of state appeal board by a vote of 4 to 1 restored the registrant's II-A Classification; the Kentucky Appeal Board by a vote of 5 to 0 sustained the second registrant's IA reclassification.

The superintendent was quite concerned because of the loss of what he considered a qualified teacher, since in his opinion, the circumstances with respect to job assignments were identical. We are certain our answer, that, in the judgement of the appeal board, the teacher was not essential to the community need, will not placate the superintendent. We are hopeful that in the interval before the current school year begins, the superintendent will be able to employ a qualified teacher who has fulfilled his military obligation or does not have liability for military service.

Q. I am the only boy in my family. Will I qualify for a IV-A Classification as a sole surviving son?

A. No, for a registrant to be considered for a IV-A Classification the father, or other immediate member of the family (brother or sister), must have been killed in action or died in the line of duty while serving in the Armed Forces of the United States, or subsequently died of injury or disease incurred during such service.

Q. I graduated from college in June. I did not have a student deferment after June 30, 1967. I married after graduation and have a stepchild living with me. Will I qualify for a III-A Classification?

A. No, any registrant for whom a written request for a III-A deferment is received by his local board on April 23, 1970, or later, will not be granted such a deferment on the basis of paternity alone. Your local board may consider you for a III-A (H) deferment provided your file is documented to prove to the satisfaction of the board that a hardship exists.

Q. My lottery number is 287. My question is if this number is not reached by December, will I be liable for service next year.

A. Under current Selective Service Regulations, if a registrant's random selection number has not been reached in his local board at the end of the calendar year, vulnerability for military service lessens.

PAPER FOR BUILDING

Paper will probably be a major building material of the future. Already, paper houses are being manufactured from corrugated paperboard. The paperboard houses are treated to resist water, fire and vermin. One of the basic housing units now on the market measures 20 by 21 feet with an eight-foot-high ceiling. The unit can be hauled to the construction site in a station wagon and takes three men only half-a-day to erect. For more spacious living, two or three of the paperboard units can be combined. A factory-manufactured central core provides all the necessary plumbing, heating and wiring plus a stove and refrigerator.

The Mature Woman

How you as a mature woman, or with one? For advice and help, write to Margaret Brookfield, Information Center on the Mature Woman, 3 East 57th Street, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Dear Miss Brookfield:

I read the letter from the Buffalo reader who wrote that after educating three children, she and her husband, who is about to retire, are broke. She claimed her children couldn't contribute because they were all married and had financial problems of their own.

We are a retired couple living in Central Texas and having a gay old time. We educated a son but we also saved a small portion of our income to pay for a home, a small business and savings for a "rainy day." We accumulated our income and property by hard work, (we also own a lake cottage), close cooperation and frank, family discussions on finances. When they don't own property, families are unable to live beyond their means to educate children. I would advise this woman to forget her ego and ask the children to contribute. The children owe her this help. All they "loan" her to buy a house will go back to them anyway.

We entertain, dine out, camp, fish and go boating. It takes one or two years to adjust to retirement. But it's worth it.

MANUEL LOWE RECEIVES UNIVERSITY MURRAY HONOR

Manuel Lowe of Box 32 Clearfield, Morehead, is among 34 high school students from four states with high interest and aptitude in art enrolled in the second of two Art Honors Workshops this summer at Murray State University.

The workshop began July 20 and will run through July 31. The first session was held July 6-7. Workshops this summer mark the 10th year Murray State has sponsored the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Franklin and daughter, Alison spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Haney in Jackson, Ohio.

Don and Jim Caudill, Bill Spanuth, and George Burgess participated in the Kentucky Western Golf Tournament in Mayfield from Friday to Sunday.

Miss Feyadara Vaznelis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Vaznelis of Toledo, Ohio and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Fair of Morehead, will wed Mr. Raymond Douglas Kirk of Warfield, Ky. at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Aug. 9. The open church wedding will be in the Morehead United Methodist Church with the Rev. Charles W. Riddle officiating. A reception immediately following the ceremony will be in Fellowship Hall of the church.

The annual picnic of the Farmers Rebekah Lodge Past Noble Grand Club was held July 21 at the home of Mrs. W. T. Garey and Miss Nancy Caudill. Members attending were: Mrs. Lila Chadwell, Miss Grace Crosthwaite, Mrs. Virgie Caskey, Mrs. Luella Johnson, Mrs. Nell Kash, Mrs. Grace Lewis, Mrs. Vivian Lewis, Mrs. Florence Mitchell, Mrs. Alice Mobley, Mrs. Mary Myers, Mrs. Lillian Parker and Mrs. Pruda Ward. Guests present were Mrs. Hattie Bays, Mrs. Peaches Cecil, Mr. and Mrs. Royace Chadwell, Joanna Grymes, Mrs. Fervell Hill, W. T. Garey, Jack Lewis, Mrs. Gladys Powell and Mrs. Goldie Whit.

Mr. and Mrs. John Braddock, John and Jerry left Friday after a visit with his mother, Mrs. Stella Bristow, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Day. They were accompanied to Cincinnati by Mr. and Mrs. Day and attended a ball game Friday night, and left by plane Saturday for their home in Miami, Fla.

Dear M.E.:

You seem to have discovered the ideal retirement formula. Congratulations.

Dear Miss Brookfield:

I am a lonely widow looking for male companionship. Can you send me the names and addresses of any lonely men who write to you? I'll take it from there. I have raised a family and am alone. I would like to live a little. But a lady has to be so careful.

M.I., Baltimore, Md.

Dear M.I.:

We concur wholeheartedly with your last statement. But as we, too, believe in being cautious, we cannot indiscriminately pass along the identity of strangers who write us. Sorry.

