appraisal after Frankfort told the Magistrates this would not increase taxes... only qualitate them.

The Department of Revenue spent six months in the re-appraisal, but the Morehead News found it "most difficult" to find out how much the assessment increased because it was being changed from day to day.

The tax rate was subsequently lowered by Fiscal Court to 66.1 cents on each $100 assessment. The total paid by the taxpayers, including franchises, jumped an estimated $150,000 to $200,000.

Missing Property Located

Revenue officials said the major part of this increase was due to property that had been overlooked (omitted) by former Property Evaluator (Tax Commissioner) Junnie Wilson. They also charged that the tax records were in a mess and assessments were not uniform. Mrs. Wilson resigned her office, although she had three years left on her elected term, issuing a statement to the newspaper: "They (Revenue Department) are about to tax you to the death." (A short time later Mrs. Wilson, a wheel chair convalescent, died).

There is no question but that William C. (Bill) Porter, who was elected to succeed Mrs. Wilson, has located hundreds of pieces of real estate that had been left off the tax books; and also automobiles, furniture etc. New homes and buildings have added to the assessment, but millions of dollars have also

Morgan Woman Is Charged With Murdering Husband

A 19-year-old Morgan County woman, Bernice Grigaby Wright, has been charged with murder in connection with the shooting death of her husband, S.D. Wright, 23.

State Police in Morehead said the shooting took place at 8:30 p.m. last Thursday about eight miles east of West Liberty on Cow Branch Road at the home of the victim's mother-in-law.

According to investigating officers, Wright was shot between the eyes with a 22-caliber rifle. Officers said the incident followed a family dispute.

Mrs. Wright was lodged in Morgan County Jail pending arraignment before Morgan County Judge Gene Ape.

been removed due to large land purchases by Morehead State University, and along Cave Run reservoir, which is tax exempt. The last General Assembly enacted a homestead exemption law which exonerated $6,500 of the assessment of persons over 65. Despite this, the total Rowan County tax bill is considerably higher this year than it was last year. Porter attributes most of this to the "missing" property he has located, and more accurate record keeping.

The Sheriff's office said it has received numerous complaints that "our assessment is the same, but our tax bill is up." This is because Fiscal Court raised the rate this year from 66.1 cents to 68 cents - about three percent.

City, County Bldg.

Plans Remain In Status Quo For Next Month; No Mention Made Of Setting Aside Jail Order

The proposal for Rowan County and the City of Morehead to cooperatively erect on courthouse square a municipal building to house both seats of government, will remain in "status quo" for at least another month. The month's delay resulted Thursday at a meeting of Fiscal Court when the architects, employed jointly by the city and county, reported they would take 30 more days to complete the schematics of the new structure.

But, Pat Williams, representing McLoney and Tune, Lexington, the firm employed by the joint planning committee, did present a general picture, with drawings, of what would be recommended -

The structure would consist of 39,000 to 40,000 floor feet. It would face University Boulevard and the main entrance would be from that street, because courthouse square has more depth on the Boulevard side than on Main Street.

The structure would be what is commonly known as a 2 1/2 story building. The bottom floor would have windows at the top above ground level; and the Morehead Fire Department would be housed in lower level quarters with higher ceilings.

At length there would be side entrances, most of the traffic would flow from University Boulevard into a circular foyer; and the city and county offices having the most traffic would be erected around this circle - county court clerk, city clerk, municipal plant board, etc. The offices visited less often by the public would be relegated to the rear or side hallways.

The jail would be designed on a "regional" basis. (The trend over the nation, particularly Kentucky, is for less jails with each serving more counties).

The court room would be on the top floor, and designed for use by circuit court, county court and city police court. This floor would also have some offices, plus jury rooms etc. Parking would primarily be off Normal Avenue and 2nd Street. The number of parking spaces would be governed by how much grass, and how many of the old and large trees that the county wanted to preserve.

Public Rental Space Not Included

Williams said he would present at the December meeting of Fiscal Court the full plans, plus an estimated cost breakdown. He said this report would also contain the number of floor feet designed for use by the county, and space relegated to the city. The plans presented to Fiscal Court Thursday did not contain any rental offices, such as had been previously discussed for district headquarters for federal programs etc.

It was discussed that the structure would cost around $20 a floor foot, and probably $900,000 overall.

Old Courthouse Would Go

Williams said that the present courthouse, erected in 1894, and jail would have to be demolished, and county offices would have to be moved to rental quarters elsewhere in town for about 12 months. He pointed out that this move is not as difficult or expensive as usually believed, specifically referring to several other Kentucky counties that tore down their old courthouses and erected new ones on the same site.

Magistrates were also advised they would receive at the December meeting a breakdown in financing the probably $900,000 structure, i.e., amount of rent the county and the city would pay each year to amortize the bonds over 20 or 30 years. Talk has been widespread that Fiscal Court has abandoned the idea of a county-city building, and has started renovating the old jail, which has been condemned. Any such thoughts or plans were not mentioned at Thursday's Fiscal Court meeting. Instead, the Magistrates and County Judge Ot Caldwell said they would get a clearer picture after McLoney and Tune submit the final schematics, and probably costs in December.

Prisoners Kept At Winchester

Last month circuit Judge Henry Pennington condemned the main jail and the annex that houses female prisoners and juveniles. His order specified the jail can be used by the county and city only as a holdover; and no remodeling plan would be acceptable.

