Enrollment At MSU Is 5,707

Registration 52 More Than At The Same Time Last Year

Spring term enrollment at Morehead State University has held up better than forecasted by policy administrative officials.

The final enrollment figures, released today to the Morehead News, show the registration for the term that started 10 days ago to be 5,707.

The first term (fall) registration at the University was 6,255. So, the drop is 548, or 8.8 percent.

The second semester always has fewer students than the first, and MSU President Adron Doran thought the decrease might be to 10 percent. He said the 8.8 percent loss is "gratifying... better than expected."

The 5,707 spring term registration includes only "on campus, in-residence" students. Some other schools have been including those enrolled in extension and correspondence courses in their enrollment figures.

MSU enrollment for the second semester of last year was 5,655. So, there is an increase of 53 students over the same time in 1971.

RESTING SCRIBE... The registration lines were jammed at times as 5,707 students enrolled for the second (spring) semester at Morehead State University. The News photographer came across one - Richard Hobbs, sophomore - who solved the congested problem by finding the floor made an excellent desk.

Slumping Eagles Will Invade East Tennessee

Morehead State University's young basketball team goes back on the road this weekend in hopes of establishing itself as a contender in the Ohio Valley Conference race.

Coach Bill Harrell's Eagles, now 7-6 overall and 2-2 in the league, journey to Johnson City, Tenn. for a Saturday night date with East Tennessee's Buccaneers, now 6-8 and 1-3.

"It'll be a tough row to hoe," Harrell said this week. "East Tennessee has one of the best home court records in the conference and they had a good effort in Monday night's win over Murray."

MSU also made a comeback Monday night with a 64-63 win over Middle Tennessee which broke a two-game losing streak. Two nights earlier, the Eagles missed seven critical free throws in the bonus situation and dropped a 79-74 squeaker to Western Kentucky.

"We need a real strong game down there to reassure ourselves that we can play championship basketball in spite of our inexperience," Harrell added.

The Eagles - starting four sophomores and a junior - have been up and down through the first half of the season.

Harrell, who worried aloud in pre-season workouts that inconsistency might be a problem this year, has seen his prophesy upheld.

"We've had trouble figuring things out ourselves at times," he said. "Young players look great some times and then suddenly look like young players again."

If the Eagles are to make a run for the OVC crown, their schedule requires a strong home showing in the next three weeks.

Following Saturday night's appearance at East Tennessee, they come back to Morehead for a Monday night clash with Tennessee Tech, the surprise team in the OVC.

The Tech date opens a five-game home series which involves four conference schools. Sandwiched in the middle is a road trip to Toledo on Feb. 9.

Following Tech into Laughlin Fieldhouse are Eastern Kentucky on Feb. 5, Indiana State on Feb. 7, Austin Peay on Feb. 12 and Murray State on Feb. 13.

"We feel we're very much a part of the race," Harrell said. "These young men don't want to wait to be a contender next year and the year after. They want to make some noise as sophomores."

Leonard Coulter, a 6-5 sophomore forward, remains the team's scoring and rebounding leader with averages of 22.4 points and 15.2 rebounds. Eugene Lyons is second in scoring with 14.7 per game and Ron Nicholson is the rebounding runner-up with 9.9 per outing.

EXPENSIVE MESS... A hundred feet of I-64 dropped 10 feet Sunday near the Owingville-Frenchburg interchange, 20 miles west of Morehead, leading to reports a large segment will be rebuilt. Highway workers expect to open, perhaps today, a detour via the westbound lane, shown at right in this aerial view taken Monday by Billy Davis, Louisville Courier-Journal photographer.

Morehead Business Leader, J. Roger Caudill, Claimed

Morehead lost one of its most prominent citizens Friday as J. Roger Caudill, business, civic and church leader, passed away at Central Baptist Hospital in Lexington. He was 55 years of age.

Mr. Caudill, President of the Peoples Bank of Morehead, became ill at his Morehead home, 207 East University Boulevard, Tuesday evening, January 11.

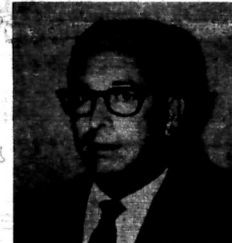

On Saturday, January 15 he was rushed to the Lexington hospital, suffering from pneumonia.

Antibiotics, and every known treatment concurred in by many Lexington doctors, failed to curb the acute illness, as his condition weakened. He passed away at 5:39 Friday evening and the cause of death was given as viral pneumonia.

Few people have been so prominent in the Morehead community as Mr. Caudill.

He was Chairman of the Utility Plant Board, and spearheaded vast improvements, and modern techniques in the system which governs the city gas, water and sewerage systems. More recently, he spoke out against inadequacies of the sewerage disposal system warning that sewage was emptying into Triplett Creek at peak periods. His plea bore fruit a month ago when the State Department of Health moved in, and the City announced a $2½ million long-range expansion for the treatment system.

Mr. Caudill served on multiple community organization, most as a policy official. Two years ago he was Co-Chairman

Nixon Puts $8,800,000 For Cave Run In Budget

A whopping $8,800,000 was placed this week in the budget by President Nixon for continued construction of Cave Run dam and reservoir.

It is the largest single amount recommended to Congress for the massive earthen structure on Licking River, about 12 miles from Morehead.

Congressman Carl D. Perkins told the Morehead News "he had no doubt but that the money will be voted by the Congress."

Perkins also said he would personally testify before the House Appropriations Committee for the big appropriation. Perkins thought Congress would okay whatever the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers sought "because Cave Run dam has had high priority from the beginning."

The dam and reservoir are expected to Free Gasoline!

Bloodmobile Will Be In Morehead, Near Courthouse, Next Tuesday

Here's your chance for free gallons of gasoline, free.

The Ashland Oil and Refining Company is giving that amount of gas to every donor Tuesday when the Red Cross bloodmobile visits Morehead.

No appointment is necessary - all one has to do is show up at the mobile unit Tuesday between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. The bloodmobile will be parked front of the Military Science Bldg. at Morehead State University, a block north of the courthouse.

Although the response was good at the last bloodmobile visit, the Rowan blood bank remains low.

Engineers Say Entire Segment May Be Rebuilt

The highway department has rushed in additional manpower and equipment to construct a detour around the eastbound lane of Interstate 64 near Owingville, which collapsed over the weekend.

The break, bigger in Kentucky since the interstate was built, is two-tenths of a mile west of the Owingville-Frenchburg interchange (Ky. 36) about 19 miles west of Morehead.

Since Sunday evening traffic has been routed via U.S. 60, from Mt. Sterling through Owingville.

It will be weeks, maybe months, before the road collapse is cleared, and the east lane operative. Engineers believe that an entire section of I-64 south of Owingville may have to be re-routed and re-built.

The highway department is today rushing work on the detour so that all traffic can be routed on the westbound lane, thereby avoiding the U.S. 60 detour.

About 100 feet of earth, weakened by recent rains, fell 10 feet or more. Another 400 feet also gave, taking with it the guardrails.

Highway engineers have had the area under close surveillance for weeks. This place, and one nearby, have long been classified as "danger spots. In 1967, during construction of I-64 through Bath County, a major earth slide occurred a mile east of the Frenchburg interchange.

The outer parts of the eastbound lane where the highway collapsed has been closed for several days as the earth movement was detected.

There were no accidents as the eastbound lane was closed at 5 p.m. Sunday after the roadway dropped a foot.

Garr Jackson, operating engineer from the district highway office at Flemingsburg, said this segment of the interstate, completed in 1966, had been in a "minor stage of slipping" for six months. Engineers fear that the same thing could happen to other parts of the highway in the south Owingville vicinity, and have been conducting a survey. So, the extent of damage can't be estimated with a possibility of rebuilding the stretch.

Last year a landslide buried a part of the interstate east of Morehead. But, a landslide is not considered serious as compared with "land collapses" as at Owingville.

Jackson said the earth movement this week "is the biggest mess I have seen in all the years I have been with the highway department."

Highway workers were trying to repair the segment at the time it started sinking.

Bids On Housing Due Today

The Housing Authority of Morehead will convene at 2 o'clock this (Thursday) afternoon to open and review bids for 100 units of elderly housing.

Turkey proposals will be accepted at a meeting in the recreation room (basement) of the Peoples Bank.

Advance estimates are that it is a $2 million project.

A "turnkey" job means that the developer secures the site and submits the plans with his dollar bid, all in one package.

Only two site proposals were received prior to the January 7 deadline for submitting this part of the proposal.

One of the sites offered for $90,000 is 11.56 acres at Spoke Factory Lane, principally owned by Alpha M. Hutchinson and W.E. Crutcher, but also taking land from Thurman Adams and Boone Hollan, Jr.

The other at $45,000 an acre is 12 to 16 acres further west in the vicinity of the W.M.O.R. tower, owned by Lee Clay Products.

Both of the sites offered were not acceptable until Triplett Creek was widened and straightened, taking this land out of the flood zone. Shortage of land has long curtailed federal low rent housing at Morehead.

Today's bid opening does not mean the

CITY COUNCIL OFFICIALLY CHANGES MEETING DATE

It's official that the City Council of Morehead will hereafter meet the second Wednesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. The ordinance changing the regular meeting published (legal) in this issue of the Morehead News.