Dear Miss Brookfield:

In a recent column you advised a woman who saw her friend's husband dining out with another woman to keep this news to herself. I think that what you don't know often can and does hurt you. In this situation, I would have phoned the husband to tell him about my concern for the future of his marriage. He might get angry and tell me it was none of my business. But everyone I care about is my business. If the husband explained the dinner date satisfactorily I would apologize and, of course, say nothing to his wife. True, he might be lying when he claims the date was innocent but still he would know the affair is an "open secret."

The conversation with the husband would indicate the next step. If I decided to inform his wife, I would be prepared for an initial, angry reaction. But eventually, an old friend is able to distinguish between a friend and a meddling busybody. I think ignorance or pretended ignorance of marital infidelity is a great mistake on the part of women. Confrontation is best. Then, the marriage will either collapse or be rebuilt.

J.S., Madison, Wis.

Dear J.S.:

We doubt that many women would agree with this Russian roulette confrontation theory of yours, especially with a 50-50 chance the marriage may collapse. We also doubt, in the theoretical conversation you describe with the husband, if the implication that the "affair" was an "open secret" would have the desired result. With some men, all it might do is serve as a warning to be more careful in choosing restaurants to dine with "the other woman."

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Lipstick: A Job Hazard

Near the end of her lunch hour, a stenographer sat down in the company lounge to put on lipstick. But she lost her balance and fell, suffering a back injury. Could she collect workmen's compensation?

The company insisted that the girl was not entitled to compensation because she was not "on the job" when hurt. Nevertheless, a court upheld her claim. "Applying cosmetics was not an abandonment of her employment," said the judge.

Generally-speaking, workmen's compensation covers injuries that occur not only during the work itself but also during other activities closely related to the job. For example, it applies while an employee is getting a drink of water or going to the lavatory.

In fact, workmen's compensation may apply even before the day's work has begun. Take this case:

A hotel waitress, arriving early, headed first for the powder room to tidy up working clothes. On the way, she slipped and broke her arm. Even though she had not yet been on the job, she was held entitled to workmen's compensation—because changing her shoes was so closely related to her work.

However, the law usually will not approve a compensation claim if the victim's activity was in violation of company rules and regulations.

In another case, a bakery worker was injured while trying to force open a tight window. He claimed later that the room had been stuffy, and that he needed some fresh air to help him work better.

However, this happened to be a company rule against anyone opening windows without the permission of the foreman. Accordingly, a court ruled that the claimant was not entitled to compensation. The court said he could not logically be considered "on the job" while doing something that his employer had specifically forbidden.

Rev. Lloyd Dean

UNITED PENTECOSTAL - Rev. Ralph Bigney of West Virginia was the guest speaker over the weekend and will be speaking 5 August and 9-10. Bro. Bigney is nationally known throughout the United States and in the last three years has traveled in 23 states and Alaska. The public is invited to help the Morehead United Pentecostal Church reach their goal of 200 in Sunday School by 1 September. The church is competing against several other Pentecostal churches in Kentucky. Rev. Bigney will serve as the Sunday School Evangelist.

On August 2 Brother Lloyd Dean baptized Sister Edith Fultz in the name of Jesus Christ. A good number was gathered at Hays Crossing for the Baptism.

Rev. Paul Cowell of Knoxville, Tennessee is scheduled to speak in Morehead during the month of August.

The next Youth Rally of the United Pentecostal Church will be held at the North Fork U.P.C. last of August.

HAYS CROSSING - Rev. Ralph Bigney of West Virginia is here this week working in the church and Sunday School Department. Rev. Paul Cowell of Knoxville, Tennessee is scheduled to visit the church this month.

Sis. Edith Fultz was baptized in a farm pond at Hays Crossing this past Sunday in the name of Jesus Christ.

The Hays Crossing U.P.C. is continuing to receive publicity as the Cobblestone Church in the Woods. This is proving to be very successful in helping to publicize Hays Crossing. It has an excellent opportunity in becoming as famous as the Little Brown Church in the Vale in Iowa.

FAITH PRESBYTERIAN - Services will be held at 9:30 a.m. this Sunday, August 9, with Dr. C. W. Riddle as guest minister. A native of Oklahoma and former missionary in China and India, Dr. Riddle is now a member of the faculty at Morehead State University.

Nursery service is provided during the service. The Presbyterian church is located at 334 University Street.

WEEKLY MEDITATION

"I'm going to live till I die," said an old Quaker of eighty-two years, "and then I'm going to live forever." He was numbered in that group of whom the reporter said in Psalm 84:7, "Going they increase in strength, until they appear before God in Zion."

One must care for his body. Two camels loved their master and set out to carry his cargo across the desert. One ate little to save money. But his strength failed and he died. Thieves stole his pack, and his master lost cargo and camel. The other cared for his body. He grew in strength and passed triumphantly across the desert. To weaken ourselves by mistaken economy and endeavor, by worry and wickedness, is to sin against our Master and His mission for our lives.

One must care for his soul. God made us for Himself. Then He gave Himself for us. Jesus is God's gift to man. He answers the cry of his soul, saying, "I am the Bread of Life! No one coming to Me will ever be hungry again! Those believing in Me will never thirst."

Life begins with the Lord. Believe in Him. Then care for your body and soul and you will go from strength to strength on your way home to Heaven.

Woman Leads Battle Against Alcoholism

By Dee Giannini

John "Fictitious" is a social drinker—has been for years, gradually, he dissolves more and more of his problems in his "cure-all" liquid until one day he is in the grips of one of man's most insidious diseases—alcoholism. The above profile is a typical pattern from social drinking to problem drinking to total alcoholism. This is not an isolated case. "Within the past year, the U.S. has outranked all other nations in the percentage of problem drinkers," says Mrs. Margaret Long, R.N. and director of the Office of Alcoholism in the Department of Mental Health.

