

Revenue Sharing Checks Received

The first payments to Morehead and Rowan County of federal funds authorized under the Revenue Sharing Act were received Monday and the city and county checks amounted to a combined total of $77,284.

County Treasurer Pruda Shay said the county's check was in the amount of $40,106. The city's check, according to Mayor William Layne, was for $37,188.

The treasurer for the county said a called meeting of the Fiscal Court was held Monday at which time the court voted to deposit the county's check in Citizen's Bank in a special fund called "Rowan County Revenue Sharing." Magistrates Virgil Richardson and Ora Matney were at the meeting; however, Magistrates Alfred Ellis and Larry Breeze would not be reached to be informed about the special meeting, according to the treasurer.

Mayor Layne said the city's Revenue Sharing check will be deposited in the general fund of the city until a decision is made as to how the money will be spent. He indicated it might be placed in a savings account to draw interest until it is needed.

The checks received Monday cover the period of January 1 to June 30, 1972. Additional checks will be mailed quarterly over a five-year period under the Revenue Sharing Act.

The county is expecting a total of about $300,000 during the five years. The city expects to receive about $200,000.

Senator Marlow Cook reported last Friday that the city used by the Treasury Department to compute the amount of payments has not been released for officials to grade the accuracy of the information used. He said that his office is available to those interested in channeling questions to the Treasury Department.

Kentucky's total sharing for the half-year payment was an estimated $43,656,651, with $17,187,143 of that amount going directly to the government of the Commonwealth and the balance distributed among county and local governments.

The project is a joint effort of four businesses in the post office area.

Off Road Travel May Be Halted In Primitive Area

The Daniel Boone National Forest is contemplating closing all off-road travel of motorized vehicles within the 7,300 acres over 10 square miles (see the Pioneer Weapons Hunting Grounds in Bath County, just over the Rowan line, District Forest Ranger Richard Bonvata told the Morehead News today.

Before making the final decision the District Ranger said he will be available at his district office in Rowan Park, near Morehead, next Tuesday (Dec. 19) for suggestions and comments, pro or con, from interested individuals or organizations.

Ranger Bonvata emphasized that this does not mean the Primitive Weapons area, in existence since 1962, will be discontinued. Boiled down, the forest service has under strong, and almost immediate, consideration halting the travel of all cars, motorcycles etc. on the roads and by-passes (many logging roads) leading off Ky. 828 which runs parallel to the west side of Licking River, and all other roads or vehicle passageways from Ky. 918 which originates further west at Salt Lick and travels through part of the primitive hunting area.

Reasons Are Recited

District Ranger Bonvata said that Tuesday's invitation for anybody to appear at his office concerning the proposed ban against motorized travel off highways 918 and 828 had nothing to do with relocation of Ky. 918.

Ranger Bonvata released a departmental memorandum citing the following as justification for closure of off-road traffic from highways 828 and 918 —

To maintain quality hunting and biking experiences — One of the objectives of the Pioneer Weapons Hunting Area is to provide hunters with a quality hunting experience. Indiscriminate use of the entire Pioneer Weapons Hunting Area by off-road vehicles would detract from this experience, and also be incompatible with hiking use. Adequate access without detracting to the area is provided by Road 918, Ky. 828, and the foot trail system.

To prevent damage to the existing foot trails and woods roads — Several of the foot

City Annexation Plan Protested

Semester Ends

MSU Fall Semester Ends
Saturday; Classes Resume Jan. 11

Morehead State University's fall semester officially ends Saturday at noon. Registration for the spring term begins Monday, Jan. 8 at 8 a.m.

Administrative offices will close for the Christmas holidays Friday, Dec. 22, at 4:30 p.m. and reopen Tuesday, Jan. 2, at 8 a.m.

Spring semester classes are scheduled to begin Thursday, Jan. 11. Registration of part-time students for night and Saturday classes is Saturday, Jan. 13.

Protest Filed By Residents Of Area Sought

The City of Morehead's proposed annexation has been protested in Rowan Circuit Court through a motion filed last Thursday, and the annexation hearing which was set for Trial Tuesday, Dec. 12, was not held.

The protest, in form of a motion filed by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cecil and Billy L. Patrick, requested that the court set aside the order assigning the annexation hearing for trial Dec. 12, and that the court continue the date of trial and hearing to a date not earlier than Jan. 12. The Cecils and Patrick are landowners of the territory sought to be annexed.

Hospital At M'head Robbed

Investigation continued today into a robbery at St. Claire Medical Center at Morehead as the Administrator, Sister Mary Joell, appealed to the person or persons who committed the act to "please return the checks which are of no value to anybody except the hospital."

The theft occurred Sunday night of last week in the business office. The thieves took a bank deposit sachet containing $135 cash and about $12,000 in checks.

The money and checks had been prepared for deposit in the bank on Monday morning.

Sister Mary Joell said that all the checks had been stamped (endorsed) "For deposit only" and were therefore useless to the person who took them.

St. Claire also has a record of who issued the checks, and payment on all have been stopped. However, no bank, or business, would cash a check with the endorsement "For deposit only."

The $12,000 in checks was mostly contained in one sizeable voucher from Blue Cross Insurance.

The people who tendered the checks to the hospital, including Blue Cross, have been notified; and many have already mailed or brought another check to the St. Claire business office after stopping payment on the one that was stolen.

Study Necessary

Burns affidavit to the court stated, in part, that "in order to properly represent the resident voters demonstrating against such annexation it would be necessary for counsel (attorney for Cecils) to thoroughly investigate and study the financial resources, statements and condition of the City of Morehead, including all agencies and departments thereof in order to determine financial capability of the City to provide municipal services to the territory sought to be annexed, and in making such determination to advise and consult with local agents in determining the amount of bonded indebtedness presently owned by the City and its capability for extension of municipal services."

In fact, the Cecils and Patricks moved the

To dismiss the City of Morehead's complaint and petition because it does not state a claim upon which relief can be granted.

To dismiss the plaintiff's complaint and petition because it appears to have been filed in Rowan Circuit Court on Oct. 31, 1972, and the same was filed less than 20 days before the day of the next succeeding term of Rowan Circuit Court which began Nov. 27, 1972. (The 20-day period is required by Kentucky Revised Statute § 12.010.)

Democrats Name Cline Chairman

The forces of Gov. Wendell Ford, although bogged down for over 24 hours seeking knowledge of parliamentary procedure and lacking opposition, elected their officers and members of the Rowan County democratic caucus committee Saturday afternoon at the courthouse.

The previous week Ford supporters had met at precinct polling places and named the precinct committees, committeewomen and youth members they wanted, all without opposition.

But, in Saturday's convention in the courthouse, the meeting was adjourned after two hours and 15 minutes as there was an apparent lack of guidance or know-how of party machinery.

William Whitaker, Jr., who has served as county chairman since E. M. Hodge resigned earlier in the year, announced that he was withdrawing from the race for chairman.

The committee members, elected Ora Cline as Chairman, without opposition.

A race developed for Secretary, and Mrs. May Williams, who has served in that position for the last 12 years, was defeated by Roberta Meade.

Mark Jordan proposed a slate of 15 members to the Executive Committee, but objection was raised since it finally only two women perhaps in violation of party procedure of instructions. Finally, four women and 11 men were elected to the committee.

They are — Jack Bizzell, Arnold Perry, Debbie Cline, May Williams, Roberta Meade, Ben Moore, Mark Jordan, Ora Cline, Claude Anderson, Jimmy Barker, Glenn W. Lane, Don Wynn, C. B. Carnett, Larry Breeze, and Paul Ousley.

Ousley served as temporary chairman to open the meeting Saturday.

One of the terms are for four years. However, in the past the party has selected campaign chairmen etc. for each election outside the party organization named every four years.

Highway 828 To Be Flooded

If off road travel is stopped people can still park adjacent to highways 918 and 828 and travel on foot through the vast primitive weapons grounds. Bonvata noted that many vehicles are using the back roads off 918 and 828 and this will likely be stopped.

He said such travel is damaging the primitive grounds and detracting from the ecology, natural beauty, and peaceful solitude of the restricted area.

When Cave Run dam is completed next year Ky. 828 from Midland through Zilla in Menifee County will be under water. Ky. 918 is being relocated, but part of the road will be within the primitive weapons site.

Relocation of Ky. 918 has been a highly controversial subject for the past five years. The League of Kentucky Sportsmen, Kentucky Longrifes and other wildlife and environmental groups want it relocated so as to least disturb the primitive weapons area.

The majority of citizens of Bath and Menifee counties have claimed at public hearings that if the road is routed west of the primitive weapons area it would be too far from Cave Run reservoir and detract from tourism.

Congressman Carl D. Perkins has solidly sided with the Bath County people who recently won most points in their contention when engineers said it would be cheaper and more feasible to route Ky. 918 along the ridges which mostly overlook the vast lake to be created although the route would cut through the primitive weapons (low and

Plans Are Announced For Alumni Building

The Morehead State University Alumni Association has announced plans to construct a $30,000 "alumni house."

Approved recently by the Alumni Association's Executive Council, the two-story, colonial-style facility will be financed entirely by alumni contributions already on hand.

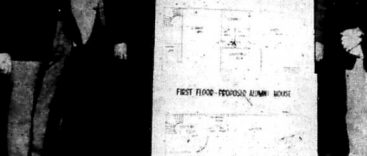

Construction is expected to start next month and be completed by early spring. The structure will rise on the site of the existing Faith Presbyterian Church on University Street near MSU's Claypool-Young Art Building. The church will be razed when the Presbyterians move into a new building north of Morehead.

The "alumni house" will contain more than 4,200 square feet of floor space and will include the offices of the Alumni association, meeting and reception rooms, display and exhibit space, a lounge, mailing equipment and kitchen facilities.

Funds for the building were provided by more than 300 persons who belong to the MSU President's Club, an organization created for the sole purpose of establishing an alumni facility at MSU.

Alumni Director Don Young said collection of unpaid pledges would resume in the near future and that a new appeal for funds would be launched to finance furnishings and landscaping for the new building.

Billy Joe Hall, president of the Mt. Sterling National Bank, has been named chairman of the new drive. Other committee members are State Rep. W. Terry McBrayer of Greenup, Ted Crosthwait of Frankfort, Dr. William Blair of Paintsville, Harold Wilson of Mt. Sterling, Roy Caudill of Morehead and

Ky. Volume Down

Sales volume was down more than 17 million pounds last week from the previous week's total of $9,827,835 pounds sold, according to figures supplied by the State Department of Agriculture.

The decline in volume was in line with the trend throughout the eight-state burley belt. The Federal State Market News Service reported that gross sales for the week Dec. 7 totaled 119,661,187 pounds, down 27

Rural Garbage Program Does Not Materialize

To date the possibility, for a county-operated rural garbage collection program appears slim.

At the November Fiscal Court meeting, Nell Gurley, Public Health Coordinator, and Bill Patrick, who operates a county-wide garbage pickup system, presented a possible solution to the dumping by Rowan County rural residents. At that meeting the court made a joint meeting would be held with the Magistrates, health authorities and Patrick to work out a possible agreement.

The Magistrates said they recognized a bad situation existed, but wanted to look into the cost and what their budget permitted.

No mention of rural garbage collection was made at last week's Fiscal Court meeting. Upon questioning, after the meeting, Judge Ott Caldwell indicated such a program operated by the county would involve too much money. Magistrate Larry Breeze said he considered the plan "dead."

No Meeting Held

Neil Gurley of the Rowan Health Department reported that no meeting, as was suggested by the court in November, has been held. Gurley said he told the court

Placed in Bank Deposit Pouch

"Despite the fact that we should recover all the sums on the checks ($12,000) we are faced with considerable effort, expense and time," Sister Mary Joell told the Morehead News. She continued: "I am hopeful that the person or persons who took the checks will drop them in a mail box, or some conspicuous place, so that they will be returned to us. This will aid and expedite our record keeping, and cannot possibly endanger anybody as nobody but the hospital can possibly cash, or otherwise, use, the checks."

The bank pouch containing the checks and $135 cash had been placed in a desk drawer in the business office. During the night the thieves evidently slipped the pouch out of the drawer, recognizing that it would not be missed until the next (Monday) morning.

Decoration Contest

Homes Decorated For Christmas Will Be Judged December 23

The Kiwanis Club of Morehead once again is sponsoring a Christmas Decoration Contest for residents of Morehead and its nearby subdivisions.