Council has, for many years, had its regular meetings the second Tuesday in the month. Council members changed it to Wednesday, as "business could better be expedited in the middle of the week."

260 Rowan Vets Will Get Insurance Money

Between now and the end of June a total of $18,000, approximately, will be distributed to some 260 war veterans in Rowan County.

The payment, representing dividends due them under their GI insurance policies, is being accelerated by the government.

Normally, when such dividends are declared, they are paid on the anniversary dates of the policies and stretch out over an entire year.

Under the speedup this year, local veterans of World War I and World War II who are holders of such policies will share in a record distribution amounting to $286 million, the veterans Administration announces. It is $11 million more than was ever paid before.

Most of the recipients are holders of National Service Life Insurance, issued to those who served in the second World War. The others who will share are veterans of the first World War who hold U.S. Government Life Insurance policies.

Those who saw service solely in the Korean War or in other engagements will not participate in this distribution because of the type of insurance they hold.

The 260 men and women in Rowan County who will be on the receiving end constitute about 25 percent of the World War veterans in the local area. The total, according to the latest VA tabulation is 1,050.

Just how much each veteran will get depends upon the size and age of his policy and the kind of insurance he holds. The general average, for those who were in World War I, is $135 and, for others, $68.

The Louisville district of the Army engineers told the Morehead News two weeks ago the target date for completion of the dam is the summer of 1973.

Some contracts remain to be awarded, mostly roads throughout the Licking valley in Rowan, Bath, Menifee and Morgan counties.

The dam will create Kentucky's fourth largest lake.

A $2 million fish hatchery below the dam site is under construction.

Classroom Open House Set At Morehead Grade

Open house in the classrooms will be observed when the Morehead Grade School Parent Teacher Association meets Monday and Tuesday nights.

January 31 at 7:30 p. m. After a business meeting in the school cafeteria, parents will visit their children's rooms and discuss with the teachers what the children are doing. Various projects will be on display.

A gift will be presented to the room with the largest number of parents-enrolled in PTA, according to Mrs. William Richardson, membership chairman.

LAWMAKING IS BORING... Senator Carroll Hubbard, D-Morehead, brought his two year old daughter to the Kentucky General Assembly, but Kelly Lynn preferred to play with her doll than listen to legislative speeches and roll calls. Senator Hubbard is a frequent Morehead visitor.

Ginger Forecasts Rise In Pay Of Teachers

State School Supt. Dr. Lyman Ginger told a meeting of the Kentucky School Boards Assn. in Lexington that Gov. Wendell H

Ford's biennium budget will contain a 12 percent salary increase for teachers.

He said salaries would be increased six percent in each of the next two years in accordance with a policy approved earlier by Governor Ford.

Ginger said the budget also will include:

- +Provision for vocational and special education under the Minimum Foundation Act.
- +Increasing the teacher's insurance policy program for $2,000 to $5,000 per teacher.
- +Funds for planning and opening a statewide kindergarten program.

"I know it (the salary increase) is not all the teachers wanted," Ginger said. "Some wanted 18 percent but that is not realistic."

"We should move education forward on many fronts not just in teacher's salaries."

Patty Skaggs Is Finalist For Advertising Award

The National Advertising Retail Conference announced today that a former Moreheadian, Mrs. Clayton Z. Skaggs, is a finalist for one of its most coveted awards.

Mrs. Skaggs is one of the three finalists in the category of "Department Store Institutional Advertising."

The spirited competition is among all the retail department stores in the nation, including the big chain operations.

Mrs. Skaggs, the former Patty Crutcher, is advertising manager of McAlpin's Stores in Lexington, Kentucky's largest single newspaper advertiser.

The three finalists now vie for the national championship award, to be announced Feb. 6.

In the advertising field, this is akin to winning an Emmy or Oscar in the entertainment world.

Association; former President of the Morehead Chamber of Commerce; and Chairman and member of the Board of Trustees of the Methodist Church. He was also Chairman and a member of the Rowan County Selective Service Board.

He was a charter member of Morehead Kiwanis; and a member of Maysville Country Club, The Keeneland Club, Spindletop Foundation; and many banker organizations.

Supported UK and MSU

A democrat, Mr. Caudill was Treasurer of several campaigns in Rowan County.

Perhaps his strongest support was in the field of higher education. He not only held a policy post at University of Kentucky, but was a strong and logical booster of Morehead State University.

Besides being President of the bank, Mr. Caudill, with partners, engaged substantially in subdivision development and real estate. His associates in these considerable financial undertakings were the late Claude Brown, and William Whitaker.

One of his greatest attributes in finance and as a business leader was Mr. Caudill's philosophy to never stand still; and keep abreast of the rapidly changing times. This was solidly demonstrated in 1946, when he advocated one of the most modern bank buildings in Kentucky. The present Peoples Bank of Morehead, whose erection he almost personally supervised, is often pictured as a model for the nation.

Known in financial circles as a solid, modern and progressive banker, he installed more closed circuit TV drive-in facilities than usually found in banks in a city this size; and ample controlled parking for customers.

The Peoples Bank, under his leadership, became one of the first community banks to turn to fully computerized record keeping. Two years ago he signed the papers that made the PeoplesAmericor Center, usually reserved for larger city banks.

Fraternity's White Rose Ceremony

Funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Morehead Methodist Church by Pastor Larry Bunkirk. The church was filled long before the services and the crowd overflowed on Main Street. There were so many floral offerings, including a large number from out of town, that flowers were banked and spread throughout the church and at the burial plot in Caudill cemetery.

Members of the Sigma Chi fraternity, University of Kentucky chapter, paid their last respects with the fraternal white rose ceremony at graveside. While in college Mr. Caudill was a Sigma Chi officer, and remained a strong supporter and benefactor of the fraternity.

Mr. Caudill was born at Morehead July 7, 1916, son of the late Cornelius P. Caudill and Myrtle (Whitaker) Caudill. He received his grade school and high school training at University of Breckinridge.

Following graduation from high school, he attended Morehead State University, and then enrolled at the University of Kentucky where he graduated in 1940. His specialized training at the higher education level was in business and banking, the career he had charted for himself.

A Lieutenant in the Navy during World War II, he was stationed for two years in Alaska.

While in the Navy, Mr. Caudill met Terry in Droagan and they were married at the Methodist Church in her hometown of Linden, N.J. Feb. 10, 1946.

Immediate survivors besides his wife are two sons - Don W. Caudill, a student at University of Kentucky; and James R. Caudill who will graduate this spring at Morehead State University.

Mr. Caudill liked sports, particularly golf which he often played. His sons are skilled in athletics, and have won many golf awards and tournaments. He was particularly proud their participation in sports, and was never too busy to talk about the tournaments in which Jim and Don engaged.

He was a particularly strong booster of the Seven more bills in Gov. Wendell H. Ford's consumer protection package have been introduced in the House of Representatives by Majority Leader John Swinford, D-Cynthiana, and Rep. Terry McBrayer, D-Greenville.

In a prepared statement Governor Ford said, "I have every confidence that the General Assembly will decide in the best interest of the consumer as well as the legitimate businessman."

Two other bills in the governor's package already have been introduced in the Senate. If enacted, the House bills would:

- Require foods sold by weight to be marked with the selling price and the price per measure.
- Prohibit the use of referral selling to induce the day they were first offered for sale.
- Eliminate incentives for using balloon payments in consumer loan or credit transactions by enabling a debtor to refinance without penalty any scheduled payment more than twice as large as the average of earlier scheduled payments.

Football and basketball teams at Morehead State University and the University of Kentucky.

Outside of Morehead, Mr. Caudill's chief business and social interests centered in the Lexington area where he had many close and prominent friends.

He began his banking and business career as a young man in 1938. Between his school work at MSU and UK, he worked, without title, in the bank beginning to learn the business.

Following graduation from UK he again reentered the bank, mostly for training, in 1941 and 1942.

Following discharge from the Navy and marriage, he returned to the Peoples Bank of Morehead as Assistant Cashier and served in that capacity until 1963, when he was elevated to Vice President.

He assumed the bank Presidency in 1965 on retirement of his father.

Mr. Caudill's mother passed away in 1950; also his father on Dec. 7, 1961.

Lane Funeral Home cared for the arrangements. Thousands of friends called to pay their respects at the funeral home where the remains lay in state.

Fans Stand In Silent Prayer For Mr. Caudill

Morehead State University President Adron Doran ordered the late J. Roger Caudill Saturday night at Laughlin Fieldhouse just before the MSU-Western game. Mr. Caudill, a prominent Morehead businessman, died last week. He was a longtime supporter of the University and its athletic programs.

The text of Dr. Doran's eulogy - "One of the most outstanding young businessmen of this community, Roger Caudill, died last night. He was one of the most loyal, devoted, and consistent supporters of all athletics in which the Eagles represented Morehead State University. At the basketball games he occupied a seat in the middle section on the south side of the gym next to the aisle across from where I stand. Many of you who are here tonight may not have known him personally, but you who attend the games regularly, will remember his voice which always sounded out at the close of Mignon's playing The National Anthem - "GO GET 'EM BIG BLUE!"

"May I ask all of you to join me in a moment of silent meditation in memory and in honor of Roger Caudill."

The noodle goes exotic in Hawaii

By RUTH YOUNGBLOOD HONOLULU (UPI) — A Hawaii businesswoman wants American supermarkets to make room on their shelves for a multi-purpose Oriental noodle.