"One out of 15 men and women you know as a social drinker has the potential of becoming an alcoholic," she added. Mrs. Long also cited other surprising facts and figures about alcoholism:

—There are seven to eight million alcoholics in the U.S.

—According to recent figures, there are 150,000 of them in Kentucky.

—Alcoholism constitutes one of man's oldest and most abused vices.

—Eighty-five percent of the alcoholics are educated, middle-class community members who are married, have families, and are on payrolls.

—Alcoholism most often strikes during the productive years between 35 and 40.

—Industry stands to lose approximately $5 billion per year due to lost-time injuries and absenteeism of alcoholics.

—The suicide rate of alcoholics is 58 times that of non-alcoholics.

—Of the 10,310 people admitted to mental health hospitals last year, 2600 had alcohol problems.

The Office of Alcoholism handles both the abuse (alcoholism) and misuse (problem drinking) of alcohol with a two-phased, progressive program.

The key to the first phase of the program, prevention, is education. "It's easier to send someone upstream to see what's making people fall in than to keep fishing out the bodies downstream," explains Mrs. Long.

The preventive goals are two-fold: +To educate the public about alcohol and how to cope with its problems and to change attitudes about alcohol.

+To teach the young the facts about the effects of alcohol so they will be able to make an intelligent decision when confronted with the question, to drink or not to drink.

Mrs. Long says that the Office of Alcoholism attempts to provide good mental health education, unbiased and informative rather than negative and forceful.

Positive Approach Mandatory

A negative attitude about drinking is as bad as alcoholism—the medical profession, communities, social agencies, industrial groups and teachers must aid in preventing alcoholism by changing the alcoholic image—alcoholism is an illness; the nation's third largest health problem and it must be defined and treated as such before it can be prevented, she adds.

The second phase, treatment and rehabilitation, relies on family, friends and associates of the alcoholic to help. Acutely intoxicated individuals constitute a medical emergency—they need treatment in community medical facilities. Any complainant can have an acutely intoxicated alcoholic admitted on an emergency basis.

Once admitted, the individual dries-out and withdraws. When sober, the person must volunteer himself for the rehabilitation

A WOMAN DEALS WITH ALCOHOL PROBLEMS—Mrs. Margaret Long, a registered nurse, is director of the Office of Alcoholism under the Department of Mental Health. The office of Alcoholism handles both the abuse (alcoholism) and the misuse (problem drinking) of alcohol with programs in education, treatment and rehabilitation. (Richard Upchurch Photo)

Why a Woman?

Threatment and rehabilitation, including counseling, psychotherapy, and group therapy, also is provided in the state's four psychiatric hospitals.

What is a woman doing in the field? Mrs. Long says, "Those in the helping professions have too long ignored the social and environmental problems of our society. More could be done by trying to change conditions which create those social problems. There is opportunity in the field of alcohol prevention, treatment and rehabilitation to do something about the social problems of society." Eight years ago, when Margaret Long made the decision to enter the field, there were very few women involved. In fact, when she assumed directorship of the Office of Alcohol Problems two years ago, she became the first woman to head up a state alcoholism program in the U.S.

The young, attractive brunette has more than ample qualifications to meet the challenges created by her goals in the field. She received a nursing diploma from Fairmont State College School of Nursing, Fairmont, W. Va., and attended Akron University, Rutgers University and the University of Maryland.

She came to Kentucky in 1967 with a backlog of experience gleaned at the Philadelphia State Hospital, Phila., Pa.; V.A. Hospital, Clarksburg, W. Va.; Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va.; Akron General Hospital, Akron, Ohio; Fairmont General Hospital, Fairmont, W. Va.; Cabell-Huntington Hospital, Huntington, W. Va.; and at the Alcoholism Treatment Services, West Virginia Department of Mental Health, Spencer, W. Va.

Margaret Long chose Kentucky as her adopted home for two reasons.

"The Kentucky Department of Mental Health, headed by Dr. Dale H. Farabee, has an excellent nationwide reputation for its progressive mental health concepts and achievements. Dr. Farabee himself has a medical reputation well-established across the nation.

Dedicated To Her Work

Also beckoning Mrs. Long was Kentucky's elaborate park system. A nature lover at heart, she belongs to the Audubon Society and is overwhelmed with Kentucky's beauty-in-nature, especially the Red River Gorge area.

But, Mrs. Long also offers Kentucky much in professional service. She is an active member and/or officer in numerous organizations.

Recently, she was a team-member for the "Fifth Annual Evaluation of a Comprehensive Community Oriented Alcohol Education Program, Mississippi State University," she gave the keynote speech, "Alcoholism: The Role of the Nurse in the Therapeutic Community," at the ninth annual symposium on alcoholism for the nurses at Medical College of Virginia, she is

Young Democrats From Rowan Active In New Party Club

The Young Democrat convention was held July 10-11 with the Morehead State University Young Democrats well represented. The school's chapter had two winners, Jack Keck and Michael Lathem. Jack F. Keck, a senior from Sandy Hook was elected seventh district chairman. This area encompasses 22 counties in eastern Kentucky; Rowan County is included in this district. Keck who is vice-president of the MSU chapter will co-ordinate activities in this district to expand club organization and membership.

Michael Lathem, a senior from Lexington was elected sixth district chairman, his territory will consist of a county area in central Kentucky. Lathem is secretary of the school's chapter and his duties will be similar to Keck's.

