

THE ROWAN WAR.

The Martin House Burned—The State Troops on the Way to Morehead.

MOREHEAD, KY., June 29.—The Martin house was burned last night, and all the inmates were run out. They were in good condition but everything in the house was destroyed. Miss. Martin said the Tollivers would burn the residences of Judge Carey and Mr. Logan to-night, and there is no telling what they will do. She is authority for the statement that all the Martin faction have fled from Rowan County, and she adds that they will not return unless the Governor sends troops to see the fair thing done. She says she heard some of the Tolliver faction say they were going to make an attempt to rescue A. M. Bowling, now in jail at Mt. Sterling on the charge of murder.

At this hour there is not a soul on the streets of Morehead, and there has not been for several hours. Everybody is afraid of being shot in recklessness by some desperado. It is rumored here that the State troops will reach here at 1 o'clock to-night from Louisville and Richmond. They are certainly needed, as great trouble is anticipated. Although everything is quiet, as soon as a train arrives, a mob rushes to the depot with muskets in their hands; and it is feared that if troops come to-night they will have a bloody welcome in getting off the train.

One of the C. and O. linemen who had incurred the displeasure of one of the factions, was stripped stark naked this morning and run out of town.
