SPORT SPURGES

Well, Gentlemen and ladies, we are coming down to fine points now as far as sports are concerned. About all we have left to enjoy is that colored baseball team from Owingsville.

These guys are certainly battens for punishment. They don't stand a chance with Clearfield, but they come back for more each Sunday. Next Sunday is the final game and they say that they are going to take Clearfield like Gran took Richmond.

Athletics In Navy Given Attention

Coach Ellis Johnson is sold on system of building men. You wouldn't think that Uncle Sam's men who go down to the sea in ships would have much time for sports—but they do. The Navy considers athletics to be an integral part of a well-balanced Naval life.

Nearly every popular American sport is certain to be found in the Navy. Football, baseball and basketball are the most popular. Boxing, wrestling, track and field and swimming meets are enjoyed. Every ship and station has an officer in charge of athletics. He in turn has several assistants.

NOT WANTED!

"Jook-joints", "honkey-tonks", "dives", and other lawbreaking retail beer outlets are not wanted by Kentucky's $20,000,000 legalized beer industry!

Beer is a wholesome beverage, and the makers of beer insist that it be sold under equally wholesome conditions.

Kentucky's beer industry, therefore, wants all undesirable retail beer outlets eliminated entirely. Accordingly, we are cooperating with state and local law-enforcement officials to maintain wholesome conditions wherever beer is sold.

We invite you to help in this public-spirited "clean up" effort, by (1) patronizing only reputable beer retailers; and (2) reporting any disorderly outlets to enforcement officials or to this committee.

ARMY PROBLEMS

Continued From Page Six on street corners at their evenings off, broke, and with nothing to do. It should be emphasized in the interests of fairness, that a high proportion of the Army's enlisted men has excellent morale. Further, in the Navy, Air Corps and Marine Corps, there is no morale problem what so ever. These branches of the service have no selectives. Most of the selectives have gone into the infantry and it is there the morale problem exists. Progress is being made in bettering the lot of the men, but it looks as if a good deal more must be done if the largest peace-time American Army in our history is to have the morale that is essential to an A-1 fighting force. WHAT RETAILING HAS DONE The Retailers Advisory Committee observes that upward price trends in consumer goods in recent weeks have largely resulted from higher production cost factors that need not run into an inflationary spiral. The committee then reviews its efforts to keep prices down, and emphasizes the following activities: It has encouraged merchants to question the fairness of every price increase and to insist on knowing whether cost factors justify it. It has prevented scare advertising that would have encouraged hysterical buying. It has urged the continuance of its established new standards for the averaging of the price of new goods with old. Needless to say, this committee has been given the full cooperation of the principal retail groups, chain and independent alike, in this country. As soon as war effects began to seep into the retail industry, we went to work on the new problems produced. It established a definite program for stabilizing price inflation to the limit of its power. It establishes new standards of economy and efficiency in many instances, it voluntarily reduced its own modest profits in the consumer interest. What this meant to the American people cannot be detailed in figures. It has helped maintain the living standards of millions of families. It has put a check on an inflationary trend that, allowed to go free, would soon get out of hand. It has been of the utmost assistance to government and other industry in the hard and necessary fight to keep prices at the lowest levels consistent with the times.

WHITE BREAD

Continued From Page Two exists went to work to find out why. Their discovery amounted to this: Many palatable foods are sadly deficient in those vitamins which are essential to robust health. And white bread was one of them. In the process of refining the flour, most many of its health attributes. There was, for instance, a deficiency of thiamin, which leads to impairment of the nervous, digestive and circulatory systems. There was a deficiency of nicotinic acid, which is closely related to pellagra. There was a deficiency of riboflavin which results in a stunting of growth, lowering of vitality, premature aging and nervous disorders. So in 1938 with the fact as well known, the American Medical Association went on record to the effect that in the processing of foods he should be able to retain the natural food value. If this were not done, the processed food should be scientifically enriched to replace the losses. As a result of this, the millers and bakers who cooperated fully. So today consumers of America, a classic and nervous disorders. white bread, most of us enjoy the population.

NEWS and FACTS . . . of Statewide Interest

First Year Results of the Kentucky Beer Industry's "Clean Up or Close Up" Campaign

One year ago our Committee was organized to cooperate with law enforcement officials in eliminating the small minority of beer retailers permitting unlawful conditions or anti-social practices in their places of business.