Prisoners are now being kept in the Winchester jail. The cost to take a prisoner to Winchester is $20, and the amount is the same to return the prisoner to Morehead for trial.

The Court of Appeals has appointed Judge Delbert Eagle of Lancaster to preside at the next term of Circuit Court which convenes at Morehead Nov. 20. Reports have been freely circulated that Fiscal Court will ask Judge Eagle to set aside all, or part, of Judge Pennington's order. But, this was not mentioned Thursday.

An unexplained development is why the old jail has been undergoing considerable repairs in the face of Judge Pennington's court order as it will be torn down if a new county-city structure is erected.

Federal Grant Improbable

The county and city have appointed a joint planning committee composed of Fiscal Court members, Council and citizens to study and make recommendations on a new building. Larry Breeze is Chairman. It would appear after Thursday's Fiscal Court meeting that this planning committee is also operating in status quo until after the December meeting of Fiscal Court; and by that time the November term of Circuit Court will probably have been adjourned.

Magistrates were told Thursday there is little hope for a federal grant to help erect the new building. At previous meetings it has been discussed that a federal grant might be a deterrent since the federal labor scale must then be abided with, which is extremely high in Rowan County with over $5 an hour the common (class B) labor and the scale ranging sharply upward for skilled trades. This high wage rate gained approval because of millions of federal dollars being used on major buildings and skyscrapers at Morehead State University.

Also entering the financial picture and certain to be a factor in the final decision whether to erect the combined county-city office building is whether Fiscal Court and Council can use federal revenue sharing money. These funds have been voted by Congress, but not distributed, and guidelines on how the money can be spent aren't finalized.

Health Dept. Getting Tough

Gurley said the City dump is isolated and hard to get to, and this is why so many rural people are dumping garbage along arterial and side roads.

(The Morehead News recently editorially condemned Rowan the "filthiest" county in Kentucky in this respect).

Gurley made a plea that unless something is done to correct the situation the Department of Health will be forced to take necessary steps to "stop the dumping of garbage all over the county."

County Judge Ot Caldwell said at Thursday's meeting: "If we install these 15 garbage containers with a weekly pick-up then, I will have no regrets about fining anyone caught dumping garbage elsewhere."

Fiscal Court concluded the discussion by arranging a meeting, maybe at night, with date to be decided between the Magistrates, health authorities, and Patrick, to "work out a possible agreement." This meeting is to be within the month, Judge Caldwell said.

Magistrates were unanimous in saying they recognized a problem existed, but wanted to look into the cost and what their budget permitted. (Elsewhere in this issue is a Morehead News compilation that county tax collections will be at an all-time high this year).

UMBRELLAS PLENTIFUL... Despite the rain on election day, the Rowan County vote was heavy and the above scene was typical at the voting houses. Workers at Thomas Addition (11) precinct were caught in the unposed picture at 3:15 p.m. They are, from left, Rosella Abner, John Hall, son of Howard Hall who ran for Circuit Court Clerk, Jeff Burchett and Jeanie Reynolds.

Kentucky Afield

By Hope Carleton
Dept. of Fish and Wildlife

With the opening of Kentucky's upland game season less than a month away, many hunters will find themselves poorly prepared unless they begin now to condition their equipment, their dogs and themselves.

Many sportsmen who are in the forty-years-old and up class spend most their days behind a desk. Such people, as a rule, aren't too active and the seldom-used muscles and tender feet make a day of strenuous physical activity an extreme hardship, if not an impossibility.

Such persons should first of all see their doctor for a complete physical checkup, assuming no problems are encountered there, the prospective hunter should begin an exercise program which will tone up those muscles gradually and sufficiently to undertake and enjoy a day's hunt.

If new hunting boots are needed, don't wait until the day before the season opens to get some. Buy ahead and wear ahead. Blisters make poor hunting companions.

Hunting dogs, too, get out of shape and in addition to a gradual increase in the dog's exercise routine, a visit to the vet should be routine for him, also. Perhaps, immunization shots will be needed and the dog will be checked for such things as parasites and other disorders as well.

Of utmost importance to the hunter should be the condition of his firearms, especially from the safety standpoint. Guns stored since last season should be inspected carefully to see that the barrels are free of obstructions such as mud dauber nests, gobs of lint from the gun cases, etc.

Lastly, the hunter should familiarize himself with hunting rules and regulations and begin to scout his territory. It isn't too early now to check with landowners and request permission to hunt later on. Hunting is, after all, a privilege and not a right and the landowner's property should be respected at all times.

A brief rundown of the 1972-73 seasons, (all dates inclusive) follows:

Rabbit, quail, Nov. 16-Jan. 31; Squirrel, first phase continued through Oct. 31, second phase Nov. 16-Dec. 31; Grouse, Nov. 16-Feb. 28; Gun deer, for deer with forked antler or antlers only, all counties open except Jackson and Owsley, Nov. 11-Nov. 15; Archery deer, first part continued through Oct. 31, second part opens Dec. 1 and continues through Dec. 31, either sex deer in all counties except Jackson and Owsley; Furbearers, Nov. 16-Jan. 31; Doves, first part continued through Oct. 31, second part, Dec. 1-9.

Bag and possession limits: Rabbit, 6 and 12; Quail, 10 and 20; Squirrel, 6 and 12; Grouse, 4 and 8; Deer, one per year per hunter whether by gun or bow; Furbearers, no limit, and Doves, 12 and 24.