Awards will be given to first, second and third place winners. The homes will be judged on the evening of December 23.

No particular theme is being emphasized this year, and the contest is open to all types of decorations.

Winners will be publicly announced during Christmas week and they will be invited to attend the Kiwanis Christmas Ladies Night Banquet at which time prizes will be presented. The banquet tentatively is planned for sometime in February.

The Mature Woman

Have you a problem as a mature woman, or with one? For advice and help, write to Margaret Brookfield, Information Center on the Mature Woman, 3 West 57th Street, New York, N.Y. 10019.

THE SECOND FORTY (A forum about mature women)

By Margaret Brookfield
Have you a problem as a mature woman or with one? For advice write Margaret Brookfield, Information Center on the Mature Woman, 3 West 57th Street, New York, N.Y. 10019.

No Problem

(Note: Not everyone in this world has problems. Here's an interesting letter that arrived recently.)

Dear Margaret Brookfield:
This year I will reach the magic age of 40 and I'm looking forward to it. I really wouldn't want to change places with the younger women, who have so many insecurities and hangups. But I'm not ready to slow down or give up either. At this time, I feel the best is yet to come in life.

C.S.

Flying the Nest

Dear Margaret Brookfield:
I have a daughter of 24 — who's married, and a son of 21 who also doesn't live with us anymore. I've told them many times they should still consider our home, their home, but they hardly ever around. Although I keep on inviting them, they always have some excuse about being "too busy." I'm very upset about this. Do you think it's right for children to treat their mother this way? What would you suggest?

Y.T.

Dear Y.T.:
It's not easy for some women to accept the idea that their children have spread their wings — as we all must — and flown the nest. They go on treating their children as dependents even though they're out on their own. Naturally, young people resent this and prefer being around those who'll treat them as adults. Why not try another approach, although this may not be easy for you. Instead of making your children feel they "have to" visit, try to make them "want to" visit. Tell them they're welcome, but be more relaxed and "cool" about the whole thing. You might get a much better response as a result.

Writing A Will

Dear Margaret Brookfield:
I'm a widow in my sixties and feel I should be writing a will to distribute what worldly wealth I have among my three children. My problem is I don't like my children equally well. I'm rather fond of one, but less partial to the other two. Would I

Morgan Countian Killed Sunday In Accident

A Morgan County man, Harlan Perry, 53, Rt. 2, West Liberty, was killed shortly after midnight Saturday in a two-vehicle accident on Ky. 11 about 1.8 miles north of Mt. Sterling. Perry was driving a 1965 model Chevrolet.

Oscar Warner, 28, Sharpburg, driver of the other vehicle, a 1970 Ford half-ton pickup truck, was treated for injuries at Mary Chiles Hospital in Mt. Sterling and later transferred to a Lexington hospital.

A passenger in Warner's truck, Michael Sapp of Sharpburg, was treated in Mt. Sterling for injuries sustained in the mishap and then taken to a Lexington hospital.

State Police officers of the Morehead District Barricks said the fatal accident occurred as Perry was attempting to back from a driveway onto Ky. 11 and went into the path of the Warner vehicle.

Damage was extensive to both vehicles.

Elmer Hinton, 62, Dies Wednesday; Services Friday

Elmer Hinton, 62, Haldeman, died suddenly last Wednesday at St. Claire Medical Center.

A native of Carter County, he was born Oct. 15, 1910. He was the son of the late Ezekiel and Tonie Reeder Hinton.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Virginia Topp, Muncie, Ind., and Mrs. Juan Mark, Toledo, Ohio; five brothers, Dennis Hinton, New Castle, Ind.; Finley Hinton, Haldeman, Estill and Gerald Hinton, both of Mansfield, Ohio; and Coburn Hinton, New Egypt, N.J.; eight grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 1 p.m. Friday at Slesky Funeral Home by the Rev. Clifford Price and Rev. Willard Day. Burial was in Bowen Chapel Cemetery at Olive Hill. Pallbearers were Leon Adkins, and Karl M., Melvin, Ray, Morris and Steve Hinton.

Revenue Sharing Brings Requests To Fiscal Court

Don Kniseley of the Rowan County Case Conference expressed to Fiscal Court last week his interests in low cost day care centers that would cater to working mothers of low income levels, who can't afford the privately-operated nursery facilities in Rowan.

When Kniseley asked how the county's share of Revenue Sharing will be spent, answers were given quickly.

County Judge Ott Caldwell explained that several requests have been made for portions of the Revenue Sharing Funds. Without hesitation Judge Caldwell continued by saying, "I feel that all the funds should go for the city-county building complex if the complex can be built without raising taxes." He was referring to the proposed building to house the city and county seats of government.

County Attorney Harvey Pennington voiced his opinion by saying, "There are a lot of things we need to do in this county and there are a lot of priorities." He mentioned the jail as one of the priorities and said a close look should be taken at the others. In conclusion the County Attorney told Kniseley, "I say this with no reflection at all on day care centers."

The only other voice heard in regard to the request was that of Magistrate Ora Mabry who said, "I would like to see some of the money spent on county roads."

Report On Bridge

Kniseley also asked the court for a progress report on a foot bridge on Christy Creek to the May Reynolds residence. The court agreed on the bridge project at the November meeting.

Kniseley was told that the easement has been drawn up but the bridge has not been built due to lack of available help. Magistrate Mabry said he had been trying to get help, and that when help is secured the bridge will be built.

Veron Byerly, 69, Dies Following Extended Illness

Veron Byerly, 69, Morehead, died Monday in Daniel Boone Nursing Home following an extended illness.

He was born in Bay, Ark., on June 11, 1903, and was the son of the late J.L. Byerly and Nora Belle Lindy Byerly. He was a member of the Pentecostal Church.

Surviving are a brother, Chester Byerly of Morehead, and a sister, Mrs. Aileen White of Trestwood.

Funeral services were held at 10 a.m. Wednesday at Lane Funeral Home with the Rev. Ted Greene officiating. Burial was in Clearfield Cemetery.

Noise Is First In Occupational Health Hazards

A survey of occupational health hazards in Kentucky has revealed that noise is the number one hazard, followed by dust, carbon monoxide and temperature extremes.

The survey by the Occupational Health Program, State Department of Health, covered a representative sample of 22,421 employers and over a half-million workers. Not included were the fields of mining, government, construction, finance and agriculture.

Although noise was the commonest hazard, only four percent of Kentucky industries give hearing tests to employees exposed to excessive noise, and just 28 percent of the plants give periodic medical examinations to employees in hazardous jobs.

In addition, the survey showed only one-third of Kentucky industries require medical examinations for new employees, and only one-half take a medical history. More than one-third of Kentucky industries are without the services of a physician or a nurse, and, the survey states, a great many industrial medical programs "operate with a philosophy of treatment and compensation, rather than prevention" of occupational disease.

"Since the symptoms of many occupational diseases mimic common illnesses," they are often not properly diagnosed and therefore, not reported," adds J. Bradford Block, M.D., medical consultant for the Occupational Health Program.

Seven Maloney's Employees Given Citations Sunday

Seven employees of Maloney's Discount were cited Sunday in connection with violation of the Sunday Closing Law. They appeared before Judge Austin Alfrey in Morehead Police Court on Monday morning at which time a request for a jury trial was made. The trial was set for January 24.

Sunday marked the third consecutive Sunday the store has been open for business and on each of those days employees have been cited.

The seven cited Sunday included Stanley Schwartz, vice president of Maloney's, Herbert Barker, store manager, and five clerks. On the previous two Sundays, four clerks, Schwartz and Barker were cited.

The warrant, served Sunday by Charles Adams and Audrey Slaton of the Morehead Police Department, was signed by John Ramey. The November 26 warrant was signed by Jack McBrayer, and the warrant of December 3 was signed by C.G. Clayton. Jack McBrayer and William Burns.

The January 24 trial will be in connection with warrants issued Dec. 3 and 10. The employees were fined for working on Nov. 26.

BLOODMOBILE IS SUCCESS WITH 100 PINTS GIVEN

The Red Cross Bloodmobile visit was a success again. The goal was 100 pints of blood and that was the amount donated.

Two persons, Larry Bryant and Tom Hugenberg, were recognized for having given one gallon each through visits of the bloodmobile.

Mrs. C.C. Mayhall, secretary of the Rowan Chapter of the American Red Cross, said Ashland Oil and Refining Company contributed to the success of the bloodmobile visit. The firm gave a certificate good for five gallons of gasoline to each donor and worker.

MSU Debaters Win 6 Trophies

Morehead State University's debaters captured six trophies in two recent tournaments.

Susan Walburn, East Monroe, Ohio, junior, and Dan Grigson, Maysville, junior, returned with first place trophies from the round robin debate tournament at Marietta College in Marietta, Ohio.

Joe Fowler, Louisville junior, and Carol Snider, Madisonville sophomore, won trophies for individual second places. The team received a trophy for finishing second in the 16-team event.

Ron Mather, Hodgenville senior, and Kathy Crusie, Lyndon, Ohio, senior, received a trophy for reaching the quarterfinals of the elimination tournament at the University of Toledo.

The team is coached by Mrs. G.C. Webb, associate professor of speech.

This Is What The ...
Morehead Jaycees
... Are Doing

The fabulous Texas Cowgirls Basketball Team will be in Morehead on Jan. 4 to play the Morehead-Rowan County Jaycees "Super Stars."

The Cowgirls have been touring for 23 years, and have played over 4,000 engagements from coast to coast including Canada and Mexico. They have also played in Spain, Italy, North Africa, and Alaska. They have played in Madison Square Garden, the Boston Gardens, the Los Angeles Sports Arena, the San Francisco Cow Palace, and Cincinnati Gardens, among others.

The outstanding aggregation of feminine pulchritude and basketball ability is gathered from the top talent of outstanding school, service, and independent basketball teams in the U.S. and Canada, being selected for good moral character as well as athletic prowess. Their average age is 18 years, they usually play about 160 games per season, and their motto is "Large or Small, We Play Them All." Their 70 percent winning record over all-male competition is proof that they are an outstanding team.

The Cowgirls will be making their first appearance in Morehead at 8 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 4, at the Rowan County High School gymnasium. Advance tickets are available at the school and from most students. Priced at $1.50 for adults and $1 for students, the tickets will cost 50 cents more at the door.

The game is being sponsored by the Morehead-Rowan County Jaycees, and proceeds will go to various Jaycee charities.

Outstanding Young Man Being Sought

The search is on for Rowan County's most outstanding young man. The Morehead-Rowan County Jaycees each year select a young man within the 21-36 age group whose achievements have been significant to his profession and to the general welfare of the people and nominate this young man for Kentucky's Five Outstanding Young Men judging.

Jaycee chairman Tom Martin indicated the purpose of the OYM program is "to focus public attention on the outstanding achievements of Kentucky's young men and to illustrate the unparalleled opportunities available through our free enterprise system." Martin stated that nominations are open to all fields. Any individual, organization or association, educational institution, industrial group, profession, or civic group may enter one or more nominees. However, nominations must be submitted on an official nomination form which can be obtained from Mr. Martin at the offices of Commercial Credit Company.

Nominees will be judged primarily on answers to two primary questions:

- What outstanding contribution has the nominee made in his work or profession?
- What outstanding contribution has the nominee made to the general welfare of the people?

Deadline for nominations is Dec. 22. Anyone desiring to nominate a person for this award or needing more information may call Mr. Martin at 784-7531 or stop by his office on First Street.

Win Streak Snapped As EKU Upsets Eagles 90-85

Morehead State University's four-game win streak was snapped Monday night in Richmond as hot-shooting Eastern Kentucky edged the Eagles, 90-85, in the Ohio Valley Conference opener for both schools.

MSU, now 4-1 on the season and 0-1 in the league, was led by Eugene Lyons who tallied 34 points, Leonard Gaultier and Arch Johnson each had 18 and Howard Wallen added 15. Coulter grabbed 10 rebounds and Johnson, a sophomore who started for the first time, retrieved eight. Lyons came up with seven. Charlie Mitchell paced the EKV Colonels with 24 points and 11 rebounds. Dan Argabright added 16 points and 14 rebounds.

Eastern took a 59-41 rebounding advantage as the Eagles continued to play with senior center Ron Nicholson who is sidelined with a broken hand.