CONFEDERATE STRONGHOLD

Arlington Ky. was known as the Confederate "Gibraltar of the West" during the Civil War. Trenches used during the war may still be seen along with a huge anchor and chain used to block the Mississippi to Union forces.

a board member of the Southeastern Conference of Alcoholism Programs; she is a member of the invitational faculty of the Nebraska School of Alcohol Studies, University of Nebraska and she is a member of the planning committee of Gov. Louie B. Nunn's Occupational Health Conference.

A profile of Margaret Long must include the words, totally committed. Not, in the sense of a woman liberationist, which she says she definitely is not, but in the sense of a dedicated professional.

And, she says her work will not be complete in Kentucky until some funding mechanism is provided for those afflicted with the illness of alcoholism. Kentucky never has had legislation providing funds for the treatment of alcoholism and her ultimate commitment is to provide such funds.

Agree Or Not

I Say What I Think
By S. C. VanCuren

Potential bidders for the Democrat nomination for lieutenant governor have been overshadowed in the output of political reporters here by the candidates, or potential candidates for governor in both major parties.

House Speaker Julian Carroll of Paducah has had the most publicity of the few announced potential nominees because he is teamed up with former Gov. Bert T. Combs, but it's a long time until the May 1971 primary.

Others are Attorney General John Breckinridge whose name is probably recognized by more people across the state than any of the other bidders. The 56-year-old attorney general is serving his second term in that office, the first from 1959-63. The Breckinridge name was made famous in the annals of early Kentucky history by his forebears.

He has made three statewide races and has been successful in two of them. He was defeated for the lieutenant governor's nomination in 1963 by Harry Lee Waterfield who went on to win with Gov. Edward T. Breathitt.

Carroll, a 39-year-old attorney from Paducah, has served two terms as speaker of the House and has been in the House since 1962.

The other two are Senator Henry Beech, 55, of Jefferson County. He is ending a four-year term as Senator and is a Baptist minister and insurance company executive. Beech's strongest base is that he is from the state's most populous county.

The other is virtually unknown Jim Rogers of Dayton, Northern Kentucky, who made a surprise showing this May in his primary race against Charles Webster of Carrollton who won the Democrat nomination for Fourth District Congressman. Webster will oppose incumbent Gene Snyder in November.

On the surface, Breckinridge and Carroll appear the strongest of the lot. Carroll, because he is the running mate of Combs, and Breckinridge because of his statewide races he has made and his historical name. He and Carroll both have had a lot more publicity through the years because their offices in government.

Breckinridge's present intention is to run as an independent and seek no ties with either Combs or Lt. Gov. Wendell Ford who are seeking the nomination for governor. He served in the House in 1956 and 1958 and was among the rebels in opposition to then Gov. A.B. Chandler.

Ford has the backing of R.J. Miller of Owensboro, who was State Chairman, until he resigned to support Ford in the primary.

Ford is seeking to win the nomination from the lieutenant governor's office, a feat that no one has accomplished since Lawrence W. Wetherby moved up in 1951. However, Wetherby had moved into the governor's post because Gov. Earle C. Clements resigned to become U.S. Senator. Before that, Keen Johnson did the same thing in 1943 when he moved into the governor's office when Gov. Chandler went to the U.S. Senate. Meanwhile, Gov. Louis B. Nunn and Republican leaders across the state seem to be content for the Republican bid to play their popularity game while the Democrats maneuver. At the moment, there is no Republican of a Republican primary next year. The consensus here is that Gov. Nunn and party leaders will make a choice from five-Highway Commissioner Eugene Goss, of Harlan; Public Service Commissioner Tom Emberton, 37, of Edmonstone; Park Commissioner James Host, 32, of Lexington; Public Information Commissioner Ken Harper, 39, Ft. Mitchell; and former Parks Commissioner Robert Gable, 37. Stearns Gable resigned his state post to devote his time to his family's coal and timber business.

There has been little speculation on potential candidates for the other constitutional offices. Mrs. Thelma Stovall, state treasurer, is expected to seek the constitution office since she is prohibited by the state from succeeding herself as treasurer. The most likely spot is Secretary of State, an office she has held twice before. Miss Mary Louise Ford is expected to seek office of State Auditor. She is now filling the unexpired term of Republican Civic Conley who died in March 1969.

State Supt. of Public Instruction Weidell P. Butler is expected to run, but he has made no announcement. He may seek to move to the post of Commissioner of Agriculture. His Republican opponent may be Reggie Palmiro, presently deputy commissioner in that office. Palmiro is from Barren County.

Democrat Drex Davis, who served one term as clerk of the Court of Appeals, is making moves for support as State Treasurer.

An administration source here overheard a comment recently from an Eastern Kentucky political rally that points to what would be in the minds of some GOP observers as a Republican "dream" candidate for governor.

He would be a composite with these attributes: the "personality" of Jim Host, the "good looks" of Tom Emberton, the "brains" of Eugene Goss, and "the money" of Robert Gable.

Regionalism . . .

Made In Kentucky

By Bob Schulman

Why did President Nixon choose Louisville as the place for him and his top domestic-policy advisors to meet with Appalachian state governors? Because of Louisville's proximity to the Cincinnati site of the All-Star ball game? As a reflection of how well Kentucky's Gov. Nunn stands in with the White House?

There is a more positive explanation—one in which Kentuckians regardless of political party can take glowing pride.

For out of the Louisville meeting area, from last long come steps toward a formula by which the billions of federal dollars, in a thousand different programs, may nationwide be spent more sensibly, with greater regard for encouraging local public and private investment in valid, priority needs.

In all of the nation's other lagging rural areas, like those in the Kentucky mountains, the new formula may so much federal help, through the states, to poor counties working through for growth and social development, that jobs and a full life for rural youth will not require them flocking to the big cities. So, the big cities, themselves, will be the better for it.