There is a closed season on all species of wildlife, protected and unprotected, except deer, water fowl and raccoon from Nov. 1 until midnight Nov. 15.

Further information on hunting seasons may be obtained by writing the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Dept. H, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

There's No Match for the Flameless Electric Range!

There's a big difference between a range and a stove. In the first instance, you cook with clean, flameless electric heat. In the second case, you cook by fire. That's the difference between "clean" and "pollution."

With an electric range, efficient heating coils fit snugly against the bottoms of pots and pans, with no flames to leak out around the sides of your cooking utensils. Electric power comes through a simple plug directly to the heating elements - with no concerns about fuel lines that feed a pilot light and burners.

A flameless electric range cooks cooler because it doesn't waste heat. It's flameless - and that means sootless, smokeless and flameless. See your appliance dealer about the flame-free benefits of a clean, electric range.

Electricity - the cleanest energy you can use.

November: The 'Twilight Month'

By Nevyle Shackelford

November, which Henry David Thoreau called the "twilight month" and the early Saxons, the "wind month," is a time when all nature seems to be holding its breath in anticipation of the arrival of turbulent winter.

Harvesting season is over, crops are secure in the barn, fruits from the orchard are packed away, and most farm and garden activities are at a standstill. This is the month in which country people once yearned for the snows to come so they might feel the fatness and the comfort of their long preparation for winter.

But, if time hangs heavy after a busy summer, there are still some things that can be done with profit in November. Late falling leaves can be raked from the lawn and composted before they freeze. Turnips can be pulled and holed up in the garden or stored in boxes of sand. If stored by the latter manner, they should be kept in a room that will maintain a temperature of between 33 and 40 degrees. Also it is well to bring in some garden soil for potting plants and sowing seeds later in the winter.

If dahlias tubers haven't already been dug up and stored, this will be about the last chance to complete the job. Do not, however, pull them up by the stems. Instead, dig the tubers with a hoe or potato fork. If dahlia stems are broken off too near the roots, the tubers will not sprout and grow when planted next spring. Then if there are young fruit trees around the place, it is also a good idea to wrap the trunks with burlap or wire mesh. This will prevent them from being girdled by hungry rabbits that depend upon young tree bark for food during the time of deep winter snows. Since field mice are not above digging down and gnawing bark from the roots of young fruit trees, it will be well, while wrapping the trunks, to rake away any mulch that may be around them. Mice love to burrow down in soil made softer by layers of mulch.

The slowdown in November is a good time to round up lawn and garden tools and equipment and move them into a shelter where they will be handy come springtime. If any of the equipment, especially lawn mowers and rooters, needs repairing, now is the best time to do it or have it done. Later in the winter it may be too cold to work outside on this machinery; early in the spring, times may be busy. Get this job done now.

There are other things that can be done around the place, but after a busy spring, summer, early fall getting ready for winter, the month shouldn't be devoted entirely to work. While November has also been referred to as the "melancholy month," it is not without attractions. Many find the hazy mystical days of Indian Summer the most delightful season of the year. The advice is that when these halcyon days appear, drop everything, get out, and enjoy them.

300,000th Phone Installed By Gen Tel

General Telephone Company of Kentucky celebrated the installation of its 300,000th telephone yesterday (Wednesday) ceremonies at the Holiday Inn near Morehead.

Recipient of the milestone telephone was Miss Peggy Harrell of Morehead.

Miss Harrell, whose father is basketball coach at Morehead State University, is reigning "Miss Kentucky Teenager" and was selected first runner-up in the "Miss National Teenager" pageant in Atlanta in September.

Miss W. Campbell, Gen. Telephone president, noted that Morehead was selected as the site for the commemorative ceremony because of the community's outstanding growth rate. During the past 34 months, the number of telephones served by the company has grown 20 percent while Morehead has shown a telephone growth rate of 44 percent.

"Morehead," Campbell noted, "is a major toll center for the area and an important part of expansion plans for General Telephone. During the past five years we have invested nearly $3.3 million in Morehead for new and better facilities. Next year alone, our construction plans call for projects totaling over $1 million."

"Our growth in Morehead is a result of the community's development as well as the growth of Morehead State University," Campbell said. "The Morehead area is becoming a regional health care service center and the Cave Run marina project are good examples of Morehead's expansion and its vital role in the Commonwealth."

Campbell noted the company's growth toll center for the area and an important part of expansion plans for General Telephone. from 250,000 telephones to its present 300,000 has been achieved in a short period of 34 months. The 250,000th telephone was installed at Glasgow Foods, Inc. in Glasgow during January, 1970.

"We are currently spending $108,000 each working day throughout our 54 exchange areas to expand and improve customer communications," Campbell said.

"Through the dedication of persons such as Morehead District Manager E.L. Ashurst and his staff of 145 employees, General Telephone of Kentucky pledges to provide the best service possible by being constantly aware of your needs, acting promptly to meet these needs, and keeping you informed of what we are doing."

"By meeting this obligation to Morehead and every other Kentucky community we serve, we will continue to provide the high quality service our customers have every right to expect."

BIG PIPES... At Cordova, Illinois, huge pipe sections for a 1,000-foot diameter filter for a water treatment plant are shown on barges. The pipe sections measure 16 feet in diameter and 40 feet in length, were fabricated from inch-thick steel plates.