"It's hard to beat anyone who shoots like they did," MSU Head Coach Bill Harrell said of Eastern's nearly 54 percent field goal accuracy. MSU connected for 43 percent.

The Colones raced to a 46-36 halftime lead but MSU rallied to win within midway in the second half. However, Eastern sank four straight baskets and carried to lead a five-point margin the rest of the way.

Lyons hit 11 of 15 shots in his best effort of the young season.

Rowan Vikings Overpower Morgan County 68 - 53

By Bob Smedley

Friday night the Rowan County Vikings traveled to Morgan County and defeated the Blue Devils 68-53 for the third win of the season for Head Coach Zane Collins.

The Vikings, playing with leading scorer Jerry Ravenscraft on the bench part of the game, led 31-27 at halftime. In Ravenscraft's absence the leading scorers in the first half were Gary Cisco and Daryl Thompson with six points each.

In the second half, Ravenscraft picked up 13 points, seven of which were in the last quarter. Ravenscraft, with seven points and Cisco with six points, led the Vikings in the final quarter, with the Vikings outscoring Morgan 21-10.

The Vikings' defense took much of the credit as they held Morgan County's two high scorers, Jeff Broan and Cliffie Smith, to 10 and eight points respectively.

The Vikings were led in scoring by Ravenscraft with 18 points. Thompson and Cisco added 12 points each.

The Rowan team is led in scoring and rebounding for the season by Ravenscraft who is averaging 25 points and 14 rebounds a game.

HORTICULTURE COURSE

Mrs. Wightman is heading preparations for a Horticulture Short Course. Meetings will be held February 22, March 1, 8 and 15. Subjects to be discussed will be landscape design, selecting plants such as trees, shrubs, group cover, annual flowers, etc. to start your home planting and care of trees and shrubs, lawn establishments and care, and other subjects relating to homes and orchards. There will be a charge of $5 to cover the cost of notebook and other materials.

Personnel from the Horticulture Department at the University of Kentucky will be in charge of the classes. Those interested should call the Extension Office and register since the class is limited to 80 people and several counties are involved. Meetings will be held in the Farm Bureau Building in Morehead. There will be more details as plans are made.

A WHITE CHRISTMAS

If you are looking forward to a white Christmas such as they used to tell us about, the chances of this being true this year range from about 6 percent in Western Kentucky to about 20 percent over the rest of Kentucky.

In the past 23 years, there have been only seven Christmases where we had any significant snow cover over Kentucky - and all 7 of these Christmases occurred during the past 12 years.

In 1960 and 1963 there was a snow cover of one inch or more over most or all of the state. In 1961 and 1962 snow covers over the South and South-East, and in 1966 the snow cover was general except for much of the Bluegrass region and the North-East.

In 1969, snow fell on Christmas day was general and the heaviest since the 1930's. Snow cover ranged from one to six inches over the greater part of Kentucky and probably was much deeper in the higher elevations of the state's S.E. Section. On December 25, 1970, some snow fell in most sections of the state in the afternoon and evening with up to two inches in parts of the Eastern third.

Christmas day last year was snowless. Rather it was a cloudy, drizzly day with temperatures averaging from 10 to 20 degrees above normal. As a matter of fact, except in the higher elevations of the S.E., there has been little snow at all in Kentucky during the entire month of December since 1940.

DELAYED HARVEST

Our sympathy to corn and soybean growers. Many farmers who grow sizeable acreage of corn and soybeans are being held back from harvest because of wet weather. In the last few days, some fields suffered damage from flooding. Livestock feed prices are increasing. The farmer's profit margin is being narrowed considerably.

New Crops Will Be Discussed At Meeting

Seedsmen and farmers from throughout the state will be attending a meeting on Thursday and Friday at the Spring's Motel in Lexington. It is sponsored by the Ky. Seedsmen Association and the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Four crop specialists from the University of Kentucky will be on Thursday's program. Charles Reick will talk about controlling weeds in soybean fields. Al Williams will

Consumer Comments

This column is written by Ed W. Hancock, Attorney General of Kentucky, after having questions (or complaints) solved by the Bureau of Consumer Affairs, KY.

A very angry young man called our Consumer Hotline recently and told us that his wife had signed a contract for $100 worth of baby pictures. He said a salesman had called while he was at work and sold his wife the pictures.

In the past, such a contract would have to be honored at the expense of the consumer. Now however, under the new "three-day cooling-off period" law, the consumer may rescind, in writing, within three days, any contract amount to $25 or more made by, or on behalf of, a salesman who called him at his home without being invited to do so.

This relieves the consumer from most, but not all, responsibilities under the contract. The law also provides that, upon cancellation of a contract on which there has been a down payment, the seller is entitled to keep a cancellation fee, 5 percent of the cash down payment.

As a result of this new law, the young man whose wife signed the contract for baby pictures may be able to avoid the results which might otherwise have occurred.

If you have a consumer complaint or problem, you are invited to call the Consumer Hotline, toll-free, at 1-800-372-2960.

USS WEST POINT CREW REUNION SET

Former crew members of the USS West Point (AP22) America's largest troop transport during World War II, will meet in Chicago, Ill., June 21-23, 1973 for a reunion.

Former crewmen desiring further information should contact Sgt. John E. Danjel, 519 E. Nettleton St., Independence, Mo. 64659.

Publisher's Pen...

As we've written so many times you may have a zillion things correct but make one error in a newspaper, and a goodly number of readers will read a proptic call your attention to the mistake.

In the last issue, due to a typographical error, it was stated that the Housing Authority would spend 13 million dollars on 400 units for the elderly; and 12 general purpose low rent units.

The correct amount is about $3 million. Most newspapers, for easier readability, keep away from a long string of figures like $3,000,000. The easiest way to read large amounts is to put a dollar mark before the figure and then the million or millions, i.e., $3 million dollars.

We had no sooner jotted a memo to make this correction than the telephone started ringing about it. Circumstances of the appointment that Gov. Wendell Ford will make to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of 78 year old John J. Winn.

Typical of the complaining readers: "You said the person appointed will serve only until his successor qualifies in November because Judge Winn had not served half of the six year term." The first time this occurred, on January 1, 1973 when the resignation of effective he will have served three years and one day, which is over half of his (elected) term."

These telephone calls (Lord, bless them for they read the paper so closely and keep our staff on its toes) are a little bit right and a whole lot wrong.

They're correct that on January 1, Judge Winn will have been in office for three years and one day on his last elected six year term. But, under revised Kentucky statutes, which are not the contributing factor, and whenever the Governor names will be in office under that appointment only until next year's general election unless he is re-elected by the Secretary of State. Under new statutes, the compelling factor, is date in such resignations is 90 days prior to the November general election.

We've gone way out on a shaky limb to sort of semi-precise (subject to change) that Gov. Ford will name a Bath County Attorney to the judgeship. The first time since the turn of the century, or maybe in history, that the Circuit Judge hasn't come from either Morehead or Mt. Sterling.

There might have been another error, perhaps typo, in the last issue, but we can point to over a million factual statements, that were correct. For example, an ordinary news story contains perhaps 200 factual classifications... and everything has to be compiled and written fast. Sometimes we spend 15 to two hours typing this column which many consider too long; and other readers want more.

This is to advise that The Morehead Publishing Company, receives the Kentucky newspaper Thursday; have promise of another car Dec. 22; and four more cars in January. Maybe (we hope) our newspaper shortage threat is ended. Anyhow, today's safe in giving gift subscriptions because in the 27 years of existing ownership The Morehead News has never missed an issue; and has never been late. The newspaper's business and service establishments we work overtime (even all night) to meet deadlines. In this business you can't put off until tomorrow what you can do today. And you shouldn't delay mailing (with check) your gift subscriptions. An order form is inserted in this issue. A gift subscription to The Morehead News is as good as a milk stole. The milk stole may keep her stylishly warm, but the Morehead News will keep her informed. We admit though that most females value a milk stole more than knowledge.

Many of our friends say they hadn't heard of Virginia Commonwealth University until Morehead played and beat them last week. Virginia Commonwealth is located at Richmond, and is a consolidation of four colleges or universities. It's one of the biggest schools, with an enrollment exceeding 18,000, that our Eagles play this year.

The President of Virginia Commonwealth and his wife were traveling on the chartered plane with the team and were the guests of MSU President Adron Doran, and Mrs. Doran.

Everything was protocol until the ball game when that Commonwealth President complained to Dr. Doran that Morehead played unfair (dirty) and the officials were crooked. Naturally, this ended a friendship between two university Presidents.

Actually, it was a ragged game with Morehead winning 14-10 and the officials were crooked. Naturally, this ended a friendship between two university Presidents.

Virginia Commonwealth may be a bigger school but we're better; sort of like the Morehead News may not have the biggest newspaper in Kentucky but our pages are just as long and wider. We do not have a trade area better than any publication in the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

The Publisher's Pen, we confess, has been more lengthy lately. There's two reasons: 1. Our new Editor, Betty Ashurst has alleviated our normal 14 hours a day work schedule; and 2. We're making plans for returning to Florida right after Christmas. So, we're giving you big does now and this column will be missing during our Florida business trip. We can just see some of you readers, especially females, twitter at us as "business trip" reference and saying "monkey business."

The one reputation we'd like to have in this community is that the Publisher is a dangerous man around eligible women.

Iran's oldest man, a 130-year-old farmer, had 80 children and 18 marriages during the past 115 years, the Associated Press reported. He has four children by his latest wife, whom he married eight years ago when she was 14, the newspaper said.

We were disappointed that a substantial part of the $7 million in the will of George L. Bagby Versailles, didn't go for Bagby scholarship fund at Morehead State University. During his lifetime Mr. Bagby's first support for higher education was MSU, but a commission administering and allocating the funds after 10 years' court litigation, decided all should go to private schools and none to state-supported.

Perhaps we are selfish in disagreeing, because in any analysis the private and church supported colleges in Kentucky are having it tough financially. We are happy that Mr. Bagby's share — $250,000 — will be given to Kentucky Christian at nearby Grayson. We hasten to append that MSU was not a litigant in the long court battle as that was being contested by the state.

In our thinking, about Mr. Bagby's life was that he courted, and lavishly entertained several beautiful women during most of his life and still left $7 million in bequests. From long experience, this getting older and smarter every day Publisher can testify that females are expensive and can break you financially as quick as a Wall Street crash. That's one of the reasons we have never understood, and will not endorse to our dying day, women's lib. They're getting just about everything as it is.

December observation: girl friends always treat you nicer and are more cooperative this time of the year. Come January they get jealous and have a habit of disagreeing and perhaps nagging. The same applies to many married women in the treatment of their husbands right after Christmas is the most expensive month for us men, but also the most pleasant, which means that mature males are sort of like children.

As you may have gathered this newspaper is rather strong, editorially, behind the scenes. This is why you'll soon be reading in these columns about a privately sponsored recycling program in our community.

When Simeon Willis was Governor the good folks at his native Ashland considered he wasn't getting enough for his native Boyd County. Willis shot back that recurring original misdeeds demonstrated had ignored republican counties like Lewis and many in southeastern Kentucky and it was their turn at the public trough. Willis did locate a new hospital at Ashland in 1902. This week we learn that the State will close the hospital for lack of patients. TB is one of the dread diseases that modern medicine science has been unable to cure in the same fashion as pneumonia and polio.

The 112 bed institution has less than 30 patients and they will be moved to TB hospitals at Paris and London.

Re-reading the above, some of our readers, particularly out of state, may think that the Ashland hospital is taken to England and France. This Paris and London above referred to are in Kentucky. Both are progressive, have good newspapers with subscriptions to The Morehead News (not quite) as many pretty girls as Morehead.

The State of Kentucky has announced the controversial employment of 24 junkyard inspectors at Morehead, apparently all motivated jobs with little work and good pay. We suggest that a good place for them to start is within the city limits of Morehead.

One of our jobs around January 1 has been to classify the top five or 10 local or area colleges or universities for 1972-73. This time our new Editor will help us. We may have surmised we're turning over as many jobs as possible to her in Tom Sawyer fashion. We have a fair idea that among the top ranking happenings in this beautiful setting of 7,000 genteel folks and a few s.o.b.'s will be two major floods; golden anniversary at MSU; condemnation of the jail; and proposed annexation to enlarge Morehead's land area 300 percent.

