AFTER WOMEN VOTE . . . The young girls in the picture jumped up to welcome Wendell Ford, democratic nominee for Governor, when he appeared at Morehead Wednesday morning to make his first speech since the primary election. The address was at annual Kentucky Girls State, being held here. At right is Della Barrett, Ashland, coordinator of Girls State; and next to her is Mary Louise Foust, democratic nominee for State Auditor, also on the program. James Host, republican nominee for Lt.-Governor, was scheduled for a Girls State speech here yesterday evening.

MSU Has Big Jump In Summer Students

Summer school enrollment at Morehead State University has taken a big jump it was revealed this morning by a release of figures from the Registrar's Office.

As of Tuesday afternoon, the latest recapitulation, 2330 had enrolled, and this is expected to reach 2500 before summer enrollment closes.

Last year the total registration for regular summer school was 2321.

The big increase is reflected in the overall (total) summer school registration. In 1970, a total of 534 students enrolled for the post summer session. These with the 2321 in the regular eight-weeks summer school made the total for last year at 2845.

A total of 1027 registered for the intercession this summer, which added to the 2330 registered through Tuesday for the regular summer term, brings a total of 3357. This will likely reach 3500 when summer enrollment closes this week.

Thus, overall this year's total summer registration at MSU is up about 700, or 25 percent, considered a remarkable increase.

VOTERS LEAGUE WILL MEET THIS EVENING

The Rowan County League of Women Voters will meet this (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. at the Rowan County Public Library.

The program will be a continuation of the League's study on The Finances and Facilities of the Rowan County School System. All members and other interested persons are invited to attend.

400 In Morehead This Week For Annual Girls State

Almost 400 high school coeds are at Morehead State University for the 25th annual Kentucky Girls State.

The six-day exercise in democracy, which opened Sunday, is sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, Department of Kentucky. The session ends Saturday.

Each delegate is a high school senior and became a citizen of a mythical 51st state. The make-believe area includes 12 cities and four counties. Elections are being held to select officials on all levels of government and will culminate in the election of a Kentucky Girls State governor today.

The delegates are representatives or senators in the Kentucky Girls State Assembly and will travel to Frankfort tomorrow (Friday) to participate in government in the state capital.

Gov. Louie B. Nunn will address the group in Frankfort and Attorney A. J. participating will be Mary Louise Foust, Democratic nominee for state auditor.

Mrs. J. Emerson Lewis of Lexington is chairman of the 1971 Kentucky Girls State.

HEADS UNIQUE CROWD . . . Richard W. Litterer of Rockford, Ill. will be in Morehead June 25-30, leading perhaps the most unusual group of students in America. He is President of the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers who will hold their national festival on the campus of MSU. Eight cents, free to the public, will be presented. (Story on page four).

Ford Makes First Speech Since Primary At M'head

Lt. Gov. Wendell Ford returned to the campaign trail Wednesday saying the necessary faith in our system of government will be restored only when elected officials keep their commitments and are responsive to the needs of society.

In his first address since winning the Democratic nomination for governor, Ford told Girl's State at Morehead State University here, "In my opinion the most pressing and overriding problem facing Kentucky and our nation is the lack of confidence in our governmental system and elected officials to cope with the complex problems of our modern society."

"We must as individuals demand that elected officials not only be responsive to the needs of our society, but we must also demand that they perform—we must demand that they keep their promises," he said. "When this is accomplished, the necessary faith in our system will be restored—when this is accomplished, young people and people of all ages will be more confident and willing to participate in our governmental system."

Out-Of-State Student Plan

Ford told the delegates that Girl's State will give them insight into the democratic

Two Stretches Of Rowan Rural Road Will Get Blacktop

Highway Commissioner B.E. King today announced at Frankfort the addition of two road improvement projects to Rowan County's 1970-71 Rural Secondary Program. Grade and drain work and rock surfacing are planned for 0.8 mile of Scaggs Road. Bituminous initial surfacing is planned for 0.5 mile of Huntsman Lane. Almost all financing projects are financed by two cents of the seven-cent-per-gallon motor fuel tax.

Pilot Federal Project

Morehead May Be Site For $4 To $7 Million Demonstration Center; Planning Is Around 12 Areas Of Aid, Concern

Corbin's loss may well be Morehead's gain.

It was revealed at City Hall this week that the federal government has decided to spend $4 to $7 million for a demonstration project at Morehead, shifting the site from Corbin.

Mayor William H. Layne confirmed today that he has been in touch for several days with federal representatives, and they have been in Morehead many times.

The Mayor said, "this is about as certain as any federal project could be." He said the government has apparently approved Morehead as the site.

The shift in planning from Corbin to Morehead apparently resulted because: 1. Morehead has a University, and higher education is included in the planning; 2. The program, first of this nature in the nation, includes health services, and nursing in particular. A nursing program has started at MSU; 3. Expansion of St. Claire Medical Center at Morehead. The nursing and allied health service programs to be conducted from the multi-million dollar Appalachia building now under construction on the MSU campus, are tied directly to St. Claire, including closed circuit television; 4. Sufficient land, about 40 acres, is available within or adjacent to the Morehead city limits as a result of the widening and straightening of Triplett Creek, providing access above flood level. The prospectus specifies the center must be within the population center, and 5. Morehead met all the area low income etc. requirements.

Will Aid Retarded And Elderly

The project known as a "Demonstration Center" will serve 10 counties. Theme of the planning is aid to the handicapped, and housing for the elderly. But, the prospectus contains many professional facets such as teachers, college students, mental health, nursing, teacher aides, University professors and the like. Planning is around 12 "Areas of Concern"—housing, rehabilitation, blind, mental health and day care, retardation, orthopedic, behavioral science, deaf, court services, guidance, vocational and geriatrics.

Dave Abner, Morehead Zoning Director, said he had been working with federal authorities on the planning. Abner said the center calls for 10 housing units, in 25 quadrangles.

It is estimated the Center would require 150 to 300 instructors.

The centers for instruction, training, rehabilitation, treatment etc. would be centered within the housing complex, according to drawing.

Mayor Layne thought only Morehead State University would exceed the center in local economic dollars. The Mayor said the project is so new, complex and comprehensive that "you cannot grasp all of it even after several meetings with the federal people."

Almost all financing would be with federal funds. However, the applicant is the City of process and the mechanism which makes changes in society.

Ford told a representative of the Morehead News that he favored a change in the rules governing admittance of out-of-state students to Kentucky's institutions of higher learning, such as Morehead State University.

He said his program in this respect could term a "radius plan." If there are vacant dormitories or college facilities not used by Kentuckians, Ford said he favors admitting more out-of-state students from a radius of 50 or perhaps 100 miles.

The Lieutenant Governor told the delegates they are learning how to make constructive changes to:

- + Improve and protect the environment.
- + Improve the lot of the disabled, elderly and ill.
- + Build a better educational system.
- + Provide jobs and expand the economy.

Host Speaks For GOP

"All these things and more I want to accomplish for our state," he said. "All these things and more you want to accomplish for our state or you would not be here today."

Scheduled to speak yesterday (Wednesday) evening at Girls State is James Host, the republican candidate for Lt.-Governor. Tom Emberton, GOP nominee for Governor, this week released a 15 point platform, the major one being to provide 200,000 new jobs for Kentuckians in the next four years, with emphasis on employment of youth. Host is certain to touch on this in his address at Morehead as employment for young people has been a major topic of discussion at Girls State.

A policy spokesman for Girls State told the Morehead News yesterday that a decision had been made to again hold the annual meeting at Morehead next year. She said Girls State had received better treatment at MSU than anywhere ever held, and this influenced the delegates to select Morehead for an unprecedented second conference in succession.

Recreation Center Cost Is $584,500

Morehead Will Host Gateway

The 'big' meeting of the Gateway Area Development District, home-based at Owingsville, and embracing area counties, is scheduled at Morehead on Saturday, June 26.

Guest speaker for the annual event will be Congressman Carl D. Perkins at the 7 p.m. banquet in Adron Doran Student Center. The keynote speaker will be Ralph Widner, Executive Director of the Appalachian Regional Commission.

About 150 are expected. The program starts at 5 p.m. with a hospitality hour in the Morehead News building at 722-730 West First Street. Hosts will be newspaper publisher W.E. Crutcher, and the Board of Directors.

Courtesies served by Gateway are Bath, Menifee, Montgomery, Morgan and Rowan. Local hosts will be County Judge Ott Caldwell and Mayor William H. Layne.

Occupational Tax Held Probable To Amortize Bonds

The City of Morehead moved this week toward a half-million dollar municipally owned and operated recreation complex, but financing is bound to be a major problem.

Council borrowed $21,000 this week to complete payments to E.B. Sluss for a tract of land adjoining the city limits at Triplett Creek, near Bridge Street.