Quarterback Returns, Pleases Eagles Fans

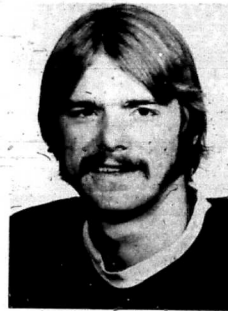

Dave Schaezke came back and Morehead State University football fans are glad he did.

The witty quarterback showed his old form last Saturday at East Tennessee and his 294 yards of total offense carried MSU to a 14-7 win over the Buccaneers.

The victory disappointed a Homecoming crowd at Johnson City and snapped MSU's two-game losing streak. The Eagles now are 3-1 on the year and 3-2-1 in the Ohio Valley Conference.

"Dave looked like the great quarterback of the past two years down there," said Head Coach Roy Terry. "He's completely healthy for the first time this season."

Schaezke, who had been troubled with a shoulder injury, passed for 133 yards and two touchdowns and ran for another 133 yards to become the OVC's "offensive player of the week." He also reclaimed the league's total offense leadership.

Dave Schaezke ... back in form

The Toledo junior completed 11 of 19 passes in his best aerial showing of the year. Scoring passes went to fullback Roger Reese for one yard and to tight end Gary Shirk for nine. Kirk Andrews kicked both extra points.

While Schaezke was powering the offense, a rebuilt defense made the best show of the year by holding the Bucs to 242 yards and one touchdown. East Tennessee's total offense was 120 yards below what MSU had yielded on the average in its seven previous games.

Junior cornerback Geary Clutter saved the win with a pass interception with 1/2 seconds to play. Earlier, freshman linebacker Rick Fox had stopped an ETSU scoring drive on another stolen pass.

Junior tackle Durwood Brittle was picked as the team's top defensive performer with 10 tackles, four assists and two sacks of the quarterback Junior Louis Gideon, playing tackle for the first time in his life, came up with seven tackles and six assists.

Fox, who became a starting linebacker when Gideon was injured earlier this season, had nine tackles and four assists to go with his interception. Freshman linebacker Mike Jackson also had nine stops and four assists. Sophomore tailback Frank Jones rushed for 76 yards in 20 carries. Shirk, a senior and the team captain, and sophomore split end Mark Altgenburger each caught four passes.

Team Praised

"We had great effort from everyone," Terry added. "Our young men proved that their poor showing against Western was a fluke."

The Eagles face Illinois State this Saturday at 2 p.m. in the final home game of the year. The Redbirds are 6-3 after last weekend's 28-21 loss at Central Michigan.

"It will be a tough game," Terry predicted. "Illinois State is big and they have a fine passing quarterback and two excellent runners."

Saturday's game will be part of High School Guest Weekend at MSU. Several hundred visitors are expected.

Basketball Season

Basketball season at the Tildon Hogge School will open with a home game at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday. The team will meet Clearfield Elementary for the first game. Further information regarding the basketball season will be announced in the near future.

M'head Baseball Team Ties For OVC 1st Place

Morehead State University's fall baseball campaign is history and Coach Sonny Allen has become a booster of the mandatory split season in the Ohio Valley Conference.

The Eagles finished with a 10-4 mark overall and a 4-2 slate-in the OVC's Eastern Division, good for a first place tie.

"I had some reservations about the fall season when it was first approved," Allen said. "But we're real pleased with the way things worked out."

The split season was initiated by the OVC in an effort to take advantage of good weather in the fall. Games in the fall and spring seasons will be counted toward the championship.

Allen said the weather factor turned out to be a good one for his squad. The Eagles had only two fall changes because of rain. Last spring's schedule was affected 22 times by bad weather.

"We had a good fall season," Allen added. "Our defense and pitching were excellent and our overall hitting improved near the end."

By the end of the season, four MSU regulars were sidelined by injuries. Senior shortstop Bob Leon and senior catchers John Marsilio and Bob Richards are expected to be ready by spring. But senior righthander Glen McDaniel may have to undergo surgery. He has not pitched since last spring.

Sophomore righthander Jeff Garman topped the Eagle hurlers with a 4-0 record and an earned run average of 0.33, a school record. He is 8-0 since coming to MSU a year ago.

Junior first baseman Homer Cashish led the team in hitting with a .370 average, in home runs with four, in runs batted in with 19, in doubles with five and in hits with 17.

"Our young players did a fine job," Allen said. "We were especially pleased with the development of third basemen Gary Ferguson and Jim Schlemmer" and shortstop Dicky Tackett."

Steve Hamilton, former major league pitcher who retired last summer, was Allen's assistant coach this fall.

COED CARRIER ... Pam Cupp, Cincinnati freshman at Morehead State University, carries the football and evades her opponents in a friendly game of touch football on the MSU campus.

Soccer Team Will Seek Collegiate Championship

Dr. Mohammed Sabie hopes defense will carry his Morehead State University soccer team to the Kentucky collegiate championship this weekend at Berea.

The Eagles, 5-3 in regular season play, meet Asbury on Friday at 1-p.m. in the opening game of Division A of the Kentucky Intercollegiate Soccer Association. Murray State and Louisville clash at 3 p.m. in the other first round game.

"Our defense is fast and experienced but we have had some difficulty scoring at times," Dr. Sabie said this week. "However, our two leading individuals are as good as any in the state."

He was referring to center forwards Jim Williams, a senior, and Vic Pinton, a sophomore.