Two of our predictions came true during the week. A year back this column forecast that Life magazine would fold; and more recently that a protest would be made in Paris against the six square mile annexation to Morehead including Division 11. There's their deer and maybe bears, and three miles of the Interstate. (See page one story).

A Circuit Court decision last month in which it was ruled that property owners along the former General Retraction's property at Morehead State University had set off a chain of surmising among land owners along the Morehead and North Fork Railroad which will soon cease business. Property owners at this issue: M&N President Roy Cassidy says he's already plagued with telephone calls. Cassidy emphasizes that this is an entirely different case in that the railroad was never acquired in fee simple title in 1900 without mention of a railroad easement; and 2. M&N does not intend to pull its tracks or abandon the road bed. Mr. Cassidy is hopeful that industry will locate in the Clearfield area so that M&N can resume operations. "This will be a cessation of business, not an abandonment," Mr. Cassidy told the Publisher.

Incidentally, the book that we hope to write about our four decades as a community (not country) Publisher and Editor, contains the comment that Rowan Countians have long referred to the Morehead and North Fork Railroad (M&N) as Morehead and No Further.

While on railroads — time is running out for any local civic group to preserve for posterity one of the old M&N steam locomotives.

All have been sold, and all but one are now in parks or zoos. Glenn R. Silcott of Worthington, an equipment dealer, accepted in trade a few years back old locomotive number 12. It will be part payment for some equipment purchased by M&N. This engine remains in the roundhouse at Clearfield.

Mr. Cassidy persuaded Mr. Silcott many months ago to contribute old number 12 to a local Morehead organization. Jaycees wanted the locomotive and planned to install it on their fairgrounds park just east of the city limits. Evidently they didn't recognize the cost or means of moving the massive engine. It would be necessary to haul it on C&O tracks and build a spur (siding) to move the locomotive onto the fairgrounds.

The Morehead News needs a railroad siding for unloading its supply of paper, and we've gone into the matter considerably with our first primary approach — the C&O. It would be a shame, though, to lose for future generations the last of the M&N steam locomotives. Most youngsters today have never seen a cow, and the majority haven't ridden on a train. When we were a boy the only available transportation into and out of Morehead was on a passenger train, pulled by a Steam engine.

The coming year will be interesting, perhaps bitter, on the local political front. All county offices will be up for grabs and several want-to-be candidates have tried to smell us out.

Among the offices at stake — County Judge, County Attorney, County Clerk, Property Tax Evaluator, Sheriff, all Magistrates, Jailer. And, there'll be City Council seats.

The Jailer's race may attract fewer candidates because it looks like some time may elapse before the Jailer has a jail.

We may as well say it now as we will when the year is over. The newspaper editorially — the Morehead News will refuse all political advertising that is libelous or borders on libel; and all that is personal with charges against anybody's character or private conduct. This is a rule this newspaper has held inviolate over many years... and, we don't print scurrilous handbills — the kind with the signature or initials usually distributed in the dead of night.

We have a fair idea that Morehead could be the site from which Kentucky's new local option Sunday closing law will be tested through the courts. The last General Assembly passed the measure whereby local governments (Council and Fiscal Court) could permit certain classes of retail stores to remain open, or they could keep them closed.

A discount chain (Maloney's) has drawn considerable fines for doing business on Sunday at their Morehead store. They've also received considerable publicity — the kind that paid advertising can't buy.

We have no doubt but that Maloney's consulted their Attorneys before opening their Morehead store on Sunday... and, appeals are planned from the city court to the circuit court; and perhaps then on to the Court of Appeals or maybe federal judges.

This could be a much publicized test of the constitutionality of Kentucky's local option Sunday closing statute.

The divorce rate in the United States has climbed to an amazing 40 percent. We have some additional figures on the number of students at Morehead State University who get married with the understanding, sometimes in writing, that after they receive their degree they'll get divorce. Through wedlock they become eligible for married student housing, food stamps and other benefits, plus the experience of living together. Our only editorial comment — sounds exhilarating, but we're agin' it.

Morehead's new telephone directories were distributed over the week, and we think the cover is attractive... a woodland and lake scene much like you can see many places in the Morehead area.

We commend General Telephone Company for a nature scene on the front cover instead of the usual advertising of yard and color extension. The General relegated this promotion to an inside insert.

This year's phone book is thicker than the ones. We're not counting the listings but know General has over 7,000 phones in Morehead, including the Centrix system at the University, and extensions.

When Morehead's telephone directory was one mimeographed sheet. You cranked the phone and didn't need to call by number as operator Goldie May knew every user by name. Goldie was the best kind of telephone operator in that era — she knew who was courting whom when they shouldn't be, but you couldn't pry any information from Goldie.

Prediction: Robert (Bob) Laughlin will resign, maybe this week, as Athletic Director at Morehead State University, following a long, colorful, successful, and lucrative career. We hesitate to fix a guess on his successor, but the name of Steve Hamilton looms in a niche of our big brain.

County Equipment Will Be Used Equally In Districts

The meeting of Rowan Fiscal Court Tuesday afternoon was held in a room where magistrates argued among themselves about the use of county road equipment. County Judge Ott Caldwell found it necessary to call order in the court several times.

The quarrel arose after Magistrate Alfred Ellis testified that road equipment be around a little more" in the four districts.

Magistrate Virgil Richardson said he understood he's been accused of holding the equipment and then stated that he had used them only one and one-half days hauling creek gravel. A lengthy discussion followed, with each magistrate giving opinions as to how equipment should be used.

Upon recommendation of Judge Caldwell, the magistrates decided that the trucks would be used 10 working days only in each district and then passed to the next district. The court voted that emergency time would be charged to the district using the trucks in such cases. Previously, the hauling of white rock had not been an equipment time used. With the new arrangement, the white rock will be hauled during the 10-day equipment use by each district.

In other action, the court agreed to borrowing $29,100 for payment to Packs' Inc. for two bridges on Dry Creek and one on Wagoner Branch at Craney Creek that the firm is building.

The state is providing $29,100 to the county for the purpose of erecting the three bridges; however, that money will not be awarded to

MSU FACULTY MEMBERS WILL ATTEND MEETING

Four faculty members from Morehead State University's Department of History will attend the annual meeting of the American Historical Association Dec. 28-30 in New Orleans, La.

They are Dr. Edmund Hicks, department head; Dr. Perry LeRoy, professor; Dr. Paul Randolph, associate professor; and J.R. Tinsley, assistant professor.

The county until the bill is paid to Packs' by the court. It was brought out at the Fiscal Court meeting that pre-stressed concrete for the bridges is expensive and the builder indicated he would need some money for that material.

The money will be borrowed from the bank at time payment is to be made to Packs' Inc. and the bank will be paid when the check is received from the state treasurer. Judge Caldwell was empowered to sign the contract to borrow money for the court.

IMPROVEMENTS - Better management control and more effective administrative procedures in Kentucky's Medical Assistance Program (KMAP) have led to significant improvements in services rendered to Medicaid recipients. Gov. Wendell Ford has announced a recent survey indicates over 97 percent of all Medicaid recipients are receiving all services for which the KMAP is billed, the governor said.

NAMED - Gov. Wendell Ford has appointed four new directors and reappointed one to the Lincoln Heritage Trail Foundation. The foundation, organized in 1963, is a combined effort by Kentucky, Indiana, and Illinois to facilitate and promote tourism along the Lincoln Trail. Appointed by the governor were Mrs. Fred Howard, Hodgenville; Gabriel "Gabe" Fiorella, Jr., Owensboro; Dan Stewart, Lexington; and Clibby Popplewell, Russell Springs. The governor also reappointed Ed Haseour of Louisville.

SALES - Gasoline sales in Kentucky are booming at the fastest rate in history, despite the higher tax on the fuel imposed by the 1972 General Assembly. The tax increase two cents per gallon last July 1, sales went up nearly 18 million gallons in the first three months the tax was effective, according to the state Department of Revenue.

Court Reform Sought By Court Of Appeals

By Sam Henaley

The Kentucky Court of Appeals is "about to be swamped" with cases, according to Acting Chief Justice John S. Palmer.

In a recent interview, Palmer described the effects of the rising tide of cases the high court must consider in detail.

According to Howard E. Trent, Court of Appeals administrative director, a "broadly representative committee" formed last May is working on a draft of a constitutional amendment to reform the court system.

The committee is composed of interested officials, including representatives of the Governor's office, Circuit Judges Association, Governor's Judicial Advisory Council, Kentucky Bar Association, Kentucky Crime Commission and the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Chief Justice Samuel Stender called the group together earlier this year so all those interested in constitutional improvement would be pulling in opposite directions.

Palmer said, "We now have had meetings. Out of these meetings we have appointed a steering committee to determine just what kind of amendment would come closest to satisfying all interested people and groups, and at the same time would have a good chance of being accepted by the voting public."

The steering committee members are: Morton Holbrook, Owensboro, chairman; Amos Eblen, Lexington; Judge Scott Reed, Lexington; Robert K. Cullen, Frankfort; Judge Thomas Ballantyne, Louisville and Wiley Blackburn, Somerset.

"Past efforts, the constitutional revision in 1960 and the proposed amendment to the Judicial Article last winter, have failed. But Palmer hopes the new approach may have a better chance."

"We may not satisfy anybody completely, but we're trying to get together something that will do some good, and have some semblance of a chance of passing," he said.

Palmer said the group may hire a professional pollster to "find out what we can hope to pass and what we can't hope to pass."

"We hope to have some kind of amendment to present to the 1974 General Assembly that will represent a consensus of opinion and have a good chance of passing because we have sounded out public opinion."

Meanwhile, with the rising number of cases, the high court is faced with a situation some judges have described as "critical."

Although some cases are handled on a "current basis" many are delayed up to 20 months, Palmer indicated it soon may be as much as two years before routine cases can be reached for consideration.

The court considers two types of cases: "advanced" and "ordinary."

State law requires some cases to be advanced on the docket, such as criminal and workman's compensation cases. Some also are advanced as a matter of policy or according to the rules of the court, including child custody cases, hardship cases and cases of considerable public importance.

According to Palmer, one of the court's problems is an increase in the number of advanced cases.

"Though most advanced cases are disposed within the term of the court, the fact that we have more advanced cases means it takes longer to get to the ordinary ones," he said. "Cases with disputes over auto accidents, condemnation suits and contracts... these are the ones who are suffering."

According to the 1972 biennial report of the State Judiciary Council, the number of cases handled by the appellate court increased from 666 in calendar year 1961, to 1311 during calendar year 1970. This represents a 96.9 percent increase in the workload.

"The problem wasn't born overnight. The 1891 State Constitution limits the number of Court of Appeals Justices to seven. The same constitution eliminated a former judicial system that contained an intermediate court."

According to a 1966 Legislative Research Commission Report, "a major objection to the judicial article of the 1891 Constitution is that it contains detailed provisions which impose uniformity where diversity is needed."

The report noted that the 1891 Constitution contains a "prohibition against courts other than those specifically listed in the present Constitution," a provision which Palmer feels makes constitutional reform "perhaps the only satisfactory course toward solution" of the high court's present problems.

While Court of Appeals Justices have been limited to seven, the number of Circuit Court judges has more than doubled, from 33 to 83, since 1891.

"The more trials judges you have," said Palmer, "the more trials you have, and consequently, more appeals."

"Most people who give this matter a lot of thought, finally come to the conclusion that the only way to make a satisfactory adjustment is to provide an intermediate court between the Circuit Courts and the Court of Appeals," he said.

"If it gets to the point where you can't do that," said Palmer, "then the first and most obvious solution is to reduce the number of cases by some measure such as raising the jurisdictional amount (the minimum monetary value which can be contested in the appellate court)."

Palmer said such solutions have long been discussed and that court members have seen the problems coming for 20 years.

He quoted the late Chief Justice Morris C. Montgomery, who died in a 1969 auto accident. "Judge Montgomery said that poor appeals were just as much entitled to an appellate review as people with more money involved in their cases, and there's a lot of justice in that viewpoint."

Palmer outlined a number of temporary measures that have been tried and are being tried, all intended to ease the growing backlog in their cases, and which have included short "memorandum type" opinions, delegating some cases to the special Commissioner of the Court for review and limiting the right of review.

"I can't say constitutional change is the only thing which could be done, but it would be the best," Palmer said. "It's the only satisfactory solution."