About $40,000 had previously been paid Mr. Sluss, most of this money being $100 citizen membership subscriptions.

Mayor William H. Layne said the City would have to borrow an additional $260,000, as its half of the construction price. He said this would necessarily be revenue bonds, but did not mention what kind of almost certain new tax would be mandatory to amortize the bond issue.

It's an open secret that City Fathers are eyeing an occupational tax of perhaps one percent. This would tap the considerable payrolls at Morehead State University, Cowden Manufacturing etc. This tax, already imposed by most 4th class Kentucky cities, simply means that $1 would be deducted from each $100 salary earned within the city limits.

The City is also debating the feasibility of incorporating north over Divide Hill and adjacent of I-64 which would move than as its half of the present city limits.

This incorporation is certain to be expensive, while street repairs and solid waste disposal are also immediate financial problems.

BOR Puts Up $250,000

The Mayor said the City "might have lost about $2,000 by an early purchase of the Sluss land." It was thought at the time that the federal government (Bureau of Outdoor Recreation) would match dollar for dollar on the reclamation project. However, BOR has since stipulated that land previously purchased cannot count on the total expenditure.

Thus, it appears the City must match $200,000 BOR construction funds, plus the $64,500 for the land. This would set the total cost of the recreation complex at $584,500.

Displayed at City Hall is the revised blueprint for the project.

The large clubhouse, in the original planning, has been eliminated. However, the bath house, and some other facets, are larger.

The complex has lighted ball diamonds, Olympic swimming pool, and many other

Rowan Has Third Road Fatality

Rowan County recorded its third fatal 1971 highway accident Thursday when an 18 year old rural Fleming County youth was killed on a lightly traveled blacktop road.

Meeting dead was Jackie Burke, RFD 3, Hillsboro, front seat passenger in a car driven by William Wayne Crawford, 17, RFD 1, Morehead.

Crawford's younger brother, Billy Ray, 16, a back seat passenger was seriously injured, and taken to U.K. Medical Center at Lexington. The driver was treated at St. Claire Medical Center, but apparently was injured less than the other two occupants of the automobile.

State Trooper Carl Sluss, who investigated, reported the Crawford car left

School Board Advertises For Supplies, Insurance

The Rowan County Board of Education today advertised for the following supply bids:

- + Coal for the next school year. The contract will be let to one bidder for the entire school system.
- + School bus insurance for 1971-72.
- + 22 school bus tires and tubes.

+ Various cleaning and custodial supplies.

+ All gasoline and motor oils to be used in school buses or other school vehicles.

The bids, a full recitation of which appear elsewhere in this issue of the Morehead News, will be open on July 5 at 4 p.m.

BIG, BIG CONCEPT . . . This is a drawing of one of the 25 quadrangle units of the proposed comprehensive demonstration center at Morehead. If completed it will attract more than 500 people to the community, an estimated cost is between $4 and $7 million. Each of the quadrangles houses four families. It will be the first center of this type in the nation, and Morehead has priority on the location because of the University, hospital, nursing and instructional services. The center was originally planned at Corbin, but is being moved to Morehead because this community already meets requirements. Elderly and handicapped are major concerns in the prospectus.

The RCH Faculty Scholarship and the Telford Gevedon Science Scholarship is in its first year according to Lloyd Dean, Counselor. These Scholarships are expected to be awarded yearly to two outstanding seniors.

At Owingsville . . .

New Nursing Home

Open house of Hill Top Lodge, a new nursing and convalescing home in Owingsville, will be held Sunday, June 23 from 2 to 5 p.m.

Two private rooms. Each room has restroom facilities and an outside window.

The building is a large recreation and dining room at the front of the building, along with the office. The home's administrator, Mrs. Mae Baber, Winchester, who has more than 10 years in this field, will be the administrator.

An all stainless steel kitchen adjoins the dining room. However, bed patients will be served in their rooms. A dietician, Mrs. Edith Graybill, a graduate of the University of Kentucky, will be on duty to plan all meals.

The head nurse's desk overlooks the hallway on east wing of the building, and she has instant contact with each room through an intercom system. Mrs. Bob Thomason, Mt. Sterling, a registered nurse with more than 20 years experience, will be head nurse. All rooms and restrooms have emergency signal systems, so that aid can be summoned quickly when needed.

Each of the semi-private rooms has two hospital-type beds with sides, clothing closets and toilet facilities. Drapes throughout the home are fireproof. In fact, everything has been done to make the home as fireproof as possible. It has fire alarms and hallway doors that automatically close in the event of fire.

The building is fully air-conditioned and forced heated automatically according to the temperature desired. An emergency power generating system is built in, to take over in case of a public power failure.

Ambulances Available

For those patients requiring treatment, special treatment rooms are available. Patients are admitted at a special entrance from where they can be taken directly to their rooms. Two physicians, Dr. Robert L. Suttles and Dr. Robin A. Byron, Owingsville, will call at the home and other physicians may also treat patients here.

Oxygen and intravenous feeding is available in each room.

At least three general licensed practical nurses will be employed at Hill Top Lodge. These are Mrs. Carroll Hughes, Frenchburg, Miss Glenna Rose, Mt. Sterling, and Mrs. Regina Goodpastor, Owingsville. There will also be other professional relief nurses and aides, for around-the-clock care of patients. A physical therapist may be employed later.

Mrs. Opal Eaton, Owingsville, will be housekeeper, and Hubert Bowling, Mt. Sterling, maintenance man. Help in the home are Mrs. Omar Horseman, Owingsville, and Mrs. Alice Hilton, Salt Lick.

"We have done everything possible to make this home the finest of its kind," Biggs Maze who, with his brother, Jerry, have built it, said this week. "It is to be certified by Medicare and Medicaid, and we are providing patients with good physician and pharmacy service in a pleasant atmosphere, with care by qualified people who will take an interest in their patients." He said, Hill Top Lodge sits high on a hill along High Street, U.S. 60, giving a fine panoramic view of the countryside.

"We think this area will appreciate this kind of nursing facility and are looking forward to serving those who need this type of care," Mr. Maze stated. Coffee and cookies will be served during open house. The home is expected to be in operation a week later.

Recreation

An organization sprung up almost five years ago urging a community recreation center. They met with many reverses, and internal problems. About 400 citizens put up $180 each for family membership, actually a donation since the facilities, entailing federal funds, will be equally open to members and non-members.

Finally, and with some controversy, the city group turned over the $40,000 in membership contributions to the City which purchased the land under option by Mr. Sluss. Thus, the project became city owned and operated.

Nobody has projected when the complex may be opened to the public, but Mayor Layne thought within two years.

Seek To Resolve . . .

Health Smoking Controversy

By Greta Gibson The question of whether cigarette smoking is dangerous to health is being determined by the University of Kentucky Tobacco and Health Research Institute, a federally sponsored program. The unique institute is studying all phases of cigarette smoking in hopes to dispel any myths about smoking and health. If tobacco smoking is found harmful, the institute will try to eliminate the danger.

Encapsulating the talents of three colleges of the University, the institute wants to determine the relationship between tobacco and health. "If there is something harmful in tobacco, then let us find it and remove it," said state Sen. Thomas O. Harris, Carrollton, chairman of the Tobacco Research Board, "so tobacco can take its rightful place in the economy of Kentucky, and those who find satisfaction in smoking can continue to do so without any fear of the consequences."

Because of its outstanding agricultural and medical schools and chemistry department the University of Kentucky was selected to do research for the federal government to determine the danger, if any, of smoking. Being situated in Lexington, the nation's second largest loose leaf tobacco market, also made Kentucky an attractive choice. The combination of Duke and Durham, North Carolina, was the government's second choice for the tobacco research center.

According to Dr. D.C. White, the top professor of biochemistry in the project, if a problem exists it is due to the leaf and how it is grown or how the plant is affected and the chemical change that is employed after the leaf has been burned.

Congress Appropriates Funds Dr. Lewis Cochran, UK vice president of academic affairs, explained the value of the research program. "There are millions of people smoking," he noted, "and it's important to the state and the nation that these people continue to smoke, but safely. Everybody's not going to stop smoking and it is up to us to eliminate the problem."

Financial support for the program has come from six annual appropriations by Congress of $1.5 million each, totaling $9 million. Research involving $4.5 million of these funds has been completed. Studies funded by $3 million are in progress and the contracts involving the remainder have been negotiated.

The Tobacco Research Board recently received a $750,000 appropriation from the state. The funds came from a half-cent a pack cigarette tax enacted at the last session of the state legislature.

Research in the program is not only carried out by professors but there is a limited number of students working on the project. Undergraduate students work in very technical areas, while graduate students study more advanced aspects of the program. By working with the project the students obtain invaluable learning experience found only at UK.

Dr. C. Gairola, a post-doctorate student in the department of microbiology, is one of 35 students working in the institute. Gairola explains, "We are just exploring. We don't know, but it looks as though there is a part which has the potential to be harmful. But like I say, we are just exploring around."