Yoshio Yanagisako is ready to bring the long, thin noodles called saimin, a familiar dish at Hawaiian luaus and a popular everyday food here, to people who would like to sample some traditional island fare at little cost.

"You've got Italian pizza selling like crazy in Japan, Mexican tacos being sold all over the U.S. mainland and kosher meats making a big bit in Hawaii," Yanagisako said. "Why not sell saimin on the mainland?"

A Honolulu resident of Japanese ancestry, Yanagisako is no stranger to the noodle business. He founded the Island Noodle Factory in Honolulu 26 years ago. He's been its president ever since and estimates he has about 75 per cent of the local institutional saimin market through hotels, restaurants and saimin stands.

"I've been thinking about bringing saimin to the mainland for 15 years," Yanagisako said. "But it took this long to get together enough money."

"During that time I've received many letters from people who had moved from Hawaii and missed saimin. It's delicious, it's low priced and it can be eaten at any meal or in between."

Early popularity
Saimin has been popular in the Hawaiian islands since the arrival of the Japanese and Chinese.

Yanagisako's saimin is packaged in a colorful, plastic bag which contains the already cooked noodles, made from wheat flour, and an Oriental soup base, for 25 cents. All the housewife has to do is add about 1-1/2 cups of water to the noodles and base and bring it to a boil.

Island youngsters frequently eat saimin as a snack, and saimin stands are popular carnival attractions. It can be served as a soup entrée, as a main course by mixing it with beef, pork, vegetables, mushrooms or shrimp, as a snack or even for breakfast.

"Saimin is as filling as you want it to be," Yanagisako said. "Eating it plain won't fill you up much and it's not fattening. But combine it with your favorite meat, and you have a complete meal."

Yanagisako believes saimin should be particularly appealing to housewives on a budget because a lot can be done with it at little cost. The exotic touch it adds to any meal would make it appealing among all economic brackets, Yanagisako said.

Yanagisako has set up a saimin manufacturing plant in Las Vegas, Nev., and he has reached an agreement with a Los Angeles firm for national distribution.

He plans demonstrations in supermarkets to introduce U.S. mainlanders to the delights of saimin. The demonstrators, clad in muumuu, the long, colorful, flowing dresses worn in the islands, will give out samples of the cooked, noodle and answer questions about its preparation.

Does Your Present Home Seem Small Because Your Family Is Growing?

The growing of a family offers the thought of a new and larger home. Let us help you find the home you want. Just having a home is not just finding one you like and making the purchase. It takes careful consideration. "How the home fulfill your needs now and in the future" is the first question to ask. "How the best possible materials been used in the construction" Will the heating and cooling system handle the home without hot and cold spots? These are just a few of the many questions and problems you will have when buying a home that Alpha Hutchinson will help solve.

MEMORIES BY THE OLD TIMER

From Orls Heideberg, Maysville, Ky.: I remember, when I was a real small boy, we had one-room schools. If you lived in the country, they were very scarce and quite a distance away. We had to walk over a mile. This was during the last few years of the 19th century. The winters were very cold and there was plenty of snow. Sometimes the neighbors would have to get the team out and drag the roads so the children could get to school.

The school room was heated with a large pot belly stove. The houses those days were mostly shacks and hard to heat. When you arose in the morning and the fire was out and you didn't have any matches, you would have to get dressed in the cold and go to your neighbor to borrow some matches. And the nearest neighbor was often quite a distance away.

Little money was used in those days. If you lived in the country, you would take whatever produce you had to the store, which was sometimes ten miles away or more. There, you would trade it for whatever you needed, such as coffee or sugar.

Ridiculed Trappers Hudson's Bay Company trappers were the first Europeans to see Plains Indians hunting buffalo from horseback. Their accounts were ridiculed by officials and settlers convinced that Indians couldn't ride.

AT RCHS. - Debbie Creech, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Creech, has been elected cheerleader of the week at Rowan County High. A senior, Debbie was also homecoming queen.

Shop in your home community

Do discounts cover the extra cost of getting there?

Do you really save money shopping outside our home business community? When you consider gasoline, oil, tires, depreciation, repairs, parking, investment in time and money - do so-called "big city discounts" really cover the cost of getting there?

Unless you enjoy the confusion and frustration of off-ramps, on-ramps, diamond, cloverleaf and one-way directional flow interchanges, we suggest you save your tension, time and money. Shop at home.

Church News

Rev. Larry Buehler, This Month's Editor

Compiled weekly by the Morehead Ministerial Association. This column is available, without charge, to recognized churches. Copy must be submitted to Editor (name below) for that particular month. Do not submit copy to The Morehead News.

METHODIST - A Fellowship Tea, given by the Women's Society of Christian Service will be held on Sunday, January 30, 3:00-5:00 p.m. in the Dorothy Holbrook Room in the Church. This will be a time of fellowship and getting acquainted for all the women of the church.

Dedicated Christians are needed who are willing to serve as counselors in connection with the showing of the Billy Graham film, For Pete's Sake. Special training and instructions will be given at the following dates: Jan. 27, Feb. 3, 10, 17. Time: 7-8:00 p.m. Place: United Methodist Church Sanctuary. Instructor: David Book, MSU Baptist Student Minister.

UNITED PENTECOSTAL - The Morehead United Pentecostal Church is scheduled to conduct the afternoon service at the Rest Home this Sunday at 4 p.m.

The church has helped sponsor the International Broadcast "Harvestime" since it was started in 1960. The Broadcast is heard over 350 radio stations around the world.

The Morehead United Pentecostal Church also helps sponsor another nationwide program called "Christmas for Christ." This is a program dedicated to the establishment of churches in every state in America.

Teachers and Substitute teachers at Morehead UPC are involved in a teaching process that involves every member present.

HAYS CROSSING - The Hays Crossing United Pentecostal Church serves the following communities: Haldeman, Hays Branch, Big Perry, Little Perry, Glen Wood, Bear Skin, Buffalo, Sens Branch, Elliottville, Gates, and Hays Crossing. Special services are being planned for 1972 with guest speakers.

The Hays Crossing UPC commonly called the "Cobblestone Church in the Wood" is continuing to receive publicity for its setting and construction.

Weekly Meditation

A member of a religious organization of robbers in the Orient had been arrested and cast into prison. There a missionary visited him. He presented the Lord and His Word to him and the murderer professed conversion.

When he appeared before the judge he testified that he had been brought up to be a worshipper of Kali and he fully believed that by shedding the blood of each victim he pleased his Hindu goddess and won her favor.

Then with a broken heart he confessed murder after murder in which he had been engaged. When he completed his testimony the judge cried, "How could you be guilty of enormities like these?"

Taking a Bible from his pocket and holding it up, he answered, "Had I but received this Book sooner, the Book of Jesus, my Savior whom I now worship, I would not have done it."

Worship an evil goddess or god and man will live an evil life. But worship a holy God and man will live a holy life. So man is urged in Psalm 99:5, "Exalt the Lord our God, and worship at His footstool; for He is holy." Are you worshipping the holy God?

This newspaper has long bemoaned the obvious complacency in the Morehead community, and the long existing "let the other fellow do it" when anything is controversial or turns from glittering generalities to gruesome details, another way of saying dedication, hard work and personal sacrifice of time and money.

At the same time we have been high in our praise of "the few individuals" whose names are found with almost every major successful local and area accomplishment. We have mentioned the quality of our community leadership, saying at the same time we are lacking in quantity.

One of our all too few Morehead leaders has passed on, almost at the prime of his career and service, J. Roger Caudill, President of the Peoples Bank, died Friday. We could write on and on about personal friendship with Mr. Caudill, golfing games, vacationing together, and many fond memories that make the authoring of such as this so difficult.

Roger Caudill had the one great leadership trait that most lack - he spoke and acted with firmness whether it be the expedient position, or publicity popular. Once convinced he was right, he Caudill would take a stand, and hold that position.

He was not theully-dailying, stalling, delaying type of man who waited to see how the wind blew. He was forthright in thought, action, and speech.

Another demonstrated quality of leadership was that the late President of the Peoples Bank did not concern himself with small matters. He thought and focused his activities on that which was important and best for his native people.

A recent example is the Morehead Utility Plant, Board of which Mr. Caudill was Chairman so many years ago. He was completely committed, although it would have been more popular with City Hall and the community to bury the sordid truth, that the sewage treatment plant was a hodge-podge, inadequate and raw human filth was pouring into Triplet Creek at the city limits. He said that an expenditure of $2½ million was mandatory, and he said it at a time when this community is fast to everything from the City announced plans for the treatment plant, although nobody knows where the money will come from.

Two years ago Mr. Caudill, although overtaxed with business problems, agreed to serve as Co-Chairman of the fund drive for the $2½ million expansion of St. Claire Medical Center. He could never digress, why every citizen deserves a contribution.

Roger Caudill abhorred slackers, community complacency, or "let the other fellow do it."

His support of Morehead State University was continuous and paramount. He often said that one who does anything to retard the University is trying to kill the goose that lays the golden eggs. His own support for MSU was something taken for granted by Roger Caudill, a way of life like supporting the church.

The obituary, elsewhere in this issue, recites the many positions of trust with which Mr. Caudill was honored. But, it doesn't spell out the loss of a community leader who stood tall. The void will be most difficult to fill.