And the formula that could bring this about—a new regional development policy for the nation—carries a "Made in Kentucky" stamp. The arrangement that is the heart of the Appalachian Regional Commission idea—putting groups of local counties and their 13 states into money-development partnership with the federal government—had a Kentucky birth 14 years ago.

That was when a "Jaycee" from Wolfe County, John Whisman, first perceived that until tiny towns in small counties got together with state help to chart their own future, rather than waiting for things needed attention first, no amount of federal dollars ever would do anything except perpetuate welfareism. A true partnership was needed—among neighboring counties, between them and their state, and between the states of the region and Uncle Sam.

Today, Whisman is the Appalachian states' representative on the Appalachian Regional Commission. Frank Groschelle, recommended by Whisman, is the Nunn-appointed head of the Program Development Office, the state-level agency that serves Kentucky in the partnership game.

And, among all the 13 states whose satisfaction with the regional idea has captured the White House interest, Kentucky is most far along, with a program that owed its entire early development to Democrats Bert Combs and Ned Breathitt as well as to John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson.

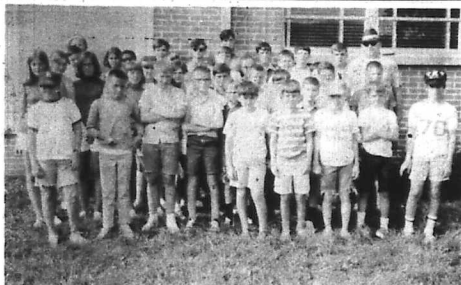

The concept is almost too common-sensical. Between the triangles of federal money and local potential, a state agency for technical help and orderly planning provides a strengthening weld.

The elected officials and representative citizens of neighboring counties plan together in area-development districts—in Kentucky nicknamed "ADDS." New jobs, centers, hospitals, or vocational schools are planned to serve an entire district, not just a part of it. It is "thinking regionally." And, as the desires of each district are aligned with those of others in its state, and then correlated to those in neighboring states, no program is funded at the federal level that does not have the initiation and consensus of the region's governors.

Regionalism is no panacea. In Kentucky, there have been complaints that ADDS boards get stacked in the direction of the local "establishments." Yet, diminished migration of people, and income increases greater than national rates, suggest success. And, contrary to what the Country Journal maintains, concentrating on the development of key communities seems to be the only road to giving people a full life without wresting them out of the hills they love.

The magic of the regional planning idea is that it can produce more results for the people of the state, rather than looking to Washington for more dollars that may not be forthcoming.

This is planning in its best sense. This why this week may mark a Kentucky-made contribution to all of America.

Eastern Commencement

Dr. Adron Doran, president of Morehead State University, will be the summer commencement speaker at Eastern Kentucky University August 6.

At the program, starting at 8:30 p.m. in Van Puersem Pavilion, Dr. Robert R. Martin, E.K.U., president, will confer degrees upon 504 candidates. He will confer an honorary doctor of law degree upon the commencement speaker.

President at Morehead since 1954, Dr. Doran, a Graves County native, was a school teacher, coach, and principal in western Kentucky for 15 years. He served as a member of the Kentucky House of Representatives for four terms and as Speaker in 1950.

Dr. Doran was named "Kentuckian of the Year" by the Kentucky Press Association in 1959. In 1966 he received the "Distinguished Kentuckian Award" from Governor Edward

T. Breathitt. Former President Lyndon B. Johnson appointed Dr. Doran to the National Advisory Council on Education Professions Development. He is a member of the Advisory Committee on Education to the Appalachian Commission and former chairman of the National Education Legislative Commission.

WOOD ON INCREASE

We're going to need a lot more trees to meet the increasing need for wood and wood products in the future. To meet projected wood needs by the year 2000, the South will have to plant another 30 million acres of forest lands between now and 1985. That's a land area equal to all the forest lands now growing in Florida and South Carolina put together.

HUNTING AND FISHING IN KENTUCKY

On a lazy hot day in July or August, when the creeks run low and the water is warm, maybe a bit stagnant, you've undoubtedly wanted to go splashing in your favorite swimming hole, only to be told you can't because "it's Dog Days."

That happened, of course, back in the good old days when you were a youngster. And no doubt you wondered why all the to-do over Dog Days and why you couldn't go swimming.

The reasons were enough so far as the grownups were concerned. They were sure, as sure as anyone could be, that the water during Dog Days was unsafe and that if a person had even a slight blemish on his skin and exposed it to the waters of the streams or ponds during Dog Days that blemish was sure to become infected and the resulting sore would be hard to cure. This you were told about swimming during "Dog Days."

If you wanted to go fishing you received the same bad news. You were told that first of all the fish were listless and would not bite, and if they did bite a person might endanger his life if he ate fish caught at that time.

Many years went so far as to claim that milk from a cow that drank creek water during Dog Days would be impure and "didn't taste just right."

Cause of Dog Days was not given, and there was no reason for an explanation since those days did occur regularly just as surely as summer rolled around.

Many boys and girls believed that dog days were a figment of the imagination created in some form or fashion in the past and handed down from generation to generation. They couldn't convince their parents of this, to be sure.

They were mostly right, notwithstanding the fact that ancient designated a period of about 40 days, the hottest weather of summer to be Dog Days from the fact that Dog Star (Sirius) at that time rose just before or simultaneously with the sun and the intense heat was attributable to the combined power of the sun and the Dog Star.

London town sinks while Thames rises

By PETER J. SHAW

LONDON (UPI)—Maimed in the past by fire and war, the London of today faces potential devastation by what was once its lifeline—the River Thames.

Rising banks in the central London area were rejected as too expensive and too ugly. The flood defenses built lower down the Thames since 1953 channel the threat of disaster upstream. The higher banks mean a steeper upstream surge.