The forerunner of the institute, the Tobacco and Health Program, was formed in 1964 in response to then University President John A. Oswald's expression of UK's interest in this area.

Using funds appropriated by Congress, a staff was assembled and research in plant science and in chemical and medical areas was initiated.

University officials analyzed the progress of the program in 1968 and found that the

Broadway

By JACK GAVER
UPI Drama Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) - While Danny Kaye continues to hold forth on Broadway in Richard Rodgers' "Two by Two" musical, another veteran comedian, Milton Berle, will be playing the pivotal role of Noah in the Midwest.
Berle is scheduled to cope with the Great Flood at the Municipal Opera in St. Louis Aug. 24; at the Summer Music Hall in Dallas Aug. 10-22; and at the Starlight Theater in Kansas City Aug. 23-5.
Kaye will continue with the production at the Imperial Theater here until the end of September. The broken ankle he suffered early in the run, which resulted in him cutting out of the role with the aid of a wheel chair and crutches for weeks, is now about healed and he gets around almost normally with the damaged leg in a walking cast.

Comedienne Joan Rivers, whose talents have received enormous television exposure on many programs, including one of her own that ran a season, expects to try the Broadway stage in the fall in a play she helped write.
Producer Zet Sulman, currently represented here by "Star Theater" and "The Metamorphoses" at the Ambassador Theater, has contracted to present "My Son-in-Law Knows Zuhin Mehta," the joint work of Miss Rivers, Lester Kolinsky and Edgar Rosenberg, a television producer who is Miss Rivers' husband.
Miss Rivers, of course, will have the leading role. Nothing like making sure of a role by writing the play yourself.

This is the 20th anniversary year for Philadelphia's Playhouse in the Park, the first theater planned, constructed and operated by a city. Originally a tent, it is now a permanent air-conditioned structure seating 1,500.

Two well-known proprietors of show business are scheduled for musical treatment in the coming season.
Norman Panama, an established producer and talent manager, announced he expects to present a tune-show version of "Mr. Math Goes to Washington," the 1959 Columbia Pictures film that starred James Stewart and Judy Arthur.
"The story is important today as it was then," Panama said. "Corruption, unfortunately, is timeless."
Don Saxon and Don Brandon are preparing to stage a musical version of "The Goldbergs," the late Gertrude Berg's long-lived radio and television series. They intend to call the show "Molly," which was the title of a play that Mrs. Berg wrote and starred in on Broadway.

The current contract for Broadway theaters between Actors' Equity Association and the League of New York Theaters ends at midnight, June 27. Negotiations are now under way. Twice during the last decade when a new contract had to be negotiated there was a strike and a lock out. Again, the big item will be more money.

W. M. Gardner Is New Commissioner On High Court

The Court of Appeals has appointed Circuit Judge W.M. Gardner, West Liberty, as a commissioner of the high court to replace Watson Clay, who will retire Sept. 17.

The court also named Deputy Atty. Gen. Howard Trent as administrator of the courts of Kentucky, to replace Astor Hogg, who will retire Nov. 30. That position is the administrative officer for the high court and the 75 circuit courts in the state.

Clay has been a commissioner on the high court for 24 years. A commissioner can write opinions for the court, but cannot vote in its decisions.

Trent joined the attorney general's office in 1967 after retiring from the Federal Bureau of Investigation with 25 years service, 13 of them in the Kentucky area. A native of Ashland, he grew up in the Covington area.

Hogg is a former Letcher County attorney, commonwealth's attorney and Hanover County judge. He was appointed as Court of Appeals judge in 1968, and became administrator in 1969.

Bell Ringer Musicians Coming To Morehead

More than 1,600 musical musicians are headed for Morehead State University later this month.

The 12th national festival of the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers is booked June 26-30 on the MSU campus.

About 80 separate handbell choirs representing churches, schools and clubs from across the country will perform during the five-day convention.

Eight free, public concerts are scheduled at MSU's Laughlin Fieldhouse, including a festival-ending program with all of the choirs in a joint performance.

Most of the handbell enthusiasts are students who have spent a year raising the funds to attend the festival.

Handbell ringing is old musical art but its popularity is relatively new in the present musical world, according to Richard W. Litterst, of Rockford, Ill., the festival director. (Picture of Mr. Litterst on page one).

The tuned handbell is English in origin and has its clapper rigidly mounted and hinged so that striking is possible in only two directions, a downstroke or upstroke. Sets of handbells range from two octaves, 25 bells to five octaves of 61 bells. Individual bells range in weight from seven ounces to 10 pounds.

The American Guild of English Handbell Ringers was organized in 1954 and is the only organization in the world specifically promoting the art of handbell ringing.

Choose Morehead Student For State Government Study

Lemon Pudding
Accents Berry Flavor
A fresh lemon flavored pudding mold is a perfect foil for strawberries. It accents both the luscious flavor and ripe color of the fruit. The pudding is light and airy, too, for the cooked mixture is stirred into egg whites just before pouring into the molds. Serve it with spoonfuls of sweetened berries.

Lemon Corn Starch Molds
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup corn starch
14 teaspoon salt
3 cups water
14 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1/4 cup lemon juice
1 drop yellow food coloring, optional
2 egg whites

Mix together sugar, corn starch and salt in double boiler pot. Gradually stir in water. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, 10 to 15 minutes, until mixture thickens enough to mound slightly when dropped from spoon. Cover and continue cooking, stirring occasionally, 30 minutes.

Remove from water. Cook 5 minutes, stir in lemon rind and juice and food coloring. If desired, beat egg whites until soft peaks form when beater is raised. Gradually stir lemon mixture into egg whites. Pour into molds and chill through by turning mold over with strawberries. Makes 8 (5 ounce) servings.

Publisher's Pen...

Day-by-day jotting-downs, and editorial observations, of the publisher of this newspaper.

State-wide recognition was a long time in coming, but when it did arrive for the Rowan County High Vikings this community gave enthusiastic support, and praise.

The Vikings almost won the Kentucky high school baseball title, losing the final game 3-1 to Daviess County (Owensboro). But runner-up is a very considerable honor considering our Commonwealth has something like 400 high schools.

Some of the highlights:
+ Of the eight teams in the finals at Lexington last week Rowan County High was the biggest, and clearly best, cheering section at each season.
+ Hundreds of Rowan County cars lined 1-64 Thursday en-route to Lexington, and this contingent made itself known in support of the Big Green. One didn't have to wait for the radio announcer to recite a Rowan County hit, or good play. You could always tell by the cheering and noise.

On their return Thursday evening the Viking team, coaches and other leaders were met by scores of cars at the I-64 interchange and escorted into and through town by an estimated 1,000 fans. The parade, led by fire trucks of which Morehead has three, traversed Main Street, University Boulevard and ended with a courteous lawn celebration.

Lexington fans wanted RCHS to win... the Vikings captured everybody's hearts... + Viking Coach Ted Trent was a favorite with fans, and the sports reporters. When you're liked by the fans then you're bound to have something special because their respect is sort of difficult to cultivate.

In all the history of the high school final eliminations no player has caught the fancy of the fans, and news media, as did the Viking catcher - Gary Cisco - the "Johnny Bench" of the tournament. Gary threw to all bases if runners strayed far; and opponents thought twice before trying to steal.

Rowan County had three players on the all-state team - Cisco, pitcher Terry Fugate, and centerfielder Billy Bruce Fouch. The best player in the eliminations and in Kentucky this year could well be Fouch.

The 50 year sports drought at Rowan County High (formerly Morehead High) may be like a friend who bet on horses. He didn't have a winner in 44 races and then he picked the entire eight-race card... or the bachelor friend who never had a date until he was middle-aged, and after his first affair fell in love with all women.

We are confident that Rowan County will hereafter be in the finals of many state sports contests - basketball and football as well as baseball. And it is virtually certain that the Vikings will be favored to win the 1972 Kentucky baseball title.

The Rowan County High baseball team attracted fine publicity for themselves and for our community with their abilities on the field, and their conduct both on and off the field.

We're almost equally as proud of the Rowan County fans who, as a girl we know would say, followed the Vikings with a passion.

MOREHEAD'S 'CISCO KID' FAVORITE OF THE FANS

Louisville Times sports writer Mike Ruehling who covered the state high school baseball championship games wrote the following which appeared under a 49 point (big) headline: "Rowan County's Cisco Kid Wins Hearts of Baseball Tourney Fans".

"If Gary Cisco doesn't and his baseball career prematurely by crashing full speed into an immovable backdrop or falling down the dugout steps, he could turn out to be one of the best catchers ever to graduate from high school baseball."

The 16-year-old sophomore caught an estimated crowd of 1,200 fans Tuesday by tracking down any foul ball within reach, picking off one runner - ala Johnny Bench - at second base and then nearly breaking his first baseman's hand while trying to nail another wayward runner at first.