Morehead will miss J. Roger Caudill. The hundreds of local and out-of-town people who were at the cemetery Sunday when the final resting was for J. Roger Caudill, quickly noting something they had probably never seen before in January. Some of the hundreds of floral offerings were taken to the grave site. This attracted many honey bees sucking on the nectar of the flowers.

Bees are rare this time of year. Their appearance attested to this mild, but germ laden, winter weather.

The Council for Burley Tobacco and the Tobacco Tax Council are vigorously opposing bills before the General Assembly which would increase Kentucky's tax on cigarettes, perhaps as much as five cents a pack.

Kentucky has one of the lowest cigarette taxes of any state.

Opponents stress: 1. Tobacco, grown in 118 Kentucky counties, accounts for 32.2 percent of cash receipts from sale of all farm commodities in Kentucky; 2. The average gross on one acre of tobacco is $1,000; and the cigarette taxes amount to $7,600 or five times as much as the farmer receives; and 3. Over 142,000 farm families in Kentucky depend on the growing of tobacco.

All their arguments fall on our deaf ears with the knowledge that over 98 percent of the burley grown in Kentucky is consumed elsewhere - in states that tax cigarettes as much as 25 cents a pack.

We say, and there is no rebuttal, that whatever tax the Kentucky legislature levies on cigarettes will not influence burley production or farmers' income. And, you need the cigarette tax money more than we do.

The Burley and Tobacco Tax Councils are spreading misinformation in trying to have farmers' contact Senators and Representatives against an increase in Kentucky's so low tax on cigarettes. This is like saying Michigan should have no tax on automobile licenses because most cars are made in Detroit.

Sheriff Carl Jones has an advertisement in this issue of the Morehead News that a six percent penalty will be added on all taxes unpaid by next Tuesday (Feb. 1) and this will be followed with further penalties and advertising costs.

Property Evaluator Bill Porter urges seems that anything and everything can happen at Farmers.

We hear that a rural preacher who saw the phenomenon of his going uphill forecast in his Sunday sermon that the world would soon come to an end.

When we published a statement by the Rowan County Property Evaluator that he was ready to accept applications for the $6,500 homestead exemption, the Morehead News telephone started ringing for more information. Being young doesn't mean that this Publisher isn't always ready to assist our senior citizens, especially if they're paid-up subscribers. So, here's some information direct from the Rural State Capitol.

Persons eligible for the exemption must file an application with the property valuation administrator (tax commission) of the county in which the property is located.

The exemption is applicable to the 1972 assessment of property. To be eligible for the exemption, the applicant must have been 65 years of age by Jan. 1, 1972, must own his home and occupy it as his personal residence.

For purposes of the exemption, a "homestead" is defined as a single family dwelling with land used in connection therewith. The exemption will not apply to acreage used for agricultural purposes.

A single-unit residence is defined as a private residence wherein an individual or family does not include an apartment or duplex but does include a condominium unit owned and occupied on an individual basis.

When a homestead is jointly owned by more than one person, the exemption applies only when all owners are 65 or older and the homestead is maintained as a residence of all of the owners. However, if jointly owned by husband and wife only one must be 65 to qualify.

The renting of a room or rooms in a residence which otherwise qualifies, does not render the residence ineligible for the exemption.

A mobile home may qualify as a single-unit residence provided the mobile parts have been removed and the unit rests on a permanent foundation.

Only one exemption per homestead will be allowed. When an eligible owner qualifying for the exemption owns more than one property, he is entitled to the exemption only on that property which is his principal residence.

The News office has received phone calls from several people saying they have seen robins unusual for this time of year. We also have reports that some flowers have bloomed several times, and bulbs are sprouting. We wouldn't be surprised to hear of a bird to hibernate, or bull frogs croaking. It's really been June in January, but as this is really Tuesday, a cold wave is moving in.

Captain George A. Alfrey is a modest fellow. He says that a feature article in a recent issue of the Morehead News erred in saying he was flying 747 jets for American Airlines. Captain Alfrey is flying 737 jets.

He phoned to let us know that he doesn't commute to and from work further than any other commercial pilot. Captain Alfrey who commutes during the summer from Morehead (via Cincinnati airport) to his home-base at Buffalo, N.Y., says he knows airline pilots who commute from Houston to Miami.

Information from Good Samaritan Hospital in Lexington concerning Circuit Judge John J. Winn is not good. He is in serious condition, failing to rally. Two major rulings concerning Morehead Sunday closing and anation were on Judge Winn's desk for ruling when he became ill.

Morehead will soon have its first city directory. It is being compiled and will be published by the United States and Company of Taylor, Mich. Folk issues most Kentucky directories, including Lexington, Ashland etc. In case you don't know what a city directory is, it's a volume containing names and all kinds of information. Outsiders usually consider a town isn't much if it doesn't have a city directory.

The Internal Revenue Service building in Nashville where you'll find this year's income tax report is on Democrat Street, advises Frank Laughlin.

Look for in-fighting among Kentucky democrats in June as the 47 delegates to the national convention are selected. Since there will be no alternates or half-votes these are prized and prestige selections. Further, we understand the Kentucky delegation must have so many women delegates, and some Negroes. The Publisher of the Morehead News will not be a delegate, but we might run Joe Hodges.

The United States Postal Service lost a major court test that stopped them from increasing third class rates 22 percent as of Monday. The courts held that Nixon couldn't freeze prices, and that increase postal (a monopoly) charges by one fourth.

Prediction - Within five years most of the money to operate schools will come from the federal government. Watch for a federal payroll deduction tax.

Attending a party this Publisher asked 10 of Morehead's prettiest and knowledgeable ladies if they were in favor of Women's Lib. Some were for a little, but most were opposed. These women are plenty smart and not wanting to change a good thing.

Community Publishers have to read a lot so they can keep their readers advised and up to date, that's the reason we pursued an article on pantyhose and learned a lot. Pantyhose don't last long unless you put them on and remove them properly. Also, pantyhose should be gently washed after each wearing. And, if you don't trim and file flat your toenails don't wear pantyhose.

We read this article closely and felt qualified to give free demonstrations. The February has been proclaimed Heart Month in Kentucky, Jan. 30 - Feb. 5 is Clergy Week; and Feb. 20 - 26 Engineers Week. They never proclaim anything for overburdened newspaper people. We'd be satisfied with a Publisher's Day, or even an hour honoring our profession.

Some metropolitan newspaper writers have dubbed the administration's congressional redistricting proposal as the Carl Perkins Bill. We knew that the day after the November election.

If you purchase a rabbit in Morehead store the chances are it grew up, and was processed in nearby Vanceburg by Northeast Kentucky Rabbit Producers, Inc. The company, organized several years ago under an OEO grant of Northeast Area Development Council at Olive Hill, produces 300 rabbits a day and expects to expand.

There are many who believe the biggest need in Rowan County today is a big snow followed by a long freeze. They contend the snow would clear the air of all these flu germs, and a long cold spell would keep the germs in deep freeze. We think they are right.

When Interstate 64 was being built some old timers in the Owsingsville area claimed the route picked by the engineers was wrong. They pointed out frequent landslides immediately south and east of Owsingsville. Following the big slide over the weekend they are probably saying "We told you so."

Actually, there was one big dirt movement in the area while I-64 was being built. We wouldn't be surprised if a long stretch of Interstate has to be rebuilt.

We think that the basketball meetings this season between Morehead's Eagles and Eastern's Colonels will be like past years - shooting routine and eye-gouging close battles. But, comparative weekend scores indicate the Richmond athletes are 20 points better. Playing at home, Eastern and Morehead met the same teams. Western Kentucky beat Morehead here Saturday 77-74, and lost at Eastern Monday 96-78. Eastern easily downed Middle Tennessee there Saturday by 21 points, and our Eagles defeated the team Monday by one point 64-63. It seems Morehead is regressing while Eastern is progressing. However, we have long learned that things can change real fast in this sport. The office took time to hand pick the team for their first six with each team losing seven and winning seven.

The average person knows only one way to make money, and a thousand ways to spend it.

Big concern among the 800 people on the Morehead State University payroll is the state appropriation, soon to be voted by the General Assembly. Some expenses will have to be cut.

If there had been a Ralph Nader contemporary with the Model-T Ford, it is wondered how many things he could have found wrong with it.

The moon is barren, bleak and forbidding, but it is unpopulated, noiseless and peaceful, and the weather is always fair and calm. Also, we don't if there are flu germs and all these viruses on the moon.

Many Morehead women are trying to kick their husbands up the ladder of success.

A good many people in our community are lucky in that they're not getting what they deserve.

TREE SUPERVISION ... Thurman Martz, right, Tree Farm Committee Representative, presented the clasps to tree farm inspectors Bill Walton, left, and David Peery, center, at a meeting in Morehead last week of the East Kentucky Chapter of Society of American Foresters. Eight Eastern Kentucky foresters received recognition for inspecting five or more tree farms during the past two years. Other recipients included Larry Norton, Morehead.

State's General Fund Receipts Rise By 15 Percent

Kentucky's General Fund tax receipts for the first half of fiscal 1971 reached $322,952,967, some 15.7 percent above the same period last fiscal year and 5.3 percent above official estimates.

The figures were contained in a joint report released by the state Revenue and Finance departments. Road Fund receipts also increased during the same period, reaching $141,269,030 or 11.2 percent above the 1970 report.