The government and the GLC have between them already spent about $600,000 on surveys, siltation studies and a giant model of the tidal Thames.

They rejected a permanent dam because of siltation problems that might hang up London's myriad of docks. The tide control barrier proposed by the GLC would be closed during ebb tides during the flood danger period, September to March, and reopened on the flood tides if the danger was nil.

So far the favored site choice is Woolwich, near the Royal Docks and the maritime museum buildings built by Christopher Wren—Crayfordness, farther downstream, and Cannon Street upstream in the shadow of St. Paul's Cathedral are two other possibilities.

The Thames' flood danger is increasing because of a southeast tilt of Britain over the centuries into the English Channel—about 13 inches each 100 years—and the surge problems caused by raised banks downstream.

No longer are the old, many-arched bridges of any use as dams. In medieval times, and for centuries thereafter, bridges helped hold Father Thames in check.

Now it is up to modern technology to contain him. The GLC has proposed erection of a tide barrier in the form of gigantic sluice gates. The estimated cost varies from $120 million to $250 million.

Another problem poses into the barrier: talk of any tampering with the natural flow of the tidal Thames affects its scouring action and would likely increase pollution.

Officials estimate serious flooding of central London is a real possibility only about once a century. There have been nine recorded near-misses since 1900 and a real disaster in 1953 when the Thames overflowed downstream—807 of London—leaving 387 persons, left 32,000 homeless.

Mother From Morehead ...

Tommy Kirk Musical

By C. Mitchell Douglas
Special Writer

Remember the boy who brought tears to the eyes of movie goers in "Old Yeller"? Remember Joe Hardy in "The Hardy Boys" and Ernest in "Swiss Family Robinson"? The same boy, Tommy Kirk, isn't Tommy anymore. At 28, Thomas Kirk, as he now bills himself, is carving out a whole new image for himself at the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theater in Prestonburg. He is the son of the former Lucy Day of Morehead.

Kirk has been appearing at the Jenny Wiley Amphitheater this summer in a series of musicals including the current production, "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" which runs Thursdays, Fridays, and Saturdays, Aug. 6-22.

In the Jenny Wiley production of the Broadway hit, Kirk plays Marcus Lycus, the role originated by John Carradine on Broadway and played by Phil Silvers in the film version.

Set in ancient Rome, the musical is a fun-filled romp featuring the slapstick humor of the silent movie days. As Marcus Lycus, Kirk runs a house dealing in beautiful women. When the famous warrior, Miles Florious; the young Roman, Hero; and

The number of women workers in the United States rose to 30.5 million in 1969, an increase of 1.3 million from 1968.

Hero's father all set their eye on the same girl, trouble starts with hilarious results. Along the way there is a sparkling Stephen Sondheim score including "Comedy Tonight," "Love, I Hear," and "Everybody Ought to Have a Maid."

Though Kirk's professional life has kept him in California for the greatest part of his career, he is a Kentuckian by birth and heritage. His father is Louis Kirk, a Paintsville native and maintenance manager at Jenny Wiley State Park.

His mother is Lucy Day Kirk of Morehead. Thomas, himself, was born in Louisville and moved to California with his parents a short time later.

There he was discovered by Walt Disney talent scouts and made a series of films and television shows that brought him to national attention.

In addition to those already mentioned here, Thomas starred in 33 other films including "Babe in Toyland," "The Shaggy Dog," "The Monkey's Uncle," "Track of Thunder," and "Son of Flubber."

His film work took him around the world in such distinguished company as John Mills, Ed Wynn, Fred MacMurray, Jane Wyman, Elsa Lanchester, and Dorothy McGuire.

When Thomas completes his summer season at Jenny Wiley, he will return to California to continue in films. He hopes to do more theater work and is enthusiastic about returning to the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theater. In his own words, "That's where it's at in theater."

Health ... ... for all

The decade between 1960 and 1970 should have been a decisive one for tuberculosis control. This was the decade in which it was anticipated that tuberculosis cases in the United States would drop to a case rate of not more than 10 per 100,000 population.

However, recent figures released by the National TB and Respiratory Disease Association, show that the rate now stands at approximately 19 cases per 100,000 population. Thus, the target, established by TB and health authorities in 1959, has not been attained.

The average annual decline of 10 percent or more between 1960 and 1969 was recorded only in Alaska and Ohio. Kentucky's average rate of decline has been 3.7 percent.

One thing appears certain—eradication of TB is going to require extra effort on the part of not only health authorities but the average citizen. It is imperative that individuals take upon themselves the responsibility for getting an annual TB Check-up in the form of a chest x-ray or a tuberculin test; that they support activities of the health department and TB and RD Associations which are aimed at eradicating TB, and that they be fully aware that TB still is a formidable problem and should not be relegated to a position of minor importance in public health.

Among museum-like pieces from the Pauline Trigere collection of costume jewelry is a group of Aztec rings, brooches, and necklaces. Many have the look of old gold and are studded with tiny jewel-like stones and mini pearls.

Envelope purses for fall range from little clutches to huge ones suspended from the shoulder. In between are a dozen other sizes. Some of the handiest envelopes look like huge rectangles instead of being long and lean.

In case anyone asks, cowpatamus is a heavy, grainy leather that looks a bit like elephant hide. It's used in handbags for fall and winter.

ANSWER: Direct Distance Dialing

WHAT DOES ddd DO?

A. ddd lets you dial long distance station-to-station calls just the way you now dial your local telephone numbers.

HOW DOES ddd WORK?

A. ddd is simple as ABC. Here's all you do:

- Dial 1. This connects you to the ddd equipment.
- Dial the area code (only when calling a city outside your home area).
- Dial the number of the party you are calling.

