Drouth Makes Stock Prices Show Decline

Farmers Fear Shortage Of Pasture, But Rain Solves Problems

The weather and the prospect of a drouth and consequent shortage of pasture and hay, it is believed to have been the cause of a notable drop in prices of cattle, especially among the feeders and stockers. This was true not only of the market here but of markets in other parts as well. However, the excellent and abundant rainfall of the past few days will bring back the pasture to its normal condition and should naturally show a decided effect on the markets.

Morehead in common with the entire Ohio Valley had suffered to a considerable extent from the severe drouth, which had already begun to effect the gardens and fields, as well as water supply for the stock and the family use. However, this drouth had not suffered nearly as much as the Blue Grass, as there the water shortage has been even more acute than locally.

Friday's light showers, coupled with the good rains of Saturday night, Sunday night, Monday and Tuesday, have definitely broken the drought which had been feared to be the worst drouth since 1933, and have done much to relieve the fields and gardens. According to reports the rain has been rather general throughout the entire Ohio valley.

New Parity Payments Announced

Changes Made Over The Amounts Paid On Crops During Past Year

Rates of parity payments to be made growers of Kentucky crops to plant within their acreage allotments are announced as follows:

Corn, 5 cents a bushel; wheat, 10 cents a bushel; fireweed, 10 cents a ton; ten tenths of a cent a pound; and cotton, 1.38 cents a pound.

The payments will be based on the normal yield of each crop under a parity agreement and will be in addition to the regular agricultural conservation payments.

The one change in the procedure for determining rates for 1941 parity payments, as compared with the 1940 program is that the 75-percent rule formerly applying has been eliminated. The new rule provided that payments could not be made on any crop which already were at 75 percent of parity, and specified further that if farm prices of a commodity were less than 75 percent of parity, the payment would be large enough to make up the difference. As a result, the parity payment rate for crops in 1940 and payments for the first time.

The 1941 parity rates will be applied to approximately the same production of wheat, corn and rice as were the 1940 rates, so that the amount of payment would be about 4 percent more than the increase in the normal yield of cotton.

Students Of Mrs. M. E. George Give Recital

Due to the lateness of arrival we were unable last week to publish the program of a musical recital given on May 25 by the musical student of Mrs. M. E. George at the Methodist church.

The program was as follows: Sunset Waters, Janis Condit; Moon Shadow, Eleanor Bruce; Little Spring Song, Nancy Everhart; The Dutch Twins, John Wendell Phillips Harp; John Everhart; The Fox Hunt, Billie Vaughan; Blue Danube Waltz, Jean Toombs; Cypess Fires, Louise Rebe.

Daylight Saving Daylight Saving

With nearly every town and county surrounding Morehead already on Daylight Saving Time and with all the cities of Kentucky adopting it, is there any reason why Morehead and Rowan county should not also adopt this hour earlier time?

We and every one else who have tried to keep appointments in Lexington, Frankfort or Louisville, know the inconvenience of using two time schedules. Many appointments have not been kept due to the fact that fast time was meant by one party, while the other was dealing with slow time.

With our minds the proper solution for the mix-up would be for the Governor to issue a proclamation establishing Daylight Saving Time for the entire state. In the absence of such a proclamation, we hope that Morehead falls in line with other neighboring towns and counties and adopts the Daylight Saving hours.

Three Calls To Be Made In June

Four Rowan county young men left for Fort Thomas Monday in response to the June 3 call for Selective Service call of that date. The men were Rex Furry, Chella Gregory, Sam L. Lewis and Sherman Ellington.

Bloodhound Used To Track Fire Makers

An Arkansas bloodhound, Nigger by name, was successfully used by Forest Ranger Karl M. Stoller to track down three fire chasers who set a forest fire in the Cumberland National Forest near Morehead on May 12.

On the morning of May 12, three hunters thought they would be a good idea to go hunting in the Slab Camp Run. While there, they attempted to smoke something out of a hollow tree. The CCC boys from Camp Morehead, who later set a forest fire, had been trained on an Arkansas penitentiary and told their business' truely. He tracked the men right to their homes. After that, it was just a matter of securing a confession.

It has been decided to bring the case before the Federal Judge at Frankfort. Forest officers feel that the offense is so grave that it would be advisable

Recent Books Reporting From England.

During these "perilous" days, most of the eyes of the world are fastened on London. We are going to discuss a few of the books written by people who are living in England now. These books are as follows:

"Habitats," Coach, editor. Letters from Jim McMillan Publishing Company, $1.75.

Letters from one friend to another—written as Fred Roberts by a young English soldier. Jim was a telegraph messenger, but when Mr. Roberts first met and befriended him he was also the inspiration for the title.

Jim is twenty, Mr. Roberts' address, Victoria Four-Thirty, and they write to each other.

2. "Churchill, Winston S. Book Show and Texts. Freeman and Ishing's Company, $2.00.

A vivid lively and interesting chronicle of the life of the man portraying him as he really is to the many readers who only know Winston Churchill as the New Yorker and Newsweek.

