Damage Of Forest Fires

This article was written by Ray Fraley. He has had a great deal of experience with forest fires since the beginning of the forest service in Rowan county in 1935. We are badly in need of protection against forest fires. Of all the enemies of the forest, fire is the greatest. Fire protection plays a large part in forestry program and each year thousands of dollars are spent in fighting fires. This money now could well be used helping win the war, or building of roads or other improvements of lasting value.

Even the lightest fire destroys trees and damage others. The average forest fire kills most of the trees up to one mile in diameter on the area burned. This represents about eight years of patient growth. Many large trees are killed, but the younger the timber, the higher the death rate. The community of trees which we call the forest is like the community of persons which we call the human race. If we kill off the children, what is the future of the human race? If we burn up the little trees, what is to become of the forest? The answer is simple.

Some day, not so far off, we will have a costly task of planting trees on worn-out soil and trying to make them grow. If we banish forest fires, Mother Nature will gladly do this for us.

In the wake of fire stalks death and damage. Sometimes the damage is not easily seen, but it is there just the same. It is quite possible that the lack of knowledge of the very real injury which follows fire in the woods may partly account for so much carelessness with fire. People are usually careful when they realize that a thoughtless act may burn up their property. No person in his right mind will light his pipe in the barn and flip over the burning in the fodder bin or hay mow. Why? His hand is stayed by the thought of fire and the damage it will cause. Yet that same person may, without thinking, flip another match into dry grass or leaves and start a dry forest fire that will do damage greater than the value of a hundred barns. What is true of the unthinking smoker is true of the man with the camp fire, who burns up the little trees, what is the future of the human race? If we burn up the little trees, what is who uses fire in or near the forest. So you may stop and think and then be careful with fire in the woods. The following fire injuries (evidence against fire) are given to you:

- 1—soil; 2—timber;
- 3—wildlife; 4—water; 5—beauty.

Think of these injuries one by one.

wondering just how many you have written besides those in your immediate family that are away the boys know you think about them, ask their families about them, and even worry about them being away but they can't understand why you can't find time to write them. They know you would be glad to do anything that would help them, even go see them if you were anywhere near them, and most certainly would welcome them back home with open arms if they should happen to return for a day or two. They know too that their families would gladly give you the service address and that it would make them feel good to know that friends are still interested enough to write their son or daughter who is away on business for Uncle Sam.

We don't know anything about holiday seasons overseas or for that matter nothing about getting a day off every now and then but we do know that you have been shopping for us and that we will get packages between now and this time next year. Well, anything is welcome from home overseas but the one thing that does more for us than all other things combined is the letter that is handed out to us, when we stand in the mail line. I have known boys to stand in line everyday for weeks and never get as much as a postcard and there is no sight as sad as the lad with friends who never take time to write. Boys who get the least mail find many ways to get into trouble just to pass the time away. Mail of any kind is worth more than the combined services of all morale agencies in camp and letters will get through when other things fail. I know it might seem difficult for you to write an interesting letter to one of the boys but remember letters

Headquarters Army Air Forces Central Flying Training Command, Randolph Field, Texas, November 3. The shadow of more and more wings fell continually over the Axis super-fabric of fence-dreamed invincibility as pilot wings became the possession of hundreds of new combat-ready fliers today. Graduation ceremonies throughout the great Southwest were held by the eleven advanced pilot schools of the Army Air Forces Central Flying Training Command.

Included among graduating fliers was Emerson E. Lewis of Coganville.

Lt. Lewis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis. He is a graduate of Morehead High school in the class of 1942. He graduated from Eagle Pass Field, Eagle Pass, Texas.

He is married to Ruth Ellington and they are the parents of a baby daughter. He spent his leave here, before being sent to his new work.

Lt. Lewis was well liked by all his classmates and by his teachers here and they are all happy in his good fortune.

Joining in the lengthening aerial parade of pilots who have completed the intensive training in the huge Central Flying Training Command area were men from every state in the Union.

Altus and Frederick in Oklahoma and the Texas training schools of Alco, Brooks, Lubbock, Blackland, Pampa, Moore, Foster, Ellington and Eagle Pass completed the Alma Mater roster for the new graduates. All eleven advanced pilot schools are a part of the nation-spanning Army Air Forces Training Command.

C. G. Clayton graduated in the class of 1943. He was inducted into the service in August.

Saturday night, Sept. 18, 1943. He had planned to write and let you know where and how I was but this is the first time I have really had time. It is pretty hot here and it rained for the first time in about four or five months day before yesterday and cooled things off a little bit, but it made more work for me. The ground down here around the camp is sand and clay so you can imagine how muddy and sloppy it was. I haven't been on K. P. yet, but it won't be long, but I have been on every other detail that the army has, at least every one they have at this place. It isn't so bad here, you get plenty to eat and plenty of sleep, but the only thing is that it is so far from home, but I don't guess that makes any difference because it will be a long time before I will be able to get a furlough. But they say you can get a leave as soon as you get your training over. I am in the Tank Destroyer Training Battalion, but that is all I can tell you. In my first letter I told all the people I wrote all about the training course and other things that I shouldn't have written about, but I found out today that I was not supposed to say anything about what we are doing and what we are using. Please answer because you don't know what it's like. Yours truly, C. G.