Sales and use tax receipts for the first six months of fiscal 1971 rose to $154,617,144 a rise of 9 percent.

The largest percentage of increase was in the area of individual income tax receipts which increased some 24.7 percent to $2,662,679.

In Line For KPA President

A Morehead Publisher, W.E. Crutcher, is in line for the Presidency of the Kentucky Press Association.

Crutcher was unanimously elected Chairman of the Powerful Executive Committee Saturday at the annual winter meeting of the KPA in Lexington.

Although additional nominations can be made by petition, under rules of the association only one officer is elected each year. Chairman of the Executive Committee.

The committee chairman advances next year to Vice-President, and the following year to President. This means that Crutcher should be KPA president in 1974, one of the "big years for Kentucky since state-wide celebrations are planned as the first settlement west of the Appalachians was at Harroburg in 1774 and the first Kentucky Derby was run in 1874.

Outgoing President is Al Schanberg, Louisville. The new President is Ben Boone III, Ellettsville, who advanced from being Vice-President. Jim Lee Crawford, Corbin, moved up from Chairman of the Executive Committee to replace Boone as Vice-President.

During the three day convention the KPA heard a speech from Senator John Sherman Cooper who said he would not be a candidate for re-election to the United States Senate and another by Governor Wendell Ford endorsing Senator Muskie for President.

Crutcher owns the Morehead News, Morehead News, Grayson Journal, Enquirer, all county seat weeklies; Morehead Publishing Company which specializes in circular printings and mailings; Birthday Calendar Company, a specialty concerned with customers in 49 states; Lexington Circular & Mailing Services at 171 New Circle Road, N.E., in Lexington; and The Lexington Shopper, a 42,000 circulation weekly trade publication.

FORD AND KPA HEADS - Gov. Wendell Ford, second from right, chatted with officers of the Kentucky Press Association a few minutes before he delivered a policy speech endorsing Senator Muskie for President. The KPA also heard Senator John Sherman Cooper say he would not seek reelection. W.E. Crutcher, second from left, was elected Chairman of the KPA Executive Committee, and will advance to President in 1974. At left is Al Schanberg, Louisville, outgoing President. At right is Ben Boone III, KPA President this year. (Lexington Herald-Leader photo).

Couple Seeks To Add To Its Foster Family

By John Hunt

Double the trouble, double the joy. At least that's the way Mr. and Mrs. Cline Russell of 2103 Greenwood Ave. in Louisville, look at it. The Russells, who took the assignment of running a foster home for a couple of hard-to-place teenagers, now are in the process of enlarging their home so they can take up to four more children.

Russell, 37, was once a hard-to-place kid himself. Now he and his wife say it is a real joy to suddenly have a family. They can have no children of their own.

Three years ago the couple adopted an infant. Then last summer, after hearing a broadcast appeal on behalf of older children in need of homes, they enlarged their "family" by signing to have two girls live with them.

Government help is available for their project. But the Russells' shun that in favor of involving individuals and firms in their project. With a do-it-on-their-own approach, so far they have some private donations and promises of help from carpenters, plumbers and electricians.

Russell, who is a pattern cutter at American Standard Company, has his modest income augmented by the Department of Child Welfare which grants the Russells $5.50 per day for each of the two girls who have become a part of their family.

Fifteen-year-old Jane (an assumed name) came to live with them last August, and in October they added Sue, 16. Both girls had been placed in Kentucky Village for running away from home.

Russell sees nothing particularly unusual about giving a home to children in trouble. He remembers the four years he spent in Ridgewood, since renamed Lynnwood Girl's Center, when it was a county welfare institution for blacks.

The Louisville couple launched their new career as foster parents when they contacted the Child Welfare Department after hearing the broadcast appeal.

The first of the girls was introduced and stayed in their home for a three-day trial period. Afterwards, the Russells signed a contract with the agency agreeing to act in the best interest of the child, and to maintain a proper home.

"Problems? Well, what you might consider a problem, the Russells consider opportunities.

"Right at first they tested us," he recalled. "One of the girls insisted she was going to Lexington for Thanksgiving. Then when I finally made arrangements and gave my consent, she was disappointed. She wanted me to refuse her."

At first the Russells had a slight problem in keeping Jane in school. Now, however, she is completely adjusted. The family is also active in the community and church.

For Cline Russell, working with children has been an avocation since he returned from five years service with the Army. He organized a Gospel Sing group for youths who needed help, and through the work, discovered the reward of helping others.

"All these so-called problem children really need is love and dependable authority," says Mrs. Russell.

The Russells figure they have enough of both to share with a half-dozen children.

DR. NAIL ATTENDING REGIONAL SCIENCE MEET

Dr. Billy R. Nail, chairman of the Division of Mathematical Sciences at Morehead State University, is attending a regional meeting for National Science Foundation project directors Thursday through Saturday in Atlanta.

Dr. Nail will be administering a project at MSU involving teaching techniques in high school mathematics.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Bully In The Family

Sixteen-year-old Teddy had a nasty habit. He would coax young children into school places, then beat them up. Finally, the father of one of the victims sued against Teddy's parents.

But in court, they denied liability. "The mere fact that he is our son," they argued, "does not make us automatically responsible for everything he does. We never encouraged him to beat anyone up."

But if they had never encouraged Teddy, they had never discouraged him either. The court decided they had shirked their duty as parents, and would therefore have to pay the claim.

Parents who are overly permissive may find themselves in trouble in the courtroom if they tolerate a dangerous habit in their child, they can usually be held legally liable for the consequences.

But it is a matter of degree. While the law says parents must protect their child, it does not insist on success. Take this case: Chuckie, age five, tilted to toe rock in his playmate's. To deter him, his parents tried everything—all to no avail.

But this time, when a damage suit was brought against the parents, the court held them blameless. Saying they had done their best, the court ordered that they could not be held liable for the consequences.

Furthermore, standards of discipline may change with the times. In another case, a boy playing football in the street threw the curb and knocked down a passing pedestrian.

In short order, the pedestrian sued the boy's parents. The discipline by parents is just not customary in this age group.

"Strict control of children is today so rare," said the court, "that it is no indication of a lack of reasonable care."

East Meets West

Typoff for the 1972 ABA All-Star game has been set for 8 p.m., Saturday, January 29, at Freedom Hall. This will be the fifth annual battle between the best players from the ABA's East and West divisions.

All-Star tickets are on sale at the Kentucky Colonials' regular ticket outlets. They may be purchased at Freedom Hall and at the ABA offices in the Louisville area. Dawahra's serves the Lexington outlet and in Elizabethtown it is the P-E-Town Mall.

Last year's East defeated the West in the closest game 126-123.

Colonels' forwards Dan Isael and Cincy Powell were standouts in the game. Isael led the East in scoring with 21 points and Powell sparked a fourth quarter rally with 11 points.

This year's game is expected to feature such ABA greats as Rick Barry, Mel Daniels, Zelmo Beaty, and Charlie Scott, and of course, Colonels Dan Isael and Artis Gilmore.

For more information on the ABA All-Star game, contact: Kentucky Colonials Executive Inn, Louisville, Kentucky 40213. Phone: (502) 366-5676

Louisville's oldest church is the Episcopal Christ Church at 421 Second Street downtown. The building was completed in 1824.

your week ahead

BY DR. A.W. DAMIS

Forecast Period: January 26, 1972 to February 2, 1972

ARIES Mar. 21 - Apr. 19
Tighten up your schedule. According to your chart, in other words, you are inclined to waste time fighting "side battles."

TAURUS Apr. 20 - May 20
Many under your sign will be saying farewell to an old associate; others, are in for good news that will come through the mail, the phone or a third party.

GEMINI May 21 - June 20
Don't get too many ironies on the fire. In other words, you might have too many things going for you — with the opposite sex.

MOONCHILD June 21 - July 22
Fuzzy stellar patterns are indicated. So, this could very well be a period when — you say one thing, think another, then do something entirely different.

LEO July 23 - Aug. 22
For those under your sign so inclined, there's a high chance of some Leo becoming involved in a clandestine meeting.

VIRGO Aug. 23 - Sept. 22
Apparently, you will spend an unusual amount of time conversing. See to it that someone doesn't pin you down with the story of their life.

LIBRA Sept. 23 - Oct. 22
Concentrating on long range plans, this week, could very well be your excuse to avoid facing immediate obligations. Stick to tasks at hand!

SCORPIO Oct. 23 - Nov. 21
Many under your sign will review their relationship or feelings for a number of the opposite sex. Others, should find a rather peculiar change in their environment.

SAGITTARIUS Nov. 22 - Dec. 21
It seems as though many Sagittarians are going to run into an overpowering personality. What is more, there is indications of problems with the opposite sex.

CAPRICORN Dec. 22 - Jan. 19
For no apparent reason, as far as you know, your popularity with the opposite sex will increase. You are entering a cosmic cycle of becoming magnetic to members of the other sex.

AQUARIUS Jan. 20 - Feb. 18
There is a big change going to take place in your relationship with your mate or similar alliance. You should notice the first signs this week.

PISCES Feb. 19 - Mar. 20
Many under your sign have hesitated and pondered about a major decision concerning money and finance, stellar patterns indicate — decide this week!

Measures Would Upgrade Exceptional Children Education

Bills have been introduced in both houses of the General Assembly to open the way for improved services to exceptional children in Kentucky.

