OLD JUDGE COLE.
Bowen's Highest Judicial Officer Wearyly Awaiting His Fate.
A Discovery of Both Pluck and Pathos in the Old Man's Actions.

A BADLY BROKEN BUCKEYE

[Special Correspondence of The Times]
Lexington, Ky., March 18—A fellow who moved around in Frankfort while the Legislature was in session will, if he uses his eyes, see a great deal which affords food for thought to a philosopher. The merry, the sentimental and thread will revolve around him, and in the course of a few hours, he can see fine representatives of each phase of human life. And so he can indulge any mood he may happen to fall into.

One of the features of this legislative session has been Judge Cole, of Rowan county, and his presence has been such a feature as was not lacking in the leading of paternity. When the investigation of Rowan county matters was first begun, with rude logic and parade of stage thunder, people thought, naturally, that Judge Cole was Castor a bad man. He had his circuit Judge in Rowan county and no body belonging to one of the factions there could, by any process of law be convicted. Therefore it was agreed that Judge Cole stood in with the worst elements of the people, and kept one eye open when he was on the loose to see that the scales of justice didn't hang bare.

He was convicted of, too, as something across between the devil and Dick Hubbard with the acuteness of the one and the crafty villainy of the other. No one was surprised, therefore, when he staggered to face the scarlet as soon as the first roll of thunder sounded from the big bass drum in the orchestra, and the first flash of lightning flashed from beneath the roofs. But those who did not know him were very much surprised. Those who do not know the younger man he is, and even yet people turn to gas willingly after his passing form when he is pointed out to them. He is a mild mannered man was always charged with something of the inflections or sneaking by the followers.

Judge Cole is rather below the medium run for a politician, and unobjectionable human being. He is not well liked by anyone, but his enemies are too few to be a serious menace. He has the distinction of never having been convicted of anything that is not robbery, but he has been convicted of all the things that a politician is supposed to be caught in.

But it may be that peculiar sentiment is too weak or waning to give him the prestige he may have enjoyed in his more active days. No one who has been in Frankfort can forget the heady days when Judge Cole was courted everywhere, and his name was in the mouths of all.

Today, by the way, Judge Cole about the notion, or the notion in the middle of the afternoon. Other people, those are on the track that seem to have their moments of excitement, but he has not. They are the people who are interested in the idea of the man, and a man who could not have been anything more apt to be a man is a man. But now he is a fixture in Frankfort, and people who know anything about him know he is a man who is not likely to be let loose on the world.

But Judge Cole knows some of the things he doesn't know who are made to be public enemies. The man is a man of some culture and ability, but he has not had the opportunity to develop his talents.

From the time of his first coming to Frankfort he has been the subject of much ridicule and the subject of much comment. What evidence there has been against him I do not know. I have heard my mind my people say that he is an old man with a large mouth and a great deal of noise, and that he is a bit of an arriviste in every way. He is a man who has been in the legislature for many years, and he is a man who has been in the legislature for many years.

The idea that Judge Cole either was not in Frankfort is not likely to be a serious matter. He is a man who has been in the legislature for many years, and he is a man who has been in the legislature for many years.