Dr. Sabie expects both to contend for the tournament's most valuable player award. Of its three division foes, MSU has beaten Asbury, 2-1, and Murray State, 2-1, and lost to Louisville, 3-1.

"With a couple of breaks, we could win the championship," the coach added. "Our young men are very anxious to play."

Dr. Sabie has compiled a 51-16-7 record since MSU adopted intercollegiate soccer in 1966. His athletes do not receive scholarship aid.

TWO CARTER CO. MEN GET SUSPENDED TERMS

Two Carter County men arrested Oct. 21 during raids by the sheriff's department and Kentucky State Police were given 30-day suspended sentences Friday by County Judge David McDavid.

Joe Griffith and Hilton Sexton, both of aid KY 7 and both charged with possession of alcoholic beverages in a dry or local option territory for resale, were two of five men arrested in raids the same day.

Judge McDavid said both Griffith and Sexton were fined $71 costs and ordered to execute $500 local option dry law bonds which state that they will not be involved in the illegal sale of alcoholic beverages for one year.

Pikeville College Begins Personal Enrichment Program.

Pikeville College has begun a non-credit course in Personal Enrichment on Thursday. According to Mrs. Len B. Rogers, director of the program, the course is intended to prepare college students beyond professional skills for a "well-rounded life."

The Personal Enrichment Program is designed after the Personal Development Institute at Morehead State University directed by Mrs. Adron Doran, who is a member of the Board of Trustees of Pikeville College.

Mrs. Rogers said the objectives of the program are to identify and better understand the forces that affect the personal development potential of students; develop in the individual certain intangibles such as confidence, self assurance, poise, and personal appearance; assist the student in a realistic assessment of himself and his surroundings; help develop attractive voice quality and good speech habits; and the art

Weekly Meditation
There is a museum in Deadwood, South Dakota, that has recorded this inscription left by a beleaguered prospector: "I lost my gun. I lost my horse. I am out of food. The Indians are after me. But I've got all the gold I can carry."

It is very possible that herein is found a frightening truth for our age. What matters if we live in a morally disrupted society, a world where millions of people are malnourished and physically starving... an age of economic and political upheavals... as long we have a handful of gold?
This seems to indicate the tempo of our present-day philosophy. "For what is a man profited if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?" A sinful world answers, who cares, as long as I have all I can carry! My friends, may we pray always to God for a right sense of values and then courage to apply them accordingly.

CHECK BOOK STOLEN FROM MOREHEAD HOME
Mrs. R.L. Smedley of Dickerson Trailer Court reported to the Morehead News this week that someone had entered the bedroom of her home from where they stole a personalized check book.
Mrs. Smedley said the checks were imprinted with her name and that one check already had been written on the account. That check, made out for $20, was cashed at Richards Restaurant.
The thief or thieves also obtained a copy of Mrs. Smedley's signature and had copied it on the check which was cashed.
She urges anyone who receives a check written on the account, which she has closed, contact the police.

Morehead East Main Street (Hwy. No. 60)

Leaf Market Opens Nov. 20

Morehead Tobacco Warehouses, along with warehouses throughout the eight-state Burley Belt, will open Monday, Nov. 20. Sales will be held Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday of the first week. The local warehouses are expected to sell nine to 10 million pounds of burley this season.

Although some opposition to the early opening was expressed, most tobacco auction warehouses, commission dealers, manufacturers and grower representatives favored the traditional per-Thanksgiving Day date.

During the first week, sales will be conducted throughout the Burley Belt — Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio, Tennessee, Missouri, Virginia, West Virginia and North Carolina — on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday.

Afterwards, until the marketing recess on Dec. 14, sales will be conducted on the first four days of each week.

After the recess sales will resume on Thursday, Jan. 4 with Friday, Jan. 5 also a sales day. Thereafter, sales again will be conducted on the first four days of the week.

The committee also established the sales day at 3½ hours, which will give the buyers 5½ hours before the Christmas recess to view the stacks of brown leaf.

That is the same number of ours as for last year's pre-holiday sales, during which auctioneers peddled more than 81 percent of the crop at the rapid clip of more than 7 million pounds an hour.

The same rules — based on individual states' laws — applying to the amount of tobacco that can be sold in one day are in effect this year. At warehouses selling under the basket system, not more than 1,250 baskets per day per set of buyers (or 360 baskets per hour) can be sold.

Warehouses permitted to sell on the poundage basis can sell no more than 340,000 pounds per day per set of buyers (not more than 1,800 baskets per day per set of buyers).

The Burley Sales Committee also passed a resolution urging all warehousemen not to weigh tobacco officially before Nov. 10, which is eight working days before the market opens.

Noting that in past marketing seasons there had been no uniformity in the starting time of afternoon sales, the committee passed a resolution urging warehousemen not to start the afternoon sales before 1 p.m. local time.

Helpful card tips

NEW YORK (UPI) — Helpful hints to remember when sending Christmas cards: —Address envelopes legibly and don't forget zip codes. —Put a return address on the envelope in case it is misrouted or the address has moved.

—Include your last name on the card. The receiver may know several "Janes" and "Joes."

—Sign cards personally unless you are sending so many the task would be onerous. Some persons still resent printing names.

—Include at least a brief note to friends you seldom see. —Mail early. The Post Office recommends surface mailings by Dec. 15 and air mailings by Dec. 20 in the United States. Use airmail for sending cards abroad but no later than Dec. 10.