A Judicial Conference, to be held in Louisville Dec. 7-9, will consider judicial reform during its concluding session.

Christmas Again: What's It All About

By Lois Campbell

Christmas wouldn't be Christmas without the very near panic of last minute shopping for just the right gift, the hectic hustle and bustle of home for the holidays.

But, part of Christmas is in the annual melee for who can enjoy a calm, orderly holiday season?

I've often thought, usually each year around the second day of January, that next year I'll dispose of all my Christmas near for once in my life, I'll be ready for Christmas.

Yet, each year around July, I convince myself I'd feel mechanical handling out presents that had neither labor nor mind-reading attached, only forethought and money.

So to this season, I'm as disorganized as ever, and enjoying the holiday preliminaries just like I always do.

Have you ever wondered why people give gifts at Christmas, why all the searching in the stores for that frantic effort to complete the shopping list and hurry home to wrap the presents?

A famous psychoanalyst, Erich Fromm explains that adults have to work at experiencing Christmas. "We all need, more and more desperately, a way of responding to the world with our senses in a meaningful, productive, active, share way. The work involved in creating a holiday spirit, for others and for oneself, is personal, loving, creative... therefore, the joy of giving gifts."

A perfect example is that, for children, Christmas just happens. For adults, the joy lies in making it happen.

Too often we are caught up in the material side of Christmas giving, but I am always reminded of what my grandmother used to say, "the best gifts are the gifts that you alone can give."

You won't find these gifts in any store. They never go on sale, but everyone can afford to give them. They are borne of thoughtfulness and consideration, awareness and patience, kindness and understanding. They may not be the simplest to come by or the easiest to bestow, but they can mean more than a wrapped package under any Christmas tree.

Give kindness. Smile at the passer-by. Be on the lookout for people in distress and lend a helping hand.

Give encouragement. Express your faith in your fellowman. Sincere praise is a gift for which there is an unassured hunger in all people.

Above all, give understanding. Understanding is the greatest of all gifts that you alone can give. Give those you doubt a chance. Listen to others.

In the dark depths of the human heart, understanding can light a thousand candles. And isn't that what Christmas is all about?

Kentucky Seeking Foreign Markets

By Barri Duncan

What possible interest could businessmen from this inland state in Middle America have in discussing foreign markets?

"Profit," said Gov. Wendell H. Ford at the Governor's Presidential Conference of Exporting and Import Financing held recently in Louisville. "And when it comes to seeking out areas for greater Kentucky profits, there is every reason to escape from the past and set new sights."

Setting new sights on Kentucky exports is perhaps a little difficult for most of us to do. It is a rare object indeed that has "Made In Kentucky" imprinted on it, but Kentucky is beginning to seek out foreign markets.

Somewhat stunted by the lack of internationally-accessible waterways, Kentucky ranks 24th in the export of manufactured products and 23rd in the export of agricultural commodities.

But the story is much larger than these figures indicate. "Exporting in Kentucky is a half-billion dollar business," said Commissioner of Commerce Damon Harrison. "Kentucky exports some $350 million in manufactured goods, and about $10 million in coal."

Kentucky's exports in 1969 represented 1.2 percent of total U.S. exports of manufactures valued at 29.2 billion—not all that bad when compared to California's (the nation's leading exporter of manufactured goods) 9.3 percent.

According to the state Department of Commerce, Kentucky's largest manufactured product in foreign markets is chemicals. Valued at $66.2 million, chemical sales growth stems mainly from greater deliveries to foreign countries for industrial purposes. Along with chemicals, transport equipment, non-electrical machinery, farm machinery and equipment and tobacco products help boost the total export income from manufactured products alone to well over $345 million.

Tobacco exports, so important in Kentucky's growth, is only the state's fourth largest manufactured product. Kentucky remains the third largest exporter of tobacco products—lagging considerably behind North Carolina and Virginia. Sales, mainly in the form of cigarettes, reach over $43.6 million.

As far as agricultural exports are concerned, foreign market sales provide about one tenth of the state's cash receipts from farm marketing. And Kentucky's share of the U.S. agricultural exports is estimated at $92.4 million. At a value of $45 million, sales account for about one half of Kentucky's total agricultural exports and rank fourth in the nation.

Soybeans and feed grains, supplemented by a small amount of dairy and four export, make up the majority of the remaining agricultural exports.

Kentucky's foreign sales of bituminous coal approaches $10 million, a large step up from the 1966 estimate of $34 million—but still enough to keep it in the top 10 nationally.

Through 1966, the state's foreign shipments of coal had held approximately at the peak reached in 1963, when exceptionally cold weather in Europe boosted foreign demand.

Students Will Give Yule Program For Tildon Hogge PTA

The monthly PTA meeting of the Tildon Hogge School will be held in the form of a Christmas Program to be presented by the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd grades on Friday afternoon (tomorrow) at 1 o'clock. Rooms participating are those of Mrs. Conn and Mrs. White, 1st grade; Mrs. Coyle and Mrs. Jennings, 2nd grade; Mrs. Ferguson and Mrs. McKenzie, 3rd grade.

All parents are urged to attend.

The PTA sponsored a Sock Hop on Friday evening, Dec. 1, and had a great turnout. There were approximately 200 persons attending. The money made will be used for bookshelves for the classrooms. Each person attending received a record from the master of Ceremonies, Steve Reichert.

The PTA expressed appreciation to all the parents for the time and help that has been given during the year to make Tildon Hogge School programs a great success.

A basketball game between the Tildon Hogge School and Elliottville School will be held Thursday afternoon (today) beginning at 12:30 at the Elliottville School.

MOREHEAD, KENTUCKY ESTABLISHED 1907

Ky. State Government Being Reorganized

By Barri Duncan
 Anyone who has ever entered the state Capitol in Frankfort in search of a particular agency probably remembers being directed from office to office, floor to floor throughout the building.
 After 45 minutes, climbing five flights of stairs and passing the same restroom three times, he might only know that the agency was located somewhere in Frankfort, supposedly in the Capitol.
 This is an example, according to Gov. Wendell Ford, of the "hodgepodge" that present state government has become — 60 departments and over 200 commissions, boards and agencies going in as many different directions.

Fourteen months ago, when then Lt. Governor Ford was running for governor, he promised a reorganization of state government to eliminate that hodgepodge; to prevent duplication and overlapping of services and, thus, strengthen necessary programs.
 Phase one of Kentucky state reorganization recently was initiated. The basis of reorganization is simple. The myriad of departments and agencies have been integrated into six program cabinets structured on mutual interests and applications. Further, the Department of Finance and the Kentucky Program Development Office have been consolidated into the Executive Department of Finance and Administration. Both will be coordinated by the Secretary of the Cabinet, present Finance Commissioner Don Bradshaw.

 What does it mean to the average citizen? The main purpose of reorganization, according to Governor Ford, is to eliminate duplication of services — abolishing unnecessary functions and strengthening needed programs.
 Governor Ford said that, with the "sprawling" expansion of state government since the last major reorganization in 1936, efficiency, coordination and policy determination have become more difficult, at a loss of timely services to the public.
 "If reorganization is accomplished," said the governor, "Kentuckians can expect improved services. There is a widespread belief that we can slow down the rapid growth of state government, and do more with tax dollars now being spent."

elimination of current waste and duplication that annually cost the state many millions of dollars.
 In short, what this means is that anticipated increase in governmental expenses caused by inevitable expansion — will be absorbed by a more efficient method of operation.
 Tommy Preston, the governor's press secretary, compared the situation to a huge industry which, despite higher output, more workers and increased sales, finds its profits dwindling.
 "The reason is that real productivity is down, so that industry tightens up all the way along the line," he said. "In the same way, the state, while not a profit maker, can increase services (productivity) with the same means of disposal."
 But how do the people know whether the promise of savings will ever materialize? When will the public see tangible, dollars-and-cents results from state government reorganization?
 The situation can be compared to a college football program. The team starts with summer drills, goes through a shakedown period, then takes the field and plays a season. Records aren't set, titles aren't won until the season is over and performance can be rated.
 The ultimate "title" state government seeks is a halt in rapidly rising costs and expansion. Its game plan is better money management — savings.
 But right now, state reorganization is in a shakedown period.

According to Governor Ford, the creation of the Department of Finance and Administration, combining planning and financing functions, is designed to insure the maximum product for each dollar expended. The new department also will provide comprehensive long-range analysis of policy, harmony of political and administrative decision-making and ties with local governments, other states and the federal government.
 Although phase one is only a framework for further restructuring (one of the initial charges of the six program cabinets is the development of recommendations for further streamlining and unification) some programs to promote better services for the people already exist.
 The Office of Local Government, an element of the Department of Finance and Administration, channels resources from the executive branch to provide technical assistance and support to Kentucky city and county governments.
 "The Ford Administration already has making corrections in application errors which could have caused delays in the distribution of funds. This is a service some states are paying 10 percent of their revenue-sharing money to receive."
 The Office of Local Government will assume this responsibility, as well as helping local governments develop their own programs.
 A second element of the Department of Finance and Administration, the Office of Policy and Management, combines the basic responsibilities involved in budgeting and state planning.
 This office will facilitate communication between planners and budget personnel on both the state and national levels.
 Another benefit of reorganization will be the cabinet structure itself. Since each department is a segment of a program cabinet of related interests, meetings need only involve the departments heads concerned. In the past, all departments heads had to attend all meetings and often listen to policies that in no way involved them.
 Under reorganization, related departments can be better informed on the activities of each other, preventing duplication and providing a better delivery of services to the people.
 The big question that concerns most people is one of money. Will it cost more? Will it save money?
 "What I see," said Governor Ford, "is that we'll have the ability to provide additional services, better services and quicker services to the people All for the same tax dollar."
 The savings, he said, will come from the "reason is that real productivity is down, so that industry tightens up all the way along the line," he said. "In the same way, the state, while not a profit maker, can increase services (productivity) with the same means of disposal."

 But how do the people know whether the promise of savings will ever materialize? When will the public see tangible, dollars-and-cents results from state government reorganization?

Health ... for all

A lot has changed since Granny's day. Polluted air. Cigarettes. Crammed superhighways. But Christmas is still beautiful. And so are Christmas Seals.

This year's Seals sport Granny's double-decker, glassy skyscrapers, funny old-fashioned trains and sleighs, split-level suburban homes, snowball fights, and lamplight carolers. The mix is both modern and traditional.

One of the changes since Granny's day is a people explosion. Just 65 years ago, when the first Christmas Seal was printed to fight tuberculosis, there were only 87 million Americans. Today the figure has sped past 200 million and is headed skyward. In the old days, TB was a killer called the White Plague which spread like brushfires from person to person. Out of every 100,000 people, 174 died from TB in a single year. Today, only two out of the same number die from the disease. Modern drugs can treat and prevent the disease if it is detected in time.

Christmas Seals still fight TB because the disease itself hasn't died yet. Last year nearly 40,000 new active cases were found in this country. An unknown number of people have TB without knowing it. Coughing, fatigue, and weight loss can be suspicious symptoms. And today there's a new killer that wipes out the lives of 300,000 Americans every year — cigarettes. Granny never heard of emphysema because cigarettes were not a deadly national pastime in her day. A little chewing tobacco didn't create lung cripples. Today Christmas Seals fight emphysema, TB, and arteriosclerosis because they're there.

Cox-Hall Vows Solemnized In Baptist Church

In a double-ring ceremony performed at 4 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 25, at the Free Will Baptist Church, in Morehead, Miss Anita Lynn Cox became the bride of Robert Wayne Hall.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Cox of Morehead. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B.D. Hall, also of Morehead.

The Rev. Ted Greene performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with palms and white gladioli. Mrs. Wayne Caldwell presented a program of nuptial music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in an empire silhouette of white satin overlaid with chiffon. The gown was fashioned with a lace neckline and long chiffon overslip sleeves accented with lace. Her veil of silk illusion was attached to a headpiece of pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of white miniature carnations accented with pink roses and baby's breath.

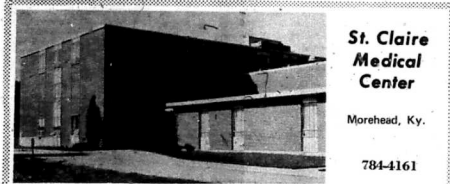

Miss Sue Sparks, maid of honor, wore a gown of pink crepe styled with an empire waist and long sleeves, and a cranberry velvet bolero. She carried a pink rose tied with satin streamers.