His efforts were not in vain either as Rowan County surprised Mayfield, one of the favorites, 6-1 in the opening round of the State High School Tournament at the University of Kentucky's Shively Sports Center yesterday.

"I just hope we'll be able to get insurance on him by the time he's a senior," said Rowan County coach Ted Trent. "He plays the game dangerously. He's going to be a superstar before he graduates."

Cisco is big for his age - 5 foot 1, and weighs 170.

YOU CANNOT BEAT OUR LOCAL MUZZLELOADERS

The Vikings almost won the state baseball championship, but the Kentucky Longrifles, home-based at Morehead, did win a state title over the weekend.

The Longrifles gain captured the Kentucky muzzleloading championship in the annual competition at Cave City.

Following the tremendous victory, our Longrifles wrote this Publisher a letter, "Our Kentucky Derby selection didn't win... but you picked us to win the Kentucky championship and we did." "We didn't let you down like the horses." The Longrifles several years back this Publisher a lifetime, honorary member which is good business because they know our eyesight is such that we won't waste any of their powder and lead. This is sort of like a medal colony conferring lifetime membership on an 80 year old man.

FORD'S MAJORITY IN STATE WAS 41.311

Although the Morehead News was perhaps the only community newspaper to publish all the state election results (full pages) we keep getting calls about the majorities, perhaps to settle wagers or arguments.

Wendell Ford defeated Bert Combs by 41,311. The totals - Ford 236,365; Combs 138,054. Other state-wide results on the democratic ticket:
Lt.-Governor - Julian Carroll 140,975; John Breckinridge 127,030.

Supt. Public Instruction - Lyman Ginger 74,898; James B. Graham 44,326; Lewis Johnson 32,430; C.W. Snider 25,603.
Treasurer - Drexell Davis 68,116; C.L. Culliff 38,670; Walter Bromley 23,764; Lyle Willis 21,809.

Attorney General - Ed Hancock 61,799; Anthony Wilhoit 45,233; Lambert Hehl 43,101; R.K. Grantz 32,396.
Circuit Court of Appeals - Frances Jones Mills 54,890; Ed Hahn 51,389; Paul Lynch 47,607. (This was the closest state-wide race of all).

Railroad Commissioner, 3rd district - Nelson R. Allen 9,811; Robert Damm 6,579; Taylor Branham 4,845; J.H. Sams 4,648; James Ward 5,175; Dave Ward 4,122.

In the "very quiet" G.O.P. Primary Tom Emberton easily won the gubernatorial nomination. The vote: Emberton 83,115; Red Martin 6,045; Thurman Hamlin 5,151; Samuel Prather 3,858.

The only close republican race was for Clerk of the Court of Appeals. Douglas Maseley won with 27,025 votes as against 23,490 for Elmer Begley, Jr.

LOT BIGGER - This community gloating Publisher barely missed being on the site Friday when the Kentucky Department of Highways changed our population signs. They took down Morehead's Pop. 4,170 and put up: "Morehead - Pop. 7,200." That's a right sizable 78 percent increase in one decade. Only municipality in Kentucky to show more in the last 10 years is the nearby Flatwoods in Greenup County which had 3,741 people in 1960 and 7,380 in 1970. This is because a big refining company has moved over from Flatwoods and there is an overflow from Ashland.

JOBS - At hand is a report from the Department of Labor showing that the unemployment is up about 2 1/2 percent in the Morehead area as compared with a year ago. The Morehead area consists of Bath, Carter, Elliott, Menifee, Morgan, and Rowan counties. As of April, this year, the six counties had 2,000 manufacturing jobs, divided as follows: Apparel 600; Lumber and wood products 400; Printing and publishing 200; Stone, clay and glass 100; and miscellaneous 350. Of the 6,750 other jobs (non-agricultural) in the area, 3,900 (about half) government or state jobs which includes school teachers, and 1,550 were employed by retail stores, mostly clerks.

WELCOME - Melvin Frank Laughlin, formerly of Morehead, knows how to influence newspaper people and win platform. He read in this column of our very late spring and the observation that we might not have home grown tomatoes until Labor Day. Mel, in Morehead this week with his family, visiting his father, Frank Laughlin, told some home grown ripe tomatoes from Morehead. Let us to the desk of this garden eating Publisher. Presumably Rowan County strawberries came in during the week with a better than expected crop. You can have all you want provided you pick 'em at a discount.

BUSINESS - We suggested to a young man who mows lawn in our neighborhood that he could improve his business by buying a power mower. He said he made more money this way working by the hour.

SHOOK UP - Most talked about man in Rowan County this week is City Councilman Herb Christian. Eleven hours after he voted to spend city money for ambulance service his car was hit by a train, and Mr. Christian was the first ambulance passenger. Herb, who is 80 years old, wasn't seriously hurt as the train hit the front of his car knocking it completely from the tracks. But, he says he wouldn't want to go through the same thing again at his age. Councilman Christian is receiving all kinds of plaudits from neighbors and friends for: 1. His vote on the ambulance bill; and 2. His good fortune that the car was not on the tracks a foot more at the time of impact.

READER INTEREST - We're always surprised at the degree in reader interest in a community newspaper. For example, in the last issue a story was printed about the resignations of Minnie Preston as City Clerk, and Eugene S. Brown as Superintendent of the Utility Plant Board. We already know that story will command more local readership than two in this issue about city business - a $7 million housing and training center; and a half-million recreation complex.

ELECTRICALLY - Kentucky Utilities Company was quoted in this newspaper that Morehead will not have a black-out or brown-out, like New York. One of our news services follows by saying that in the immediate Morehead area the use of electricity for residential purposes has increased 73 percent in the last five years - from 15,000,000 kilowatts to 26,000,000 kilowatts.

RETHIRE - Martin S. Bowne, former head of Lee Clay Products Co. and properly labeled by this newspaper as having made the maximum contribution to our community, thinks so much of his adopted state that he has named his summer cottage in New York "Kentucky Lodge." Mr. Bowne writes that "update New York had an unseasonably late spring, the temperature Friday sunk to 41 degrees; and there's plenty of ducks. If you would like to write Mr. Bowne his address is: "Kentucky Lodge - 364 East Lake Road - Penn Yan, N.Y. 14527."

ANOTHER PEST - A recent page one story in the Morehead News recited that corn blight will probably not return this year. Today, we learn that armworms are more prevalent than in memory, and are attacking corn fields. There must be a place in Heaven for our farmers because they have so many problems here on earth.

CELEBRATIONS - Kentucky will be bright and noisy three years hence. Our Commonwealth will celebrate in 1974 the 100th anniversary of the founding of Harrodsburg, the first permanent settlement west of the Alleghenies; and the 100th running of the Kentucky Derby. The Kentucky Historical Events Celebration Commission hopes for observances in every city and county, and several million visitors. They're properly planning early as Canada did for its successful Expo '68.

HOW TRUE - Herb Philbrick, who sometimes writes a column in this newspaper, says that government at all levels is taxing people in the same fashion as the dirt. "If I had a cow that gave champagne I'd milk it 20 times a day."

MORE COMING, LESS GOING - Statistics received today gives the answer to the population increase. In 1969 there were 37,443 births in Kentucky, and 32,777 deaths.

CONCLUDING - Surveys are underway to extend the 3,000 foot runway at the Morehead-Rowan County airport to 1 1/2 miles. State and Federal authorities have unearthed that the City and County didn't pay what they agreed to when the airport was built about 10 years ago. We term this "knowing delinquency." Best news of the week is that plans are progressing for the Morehead Recreational complex for which about 400 local citizens put up $100 each to seed money. But, the City may have to issue a quarter-million dollars in revenue bonds to assure the center on what is known as the Sloss property, south of Triplett Creek, near Bridge Street.

Our Secretary points out that we've written three letters to a man whose last name is 'Quick' and haven't received one answer. Regardless of what the ads say the Publisher of this read by everybody newspaper isn't convinced that the smaller cars are larger inside than outside. A woman has just been dubbed the best poker player in the world. Perhaps it's her intention. It's well that the Supreme Court struck down laws against loitering and it's difficult to tell a loiterer from a man hanging around waiting overtime for his wife to meet him. Hubert Humphrey says what the political scene needs is "a man of tomorrow." It's strange that such a statement should have been made by a man of yesterday. Tom Emberton has just released a platform with 15 planks. Look for Wendell Ford to come with a 30 plank platform. It can be said with little risk of contradiction that hot pants have caused an almost complete lack of interest in neckties.

It seems that season after season designers of swim suits for women proceed in the belief that there is no such thing as an irreducible minimum.

IN KOREA - Sg. Randall R. Dennis, 23, has been assigned as a teletypewriter operator with the 2nd Infantry Division in Korea. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Dennis of Inver, and his wife, Sharon, lives at 117 Center St., Morehead.