—There is an advantage and a disadvantage in sending cards in unsealed envelopes with an 8-cent stamp. You can send two cards (limiting of one ounce), but your card will go third class.

—The trench coat for boys and young men has been shortened to just above the knees for spring. One of the newest versions: denim. "Pockets, hardware and zippers accent the easy bravado of this style."

—The safari look for men and women will turn up in casual suits for spring. The mark of the safari suit: leather trim, saddle stitching and welt seams. Most have four pockets on the belted jacket.

—Vassarite's in with a fanciful flowers hostess dress that's good for holiday parties. The polyester knit dress boasts a colorful splash of flowers on a long shirred skirt. Feminine ruffles frame a low scoop neck and lifted waistline. It's a lounge dress but it can stay at home or go out. At the price around $30 — who's to argue.

—For dash to any outfit, add a sleek turban and a black for scarf.

MSU Army ROTC Enrollment Best In 4-Year History

Morehead State University's voluntary Army ROTC program has its largest advanced course enrollment in its four-year history.

"It is anticipated that this Military Science III class enrollment of 60 ranks in the top five out of 290 schools offering ROTC, with the exception of military schools," said Col. Arthur L. Kelly, MSU's professor of military science.

MSU has the largest junior enrollment in the state, Col. Kelly said.

"It is interesting that Morehead State with a male enrollment of less than 2,500 has more enrolled in ROTC than the University of Kentucky with a male enrollment of 7,500," he said.

Although Morehead State has a smaller male population than Murray State University and Western Kentucky University, Morehead State has more ROTC cadets than the other schools combined.

"The profile of the 60 juniors is particularly impressive and gratifying," Col. Kelly said.

Four men are in the Honors Program and 32 percent have been on the Dean's List. Eleven have a grade point average of 3.0 (B) or better and 56 have at least a 2.50 standing.

Four juniors ranked in the top seven percent in the national academic achievement tests and 20 ranked in the top third.

Six ROTC juniors are members of the MSU football team and 18 have earned high school athletic letters.

Thirteen men won ROTC scholarships and two entered the program through the ROTC two-year program.

Three members of the group hold Student Government Association leadership positions. Three are veterans and one was the Silver Star.

Letters . . . to the editor

The Editor:

There is no doubt that schools and agencies in Kentucky have had a tremendous influence on the thinking of a people through the writing of Essays on Conservation over the years.

It is with this great background of talent and research that I feel the time is here for the teaching of Environmental Education as a part of the state Curriculum.

Environmental Education can be beneficial and worthwhile at all educational levels.

Environmental Education with our outdoor environment serving as laboratories for learning, Kentucky can make great strides toward the improvement of our nation.

Lloyd Dean,
Morehead, Ky.

and who was not proud of our baseball team which placed 2nd in the State Baseball Tournament.

The curriculum of the elementary schools has been expanded to include Band, Art, Music, Remedial Reading, Physical Education, the services of Guidance Counselors, a Social Worker, and a Librarian in every school while some schools have Special Education Classes and Computer Math programs.

Another way to determine the quality of a school or school system is to look at its end product, its graduates. Rowan County High School had its Homecoming on October 5, 1972. Here one may see doctors, dentist, lawyers, merchants, governmental workers, accountants, bankers, school teachers, building contractors, lumber men, statesmen, nurses, and laboratory technicians all to mention a few.

It is always interesting to notice and read the names of students from Rowan County who are on the "Dean's List" of Morehead State University. Only two students in the history of M.S.U. have a perfect 4.0 standing, one from Rowan County High School and one from University Breckinridge.

Yes! Every Rowan County citizen and taxpayer are proud of their school system, its teachers, administration, and auxiliary personnel for it has produced many of the leaders of today and will continue to produce leaders for tomorrow. Surely a school system of this type cannot be all bad as some would have us believe.

Farm Bureau's all new MOBILE HOMEOWNER POLICY

Protects you against financial loss

Materialism There is nothing wrong with desiring a nice place to live in, good clothing that will last and shelter the body, and good food to nourish the body. Where we go wrong, however, is in our excessive desires for more and better materialistic possessions.

God takes very good care of us in this community. We have nice homes and apartments, adequate clothing, and good food. But God demands more of us than just using the things of this world and depending more. He asks us to take care of our neighbors in distress, to aid one another with love and charity.

It is so easy to go on getting nowhere by desiring more of the material things of this world. And it is so easy when our minds are occupied with greed to forget our neighbors in distress. Yet the satisfaction that comes from helping someone is one of the richest spiritual rewards. Let us help one another.

Permanent Damage

Sustained exposure to sounds above the 85 decibel (dB) level can cause permanent hearing losses and exposure of even a short duration to sounds between 100 and 125 dB can cause temporary deafness, warns the Beltone Crusade for Hearing Conservation.

Proposed Standards By Water Commission Bring About Hassle

More than 100 persons attended the sixth of a series of regional hearings on proposed water quality standards held in Lexington. The proposed standards were drawn up by the staff of the Kentucky Water Pollution Control Commission.

A center of controversy over the standards centers on the merits of a proposal that would exempt 2,000 miles of streams from the state's strictest water-quality standards. These streams, which would be classified agricultural, would have to meet generally stated restrictions forbidding the discharge of materials "toxic or harmful to human, animal, plant or aquatic life."