Bridesmaids, dressed identically to the maid of honor, were Miss Pamela Hall, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Becky Clark and Miss Robin Sigall.

Miss Kimberly Bailey, niece of the bride, was flower girl and was attired in a gown fashioned like that of the maid of honor. She carried a basket of pink rose petals.

Mr. Donald Hall served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Don Witrow, uncle of the bride, John Hall and Greg Gilliam.

The reception was held in the Red Room at the Adron Doran University Center.

Improvements In Medical Assistance Seen

Better management control and more effective administrative procedures in Kentucky's Medical Assistance Program (KMAP) have led to very significant improvements in services rendered to Medicaid recipients, Gov. Wendell Ford has announced.

Results of an intensive survey conducted in August by medical assistance research analysts show that over 97 percent of all Medicaid recipients are receiving all the medical services for which the KMAP is billed, Governor Ford said.

"We've learned three very important things from the investigation," he continued. "Recipients are receiving medical benefits of high quality for the Medicaid dollar being spent in their behalf, funds are not being abused and the Medical Assistance Program does not and will not pay for physicians' services unless we are assured that the services have been rendered."

The investigation, implemented by Economic Security Commissioner Gail S. Huecker, was an attempt to improve the services rendered to recipients under the program.

A sample of Medicaid payments from last July was selected and during the month of August, individuals receiving medical assistance were interviewed by 14 area representatives in the Medical Assistance Program.

Recipients were asked what services had been rendered to determine if they were receiving all the services for which KMAP had been billed. Services questioned in the survey were paid to approximately 500 local physicians in a 113-county area.

Over 736 interviews were conducted throughout the state.

Governor Ford said that only a few cases in the survey indicated a misunderstanding on the part of the patient or a billing error. "After all results had been evaluated, there was every indication of superior physician services," he said.

Your Social Security

By: Thomas B. Thompson - Ashland District Mgr. For Social Security Information write: District Social Security Offices, 1816 Carter Avenue - Ashland, Ky.; Phone 325-7666.

"People can now establish an application filing date for monthly social security payments in certain circumstances by making a telephone call to any social security office," Thompson said. "Thomas B. Thompson, social security district manager in Ashland."

"Dates of application for benefits should be established when it appears you may not be able to return a signed application to social security until the following month and may lose some benefits," Thompson said. "And when you call, you may express your intention to claim benefits."

"The date you apply for social security benefits can be important," Thompson said, "especially if retroactive payments are involved."

"People who fail to apply for social security payments at the time they become eligible may be able to get back payments—but only for up to 12 months before the month they apply." The date of application helps determine how many months can be paid in back payments, Thompson said.

"Previously the date was established by the postmark on a written inquiry about benefits, or the time a written application was received by a social security office."

"Now," Thompson said, "it can be established by a phone call to any social security office. The procedure should be especially helpful to people whose application involves back payments."

"Social Security pays over $3.5 billion a month to over 28 million people - retired and disabled - to help their families and survivors of deceased workers."

"In Ashland," Thompson said, "applications for social security payments can be made by calling 325-7666."

THEATRE FAMILIES... Donna and Steve Blaine, left, and Greg and Debbie Bell, with daughter Melissa, discuss costume design at Morehead State University. Blaine and Bell are involved in set design and construction and the wives are concentrating on costumes in the MSU Theatre program.

Two Student Families In MSU Theatre Program

"Since we spend almost every day and night working on theatre projects, it's nice to be together."

Speaking with Steve Blaine, Russell senior at Morehead State University, who summarized his feelings and those of his wife, Donna, and Debbie and Greg Bell, the two student families in MSU Theatre.

The couples, among the most active students in MSU's theatre program, feel that being married has helped, rather than hindered, their work and studies.

Gerg Bell of Louisville met Debbie Patterson of Covington while working on a theatre production in 1970. "We took off a weekend from technical rehearsals to get married in 1971," Debbie said. "But we were back to work on Monday."

"The Bells, who are juniors, have a 10-month-old daughter, Melissa, who is getting an early start in theatre. "I bring her to work with me every afternoon and all day Saturday," Debbie said. "She plays in the costume room and enjoys all the attention from the students."

Steve and Donna Blaine, both seniors, transferred last year from Ashland Community College, where they were active in theatre.

Bell and Blaine have similar interests with both working in set design and construction. Their wives are both concentrating on costume design.

"We got our first chance to really work together last year," Bell said. "I designed the set and Debbie designed the costumes for 'The Boyfriend.' Debbie's costumes won a best design award from the Morehead Players."

"We were both excited to see our work on stage," Debbie said. She has often taken costume work home with her or gone back at night after the baby went to sleep.

"We have arranged our classes so that one of us is with the baby while the other is in class," Greg said.

The Blaines, like the Bells, have been very active in drama productions since coming to MSU. Donna designed costumes for "Bell Book and Candle" this fall and designed the set and appeared in "Mary, Mary" during summer school.

"There are several advantages of being in the same field," Blaine said. "We share common interests so we use the same books and supplies."

Both couples plan to enter graduate school and teach on the college level. Bell, whose design for "Romeo and Juliet" is among 11 designs in a touring exhibit sponsored by Southern Illinois University, has not ruled out working as a professional designer.

"All four are exceptional students who show potential," said C. Lance Brockman, MSU's technical director. "They have confidence in their abilities and have done well in positions of leadership."

Farmers Junior High Wins Lions Basketball Tournament

The Junior High Basketball Team of Farmers won the Seventh Annual Morehead Lions Club Basketball Tournament that was played at Rowan County High School Gymnasium.

Farmers advanced to the finals by beating Tildon Hodge, last Tuesday night, by the score of 46 to 26. Runner-up in the tournament was Rowan County Grade School.

First round of action, other than the Farmers and Tildon Hodge game, was University of Breckinridge over Haldeman 49 to 24.

On Thursday night, and in the lower bracket, Salt Lick defeated Clearfield 48 to 32, and Rowan County Grade upset Elliottville 50 to 29.

In the semi-finals, held on Saturday night, Farmers took a thriller from University Breckinridge 35 to 33, and Rowan County

Rowan Residents Seek Assistance From Fiscal Court

The Rowan County Fiscal Court is faced with many burdens and problems of Rowan County residents and last week's Fiscal Court meeting was no exception. One resident attended the meeting to request that the court provide her with coal for heating her home. Another attended the meeting to seek payment of her rent and electric bill.

In addition to the resident who attended the meeting to ask for coal, County Judge Ott Caldwell said another resident had made the same request via a telephone conversation. The court voted to have Richard Goodman, a local man who hauls coal, deliver one-ton of coal to each of the two residents in need.

The woman requesting $30 for rent and $11.11 for an electric bill told the court she was in the process of a divorce and had no means for paying the overdue rent and utility bill. With the assistance of Don Kniskern, who was at the meeting as a representative of the Rowan County Case Conference, the woman was processed for Food Stamps and an AFDC check.

4-H MEMBERS GIVEN ACHIEVEMENT AWARDS

Paul Mills, County Extension Agent of Rowan County, accompanied a group of 4-H members to the recent Licking River Area 4-H Achievement Program held at Maysville Community College.

Those from the group who received ribbons or honorable mention on their record books included Richard Debird, conservation, red ribbon; Danny Caudill, dairy, honorable mention; Robert Hamilton, electric, red ribbon; Eugene Easton, home environment, honorable mention; Sherry Tucker, clothing, honorable mention; Pam Mays, foods, honorable mention.

Machines Hazardous
Snowblowers can ease the job of keeping driveways clear during winter months, but some machines also generate a potentially hazardous noise level. When using a noisy snowblower, protective ear plugs should be worn.

United Methodist
Brother Dykes is widely known throughout the United Pentecostal Church. He will be speaking and showing slides of the work in France.
The Annual Christmas Program of the church will be held Dec. 23 at 7 p.m.
The Kentucky District Youth Retreat will be held Dec. 27-29 at the Lexington United Pentecostal Church. Pastor Jerry Wheat will serve as host pastor.
The Morehead church observed its 100th Broadcast last Saturday of "I Have Hope" over WMOR, with a one hour program.
The church is making available to the general public, used clothing for the needy at no cost. Call 784-9145 for more information, or contact the church.

Weekly Meditation
Centuries ago, says a picturesque legend, the Lord colored all the flowers green. But one day He dipped His finger in the rainbow and painted each one a different color. And with the coloring, He gave each flower a charming name.
One morning a beautiful flower with green leaves and clusters of small blue, pink and white flowers was asked, "What is your name?" Hanging its head, the flower sighed, "Oh, I forgot!"
With shame the flower confessed to the Lord, "I have forgotten my name. I am sorry." The Lord admitted that some are likely to forget, but that He had not forgotten. Then He added, "Whatever else you do, Forget-Me-Not!"
From that day to this that lovely little flower has been called Forget-Me-Not, and it reminds me to "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all His benefits" — Psalm 103:2.
Think, says the Bible, and you will thank the Lord!
His benefits" mean all the good things He has done for us, and all the good things He has given us. It also means all the bad things He keeps from happening to us. The reason we are so thankful is because we are so thoughtful.

United Pentecostal
Brother Bobby Dykes of Louisiana and outgoing Missionary to France will be guest speaker at the United Pentecostal Church on Tolliver Avenue on Thursday at 7 p.m.

Worship Service
The 11 a.m., Sunday Worship Service, Dec. 17, will be broadcast on WMOR.

Search For Truth
Possibly at no time in Rowan County's 116 year history has history of the Pentecostal Church been gathered as is now. The history includes local, state, national and international activities of the U.P.C.
Pastor Lloyd Dean is available to teach "Search For Truth" to communities and other groups that desire to have the course. The course consists of Doctrine, of the Holy Ghost, Plan of Salvation, Godhead, Holiness, and beliefs of Pentecost. Call 784-9145 for further information.

Paul Blair Elected Co-Chairman Of W. Va. Corporation

Paul W. Blair, Morehead attorney, and Paul L. Selby, Dean of the West Virginia University College of Law, have been elected co-chairmen of the Board of Governors of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund, Inc., a West Virginia corporation.
The purposes of the corporation are to "restore self-government to the people of the Appalachian Mountains by assisting them through legal means to wisely conserve and develop the human and natural resources of the region for the common benefit of all the people residing therein."
The corporation, which operates offices in Lexington and Prestonsburg, Kentucky, and in Charleston and Loran County, West Virginia, is active throughout the 16 state Appalachian area. It employs 44 full time attorneys and legal aids and concentrates on law reform. It has been active in strip mine and anti-pollution suits and legislation, mine safety regulations and obtaining black lung benefits for miners.
Other members of the Board of Governors are Richard Boone, Executive Director of the Robert F. Kennedy Memorial, Washington, D.C.; Harry Caudill, attorney and author, Whitesburg, Kentucky; Larry Greathouse, legal advisor to Governor Ford, Frankfort; and Kenneth Guido, Attorney for Common Cause, Washington, D.C.
Blair, a native of Morehead, is the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. E.D. Blair. He is president of the Rowan County Bar Association and has served for terms as Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Northeast Kentucky Legal Services Corporation. He is Morehead City Attorney and is engaged in the private practice of law with the Morehead firm of Hoggie & Blair.

Haldeman Student Wins District Essay Contest

Dwight Linn Brown, a seventh grader at Haldeman Elementary School, has been selected the Rowan County District winner of the 1972 Conservation Essay Contest. The title of Brown's entry is "Trees - Their Effect On Me And My Local Environment."

A total of 373 Rowan County students submitted entries in the contest, which is sponsored annually by the Courier-Journal and Louisville Times in co-operation with Kentucky's 121 Conservation Districts. Mr. Leland Hall, chairman of the Board of Supervisors of the Rowan District, commended the students, parents, teachers, and school officials for their participation and support of this year's contest.

Linn, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brown, will be awarded a $25 Savings Bond and an engraved plaque for submitting the winning entry. In addition, his essay will be forwarded to the Courier-Journal where it will be judged in competition with the winning entries from Kentucky's other 120 Conservation Districts. State winners will receive awards of $500, $200, and $100 in U.S. Savings Bonds for first, second, and third place entries.

Richard Debord, an eighth grade student at Tilden Hodge School, entered the second place essay. Richard will receive $10 for his efforts, to be awarded by the Rowan Conservation District.