From where I sit...

by Joe Marsh

Went by Will Dudley's farm a week or so ago and found him stripping his tobacco. It was mighty cold in that stripping room, and Bert looked good tired. His son's gone in the army and he needed help. But he was whistling at his work and his face lit up when he saw me. "Just be a few minutes," he said, "and I'm through!" Will's a typical Kentuckian. You can't get him down. He's doing the work of three men on that farm of his. But Kentuckians aren't afraid to pitch into a hard job and see it through, whether it's fighting or farming. And after the work's done, they like a bit of sociability for relaxing. To sit with neighbors and argue crops and politics—especially politics! And maybe drink a moderate glass of cool beer.

From where I sit, it looks like most Kentuckians know that moderation in living is pleasant and worth-while.

Farmers Urged To Cut More Pulpwood

Reports of increasing gravity of the pulpwood and paper shortage were coupled today with an appeal by the War Manpower Commission for farmers to turn to pulpwood cutting and lumbering during the agricultural off-season.

Enforced reduction of at least 18 per cent in all paper products available for use in the first three months of 1944 was indicated by the War Production Board.

The W. P. B.'s Forest Products Bureau reported that pulpwood production decreased 18 per cent in the first nine months of this year as compared with a similar period in 1942. With a time lag between the cutting of wood and production of paper, the bureau said, first effects of the decrease probably will be felt in January.

Incomplete returns from the solicitation of Morehead merchants have already passed $500. The first report on the sale of scrap collected by the schools is that from Breckinridge Training School, which realized $64.

Within a week or two, returns should be complete enough for the campaign committee to make a full report to the community through these columns. It is believed practically certain that the people not yet heard from will respond as liberally as others have already done, so that when the figures are finally totaled the Kentucky War Fund will receive its full $2,340, the Girl Scouts their full $320, and the Boy Scouts their full $300.

By this time next week, Rowan county should be able to congratulate itself on a job well done. And then, since this is war, we can all go on buying war bonds until it is time to contribute to the Red Cross in March.

FSA

ods of work and the living standards of a half-million families on small farms, the greatest achievement of the FSA in 1942 and 1943 was its "Food for Freedom" program. Small farm operators who before coming under the FSA were making it possible for him to eat as well as he has.

"Last year, Congress authorized FSA to make loans totaling $97,500,000. This amount was exhausted by April 1, and many applications for food production loans had to be turned down for mere lack of funds.

This year, with food production even more vital to the Nation, FSA's lending authority has been cut to $90,000,000. If the request for supplemental lending authority is not granted, many more thousands of applications for loans will have to be turned down.

This definitely will mean less food for the war effort.

"Furthermore, if the FSA request for a supplemental appropriation of $8,500,000 for administration and services is not granted, the work of the FSA with its present half-million farm family borrowers will be practically nullified. Previous appropriations cuts, had already forced FSA to reduce its staff throughout the country from 17,097 in the fiscal year 1941-1942 to 10,300 at the present time. If the requested supplemental appropriation is not granted, personnel will have to be cut to about 5,800 persons and about half of the county offices through which loans and collections are made, will have to be closed. Food production and rehabilitation services in such an event would become ineffective.

"Unless the requested authorization is granted, the FSA will have to forego its plan to make 50,000 additional loans to small farmers — loans which would make possible increased production of food where it would not otherwise be produced.

"If these small farmers are denied the credit and advice and supervision they need to farm soundly and efficiently, the effect of this loss of food production on the country's effort and on consumers generally will be felt keenly. Last year, the half million FSA farmers, who constituted only 7.6 per cent of the more than 6,000,000 farm operators in the country, contributed 38 per cent of the country's total increase in milk. Equally good results were achieved in other food products.

"Farmers in the FSA program include only those who are ineligible for bank loans or loans from other agencies, and who have no other source of credit but the FSA. Yet despite that fact, these farm families have repaid through FSA into the Federal Treasury the guidance of the FSA did not produce enough to feed them-make amazing additions to the Nation's food supply through this supervised credit program. Every person whose food is rationed more than 90 per cent of the payments that have come due on their loans, plus 5 per cent interest. That is the result of help in planning and supervision by FSA county supervisors.

"If this supervision is withdrawn for lack of appropriations, it is possible that the ability of present borrowers to repay their loans will be jeopardized and they will be unable to continue along the road to sound and profitable farming up which they have started to climb with FSA's guidance."

After graduation, he was given a short leave which he spent with his mother, Mrs. Frank Havens, and family, and then he returned to Luke Field, where in ten days he, with several of his buddies, completed a six weeks' training course, and then he reported to Marana Field, near Tucson, Ariz., for actual work.

"THERE'S SO MUCH TO BE THANKFUL FOR"

THANKSGIVING Day! Gee! That's funny! Or is it? Have I got anything to be thankful for? You bet your life I have! That dive-bomber missed me yesterday... Had a right good meal a while ago. It wasn't fancy, but it tasted good. The enemy has been pretty busy, and we hadn't anything hot for three days. But we didn't really go hungry. I'm sure thankful Mom and the folks don't have to miss meals.

Come to think of it, I guess after Mom and Dad, I'd put on my list all the folks back home who are working harder than they ever worked so that we can have better guns and more of them than the enemy has. It means something to know that we'll never have to go without something we really need to win this war.

But Mom doesn't complain. She'd probably thank God for letting her starve, if it would help me get through this O. K. I guess maybe I'm most thankful of all for Mom and Dad—and for the chance to help see to it that some dictator doesn't destroy the way of life they and all Americans like them have lived and been willing to die for.

I'm thankful that I'm still alive... that we're going to win the war... and that America's still America. Over here, we're trusting all of you back home to keep it that way until we return. Don't let anybody change it. It's worth fighting and dying for, the way it is. We want to come back to it and live and work as we please, with equal opportunity for all. We don't want to come back to a country where most of our previous freedoms have been done away with.