This material was taken from "The Books of the Month," Pamphlet which is published by the R. B. Bowker Publishing Company.

The author would appreciate any comments the readers of these articles might have to make. Just address all communications to 508 College Blvd., Morehead, $34.50.

CRITICISM IS EASY
The only way to evaluate any institution or system is by answering this question: How well has it worked? That can be applied to everything from a government to a sleeping criticism of life.

It is clear to anyone that, basically, life insurance has "worked." It has given the American people a degree of economic protection many times as great as is enjoyed in any other country. Its record of solvency through the greatest depression in history is unequalled. It is one of the dominant economic forces of this country—a force that works always for progress.

CIGARETTES AND GOOD CITIZENSHIP

A wise man said, "Tell me what you eat and I will tell you what you are." He might also have said, "Tell me what you do with your cigarette stubs and I will tell you what kind of a citizen you are."

When driving your car, do you throw your stub out of the window? If so, you aren't a good citizen. Your stub may land in some leaves or rubbish by the roadside and start a fire. Birth records are of growing importance in the United States, according to a statement made by Albert M. Bohon, Manager of the Ashland, Kentucky field office of the Social Security Board. Explaining why this is true Mr. Bohon said: "The Social Security Act now provides two kinds of insurance under that portion of the plan which is operated by the Federal Government. One kind is for workers who reach age 65 and retire after work on jobs covered by the Social Security Act. The other is for the survivors, widows with children under 18 and orphans who must qualify for monthly checks based on the earnings of insured workers who died before reaching age 65.

Birth certificates must be shown, or some other reliable proof of date of birth, before a birth certificate is accepted without question. It is essential that a worker is actually insured, and must also be used to determine other types of insurance.

For this reason birth records should be guarded carefully as they often are great difficulty in obtaining them after many years have passed following their issuance." Mr. Bohon added:

When you are in a car and you see a car with a "No Smoking" sign, do you get out and throw your cigarette stub out of the window? If so, you aren't a good citizen. Your stub may land in some leaves or rubbish by the roadside and start a fire. The plea for such stubs is the law. National Defense Program Is Call For Step-Up In Food Production

The National Defense Program calls for an increase in the production of certain foods for home use and export. There should be an immediate increase in dairy production to meet new export demands and to provide more milk for home use.

Professor Foodvye Ely, Head of the Dairy Department of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, has the following to say in a discussion of the present situation:

"The Secretary of Agriculture is urging an expansion of the Dairy Industry to the extent of six or eight percent. Plans call for concentrating this extra milk into a form that it can be stored and shipped in dairy production. This actually means the production of three to four billion pounds more milk which constitute a very important and valuable contribution to the nation's food storehouse and ladder for the struggling democracies. Even though the three to four billion pound figure sounds enormous, the dairy industry is equipped with cows and physical equipment to do the job with out a great shock to anyone.

"Fortunately there are more cows on farms being kept for milking purposes than ever before, and a brisk demand for some, which prompts farmers to retain their good heifers for dairy production. These facts are especially true for Kentucky. "The Secretary of Agriculture furthermore is proposing steps to protect the dairy producer who sees fit to expand his operation.

Market Support "The Surplus Marketing Administration is being authorized to buy butter whenever there is a tendency for it to drop below an equivalent of 31 cents for 92 score butter in this market, support should in no way prevent butter from exceeding this figure. Farmer and those giving advice to farmers should not be confused by the fact that the market support is given in terms of Chicago butter. Actually the price of butter determines in a large measure the value of milk by the farmer which is manufactured into other concentrated foods such as dried milk, evaporated milk, cheese, etc., which are actually more in demand for export than butter.

"The Secretary also proposes to release stored corn which is expected to modify the feed-buffet ratio, thus offering adjustment in the form of lower feed costs. There exists some likelihood, however, that this may not directly benefit Kentucky dairy producers because the state is a corn deficient area. Unhappily, however, the release of this stored corn at a figure which may actually constitute a loss to the government may effect other price policies thus favorably affecting the feed-buffet ratio.

Producers should be advised to take advantage of the seasonal increase in production and to accomplish the required six to eight percent increase in production through better feeding and management practices rather than through expenditures for cows and equipment. The tremendous seasonal increase in production when Kentucky cows go on pasture is sufficient evidence that improved feeding practices can bring about the continuous production for a prolonged period. Special emphasis should be placed on:

- 1. Care and more effective utilization of pastures.
2. Earlier cutting and more careful curing of hay.
3. The feeding of grain to the better cows even though the pastures are good.
4. Supplement the pasture with grain rations containing more protein as the season progresses and the pastures become dry.

"Daring suddenly finds it in an advantageous position. One must constantly keep the thought in mind, however, that a healthy nation is a strong nation, and that health is a reflection of food habits and seasonal habit of using milk and pecially is dependent on the products is the farm home. Here is where our national health begins and nothing should be done to induce farmers to sell milk for cash which can and should be advantageously utilized at home. This thought is very important."