They didn't spare the rod. But they spoiled the child.

Thousands of children suffer the torments of the damned daily and nightly.

It's called the "dental-baby syndrome." These children are beaten with baseball bats, chains, and anything else parents can get their hands on. They're burned with cigarettes, hot clothes and boiling water.

Some of them live through it. Thousands don't.

Nobody knows all the reasons why this happens. But medical and social agencies are trying to find the answers.

Medical science tells us that some immature parents who have a low level of impulse control consider crying or the crying of diapers by infants as a personal attack.

Other abusive parents, they say, reverse roles with the child. Thus, the attack of the child is really an attack on a part of themselves they don't like. This is tragic enough. But it's compounded itself. Children who survive abusive treatment often grow up to be abusive parents themselves.

Help these children. Every community has agencies that can offer protection to them and help for their parents.

Every case of child abuse should receive immediate attention. If you know of a case, the responsibility to report it is yours.

The children who receive help are the lucky ones. God save the others. From their parents.

Outlook Bright At MSU On Future Enrollment

Although no official figures are released until the latter part of this week there is optimism today on the campus of Morehead State University of an increase in summer school enrollment.

Registration started Monday, and first classes were scheduled Wednesday. The eight-week term ends Friday, Aug. 6.

Coupled with forecasts of a higher summer enrollment, are reports in governmental and political circles that the percentage of out-of-state students may be increased with the blessing of the state capitol. Morehead and Murray, each on the border of other states, were hardest hit, enrollment-wise, by the cutback in students from other states.

Students enrolling for less than six semester hours of summer course work are assessed part-time fees of $11 per hour for Kentuckians and $32 per hour for non-residents. Graduate fees are $14 per hour for 2 per hour for out-of-state students.

Summer theatre allows a student to earn up to six hours in the production of three plays.

MSU's summer commencement is set for Thursday, Aug. 5, at 10 a.m. in Laughlin Fieldhouse.

6,000 Kentucky Employables Get Welfare Payments

Merritt S. Deitz, state Economic Security commissioner, has estimated that 6000 Kentuckians, mostly women, are receiving state welfare payments although they are able to work.

Deitz said there are 35,000 families on the program but "15 to 20 percent are immediately employable without any added training."

The lack of job openings, transportation and day-care facilities for children were reasons given for the persons who cannot work.

The families with dependent-childern caseload continues to grow monthly by 800 persons - 40 percent of these in Jefferson County.

Deitz also said the Medicaid program of free medical benefits for the needy is growing rapidly. He estimated that Medicaid, which is costing $64 million in federal and state funds this year, will rise to $129 million by 1975 under present federal guidelines.

"Any of the several national health insurance plans now before Congress would be preferable to Medicaid," Deitz commented.

He attributed most of the increasing caseload to "broader knowledge of welfare benefits" and to work of outside organizations such as welfare rights groups, Appalachian Volunteers and Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA).

"One of the stated purposes of the National Welfare Rights Organization," said Deitz, "is to overload and harass the existing welfare system and make it so expensive it will collapse, to be replaced by a minimum-income system."

Out-Of-States Pay More

Full-time registration and incidental fees are $75 for Kentuckians and $200 for non-residents. Housing for all students is $72.50 for the entire term.

Also opening Monday was the 1971 Mathematics Institute for Secondary School Teachers and the MSU Summer Theatre program. Starting Wednesday is Linguistics Institute I and the special four-week English program for new freshmen.

The math institute involves 45 high school teachers assigned to senior courses.

The Mature Woman

Have you a problem as a mature woman, or with one? For advice and help, write to Margaret Brookfield, Information Center on the Mature Woman, 3 West 57th Street, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Dear Margaret Brookfield: I don't know what it is about our family, but everyone scraps with everyone else. I fight with my husband. We both fight with the kids. We argue about everything: money, running the house, his mother, my mother, raising the children, his personal habits, my personal habits, you name it. Maybe we're just ought to get boxing gloves and square off at one another. Or is there some better way to settle our differences?

T.W., Williamsburg, Va

your arguments coolly and logically. And be sure to keep that appointment. 1) Once you begin the discussion, get to the point immediately. Say what you think instead of wasting a lot of words. Ventilate your views. But also give the other fellow a chance to have his say and don't try to impose your will on him. (He has as much right to his opinions as you do to yours.) Argue things through to a settlement of some kind. When you walk away from each other, be sure the fight is finished. If not, you can always make an appointment to have another one.

Dear T.W.: According to the experts, some fights are good for you, others are not. They're fine for getting a chip off your shoulder or blowing off steam, but not so good if they damage a person's ego or do lasting harm to a marriage. Instead of boxing gloves, you might want to follow these ground rules for the settling of differences:

First, determine if the fight is necessary. If so, don't square off immediately while tempers are running hot. Instead, pick a later time and place. (By making the appointment in advance you and your adversary will have plenty of time to plan

Dear Margaret Brookfield: My husband never wants to stay home. He always wants to go out, but whenever I suggest things he might like to do, he always says no. Yet he never offers any suggestions of his own. Unless we get an invitation, he hesitates to call people on a last-minute basis. He says they might be too busy to see us. We're getting to be like a couple of hermits. Could you make some suggestions for improving our social life?

J.G., Brattleboro, Vt.

Dear J.G.: Well, someone better do something. Why

Personnel Club Installs Its New Officers

At the last regular meeting of the Rowan County Personnel and Guidance Association the following officers assumed their duties for 1971-72: Danny Thomas, Treasurer; Hazel Whitaker, Secretary; Lois Carter; Historian; Jean Cline, and Vice President; Mabel Barber.

The purpose of the R.C.P.G.A. is to bring together every organization in Morehead and Rowan County for the betterment of Youth in the area.

not make your home the center of your social life? For example, you might have a party and invite everyone you know. The party needn't be elaborate. It should be well thought out and planned in advance, however. (Make a list of things to be done, food and beverages to be bought, etc. Ask your husband to be responsible for some of the chores.) Once you start the ball rolling, people will reciprocate and start inviting you over. An even simpler possibility is to plan a picnic or a trip to a nearby place of interest and ask a few friends or acquaintances to join you. Most people sit around waiting for others to ask them to. If you take the social initiative, you'll find you get a warm response.

Health... for all!

TB is on the decline. Therein lies a danger. Today some physicians see so few cases of TB that they may not recognize the symptoms. The results can be tragic.

In an outbreak of TB in a New York family reported in a recent article in the New England Journal of Medicine, three members who actually had active disease were incorrectly diagnosed by eight different doctors in hospital clinics. The cases were wrongly diagnosed as influenza and viral infections which often have symptoms like TB. Not until one of the family, a teenage girl, collapsed was she rushed to the hospital where a correct diagnosis of advanced TB was made. Her case was complicated, the disease was not susceptible to the usual combination of drugs that treat TB, and the girl died two months after the diagnosis.

When TB is not diagnosed, the disease can be fatal. Deaths from TB, however, have been drastically reduced over the last few decades. Last year 5,300 people died from the disease. Ten years ago, the figure was double that number.

Last year there were also 39,000 new cases diagnosed as active TB. Even with correct diagnosis, many of these people do not receive the right drugs in sufficient amounts for long enough periods. And not all of them have laboratory tests of samples of their sputum to check the progress of the disease. The examination of sputum shows whether or not TB germs are present in the body.

Excellent diagnostic, therapeutic and preventive tools are available to control and prevent TB.

To find out more, contact Kentucky TB and Respiratory Disease Association, 4100 Churchman Avenue, Louisville, Kentucky 40215.

Senior Citizen Problem . . .

Improved Companionship

By Shanna Columbus
An elderly Kentucky gentleman walks 2 1/2 miles a day to eat lunch. His walk is aimed primarily, not to procure food, but to keep from being lonely. He walks daily to his community's Council on the Aging to dine with fellow senior citizens. A lonely Kentucky widow retires every evening fully clothed. She feels dying alone at night with no one to care for her.

Countless Kentucky senior citizens are crying out for companionship and assistance. Many more are in need of medical assistance, proper nutrition, transportation and housing.

Approximately 7500 calls for assistance from senior citizens across the state are received by Kentucky's Commission on Aging and its centers each week. The commission's purpose is to create an awareness and understanding of Kentucky's senior citizens and to assist them in meeting their needs.

Through the establishment of 20 statewide multi-purpose senior citizen centers, the commission works with all departments and agencies, both public and private, to provide services for the aged. The Commission on Aging refers the elderly to state departments and local agencies for answers to their problems.

At the community level, the commission works directly with Kentucky's senior citizens through its project centers. Here, the state's elderly are provided with recreation, educational programs, transportation and employment counseling as well as many other programs and facilities.