The District also will award $5 to the essays judged to be the best in each grade from all county schools. Winners in this competition announced by Mr. Hall are: 5th grade - Janet Trent, Elliottville School; 6th grade - Mark Randolph, University of Breckinridge; 7th grade - Marcia Anderson, Rowan Jr. High; 8th grade - Erwin Gamble, Elliottville School.

Judges for this year's contest were Richard Bonyata, U.S. Forest Service; Dave Percy, Kentucky Division of Forestry; Paul Mills and Adrian Razor, U.K. Cooperative Extension Service; Ken Wade, Morehead State University Agriculture Department; and Doug Hatchett, Soil Conservation Service.

Mr. Hall, on behalf of the District, complimented school officials and students for their support of the contest, stating that the number of entries submitted exceeds the number entered in recent years.

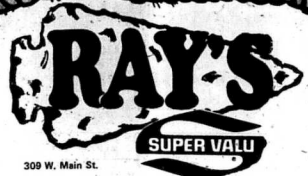

Home In Forest Hills Scene Of Fire Tuesday

Morehead firemen were called at 7:40 a.m. Tuesday to the residence of Dr. James Fisher in Forest Hills Subdivision where fire broke out in a laundry room at the residence.

Clothing and furniture, which were stored in the room, were damaged by fire. The remainder of the house sustained a small amount of smoke damage, according to Fire Chief Joe Mauk. The fire was brought under control within a few minutes.

Chief Mauk said the fire is believed to have possibly started from a short in an electrical cord on an electric heater in the laundry room.

The residence is owned by William Whitaker and rented by the Fishers. One truck and eight firemen answered the fire call.

In Circuit Court earlier this year, Mr. Jack L. McBrayer was asked,

"Mr. McBrayer, do you feel that the fact that some stores are opening on Sunday in Rowan County, which stores are in competition with you, is damaging your business?"

Mr. McBrayer answered,
"Very Definitely."

On Sunday, Nov. 26, 1972 and again on Sunday, Dec. 3, 1972 Mr. Jack L. McBrayer signed warrants citing Maloney's for being open on Sunday.

Young Eagles Undefeated, Beat Georgetown 79-66

By Rick Covington
MSU Student Journalist
Balanced scoring and a full-court press carried the MSU "Young Eagles" to a 79-66 victory over the Georgetown College Jayvees Saturday night at Georgetown.
Georgetown could not handle the press and committed numerous turnovers which helped the "Young Eagles" to their fifth victory without a loss.

James Moorman led MSU with 20 points. Gene Frye added 16 points and shared rebounding honors with Moorman. Each had 13.

Carl Hempfling paced Georgetown in scoring with 14. Skip Redmond a reserve, had 10 points for the Tigers.
The "Young Eagles" commanded the boards with a 52-30 edge. MSU shot 45 percent from the field and Georgetown hit 40 percent.

The loss dropped Georgetown's record to 2-4.
Two nights earlier, MSU's Moorman poured in 32 points and grabbed 22 rebounds to lead the "Young Eagles" to a 67-75 victory over Somerset Community College.
Ike Unsel hit for 23 points and Terry Hay had 18 points and 13 rebounds.

Somerset was led by Chester Smith who tallied 20 points and snared 10 rebounds. Jack Coffey added 16 points for the Cougars. Somerset fell to 3-5 on the year.

MANAGER OF BOOK STORE FINISHED COURSE

William W. Sharp, book manager at Morehead State University, recently received his completion certificate from Mrs. Mignon Doran, founder and director of MSU's Personal Development Institute.

The five-week, non-credit course is a pioneering venture designed to sharpen special skills and improve other personal qualities. It has received national attention

According to a U.S. Census Bureau report, the 50 states spent a total of 196.8 billion in 1971. The largest single expenditure was $38 billion for education which included $19.3 billion for public elementary and secondary schools and $12.4 billion for higher education.

for its innovation approach to personal development. Sharp is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth W. Sharp, 1249 Scoville Drive, Lexington.

How to make $66 in an hour of your spare time.

If you pay bills—credit cards, revolving charges, small loans, installment purchases—you could save as much as $66 or more a year with a Money-Saver Loan from us. Say for example your bills are broken down this way:

	AMOUNT FINANCED	FINANCE CHARGE	ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE	MONTHLY PAYMENT	NUMBER OF MONTHLY PAYMENTS	TOTAL OF PAYMENTS
Personal Loan	$450.00	$45.00	18%	$41.25	12	$495.00
Personal Loan	$100.00	$6.00	35.07%	$30.00	12	$360.00
Dept. Store Revolving Credit	$60.00	$6.00	18%	$5.00	12	$60.00
Furniture Contract	$80.00	$5.00	19.75%	$6.25	12	$55.00
TOTALS:	$1850.00	$220.00	21.27%	$172.50	12	$2070.00*

Now look at your payments over a year for a loan in the very same amount from Commercial Credit:

	AMOUNT FINANCED	FINANCE CHARGE	ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE	MONTHLY PAYMENT	NUMBER OF MONTHLY PAYMENTS	TOTAL OF PAYMENTS
CC MONEY SAVER LOAN	$1850.00	$153.64	15.00%	$166.97	12	$2003.64*

You save $66.36! Why? Because of our low annual percentage rate. Check the charts again. See. Our rates are actually lower than small loan rates. And revolving charge account rates. And installment purchase rates. Even lower than national credit card rates! So if you have an hour to spare, stop by the Commercial Credit office nearest you. We may save you $66. We may save you more. We may save you less. Depending on how many bills you owe. Commercial Credit. It's worth the trip.

Swimming And Wrestling Begin With Victories

Morehead State University's swimming and wrestling teams opened their seasons with victories this week.

Coach Bill Mack's tankmen swampond Louisville, 81-37, taking 10 of 13 events in the home water of Semff Natatorium. Individual winners included Mike Miller, 1000-yard freestyle; Rick Fuller, 200 freestyle; John Wade, 80 freestyle; Mike Gooch, 340 individual medley; Ken Watkins, 200 butterfly; Ed Calhoun, 100 freestyle; Jack Abeln, 200 backstroke; Larry Ridgeway, 500 freestyle; and Billy Lowe, optional diving.

Fuller, Abeln, Brent Lange and Steve Wiseman won the 360 medley relay.

The Eagle swimmers return to action Jan. 19 at Marshall.

Coach Dan Walker's MSU grapplers defeated Kentucky, 33-15, winning seven of the 10 weight classes and four on pins.

Pinning their UK foes were Mickey Ryznek, Chuck Freels, Steve Morgan and Al Jordan. Winning by decisions were Brian Koefe, Chip Allen and Gerry Anthony.

The Eagle matmen are idle until hosting UT-Chattanooga on Jan. 12 at Wetherby Fieldhouse.

CLEANING SPECIAL GOOD THRU DEC. 20

License Required To Be Dealer Of Hearing Aids

The Kentucky Board for Licensing Hearing Aid Dealers met for the first time on Dec. 1, created by an act of the 1972 Kentucky General Assembly, this board must license all hearing aid dealers and every person who fits hearing aids within the state.

Until Dec. 15, anyone who has been a dealer or fitter for at least two out of the last three years and who meets the qualifications without taking an examination.

The chairman of the board, Warren Cossitt, Louisville, explains that his group's first concern is to receive an application from everyone who is eligible to receive such a license. "We must have some kind of application by the Dec. 15 deadline," he added.

Persons desiring further information about licensing should contact the Kentucky Board for Licensing Hearing Aid Dealers, c/o The State Department of Health, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

The licensing law does not apply to anyone fitting hearing aids as part of the program of a school, charitable institution or non-profit organization supported by contributions, or to a physician or an audiologist who fits but does not sell hearing aids.

DOJARS & GOOD SERVICE

BY WILLIAM J. MARTIN
Real Estate Consultant
Real Estate Services

Most young couples, even if both are working, have a hard time at budgeting because their incomes are low and their needs seem to be so high.

There's so much they want to get for their new household, and the tendency of some is to buy it all at once, sometimes on credit.

Clothes and entertainment are two other items that tend to hit a new budget hard.

As I explained before, deduct your fixed expenses from your total take-home income to determine how much you have to spend each month on optional expenses.

These expenses are the ones that are, or should be, the easiest to control, although, like diet, it takes a lot of will power sometimes.

Lunch hours can be killers, either from shopping spree or too expensive eating. Hobies are another way of spending a lot without realizing it.

Don't carry too much cash with you and keep track of your expenses in a notebook as you go along.

Also, watch your credit shopping, as I mentioned, so you don't start off with a lot of interest or finance payments to make.

Finally, get together a round once a week and review your budget to catch problems before they become serious. New budgets are a joint effort and need a lot of determination.

Christmas In A Hospital For West Liberty Child

It will be Christmas in a hospital room, four hundred miles away from home, for little three year old Rhonda McKenzie and her family.
Born three years ago to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald McKenzie in West Liberty, Rhonda came into this world with many marks against her. She was the victim of multiple birth defects. She had no nose. Her eyes were located on the sides of her head, too far apart for her to focus them and see. She had extra toes on her feet and one clubbed foot. In addition, she had other miscellaneous defects.

The McKenzies saw an article in a newspaper one day about a similar circumstance in Tennessee. Upon discovering that plastic surgeon Dr. Milton Edgerton specialized in such cases, this young couple was able to schedule the first of many operations.

In their determination to give Rhonda a normal life, they traveled to Baltimore, Maryland and borrowed $800 to cover most of the expenses. They knew that it would eventually cost thousands of dollars that they didn't have to cover the inevitable costs of such a venture. Dr. Edgerton has generously performed each operation without charge to the family.)

Community Helps

Many people of the community wanted to help them and the interested citizens set up a Rhonda McKenzie Fund. A goal of $10,000 was set to cover the cost of the first ten operations and the response was adequate to meet that goal. Contributions came from all over Kentucky and far away states.

Another Operation

Rhonda is scheduled to enter major surgery on Friday, December 15 for the ninth time. Even though many other operations will be required, it is obvious that the parents have not lost site of their goal.

Mrs. Bonnie Lewis McKenzie, mother of Rhonda, said, "The best gift Rhonda could have for Christmas is a successful operation." Dr. Edgerton; Dr. Jane (neurosurgeon) and their team of doctors will be moving a bone from between Rhonda's eyes to allow a better position for both eyes. They will also work on the skin around the eyes and remove spots from the left eye. The bone will be moved to the forehead area. The operation is serious because the brain will be exposed when her forehead is opened. The average operation takes about seven hours in surgery.

When the bandages on her eyes and head are removed, perhaps on Christmas Day, the family and doctors hope to find that Rhonda is one operation closer to a normal life. All of this is an effort to give Rhonda "a face to face the world."

This Christmas, Rhonda McKenzie may be a small child in a city, far away from home. But she is not a forgotten child. Many share the dream of her parents and sister for the future. Have a very Merry Christmas, Rhonda, and a Happy New Year.

"Mediterranean Salad" will bring the "season's colors to your table during the Holidays.
Rounds of raspberry gelatin, centered with banana slices, surround a cottage cheese mound on a bed of shredded western iceberg lettuce. For added color, double the recipe and use lime gelatin for half of the medallions.

- Mediterranean Salad
- 1 head western iceberg lettuce
 - 3 empty (6 oz.) juice cans
 - 1 package (3 oz.) raspberry flavor gelatin
 - 1 1/2 cups water
 - 3 small bananas
 - 1 1/2 pints cottage cheese
 - French dressing or real mayonnaise
- Cure, rinse and drain lettuce thoroughly; refrigerate in disposable plastic bag. Lightly oil juice cans. Dissolve gelatin. Chill until mixture thickens. Meanwhile, cut small straight bananas; peel and cut off ends to fit depth of can. Fill each can with 1/2 cup thickened gelatin. Center a banana in each; press with fingers so it sits firmly on bottom of can. Add a little more gelatin, if necessary, to cover top of banana. Cover top of can with foil. Chill firm. At serving time, shred enough lettuce to equal 3 cups. (Store remainder of head for salad another time.) Arrange shredded lettuce on chilled salad of cure, gently push fruit gelatin out of can. Remove end blades sharp knife, cut each gelatin roll into slices. Arrange around cottage cheese. Serve with French dressing or real mayonnaise. Makes 3 or 4 servings.