Almost identical measures were introduced in both houses to create a Bureau of Education for Exceptional Children in the state Department of Education.

Two other measures were introduced to allow local school boards to contract for special services for exceptional children not otherwise available through public or private agencies.

All four bills were introduced by Lexington Democrat Sen. Gibson Downing, and Rep. Bart Peak, based on recommendations of the state Task Force on Exceptional Children.

Downing said another bill, also based on task force proposals, would be introduced to change the process by which special education money is allotted under the Minimum Foundation Act.

As yet there are no accurate figures on how much it will cost to expand Kentucky's exceptional children services.

TEACHERS - State School Supt. Dr Lyman GINGER said a 12 percent salary raise for teachers over the next two years will be included in Governor Ford's budget which will be introduced to the General Assembly. Dr. Ginger said some teachers wanted an 18 percent pay hike but this would have been unrealistic.

26 Year Old Lieutenant Heads Morehead ROTC

First Lt. Gaylon E. (Gene) Murray formerly of Eddyville, has assumed command of the Morehead unit of the 100th Division, U.S. Army Reserve.

Lt. Murray, in civilian life, is associate director of public information at Morehead State University. He holds degrees from Murray State University and Ohio University and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gathon Murray, Rt. 1, Eddyville.

The 26-year-old Reservist spent 18 months in Panama as an infantry officer before leaving active duty last June. He is married to the former Lesley Mercer of Miami, Fla. They have two children.

The Morehead unit is part of the 100th Division's Third Brigade and is involved in teaching advanced infantry tactics.

Old Newspapers To Be Recycled By Morehead Girl Scouts

All ecology-minded citizens are asked to cooperate with Morehead's Cadette Girl Scout Troop 417 in recycling unwanted newspapers for a fund raising project.

Contributors are asked to put the newspapers in grocery bags or tie them in bundles that can be handled by the girls. The papers will be picked up approximately every two weeks.

Arrangements to pick up your newspapers can be made by calling Patrol Leaders Jana Ousley, 784-5883; Teresa Logan, 784-5965; Mary Young, 784-7557; or Troop Leaders Mrs. E.W. Martindale, 784-7274; Mrs. Glen Boddy, 784-9127; or Mrs. Steve Hamilton, 784-5424.

This is your opportunity to support both the Girl Scouts and your community.

CONSUMERS' CORNER

What should be known about department store credit cards? Just about six years ago, unsolicited credit cards were first mass distributed. Today, many people carry over ten credit cards. They are a convenience when you pay the statements in full when received. That way you avoid the service charges. Convenience turns into expense when monthly service charges are added.

Much To See . . .

Two Man Art Show

By Helen Price Stacy
The art world is like a diamond with many facets. One cutting might reflect realism, another romanticism and still others cubism, dadism and the many other facets that make up such a world.

Two widely separated facets are being exhibited until Feb. 5 at Doctors Park, 1517 Nicholasville Road, in a show sponsored by The Lexington Art League.

"I've been interested in drawing and painting since I was a boy," says Jim Brancaccio of Lexington, whose small drawing of ghostly figures done with white typewriter correction tape on black paper is attracting the interest of those who view the show. Brancaccio brings the excitement of the world of fantasy to his work.

On the other side of the diamond is a facet of realism or naturalism. Works of Carl Shannon, also of Lexington, show things of nature as they are.

"Because of polio at an early age I spent my childhood confined," he said, explaining his early interest in art and many hours spent drawing birds and scenes of nature. Shannon is from a family of six with three of the six talented in art.

Brancaccio, born in Cincinnati in 1941, moved to Lexington soon after his graduation from high school. He attended Catholic High and Transylvania College and later taught high school English in Lexington, Ohio.

Since creative people find it impossible to stop creating an artist who paints usually is inclined toward others of the arts. In Brancaccio's life, drama and the theater compete with his art talents.

After five years of teaching he quit to return to Lexington and a full time pursuit of painting. With a collegiate art background limited to an art appreciation course, he began a studio session with sessions from Barbara Atwood. At the same time he continued his interest in theater, working with Third Floor Theatre, Canterbury Pilgrim Playhouse and Studio Players. He currently is playing the lead, Berenger, in Eugene Ionesco's absurdist play Rhinoceros, in which he sees his entire town become rhinoceroses. This Studio Players production runs Jan. 20 - 22 and Jan. 27 - 29.

Health . . . for all

Backpack lungs filled with sandwiches. Sounds like a gourmet's nightmare. Actually, it's a new device that may aid respiratory patients.

A portable, artificial lung has already been tested successfully in the laboratory. The developer of the device - Dr. E. Converse Peirce - of Mount Sinai Medical Center in New York - says testing in human patients is less than five years away. The device, which weighs less than ten pounds, could conceivably be strapped on like a backpack.

To support a breathing system, the device is connected to the body through a vein. The unit is filled with "sandwiches" made of a thin, transparent material that functions like membranes of the lungs. Carbon dioxide and oxygen pass through the porous membranes. Oxygen is supplied by a portable cylinder and flows between the sandwiches. Blood, diverted from the vein, flows between the two layers of each sandwich.

To support a human breathing system, 32 to 48 sandwiches - each 20 inches long and eight inches wide - would be necessary. Dr. Peirce says the device could help people with severely damaged lungs; emphysema patients; miners with black lung disease; and patients who have restricted function in one lung after the other has been removed.

It will be years before backpack lungs are available, but this is one of the experimental projects designed to assist people with chronic respiratory trouble in the future.

To find out about the lungs and the help available today for people with lung disorders, contact your Kentucky Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association. To support the fight against lung disease, answer your Christmas Seal letter today. There's more to do.

An important message for people who prepare their own income tax returns.

Maybe you've been cheating yourself all these years.

Every year, between January and April, millions of people sit down to do battle with Uncle Sam. Some are "well-styled" accountants. Others think they can save a few dollars doing it themselves - so why not?

The sad truth is, however, no matter what their reason was for starting many of them end the same. On the short end.

You see, when it comes to income taxes, amateurs should depend on H&R Block. We have the facilities to help you make "income tax time" a pleasant experience. To begin with, H&R Block now has over 6,000 conveniently located offices manned by thousands of specially trained personnel who are anxious to help you. They'll sit you down over a free cup of coffee and show you some things about your income tax that you might never have known existed. For example, do you know all about deductions for child care or casualty losses? And maybe you aren't aware that if your income increased last year, you may be able to save tax dollars by "income averaging."

Well, when it comes to income taxes, H&R Block is aware of just about everything because we're a company that eats, sleeps, and drinks tax returns 365 days a year.

Yes, maybe you can save a couple of bucks by doing your own return but it really may be costing you a lot more by not having your return done by H&R Block.

DON'T LET AN AMATEUR DO H&R BLOCK'S JOB.

H&R Block.

Letters . . . to the editor

This newspaper welcomes letters, particularly on subjects of general local, or area, interest. Right is reserved to condense. No letters will be printed without author's signature and address.

The Editor:

In last week's issue was a letter to the Editor from a Mrs. Shirley Nigro making complaint of the Rowan County Board of Education.

Mrs. Nigro must be a late comer to Rowan County or she would know the many accomplishments of the school system for the past 15-20 years. The many modern school houses, school buses and physical plants need no defense. Much is needed to be done but much has been done.

Mrs. Nigro indicates that the Chairman, Mr. Delbert Kegley, did not know the name of the Superintendent. This is odd when it is considered that Mr. Kegley was first appointed to the Board in 1967 and was elected by a good majority of the voters in his District in 1968. Mr. Kegley was born and raised in Rowan County, educated in the Rowan County School System, and knows the school system probably better than Mrs. Nigro.

She also called some of the Board Members "yes" men to the Superintendent. This would include Mr. Davis Kidd, Mr. Clyde White and Mr. Forrest Mays, all highly respected in their neighborhood and all of whom are doing their utmost to make the School System a better system for our children.

I cannot help but feel that Mrs. Nigro has not been in Rowan County long enough to be properly advised of the School System or that she has been misadvised by a small band of dissidents who seek only to harm, not help, the schools.

1750 ACRES OF TREES PLANTED IN ROWAN

The Editor:

In the midst of today's environmental uproar, the tree stands by like a faithful watch-dog. It dispenses life-giving benefits and lives on - taken for granted - but remaining one of man's best friends.

In Rowan County, Cooperators with the Rowan Soil and Water Conservation District have planted more than 1750 acres of trees in past years. These landowners recognized the value of trees in their farming operations long before the current wave of concern over the environment.

Although these landowners have made a significant contribution toward utilizing their land resources and making them productive for future generations, there are many who have not recognized the value of woodland planning and management in their farming programs.

The Conservation-Needs Inventory for Rowan County indicates there are more than 6000 acres of non-productive or idle land that should be planted to trees or the present stand reinforced. Much of this land was cleared for pasture before modern machinery became a normal part of farming operations. Today, tractors cannot negotiate much of this steep land to effectively manage pastures and it has ceased to contribute to the farming program.

Because much of this land is so steep, it is easily eroded when pasture management practices are not performed. When these areas are planted to trees, erosion is curbed and the land becomes a productive part of the farming operation again.

Now is the time to review your conservation plan and select those areas which are not being utilized and make plans for setting those areas in trees. Soil Conservation Service personnel are available to assist you in determining the soils you have and recommending the tree species that are adapted to your soils.