State Has 300,000 Elderly

"Through the centers, lonely and withdrawn people receive again the companionship and warmth they long for and need," said Don Valentine, the director of the 16-member commission. "Many develop new talents and skills from volunteers leading the elderly in ceramics, quilting, the arts and interesting hobbies. Senior citizens once again find something to do with their time and people who care."

The commission and its centers provide assistance to 60,000-70,000 of Kentucky's elderly. "There is a serious need, however, to expand programs for the elderly," Valentine said, "for Kentucky has more than 300,000 senior citizens."

Valentine looks to the Governor's Conference on Aging, scheduled for June 22 and 23 at the Phoenix Hotel in Lexington, to provide the main guideline for future plans for Kentucky's aged.

The conference has been called by Gov. Louie B. Nunn as a prelude to the November White House Conference on Aging, announced by President Nixon.

Through work groups discussing nine needs areas for the elderly, such as housing, income, transportation and medical care, state policy proposals will be developed toward national policy on the aging.

Participating in the work groups will be senior citizens, providers of services, lay people and youth.

"Here lies the uniqueness of the conference," said Valentine. "For the first time, elderly persons will be involved in solving their own problems."

"The Governor's Conference on Aging will also help create a greater awareness of the elderly and their needs. And the policy proposals prepared by the conference will hopefully lead to legislation in Kentucky's 1972 General Assembly," Valentine noted. The June conference is open to anyone wanting to attend.

More and more people water their lawn during the summer. It has been estimated that a lawn uses from 2 to 3 inches of water a day or about 180 gallons a day per thousand square feet. To say the least, watering your lawn can be expensive.

Kentucky bluegrass and fescues are not killed by dry weather, but they will become dormant, greening up only after rain. A hose in hand may cool you, but few people have the time and patience to water a whole lawn with one if you do water, be sure to use a good sprinkler, leaving it in place long enough to wet the soil to a depth of 8 to 10 inches. Use a trowel, spade, or soil testing tube to see when the soil is thoroughly wet. Then, refrain from watering for a few days and let the ground dry out so the grass is at its wilting point before watering again. This promotes deep rooting, and grass utilizes available water and plant nutrients better. Remember to water not only improves grass growth, but also encourages weeds. Crabgrass seeds germinate readily when the soil surface is wet and warm. Disease can be another problem. Early morning watering gives grass a chance to dry off during the day and helps discourage spread of disease. If diseases are not a problem in your lawn, water any time during the day.

PESTICIDE LABELS

In the state-federal-industry cooperative program to promote the safe use of ethyl parathion, pesticide dealers are requested to make sure that the purchaser understands the pesticide label. Several years ago a study in Wisconsin showed that the meaning of many of the words that commonly appear on pesticide labels were frequently misunderstood.

As an aid to understanding directions on pesticide labels, we have selected definitions compiled by the Food and Drug Administration and appearing in an Ortho International Newsletter.

ANTIDOTE - Treatment for someone who has been poisoned.

AVOID PROLONGED CONTACT - Do not allow spray to remain in contact with the skin, or do not breathe spray or fumes over a long period of time (usually means hours).

CONTAMINATED - Too much spray on the food, possibly as a result of spillage. The food should not be eaten or sold. Clothing that has gotten a lot of pesticide on it is also contaminated, and warnings against wearing contaminated clothing should be followed.

EMETIC - Something that causes vomiting to get rid of poison in the stomach (antidote).

HAZARDOUS - Dangerous to the persons who use it.

POISON - Can kill insects, animals or humans (selective).

RESIDUES - Chemicals remaining on the crops or in products after application.

Jenny Wiley Musical

The Rodgers and Hammerstein bookend musicals — "Oklahoma!" and "The Sound of Music," a guest artist from the Metropolitan Opera, and the World Premiere of a new musical are among the highlights of the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre 1971 season.

The theatre, located in Jenny Wiley State Park in Prestonsburg, will open its season on June 24 with Rodgers and Hammerstein's first musical, "Oklahoma!" The musical opened in Broadway in 1943 and set the early record as the longest-running Broadway musical. Set in the Oklahoma territory at the turn of the century, "Oklahoma!" concerns the efforts of a handsome cowboy to win his lady love. The score includes "People Will Say We're in Love," "The Surrey with the Fringe on Top," and "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning." Performances are Thursdays through Sundays through July 11.

Jacqueline Pierce of the Metropolitan Opera will play the role of Mother Abess in Rodgers and Hammerstein's last musical, "The Sound of Music." Thursdays through Sundays, July 15 through August 1. Miss Pierce's visit marks the first appearance by Metropolitan Opera artist in a Kentucky stock company. "The Sound of Music" score includes "My Favorite Things," "Climb Every Mountain," and "Do Re Mi."

"Jenny Wiley!" a new musical based on the legendary Kentucky heroine, will have its World Premiere on August 5. Jenny Wiley was captured by Indians and carried into the Big Sandy Valley region on Kentucky in 1787. The story of her exploits and escape from the Indians has become a colorful part of folk legend. The new musical by Benjamin Keaton and Mitch Douglas contains an original score of fourteen musical numbers. Performances are Thursdays through Sundays through August 22.

Women Susceptible... Dreaded Cervical Cancer

The Cervical Cancer Screening Program of the Kentucky State Department of Health began July 1, 1966. It was made possible by a 1966 legislative appropriation.

Cervical cancer screening services are now available in 103 local health departments. During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1970, 22,000 tests were completed and resulted in the detection of 5.4 cases of cervical cancer out of each 1,000 women tested. Cases were detected most often in women between the ages of 26 and 35.

Cervical cancer, which forms at the mouth of the womb, is by far the most frequent of all cancers of the female reproductive organs. Research has shown that it occurs more frequently among married women and women who have borne children. Those who initiate sexual intercourse at an early age are considered to be in the "high risk" group for cervical cancer.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Baldrige left Friday for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Edw. Morgan in St. Petersburg, Fla. and Sgt. and Mrs. C.W. Jones in Summit, N.C.

The Clearfield Tabernacle Missionary Society met June 11 at the home of Mrs. Jean Conn with the president, Mrs. Irene Reynolds, presiding. The devotion was given by Louise Baber and the lesson by Charlotte Workman. Plans were made for Bible School to be held June 21 to June 25. Other members present were Edith Griffith, Emma Hutchison, Rose Hall, Flo Elia Baldrige, Jewell Blevins, Beulah Murphy, Bessie Switzer, Dollie Irvin, Cindy Thomas and Linda Conn.

Cancer of the cervix is not as dangerous as cancer in some of the other organs because it is more easily found and cured. Although cervical cancer is the third leading cause of cancer deaths in women, it is potentially 100 percent curable if detected at an early age. The disease is detectable before any signs or symptoms appear. Indeed it is very important that it be detected before then, as many cases are too advanced to cure by the time symptoms are apparent.

Mrs. Bert McBrayer and Mrs. Oscar Caudill were hostesses for a family dinner Sunday at the Caudill home in Clearfield honoring their father, Mr. Sam Lambert, on his 81st birthday.

Mrs. LeGrand Jayne and Mrs. George Evans were Tuesday business visitors in Huntington, W. Va.

Deaths from cervical cancer have been cut 50 percent in the past 25 years, according to the American Cancer Society. This remarkable decline is due to early detection and prompt treatment.

Mrs. Versie Kissick and Mrs. Frances Alderman presented the lesson, "Food and Nutrition," at the June 8 meeting of the women who met at Mrs. Kissick's home. Other members attending included Mrs. Hazel Black, Mrs. Grace Curtis, Mrs. Edith Hicks, Mrs. Bessie Caudill, Mrs. Nancy Barker, Mrs. Eva Caudill, Mrs. Minnie Patrick, Mrs. Gladys Cooper, Mrs. Inez Caudill and Mrs. Joene Brown.

Miss Robin Razor and Miss Sherry Hill entertained with a going-away party last Friday at the Hill home honoring Miss Jan Grote, who will soon be moving to Michigan.

Mrs. Stella Bristow returned home Sunday from a visit with her son, Ted Croswaithe and family in Bardstow, Mr. Croswaithe accompanied her home.

The baby weighed five pounds, thirteen and one-half ounces and has been named Richard David. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Tom T. Vaughn of Pikeville and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Charles, Morehead. Old enough to ballot, not marry

CHICAGO (UPI) - He may be old enough to vote and to fight, but laws in 42 states require parental consent when an American male under 21 years old wants to get married.

The same is true in 12 states for girls under 21.

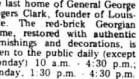

The legal capacity of a person to marry is the same throughout the western world, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, but in the United States the marriage law is the exclusive province of each state.

The statutory age for marriage declines when parental consent is obtained. Under this condition all states permit an 18-year-old male to get married.

For girls the age hurdle is much lower, both with and without parental consent. Such consent is required in all states if a prospective bride is not yet 18. But with approval from home she can be legally married in 35 states if she is only 16.

