 training as a Comander. He will be there about four months. Tommie says he is "crazy" about his work.

Ival B. Collins has been overseas for about four months and is in New Guinea. He has evidently been in the big battles, although he has not said so directly. He does not like the jungles, but is anxious to get a great number of Japs before coming home and he says he'll be back. During his absence his wife, the former Miss Gose Maxey and children are in Mansfield, Ohio, where Mrs. Collins is working in an aircraft plant.

Sergeant John Maxey has completed a bombardier course and was ready for overseas duty. But he was sent instead to Winfield, Kans. where he is foreman of the carpenters, building a large air base there. John who has been stationed in San Angelo, Tex., almost since his entry in the service early in 1942 proved his ability as a carpenter at the camp and so because of the shortage of experienced workers was sent to Winfield. He says he would much rather have been sent across the street. Uncle Sam says—"we need carpenters" and so John, the soldier, is at the camp, the carpenter. John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Maxey.

Lt. Billie Young, grandson of Mrs. A. L. Miller, has been made first pilot of a bomber and assigned his crew. He expects to be sent to another school for advanced training for a few weeks, before getting into actual combat.

The following letter was received by V-mail by Mrs. J. B. Messer from her son, Johnnie B. Messer, who signed up for the Navy shortly after Pearl Harbor, Johnnie is in North Africa:
 August 9, 1943.
 Mrs. J. B. Messer,
 R. F. 1, Morehead, Ky.

Dear Mother:
 Nothing much of interest has happened since I last wrote to you but I thought I would write again just to let you know I still think of you and Dad often. I went to church yesterday for the first time in a long time. The church building was a broken down wreck from all the bombing but it had been repaired to some extent to hold church services in. After church we went on a sight seeing tour of the town which didn't look anything like a town because it had been deserted. I don't think there had been a building that escaped the bombings. They were just a crumbled ruin.

Yes, I finally got the package of candy and chewing gum you sent. That was very thoughtful of you and I can't tell you how much I appreciate it. Do you hear from Bill often? I never have heard from him although I have written him. Aunt Pruda sent me his address. I have come to the conclusion from yours and her letters that he doesn't care much for the army. He will be out some day I hope and he won't have to make a life time job of it.

Well Mother, the Baustwain's Mate just now piped an order for everybody to carry show aboard so I guess I will have to knock off for now. So until next time. Don't worry too much and write often.

Your loving son,
JOHN PAUL

 than 13 inches in length or 36 inches in length and girth combined. It should be marked "Christmas parcel" so that it may be given special attention to assure its arrival before December 25.

Not more than one parcel may be mailed in any one week to the same member of the armed forces by or in behalf of the same mailer.

The parcel must be well and strongly packed, in a container of metal, wood, strong fiber board, or similar material, then wrapped in strong paper and tied with twine. The cover should be such that it can be opened readily for censorship. The contents should be packed tightly.

Perishable goods, such as fruits that may spoil, are prohibited. Intoxicants, inflammable materials such as matches or lighter fluids, poisons, and anything that may damage other mail also are prohibited. Gifts enclosed in glass should be substantially packed to avoid breakage. Sharp instruments, such as razors and knives, must have their edges and points protected so that they cannot cut through the coverings and injure postal personnel or damage other packages.

Since the armed forces are being plentifully supplied with food and clothing, the Army and Navy recommended against these as gifts.

The Ammunition is being passed

There's no monkey-business about the way the ammunition is being passed in this war, either. For example, the Navy's 5-inch 38 caliber gun throws shells at planes or surface craft at a terrific rate. Its powder and shells must come to the gun in a steady stream. How is it done? With an ingenious hoist whose tolerances are so close that the mechanism is comparable to the movement of a fine watch.

Ammunition hoists for the Navy are being produced so fast and efficiently by the Busch-Sulzer Bros. Diesel Engine Company that the organization has been awarded a second star in its Navy E pennant. Busch-Sulzer, which made engines for submarines in the last war, was founded by Adolphus Busch, the founder of Anheuser-Busch. He was the first to build Diesels in America—and the first American-made Diesel went into the Home of Budweiser. Now as then, the quest for better methods and facilities to produce the world's most popular beer never ceases.

Budweiser

In addition to supplying the armed forces with glider parts, gun turret parts and foodstuffs, Anheuser-Busch provides materials which go into the manufacture of: Rubber • Aluminum • Munitions Medicines • B Complex Vitamins • Hospital Diets • Baby Foods • Bread and other Bakery products • Vitamin-enriched cattle feeds • Batteries • Paper • Soap and textiles—to name a few.

3RD WAR LOAN DRIVE FOR INVASION

Put a circle around the date—Thursday, September 9th. For that's the day the 3rd War Loan Drive starts.

On that day, you will be asked to go the limit to back our valiant fighting men. You will be asked to do your share in the greatest invasion the world has ever seen. Answer your country's roll call!

Your part is to back this invasion by investing in at least one EXTRA $100 War Bond in September. That's in addition to your regular War Bond purchases. Invest more than $100—a lot more—if you possibly can.