Trees to be planted this spring can be ordered from the Kentucky Division of Forestry at a minimal cost. Cost-sharing for tree planting is available through the local ASCS office. Order forms for tree seedlings are available at local agriculture agency offices.

Review your land resources and then call or stop by the Soil Conservation Service office for assistance in making all of your farm productive again.

Study Says Tax On Coal Is Not Harmful To Mines

A study by the University of Kentucky Office of Business and Development and Government Services indicates a severance tax on coal production "substantial amounts of revenue without undue hardship on the coal industry."

A severance tax on coal was one of Gov. Wendell H. Ford's campaign promises and is expected to be introduced into the General Assembly this session.

The study estimates a five percent tax on the value of coal would yield the state $39.8 million in 1972 and that the major burden of the tax would "eventually fall in the form of higher prices" on the users of coal, most of whom reside outside Kentucky.

Governor Ford has expressed hopes a severance tax might yield about $40 million annually.

The study, authorized by Legislative Research Commission Director James T. Fleming, deals separately with Eastern and Western Kentucky coal because of differences in quality, and market conditions.

It concludes that because of an "inelastic" demand for coal in Eastern Kentucky and the exportation of tax burden to users in other states, a severance tax on coal would be an attractive source of revenue.

The Magic Of Limestone

Limestone - that product of ancient seas - is almost as plentiful as dirt in many parts of the state. Mundane, unimpressive, and comparatively inexpensive, it possesses more magic than a necromancer's wand.

Through its use in processed form, miraculous things have, and can be, accomplished. In the form of enduring gravel, it is a powerful adjunct to road construction and, over the years, has meant the difference between hundreds of outlying communities remaining stuck in the mud and rolling on to progress.

Through its qualities of legerdemain, it has brought better homes, better farms, better schools, and, in general, a better way of life to all that it has touched.

Among the chief beneficiaries of this legacy from prehistoric times are the farmers of the state. As a result of leaching and crop removal of the basic elements such as calcium, magnesium, and potassium, most soils of Kentucky are acid. This is where the almost transcendental influence of limestone become vitally important.

According to soil scientists and agronomists, agricultural limestone neutralizes soil acidity and supplies the needed calcium and magnesium. In addition, it speeds the decay of organic matter and releases nutrient elements through increased microbial activity. It increases fixation of nitrogen by soil and legume nodule organisms and lowers the concentration of toxic substances such as soluble iron, manganese, and aluminum in the soil and all these processes are necessary for higher crop yields.

Makes For Pretty Girls

The soil scientists warn, however, that despite all its wonderful qualities as a soil conditioner and crop benefactor, excessive use of limestone should be avoided. It can be best applied only after soil tests to determine what they call the "pH factor" which is a measure of the acidity of the soil. With this factor being known, limestone can then be applied in the right amount for the best results.

Limestone has been given credit not only for making Kentuckians more progressive, but also for making their daughters the prettiest, their horses the swiftest, and their bourbon and tobacco the smoothest.

"It's all right there in the phosphate limestone," says one writer, "that turns its vitality loose into the soil and the water and mayhap into the veins of the people."

But with all levity and metaphor aside, Kentucky's vast limestone deposits represent one of its most valuable natural resources. To a major degree, these deposits have been responsible for its excellent road system, its superb, world-famous race horses, its fine crops, and, indeed, its destiny.

In a practical sort of way, there is magic in Kentucky limestone.

"FIFTY PRINTS" BEING EXHIBITED AT MOREHEAD

An exhibit of "Fifty Prints by Fifty Printmakers" opens Thursday in Morehead State University's Claypool-Young Gallery. The prints are from the collection of William C. Morehead's Kenny Adams Signs To Play For Eagles

Standout linebacker Kenny Adams of Rowan County High School has signed a football letter-of-intent to attend Morehead State University.

A 5-11, 185-pound, three-year starter who also starred on offense, the new Eagle recruit is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Duke Adams, 340 Burtchour Court, Morehead.

MSU Assistant Coach Mike Gokkie described Adams as "potentially an outstanding defensive back with great speed, size and determination."

The 17-year-old signed before the RCHS Vikings of Coach Paul Ousley compile a three-year record of 27-2 during his varsity career.

His defensive performance during last fall's unbeaten season included 103 tackles and assists and six pass interceptions. Offensively, he rushed for 348 yards in 115 carries, caught 38 passes for 287 yards and scored 11 touchdowns.

Adams also is a regular on Rowan County's baseball squad. He plans to study physical education at MSU.

The Mature Woman

Has your problem as a mature woman, or with one? For advice and help, write to Margaret Brookfield, Information Center on the Mature Woman, 3 West 57th Street, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Although young people want to get along on their own, they like to know their parents are there if they need them. This is not the view of a child psychologist, but of a recent college graduate. He's Martin Poriss, fresh out of Harvard and doing a Ph.D. in psychology, but with his own self-reliance. In the process, he's written a book called, "How To Live Cheap But Good: A Primer for People with High Tastes and Low Incomes."

According to Martin Poriss, the basic problem facing young people today is "total bewilderment" about the world at large. "When I finished school," he recalls, "the first six months were quite a shock. I discovered I knew less about life in general than about the academic world. I had gone from the sheltered environment of the home to the sheltered environment of college. And when I graduated, I suddenly realized I would have to fend for myself."

Mr. Poriss's book, he explains, is based on his personal experiences and those of his friends. "It seemed like an obvious book to write," he says, "since there was no single source to which we could go and learn about the more practical aspects of life." The young author includes among these: finding an apartment, furnishing it, dealing with the landlord, taking care of home repairs, buying and cooking food, etc.

Mr. Poriss attributes much of the helplessness of young people to the limited opportunities for being useful around the house. "Home chores today," he observes, "are not what they used to be, so kids don't get much experience in taking care of things." He believes parents should do more about "training kids to be on their own," particularly when it comes to handling money. "They should include children in discussions of family finances," he says, "because this is a way of treating them like responsible people."

Young people function most effectively away from home, Mr. Poriss asserts, when their parents are sensitive to their needs. "Those kids who get on best," he says, "know they can talk to their parents whenever they have a problem. Yet they're not constantly being offered advice they haven't asked for." Such advice, he thinks, can be more of a hindrance than a help since it interferes with the youngster's own development.

Business-Like Loans

Once the child has left home, Mr. Poriss believes, his parents should not continue to give him financial support. Sometimes a "business-like loan" may be a good thing, he comments, but parents should not keep on picking up the pieces financially. "As a parent, I wouldn't," he declares, "even if I could afford it."

"How To Live Cheap But Good: A Primer For People With High Tastes and Low Incomes," is published by American Heritage Press.

Alternative To No Fault Gains Senate Entry

A possible alternative to controversial no-fault insurance has been introduced in the state Senate by Sen. William L. Sullivan, D-Henderson.

It would provide arbitration of motor vehicle accident lawsuits of less than $3,000 and has been endorsed by the Kentucky Bar Assn.

The measure, if enacted, would allow courts to refer to an arbitrator accident lawsuits at issue for more than 30 days and involving less than $3,000 net recovery.

"Permit any party not satisfied with the arbitrator's decision to demand a court trial by filing a $100 deposit for the jury fund. In other areas the bill would require automobile liability insurance policies to include a $100 deductible clause, unless rejected in writing by the insured.

It also would require cars made after July 1, 1973, and sold in Kentucky to include a warranty that they can be driven from one rear into a barrier at 5 m.p.h. without damage.

Homes - real estate Sees record year in home production

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS NEW YORK (UPI) — What's ahead in housing in 1972?

A record year in home production is expected for 1972, according to a study of existing dwellings, in purchase of vacation properties, according to the National Association of Real Estate Boards (NAREB).

New construction, according to the report, probably will add more than 850,000 apartment units to the inventory in 1972. In addition, some rentals will be made available following structural conversion, and others will result when vacant owners vacates and decides to offer his property for rent rather than for sale.

The report cited two major reasons why interest in construction will grow during 1972: "Distances and travel time have been shortened by the extensive highway system. Moreover, the continuous shift of population toward the oceans and Great Lakes has made weekend commuting feasible for many more families than a few years ago."

A recent Census report showed that more than half of the population lives within 50 miles of the seacoast, including the shores of the Great Lakes. Additionally, the report cited vacation home purchases made with retirement in mind.

Many fine properties are built or acquired for weekend use with a view to full-time occupancy in the future. Families in the 35-44 age category are major holders of assets and generally have completed the financing of their children's education."

The NAREB forecast said the resurgence of consumer confidence should aid business recovery. "For the first time since the economic downturn consumers are demonstrating an increased willingness to spend."

Contributing to this are cuts in federal taxes which will assist rising disposable income and the large volume of "first home" purchases by families in the under-35 age category.

"Families in this category," the report said, "are major buyers of household durables, home improvements, and the second car. Purchases of homes and the ancillary expenditures associated with home buying should provide a degree of consumer buoyancy to the economy that has been absent in the recent past."

In addition, the report said, the mortgage market is expected to be relatively stable, and it is expected gradualism in economic expansion may be achieved. Fueled by increased spending by consumers and federal aid by the recovery process is expected to continue through all 1972, but the expansion will be less than vigorous," NAREB concluded.