Often takes less than thirty seconds — to call direct almost anywhere in the United States.

SUPPOSE I DIAL THE WRONG NUMBER?

A. If you reach a wrong number, try to obtain from the person who answers the city (and number) you have reached. Dial the operator and inform her immediately of the error. She'll see to it that you are not charged for the misdirected call.

WHY ddd?

A. ddd will put most of the nation's phones at your finger tips. It is faster and easier to use. It will give you better long distance service and — in the long run — it will help to hold down the cost of long distance calls.

HOW MUCH DOES ddd COST?

A. Toll charges for faster and more convenient ddd calls are no more than for operator handled calls. In many instances, especially for interstate calls, ddd is considerably cheaper.

WHEN WILL ddd COME TO TOWN?

A. Sunday, August 16, 1970

WILL I RECEIVE FULL INSTRUCTIONS?

A. Yes. You'll get a booklet through the mail that will tell you all you need to know about ddd — where you can dial, what numbers to use, how to get the most from the service. Keep the booklet by the phone for handy reference, and use the index for listing the long distance numbers you most frequently call.

This Is What The

Morehead Jaycees

Are Doing

M-Night - A Jaycee orientation meeting will be held this Friday evening at 7 p.m. at the Holiday Inn for new Jaycees and prospective members. Chairman Gary Furnish has planned a very informative and interesting program. Kentucky Jaycees' Internal Vice President Winston Church will be on the program along with several Morehead Jaycees' past presidents and Morehead civic leaders. Anyone interested in learning more about the Morehead Jaycees is invited and urged to attend. There is no obligation or cost.

Softball Champs - The Morehead Jaycees regained the Area 6-A Jaycee Softball Championship last week by defeating the Greenup Jaycees 4-0 behind the shutout pitching of Gary Furnish. Other chapters participating in the tournament were Grayson and Ashland.

Reds Excursion - Thirty Morehead Jaycees and guests journeyed to Cincinnati by chartered Greyhound last Sunday to see the Reds defeat the Cubs 4-3 in extra innings. Chairman Jack Roe said the trip was very successful and plans are to make this an annual or semi-annual Jaycee project.

Family Picnic - Jaycees and their families will converge on the Clear Creek Furnace Recreation Area this Sunday for the annual Jaycee Family Picnic. Guests of honor will be the Jaycees and Jaycettes who worked so hard on the Northeast Gateway Regional Fair. Games for all ages will be available and activities are planned for the entire family. Jack Thompson, chairman, says that the annual Jaycees Intra-Club Horseshoe Pitching Contest will be held at this time.

Football Cookout - Rondal Hart has been named chairman of the annual Morehead Jaycees Football Cookout in honor of the M.S.U. Football team. Rondal says the event will be held in the latter part of this month and that particulars will be released soon.

Support Our Nation - The Morehead Jaycees have agreed to participate with Jaycees throughout Kentucky, West Virginia and Ohio in an effort to obtain 4,000,000 signatures on a letter to our President pledging our support of him and the United States. The project was initiated by the Greenup (Ky.) Jaycees and is attracting a great deal of interest. As soon as details are worked out, Morehead Jaycees will be asking for signatures of every patriotic citizen in Morehead. A copy of the letter will be made available very soon, says Chairman Jesse Thompson.

Football Programs - The Morehead Jaycees will again make available to Rowan County High School football fans a very attractive football souvenir program at each home game. Chairman Rondal Hart is now in the process of accumulating the pictures, statistics, and other vital information for a successful program.

Board Meeting - About three dozen Morehead Jaycees will be leading up and moving out to Paducah in a couple of weeks for the Kentucky Jaycees Summer Board Meeting August 21-23. The August meeting is one of our leadership training events held throughout the state each year.

The Morehead Jaycees are continuing their efforts to boost their membership to the 150 mark through an effort called "A Piece of the Action."

Regular membership in the Jaycees is open to any young man, 18-35 years of age, and associates, non-voting membership is available for anyone under or over those ages.

TOM WALLACE GRANTS EXPIRE ON AUGUST 17

Woodland owners in Kentucky and Southern Indiana have until Monday, August 17, to submit entries in the annual Tom Wallace Farm Forestry Awards competition.

The contest, a public service program of The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times designed to promote good woodlands management, seeks woodland owners with forestry management programs all over Kentucky and 31 Southern Indiana counties.

The woodland owner with the most outstanding forestry management program will receive $200. The second place winner will receive $200.

TRAINING TO TRAIN... Morehead State University played host to these junior high school mathematics teachers, who will develop programs in their local school districts during this coming school year to help seventh and eighth grade students learn mathematics easier and better. From left are Prof. Max Beberman, University of Illinois, director of the Junior High School Mathematics Workshop; Dixie Moore, MSU; Nancy Henson, University Breckinridge School; Betty Searcy, Rowan County High School; Nell Mahaney, MSU; Dr. B. R. Nail, Chairman, Division of Mathematical Sciences, MSU; and Johnnie G. Fryman, MSU, Coordinator of Workshop.

Rowan Countians Car Costs Higher

With many Rowan County families away on vacation jaunts in their cars and others preparing to go, the question of cost becomes a prime consideration.

According to available figures, local travelers will have to pay about 18 percent more for their food, lodging and other requirements than they did five years ago. Inflation has struck here as everywhere else.

The changes are reflected by the American Automobile Association, which surveys the situation every few years. It finds that practically everything has gone up in price. The net effect, for two people traveling by car this summer, is that they will have to spend about $6 more per day for necessities, than they did in 1965.

On the basis of the AAA findings, Rowan County vacationers must count on a daily budget of $20.50 to cover the essential needs of two people.

Assumed is that they will average 300 miles a day and get 14 miles to the gallon of gas.