Continuous activity on the part of our Committee, which included investigation of more than 1,300 small beer outlets, has resulted in definite progress toward that objective.

To date, on our Committee's recommendation to state and local authorities, 18 beer retailers have lost their licenses, 2 others have had their outlets padlocked and 6 have had their licenses suspended because they would not conduct their places of business in accord with public sentiment and with the high standards of Kentucky's $20,000,000 legalized beer industry.

As we enter our second year, we renew our pledge to the public and our offer of assistance to law-enforcement officials. We are determined that conditions in retail beer outlets shall be as wholesome as beer itself.

By restricting your patronage to reputable beer retailers, YOU can help to preserve the social and economic benefits of beer—a beverage of moderation—which provides 15,000 jobs for Kentuckians and pays State taxes totaling more than $1,000,000 a year.

DISCHARGING A RESPONSIBILITY

A Statement of Employee Policy by the Central Western Division of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.

The privilege of leadership in any industry carries with it heavy responsibilities and obligations. Honest discharge of these duties, we feel, is imperative to the maintenance of an orderly going business—a business in which management shares with its employees and customers savings effected through efficient operation. Such a business.

The necessity of taking stock is recognized in all business by employee and management alike. In the A&P organization, however, there is considerably more to this routine "must" than counting the number of cans of foodstuffs on the shelves of our stores; the tea, coffee and butter poundage. Stock-taking with us means consideration of all the interests of our customers, suppliers and our employees.

Officers and directors of A&P are confronted by this tremendous responsibility every day. Careers, human personalities and scores of other "intangibles" are in the balance. No lives are easily re-stocked; not so these other factors.

After a series of "stock-takings," with pardonable pride we announce that effective this week, all of the some 4,500 full-time store clerks in this area will share with fellow employees from coast to coast what we believe is the first 5-DAY, 48-HOUR WEEK in the history of the retail food industry. Labor contracts and other local variables permitting.

In our employees in this division whose untiring efforts and efficiency have made possible the position we enjoy in the food industry, and to hundreds of thousands of satisfied customers whose cooperation we respectively seek in making our new work schedule a success, we take this opportunity to reaffirm a few of the cardinal principles upon which A&P was founded 82 years ago by the late George Huntington Hartford, father of its present day owners.

The new work schedule is in line with a long-standing policy of A&P to give its employees the shortest working hours and the highest wages in the industry. It provides that wages of all employees will be the same as for the 52-hour week which has been in effect for several months.

It was in the cracker-barrel period a quarter-century ago that A&P boldly defied tradition and broke with the dawn-to-dusk hours of the grocery business by reducing the work week from 72 hours to 68.

Regardless of the highly-competitive nature of the food business, A&P has always felt work hours of retail food store employees were too long. It has constantly sought ways and means of reducing them so that A&P employees could enjoy more leisure and, to a greater degree, the warmth and comforts of home life with their families.

Our recent decision to further reduce employee working hours once again has paced the industry in raising the living standards of retail clerks. But management is confident the continued efficient support of its employees will prove, as it has in the past, that better working conditions, fewer hours at the store and more at home, and higher wages will in no way endanger the savings we have always made available to our customers.

Wage increases and added compensation during the last year, coupled with a recent shortening of working hours have given A&P employees the best average wages and the shortest general working hours in the industry—irrefutable evidence that through efficient operation it is possible to achieve both low prices to consumers and good working conditions for employees. Wages of full-time clerks in the Central Western Division have risen approximately 60 per cent since 1921, at which time they exceeded appreciably the average for retail food store employees in all sections of the country.

During the last decade, A&P has effected a considerable reduction in working hours, inaugurated vacations with pay, provided free and additional group insurance, sick benefits, half-days of hospitalization and compensation to employees joining the nation's armed forces as well as many and frequent increases in the wage scale.

The A&P management has always been keenly conscious of its responsibility to its employees, many of whom have devoted their working lives to its interests.

The company will continue to maintain the same interest in its employees' welfare it has always shown. Additional improvements in working conditions and benefits will continue as rapidly as increased efficiency in operation make them possible.