Falls And Rapids Leather, Prunella

By Betty Ellison

Leaves form a canopy of shadows over Kentucky's Yahoo Falls where the water drops 113 feet into a tranquil pool. In the forest maze it is easy to visualize Princess Cornblomss, clad in leather and prunella (leggings and woolen dress), gliding through the forest and pausing at the falls.

Further down on the South Fork of the Cumberland River, Devil's Jump rapids take the viewer back to a period when Princess Cornblomss's birch bark canoe could have careened through the turbulent waters around half-submerged rocks in the rapids.

Today visitors to the Daniel Boone National Forest, operated by the U.S. Forest Service near Whitley City, can stand underneath the falls looking out through the veil of water at buckeye, American basswood and poplar trees 300 years old. At Devil's Jump, the rapids fill the air with the sound of their relentless pounding against massive boulders. Peeking around the trees and rocks are rhododendron, mountain laurel, dogwood and sourwood - all blooming in their seasons.

Perhaps the best view of Yahoo Falls comes in the winter when the water freezes into a phantasm of shimmering ice sculptures.

Yahoo Falls was as unmarred in the time of Princess Cornblomss as it is today. The princess was the daughter of Chief Doublehead, principal chief of the Cherokees in the McCree County area, and the wife of Jacob (Big Jake) Troxel, one of the first settlers there. Troxel is credited with preventing Chief Doublehead's forces from joining the Tories for the battle of King's Mountain, paving the way for a decisive victory by Colonial forces in the Revolutionary War.

Troxel's grave is at the entrance to the Yahoo Falls Recreation Area, off Ky. 700. Within the area are facilities for parking, picnicking and camping, as well as drinking water and rest rooms. Trails with names like Skyline, Cliffside and Roaring Rocks lead the visitor to overlooks for views of the falls and the rugged countryside. To Yahoo Arch, one of the 25 natural sandstone arches, charted in the Stearns Ranger District, and to paths crossing swift-moving streams. Each of these trails runs about one-half mile and takes around 30 minutes to traverse. Underneath the shelf of the falls are the remains of an Indian rock house, and nearby is a system of unexplored caves.

Below the falls, Alum Ford provides boat launching facilities and Forest Service campgrounds. Other campsites can be found at Sawyer, Great Meadow and Hemlock Grove. Runs of walleye pike lure fishermen to the South Fork of the Cumberland River in the spring; Anglers also net black bass and catfish there. Winding through a half-loop, the South Fork heaves its water through a rock-rimmed canyon to create the rapids at Devil's Jump. Canoeing through Devils Jump down to Leatherwood Ford is only for the hardier sportsman with knowledge of both the sport and the stream. Devil's Jump can be reached via US 77 from Stearns and Forest Service Road 104.

Yahoo Falls, in the same mystic woodland of Princess Cornblomss's days, still stirs up a thundering storm, and the rapids at Devil's Jump are often called Kentucky's most dangerous white water.

Breckinridge Speech Team Again Captures Honors

They returned from the Paul Blazer Tournament in Ashland carrying the first place Sweepstakes trophy. The Sweepstakes was awarded on the basis of all individual accomplishments on the school teams. Each participant performed three times for three different judges.

Patti Jones scored three perfect scores from three different judges which entitled her to win the First Place Trophy for Prose Reading.

John Sadler and Greg Eversole, 9th Graders, at the end of performance number three, held the same score as a Duet Acting team from Huntington. The Morehead Team and the Huntington Team were asked to perform a fourth time for a judge that had not heard them during the day. The judge awarded the First Place Trophy to John and Greg.

Jamie Lucke was tied with two students from Covington Latin and Notre Dame Academy for the First Place Original Oratory trophy. After performing for the fourth judge, Jamie was announced as the first place winner of Original.

Other trophy winners from U.B.S. were: Nancy Coates and Mike Johnston First Place in Debate; Elizabeth Davis - 3rd Place in Discussion; Anita Johnston - 2nd Place in Girls Extemp.; Audrey Phillips - 2nd Place in Prose; Peter Hanrahan 3rd Place in Impromptu Speaking; Jamie Lucke - 2nd Place Impromptu Speaking; Audrey Phillips - 3rd Place in Analysis and Tim Porter 1st Place in Analysis.

U.B.S. defeated the second place sweepstakes winner, a team from Covington, by more than 85 points.

Economic Stabilization

Capital gains or losses, and the tax results they bring, are not solely the concern of those who invest in securities. Anyone who sells or exchanges property may incur a capital gain or loss, according to Kenneth Bunker president of The Kentucky Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Mr. Bunker explains that most of an individual's properties (other than the stock-in-trade of his business) are capital assets. When these are sold for more than their cost, the profit is a capital gain. Any loss on the sale is a capital loss, but losses are not deductible unless the property was held for the purpose of producing income.

A capital gain on an asset that has been held more than six months is "long-term"; on property owned for six months or less, "short-term."

The tax on short-term gains is the same as on ordinary income. On long-term gains it is substantially less - one half the rate on ordinary income up to maximum rate of 32 1/2 percent for 1971 and 35 percent in 1972 and thereafter.

Any kind of capital losses may be used to offset any kind of capital gains, Mr. Bunker points out. Thus stock market losses, for example, can be used to reduce the taxes on gains from the sale of real estate or other types of property.

Capital losses can also be used to offset ordinary income, with short-term losses matched against ordinary income on a dollar-for-dollar basis, but with long-term losses being matchable only on the basis of two dollars of loss for one dollar of income.

In both cases, Mr. Bunker says, the maximum amount of ordinary income that may be offset in any one year is $1,000 - $500 each for married couples filing separately.

If losses, either long or short-term, exceed the maximum, the excess may be carried forward and applied to capital gains or ordinary income in subsequent years.

FRANKFORT News Summary

TRAVEL - The state Highway Department is launching a study of Kentuckians' travel patterns as an aid in planning highway improvements. Some 15,000 families selected at random will participate in the study.

EDUCATION - A bill to revamp the Council on Public High Education was introduced in the Senate by Democrats William Logan, Madisonville, Gibson Downing, Lexington, Wilson Palmer, Cynthiana, and Thomas Harris, Worthville. It would strengthen the council's authority, increase its funds and provide for changing its membership. The bill is supported by Gov. Ford.

ANIMALS - Rep. Walter S. Reichart, R-Louisville, introduced a bill to protect endangered species threatened with extinction because their hides or feathers are valuable in the manufacture of hats, coats and shoes. It would prohibit importation, transportation or sale in Kentucky of such species.

MEETINGS - The House of Representatives voted to open meetings of its 14 standing committees to the press and interested citizens. Meetings of the powerful Rules Committee and Committee on Committees were exempted from the new policy.

COLLECTIONS - Sen. Michael Moloney, D-Lexington, introduced a bill that would permit courts to order employers to withhold child-support payments from an employee's paycheck and send the money to a court-appointed officer.

WATER - Have you checked your well lately? It was reported at a meeting the other night that 99 per cent of the water samples tested were contaminated. Stop by the Health Department and let them tell you how to take your water sample for testing. This is important.

HOME FIRES - Has your family had a fire drill lately? Cooler weather usually brings on a number of fires. A little advance planning may save a catastrophe. Get your family together and plan your escape routes in case of fire in different parts of the house. Be sure to have a place to assemble outside. A few dollars invested in a fire extinguisher may pay big dividends.

TOBACCO DAY - The University of Kentucky is sponsoring a "Tobacco Day" on February 11 on the University of Kentucky Campus. Those attending can tour the tobacco lake between 10 and 11 o'clock. The program will start at 1 p.m.

PASTURE CONFERENCE - The 3rd Kentucky Grassland Conference will be held at the Stey Auditorium in the Science Center, University of Kentucky on February 8. The conference will begin promptly at 9:30 a.m. Some of the top men in the pasture field will be on the program.

RED CLOVER SEED - Have you bought your Red Clover Seed yet? The Kentucky Seed Crop was down 43 per cent from 1970. Over all, the Red Clover Seed supply is down 3 per cent. Kentucky grown seed is generally superior to West Coast Seed.

SIGN UP TIME - It's sign up time for feed grain and spring REAP practices. Stop by the local ASCS Office and talk to the folks.

STILL AVAILABLE - We still have farm record books and Farmer's Tax Guides. Need one?

23,000 DEAD TREES - Chicago had 23,000 dead trees to remove and forecast that 40,000 more would die this year. Their goal this year is to remove 50,000 dead trees.

Urges new hearing test for children
OAK LAWN, ILL. (UPI) — A Michigan educator suggests conventional hearing tests given to children be replaced with auditory perception tests which measure not only hearing acuity but also determine whether a child is able to sort out sounds.
"Nearly one of five children has hearing problems because his brain has difficulty analyzing and interpreting what he hears," said Arthur Flowers, director of the Central Auditory Abilities Research Institute of Dearborn, Mich.
Flowers said a normal hearing test is given to determine if a child has good hearing acuity.
But that test does not tell the tester whether the child is capable of comprehending the meaning of auditory messages.
"A child is subjected to many competing messages in the classroom — a plane flying overhead or a child next to him whispering — and must be able to listen selectively if he is to succeed academically," Flowers said.
He suggested a test he developed with a Detroit language pathologist, Mrs. Mary Rose Costello, measure more than conventional tests.
The perception test, known as the Flowers-Costello Test, shows one's ability to listen selectively and process distorted messages (words spoken rapidly or not completely articulated).
Flowers spoke at an auditory perceptual workshop here.