She could be even younger than 16 in New Hampshire, Alabama, New York, South Carolina, Texas, Utah, Mississippi, North Dakota, Missouri, Oklahoma and Oregon if she has parental consent to wed.

A 16-year-old male with parental consent can be married in 12 states - New Hampshire, Missouri, Colorado, Connecticut, Maine, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Utah. But that's as young as the bridegroom can be, legally.

Weekly Meditation

Man is efficient, but he is not all-sufficient. We need someone above our ability to provide the things we need which are beyond our accomplishments. That One is God, and that way is prayer.

A little boy was helping his father clear a lot. He was trying very hard, but failing to lift a big stone. "Are you using all your strength?" asked the father. "Yes, sir," answered the boy. "No," said his father. "You're not. You haven't asked me to help you."

None of us use all our strength, or live up to all of our privileges, or take advantage of all our means until we have called upon our heavenly Father. Among the privileges given to His children, prayer holds the greatest place. It is immeasurably valuable to the one who prays and those for whom he prays.

Wonderful, is it not, that we can call upon God about all that concerns us, such as: forgiveness and finances, happiness and health, temptation and trouble, family and friends, salvation and sustenance, peace and peace? How much of this has He promised to give us? The minimum? No. The maximum. He said in Psalm 91:15, "He shall call upon Me, and I will answer Him." Do you have a need? Call now!

Strawberry is mixed up

CHICAGO (UPI) - It's enough to shake your gastronomic faith, but strawberries aren't berries, and they don't have anything to do with straw.

"The strawberry fruit in the botanical sense is not a berry," says Encyclopaedia Britannica. "The strawberry is a low-growing herbaceous plant."

Etymologists never have discovered precisely how "straw" got involved, but it is probably that the name goes back to the Anglo-Saxon meaning of straw, which refers to the fruit being "strewn" or spread about by runners or stolons.

However mixed up the name may be, strawberries are wholesome as well as delectable. A handful supplies the adult daily requirement of vitamin C. There's something else about strawberries that dietitians might find appealing - a cupful yields 90 calories.

Vikings Lose Championship Baseball Game By 3-1

THEIR BIGGEST VICTORY . . . Except for pitcher John Ferrell, all the Vikings of Rowan County High would probably be Kentucky baseball champions. Ferrell, of Davies County, joins with teammates in celebration after the third out at Lexington Thursday in the championship game which Rowan County lost 3-1.

R.C.H.S. Players Get Big Welcome From M'head Fans Almost!

The Rowan County High Vikings, 1971 Cinderella team of Kentucky, were on the threshold of capturing the coveted state baseball championship, but lost 3-1 in the final game to Davies County which had a strong pitcher in John Ferrell. The Vikings defeated Mayfield, pre-tourney favorite, by 6 to 1 in the first elimination game at Lexington; then pulled another upset by beating Trinity of Louisville 9-6 in the semi-finals. After Mayfield was upset by the Morehead club, Trinity had been installed the choice to win the schoolboy meet.
Ferrell, directly responsible for all three Davies County victories, summoned energy to fan the side in the final inning of the championship, but said later he doubted if he could go one more inning. He was that tired.
Rowan County landed three players on the all-state tournament team: Billy Bruce Fouch, Terry Fugate and Gary Cisco. The Vikings also attracted the biggest crowds to Lexington's Bernie Shively field; and were the sentimental favorites.

Davies Coach Makes Change

David Crowe started the final game for Davies County, survived several streaks of wildness, and lasted 4 and two-thirds innings. He didn't give up a run, but it was obvious that the strong hitting Vikings were getting to crowe.

Davies County Coach Randy Embry probably won the game in the 5th inning. Although RCHS had not scored, Embry marched to the mound, and summoned Ferrell from his shortstop position to the mound.

It was the third time in three tournament games that Ferrell had been called on in relief. He had received credit for the win in both previous appearances.

Ferrell, like Crowe a senior right hander, was not at his best but Rowan County couldn't adjust to his sidearm delivery.

Knew Crowe Was Tired

"John said his legs were tired," Embry said. "He had been on base several times, which didn't help him any. David's arm was hurting. I didn't know how long he could hold out."

Ferrell said he knew he would have to finish up.
"David said he wanted to go at least five innings," Ferrell said. "He came close enough."

When Crowe left, Davies County had a 1-0 lead.

"That wasn't much breathing room," Ferrell said. "I was nervous right down to the end. But I felt a lot better after the fifth inning."

In the fifth, Davies County picked up two more runs off tiring Rowan County pitcher Terry Fugate. Roger Acton led off the inning with a home run over the right field fence.

Fugate got the next two batters out. Then Ferrell singled, advanced all the way to third on Joe Hodkins' single and scored on another one-base hit by John Church.

The homer was only Acton's second of the season. "It was a high, inside fastball," he said. "My favorite pitch."

Rowan County had three hits - all singles - off Ferrell in the top of the sixth but produced only one run. Gary Ferguson, who started the rally, scored on a single by Gary Cisco.

In the seventh, Ferrell struck out Ken Adams, gave up a single to Billy Fouch, then fanned Walt Casany and Ferguson to end the game.

"I had to be very careful," Ferrell said. "They had some fine hitters. Everyone of them worried me."

Rowan County left nine runners on base. Ted Trent, in his first and last season as the Rowan County coach, lifted Fugate for a pinch hitter in the sixth and John Duff checked Davies County without a hit the final inning.

"Maybe I left Terry in too long," said Trent, who is leaving Rowan County to go back to school and pursue his Master's Degree.

"He said he wasn't tired and I had to believe him. The hits they got off him

VOCAL SUPPORT . . . The 'cheeriest' group at the Kentucky high school baseball tournament was the big contingent from Rowan County High, part of whom are shown in this picture. The Vikings were feted at a big downtown parade on their return Thursday, although losing the final game by 3-1 to Davies County.

Rowan Has 32-7 Record

Rowan County ended its season with a 32-7 record. Davies County finished 35-9.

Davies County was in the tournament for the first time since 1940, when it lost to Newport 17-4 in the final at the Owensboro school, showed little emotion after the game and stood back at a distance, watching his players celebrate.

"We came down here with the idea of winning it," he said.

Rowan County had the biggest cheering section, and fan support, of any team competing in the finals at Lexington.

The team was met at the Morehead Interstate 64 connector on their return Thursday, and escorted through Main Street and University Boulevard by a contingent of horn-blowing fans, led by the Morehead fire department. An estimated 1,000 turned out to pay their respects to RCHS, although the Vikings lost in the final game.

RCHS was the underdog in district play and when they were not favored in the regional and marched through all opposition. Mayfield was picked to beat them in the first game at Lexington but the Vikings won; Trinity of Louisville was picked in the semi-finals, but again the Morehead team won; and in the finals it was considered a toss-up.

Almost . . . that is the story of this great high school club at Morehead. They're the choice to win all the marbles next spring.

Crime Insurance Rates Held Too High In Kentucky

The State Insurance Department has rescinded rate increases won last year by firms writing three-fourths of the crime insurance in the commonwealth.

The department said increases granted the Insurance Services Office, effective Jan. 26, 1970, and the Mutual Insurance Rating Bureau, effective May 12, 1970, were yielding excessive profits.

The department accused firms under the two rating companies of excluding policies in high-crime areas and on businesses hit most often by robberies.

Insurance Commissioner Robert Preston said present crime insurance policyholders may save only about $120,000 under the rescinding order because such little business is being done.

He said savings would be greater if crime coverage were brought under the department's FAIR plan.

Requirements' plan is designed to help businesses or individuals obtain insurance when they otherwise would not be able to do so.

The plan sets up a pool and assigns risks to each firm in proportion to the business that firm does in Kentucky.

ALMOST D-P . . . Rowan County shortstop Steve Martin tags the bag to get Davies County catcher Ernie McCormac and barely missed a double play at first base. This came on a bunt by Bob Zaerner, and Martin's action is typical of the fine defensive play turned in by RCHS.

NEW BRIDGE . . . A move is accelerating for a modern highway connecting the Mountain Parkway and I-64 at Morehead. As a first, although minor, step this bridge on Morgan Park near the Oscar Caudill home and service station, is being re-built to wider standards with new approaches. Workmen started this week on the project. The new highway would follow, to an extent, the path of the Morehead and North Fork railroad from Paragon in Rowan County.

Letters . . . to the editor

The Editor:
Well, I see that the grand jury has again said Rowan County ought to have a new courthouse.

I've been a subscriber for 20 years to the Morehead News, and every so often, I read the same thing about a new courthouse and jail. Why don't you just keep the story and headline in type so that you can run it over and over without having to set the type again?

I'm in good health and don't expect to soon die. But, my bones will be powder before they ever build a new courthouse because the politicians, both democrats and republicans, spend all that tax money for something else.