The job is big. Everyone must do his full share if we are to put this drive over the top.

War Bonds are the safest investment in the world. For your own sake, for your Country's sake, put every spare dime and dollar in War Bonds during the 3rd War Loan Drive.

BACK THE ATTACK—WITH WAR BONDS

War Fund Drive Gets Underway

A meeting of the chairman and other county representatives of the Kentucky War Fund Campaign was held in Lexington at the Lafayette Hotel, on Tuesday, August 31. Dr. J. D. Falls, Chairman of Rowan County; Commander George Walker, Morehead Naval Training School; Mrs. Ethel Lee Ellington, Principal Morehead City Schools; and Mrs. J. D. Falls, Director local USO, attended the luncheon.

Dr. Frank L. McVey, State Chairman presided, and Mr. Virgil Martin, head of the Special Services Division, National War Fund, New York City, was the principal speaker. Mr. Martin gave a very interesting and instructive address on the importance of the American people being aroused to do their serious part in supporting the campaign. The campaign will begin in Kentucky October 15, for the purpose of raising approximately $1,400,000 for the USO and other national relief agencies.

It was emphasized that there will be only two major campaigns this year—some for the Red Cross and the other covering all other agencies. People who have heretofore given to separate agencies will be able to denote to this War Fund campaign, and such agencies will receive national quotas.

Dr. McVey summarized the purpose of the campaign as follows: "There was never a time when the concerted effort of our people was more definitely needed than now." "We are going into this campaign because America needs us, and because, as our boys and our girls fight and endure and sacrifice on the war front, we at home must fight with them for freedom and decency and humanity."

"To organize ourselves properly for the job of providing the USO, the Merchant Marine, and aid for our loved ones in prison camps and sending food, medicines and clothing to our fighting allies, we must have this one meeting for instructions and information."

I talked with a Shattered Soldier

I talked with a shattered soldier yesterday . . . a soldier whose broken body is here, but whose future may be buried in the mud and heat and stench of the Solomons.

It was hard to get him to talk about the war . . . about whether he thought we at home were doing our share.

He seemed hesitant about criticizing or complaining. "Well, I don't know," he said—and the smile left his face. He leaned forward in his chair, and nervously opening and clenching his hands, remarked:

"You know when you have been down on your knees wiping the blood off the face of a dying buddy . . . and holding his hand, trying to help him through it . . . you wonder why there would be anybody who wouldn't be giving every ounce of his energy, and wouldn't be buying every war bond he could, to get this mess over—and quickly."

I shall never forget this shattered soldier. He had already done far more than his share. He made me search my soul to see if I was doing all I could.

If you see a shattered soldier, perhaps you will say to yourself, "I have reason to be proud of that soldier . . . I wonder if he has reason to be proud of me."

He will be proud of you if you give all you can for the purchase of War Bonds to help his buddies, as he gave all he could for you.

Missing...

"Missing in action." You know what that can mean.

Mom says you must be brave. "It's what your father would expect of us," she tells you when it's bedtime and your chin starts to feel shaky. Then she kisses you extra hard and turns her head away so you can't see her eyes.

You've never let her see you cry. Not once, since that telegram came and she twisted it all up in a ball, then smoothed it and put it in the desk.

But, lying in bed, you play "Pretend"—pretend you can hear his step as he comes up to your room—pretend you can feel a stubble brush your forehead. And sometimes, in the dark, you can almost smell a cigarette—suit close to your face.

Later you dream—dreams that you don't tell about. And in the morning you wake up with that funny, empty feeling in your stomach.

Poor little guy. We—all of us—wish there were something we could do. Perhaps there is. Why shouldn't it be this?

We can resolve that the plans your father had for you shall remain within your reach, that you shall have the chance to grow and learn, that your opportunities will be bounded only by your own get-up-and-go, that you will progress and prosper in direct relation to your own ability—in a land of freedom and opportunity.

Those are the things your Dad valued, the things for which he gave his life. Though some may strive to change all that—provide you with the "benefits" of an all-powerful government, the "advantages" of regimentation, the "blessings" of bureaucracy—we can resolve they won't succeed.

You, son, won't read these words, and if you did, they wouldn't mean much to you now. But your father's friends—known and unknown—are making you a promise, just the same.

You may never hear it from their lips. But if you were older you would read it in their faces—recognize it in their spirit. They are determined, to keep America free. To keep it a land in which government is the servant, not the master of the people. To keep it the kind of America your Dad wanted to preserve—for you.

From where I sit...
by Joe Marsh

Grandma Hoskins knows a lot about history—but when we asked her where the first brewery was built in America, she wouldn't take sides.

"You see," says Grandma, "whether the colonists settled, one of the first things they thought about was food and beer... In fact, one reason why the Plymouth landed at Plymouth Rock was because the Mayflower was runnin' short of beer."

Well, that was a new one on us, but Grandma showed it to us—

—just as it was written in the Mayflower's log.

And it seems that all through our early American history beer sort of tempered the hardships and helped to make us a tolerant, moderate people.

From where I sit, beer is the American drink of moderation and friendliness—kind of a symbol of our personal liberty.