The budget is broken down as follows: $14.00 for lodgings, another $14.00 for meals and snacks, $3.50 for gas and oil and $3.00 for tips and miscellaneous items.

The matter of vacation costs brings up the bigger question, for Rowan County car owners, of how much it is costing them per year to own and operate their cars.

The AA has come up with new figures on this score. It finds that the average car in the popular-price range, driven 10,000 miles a year, cost $1,448 equivalent to 14.5 cents per mile. This compares with 12.0 cents in 1965.

Included in this are fixed costs, such as insurance, depreciation and license fees, totaling $1,053, or $2.88 per day. The major part of it is depreciation, $729.

The variable costs—for gas, oil, tires and

WHITE COLLAR WORKERS

In 1969, the number of white-collar workers reached a new high of 36.8 million. This comprises about one half of the Nation's work force. Gains were made almost entirely in professional, technical, and clerical occupations.

VETERAN'S LOANS

According to the VA, veterans received more than $20,000 VA guaranteed and direct loans in the amount of about $4.2 billion in fiscal year 1969.

maintenance—total $395 for 10,000 mile operation, or 3.95 cents a mile.

Applied to Rowan County and to the 5,140 passenger cars in its area, the overall cost is about $7,443,000 a year.

Despite the bigger expense, auto travel has been on the rise and local gas stations have benefited from it. Their receipts last year came to $1,473,000.

Cactus Flower arrangement

TOKYO (UPI)—A Japanese professor who specializes in the study of caves is teaching a new kind of flower arrangement: cactus studded with jewels.

Hajime Torii, who formerly taught speedology at Saitama University, says the advantage of cactus arrangement is that cacti live as long as 30 years while flowers die quickly. Torii arranges cacti in bowls and decorates them with precious stones, particularly rubies and sapphires.

Cigarette was son of discarded cigars

By Encyclopedia Britannica

Ever stop to think who invented the cigarette, and why? Cigarettes were born in the gutter and popularized in a war. It all began when Spaniards explorers caught the Aztecs smoking tobacco stuffed into hollow reeds.

Some natives rolled crushed tobacco leaves in corn husks. But these smokes were ignored by the Spaniards, who took home something else: the natives were smoking—cigars. Soon wealthy Spaniards were puffing contentedly and toasting the butts into the gutters. And that's where the cigarette as it is known today was invented.

Those discarded cigar butts, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica, were turned into the first paper-wrapped cigarettes by the enterprising beggars of Seville, early in the 16th century. They salvaged the butts, smoked them, and rolled scraps of paper around the tobacco.

Those poor man's smokes were known as papeteries or cigarillos. It was nearly 200 years before they acquired respectability. Traders carried them to other continents, but as was to be the case in later years, their humble beginnings were stimulated more by warfare.

The new smokes became familiar to French and British soldiers fighting each other on Spanish soil during the Napoleonic campaign of 1814. They took their humble, discarded cigarette to the heart of Europe. It was in France that they acquired the name cigarette.

American debut

In a few years the cigarette crossed the Atlantic. In 1854, R.T. Tull, a commentator on the New York social scene, complained that fashionable women had started smoking cigarettes, "aping the silly ways of some pseudo-accomplished foreigners."

Cigarette production in the United States was entirely dependent on hand labor until the 1880s, when machines were perfected that turned out thousands of cigarettes per hour and reduced the cost by nearly two-thirds.

Cigarette production jumped from 500 million in 1880 to 1 billion in 1905 and 4 billion in 1925. Cigars continued in top favor until 1920, when cigarettes caught up with them. Cigarette popularity, in the 12-year period that included World War I, shot up 600 per cent. That rate more than doubled during and after World War II.

Part of this increase was triggered by the revolution in manners which freed American women of all ages to take up smoking. In 1920 no cigarette advertiser would portray a woman smoking. When the tide turned, the ads had women and the women had cigarettes.

The publication of research reports linking cigarettes with cancer brought a decline to cigarette sales. Some of the sales dips were caused by the population spiral that produced increasing numbers of new smokers.

COMMISSIONER MILLER on Kentucky Agriculture

Being mindful of safety is something every farmer should practice.

The week of July 19 has been proclaimed "Farm Safety Week" in Kentucky by Governor Louie B. Nunn, making this a good time for all working with agriculture to survey their safety habits. Many activities and operations on the farm are natural hazards to human safety and require considerable caution.

Tractors, machinery and livestock can deliver serious or fatal injuries if they are not handled properly. Small tools and appliances can also be dangerous if they are operated carelessly.

A common fault of most of us is to let the pressure of time cause us to rush in doing a job or chore. Too often what we do in the name of saving time proves costly.

During the observance of Farm Safety Week the Kentucky Farm Safety Council hopes to impress all of us with the need for greater safety on the farm. The Council has put forth some food for thought:

Although there are many different types of accidents, most have two common elements. First, they are generally the result of carelessness or lack of proper cautions. Secondly, they happen to persons who feel that accidents only happen to the other fellow.

The loss of a human life has no equal when it comes to human tragedy. A serious injury can cripple a family's economic structure for months, years, and in some cases, a lifetime.

When all of the consequences are weighed, we might wonder why a message of farm safety is needed at all... It would seem that safety would naturally exert all the caution necessary for the safe operation of tractors and equipment.

But knowledge and judgement are often overruled by the desire for greater speed on the road and in the field, or by the proper attachment of guards and safety equipment. When this happens, action considered a means of saving time often results in the loss of life or limb.

The farm tools, equipment, and livestock necessary to the operation of a farm present natural hazards to human safety. Yet, there are safe ways to handle livestock. Equipment is manufactured with safety features, which when used according to guidelines, greatly reduce the dangers.