Herman Regan Jr., the acting director of the commission's division of water pollution, told the group that the city had two apparent choices - stop growing or spend the money needed to improve the quality of its streams. He explained that Lexington had the disadvantage of being the second largest city in the country that wasn't on a major river. Effluent from waste treatment plants therefore must be discharged into area streams, he said.

The water quality management advisory commission in Lexington, which seeks higher classifications, has asked that the commission delay adopting stream-classification regulations for 90 days.

MOREHEAD RESIDENTS GIVEN 'THANK YOU'

The Editor:

We hear the word "please" a great deal in our lives. This letter is to say a simple "thank you." It is signed only by two, but actually comes from five million children who are grateful to the many people in Morehead who gave so generously to the Breath of Life Campaign. Our special thanks to Miss Leslie Englehart, the Methodist Youth Fellowship, and the volunteers who donated their valuable time and untiring efforts in all the campaign activities; to the newspapers, radio and television stations for their assistance and interest in telling the public about these children and their fight for breath.

All of these people have shown they really care about our children by helping to raise a total of $181.62 in the Morehead area, which will help meet needs on many levels of treatment, research and education.

The research to find a control for cystic fibrosis is accelerating, bolstered by a growing interest in genetic diseases for which C-F is considered a model, due to its complexity. The medical care now provided in 110 C-F centers is lengthening the lives of our C-F children and in many cases, relieving and curing the conditions of children suffering severe asthma, chronic bronchitis, bronchiectasis and a condition sometimes called childhood emphysema.

Encouraged by the progress we can report, we thank those responsible - and renew our dedication to the continuation of this fight against lung-damaging diseases in our children.

A PRINCIPAL LOOKS AT ROWAN SCHOOLS SITUATION

The Editor:

As Principal of a school in Rowan County I am naturally involved in the educational process of the children. I have listened to and read many true, half true, and false statements as well as seen many misrepresented facts about the Rowan County School System.

One way to determine the quality of education which a school or school system offers is to examine the curriculum offered its students. Rowan County High School has offered its students the basic subjects such as Math, Science, Social Studies, English, etc. for many years. However, within the last few years the curriculum has been expanded to include Speech and Drama, Foreign Language, Advanced Science and Math courses, Home Economics, Drivers Education, Woodworking, Art, Music, Typing, as well as many other subjects.

The Physical Education Department has been expanded to include Football, Track,

The lake, which will be Kentucky's fifth largest when complete, will be impounded behind Cave Run Dam, now under construction on the Licking River near Morehead. The Corps recently sponsored a tour of the dam site and lake areas for the news media. Facilities around the lake will include marinas, boat docks and ramps and camping areas. The lake area will be the only one in the nation administered by the U.S. Forest Service.

Sir Henry and Christmas

NEW YORK (UPI) - The printed Christmas greeting card was the inspiration of Sir Henry Cole, first director of London's Victoria and Albert Museum. He found the custom of writing Christmas notes to friends tedious.

In 1843, Sir Henry commissioned painter John Callcott Horsley to design a card bearing a typical English happy scene and the message, "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year To You." He sent out a thousand and was criticized by some of his friends for being impertinent. But the idea caught on quickly in England.

Louis Prang, a German immigrant printer in Boston, began producing deluxe Christmas cards for the British market in the 1870s and introduced a line of cards for the American market in 1875. These were superbly printed in as many as 20 subtle colors and often featured scenes framed by garlands of flowers.

Prang abandoned the card publishing business in 1890's when cheap, imitative imports flooded the market. His finest cards sold for the equivalent of $3.50 in today's currency.

Settlers Feared Harpe Brothers

By Betty B. Ellison

Neither jail nor cabin could hold Micajah and Wiley — those "Horrible Harpe" brothers — for very long as ruthless demons of the devil drove them across Kentucky in the late 1700's, killing, robbing, burning and terrorizing early settlers.

After their reunion with the women and their newborn babes, the Harpes continued their catlife activities. Accumulated crimes began to make the wayward life difficult for them as they were pursued by bands of armed men — some under orders from Gov. James Garrard of Kentucky.

While others killed for profit or revenge, the Harpes committed their heinous crimes with a sadistic delight. One of their favorite methods of disposing of their victims' bodies was to dismember them, fill the abdominal cavity with rocks and throw the corpse into a body of water.

Murder Brought Panic

Stephen Langford's brutal murder by the Harpes near Crab Orchard occurred at just the right time to arouse Kentuckians' demand for law and order along the Wilderness Road. Entire settlements were thrown into instant panic at stories that the Harpes might be lurking nearby, and men would immediately drop their work to take up arms to catch them.

Pursuit did not bother the Harpes as their band spread waves of terror over Central Kentucky. They probably wandered through the places we now know as Bernheim Forest and Knobs State Forest, near Bardonia; trod over what was already Lincoln country (the President's forebears) near Springfield, and what was to become Abraham Lincoln's birthplace at Hodgenville; and cavorted over the Barrens, where now Kentucky's

MEETING FOR VEGETABLE GROWERS IS PLANNED

An organizational meeting for Rowan County Farmers interested in growing and selling vegetables in 1973 will be held Wednesday night, Nov. 15, at 7:30 o'clock in the Rowan County Courthouse at the courthouse.

Since the policies will be formulated concerning growing produce, scheduling and cultural practices, it is important that all interested Rowan County farmers attend the meeting.