Isn't it something to see that old courthouse which is much worse inside than out, and then look across a narrow jail at a building at Morehead State University that cost millions of dollars.

It's significant that the pitiful little jail is 20 steps from the University campus. Maybe jails and a college education go hand in hand.

MOREHEAD NEWS
PREDICTION CORRECT

The Editor:
We know you are not too good at picking winners in the Derby or elections, but you did come through on your prediction for the Kentucky Long Rifles in their quest for a third State Championship. Even though we won by only 26 points (which is close for this type of shoot), we felt a keen obligation to uphold our obligation to the best community publisher in the U.S.A.

Your support has not been unnoticed. We do greatly appreciate your support and hope that we can continue to make a contribution to this area.

We hope that we are conservationist and good Americans as well as being shooters and sportsmen. As you know, we have planted over 1,500 trees this year in Rowan County along with other conservation projects. We have and will continue to give our time to participate in special events in our area in order for our young people to see and know how our Forefathers lived and dressed when they were molding this great state. We also are interested in letting people see the kinds of weapons that our great ancestors used to fight for and win the state, mainly the Kentucky Long Rifle.

Again, congratulations on your prediction and thanks for the fine support of the Morehead News.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Findings of a recent study of schizophrenics' indicates that some patients may do better without tranquilizers, the Public Health Service reports in "Schizophrenia Bulletin," a medical journal.

The study, supported by a federal grant, showed patients who did better without tranquilizers were not paranoid and had been socially well-adjusted before becoming mentally ill. When such patients were on tranquilizers they developed and displayed many more symptoms of illness.

Polychester Questions Answered in The Institute of Life Insurance, 277 Park Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10017

Q: I am a recent war widow. I lost my husband in Indochina and I have been left with a good life insurance program. But what would happen to my two children if I were to die? I don't have any life insurance of my own.

A: Why not talk over your problem with your life insurance agent? He can help you with four important points: (1) deciding what you should leave for the care of your children; (2) deciding if you (with a lawyer) about a will and a guardian of your plan; (3) measuring the Social Security benefits available; (4) deciding how much insurance would be needed to fulfill the plan. If all of this worked out he might suggest, for example, a $250 monthly income policy to help care for the children in case of your death. You could set this up through a $25,000 policy with a $250 a month family income rider, which probably would be available (assuming you are not quite 20 years of age) at an annual cost of about $400, or $30 a month if premiums are paid that way.

Q: Can I get into a group life insurance program, even though I am unemployed at the moment?

A: Group life insurance is available to people who do not work for an employer?

A: Many professional societies and fraternal orders, among other organizations, offer life insurance to their members on a group basis. Why not check with organizations you belong to? Possibly there's a program you aren't aware of.

Q: Will you settle this argument between my husband and myself? He keeps insisting that I have been left with a good life insurance program, but I am sure my children will have a hard time surviving on my life. Now I can understand his having life insurance problems, but is there any reason for me to have it, too?

A: A hard thing for all of us to face today is the fact that most of us realize that the death of a wife results in a sizeable financial burden to the family having dependent children. Expenses you see, can run to several thousand dollars a year to pay for the child care, housekeeping, higher taxes, etc., which wife insurance would cover. So face it. This time you are wrong and your husband is right.

FASHIONETTES

By United Press International

Comfort, cool and a handi-craft look is the fashion news in men's footwear this summer, says Gentlemen's Quarterly. The men's fashion magazine shows several pairs of leather sandals all with the hand-sewn look. A pair of studded leather clogs with thick wood soles has rubber strips to prevent slipping.

Leather belts with the hand-made look are being worn by the fashionable man who favors a casual look for the summer.

Ring Give a woman a hand with fashion freedom, letting her roam where she will in the world of springtime. Stones with all the colors of field flowers garland fingers, any number of them in any number of ways. Turquoise, amethyst, garnet, opal, jade and onyx meander along in the ornate, filigreed and delicate settings.

This spring there's a new, plush note to many gold-filled jewelry pieces. They have the designer's touch, an originality and novelty associated with boutique items. All this at gold-filled practical prices.

Animal print and pine of simple, spare shapes are favorites of the teenage girl. Chams are a wardrobe in themselves for her also. She collects them in multiples to hang from rigid necklets, from bracelets, from ribbons, from belts.

The teenage girl prefers larger sizes in earrings, in her beloved pierced ear style, please.

Around her wrist the teenager likes bangle bracelets in profusion. She likes them in a row, mixing white and yellow golden tones, white and yellow gold filled, polished and matte finishes, and a flourish of textures. The Jewelry Industry Council says so.

Poke Sallet Favorite Mountain Dish

By Helen Price Stacy

A four-year-old lad of the Eastern Kentucky hills surprised his mother by bringing her an armload of leafy plants with the respect that she cook them. The mother, a bit puzzled, was enlightened considerably when her son revealed that "mam-maw cooks 'em and I likes 'em."

Poke greens is to Harlan County, Ky., what the Indy 500 is to Indianapolis or the Buffalo Bill Roundup is to Cody—reason enough for lots of folks to gather at a given place to enjoy their thing. In the case of Harlan, it's eating heaping platters of poke sallet at the annual Poke Sallet Festival June 25-27.

There's no doubt that Harlan Countians stand No. 1 in the nation when it comes to preparing these delectable Kentucky greens that Webster calls "pokeweed." And there's no doubt that mountaineers could manage to survive in spring if left to the elements; in fact, they could eat "high on the hog" if they could find some poke for a sallet.

Most times, they take the sallet straight, but this, they agree, might be a bit strong to the uninitiated. So the good cooks in a bit of dandelion, some soft white, sour dock, mustard tops and, if it's late in the season, turnip greens that are in the season.

Green pickers have always presented a beautiful picture. Seeing a group of women with aprons and old metal dispensing cans leading a little one or two by the hand as they walk to the fields to pick greens is not at all unpleasant.

In olden days the scene was a common one in spring when families sometimes raced to see which could be first to have a "mess of creasies." Creasies, it is said, grow only on new ground, but later in spring when tender green shoots of poke begin to punch through earth, poke can be seen growing in abundance.

A few mountain women were asked how they cooked a mess of poke. One said after the greens were carefully washed she boiled them in a kettle of water about 10 minutes. Then she lifted the greens with a fork from the kettle to a black iron skillet in which was a tablespoon or two of bacon drippings.

"Even better than bacon drippings," she offered, "is saving leftover scraps of fried ham fat to put in the skillet with the poke." A few minutes simmering in the skillet and they're ready for the table.

Cornbread, Onions, Butter milk

Another said she cooked them direct in the skillet and when tender, she heaped the poke onto a deep platter or into a bowl and laced the greens liberally with vinegar. Another said she was sorry to say that since living in a city for 45 years she had acquired the habit of slicing boiled eggs to "fancy" up a dish of greens.

The word "fancy" is unknown in connection with a plate of true mountain poke sallet. Maybe the word would be used to describe a woman's dress, but other than high fat or bacon, and sometimes vinegar, poke sallet comes to the table undressed and unadorned. To round out the true hill cuisine would be a pone of cornbread, green onions and buttermilk.

Some people shy away from gathering poke because if they aren't good for you," Hill children grow up knowing not to eat pokeweed—they can use the purple juice as body paint and even as ink, but not as something edible. But lots of nature has its taboos - and most hill people know them, even to what mushrooms to gather from the woodland.

Some of the greens that along with poke have kept mountain people healthy and well fed are speckled John, lamb's quarters, field sorrel, wild lettuce, sour dock, dandelion, sow thistle, violet, plantain and white top. "I always mix field daisy in my greens," said a Morgan County woman, adding "before the flowers come on."

Healthful, nutritious and delicious poke sallet is not all that a spring festival has to offer. There's lots of mountain string music, high school band music and entertainment.

Thought For Food

For a creamy garlic dip, blend 1 cup dairy sour cream and 1/2 teaspoon garlic salt. Cover tightly and refrigerate until ready to serve. Yields 1 cup.

Here's another popular dip. Blend 1/2 cup prepared mustard, 1/2 cup of dressing, 1 teaspoon prepared horseradish. Cover tightly and refrigerate until ready to serve. Yields 1/2 cup.

Combine 1 cup shredded sharp cheddar, 1/2 cup mayonnaise, and 2 teaspoons prepared mustard. Spread the mixture generously on 4 frankfurter rolls. Broil slowly until hot and melted. Top each roll with 1 broiled frankfurter. Makes 4 sandwiches.

Want to please the kids? Make your own sodas with vanilla ice cream, milk and root beer.

For patio entertaining, here's a savory sardine canape. Open and drain can of Norway sardines. Mash the sardines and blend with a little horseradish and mayonnaise. Spread on toasts, crispie of cocktail crackers. Decorate with radish rosette or sprig of parsley. Refrigerate until party time.