LIVING- AS YOU LIKE IT

Retirement can change the attitude and the personality. It happens. Sometimes an individual who has always been active in civic and social organizations ahead in their field or profession, drops out of sight. Then there goes, so to speak, the quiet individual who spends 20 or 25 years doing nothing but to work and then turns into a worker and joiner during the retirement years.

Why? Perhaps it is not a change in attitude or personality—but a change in direction. Some individuals are so absorbed with job and job responsibilities during the working years they will not allow time for any other activities. They look forward to retirement because it will give them time to do other things.

Another truth often is that people in certain jobs feel civic and social activities are necessary and helpful in the business of getting civic and social organizations ahead in their field or profession. They don't always enjoy the and, in the opinion of friends, things they do. When the job is long to particular organizations or to pursue some social activities. It can be this way because retirement is, indeed a time for living as you like it. Retirement is earned time. In a position to do so, you can spend the time in a rocking chair and exercise the right to refuse to do something that really isn't necessary.

THIS WORLD OF OURS

Although increasingly more conscious of the rising flames of air-crawls, highway and construction noise, many of us overlook a more immediate problem - noise in our homes which is reaching levels that can injure the human ear.

Some people may feel that the answer to the noise problem is to get used to it. Those who are no longer bothered by noise in their homes may not be listening to it, but rather may be experiencing some hearing impairment.

The following was written by Gary W. Axler and appeared in the Dec. 10 edition of the Ashland Daily Independent.

HALDEMAN—Seated behind the desk in his office, casually-dressed and sporting a neatly-trimmed beard, he still looks the part his old shingle proclaims him to be.

Now that shingle leans against the wall of his office, on the second floor of the large, old brick home on the hill above Haldean Elementary School. There is another shingle now, this one leaning against the porch railing:

MENTAL HEALTH CENTER
Offutt finally quit selling insurance to indulge himself 10 hours a day, seven days a week, in the avocation he has worked at more or less regularly since the age 12. Andy Offutt is a writer.

It is quick to inform you he is not an "artist" or a "typist" there are three ways he sees to make it in writing.

the television.

After coming to Morehead, Offutt became more and more involved in writing. In the early '60s he felt he could support his wife and four children "doing my hobby."

Offutt's most recent book—his first was published in 1962—was "The Castle Keep" by Berkeley Medallion Books, a subsidiary of Putnam.

He views the book as his most serious effort to date, influenced largely by Robert Ardrey's "The Territorial Imperative." He considers Ardrey, and Avram Rand, author of "The Fountainhead" and "Atlas Shrugged," to be two of the major influences on him.

Incongruous as it may seem for a science fiction novel, "The Castle Keep" is set in Haldean, with much of the action taking place in Morehead and Lexington.

The time is indefinite, perhaps 20 or 30 years from now, when overpopulation has begun to exert an influence even on Morehead and Ashland; when the word, "recycler" has become a common greeting; when the isolation of apartment living, brought on by the danger of the streets, has become the fact of life in the city.

The book is strikingly laced with scenarios depicting the future effects of many of the environmental and sociological problems Offutt believes are being coped with inadequately today. The picture he paints of the possible consequences is not a pretty one.

Sitting in his office which he sometimes describes as a "writing factory," Offutt seems never to run out of ideas for new stories or books, or for that matter, out of humorous anecdotes.

"The Castle Keep," as serious as it is, contains many examples of typical Offutt humor. He often writes with a tongue-in-cheek style, especially evident in some of his earlier work when the publisher suggested the work may be more salable if he would "enhance the interpersonal relationships."

This means, he said, "they want it a little more sexy." Offutt tried his hand at this type of writing for a while, becoming somewhat successful at it under various pen names.

Offutt is now under contract for another novel, due at the publisher's this month, to be called "The Crichton Strain," a mild rip-off on the best selling "Andromeda Strain" by Michael Crichton, whom Offutt said most of the science fiction writers he knows are "bugged off" at Crichton is now "writing another bestseller because he has learned the formula."

Offutt worries a little about the possibility of some future "writer's block" or a loss of creativity due to a lack of ideas, problems he has heard happen to writers too often.

So, he keeps a meticulous file of ideas and works in progress, just in case.

Toward the end of the rambling, four-hour interview—Offutt is a prolific talker as he is a writer—be a prolific talker through one of his notebooks, stopping frequently to read aloud a paragraph or two on a plot he has in mind for some future book. It seems likely there will be many.

"One, if you don't make any money. You're like Jim Still or Varda Fisher, who have a good body of work recognized by the proper—that's p-r-o-p-a-h—people, which consists of the Harvard—that's H-a-b-y-a-h—graduates.

"Then there are the Jesse Stuarts, who are small compared with the $2 million for 'In Cold Blood' the Truman Capote bestseller sold for that price to the movie industry. I will not read it; it might have one grammatical error and that would destroy me. Two million dollars for your book.

"The third way is guys like me and some people I know like Silverberg, and Harlan Ellison, John Brunner, and others, who make a fine, comfortable income by working their tails off seven days a week, doing volume like the A&P."

Offutt has had few if any problems with volume. In fact, his prolific writing is somewhat of a legend among his comrades in the science fiction field.

At a recent sci-fi conference, he was complaining to a friend about his first "writer's block," a common remedy during which writers find it impossible to get anything at all down on paper. The block, Offutt said, had lasted "all of 45 minutes."

"His friend turned to another writer and commented, "Andy just blew two novels."

Offutt wrote and submitted his first short story when he was 12, and at 20, while he was still in college at University of Louisville, he sold his first story by winning a $1,000 prize in a contest.

"For those people who think once you get in, you're in... I didn't sell another one for four years!"

But he never stopped the actual process of writing during that period or any other period.

Offutt was born in Louisville and spent much of his early life on a farm at Taylorsville where he attended one- and two-room schools. Then on to U. and into the business world. He said he was into everything successful, young businessman should be into, from charity work to the Jaycees.

He opened agencies in Lexington and elsewhere, training new men, and finally setting up shop in Morehead and buying the old brick home in Haldean.

During all these years, Offutt said, he continued writing, often into the early morning hours since the rest of his day was taken up with the establishment life. He says he still does, as he did then, some of his best work while old movies play on Offutt worries a little about the possibility of some future "writer's block," or a loss of creativity due to a lack of ideas, problems he has heard happen to writers too often.

So, he keeps a meticulous file of ideas and works in progress, just in case.

Toward the end of the rambling, four-hour interview - Offutt is a prolific talker as he is a writer - he began flipping through one of his notebooks, stopping frequently to read aloud a paragraph or two on a plot he has in mind for some future book. It seems likely there will be many.

"One is, you don't make any money. You're like Jim Still or Vardis Fisher, who have a good body of work recognized by the proper - that's p-o-o-p-o-l-e - people, which consists of the Harvard - that's H-a-b-v-a-h-d - graduates.

"Then there are the Jesse Starts, who are small compared with the $2 million for 'In Cold Blood' (the Truman Capote bestseller sold for that price to the movie industry. I will not read it; it might have one grammatical error and that would destroy me. Two million dollars for you book.

"The third way is guys like me and some people I know like Silverberg, Harlan Ellison, John Brunner, and others, who make a fine, comfortable income by working their tails off seven days a week, doing volume like the A&P."

Offutt has had few if any problems with volume. In fact, his prolific writing is somewhat of a legend among his comrades in the science fiction field.

At a recent sold conference, he was complaining to a friend about his first "writer's block," a common malady during which writers find it impossible to get anything at all down on paper. The block, Offutt said, had lasted "all of 45 minutes. My friend turned to another writer and commented, "Andy just blew two novels."

Offutt wrote and submitted his first short story when he was 12, and at 20, while he was still in college at University of Louisville, he sold his first story by winning a $1,000 prize in a contest.

"For those people who think once you get in, you're in... I didn't sell another one for four years."

But he never stopped the actual process of writing during that period or any other period.

Offutt was born in Louisville and spent much of his early life on a farm at Taylorsville, where he attended one- and two-room schools. Then on to U of L and into the business world. He said he was into everything successful, young businessmen should be into. From charity work to the Jaycees.

He opened agencies in Lexington and elsewhere, training new men, and finally setting up shop in Morehead and buying the old brick home in Haldeman.

During all these years, Offutt said, he continued writing, often into the early morning hours since the rest of his day was taken up with the establishment life. He says he still does, as he did then, some of his best work while old movies play on

TIME TO RELAX - In the back yard of his home at Haldeman, writer Andy Offutt finds time to play with the two family dogs. The huge brick home, well away from the larger city rat race, is decorated primarily with the artistic work of family friends, and countless books.

Your Opinions: Typical of American Women?

HAVE YOU JOINED THE REVOLUTION?

You may not know it, but there's a revolution in progress, one that promises to affect each of us and the way that we live.

Mistakenly called "women's liberation" by some and, more properly, "feminist consciousness" by others, this revolution is born of and sustained by the radically changing self-image of today's American woman.

That today's women are becoming increasingly conscious of their rights as citizens and their competence as individuals is evidenced in the findings of the second Virginia Slims American Women's Opinion Poll.

PROMOTE CONSERVATION . . . These five Rowan County High School students, members of the recently organized Junior Board of Supervisors of Rowan County Conservation District, are shown at work last Thursday night formulating a program of conservation education and promotion for the coming year. The Junior Board, appointed by the District Board of Supervisors, will involve young people in conservation activities in the county. Members, from left seated, are Larry Whit, vice chairman; Tim Lowe, chairman; and Neal Frakey, secretary-treasurer. Standing, same order, are Clinton Curtis and Steve Egan, members, and Doug Hatchett, District Conservatorist who is offering a suggestion on one of the projects the group planned. Hatchett and Pal Mills, County Extension Agent, are advisers to the Board.

DATES AND EVENTS FROM YESTERYEARS

The Bill of Rights of the United States Constitution went into effect, December 15, 1791.

December 16, 1772, was the date of the Boston Tea Party. The first successful airplane flight was made by Orville and Wilbur Wright on December 17, 1903.

The Thirteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution, abolishing slavery, was adopted December 18, 1865.

"Poor Richard's Almanac" was first published by Benjamin Franklin, December 1732.

Union General Sherman's "March to the Sea" ended at Savannah, Georgia on December 20, 1864.

The Pilgrims, aboard the "Mayflower," landed at Plymouth, Massachusetts, December 21, 1620.

your week ahead
BY DR. A.W. DAMIS

Forecast Period: December 17 to December 24, 1972

ARIES Mar. 21 - Apr. 19
Provoking their male or similar alliance and not being able to see beyond their own existence seems to be in the general scheme of things for most Aries.

TAURUS Apr. 20 - May 20
Grooming and personal appearance will be a critical factor, during this cosmic cycle. Stand by for an unexpected overture that will come from the opposite sex.

GEMINI May 21 - June 20
With exceptions of course, some members of your sign will discover that two matters cannot be served - the same applies to two members of the opposite sex.

MOONCHILD June 21 - July 22
Intuition, sixth sense, hunch or whatever you care to call it will play an important role, as the holy spirit takes over. So, listen to your "inner voice."

LEO July 23 - Aug. 22
A member of the opposite sex, who incidentally has feelings, will nourish your inferiority complex. The point? You are highly susceptible to flattery during this cycle.

VIRGO Aug. 23 - Sept. 22
There is no bad saying that now applies to most members of your sign. "Think all you speak, but speak not all you think."

LIBRA Sept. 23 - Oct. 22
Put a check rein on your emotions. You are inclined to become too serious over an attachment that could easily terminate. Also, guard against health hazards.

SCORPIO Oct. 23 - Nov. 21
See to it, that you do not step out of character, during this week's cosmic cycle. How come? Either a member of the opposite sex or superior will misjudge you.

SAGITTARIUS Nov. 22 - Dec. 21
Avoid hurting the feelings of someone who is nearby. By the way, you will be closing the door on one relationship, while opening the door to another.

CAPRICORN Dec. 22 - Jan. 19
Your sense of humility will be put to test. Most members of your sign will make winning an occupation. It seems as though you can do no wrong.

AQUARIUS Jan. 20 - Feb. 18
Regardless of the atmosphere, spirit and good tidings that surround most members of your sign, it's not likely that you will be honest with yourself.

PISCES Feb. 19 - Mar. 20
More than any other sign, you are inclined toward extravagance, during this particular cosmic cycle. Incidentally, a book will play an important role, this week.