Hubert Davis, vegetable specialist from the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and Dr. Harold Love, marketing specialist, are planning to be on hand for the meeting.

It was pointed out by the Rowan County Extension Office that the program could mean "many outside-dollars coming into the pockets of farmers in the county."

newest state resort park, Barren River Lake, welcomes travelers near Glasgow. Whether they cared or not, the Harpes' trail was not unnoticed. Captain Joseph Ballenger, in Stanford, again organized a posse to search for the Harpes, and they set off before news arrived that Gov. Garrard had issued an executive order for Ballenger to pursue the killers. Ballenger's posse had a chance to enter his words of welcome before the Harpes stabbed him.

They finished him off with their customary surgery, stuffed him with stones and threw the body in Barren River, where low water later uncovered the crime.

Problems Encountered

Skaggs, one of the posse, had been among the famous "Long Hunters" who came to Kentucky in 1770 with Col. James Knox Skaggs lent his name to a Kentucky frontier trail (Skaggs Trace, also called Cumberland Trace) that began near Danville, crossed the Little Barren and Red rivers and continued on to Nashville, where it became the more famous Skaggs Trace.

At Skaggs' urging, the men resumed the search for the Harpes, but they were forced to turn back when they encountered an impenetrable canebrake, where the hunted had taken refuge.

Skaggs later rode to the farm of Daniel Trabue, near Columbia, to raise more men for the posse. Trabue, like Skaggs, was a Revolutionary War veteran, and while they were laying their battle plans, the Harpes were committing another murder — of Trabue's 13-year-old son.

Young Trabue had been sent by his father to a neighbor's house to borrow some flour and seed beans. After he failed to return, efforts to find him proved futile. Evidence of the Harpes turned up, though, where they had killed a calf on the East Fork of the Barren River and had made moccasins out of the hide, but there was no trace of the boy.

Two weeks later, chopped bits of John Trabue's body were found in a sinkhole along an old buffalo trail.

Gov. Garrard again appealed for volunteer help and this time offered a reward of $300 each for the Harpes' capture. Before the report of the reward had time to circulate over the state, the Harpes killed another man near Edmont and committed the famous Stump murder along the Barren River.

The Barrens were not the best place in Kentucky to settle in the spring of 1799, but it was a fresh start in life for a man remembered by his last name only. A lonely bachelor, Stump was fishing along the river bank below his recently finished cabin when he noticed a wisp of smoke across the river. In those days, smoke usually meant that neighbors were settling nearby.

Crime Continued

Stump pulled his string of fish out of the water, picked up a turkey he had just shot, changed his horses, stuck his fiddle under his arm and went whistling out to greet the newcomers. Stump probably never had a chance to utter his words of welcome before the Harpes stabbed him.

They finished him off with their customary surgery, stuffed him with stones and threw the body in Barren River, where low water later uncovered the crime.

Continuing their villainous voyage along the Barren and Green rivers to Henderson, the Harpes were embarking upon the last chapter of their unequalled careers in crime. They would join forces with the Cave-In-Rock gang to pillage the Ohio River; Micajah would lose his head, and Kentucky would gain an infamous landmark.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Neighbors at Odds

When the neighbors finally haled her lawsuit, Mrs. Baxter insisted she had a right to cook what she wanted and however she pleased.

But the court ruled that she was guilty of committing a nuisance, by maliciously inflicting discomfort on others.

Psychologists tell us that hostility grows as living space shrinks. One of the law's touchier areas is the media between neighbors at odds. And, as the above case indicates, evil intent may make the big difference in court.

This is shown even more clearly by the law's changing attitude toward spite fences. Such fences, erected deliberately to block off the daylight from a neighbor's house, used to be tolerated as a lawful exercise of property rights.

Now they are forbidden almost everywhere. At one court commented, in condemning a spite fence 11 feet high: "The right to enjoy the sunshine is a natural one, and no man can shut out the light of heaven for no better reason than to gratify his malice toward his neighbor."

Nonetheless, when we choose to live in an urban environment, we are also choosing the reasonable degree of vexation that goes along with it.

In another case, a family had a ventilating fan that blew cooking smells out of their kitchen, in the general direction of the house next door.

But this time, when the neighbors went to court to complain, the judge took due note of the fact that the houses were 27 feet apart. At this distance, he said, the degree of annoyance was too slight to awaken the law's disapproval.

The judge said he would not interfere "without some evidence that the cooking odors were revolting to a point beyond the effect of ordinary neighborhood exhalations."

Super markets
Shop for the best price, too

As you read over our food ad, you've already begun to shop for the best values to buy for yourself and your family. If we can offer you a better value than anyone else, then maybe we'll earn the right to serve you.

This is why a super market tries to give you the best value possible. And to bring those values to you, the super market goes shopping, too. Our shopping list is much longer than yours, of course, and we look for values all over this country and the world.

In the average super market today, there are about 8,000 separate items on the shelves. And many thousands more are introduced every year. You can see that the competition is enormous. And to show you just how strong competition really is, here's an interesting statistic: of those 8,000 super market items, about two thirds are brand new or improved over ten years ago.

So while you're bargain hunting among all the many values on this page or in our store, remember that to bring you these values, the super market must bargain hunt, too, among all the processors, manufacturers, and supplier of the products you buy.

The super market bargains for you, bringing you the best there is for the lowest price possible. Super markets shop for the best price, too.
